

Interest High As Subscription Contest Draws To A Close

A WINNER EVERY TIME -- Glenda Sublett, one of the top contestants in the State Line Tribune contest, smiles with delight as she views the transistor radios which are some of the prizes offered in the contest. She is doubly delighted for she knows that even though she does not win the "top" prize, she can still have her choice of many other articles which are being offered to the salesmen. The transistors are on display at PK Jr. Discount Auto Supply. Glenda makes her home with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moss.

Interest is at a fever pitch in the State Line Tribune subscription contest as the end of the contest draws near. Salesmen are fighting to gain the lead while Derek Garner, leader for the past two weeks, is struggling to maintain his hold on first place.

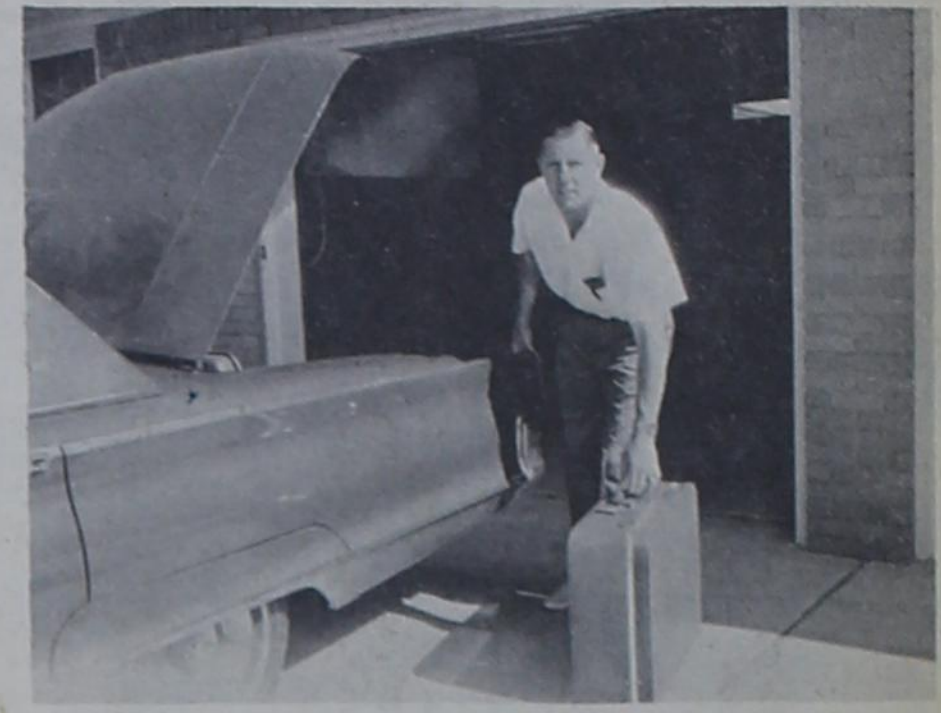

Creating much interest during the past week was the offer of a special prize to the salesman who brings in the greatest number of points in subscriptions sold between July 1 - July 9. At least four salesmen are in a dog-fight for the special prize which was offered. Deadline for subscriptions for the special prize to be turned in is today (Friday) by 5 p.m., since the Tribune office is not open on Saturday.

As an added incentive, salesmen in second, third, and fourth places at end of the overall contest will be given a number of points as a bonus. The salesman in second place will receive a bonus of 10,000 points; third place, 7,000 points; and fourth place, 5,000. Winner of the contest will receive either (his choice) an RCA portable stereo or an RCA two-speed tape recorder.

Derek Garner top salesman, to date, has a total of 54,200 points; Marsha Lovelace, 48,300; Gary Hahn, 45,400; Kevin Hargrove, 38,300; Glenda Sublett, 31,200; Kathy Lockhart, 26,400; Paul Bush, 12,300; Niel Christian, 9,300; Sharon Williams, 7,700; Meredith Anderson, 6,600; Johnny Watson, 6,500; James Hobbs, 6,200; Thad Phillips, 5,800; Gene Christian, 5,100; Roddy Pearce, 2,200; Kevin Kaltwasser, 1,300 and Mack Watson, 300.

LOVELACE LEADS FOR SPECIAL PRIZE
Marsha Lovelace with 13,600 points is in first place for the special prize offered this week, however all contestants have until 5 p.m. today (Friday) to get in their latest subscriptions and gain the lead for this prize. Gary Hahn has a total of 12,700 on the special prize.

Standings as of Wednesday morning for the special prize were: Kevin Hargrove, 10,500; Derek Garner, 9,400; Kathy Lockhart, 9,100; Glenda Sublett, 7,300; Roddy Pearce, 2,200; Thad Phillips, James Hobbs, Johnny Watson and Paul Bush, 500 each.

NEW YORK BOUND -- Joe Helton, Second Deputy Governor of District 40x of Lions, accompanied by his wife, Dardenella, and son, Hal Ed, left for New York City Saturday where he will attend the Lions International Convention this week. Following the convention, the family will spend another ten days visiting places of interest before returning home.

Local Men Injured In Auto Accident

Two local men, Billy D. Roth and Jerry O. Reid, were injured in a one car accident on Highway 70, south of Clovis on Saturday night when the car in which they were riding failed to negotiate a curve.

Both men are hospitalized in Clovis, where Roth is receiving treatment for a crushed ankle and Reid is receiving treatment for lesser injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Doolittle, Clovis, former local resident, and three of their children are also receiving treatment in Memorial hospital for injuries received early Saturday morning when the car in which they were traveling was struck by another car, headon, near Elida. One occupant of the other vehicle was killed and the other Doolittle youngster was uninjured.

Meeting Set

The Farwell School Board will meet as a Board of Equalization in the office of Supt. W. M. Roberts, Monday, July 11, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. They ask all persons who have business with the board to be present at that time.

PURELY PERSONAL

By John

The glorious fourth has come and gone. The youngsters, and some not so young, have shot off their fireworks. Family reunions were held, watermelons reduced to toothmarked rinds, mosquitoes slapped, ants ingested, and skin burned.

Many communities held celebrations. Muleshoe had a shindig, Oklahoma Lane had a reunion, Hereford had a ceremony, Texico and Farwell had nothing. Well almost nothing. There were a few family or group activities but nothing of an organized nature. Friona has its Maize Days; Bovina, its Bull Town Days, Texico-Farwell has nothing.

The Chamber of Commerce watermelon feed has been omitted the last two years. Appreciation Day lasted several years and fell by the wayside. The easy answer to the demise of civic activities is that they were not well enough attended to warrant further pursuit. It's true the attendance at the local efforts left a great deal to be desired, but it's just possible that the efforts on our part were not extensive enough, or they lacked suitable publicity, or they somehow did not really express the reasons for their being promoted.

If other communities can give local celebrations that draw crowds and are deemed to be worthy by the sponsoring organizations, there is no reason why we in the Twin Cities cannot do likewise.

At the last Farwell Chamber of Commerce meeting, Joe Jones made an observation that is well worth pondering. The talk around the table concerned attempts to get business or industry to come to Farwell. The example of East Texas bringing small manufacturing plants to that area was mentioned as worthy of thought. Joe then observed that they had their backs to the economic wall due to the collapse of the broiler industry in that area. They recognized the need for concerted effort and then got out and made the effort, while we here are not exactly in a depressed status and that incentive was missing for us.

We cannot help but feel that this malaise of economic sufficiency is at the root of the fact that we as a community cannot seem to successfully carry on a lengthy, burdensome or rather expensive program of civic improvement or promotion. It's just possible that as we become immersed in our daily tasks of making ends meet, we do not feel the acute necessity of planning for the future growth of the modest prosperity we do enjoy.

Texico and Farwell, as a joint and complementing community, must again become the focal point in people's minds for their trading activities. One very real, though hard to assess, way is by means of well planned, publicized and financed civic celebrations. We must remind people again and again we are here, we have goods and services to offer, we want their business. This could be done, this must be done, this will be done. We have great faith in the ingenuity, intelligence, integrity and industry of our community.

If you haven't been over to the Lions Club ball park and watched our youngsters play baseball, you are missing a great treat. One of our summer joys is working in the concession stand. It is a real insight into human nature to watch the small fry spend their money for assorted goodies. A great deal of adult psychology can be gleaned from watching these youngsters spend their money.

William Rundell, young son of Pete and Georgia Rundell, provided us with an amusing insight into human behavior. Young William approached the stand and rather wistfully asked if he might have credit. As his past record in this department was spotless, he was informed that he could go a dime in debt. William's eyes lit up and a puckish grin came to his lips as he said, "Daddy won't like this, but I will worry about that later." He thereupon marched off to enjoy the im-

Mike, 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doshier Jr., was named all age all-around champion cowboy at the Muleshoe Junior Rodeo held over the weekend.

In addition to the championship trophy, Mike was presented with trophies for first in the rescue race, first in the flag race; and with ribbons, second in the cigar race, third in the barrel race. He was assisted in the cigar race by his mother. He recently received the grand champion trophy at the Parmer County 4-H Club horse show. Mike and his registered quarterhorse, Porter Tom, will be entering in the District 4-H horse show in Dumas next week. Competing with Mike for the prizes in Dumas will be Derek Garner, who won the Reserve champion trophy at the Parmer County 4-H horse show.

Entries in the Junior rodeo in Muleshoe were in two divisions, 14 and under and 15-18, with the champion of the show picked from all entries.

Three Teachers Needed By Texico School

Superintendent A. D. McDonald of the Texico school announces that the resignations of Mrs. Jan White and Mrs. Judith Ann Hopkins have recently been accepted by the school board bringing to the total number of vacancies on the faculty to three.

The other vacancy was created by the resignation of James Martin near the end of the school term. The school is now in need of a fifth grade teacher, preferably one who can also conduct classes in physical education; a Spanish-English or Spanish-Social Science instructor, and a high school English teacher.

Any one in the area with the proper qualifications, who might be interested in filling one of the vacancies, is invited to call Supt. McDonald or a member of the Texico School Board.

Next meeting of the board is set for Tuesday night, July 12.

Tax Board Sets Meeting

The Farwell Tax Board of Equalization will meet at the city hall from 1-5 p.m., Tuesday, July 12, announces Mrs. Janie Bowery, city clerk.

All persons having business with the board should be present. Members of the board are Clay Henson, Clyde Magness and Don Williams.

Parents Asked To Check Closets For Missing Band Uniforms

Several items of band apparel are missing and Mrs. Haseloff states that it is possible that they have become misplaced in a child's closet or simply have been forgotten about. Should mothers, in cleaning closets, come across any of the missing items they may leave them at Shuman-Haseloff Mrs. Henry Haseloff, president of the Farwell Band Booster Club, is asking that parents of band students check their closets for parts of missing band uniforms.

Insurance Agency or call Mrs. Haseloff, 825-2153, or Mrs. Elmer Hargrove at 481-9021.

Engram Resting Well

Wesley Engram who suffered a heart attack last week is resting well at Clovis Memorial Hospital. He is said to be in satisfactory condition, but must "take it easy" for at least three months after leaving the hospital.

Youth Week Successful

Mrs. Buddy Pearce reports that the Youth Week held in the Texico Baptist Church last week was well attended. Speaker for the weekend revival was Russell McGough, Youth Director of the First Baptist Church in Pearsall, Tex., and a student at Hardin-Simmons. Rev. Jim Hart of Roswell was song director.

During the week, young people from the local Baptist church served in various offices of the church, with Roddy Pearce as pastor.

Cooper Works With Public Health Service

Dr. and Mrs. Larry Cooper and children visited briefly in Farwell last week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Walls.

The Coopers were enroute to Chattanooga, Tenn., where Dr. Cooper will be assistant surgeon with the United States Public Health Service for the next two years. He has recently been stationed at the Bernalillo County Indian Hospital in Albuquerque.

Home Is Where The Heart Is

"I came to America to see the sights and that is just what I intend to do for the next two years," stated Mrs. Mabel Worthington Brunton of Liverpool, England, who is currently visiting in the home of a niece, Mrs. Bill Whitesides.

Mrs. Brunton accompanied by her sister Mrs. Elsie Worthington Block, of Harrison, Ark., mother of Mrs. Whitesides, arrived in Farwell last week and will spend the next few weeks visiting with nieces and nephews in the area and also visiting places of interest in this vicinity.

Mrs. Block, oldest of the two English ladies, first arrived in the United States in early 1921 and was married to her late husband in New York City in the Little Church Around the Corner, following a courtship which began when her husband was an American GI, stationed in England in World War I. She has been back to England only one time, that being in 1948.

Mrs. Block, a widow, whose late husband was an English Army man, at one time lived in India for a five-year period. In 1942, she with her children was evacuated, by choice, from India back to England where she spent the remainder of the war. After her children had all reached adulthood, Mrs. Brunton began to dream of visiting America, but believed that the trip was far out of reach. However, last year she was told by a friend of an agency which was placing ladies with her qualifications, cook - housekeeper, in American homes, if they would sign a contract to stay for one year.

Mrs. Brunton immediately investigated the possibility of coming to America under this work setup and it was not long until she had been interviewed for and accepted by a family of doctors in New Jersey, who had three teenage children who needed a genteel person in the home while the parents were away.

The English lady explained that under the work setup, her fare to America was paid by her prospective employers with the understanding that it would be withheld from her salary over a ten-month period. At the end of that time, the money was returned to her by the family, as a bonus and she now has it in reserve for the return trip to England. Her visa allows her to stay in the states for three years and since her year with the New Jersey family is at an end, she is planning to spend the next two years working in various places in the United States and also visiting with American relatives.

"Oh! my New Jersey family did not want me to leave, and almost every mail brings letters from the teenagers begging me to return, but I want to see America," stated Mrs. Brunton. However, she does plan to visit the family before returning to England.

Upon arriving in America in 1965, Mrs. Brunton found her employers ready to leave on a three-week vacation, therefore, she immediately boarded a bus for Harrison, Ark., to visit Mrs. Block, the sister whom she had not seen in 18 years. During the past year, the only other member of the Worthington family, another sister, Frances, has visited with Mrs. Block and Mrs. Brunton. She only spent one month in the United States before returning to England.

Mrs. Brunton is mother of three sons, Keith, who served with the English Army, but who is presently employed by the Customs and Excise Department with offices in London; Peter, with the Royal Corps of Signals, stationed in Malacca, Malaysia; and Bryan, youngest of the trio, who is employed by the Australian Government and is presently in New Guinea with the department of Public Works. Bryan is making plans to join his mother in America in November for a one-month vacation.

JOQUETTA WALL

Receives Double Degree

Joquetta Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie O. Wall of Texico and a 1960 graduate of Texico High School, received a B. S. degree from Hardin Simmons University in Abilene in June and at the same time received her R. N. degree from Hendricks School of Nursing at Hardin Simmons.

Miss Wall attended Eastern New Mexico University for two years and tentatively plans to enroll for graduate study at the University of Colorado in the fall.

She is presently employed at Hendricks Hospital in Abilene as head nurse in the surgery department.

ENGLISH VISITORS -- Mrs. Elsie Block, left, and Mrs. Mabel Brunton, sisters, who are natives of England catch up on a "bit" of visiting while they are guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Whitesides. The ladies had not seen each other in 18 years until their reunion last year in Harrison, Ark., when Mrs. Brunton arrived for a three-year stay in the U. S.

Do Unto Others --

It was to be my experience to happen upon the scene of a serious automobile accident while returning from Amarillo last week. Evidently the accident had occurred only a short time prior to our arrival, as State Police were not yet on the scene. Several people had stopped however, and were trying to help. A man flagged us down and asked if we would stop at a certain filling station in Bovina and find out if anyone had called for an ambulance. Obviously, he had asked somebody else to stop and do so. We replied that we would and proceeded to Bovina. Upon inquiring at the service station, we found out that nobody had stopped. I thought perhaps they had phoned from somewhere else, but I decided to call for the ambulance just to be sure. I learned that my call was the first one received concerning the accident. Apparently the person or persons asked to make the call first had not done so.

Now my point is this: Anybody could plainly see that a serious accident had taken place. An injured man was sitting in full view of passers-by. The upper portion of his body was drenched in blood. He was clearly in a state of shock and needed help. In addition, a man's legs were visible protruding from an overturned truck.

What in the name of all that is righteous would possess anybody to refuse to call for help? As I learned later, a woman was killed in the accident. She may have been killed outright, I don't know. It's possible however, just possible, that she died waiting for help. If this was the case, at least a portion of the responsibility for her death would rest upon the shoulders of those who refused to take a few minutes to phone for an ambulance.

In the past, I have read with disbelief, newspaper accounts of citizens being stabbed, robbed or raped in full view of bystanders who make no effort to help or even call the police. Their usual excuse is: "I don't want to get involved."

They evidently do not realize that by just being a citizen, it is their responsibility to get involved in a case where laws are being broken or a fellow citizen needs help.

I thought that if these incidents could take place at all, they must happen in another portion of the country. Now I wonder, are the citizens of our portion of the country becoming infected with "don't careites"? I doubt it.

As I said before, several people had stopped and were helping. They deserve praise and gratitude for their actions. I prefer to think that I am mistaken in my belief that a person refused to spare a few minutes to make a phone call to help another human being in distress.

I prefer to believe that if a person did indeed make such a refusal, that he was from another section of the country and that this incident does not reflect upon the standards of the population of West Texas.

I have always believed that the citizenry of the Southwest, and West Texas in particular, were among the friendliest and the most-willing-to-help people in the world. This isolated incident will not change my opinion. Still, something like this cannot help but astonish a person, I hope it never happens again, at least not in our portion of the country.

If this attitude of indifference is allowed to manifest itself in a large segment of our society, we are indeed in for some rough times.

Man must always be willing to help his fellow man. This is precisely the trait that separates Homo sapiens from the beasts. Let us cultivate it well.

 tion. She also has four grandchildren.

The vastness of the High Plains is quite exciting to Mrs. Brunton who stated that her visit to Palo Duro Canyon was almost overpowering. She has visited the bowels of a grain elevator and has also been permitted to ride in a truck which was transporting wheat from the field to an elevator. "I was even permitted to ride in the truck when it split the grain," she commented. However, as much as she is enjoying her visit to the wide-open spaces, she says that were she going to make her home in America she would choose to live nearer a large city.

Her reaction to American radio and TV were a little less than complimentary. "The commercials ruin TV and radio," she stated. In England, a license to tune in on TV and radio programs is obtained through the post office department, with no commercials on one of the available stations and commercials coming at the end of the program on the other. Only two TV stations are available, but listeners have a choice of four or five radio stations, she said. License to have TV and radio is available for four lbs. ($12.00) per year.

The quantities of food served in the United States is still a little overpowering to this English lady who told of her reaction to the first American sandwich in this way: "The doctors showed me how to make a sandwich by taking a slice of bread, buttering it on one side, placing a layer of mustard or salad dressing on it, then a slice of cheese, a slice of meat, lettuce, tomato, pickles, and then another slice of bread, by this time I had begun to wonder how they were going to bite into it and was sure my mouth would never stretch that far, but I can now eat one as well as the next person." However, she states that she still prefers the English sandwich, comparable to our party sandwiches.

At first the American food all tasted a little flat to Mrs. Brunton, who says that upon looking back she believes that a part of the flavor loss was due to a touch of homesickness on her part, for they taste fine now even though she is not particularly fond of the highly-seasoned foods in this area." But Aunt Mabel is a good sport and even tried barbecue," commented her hostess.

Mrs. Brunton who worked as a cook-housekeeper in a mission school in Liverpool before coming to the United States says that wages for such a position paid only 200 lbs, equivalent to $600 per year. While the same type position in the United States pays well over $200 per month. Money made by Mrs. Brunton in America is subject to the federal income tax and also may be taxed upon her return to England.

"Yes, America is wonderful and I shall always be glad that I had the chance to come and visit, but England is my home and I am looking forward to returning there when my visa expires," said Mrs. Brunton.

DOG TALK

Choose Carefully

Since your dog will become a popular and well-loved member of the household, it's important when choosing one to know what you're buying. All puppies are cute, but several things should be considered before making that final selection.

Does it make a difference if the dog is a purebred or a mixed breed? A fancy pedigree doesn't guarantee that your pup will be perfect, but it does assure you that he will look like his parents. Though the price for a purebred is more, there are the opportunities for exhibiting him in shows, and perhaps breeding a litter.

With a mixed breed you are taking a chance as no two pups will look alike or be alike in temperament. The initial cost of the mixed breed will be lower, but the basic upkeep will be the same.

The experts at the Purina Pet Care Center in St. Louis suggest that you consider whether a male or female is best for your house. The female is usually a bit cheaper in price because people don't want to be bothered with the problems she presents such as either having puppies or having her spayed. However, females, as a rule, are gentler, cleaner, and more inclined to stay home.

The male of the species is usually more sturdy, rugged, and less trouble to keep as a pet. But he has a tendency to want to roam around the neighborhood more.

Whatever kind of dog you choose it is a good idea to get expert help in the selection of the right pup for your household.

Rejoice in the Lord always
In nothing be anxious.
—(Phil. 4:4-6)

There may be times when things do not go according to schedule, times when confusion runs rampant. Let's not be tense or anxious at such times, for if we hold to the idea of divine order, we know that God's good is at work. Order and perfect harmony are the right and natural state of affairs and they are brought forth as we affirm divine order, as we let this idea find expression through us in words and works.

Six Flags Over Texas

By Jean Simmons
Travel Editor,
DALLAS MORNING NEWS
History repeats. The Alamo has fallen again. But this time the story has a happy ending - certainly for SIX FLAGS Over Texas.

the hallowed San Antonio shrine as the No. 1 tourist attraction of Texas. Happily, it instills the same patriotic fervor in the hearts of Texans, for SIX FLAGS is based on the Lone Star State's colorful history. Out of staters (and foreigners, too) find the theme Park a fun way to take a short course on what made Texas. Credit is assured, but your diploma will have to be a souvenir map. To put the Park in a capsule - if you can put 115-acres in one - SIX FLAGS is a bright array of rides, attractions, gardens, memorabilia and live entertainment, 75 distinct features in all. The one-price ticket ($3.50 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12) covers everything except food and souvenirs, I'll challenge anyone to find a better bargain.

There is no limit to the number of times you can ride the Astrolift across the grounds, the narrow-gauge train that steams around the perimeter, the 190-foot high Sky Hook or any of the other rides, for that matter. But you must get off each time and get back in line. Waiting is eased by covered areas, complete with air-conditioning, under which you stand.

In fact, SIX FLAGS does everything conceivable to minimize the Texas summer-heat, fountains, streams, electric fans stashed up in trees. An example of the imagination that has gone into the Park is the replica of an old Texas courthouse tower that went up last summer. Actually, it houses a new ice plant capable of producing the four and a half million pounds of ice used each season.

Upon entering the grounds, visitors inevitably rally round the flags that flutter on 60-foot poles to watch the dancing waters and to admire the hanging baskets and manicured gardens of the mall. From there they fan out toward one of the six main sections, each representing one of the six sovereign nations that have ruled over Texas: Spain, France, Mexico, Republic of Texas, the Confederacy and the United States.

Each area has its well-flavored amusements. In Mexico, for instance, is the Ferrocarril Fiesta Train, a sombreroed series of cars that puff past dancing tamales, an animated bullfight and the Xochimilco Gardens. This, like many of the others, is a story-telling ride. Spain boasts the most popular ride, the Log Flume - a roller coaster on water. The Speelunkers Cave, new in 1964, ranks second with visitors and LaSalle's Riverboat ride, a cruise through alligator-infested waters, is third.

What do visitors like most about SIX FLAGS? Surveys inevitably show that, other than the rides, they are most impressed by the cleanliness, the landscaping and the personnel.

About 1,500 students from 17 years old to college seniors, staff the Park each summer, chosen from 15,000 to 20,000 applicants. Eight thousand costumes comprise their wardrobe, ranging from Confederate uniforms to candy-striped jackets, from the attire of a French sailor to an Indian brave.

Four principles were outlined by Dallas' Angus G. Wynne, Jr. in planning the Park; that it have a unique atmosphere, that it be impeccably clean, that well-trained, clean-cut students make up the host and hostess staff and that there be new rides and attractions each season.

The year 1966 marks the Park's fifth anniversary, it having opened in August, 1961. More than six and a half million visitors have come from every state and numerous foreign lands. After school lets out in June, it is open daily until Labor Day, when it goes on a Saturday and Sunday only operation until Thanksgiving.

Who goes to SIX FLAGS? The answer is all-inclusive. Oldsters enjoy being kids for a day. Teen-agers have a ball. Young parents find strollers right at the gate for their little tots. Honeymooners stroll hand in hand. Garden clubbers. Conventioneers. People like me -- and you.

As for live entertainment, that is where the action is. Six guns blaze in the streets; Can-Can music rings through the swinging doors of the non-alcoholic Crazy Horse Saloon; Mariachis stroll; Dixielanders swing and a Marching Band does what it should, Indians dance and robbers hold up banks. The highlight of the entertainment, in itself worth the all-inclusive ticket, is the annual Campus Revue, a professionally directed show put on three times each summer evening in the air-conditioned 1,200 seat Amphitheater. Auditions are held each spring on college campuses to seek out the talent for the cast.

SIX FLAGS was built by Great Southwest Corporation to augment its nearby Industrial District. The site, once a stock farm, was chosen for its pleasant terrain and its accessibility on the Dallas/Fort Worth Turnpike. Originally, the name was to have been Texas Under Six Flags. But the master showman named Charles R. Meeker, Jr., who produces and directs the live shows and host and hostess indoctrination programs, visited Great Southwest president Wynne on the construction site. "Augus", he said, "there's something that's been bothering me. You know how we all feel about Texas, and by Heaven, Texas ain't gonna be 'under nuthin'."

The topnotch INN of the Six Flags on the other side of the Turnpike, is the official home of SIX FLAGS guests. This elegant motor hotel is a resort complex with excellent convention and banquet facilities, luxury guest room accommodations (ice makers, coffee makers, vibrating beds), a private club, an 18-hole championship golf course and a lighted Six Flags NINE golf course for night play, four pools, riding horses and an assortment of dining facilities. Other fine motels also have sprung up around SIX FLAGS, especially handy for those who want to remain in the grounds till closing time.

Imaginative lighting changes the Park into a different world after dark, so do plan to stay through the day and beyond. You won't run out of something to do. In fact, one of every four visitors is a repeater. I, personally, have lost count of my visits.

The story is told of the teacher who was herding her class along. "Come on, now, kids, let's get moving. If we stop to look at everything, we won't see anything."

SIX FLAGS TO CELEBRATE 5TH ANNIVERSARY IN 1966

August 4, 1961 was a bright and sunny day. The Governor of the State of Texas along with numerous civic officials, gathered outside the main gate of a new 105-acre, $10,000,000 historical theme amusement park located in Arlington, midway between the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth. They were there to mark the opening day of SIX

FLAGS Over Texas which had just been completed after two years of planning, research and construction.

Proudest of all the distinguished officials seated at the specially constructed stands was Angus G. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation. Mr. Wynne, who received the idea of SIX FLAGS Over Texas, was experiencing that very special moment when all his thoughts, plans and dreams were being brought into reality.

Today, nearly five years later, SIX FLAGS Over Texas has achieved a record of success that has been regarded by all as truly outstanding. The 105-acre theme Park has now been expanded into 115 acres and the original $10,000,000 investment has risen to $14,000,000 with new rides, attractions and shows being added each season.

More than 6,600,000 people from all over the United States and many foreign countries have visited the Park prior to the opening of the 1966 season. Following a recent and extensive survey, the Texas Tourist Development Agency declared that SIX FLAGS is now Texas' most popular single tourist attraction.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By JOE VANZANDT
County Agent

Most cotton fields are squaring pretty good and now is the time to check your cotton for fleahoppers.

Examine the main stem terminal buds (about 3-4 in. of top of plant) of 100 cotton plants at several representative points in the field. As cotton reaches the fruiting stage, apply control measures when 15-20 fleahoppers are found per 100 terminals. As plants increase in size and fruit load, larger populations may be tolerated without serious damage. Base later treatments on numbers of fleahoppers and on damage as indicated by excessive loss of small squares. Apply sprays at seven-day intervals.

There is one additional chemical that is recommended for fleahoppers that is not recommended for thrips and this is trichlorfon (Dylox). All of the thrip control insecticides will work on fleahoppers. Repeat application of trichlorfon at 3-5 day intervals as needed.

This has been one year where thrip damage has been pretty severe on cotton that didn't receive any insecticides. Be sure and check for fleahoppers and blasted squares that are a sign fleahoppers might be present.

SHOULD I OWN MACHINERY?

The question is often asked me, "Can I, or can't I, afford to own a combine or hay baler or other pieces of machinery?"

The question, of course, cannot be answered with a simple, "yes" or "no." But there is available some information which may make the decision easier.

For instance: The decision whether or not to buy a certain piece of machinery should be based on a simple economic theory called "principle of opportunity cost."

The theory means your profits will be the greatest if your land, labor and capital (money) are used where they add the most to your income.

Simply stated, the opportunity cost of owning a piece of machinery is the amount of income you would give up if this money was invested in the next most profitable place in your business.

Before buying, you should estimate the breakeven point in the profitability of owning the machine opposed to hiring the work custom done. When estimating the breakeven point, be sure to consider more than just your own acreage on which you'll be using the machine. Consider the possibility of doing some custom work yourself.

Some advantages to hiring work custom done are: reduces amount of capital invested in machinery, can produce crops that require equipment that a farmer cannot economically own, risk of timeliness may be reduced by hiring more than one machine, custom operators may be more expert operators and do better work and frees farm operator to do other work.

Disadvantages of custom hiring are: may not be available when needed, carry noxious weeds and grass from farm to farm, small acreage unattractive to custom operators since they won't make a large profit and not all custom operators do good, conscientious work.

Taking the time to evaluate both possibilities, buying the machinery or hiring the work done, can pay off with a more economical set-up on your farm.

The chart above shows the daily rate of water use by cotton from emergence to the defoliation period, or harvest.

Principles To Apply In Cotton Irrigation

Many years of irrigation research have led to the development of a number of basic principles farmers can use to decide the time and the amount of water to apply to cotton on the High Plains, says Joe VanZandt, Parmer County Agricultural Agent.

Scientists have found that cotton uses about one-tenth of an inch of water up to about the square stage. Then the plant's water consumption increases rapidly until it reaches a peak of from .25 to .4 inches per day at the bloom stage.

Irrigation should be based on this water-use information, says VanZandt, but of course will be influenced by rainfall and the watering capability of the irrigation system.

If only one irrigation will be made, the county agent says it should be made ideally at an early peak bloom. Cotton to be irrigated twice or more during the summer has been found to produce more efficiently when the first irrigation is applied in the first white bloom period with others following in the peak bloom period.

More than ten years of study at the South Plains Research and Extension Center near Lubbock indicates that a pre-plant plus two summer irrigations will produce the maximum net returns in the long run.

Additional irrigations naturally increase per acre yields, but he says the yields do not increase proportionally with the amount of water added. Late irrigations are sometimes not paid for by the small increases in yield and they can lower the cotton's quality, VanZandt said.

Farmers need to plan on cutting water off cotton around August 15-20, no later, said the County Agent. Lint quality is more important than ever, and late watering after August 20 is likely to have some effect on lowering cotton lint quality.

End Table Exotica

By Nancy Sartin
NEW YORK (KF) -- Kewpie dolls and Batman posters are enjoying a brief revival as parlor art these days, but genuine art for the home is becoming a major American interest.

Earlier generations may have shied from virtuosity, subtlety or seriousness. But Americans today are aware of their own and other cultures in a more accessible world. They are sensitive to esthetic values in their surroundings.

Nowhere can the mutual influence of cultures be seen more clearly than in the field of fine arts. With examples and techniques of many traditions at hand, craftsman has ample means for projecting his ideas in plastic form. His audience has the same advantages in understanding and choosing things.

The Afflictions of Job, by Margot Kempe. Here traditional material and technique adapt a monumental theme for intimate surroundings.

Current exhibitions by artists-craftsmen show great diversity of media and styles, and a sizeable proportion of serious, audacious and highly personal statements. Articles of common use, bowls, pitchers, textiles and jewelry find ready acceptance and appreciation. Small sculptures experiment in materials, techniques and ideas of considerable daring.

OL Celebration Attracts 125

Ballgames, a basket supper and a fireworks display highlighted the annual July 4th celebration at Oklahoma Lane Community Center Monday.

Approximately 125 attended the celebration with each family bringing a basket supper.

In a business session, Mrs. Joe White was elected to head special events at the community center for Christmas and Independence Day, Mrs. Vernon Symcox was head of this year's celebration.

Elected as directors of the community center organization were Troy Christian, J. G. Harlan and Mrs. Symcox, Directors whose terms expired were Mrs. Wendol Christian, J. B. Young and James Ensor.

In the traditional men's softball game between the "North" and the "South," the "south" won "by less than 100 to 0," according to a report.

Other events officers named were Mrs. R. J. Garner, secretary, and James Ensor, treasurer.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Bovina 4-H girls and their leaders, Mrs. Earle Hise and Mrs. Robert Read, met in the Homemaking Cottage recently for a program in Clothing. This was on grooming, Mrs. Gary Cox presented the program which included group participation. Emphasis was on the care of the hair and the styles suitable for various types.

The girls in the clothing project work are completing their garments and some are about to finish all the lessons in the guides. This is important because there is really more to the clothing program than just sewing up a dress -- it's the total effect which involves grooming, (and this can mean care of clothing and selection of accessories and a schedule of exercises too). Bovina and Lazbuddie girls plan to have program together on modeling before judging of the Dress Revue.

Picnics and recreation are the main activities for July and August in 4-H Clubs. The highlight for July will be the County camp out in Holy Ghost Canyon, the 25th - 28th.

By Mary Whitman

"Almost every schoolboy today is watching Gemini flights on television and studying pictures of Mars in the daily papers," points out James Lyle, president of Whitman Publishing Company, Racine, Wis.

A child's curiosity now reaches out to the whole universe. As a result, many books on astronomy, engines, rockets and space exploration have recently been published to give youngsters the background help they need.

Parents will also find the books useful.

A father and son can learn together from a new book called "Rockets." A rocket and a boy's bike have much in common, the book explains. Both work on principles discovered by Sir Isaac Newton in 1642 when he watched an apple fall and developed his laws of motion. Modern rocket power is explained and the reasons for using various fuels such as lox, or liquid oxygen. New terms become clear. ISP -- the thrust produced from a pound of propellant in a second -- means the same thing to a space-age rocketeer that "miles per gallon" means to a car owner. These basic terms of today are handy to know.

Children take the new science in stride.

Adults may have a hard time even remembering the names of the planets. If so, it's wise to fall back on an old school-day device. Make up a funny sentence. Counting outward from the sun you have Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, Pluto. So you remember the sentence, "My very educated mother just served us nine pickles," and the first letters are your key.

Don't give the secret away. Everybody will be sure you have a sound grasp of the solar system. And with a little help from children's books you'll prove them right.

HD Agent Tells --

Warm weather increases the hazard of food poisoning. Away from refrigerators and the cleanliness of a normal kitchen routine, many housewives find they have packed troubles in the picnic basket, the HD agent says.

Picnic poisoning can occur after eating food that:

1. Contains disease-producing bacteria (such as salmonella or dysentery organisms.)
2. Contains poisons produced by bacteria (such as staphylococcus toxins.)

Summer temperatures yield the most rampant bacterial growth, and the greatest problem is that these bacteria attack without warning. You can't wait for food to look or taste bad before suspecting bacterial invasion, since the presence of a large number of organisms or a large amount of toxin does not necessarily affect the taste or color of the food. With an ounce of prevention, you won't have to worry about a pound of cure.

Food poisoning may result from a variety of micro-organisms and bacterial toxins. The most common is a "staph" toxin caused by staphylococcus germs growing in certain foods.

These bacteria are all around, but they are harmless on food unless permitted to multiply by warmth and a favorable culture medium. Most bacteria lie dormant in a refrigerated state. If foods are not eaten soon after being prepared, they should be stored at temperatures below 40 degrees F. When food is not refrigerated -- especially if left in a warm auto or in the sun -- the bacteria can multiply at unbelievable speed.

Even three or four hours at room temperature can produce sufficient toxin to cause illness. In Milwaukee some time ago, a young bride and eight other persons were treated for food poisoning in County Emergency Hospital after eating food left over from the wedding reception. Imagine how quickly the heat in a car trunk can turn your picnic food into a breeding ground for bacteria.

THE TOUCH THAT KILLS

The temperature problem on picnics is made more acute if careless food handling enters the picture. Food prepared by unclean hands, and particularly hands with cuts or infected sores, can build up a fatal concentration of staphylococcus toxins within two hours after preparation. Even proper refrigeration is no safeguard after toxin is formed.

A case of mass food poisoning in an officer's club at a large California naval base was traced to a kitchen steward who had a cut on his finger when he prepared chicken salad.

At the other extreme, hot foods should be kept at temperatures generally above 140 degrees F to retard bacterial growth. Federal food inspectors label anything "fully cooked" that has had an internal temperature of 148 degrees F. Salmonella bacteria (often present in poultry, sausages, eggs, milk, meat pies, cake mixes) thrive in lukewarm foods. Heating foods well (which means cooking thoroughly) kills these bacteria.

Remember that cooking gives no more guarantee of safety in the case of food contaminated by handling than refrigeration does. Staph toxins will not be deactivated, although cooking temperatures will kill most bacteria. "Hot" or "cold" preventive measures are not easy away from home. That's why you should be extra cautious about picnic food, because you can't expect it to keep as well as food at home. So scratch from the picnic menu the more perishable foods that spoil readily at room temperature.

Dr. Donald Dukelow of the American Medical Association warns that food poisoning depends on both an illness-producing organism and a suitable environment for its growth.

VACATION-TIME LUNCHES

Vacation time, when the children are no longer lunching at school, poses new problems for mothers. Lunch-time seems to come around pretty fast, especially if one is not ready for it.

Actually, the feeding of the ravenous horde at home is not so difficult if one prepares in advance. This consists mainly in having a good supply of the necessary ingredients for making a nutritious and attractive lunch with a minimum of time and labor.

Needed Supplies

It helps to have several kinds of bread -- white, rye, whole wheat, raisin -- and some rolls, crackers and English muffins for warming or toasting. Milk, of course, is a must for children -- whole, skim, buttermilk or chocolate milk, plus cream or half and half for cereals. Peanut butter, of course -- what would home be without peanut butter!

Cheese, of the variety the children like best. Luncheon meats, wieners and chopped meat are handy to have around. Ice cream in several flavors, plus chocolate, butterscotch and other favorite toppings. And nuts.

Summer is the season for fresh fruits, and it is also a good time for fresh vegetables.

Try Outdoors

Summer lunches are more fun out of doors, and children can help prepare them if a picnic atmosphere is created. The food can be put out on a table, preferably under cover from flies and other insects, and eaten in the yard, patio or porch. Paper plates, cups and napkins and disposable plastic eating utensils help to take the edge off the work load, and children can and should help to clear away after eating.

Vary Menus

The exact menu should be varied, and should reflect the likes and dislikes of the family. A good pattern for a summer mid-day meal is a sandwich with meat or cheese or peanut butter, the latter perhaps combined with jelly or honey, plus cool -- not too cold -- milk, or a milk shake. Add a raw vegetable such as a carrot or cucumbers, or sliced tomatoes, or celery stuffed with cream cheese, and top it off with ice cream or fresh fruit, and you have a balanced meal with a minimum of fuss, and everybody has fun.

Berries, Too

In berry season, cereal with berries and half-and-half or cream, make a fine basis for lunch. Children love hot dogs, hamburgers or toasted cheese sandwiches. Crisp bacon and tomato sandwiches too, are well accepted. Any fresh fruit in season may be served as it comes from the store, but care should be taken to wash all fruits except those that are peeled before eating.

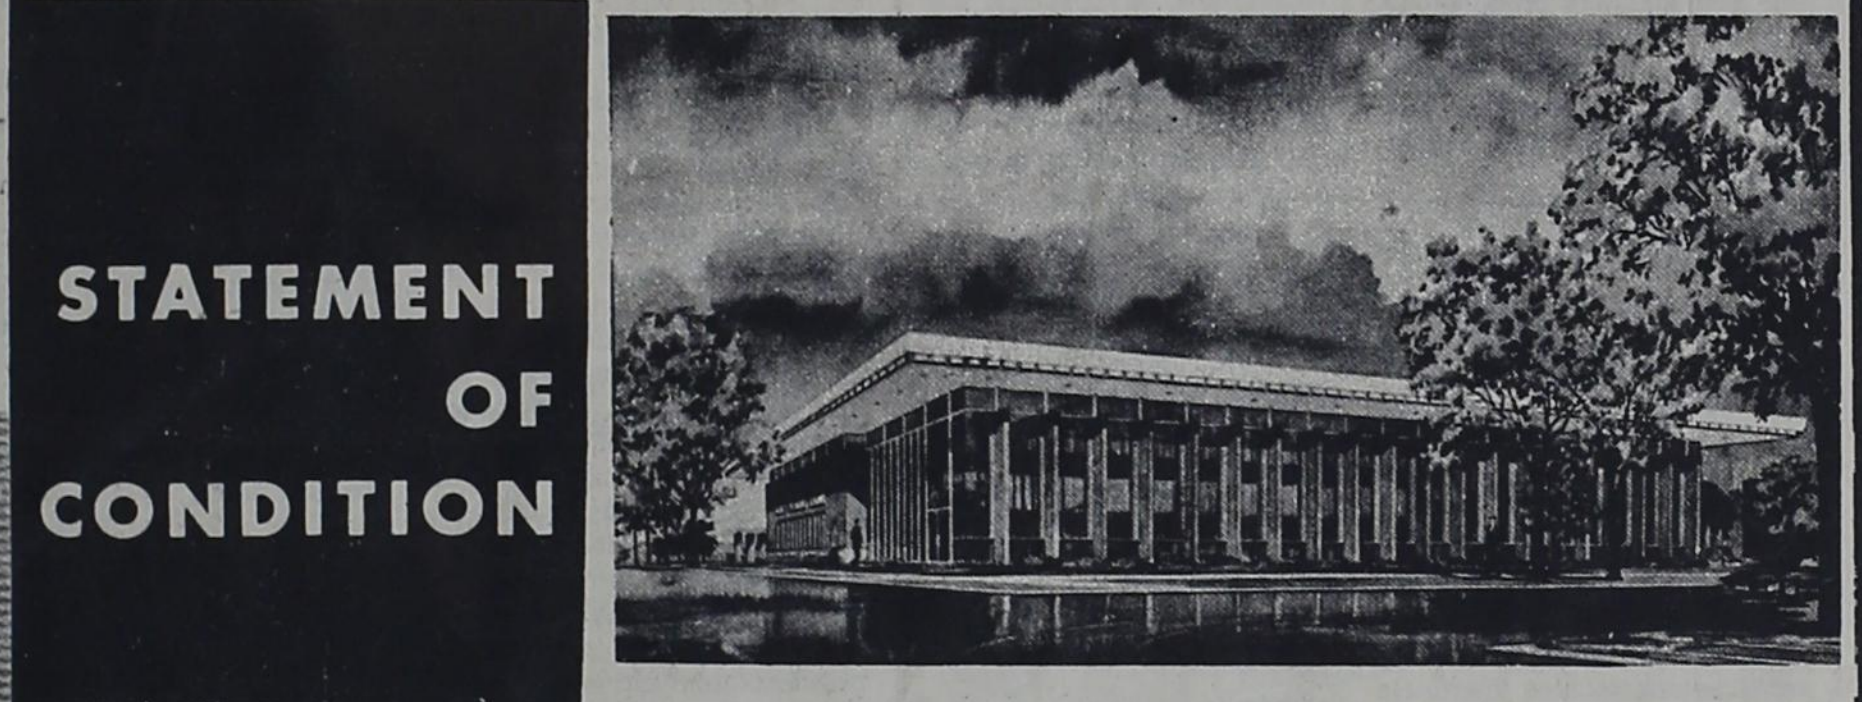

In-between snacks should emphasize fruits and vegetables or dairy products in preference to candy and other sweets. Soft drinks should not crowd out the necessary milk, but they need not be banned, either.

Springtime Tip

A springtime fire safety tip for homeowners is this:

When you fill the tank of that power lawnmower, be sure to treat gasoline with respect. Remember it gives off flammable vapors which need only a tiny flame or spark to turn into searing fire or dangerous explosion.

Finally, keep your gasoline in a tight-closing metal can -- never in a glass jug or bottle.

PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS & CIVIC-MINDED PEOPLE OF CLOVIS AND VICINITY

This department has been worked up largely as a reflection of public opinion. No person has written of themselves or their business. All articles have been compiled by a representative of The State Line Tribune as he saw conditions. These people are all leaders in their various lines of endeavor and the cooperation of those citizens in Clovis who helped make this department possible is sincerely appreciated.

Riley Brewer

In bestowing credit upon some of the more progressive businessmen of Clovis who in one way or another, have contributed their bit to improve both business and civic conditions, we wish to publish a few words about Riley Brewer of Riley's Service Station.

Mr. Brewer has set a standard for himself, and the operation of his business that, under present existing conditions, has been extremely difficult to maintain. However, that he has done so is proved by the large volume of business which his Shamrock station continues to handle, much of which is due to his unceasing attention to detail, and his ability to cope with new and unexpected problems.

Riley Brewer is also civic-minded, and has, when asked, cheerfully cooperated on those civic activities to which he has been able to lend assistance. He more than deserves the respect and good will which he has earned, and his many personal friends and satisfied customers are confident that he will continue to maintain his usual integrity and high standards.

Mrs. H. C. Gettys

A city grows and prospers by reason of the public-spirited men and women who take an active interest in its development. Clovis has its share of these progressive and civic-minded people, and one who is deserving of recognition is Mrs. H. C. Gettys of the Clovis Floral Company.

Her business ability, coupled with a thorough knowledge of the business have been major factors in maintaining the Clovis Floral Company in a position of leadership throughout this entire area. She not only in her business activities, but also in her attention to civic duty, assumed an active part in community affairs.

Edna Gettys has always been ready and willing to contribute her time and energy to the promotion of any project promising to benefit the community as a whole. She has often sacrificed personal interests to be of assistance to the city, and her efforts are deserving of commendation and support.

We congratulate Mrs. Gettys on her past achievements which, in our opinion, indicate a similar successful career in the years ahead.

Art Liesner

In editing this review of conscientious Clovis businessmen, it is fitting that we should include some of those who, by their aggressiveness, have definitely established themselves in the business life of the city.

Such a man is Art Liesner, manager of The Singer Company, who also deserves an additional word for being more than just successful. He is a consistent and enthusiastic booster of the community, and in his way has done much to advertise the city.

Mr. Liesner has pursued the progressive policy of stepping up his business ahead of the times, thus setting a pace for which he has earned the reputation of being a go-getter, who does not sit back and wait for the business to come to him.

We are glad to pay tribute to Art Liesner, and to point out to our readers that his sincere desire to be of service, coupled with his determined methods, are largely responsible for the standing of The Singer Company throughout this area.

Warner Wilson

Warner Wilson, manager of the Electronics Parts Company of Clovis, has won the universal respect and good will of the people of this region for the progressive manner in which he has kept this reliable company in the forefront of the business and industrial life of this entire district. Also for the efficient and friendly willingness he has displayed in accepting his share of responsibility in aiding civic projects.

Mr. Wilson is not the kind of man who makes himself conspicuous by the manner in which he conducts himself, either in business or other matters. Yet, his quiet reserve and air of confidence mark him as a man of sound judgment, whose opinions and advice are sought after and listened to with respect.

We compliment Warner Wilson for the successful management of the Electronics Parts Company, and also for his constructive advice and help on those civic affairs in which he has found time to interest himself. He is a man whom a great many people are proud to call friend.

C. M. Hager

In all business and professional pursuits, there are men who have met with success because they have honestly deserved it, and such a man in his particular vocation is C. M. Hager of the C. M. Hager Sign Service, who well deserves the reputation he has earned for being one of Clovis' more conscientious businessmen.

His thorough knowledge of everything pertaining to the sign business is exemplified by the manner in which he fulfills each and every demand made upon him in line with his business.

Moreover, such experience as Mr. Hager has gained in the successful management of his business has been turned to the advantage of his fellow citizens by applying the same principles to the promotion of those civic projects to which he has been called upon to lend his able assistance. Thus his success in business has further enhanced his value to the city.

We appreciate the opportunity of including C. M. Hager in this group of progressive and civic-minded men who are actively taking part in the evolution of the business and civic life of Clovis.

Joe R. Shoemate

In paying tribute to some of the more progressive businessmen of Clovis, we would be remiss in our duty should we fail to include Joe R. Shoemate of Sallee's Auto Service, whose business ability is no greater than the "know-how," and mechanical skill which has contributed to his well-earned success in the automotive repair and maintenance business.

He has also contributed generously to the welfare of the city, and the community for many miles around. And his civic spirit is evidenced by the many services which he has performed, and will continue to perform in the interest of the people as a whole.

Mr. Shoemate is a man of wide acquaintance, whose many friends admire and respect in him, those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. And his upright business methods are credit to his inherent sense of fair play.

We congratulate Joe Shoemate on his splendid record of service, and trust he shall continue to assist us for many years to come.

Gene Gibbs

It is fitting in this review of progressive Clovis businessmen, that we acquaint our readers with the one to be credited with having maintained Clardy-Campbell Dairy Products Incorporated, in the enviable position it holds in the business and commercial life of this area. That personality is Gene Gibbs, the manager, whose genius for organization, and for converting new ideas into actual deeds, has played a vital part in the distinctive reputation which this reliable company now enjoys throughout this entire district.

Mr. Gibbs has found time, in addition to his business interests, to give thought and energy to community projects. He is a citizen whose talents have been steadfastly devoted to the best interests of the city. He has been successful in his own business, and in the promotion of the general welfare of the community.

We are glad to pay this brief tribute to him, and to say that this region owes much to the many benefits which Gene Gibbs and Clardy-Campbell Dairy Products Incorporated have rendered to the people.

Don Rierson

Don Rierson of Don Rierson Auto Sales, located at 501 East First Street, is one of those dependable new and used car dealers of Clovis who has consistently forged ahead in his business. He has also put his shoulder to the wheels of civic progress whenever concerted help was needed in furthering enterprises promoted for the general welfare of the community.

Mr. Rierson was never a man given to wishful thinking. Because his methods are those of direct action, and whether the problem at hand is one concerning his own business, or that of a civic nature, he attacks it with optimism and vigorous enthusiasm. Add to this his acknowledged business ability and his keen sense of values, and it is easily understood why he is almost invariably successful in business or other matters.

We feel that it is our duty to call the attention of our readers to these worth-while characteristics of Don Rierson, and to pay him a well-deserved tribute for his straight forward business methods, and for the unselfish interest he has shown in public welfare.

Robert J. "Bob" Starkey

Generally speaking, civic pride is one of those things that goes hand-in-hand with success, because a man must have been successful to fully appreciate the advantages that were afforded him by the community in which he lives.

And Robert J. "Bob" Starkey of the Clovis Rendering Company, and Starkey Packing Company, is one of those conscientious businessmen of Clovis who has shown his appreciation for his success by his attention to civic matters. His willingness to become a cog in the wheels of community progress whenever united effort is needed to put over some movement or project advanced for the good of the city has always been taken for granted.

"Bob" Starkey's quiet assumption of responsibility, not only in connection with his own business, but in regard to other matters as well, has often lent a feeling of confidence to others interested in the same movements.

In complimenting Mr. Starkey upon his high standing in the community, we do no more than express the admiration and respect of his many friends and associates.

Roy S. Walker

Every progressive and successful businessman in Clovis contributes in some manner to the growth and progress of the city. And one who is always willing to do his part in both civic and business activities is Roy S. Walker of the Roy S. Walker Oil Company, wholesale jobber for Gulf Petroleum Products, who is well known, and has many friends and business associates throughout this entire district.

The prominent part that the Roy S. Walker Oil Company is playing in the business and commercial life of Clovis and vicinity, mirrors the dependability and honesty of such men as he. Moreover, Mr. Walker has also at all times been steadfast in his devotion to the city and the surrounding country, and on many occasions has lent his support to the successful promotion of meritorious civic projects.

Clovis and this district are fortunate to have such a man as Roy Walker in a position of responsibility and service, and this newspaper feels that it merely reflects public opinion in paying this brief tribute to one of the city's more progressive businessmen.

Scott McGehee

Logically a man who has earned the reputation of being one of the region's more dependable truck sales and service dealers would in so doing, have earned the friendship and good will of a great many people throughout this entire district. And one who justly deserves that distinction is modest, efficient, friendly, Scott McGehee of the McGehee Truck Company authorized dealer for International Motor Trucks.

Mr. McGehee is the type of man who would be an asset to any community, not only because the successful conduct of his business plays a definite part in the general civic scheme, but because the ultimate measure of his value to the city and this district, lies in the fact that he is untiringly zealous and remarkably successful in the promotion of civic progress.

It would be difficult to estimate the actual dollars-and-cents value of such a man to his community. We congratulate the people of Clovis for numbering among their more progressive citizens such a man as Scott McGehee, and we also express the wish that he will enjoy many more years of success.

Mrs. Ora Gibbs

Mrs. Ora Gibbs is one of the more successful restaurant operators of Clovis who, by maintaining a constant standard of service and high quality foods, has made the Cactus Grill one of the more popular eating places in the community. We are glad to give her credit for her well-earned success in a field which is so highly competitive.

It is also a pleasure to give her credit for taking part in community affairs, and lending her assistance to various activities and public projects. When to take part in such matters, she always does so without ostentation, but in a quiet manner which lends dignity to her cheerful acceptance of her share of the civic load. It is a pleasure to be associated in the promotion of community activities with such a pleasant and courteous personality.

This review of progressive and civic-minded people of Clovis would not be complete were we to fail to include Mrs. Gibbs. Hers is the kind of success which deserves recognition, and we wish her many more years of the same.

Fred W. Johnston

Fred W. Johnston of Johnston's Sporting Goods, has a well-earned reputation for dependability because he has consistently forged ahead in his efforts to make the service he renders to the people more valuable. This invariable policy has made Johnston's Sporting Goods outstanding in its field, a fact that is well known to the public throughout this entire area.

But Mr. Johnston has accomplished much more than just making a success of his business and private affairs, and we take this opportunity to pay tribute to him for devoting what time he could spare to the general welfare, not only the city, but the surrounding district as well.

It is such men as he, who are both successful in business and appreciative of their civic obligations that are deserving of recognition. We take pleasure in publicly giving Fred Johnston the credit for his accomplishments which his many personal friends and satisfied customers have so long accorded him.

Leslie And Faye Stilwell

Leslie and Faye Stilwell of the Leslie Candy Company, are two of those progressive type of citizens upon whom the community depends a great deal for leadership in business or other matters. They are also civic-minded and have, in the past, and no doubt will continue in the future to give more of their time and energy for the welfare of others than themselves.

They are the kind of individuals who make friends, and friendships once formed by them are never broken by an unfriendly act on their part, and they spare no efforts in order that their services to the surrounding area shall be more dependable.

Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell have never been known to inject themselves into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. However, they proceed in a calm and unostentatious manner, and accomplish their objectives with a quiet dignity. We do not hesitate to recommend Faye and Leslie Stilwell to our friends as excellent examples of the more progressive type of business people who have aided in the growth and development of Clovis and the surrounding country.

Ray Wiggins

One of the more conscientious businessmen of Clovis, and one who deserves the respect and good will of a great many residents of the city, is capable, friendly, Ray Wiggins of the Wiggins Plumbing Company, whose wide knowledge and long experience in the plumbing contracting business has raised him into a position of prominence in his line.

It is because of this that the Wiggins Plumbing Company has earned a reputation for reliability -- second to none.

Mr. Wiggins is also civic-minded, and has always been ready to contribute his time and energy to any plan which promises to benefit this entire district. And the people of Clovis may regard with particular satisfaction the many services which he has performed in the interest of progress and civic betterment.

We urge our readers to look to Ray Wiggins as a dependable businessman of whom we may well be proud. His devotion to the city has been constant, and his achievements well merited. We wish for him further success.

Wilma Bussell

In order to serve the public honestly, efficiently, and cheerfully, is the basic foundation many progressive businessmen and women of Clovis have found to be the shortest route to success. In making this statement, the one we have in mind is Wilma Bussell of Wilma's Draperies. The popularity and patronage enjoyed by her many services accentuates the ideals of courtesy and efficiency which she has consistently applied in the management of the business, and in the servicing of its customers.

The conduct of such businesses, and those who operate them have done much to make Clovis the business center for many miles around, and it is fitting that we give credit where credit is due to such women as Mrs. Bussell for her part in the onward progress of the city. In so doing, we are merely putting into words the opinions of those who know her.

Wilma Bussell has earned her success by the method in which she has served the public, and accepted both civic and business responsibilities, and we wish her every success in the future.

Ray Bauer

It is a privilege in this Clovis review of progressive men and firms that have been such a great aid to the growth and development of this region, to place such a man as Ray Bauer of the Bauer Auto Supply, on an equal plane with all others in this rank. In the past, few men have exceeded him in contributing of their time and energy to the onward progress of Clovis and the surrounding country.

Mr. Bauer is generally recognized as one of the more dependable automotive parts and supply dealers in this district, and he retains that distinction in the admiration and respect of his wide circle of friends. Also his interest in, and the very valuable assistance he has rendered to the many projects of a civic nature, reflect the principles which he has always so successfully applied to his business affairs.

We congratulate Ray Bauer on his record, and sincerely hope that his career will be as useful, and completely successful in the years ahead as it has been in the past.

Leonard A. Carlson

Recognized as one of the more progressive businessmen of Clovis, Leonard A. Carlson of Carlson's Shoes, performs a real service for the people of the city, and his contributions to civic betterment are too well known to require repetition in these columns. His personal success has been achieved in a large measure, because he never misses an opportunity to further the service he renders to the public. A policy which has, and continues to build up good will for Carlson's Shoes throughout this entire area.

Mr. Carlson is deserving of praise, and this brief tribute is but a just recognition for the many services which he has performed in the way of both civic and business activities. Also, his reputation for the successful conduct of his business affairs, is no greater than his reputation for the honest practices which characterize his every transaction.

We congratulate Leonard Carlson on his splendid record, and trust he shall continue to serve the people of Clovis and vicinity.

James M. Hamilton

There are a number of businessmen in Clovis who have gained recognition for their dependability, and a well-known insurance counselor who belongs in this category is James M. Hamilton of the Hamilton Insurance Agency, whose fair dealings with many of our readers has earned for him a host of friends and policy holders throughout this area.

He is well established in the forefront of the business life of the city, and the ethical manner in which he has conducted his business affairs is but one of the reasons for his outstanding success.

In addition to his insurance activities, Mr. Hamilton has also accepted his share of responsibility in aiding civic projects. As a result of the combined efforts of men like him, Clovis is firmly established in the minds of the people as the logical business center of this section.

We congratulate James Hamilton for his success in business, and trust he will continue for many years to enjoy that success which he has so justly earned.

P. B. Bragg

Clovis owes much to those progressive citizens who have taken an active part in the growth and progress of the city, and who have helped to make it the business center for this section. In mentioning some of those men, it is only fair to include P. B. Bragg of the Pearl B. Bragg Well Service & Supply Company, authorized Dempster Sales & Service, whose outstanding knowledge of the business, backed up by his many years of experience, has brought him to the forefront in his particular field.

Mr. Bragg has improvised a baling unit for cleaning out new domestic wells for submersible pumps which has proved to be entirely successful in each and every respect, and met with the approval of those who have experienced its operation.

The honest and successful conduct of his business affairs is not only a reflection of his character, but has also been a strong factor in maintaining him in a position of leadership in his field of endeavor.

We trust that P. B. Bragg will continue to serve the people of Clovis and the surrounding area for many years to come.

Warren M. Goldman

Clovis has attained a prominent position in the business and commercial life of this section because of the foresight of those men who had the ability to envision the possibilities of the community, and the trade area it serves. And a wide awake progressive man who justly should be included in this category is Warren M. Goldman of the Curry County Meat Company.

Such men have, many times over, proven their worth to the community, both as business executives, and as active workers in the civic betterment and progress of the city, and Mr. Goldman has earned the good will and respect of his fellow citizens for contributing his bit to the general welfare of the city, as well as the surrounding region.

It is our duty to include Warren Goldman in that group of dependable and civic-minded men who are doing so much for Clovis, and to express the wish that he will continue for many years to forge ahead with the success which he has enjoyed in the past.

John T. Eagling

It is a well-known fact that a man's true character must come through in his work; whether in business or professional activities or in public life. So when a man conducts himself in such a manner as to cause the public to recognize in him, certain qualities over and above the average, he is deserving of a few words of praise. Such a personality is John T. Eagling of the Pax Key Shop, a leader in the business and commercial life of Clovis.

In addition to being one of the city's more progressive businessmen, Mr. Eagling was never one to shirk his civic duties. More than that, he enters cheerfully, and with enthusiasm and optimism into those civic affairs in which he has time to take a part, and seldom does he fail to find time to do his share.

John Eagling deserves his share of credit for being one of those dependable citizens of Clovis who has contributed so substantially to the onward progress of the city. It is a pleasure to include him in this group.

Tom Harden Jr.

We wish in this edition to pay tribute to Tom Harden Jr., of the Twin Cronnie Drive Inn, for his many services to the city of Clovis, and his splendid record of achievements in the business life of the city.

Mr. Harden probably has as wide a circle of friends as any other man we could name, because he is just naturally the kind of individual who makes friends with almost everyone, and always conducts himself in such a manner as to deserve the respect and good will of all who know him. Clovis is fortunate in being able to number among its more progressive businessmen, citizens of this type.

He is always ready and willing to lend his support to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit this entire district.

He may be depended upon, and his services to the people are too numerous to be described here. It may be sufficient to say that we consider Tom Harden Jr., an asset to the community, and a competent businessman of whom the city may be proud.

Mr. And Mrs. C. N. Barnes

It is not always the kind of a business which determines its importance to the community. But, more or less, the methods used in its management. The services rendered to the public, and the manner in which it meets all business and civic obligations.

The cheerfulness of the entire personnel of Barnes Cleaners, in their contacts with the public. And the ready acceptance of all business responsibilities by Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Barnes, proves conclusively that they are people who are well-versed in the principles of successful business management.

As most people know, this firm is a leader in the dry cleaning business. This is largely so because of their long experience, but also because of a never ending policy of keeping abreast of the times in their particular field.

It is a pleasure to compliment Mr. and Mrs. Barnes for the successful operation and management of the business, and also for their many contributions to those civic projects aiding in the growth and development of Clovis and the adjacent territory.

C. W. Burkett

It is because of the unflinching optimism and faith which he so consistently displays toward the future of Clovis and vicinity, that we are prompted to call the attention of our readers to the fine service which C. W. Burkett of the Burkett Moving & Storage Company Incorporated, Aero Mayflower Transit Agency, performs in the successful conduct of his business.

Mr. Burkett is an aggressive and resourceful personality, whose progressive policies have earned for him a widespread reputation as a business man of more than average ability; and his apparent willingness to devote some of that ability to the promotion of civic activities, further enhances his value to the city.

The safety and efficiency of the operations of the Burkett Moving & Storage Company, reflecting as it does the executive ability of this man, has earned for the company a well deserved popularity among the people they serve. We are glad to give C. W. Burkett the credit he so well deserves for his achievements, and to wish for him a continued successful career as one of Clovis' more progressive businessmen.

Mrs. Paul "Pat" Williams

In mentioning some of those who are taking a progressive part in the evolution of the business and civic life of Clovis, we would be censured if we failed to include Mrs. Paul "Pat" Williams of PA'DOR, a firm that is recognized as a leader in ladies fine furnishings. The 1/2 price sale is now in progress on all items to make room for fall merchandise arriving daily.

Mrs. Williams, as well as the personnel of PA'DOR are those solid type of citizens whose fairness and friendliness and sincere desire to be of service are accountable for a large measure of her success. And as time goes on, her personal interests have become more closely interwoven with the business and civic affairs of the city. As a result she has, quite naturally, become accepted as a woman who can be called upon, and who will cheerfully do her part to further the development of those community activities to which she is best fitted to lend assistance.

"Pat" Williams has, by the conduct of her business, and by her attention to civic affairs, earned the friendship and good will of her many customers. She is to be complimented for her activities, and we only express the desire of her many friends and associates in wishing her continued success.

Moore Family Holds Reunion

The seven children of Mrs. Hattie Moore and the late Charlie Moore recently held a family reunion in this area. This was the first time the entire family had been together since 1933. Out-of-town guests arrived Sunday afternoon, June 26, and six of the children attended church services with Mrs. Moore that evening. Activities formally began with a picnic at Hillcrest Park in Clovis, Monday evening, June 27.

Tuesday, all seven children and Mrs. Moore gathered at the home of the oldest daughter, Mrs. Vada Smith, in the West Camp community. Family members, seated in the family room of the Smith home, were feted with a luncheon served by Mrs. Duane Herington, a daughter-in-law of Mrs. Smith. Tuesday evening, family members enjoyed a weiner roast at Mrs. Smith's home. The reunion closed on Thursday, June 30, with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Hazel Spearman in Clovis. Movie pictures were taken and family members met at Sass Studio in Clovis where they sat for a family portrait. The Moore family settled in the Rhea community in 1916, moving here from Nolan County, Texas. Later, the family lived at various locations south of Texico and in Farwell. Mr. and Mrs. Moore later homesteaded on land near Quemado, N.M., and also lived in Bayard and Raton, before his death.

Family members and guests visiting in the Smith home were Hermon Moore, Woodinville, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moore, Thyra Lynn, Danny, and Jimmy, Bellflower, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Spearman, Clovis (Mrs. Spearman is the former Hazel Moore); Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Moore and Jeff, Carnation, Wash.; Mrs. Leola Mayo and Marveta, Ruidoso; Mrs. Ferne Malone, Wadetta, Deryl, and Kevin, Surprise, Ariz.; and Mrs. Hattie Moore, Clovis.

Also Mrs. Zelma Stancell, Monard, Merlene, Gaylon, Clint, Sandra, and Bruce, Pineville, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Herington, Carolyn, Rodney, Keith, and Randy, Farwell; Mr. and Mrs. Duane Herington and Stanley, Farwell; Mrs. Beatrice Vinson, Muleshoe; Ronnie and Spencer Smith, and the hostess, Mrs. Vada Smith.

Dress Revue Set July 14, In Bovina

The Parmer County 4-H formal dress revue will be held Thursday, July 14, 8 p.m. in the Bovina High School Auditorium.

Judging of the dresses and record books will be held in the District Court Room in Parmer County Courthouse in Farwell July 11 at 9 a.m. Girls will bring their record books as they come to have their garments judged.

The Dress Revue is the achievement event for all 4-H girls enrolled in clothing projects groups. Its objective is to help build self-confidence and poise through developing understanding of "self". Also how to plan, select and construct clothing for different occasions and suitable for the individual personality.

Seaman Smith Visits With Local Sister

Seaman Apprentice Murrell Smith who has been stationed in San Diego, but who will be on sea duty out of Long Beach when he returns to his Naval Base next week, has been a visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Curtis and children this week.

He was accompanied to Farwell by his mother, Mrs. Ann Smith of Albuquerque.

They have also visited with several other friends and relatives in the area.

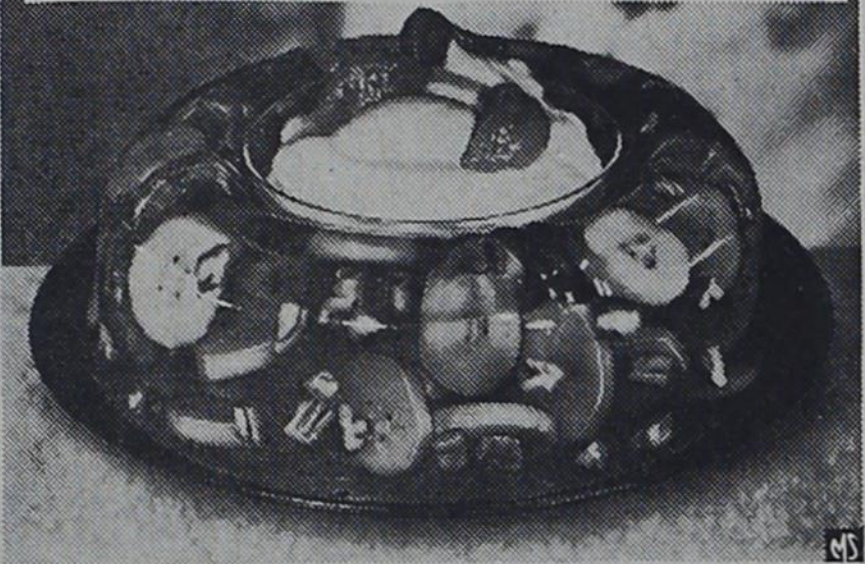

HOW TO JOIN A SKIRT AND BODICE -- Joyce White shows Bessie Bowery how to properly match notches in joining a skirt and bodice in making a dress, in Unit III of the 4-H clothing project. Instructor for the clothing project is Mrs. Katherine White. The girls are members of the Farwell Lucky Clover 4-H Club.

REFRESHING RING

MOLDED FRUIT CAROUSEL

- 2 packages (3 oz. each) Jell-O Orange-Banana Gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 can (11 oz.) mandarin orange sections
- 1 1/2 cups (about) cold water
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans
- 2 bananas, sliced
- 1 cup heavy cream
- 2 tablespoons slivered candied ginger (optional)

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Drain orange sections, measuring syrup. Add water to syrup to make 2 cups; add to gelatin. Chill gelatin until thickened. Then fold in nuts and bananas. Pour into 1 1/2-quart mold. Chill until firm—at least 3 hours. Chop the orange sections, setting aside several sections to use as garnish. Whip cream; fold in chopped oranges and ginger. Chill. To serve, unmold ring. Place whipped cream mixture in center and garnish with reserved orange sections. Makes 8 servings.
