

PURELY PERSONAL

By John

TOP AWARD -- John Getz, publisher of the State Line Tribune since September 1965 and a newcomer to the journalism field was the most surprised person of "all" when his name was announced as winner of the top award, "a bronze plaque", for his column, "Purely Personal," at the annual convention of Texas Press Association in El Paso last weekend. Although Getz had been previously notified that he was a prize winner he scarcely believed what he heard and later commented, "I never dreamed that it could be this; I'd have been happy with anything."

Getz Wins Top Award In Column Writing

John Getz, publisher of the State Line Tribune since September 1965, was named winner of the top award, an engraved plaque, for his column "Purely Personal," at the annual convention of Texas Press Association in El Paso last week. In competing for the award, Getz was in competition with column writers of 26 other Texas newspapers published in towns of less than 2,000 population.

The Friona Star, in competition with newspaper published in towns of 2,001-3,500 population, with 15 entries, was winner of second place in the general appearance and column writing categories and third place in news pictures. Bill Ellis is editor of the Star.

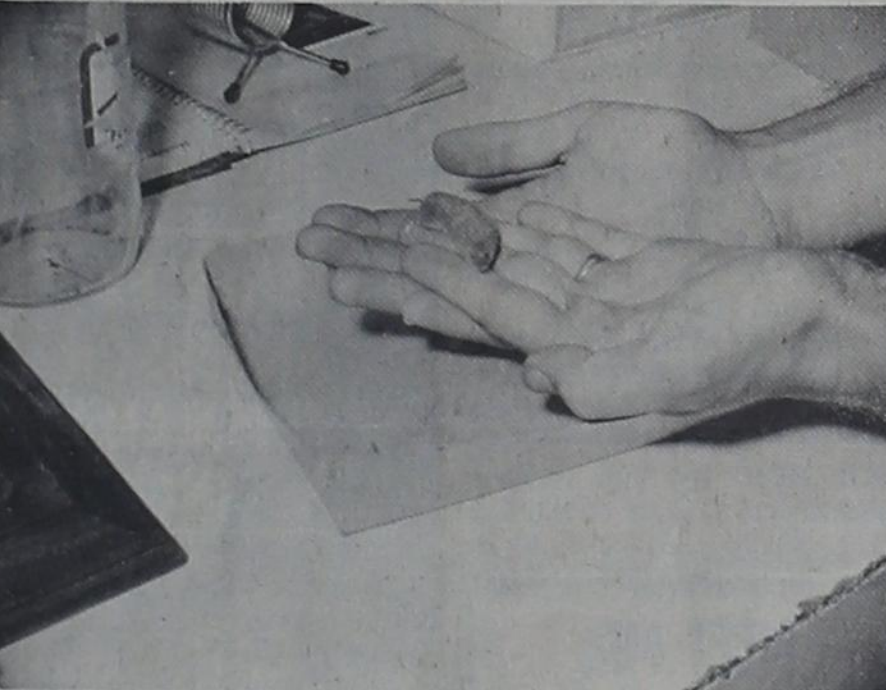

Excitement Galore! Fire Siren Sticks

When Sam Lewis, who mans the Texico Fire Station, was aroused from a sound sleep Sunday night around 11:30 p.m. with the report, from a local cafe, that a fire was raging near the Texico school, he immediately sounded the alarm to call volunteer firemen out to fight the blaze.

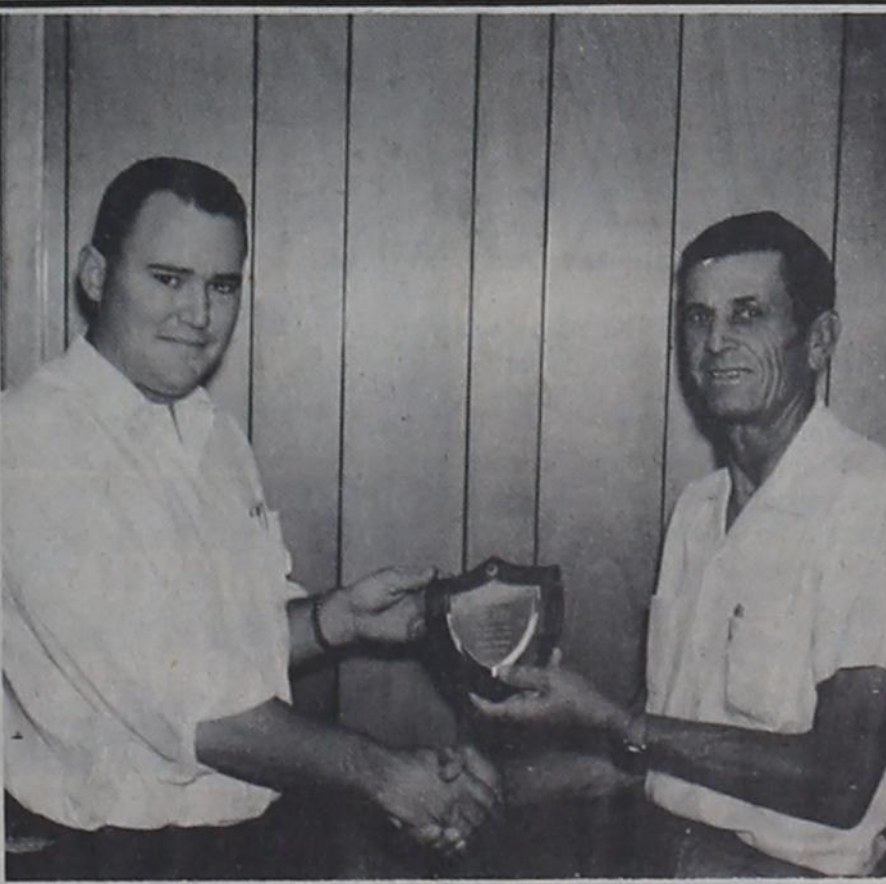

However, Lewis was not prepared for the melee which followed, for the siren struck and continued to give off blast after blast for many minutes. Firemen in both Texico and Farwell rushed from their homes and to the fire stations to check on the cause of the prolonged shrieking of the siren, while

Twin Cities' residents burst from their homes and began scanning the skies for sight of a tornado and the surrounding area for a four alarm fire.

A sigh of relief was released by all when the report came through that the cause of the excitement was a wheat stubble fire on the Mose Glasscock farm, northeast of town. Most of the Twin Cities residents returned to their usual Sunday evening activities or to the blessed sleep from which they had been so abruptly called. However, some 200 cars filled with excitement seekers drove out to watch the fire burn.

WHERE DID HE COME FROM?? -- This tiny mole was found by Douglas Landrum underneath the trash barrel at the office of Dr. T. J. Glenn on Tuesday morning. Since moles are not natives of this area, but usually live in a more humid atmosphere, there is much speculation among local citizens as to how he came to be here and if there is a possibility that moles, of which citizens are unaware, have been in the area all the time.

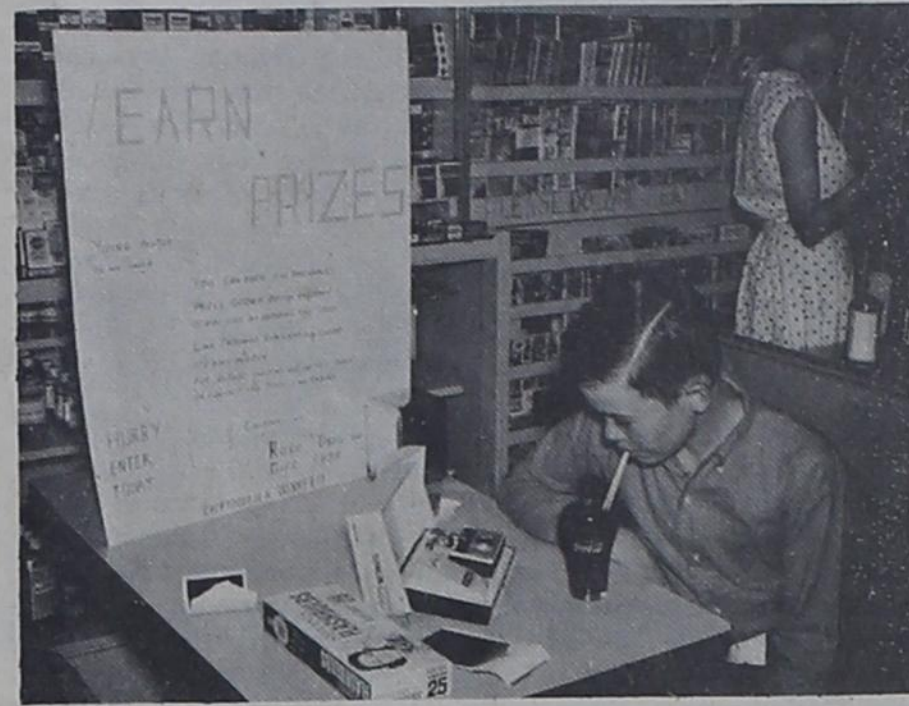

AWARD OF RECOGNITION -- Robert (Prof) Morton, a charter member of the Texico-Farwell Lions Club, accepts an award for 16 years of service to the organization from Jackie Williams, Lions president elect. Morton, who taught in the Farwell school for 21 years, left early this week for Dublin, Tex., where the family will make their home. They recently bought a stock farm in that area.

Commission Opens Stand

The Farwell Youth Commission opened the fireworks stand in downtown Farwell, across the street from Rose Drug and Gift Shop on Saturday afternoon, according to Joe Jones, president of the youth group.

Sales of fireworks will continue at the stand through July 4, with the stand to be open each day from noon on and all day on Saturdays and Mondays. All salesmen participating in operation of the stand are volunteers from civic organizations in the Twin Cities.

Money derived from the sale of the fireworks will go into a fund to finance the recreational program for the youth of the towns. In the past, funds derived from the sale of fireworks has been used for the PeeWee football program and for Little League baseball equipment. Money raised this year will be spent for playground equipment for the city park.

FIREWORKS FOR SALE -- Bart Frazier, volunteer worker for the Farwell Youth Commission, assists several of the area small fry in selecting appropriate fireworks for the July 4 celebration. The stand, which was opened Saturday at noon, will remain open each day, in the afternoons, until July 4. The stand will also be in operation all day on Monday and Saturday.

Concerning our disappearing inch in last week's puzzle, several explanations have been offered to us, Robert Balestri came in with an explanation and so did Dickie and Tommie Williams.

The easiest way to explain it is by saying that the so called square of eight inches was not quite exactly eight inches to a side. By mathematical computation, one of the segments on the sides calculates out to be very slightly over eight inches. In fact, it is about eight and one-sixteenth inches to a side.

This just goes to show how inexact our common methods of measurements are. The ordinary ruler with its wide marked lines is too inexact to measure accurately below a sixteenth of an inch. But our 65 square inches are there even if it is difficult to see them.

Our thanks to those who took the trouble to come by our office with their explanations. One of our readers brought a very worthwhile subject to our attention this week. It concerns the dangers of the common power mower. It was only last year about this time that we almost lost one of our very best friends with a freak accident concerning a mower.

The thing noted by our reader concerned the great number of children that are allowed to operate gasoline or electric mowers. Upon reflection we, too, can recall seeing many instances of our local youngsters doing the summer chores. We realize that there is often little enough for our youngsters to engage in to earn extra money or to do the things around the home that are expected of children.

Years ago it wasn't uncommon for a child to get a finger or toe in the revolving reel of a push mower. But the damage was seldom fatal and not often of a maiming nature.

1. Read your instructions and understand them.
2. Before mowing go over your yard or surface to be mowed and remove rocks, bone, metal, glass, wire, and all other objects that could interfere with the revolving blades.
3. Keep all guards in place.
4. Know how to safely and quickly stop the mower.
5. Stop mower and ALWAYS disconnect spark plug before attempting to dislodge debris from under or around mower.

These few rules are good to know, but even better is the constant application of good old common sense and mature judgment.

Editorial by Mike Getz

In Defense Of Freedom

"In Congress, July 4, 1776. The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America."

With these words, the representatives of the thirteen colonies, in general congress assembled, hurled the gauntlet of defiance at Great Britain. Refusing to cower before British military might, they chose the path of toil and hardship rather than bow before tyranny. Several years of bloody fighting lay ahead. Americans gave their lives at Concord, Boston, and at Valley Forge, but in the end, a tattered Continental army beat back the finest the British could offer and won a resounding victory that signaled to all the world that America was free. Rejoicing spread throughout the land, but peace was not to be long lived.

In 1812, Americans found out that eternal vigilance was to be the price of liberty. For the second time, arms were taken up and the new freedom was successfully defended. The British were at last made to realize that America intended to remain free.

With the close of the War of 1812, a new era began to unfold across America. Boom days! The opening of the frontier -- a fledgling America cast her eyes westward. Thousands of hardy pioneers poured into the vast American west in search of land, homes, and riches. The conquering of the frontier did not come without its price however. Many sacrifices were to be necessary before the west became a fit and safe place to live.

In 1861, America was to experience her most painful conflict yet. Civil war raged throughout the land. Brother fought brother and many fathers found themselves in combat against their sons. Then in 1865, this bloody conflict came to an end. The scars were deep and hard to heal but Americans proved equal to the task. The union was put together to stay.

For several decades, an uneasy peace fell over the land. Reconstruction was hard and painful but for a short span of time, America was free from foreign interference.

The Spanish American War marked the beginning of modern warfare. Freedom was now more costly than ever to defend. Systems of warfare had changed but America's reasons for fighting wars had not. America would defend her liberty at any cost.

World War I -- the war to end wars had arrived. The scene of the fighting had shifted away from the American homeland to Europe. America realized, however, that if left unchecked, the forces of tyranny would soon carry the war to her shores. She decided it would be far better to go to war in another continent than to wait for blood to be spilled on the heartland of America.

With the close of the war, gaiety reigned supreme. The roaring twenties -- America forgot about war. Arms were laid down in the hope that they would not be used again. We had fought the last war. Our freedom was insured and we could relax.

Then came 1941. Japanese bombers blasted us out of our complacency. We awoke to find the Pacific fleet in shambles and German troops standing guard over most of Europe. A formidable task confronted America. The Third Reich and the Rising Sun threatened to engulf the world in a reign of terror, so once again America took up arms in defense of her freedom.

Americans gave their lives in such strange sounding places as Saipan, Iwo Jima and Normandy. Finally, with the advent of Atomic Age, the enemy was brought to his knees. America had won, but more importantly, she had learned an invaluable lesson; we could never again afford to let our guard down. We must be ready. This was proven valid a short five years later when the Chinese Communists poured into Korea.

Today, under the shadow of the H-bomb, Americans are giving their lives in a remote place called Viet Nam. The freedom that was won so many years ago is still being cherished and fought for.

America -- the land of the free and the home of the brave! On this July 4th, 1966, let us pause a moment and remember the millions of Americans who have fought and died so that we may enjoy the blessings of a free land.

No matter how big the bombs are built, let us never forget those immortal words that rang out nearly two centuries ago; "With firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

This is not the first time for young Garner to bring home trophies for his ability with a horse for during the Parmer County 4-H horse show in June, he was recipient of the Champion 4-H horsemanship trophy for garnering the greatest number of total points in the show.

Entries in the show were 18 and under, with the entries broken into three age groups.

Who has money troubles? Do you have a feeling that you're not getting anything for it? Or do you feel you're running faster and faster just to stay in the same place financially? Making more money than ever before but barely scraping along from payday to payday.

According to some outstanding family-finance counselors, you don't have to be in a low income bracket to have this kind of trouble.

Changing Times magazine reports this: They interviewed five veteran family-finance counselors to find out what the most common money mistakes that families make? Here is a short list of some answers they gave. Could this be true of many families? Let us review them; they are food for thought.

-Upside-down budgets-Confusing necessities and luxuries.

-Nothing on paper-failing to manage via a budget.

Definition of budget is not what you think. It's not putting food money in one envelope, mortgage money in another, etc. Every cent must be accounted for. It's really "a plan for coordination of resources and expenditures"

-People avoid-making a budget or cash forecast because they don't want to know the unpleasant truth about what they can afford.

-Emotion takes over-even when "needs" are first and "wants" second still income can't buy everybody's wants but they go ahead anyway and hope "things will work out." And so--the story goes on and on in this age of "affluency." Some of these can help us see our situation in a new light.

Series of Meetings - on "Management" in a depth study for 1967 has been planned by a County Committee in Family Living for those interested. Watch for further announcements.

RUSTY CLOTHES

While laundry aids are a boon to today's homemaker, problems in their selection and use are compounded by the number on the market and the constantly changing and improving formulas. For example, if you have rust spots on your clothes, the problem may be the way bluing is used. When researchers at the South Dakota State Agricultural Experiment Station recently answered a woman's call for help, they found nothing wrong with her water supply or equipment. The difficulty turned out to be small specks of non-liquid bluing which remained on the clothes after they had been removed from the washer. When heated, by ironing or in the dryer, the specks of bluing caused rust-like stains. There was nothing wrong with the product. The homemaker had simply failed to dissolve it properly either before or during washing.

We have wonderful equipment and many good improved cleaning agents, but Mrs. Homemaker still must have some "know-hows" about their use, if complete satisfaction is to be enjoyed. Much information based on research, is available from the Extension office. Call 481-3619 or come by the office on 2nd floor in County Courthouse at Farwell for free information on home problems.

Van Crume, former local resident, who is serving in the Navy, has been visiting with friends and relatives in this area for the past few days.

City Commission Issues Warning

Mrs. Janie Bowery, Farwell city clerk, says it was brought to the attention of the Farwell city commission at its last regular meeting that children of the town are making a habit of playing around the water tower. "This is extremely dangerous," says Mrs. Bowery, "since the large pumps which pump the city water supply are in operation."

The city commission stated, "We CAN NOT and WILL NOT be responsible should a child receive an injury while playing in this forbidden area."

The rest of the meeting was confined to the transaction of routine matters.

The cub Florida real estate salesman asked his boss if he could refund the money to an irate customer who discovered that the lot he had bought was under water.

"What kind of salesman are you?" demanded the boss. "Go out there and sell him a motor boat."

Their rallying cry was the stirring ultimatum of Patrick Henry: "Give me liberty or give me death!" . . . their signal, "the shot heard 'round the world." They were the spirit of 1776, a spirit that has since transcended the times that nurtured it, and the nation that gave it birth. It is a spirit that is timeless and universal, the essence of man's need to be free and the master of his destiny. This spirit of 1776 won independence for the American colonies and forged them into a great Nation; it lives on in 1966 in the hearts of all men who love freedom, everywhere.

What is there about traveling salesmen?

Well, one thing about a traveling salesman is that he gives his car hard usage. Business calls require a lot of start and stop driving. And that's when corrosive engine wear can cause serious damage.

Actually, start and stop driving is the kind of driving most of us do most of the time. So, to protect your motor under these severe conditions, your Phillips 66 Dealer recommends Trop-Artic All-Season Motor Oil. Trop-Artic starts protecting at low temperatures, and keeps on protecting at high operating temperatures. It's a light oil, a medium oil and a heavy oil, all in one!

To keep your car running better longer, get Trop-Artic Motor Oil at any station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

A View Of New Mexico Girls State

Editors Note

The following account of New Mexico Girls' State 1966 was written by Susan White, Texico Representative to the sessions which were completed last week.

By Susan White
Sunday, June 19, I received a warm and personal welcome to the 19th annual session of New Mexico Girls State. Sponsor and originator of Girls State is the American Legion Auxiliary. The program planned for 285 girls was one for inspiration so that the thoughts we think, the acts we perform, the motives we follow, shape our desire to keep this wonderful country of ours free.

Sunday evening, Mr. C. L. Kay brought the Girl Staters greetings from 500 Boy Staters. Mr. Kay spoke at various times throughout the week on patriotic themes. The following are statements made during the week by Kay.

- (1) The government should be a servant to the people - not the people be servants of the government.
- (2) The United States owes a "whale" of a lot of money - 322.4 billion as of June 10, 1966, with an interest of 13 billion dollars.

- (3) That every person's part of our national debt is $6,000.
- (4) By 1985 our dollar will be worth 5¢.
- (5) Each American soldier killed in the Vietnam War cost us $1 million.
- (6) That the increase in our government budget is 42%. That the word is spend, spend, spend.
- (7) That voting is a right and not a privilege. That only 33% of the qualified voters vote. (8) That we live in an age of non involvement. Mr. Kay brought out many interesting facts and thoughts, but he stated again and again to us that the "Real Issue" is what Lincoln said: "... Impress on the mind of every man, from the first to the last the importance of the cause and what it is we are contending for."

Some of the highlights of the week were a style show of clothes made by the girls themselves, and a talent night. The most tense and exciting night was when the General election returns were announced.

We used regular voting machines for these elections. Every Girls Stater held an office by the end of the week, either elective or appointive. Thursday evening was a formal banquet followed by Inaugural Ceremonies. I was privileged to take the oath of office from the Supreme Court Justice Compton. I was elected one of 20 senators. There couldn't be a more interesting and busy office than that of a senator.

Susan White, Texico representative to New Mexico Girls State exhibits her certificate of merit, awarded for serving as Senator and the booklet telling about the government of New Mexico studied by girls attending the sessions. "It was a wonderful and exciting week," stated Miss White.

Blue Bonnet Girls State 1966

By Susan Patrick
Bluebonnet Girls State is organized so that the girls of our state will become better acquainted with the fundamentals of our government. This program is designed to educate the youth of today in the duties, privileges, and responsibilities of American citizenship.

Girls State is a mythical state made up of four counties and eight cities. Everyone is assigned to a city and to a political party. During the week we were urged to show loyalty to our party, to our country, and to our city. At times this is quite hard to do.

Our city government was organized first. Girls held offices such as mayor, city commissioners, and tax collectors. Taxes were paid on such things as the number of shoes brought, the number of mirrors, the number of blue luggage, and the number of boys' pictures brought and, of course, school taxes.

Each two cities made up a county. Some of the officials elected were Justice of the Peace, sheriff, county clerk, and county judge.

The Justice of Peace performed several marriages as her duty. All anyone had to do to get married was to buy a marriage license and have a picture of the prospective bridegroom.

Our state government was quite extensive. After we elected our officials, the governor appointed others to serve. The appointed Civil Defense Director held a mock air raid at 6:30 one morning. It was quite funny to see 402 girls in their pajamas hurrying around trying to get to their assigned shelters.

All Girls State Citizens were members of either the House of Representatives or the Senate. Many bills and resolutions were introduced and some good debates were heard on controversial topics.

Some of the bills proposed dealt with lowering the voting age, establishing a minimum speed on state highways, providing compulsory education in sex, and civil defense, and also giving the teachers and registered nurses a pay raise.

We had several guest speakers, the most outstanding of whom were Sonny Davis, Texas Youth Director; Senator John Tower; Senator Barbara Jordan; Jack Cox; and Miss Marilyn VanDerbur, Miss America of 1958.

Most outstanding speaker was Barbara Jordan, a negro, with a degree from Boston Law College, and senator elect from Harris County. As soon as she opened her mouth to speak, her Bostonian accent captivated us all and held us spellbound for the rest of her talk. She challenged us to not be afraid of the changing times and to answer the call of the future for a re-structuring of life as we now know it.

Girls State was not all seriousness. Spontaneity was the key to all the fun we had. Often the counselors would present skits, funny songs and talent, usually unrehearsed; we never knew what to expect next. All in all, Girls State was a most memorable ten days. I think being selected to represent my town was a great honor. I want to extend my deepest and warmest thanks to Farwell faculty and to the American Legion Auxiliary for choosing and sponsoring me. I, like most of the other Girls State citizens, am now ready, willing, and inspired to take a more active interest in the affairs of our country and state.

"Girls State was one of the most educational and inspiring weeks of my life," commented Susan Patrick, Farwell representative, upon returning home from the 10-day session in Austin.

Historical Society Asks Help

The Parmer County Historical Society is compiling a history of Parmer County and they are asking that all persons who came to or lived in Parmer County prior to 1926 (including 1925) write a history of their family (or write in for someone to come and interview them for details of the area at that time) and send it to the society whose members are Mabel Reynolds, Farwell; Winburn Hardage, Farwell; Harold Carpenter, Route 1, Farwell; R. E. Wilson, Bovina; Joe Jesko, Friona; Mrs. C. W. Dixon and Mrs. Mabelle Hartwell, both of Friona.

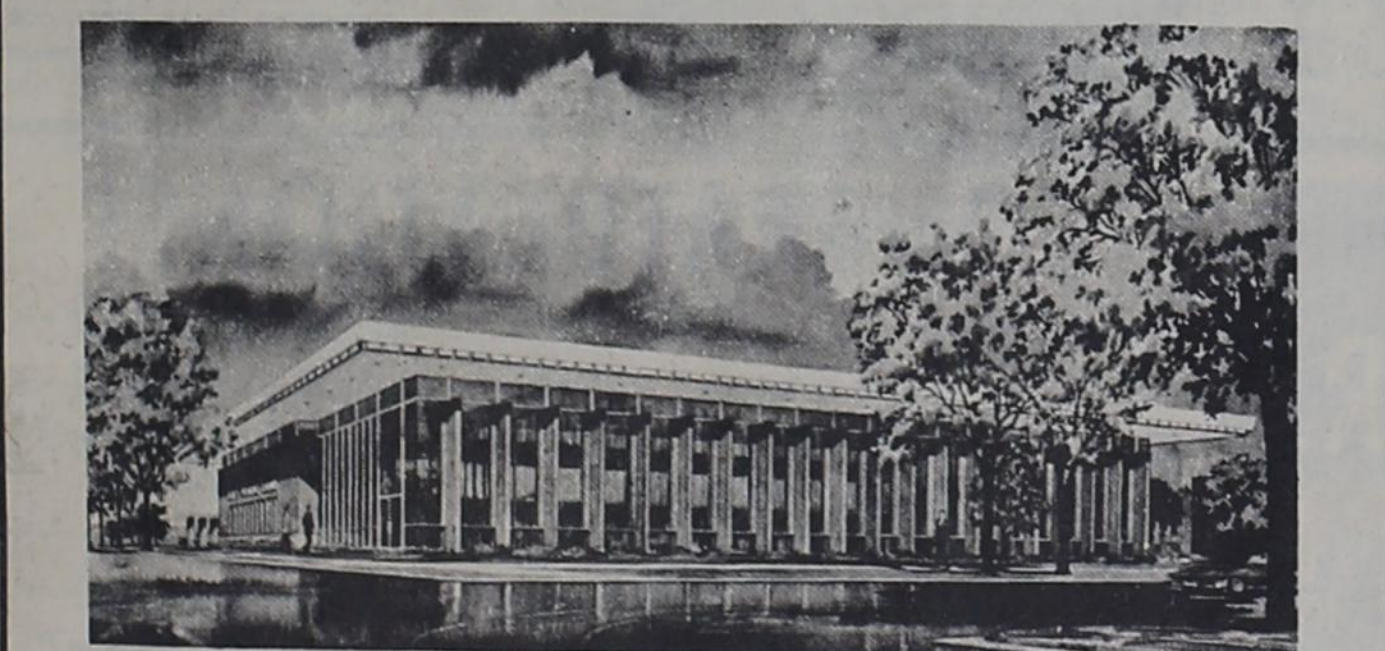

Questions which need to be answered and which might prove helpful in writing the history of a family are: When did you come to Parmer County?; Why did you come to the county?; How did you travel?; If you are a pio-

PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS & CIVIC-MINDED PEOPLE OF CLOVIS AND VICINITY

This department has been worked up largely as a reflection of public opinion. No person has written of themselves or their business. All articles have been compiled by a representative of The State Line Tribune as he saw conditions. These people are all leaders in their various lines of endeavor and the cooperation of those citizens in Clovis who helped make this department possible is sincerely appreciated.

Carl Stovall

In paying tribute to some of the more progressive business men of Clovis, we would be remiss in our duty should we fail to include Carl Stovall of Stovall's Radiator Service, located at 112 West Second Street, whose business ability is no greater than his "know-how" and professional skill which has contributed to his well-earned success in the automotive, tractor, and industrial radiator repair, sales and service business.

He has also contributed generously to the welfare of the city and the community for many miles around. And his civic spirit is evidenced by the many services which he has performed, and will continue to perform in the interest of the people as a whole.

Mr. Stovall is a man of wide acquaintance, whose many friends admire and respect in him, those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. And his upright business methods are a credit to his inherent sense of fair play.

We congratulate Carl Stovall on his splendid record of service, and trust he shall continue to assist us for many years to come.

Herb Miller

We wish in this edition to pay tribute to Herb Miller of Taylor Evans Farm Store Incorporated, for his many services to the city of Clovis, and his splendid record of achievements in the business life of the city.

Mr. Miller probably has as wide a circle of friends as any other person we could name, because he is just naturally the kind of individual who makes friends with almost everybody, and always conducts himself in such a manner as to deserve the respect and good will of all who know him. Clovis is fortunate in being able to number among its more progressive business men, citizens of this type.

He is always ready and willing to lend his support to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit this entire district.

He may be depended upon, and his services to the people are too many in number to be described here. It may be sufficient to say that we consider Herb Miller an asset to his community, and a dependable business man of whom the city may be proud.

W. H. "Bud" Fourmentin

Clovis owes a great deal to those progressive citizens who have taken an active part in the growth and progress of the city, and who have helped to make it the business center of this section. In mentioning some of those men, it is only fair to include W. H. "Bud" Fourmentin of Bud's Plumbing, whose outstanding knowledge of the plumbing and heating business, backed up by his many years of experience, has brought him to the forefront in his particular field.

Mr. Fourmentin is wholly deserving of our sincere praise, and these few words of commendation are but a just recognition for the many services he has conducted on behalf of the general welfare of the community.

The honest and successful conduct of his business affairs, is not only a reflection of his character, but has also been a strong factor in maintaining him in a position of leadership in his field of endeavor.

We trust that "Bud" Fourmentin will continue to serve the people of Clovis and the surrounding area for many years to come.

W. E. And Preston Martin

Since this is a period of growth and expansion for Clovis, those progressive business men who had the foresight and ability to lay their plans so as to be able to take advantage of those conditions, are entitled to more than ordinary acclaim. We are therefore, glad to pay tribute to W. E. and Preston Martin of the Hi Plains Distributing Company, for they have become well-known figures in the business and commercial life of this district.

Their persistent optimism, and steadfast belief in the continued future prosperity of the people of Clovis and vicinity, are characteristics which are deserving of our highest praise.

W. E. and Preston Martin have also always shown a willingness to do their part in civic advancement, and have contributed their bit, in one form or another, to projects promoted for the welfare of this region. We believe that business men of this kind are entitled to our sincere praise, both because they have achieved success in their business and private affairs, and because they are willing to contribute to the public good.

Margaret Smith

Performing an outstanding service for the people of Clovis and the surrounding territory, Margaret Smith of the Margaret Smith Agency, has achieved an enviable reputation for her progressive policies of business administration. Her constant study of insurance problems in relation to the protection of the people and can afford, have been important factors in her well-earned success.

Mrs. Smith is a woman of ideas, and she is as practical as she is dependable in putting those ideas to beneficial use in furthering the service her agency renders to the public. Her sound business judgment, and unwavering honesty and characteristics which place her in the front rank with other business leaders of the city. Yet, she is unassuming and modest in her personal contact with the people; always ready to listen to their ideas and desires.

We are glad to pay tribute to progressive citizens of this type, for it is such individuals as Margaret Smith who have caused Clovis to become recognized as the metropolitan center of this section.

Jerry Paul

One of the more progressive real estate men of Clovis, and one whose success can be partly attributed to a deep insight as to the direction in which the city will develop, is Jerry Paul of Paul Real Estate. He has a sound basic knowledge of real estate values, and has turned that knowledge to the advantage of the people with whom he does business. And his aggressive methods, coupled with his sound and practical ideas, have made the services he has rendered to the people more valuable, and materially contributed to his well-earned success.

Mr. Paul is also civic-minded, and has always shown a cheerful willingness to contribute his share of time and energy to the promotion of community projects.

It is because of the activities of such men that year after year, Clovis continues to show such a healthy growth and expansion, both as a residential and industrial city. We are glad to pay tribute to Jerry Paul for the part he is playing in the onward progress of this entire area.

R. J. "Bob" Strader

It is fitting in this review of progressive Clovis business men, that we acquaint our readers with the one to be credited with having maintained the New Mexico Mill & Elevator Company in the enviable position it holds in the business and commercial life of this area. That personality is R. J. "Bob" Strader, whose genius for organization, and for converting new ideas into actual deeds, has played a vital part in the distinctive reputation which the company now enjoys throughout this entire district.

Mr. Strader has found time, in addition to his business interests, to give thought and energy to community projects. He is a citizen whose talents have been steadfastly devoted to the best interests of the city. He has been successful in his own business, and in the promotion of the general welfare of the community.

We are glad to pay this brief tribute to him, and to say that this district owes much to the many benefits which "Bob" Strader and the New Mexico Mill & Elevator Company have rendered to the people.

Donald Dennis

A restaurant operator of Clovis who has based his success upon the belief that the public will appreciate good food, well prepared and appetizingly served, is Donald D. Dennis of Denny's Coffee Shop, whose many friends and customers by their daily patronage of this popular eating place, attest to the soundness of their policy.

It is not only because of the successful management of the business that Mr. Dennis has come to be recognized as an asset to the community; but it is also because of his policy of "looking ahead", and endeavoring to sponsor, or take part in those community activities which will, in some manner, benefit the city of Clovis and the people as a whole. He is another of those men who has shown his appreciation for his success by a willingness to contribute of his time and efforts to the promotion of community projects.

It is such men as Donald Dennis whom we are privileged to include in this review, and to publicly give him due credit for his success in business and civic affairs.

Dexter Todd

To those progressive business men who have also taken a part in civic affairs, we owe a debt of gratitude that we very often find difficult to repay. However, we can do so in part by publicly acknowledging their many services, and we take this opportunity to pay a brief tribute to Dexter Todd, director of the Steed Funeral Home. In doing so, we express the sentiment and feelings, not only of the community, but also those people who have been actively associated with him in business and civic affairs.

Mr. Todd's time is almost wholly occupied by his own affairs. Yet, there has never been an occasion when he has been called upon by the people of Clovis and vicinity to assist some civic project, that he has not responded and helped to the fullest extent of his ability to further that project. Thus, he has frequently sacrificed his personal interests to promote some worthy cause.

Because of this, Dexter Todd has proven himself to be a good and loyal citizen of whom the city and this district have every reason to feel justly proud.

Paul Kinard

At the head of one of the district's more prominent wholesale electrical equipment and supply firms, and as a leader of recognized ability in community life, Paul Kinard stands out today as one of the best liked men on the panorama of Clovis activity.

His friends are numbered by the hundreds, and all of them are of the lasting fibre which come of worth-while associations, both in the world of business, and in the realms of neighborhood life.

The Border Supply Company Incorporated, of which he is the manager, has been a strong factor in the growth and progress of Clovis. And Mr. Kinard's own efforts, in many instances, have been the stimulus behind the outstanding accomplishments of this reliable company. The case is an excellent example of a man weaving his own personal prominence into an executive's life, with lasting benefit to both organization and individual.

We take pleasure in expressing these few words of commendation to a man who is doing so much to promote the growth and progress of this entire district.

Arthur J. And Bob Snipes

In every community, there are a number of successful business men who can be pointed out as having taken a three-fold part in the onward progress of their city. Two of those who belong in this category are Arthur J. and Bob Snipes of the O K Tire Store.

Their leadership in their line of business is recognized throughout this entire district. And their furtherance of civic activities, and support of those organizations whose main objectives are directed along lines of civic betterment and community progress is well known to their immediate associates.

The Snipes' are men who are equally well liked and respected by their intimate friends and their customers. They are loyal to the community, thankful for their success in business, and have shown their appreciation by their contributions to various civic movements of benefit to the city.

We congratulate Bob and Arthur Snipes for being good citizens, progressive business men, and boosters of Clovis.

W. S. Myers

One of the more dependable business men of Clovis, and one who deserves the respect and good will of a great many residents of the city is capable, friendly, W. S. Myers of Myers Electric, whose wide knowledge and long experience in the electrical contracting business has raised him into a position of prominence in his particular vocation.

It is because of this that Myers Electric has earned a reputation for reliability -- second to none.

Mr. Myers is also civic-minded, and has always been ready to contribute his time and energy to any plan which promises to benefit this entire district. And the people of Clovis may regard with complete satisfaction the many services which he has performed in the interest of progress and civic betterment.

We urge our readers to look to W. S. Myers as a progressive business man of whom we may well be proud. His devotion to the city has been constant, and his achievements well merited. We wish him every success in the years ahead.

James L. Barrows

James L. Barrows, manager of the Farmers Electric Coop Incorporated, has won the universal respect and good will of the people of Clovis and the surrounding country for the progressive manner in which he has kept this reliable firm in the forefront of the business and rural life of this entire region. Also for the efficient and friendly willingness he has displayed in accepting his share of responsibility in aiding civic projects.

Mr. Barrows is not the kind of individual who makes himself conspicuous by the manner in which he conducts himself, either in business or other matters. Yet, his quiet reserve and air of confidence mark him as a man of sound judgment, whose opinions and advice are sought after and listened to with respect.

We compliment James Barrows for the successful management of the Farmers Electric Coop Incorporated, and also for his constructive and helpful work in those civic affairs in which he has found time to interest himself. He is a man whom many are proud to call friend.

Loran O. Whitted

Recognized as an authority on all heating and air conditioning contracting problems, Loran O. Whitted of Loran's Heating & Air Conditioning, has turned his knowledge to the advantage of the people of Clovis and vicinity. More than that, Mr. Whitted is a man who has always been vitally interested in the civic betterment and progress of the city, and has backed up his interest by lending assistance, in a great many different ways, to the successful promotion of many things which have benefited the community as a whole. Clovis owes much to such men for their part in making the city the business center of this area.

He has always been alert to the many opportunities for service, and more than ready to recognize and accept his share of civic responsibilities.

Because of these things, Loran Whitted has become accepted as a dependable business man who is an asset to both the business and commercial life of the city, and we trust he will continue to serve the people of Clovis and the surrounding area in his present capacity for many years.

H. A. Thornton

It is appropriate that we include in this review of progressive Clovis business man, H. A. Thornton of the Wagon Wheel Trading Post, who has many friends and completely satisfied customers throughout this entire region. Furthermore, he is a man who not only has the reputation of being dependable, but a willing supporter of many community affairs.

Aside from his business activities, Mr. Thornton has always shown an interest in the civic betterment and progress of the city, and has backed up his interest by his contributions to many projects which have benefited Clovis and the surrounding trade area. He is a good and loyal citizen, and the full measure of his loyalty is most apparent because of his eagerness to aid community activities.

His help along these lines has made of H. A. Thornton, an example of the type of individual we all appreciate. We congratulate, and extend to him on behalf of all citizens interested in better business and civic progress, sincere appreciation for his contributions to the general welfare of Clovis and vicinity.

William D. And Lee K. Howard

The city of Clovis has assumed its place of importance in this section because of the efforts of far-seeing business men who have helped in developing its industry, or in some manner extended the trade advantages of the locality. Two of those who have taken an important part in many progressive movements are William D. and Lee K. Howard of Howard & Sons Drilling Company.

The Howard's have devoted their share of time and energy to the growth and development of Clovis and this district, and it is fitting at this time that we attempt to express in a small way, our appreciation for their unselfish contributions to the general welfare of the community.

They are men of wide acquaintance, whose many friends admire and respect in them, those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. Their upright business methods are but an outward reflection of their inherent appreciation for fair practices. We congratulate Lee and William Howard on their splendid record of service, and wish them continued success.

Joe T. Stanley

In mentioning some of those men who are taking a progressive part in the evolution of the business and civic life of this region, we would be censored if we failed to include Joe T. Stanley of Stanley's 66 Truck Stop Cafe, who has always been tremendously interested in their activities of both the 4-H and FFA, and has sponsored many events by those two fine clubs.

Mr. Stanley is that solid type of citizen whose fairness and friendliness, and sincere desire to be of service are accountable for a large measure of his success. And as time goes on, his personal interests have become more closely interwoven with the business and civic affairs of the city. As a result he has, quite naturally, become accepted as a man who can be called upon, and who will cheerfully do his part to further the development of those community activities to which he is best fitted to lend assistance.

Joe Stanley has, by the conduct of his business, and by his attention to civic affairs, earned the friendship and good will of his fellow citizens. He is to be complimented for his activities, and we only express the desire of his many friends and associates in wishing him continued success.

Luther G. And Jessie L. Sain

In singling out some of the more conscientious business men of Clovis, we would be censored should we fail to include Luther G. and Jessie L. Sain of Sain's Fence Company. They have never spared themselves in their participation in both the business and commercial activities of this area.

The Sain's have always been attentive to their civic responsibilities, and are ever ready and willing to meet in every detail, those opportunities which come to their attention to further civic enterprise. They may well be proud of their achievements along these lines.

Jessie and Luther Sain deserve a great deal of credit for the honest and successful manner in which they have conducted their business affairs. They are friendly and likeable personalities, whose sincere desire to be of service has gained for them a host of personal friends and business associates who would, if given the opportunity, join us in wishing them continued success.

Juan A. Cruz Solano

Juan A. Cruz Solano of Mel Puer Woodcraft, is one of those dependable business men who has always done his bit to maintain the prestige of the city of Clovis as the leading trading center of this region. He has always worked for the development of the city, and his many services are worthy of sincere appreciation.

His well-earned success as a business man is easily understood, knowing as the people do, his widespread reputation for the honesty which characterizes all of his business dealings.

And it is a combination of technical knowledge, professional skill and business ability which has elevated Mr. Solano to a position of leadership in the antique restoration and hand carved furniture business.

He is completely aware of his civic responsibilities, and is always ready and willing to lend his support to any project which promises to benefit the community as a whole.

We compliment Juan Cruz Solano on his accomplishments, and wish for him continued success.

Jack F. Hopkins

In compiling this review of progressive Clovis business men, we have endeavored to select those citizens who, by the manner in which they have conducted themselves and their businesses, have earned for them positions of leadership in their various fields of activities. Such a man is Jack F. Hopkins of Jack Hopkins Cleaners & Tailors, who is well known, and has a great many friends and satisfied customers throughout this entire district.

Mr. Hopkins' main interests have not been solely confined to his own business and private affairs, but have also included his contributions in one form or another, to those projects of a civic nature which come within the scope of his activities.

Jack Hopkins is a man of wide experience, whose exploits in the business and civic life of Clovis and vicinity, merits more than a passing attention, and the writer is privileged to pay this brief tribute to a man who well deserves more credit than is accorded him here.

John Steelman

It is a privilege in this Clovis review of progressive men and firms that have been such a great aid to the growth and development of this section of the state to place such a man as John Steelman of Bankers Union Warehouse Incorporated, agents for Atlas Van Lines, on an equal plane with all others in this rank. In the past, few men have exceeded him in contributing of their time and energy to the onward progress of Clovis and the surrounding country.

Mr. Steelman is generally recognized as one of the more conscientious business men in this district, and he retains that distinction in the admiration and respect of his wide circle of friends, and also his interest in, and the very valuable assistance he has rendered to the many projects of a civic nature, reflect the principles which he has always so successfully applied to his business affairs.

We congratulate John Steelman on his record, and sincerely hope that his career will be as useful, and completely successful in the years ahead as it has been in the past.

Cal Blochberger

In critical times such as these, it takes business men of more than average ability to carry on their operations successfully. In making this statement, the one we have in mind is one of Clovis' more dependable insurance counselors, Cal Blochberger of the Cal Blochberger Agency, who has a wide circle of personal friends and policy holders throughout this entire district.

His contagious optimism, and freely expressed belief in the assured future prosperity of the people of Clovis and its metropolitan trading area, are characteristics which are to be appreciated in a progressive business man. He has always taken an interest in community affairs, and has shown a willingness to shoulder his share of the civic load.

It is men such as Cal Blochberger who, because of the successful conduct of their business and private affairs, and their eagerness to contribute to the public good, who are wholly deserving of a few words of commendation. It is a pleasure to pay him this brief tribute.

Dorothy Fenn And Stacy J. Miller

It is gratifying to include Dorothy Fenn and Stacy J. Miller of the Sunshine Nursery, in this review of progressive and civic minded people of Clovis. Aside from their success in business, they have always evinced a willingness to take part in some manner in those activities which will promote the growth and progress of the city, and the surrounding trade area.

Mrs. Fenn and Mr. Miller are floriculturists who, literally and figuratively, know their business from the ground up. This knowledge, plus their artistic abilities, and their ideals of service, have made them two of the more dependable nursery consultants and landscape architects in Clovis. All of which combined with their sound and upright business principles, are sure to keep them in the public's favor.

Stacy Miller and Dorothy Fenn's integrity, responsibility, and a thorough knowledge of the business gained through long experience, will always keep them in the forefront of their line. It is a pleasure to compliment them for their many successes.

Howard And Mildred Williamson

It isn't the size or volume of a person's business which determines its value to the community in which they live. But rather by the manner in which it is conducted, which, to a greater or lesser degree, reflects the personality and character of the individual. The value of Howard and Mildred Williamson's business to their city is a reflection of their progressiveness, and a determination to render the utmost in service, a policy which has caused the Village Record Shop to be so well thought of, and so widely patronized by the people of Clovis and the surrounding area.

That same dependability and honesty which has made them so successful in their own business, has also fitted Mr. and Mrs. Williamson to be of assistance on community projects and public drives. It was Mr. Williamson's interest in community affairs that led him to seek office as State Representative on the Republican ticket.

Merle And Raymond Watson

When a man gains recognition for the progressive and straight-forward manner in which he has managed his business affairs, and also for his generous contributions to civic projects, he is to be complimented for his achievements. And one belonging to this category is Merle Watson, a business man of Clovis who is regarded with respect and admiration by a great many residents of the city, and the surrounding country.

County Agent Discusses Use Of Water On Grain Sorghum

Most wells were started last week on grain sorghum irrigation. We saw several fields that were just getting over with the water by the time the last sets were beginning to show some water stress. If you have some sorghum planted around the last of May, you still have another week or so before you'll need to start your wells, stated county agent Joe VanZandt.

Grain sorghum uses less than one-tenth of an inch of water per day up to about the seven leaf stage, and then the use rate increases rapidly. The peak water use of more than .3 inches per day comes between the boot and bloom stage. Most of our sorghum is presently using .2 to .3 inch of water per day. This means that in 14 days sorghum will have used about 2.8 to 4.2 inches of water.

"Everyone needs to consider their own water resources in helping plan their irrigations," said Vanzandt, adding, "most farmers around here are still shooting for maximum yields to give net profit. However, I believe we have reached the point in our farming operations that maximum yields will not always give us the maximum net profit. This is especially true when we consider the value of our irrigation water and how much water we will be able to pump 15 years from now."

"I firmly believe, says VanZandt, that we need to plan for the future of this area by making wise and efficient use of our irrigation water today. Last year our water table for Parmer County dropped an average of four feet. At that rate for 15 years the drop would be 60 feet. I used 15 years because - think back to where we were 15 years ago - in 1951 irrigation was just getting a good start here."

Two well-timed seasonal irrigations will generally give good yields and probably near maximum net returns on grain sorghum. Ideally, these should be applied at pre-boot stage and again at the late-bloom stage.

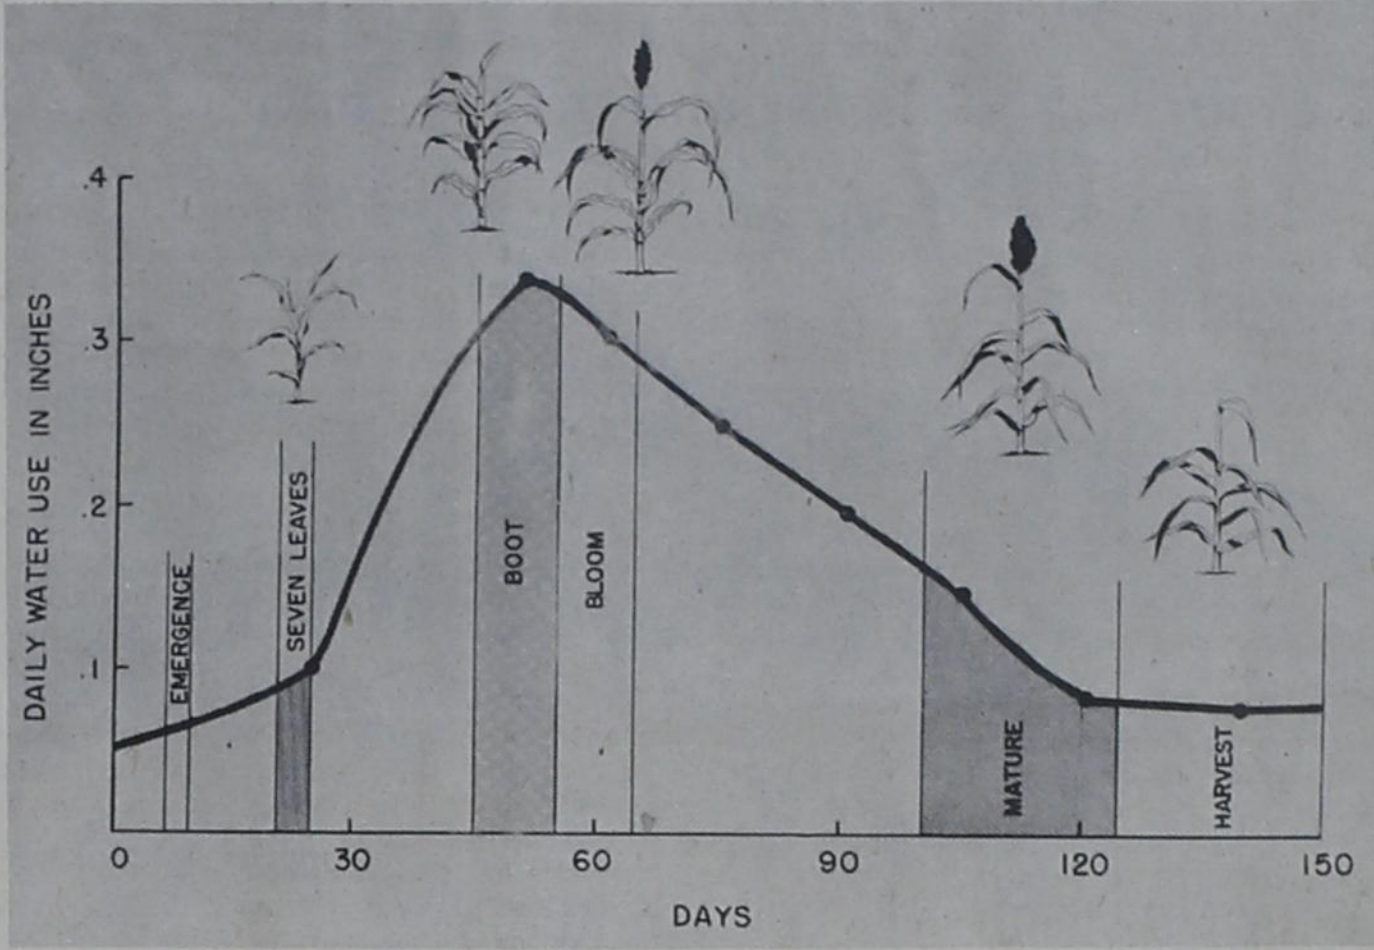

VanZandt says I know that most farmers in this area plan on three to five waterings each summer and they are making money watering this much, but they are not figuring in any value to the water except what it cost to pump and put it on the ground.

Some areas of Parmer County are already short of water. Research indicates one irrigation on grain sorghum, as well as cotton, gives the most efficient water use. If rainfall is short, the boot stage is the appropriate time to apply the one irrigation.

However, if conditions allow delaying this irrigation to the milk stage, research shows yields will be better even though earlier moisture followed by later moisture stress should be avoided on grain sorghum if possible. Good growth before the boot stage followed by moisture stress during the grain development is likely to cause lodging as a result of charcoal rot.

"This irrigation research information may not always work as expected on every farm. But local farmers can consider the basic ideas and apply those that fit into their water and crop situation," stated VanZandt.

Daily water needed by grain sorghum from planting to maturity is shown by the above diagram.
