

Soil Fertility Tests In Progress

Agriculturists, agronomists, county agricultural agents and other interested persons made a tour of farms in Castro, Bailey and Parmer counties Tuesday to see the results of soil fertility tests which is now in progress. The tests are being conducted by South Plains Research and Extension Center in Lubbock and the Southwestern Great Plains Research Center at Bushland in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service and farmers in the area.

The three Parmer County tests, on the farms of Keith Brock, Parmerton; Donald Christian, east of Lariat; and John Christian, east of Farwell; are all being conducted on grain sorghum.

The tests at the Brock farm and the Donald Christian farm are five-year rate tests showing the use of nitrogen-phosphorus-potash-sulfur-iron fertilizer on grain sorghum, while the John Christian test is a three-year test being conducted to show the varying grain sorghum yields resulting from application of nitrogen fertilizer at different times on an Amarillo fine sandy loam soil.

Yields will be obtained from all test plots with the results to be studied, Joe VanZandt, County Agricultural agent says, "We may be surprised at the yields resulting from fertilizer applied at different times." On the Donald Christian farm and the Brock farm the tests have been set up primarily to study in detail the phosphate carry-over and buildup on land which had not previously received applications of phosphate fertilizer.

This is the first year for all of the tests, according to Van Zandt.

STUDY GRAIN SORGHUM -- Wendel Robertson, agronomist with the Southwestern Great Plains Research station at Bushland, County Agent Joe VanZandt, and FHA Supervisor Bill Boling, examine grain sorghum on the John Christian farm, which is one of the plots where a test is being conducted to determine the yield of grain sorghum from Amarillo sandy loam soil which has been fertilized with nitrogen at different times.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE -- Martin Kube, Art Onken, agronomist for the South Plains Research and Extension Service in Lubbock, and Keith Brock, pause to compare notes on the difference made by the application of nitrogen-phosphorus-potash-sulfur-iron fertilizer, on land which had not been previously fertilized. The test is being conducted on the Donald Christian farm at Lariat.

Budget Hearing

Budget hearing for the Farwell Independent School District has been set for Monday night, August 8, 8 p.m. in the office of Supt. W. M. Roberts.

All persons who are interested in discussing the budget should be present at this meeting, says Supt. Roberts.

Don't forget the annual ESA rummage sales are scheduled to begin this Saturday, August 6. They will be held each Saturday afternoon, 3-5 p.m., in the old ESA building, and the remainder of the summer.

The rummage sales are held each year as a fund-raising event by the civic organization, whose chief project is aid to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Mrs. Frank Hammonds invites anyone having rummage to donate to the organization to call her and the items will be picked up. In charge of the sale this week are Mrs. Hammonds, Mrs. Ed Farmer and Mrs. Bobby Joe Crume.

SURELY PERSONAL

By John

One of our readers brought us a letter from Chief Warrant Officer Erling H. Erlandson who is stationed in Cu Chi, Viet Nam. It seems that sometime ago, the students of Clovis Senior High School collected paperback pocket books to send to the troops in Viet Nam. We apparently had some local folks who contributed to the book drive.

The letter from CWO Erlandson to one of our local residents follows:

Dear Sir: Several days ago I observed with enjoyment a large group of soldiers crowding around a box of pocket books which had been placed near our mess tent after the supper meal. I wish you could have heard all the exclamations of delight as the young men grabbed for titles that they found appealing.

And tonight I found your name in one of those books along with the stamp of Clovis Senior High School.

It would be difficult to exaggerate the good that your contribution achieved in raising the spirits of many of our soldiers. Perhaps if you and the students of Clovis High School had been in a position to witness the enthusiasm which greeted your fine gift collection of books, you might have felt repaid for your generosity.

Your thoughtful gift is one that we have found to be especially meaningful in the circumstances in which we find ourselves here in Viet Nam. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Erling H. Erlandson, CWO

Our reader thanks CWO Erlandson for the very articulate letter of thanks. We on the home front are always happy to receive letters about the conditions our fighting men find in Viet Nam and we are especially appreciative of letters telling us our contributions are appreciated and that they do the job which we intend for them to be doing.

I know from experience that many times the ideas of home folks do not coincide with the men in the field and often times, well-meaning efforts on the home front fall far short of actually accomplishing that which they were intended. As this conflict drags on, possibly our local schools could engage in some worthwhile activity designed to help our overseas soldiers. Apparently we are going to have plenty of time in which to get something done.

We received a release from the High Plains Research Foundation the other day concerning the Foundation Farming System they have developed and are plugging here on the high and dry plains. This system is designed around the interplanting of row crops such as cotton, grain sorghum, forage sorghum, castor beans, etc. The data released this spring on 1965 test plots was very impressive and makes us anxious to read of the 1966 data.

In the meantime, of the seven cooperating farm demonstrations, the nearest to us is the farm of Ed Wuerflein northeast of Muleshoe in the Pleasant Valley community. It would be worth a few hours time to run down to see this farm or better still, go to the Tenth Annual Field Day of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway on Thursday, Sept. 8.

This system of interplanting is felt to be a real breakthrough in farming systems for our area. We still have abundant water and will have for some time in the future. But, look what it would be in Parmer County this year if we were depending on natural rainfall. Brother, it is dry here right now.

In later years we may have to curtail indiscriminate use of crop water and such systems as this could well be the economic savior of the Texas plains. A day spent in learning and evaluation could well be one of the most profitable of your life. Hope to see you on September 8th at Halfway.

STAMP OF APPROVAL -- Walter Haws, Bill Christian, and Morgan Billington, officers of the Texico Chamber of Commerce, give their "stamp of approval" to the brochures which were recently received by the Chamber. The brochures have been placed in the hands of individuals for distribution.

Chamber Accepts Brochures

At the Monday night meeting of the Texico Chamber of Commerce, brochures which had been ordered 45 days ago were examined and distributed to members for distribution to local business firms, and individuals. Some of the brochures will also be mailed to other towns and placed in the hands of tourists.

The brochures tell something of the town and its surrounding area and it is hoped that they will not only draw many tourists to the area, but will also create interest of businesses looking for a new location.

Jim Pierce was chairman of the committee which drew up the brochure. Other committee members were Stanton Thigpen, LeRoy Faville, and Roy Harvey Snodgrass.

Elmer Teel, chairman of the street sign committee, reported that arrangements have been made to secure forms to build

Rogers Declines To Run For Nomination

In a telegram to the State Line Tribune this week, Walter Rogers, Congressman from the 18th District, announced his withdrawal from the race for nomination for return to the office.

The telegram read, "With deep regret and after exhaustive and careful consideration of all factors, I have decided to decline the nomination to appear on the ballot in the general election in November. It is my intention to reenter the private practice of law at the end of this term of Congress. The great wealth of able and qualified individuals of the true American tradition in the Panhandle of Texas should enable the Democratic party to choose another nominee for this position in accordance with the law and in ample time for such nominee to conduct a highly successful campaign."

WALTER ROGERS

The 30 Democratic county chairmen in the 18th Congressional District will meet, likely this week, to choose their party's nominee. The nominee will then oppose Bob Price, Pampa Republican, in the November 8 general election.

Monsanto Opens New Agricultural Center

Monsanto Company's Agricultural Division today reported construction underway at Farwell, of a modern fertilizer, custom-blend plant to be completed shortly.

Ammonium nitrate, phosphate and potash materials will be available separately or as custom blends in either bulk quantities or 50-pound bags. In addition to the dry plant food materials, the agricultural center will handle direct application ammonia.

Named to manage the new facility is Glenn D. Marsh formerly of Pharr. Marsh holds a BS degree in agriculture from the University of Nebraska (1965). Prior to taking his new position, Marsh was employed as a territory manager for FMC Corporation in McAllen.

Mr. and Mrs. Marsh and daughters, Cary, 7, and Kimberly, 4 1/2, are making their home at 903 5th Street.

Plant foreman will be Jimmy Walker, a native of Farwell, who has recently been attending college at South Plains College in Levelland. Walker and his wife are making their home in the Chevy Chase Apartments in Farwell.

No definite opening date has been set for the plant; however, Marsh indicated that it will be in the near future, as soon as construction is completed.

Work continues on the Monsanto Agricultural Center, east of Farwell. The plant is scheduled to open in the near future. Glenn Marsh is manager of the plant and Jimmy Walker is plant foreman.

County Commissioners, Town Fathers Reach Agreement

At the regular meeting of Farwell city fathers on Friday, members of the Parmer County Commissioners met with them to work out an agreeable rate for water used in watering the court yard north of courthouse which has recently been seeded to grass.

After some discussion commissioners, Guy Cox, Tom Lowellen and George Crain, and city fathers reached an agreement wherein a meter is to be installed and the county pay for the water used at cost. In return, the commissioners agreed that no water would be used during the hours when there is a water shortage in town or when other consumers are using the water.

One resident came to complain that the town is badly in need of spraying for mosquitoes. He was informed that the town has been sprayed at least four times this summer and will continue to be sprayed (at least five or six times) during the remainder of the summer. In answer to a question as to why it is not sprayed more often he was informed that the procedure is quite expensive.

A building permit was issued for Mrs. D. W. Carpenter to move in a house for residence on 6th Street.

All other business was routine.

Football Practice Begins August 15

Regular workouts for the Farwell High School football squad are scheduled to get underway on August 15. Practice sessions will be held twice daily, at 8:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., announces Coach Toby Booth.

In commenting on team prospects for this year, Coach Booth said, "This is the year of the Steers!" The squad will be out to beat last year's record of 6-4. Assisting Coach Booth in the workouts and coaching duties are Coaches Bill Adams, Vernon Scott and Jerry Dee Owen.

Editorial

by Mike Getz

Black, White, Black, White --

Ah, the Autumn of the year is again approaching. With the passing of July, the summer nears its end, and with the termination of summer, all young men's thoughts turn to that magnificent event that seems destined to occur every other year in this great land of brotherly love. That's right, it's civil rights time again.

We are about to be blessed with the fifth civil rights bill in nine years. Once again (just preceding Congressional elections oddly enough), our elected representatives are about to don their legislative armor, rise up and smite down bigotry, discrimination, prejudice, poverty, unemployment, poor health, slums, drought, fleas, and maybe even that evil of evils, the John Birch Society. How is all this possible you say? With one mighty sweep of the legislative pen, Congress will enact the cure of all ills, another civil rights bill. If there be any doubters among you on the value of civil rights legislation, you have only to look at the record.

Before the passing of the first civil rights bill, our racial woes were pretty much restricted to the southern areas. A few cities in the South were hogging all the glory for themselves. Now, four civil rights bills later, look at the progress that has been made, Baltimore, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Los Angeles and many other non-southern cities have been able to obtain their own civil rights celebrations, and what festive affairs they have been.

The agenda contains such family sports as molotov cocktail hurling contests, scavenger hunts (the contestant bringing back the most stolen loot in a three-hour period is declared the winner), cop rolling contests, car burning competition, sharpshooting, and stolen watermelon eating contests. Progress sure is wonderful.

But let us not rest on the strength of past accomplishments. Much is still to be done. Paul Crume's Big D column in the Dallas Morning News called my attention to a great social wrong that must be corrected. Despite all the social progress of the last few years, says this gentleman, lies are still classified into white lies and black lies. He says that it is high time Congress or somebody got busy integrating lies. In our modern high-powered society, separate but equal lies will no longer do.

It has been my own observation that a great injustice also exists in the law enforcement field. By far, the majority of policemen drive white cars. The police car fleet must be integrated. Let Congress enact a law stating that at least as many black cars must be purchased by the police as white cars. I have noticed however that the New Mexico State Police are one jump ahead of the lawmakers. They are purchasing white cars with black doors. A splendid example of non-prejudice in the police car field.

Nursery rhymes must also be rewritten. Consider the case of the three pigs. One had a house of straw, one had a house of sticks, and the other had a house of bricks. This will never do. All three pigs must have equal housing facilities. Otherwise the two pigs with the obviously inferior houses will develop persecution complexes and may be disposed to riot.

Before we have truly achieved an integrated Utopia, one last major injustice must be corrected. It has been brought to my attention that some zebras have more white stripes than black stripes. This flagrant example of racial prejudice must not be allowed to continue. Tax money must be provided for the purchase of black paint so that all zebras may have an equal number of black and white stripes.

If the current trend continues, it is my calculation that by the year 5000, a total of 1517 civil rights bills will have been enacted. By that time, all of our racial difficulties will have surely been legislated away. Of course there's still the matter of white sugar and brown sugar.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By JOE VANZANDT
County Agent

This will be my last news article for Parmer County folks and we would like to share a few of our own personal ideas about Parmer County Agriculture.

This area is blessed with some of the best crop growing soil. Generally speaking our water supply has been good up to now. Also insects and diseases are light in nature, especially when compared to other areas.

We all know how fast our water level is dropping, 3 to 4 feet per year. So we know our water supply is declining and getting more expensive to pump.

The water supply is the whole foundation of our present economy in this area. We know many farmers have a hard time irrigating without losing some tailwater. However, have you stopped to think how good that tailwater might look to someone in 20 years?

We believe Parmer County has some of the best farmers to be found anywhere and I challenge each of you to figure out how you can water your crops more efficiently in the future.

Efficiency and management go hand in hand and are the tools successful farmers will use in the future. If you don't use these two tools all day, someone will come along that can, and will take your place.

Summer 4-H Camp is over. The 4-H'ers had a wonderful time exploring the mountains, wading in the stream, hiking and having fun with friends. The adults enjoyed just loafing and eating. The men did the cooking and all the work and did the women in campenjoythis? They did indeed. One woman was heard to say "I wish they would let us help." - because she felt bored and useless but all the others were very pleased and content to let the men reign over the "cook tent." The food was fine - no better fried chicken could be found in the kitchen of even the best cook of the female homemaker. James Mabry of Lazbuddie was the "Chef" and with such competent helper cooks as Joel White, and others, they really put out good eats.

VACATION TIME - the month of August the office personnel will be taking vacations and attending the State Extension Conference at A&M August 29-September 2.

The only other event left for 4-H'ers this summer is the County Bake Show Contest, sponsored by Grain Growers Association. This will be held August 25 at 2 p.m. in the Bovina Bank Community Room. Girls will compete for top honors for County Bake Show products will be two-crust fruit pies and batter rolls.

USE BOILING WATER BATH FOR PICKLES - Pickles made now from garden-fresh produce promise taste treats when cold weather comes this winter. Pick the top quality vegetables and fruits for pickles and relishes. Preserve the taste, color and texture or freshness with the best possible pickling method. Heat process all pickle products with the boiling water bath, suggest Extension foods and nutrition specialists at Texas A&M University. Pickles require heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage. Another reason is to halt the action of enzymes that may affect the flavor, texture and color. This adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars of pickles in a boiling water bath.

Needed: Two Teachers

A. D. McDonald, superintendent of the Texico school, announces that two vacancies still exist on the faculty. The school is in need of a Spanish-English teacher and an elementary teacher.

The school also has one vacancy on the lunchroom staff. Mrs. Sam Hukill, an employee for the past several years in the lunchroom, has resigned to move with her family to Melbourne. Other members of the lunchroom staff are Mrs. A. B. Bell, supervisor, Mrs. Nora Day and Mrs. Paul Huber.

Opening date of school in Texico is August 29, with buses to run at the regular time and return students home by middle of the afternoon. All students will register on the first day of school, says McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dollar and children, Polly, Natalie and Dennis, spent last week vacationing at Red River and Colorado Springs.

Kay And Gary Singleterry Tell Of Life In Costa Rica

"Life in Costa Rica is like living in another world," stated Gary Singleterry who has only recently returned to Texico from a year spent in that Central American country.

Singleterry, upon completion of studies at Eastern New Mexico University where he received a bachelor degree in Spanish and English, applied for and was granted a Fulbright scholarship to study Spanish in Costa Rica.

He and his wife, Kay, left the United States by jet on June 30, 1965 and arrived in San Jose, Costa Rica, the next day. They arrived just in time for the winter vacation at the university where Singleterry was to study for the next year. This vacation coincided with the winter vacation at the Country Day School where Mrs. Singleterry was to teach for the next year.

Much of their first month in the Central American country was spent in getting acquainted with the area and trying to find a place to live. They finally found an apartment (modern) with hot water in the shower and electricity, complete with a private patio for $90 per month. Dishes and clothes must either be washed in cold water or water carried from the shower to the kitchen.

The apartment had a pila (for washing clothes), Mrs. Singleterry described the pila as a deep concrete vat made in three parts. One of the parts was for scrubbing the clothes, (no rub-board), the middle section was for holding water and clothes could be rinsed in the other side. She confesses that she never learned to use the pila successfully, but instead washed her clothes in the kitchen sink. Public wash houses or laundries were made in this manner also. The richer class of people had maids to do their washing, says Mrs. Singleterry.

Foods in Costa Rica were also much different to those in the United States. The Singleterrys found that some of the main foods which are consumed by the Costa Ricans are green bananas (not the type we see in local markets) used for boiling or frying, mangos, papayas, palmetos (palm hearts) pejaville (palm nuts) rice and black beans.

Rice and black beans are the main foods eaten by the natives (rich or poor). They are served in some form at all meals each day, even for breakfast. Fresh fruits and vegetables are available in all of the markets at all times since San Jose is in the mountains and the climate is never lower than 70-80 degrees during the entire year making it possible to grow vegetables at any time.

Meats are also plentiful in the country, with chicken the most expensive meat to be found in Costa Rica. Deep sea fish are abundant and quite inexpensive. They are also delicious, stated both Mr. and Mrs. Singleterry who found the food in Costa Rica to their liking.

Since Singleterry had gone to Costa Rica to study, he found many friends among the natives of the country in order that he might better learn to speak their language. However, he says there were many Americans in the country, both businessmen and students. Each year, 15 students from the University of Kansas go to Costa Rica to study Spanish.

The people were quite friendly and would go out of their way to be of assistance to you, said Singleterry, who added, "they are quite interested in the American news, especially the space program and Viet Nam. I do believe that they had more news about what was going on in the United States than they did local news," he said. One of his favorite comic strips while in Costa Rica was that of "Blondie and Dagwood" written in Spanish.

Farming in the area is done by hand with machetes (a knife like tool) used for cultivating and harvesting the main crops, coffee and bananas. Contrary to what most people have been led to believe, the banana is grown not on a tree, but on a plant which grows to a height of some 20 feet.

Most farming is on large plantations with whole family groups living on the same farm. Much hired help is also used by the landowners who are primarily of the upper class. The landowners live on the farms in the vacation season, but live in town the rest of the time, stated the Singleterrys. Most of the homes are cement block with tin roofs. They must be sturdy to withstand the earth tremors which are common to the area.

"The first tremor we felt almost frightened us to death," said Kay and Gary, but they explained that one soon grows accustomed to the tremors and pays little or no attention to them after living in Costa Rica for a short while. The volcanos were something they never became accustomed to although there was no eruption of one while they were in the area, they lived in constant fear that one "might." The last large eruption was in 1960, however volcanic ash fell on San Jose for many years following this time, say the young couple. Business buildings in Costa Rica are either quite old or of the most modern type. However there are no roads in some areas of the country and if one wishes to travel he must either go by train or plane. Travel is necessarily slow, but the young couple were able to make several tours during the long summer vacation, January-March, and during the winter vacation, June-August.

The country is made especially beautiful by the abundance of flowers, wild and cultivated, and fountains which are in all of the larger towns. Most picturesque are the oxcarts which are the mode of travel. Although there are some compact cars, they are not plentiful. The most common means of travel is by bike, scooter, oxcart or bus.

Bus travel is quite inexpensive, says Singleterry who tells of riding the city bus to and from school each day for six cents. One could take a taxi anywhere in the city for 30-40 cents. Gas is quite expensive and the streets narrow, therefore it would hardly be possible for anyone to use a larger car in the area.

One of the most amazing things about the climate and the country was the amount of rainfall, 100-125 inches per year. Although it rained almost every day for nine months of the year (May through January) it was never muddy as the volcanic ash soaked up the water almost as soon as it fell.

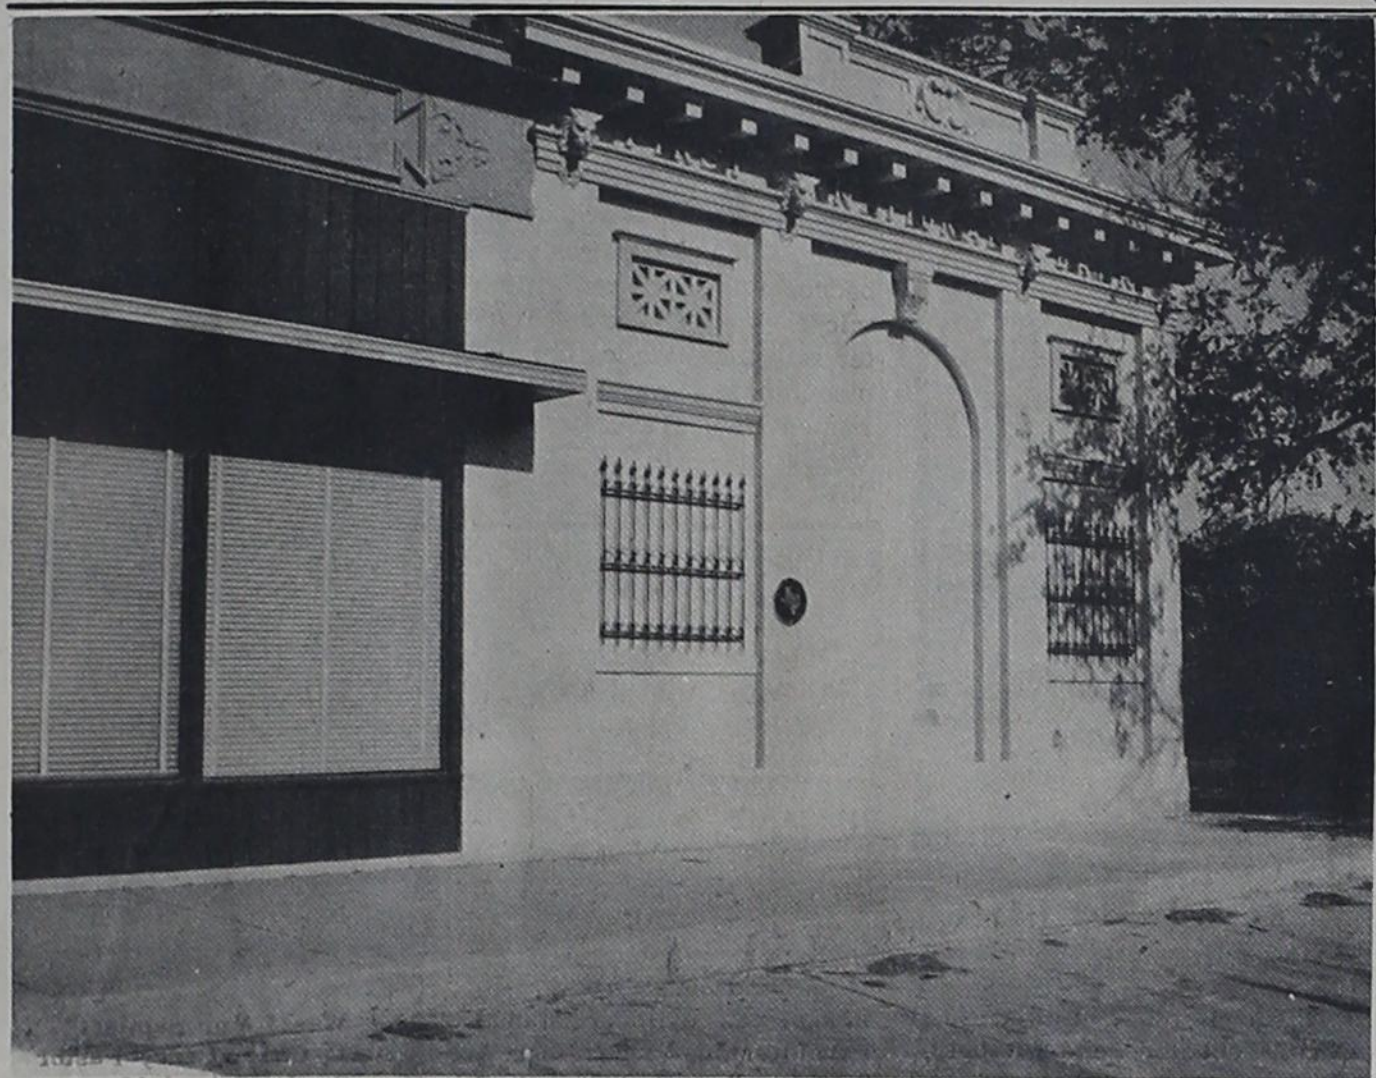

The people in that area are quite proud of the fact that they have more school teachers than Army men. In fact they have no Army as such, but simply a police force. The people are mild mannered and of a non-violent nature. All foreigners are called "macho" or "gringo" which means "blondie" or "Yankee."

All in all it was quite an enjoyable year for the young couple and they say, "we would like to return there someday."

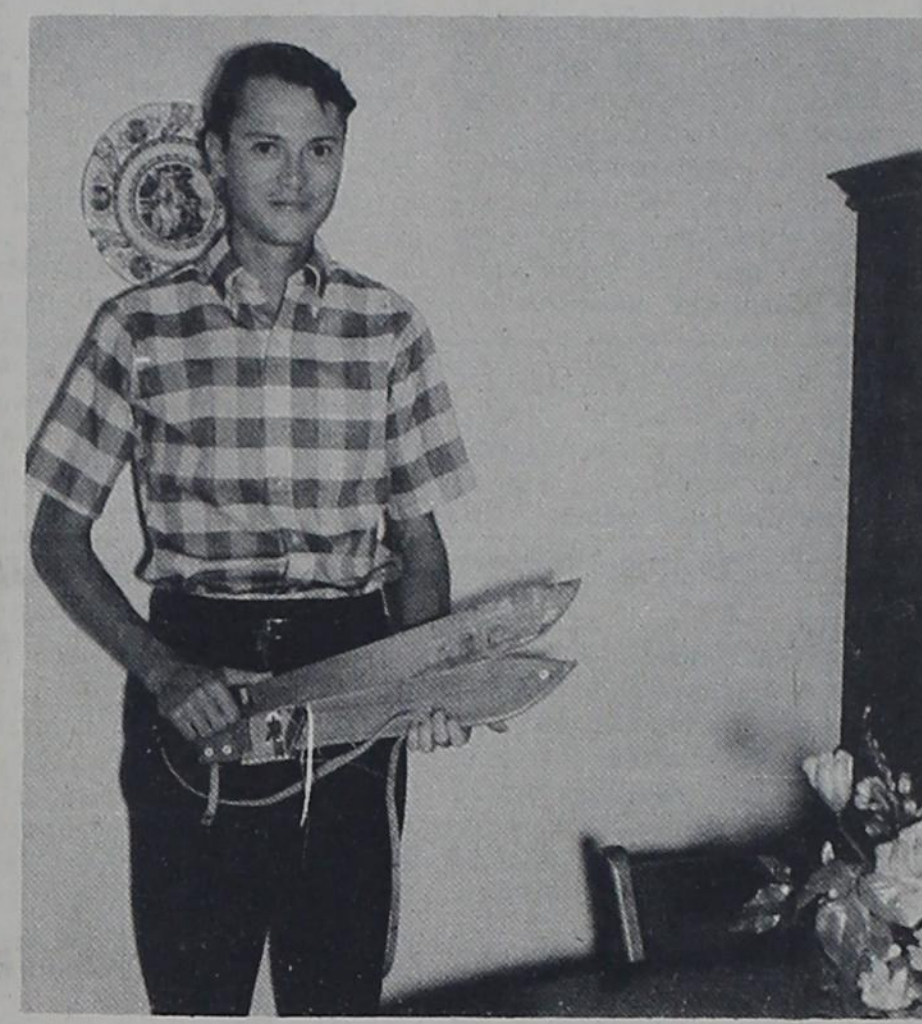

Mr. and Mrs. Singleterry are spending the summer with his mother, Mrs. Lucille Singleterry, but come fall they will be in Albuquerque where Gary will do graduate study at the University of New Mexico and Kay will teach in one of the elementary schools.

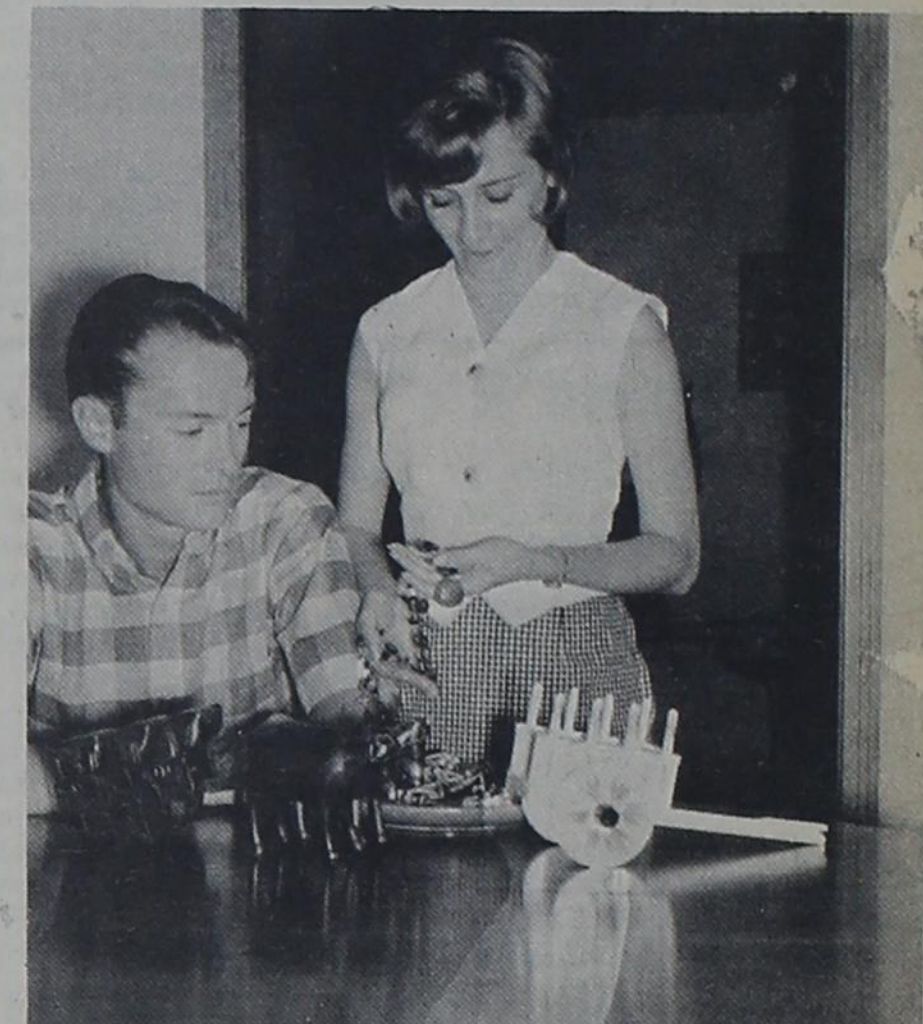

A familiar sight to travelers in Costa Rica is that of laborers turning the coffee beans. Beans must be kept turned until they are completely dry. All of the work is done by hand.

OFF WITH THE OLD - ON WITH THE NEW - Remodeling work has been completed on the old First National Bank building in Farwell, one of the oldest and most historic buildings in the county. Outside of the building has been painted ivory colored with blue trim. Front view of the building shows the old "historical marker" adjacent to the front door which has been "bricked in." Side view of the building depicts the iron grill work which is in use at the windows which have also been bricked in. Door in the side view enters the office of Hamlin Overstreet who has had offices in the building for many years. The building also houses the law library and additional office space for the Aldridge-Aldridge-Harding firm.

"Machetes are used for almost everything in Costa Rica including cultivating crops - or peeling a coconut," stated Gary Singleterry as he displayed one of the vicious looking tools to a guest. Singleterry recently returned from Costa Rica after attending the University of Costa Rica for a year on a Fulbright Scholarship.

Miniature oxcart replicas and necklaces made from seeds which were presented to Kay Singleterry by children whom she taught in the "Country Day School" are examined by Kay and her husband, Gary. Children in the private school are children of American businessmen, missionaries and government employees.

AGRICULTURAL BRIEF

Texas farmers and ranchers received $635.8 million during the first quarter of 1966 from the sale of all crops, livestock and livestock products, reported the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The receipts were up 21 percent from the same quarter in 1965 and were split almost equally between crops and livestock—$318.8 million from crop sales and $317 million from livestock and livestock products.

POW! ZAP! SMACK! 007 to Batman to Superman... Are you ready for the latest sensation? Wallpaper? You must be kidding?

The United Wallpaper Company of Chicago isn't... it's the latest trend in novelty wallcoverings... comic strips, James Bond, pop and op art... your favorites such as Batman, Superman, Mandrake the Magician and secret agent 007 done up in colorful fashion... prepared for ease of hanging and in the case of Batman, strippable. This means that if you wish a change from Batman and Robin, or for that matter, from 007 to Superman, you can remove the vinyl wallcloth easily—simply pulling it from the wall whole sections at one time.

These three new patterns are featured in United's new Femi-nique Collection now available at retail paint and wallpaper dealers. Pop and Op art are part of the new TRIMZ collection of pre-pasted wallpapers. Both collections are vinylcoated for scrubability and are budget-priced. The tough vinyl coat means these products can be installed freely in children's rooms where rough wear is expected.

If you've thrilled to the exploits of James Bond in "Goldfinger" and "Thunderball," you'll particularly enjoy the heady designs of the new wallcovering in his honor featuring Sean Connery. Batman and Robin are nearly big as life in all their comic strip bravado, while Superman flexes his muscles and brings evil-doers to justice.

The Pop art sequence includes Mandrake, soup cans, hot dogs and soap scouring pads. It is taken from the original rendition which rocked the Guggenheim.

OPEN WIDE -- Jaws of the car baling machine open wide to receive the auto which will be compressed into a bundle of metal. The machine, owned and operated by B. V. Hughes, built by Stanton Thigpen.

CRUNCH -- One application of pressure from the two hydraulic cylinders which exert 5,000 pounds of pressure per square inch is enough to reduce even this auto into a small metal bundle.

BURP -- With the job of compressing the auto into a bundle of metal completed, the machine opens its jaws to eject the bundle which is no more than two feet wide, two feet high, and four feet long.

Car Baler Is New Enterprise

One of the latest additions to Texico-Farwell enterprise is a car baling machine designed to help beautify salvage yards.

Owned and operated by B. V. (Shorty) Hughes, the baler is capable of reducing a car body to a bundle of highly compressed metal which measures two feet wide, two feet high and four feet long. The weight of each bundle averages between 1200 and 1600 pounds depending on whether the frame of the automobile is included.

The idea for the machine originated with Hughes and Buster Lunsford, owner of Farwell Wrecking Yard. The two men discussed the feasibility of such an undertaking and decided that it would be a worthwhile project.

After studying the design of several such machines, the men went to Stanton Thigpen of Texico to discuss the actual construction of the baler. After finalizing the design of the machine, Thigpen started construction in September of 1965. The actual building consumed nine months.

Power for the machine originates from a 389 cubic inch Pontiac engine operating between 2000 and 3000 rpm. Compressing capability is supplied by two large hydraulic cylinders which are capable of exerting a pressure of five thousand pounds per square inch on the metal of the car body.

The compressing process begins with the upper portions of the car being crushed by a giant steel boom. The flattened car is then compressed into the front of the machine by the rear hydraulic cylinder where the final side to side compression takes place. The highly compressed bundle is then automatically ejected from the machine. The entire process takes just under six minutes and the machine is capable of baling nearly 50 cars a day.

Hughes states that the baler is mobile and will be taken to various wrecking yards around the area.

"Not only will the machine make possible a great reduction in the area required to store old car bodies but it will also go a long way in helping to make wrecking yards neater in appearance," states Hughes.

The Three R's Of Summer

By Cricket B. Taylor

Summer is a time for rest, relaxation and recreation. Schools are closed and children are on a vacation from learning. Or are they? Surely learning of one kind or another goes on all of the time, even during vacation.

Summer is a good time for children to learn about work. Through real work experiences, a young person can learn; to appreciate what work means in our lives; to take responsibility for his actions--be on time, follow directions, get along with others, take pride in his accomplishments and feel personally significant.

JOBS FOR PAY - Many teenagers have regularly paid jobs or part time jobs. Not all teenagers who want jobs are going to find them. Younger teens, those below the legal working age, are also on the lookout for ways to earn money. Some of these youngsters have imaginations and ingenuity enough to create jobs such as lawn watering service, baby sitting, or swap shop trading post, and others.

JOBS AT HOME - The first step in helping a child feel that he is a useful member of society is to make him feel that he is a useful and necessary part of the family. Responsibilities for home duties give him this sense of belonging--having a partnership in the family.

A FAMILY PLANNING SESSION will be needed to determine jobs which children will do. A rotating system for jobs often helps prevent arguments. Some tasks will be done irregularly, according to schedule. A schedule posted for members of family to see and check daily is a fine idea. Some tasks may not have definite time set--thus provide opportunity for children to learn to make decisions about how they will schedule their time.

In the beginning, allowing children to take household responsibilities will save little or

MINIMUM WAGE -- In explaining his opposition to increasing the minimum wage from $1.25 to $1.75, Rep. E. Y. Berry (R-S.D.) said, "Would it not be better to permit our youth to learn trades at salaries they can earn than to force them out into the street and into delinquency roles?"

no time for mother. But in the long run (with mother's patience and fortitude) well trained children will become competent helpers. Both they and their family will benefit. Some times adults may need to lower their standards to accept results that fit the child's ability.

PARENTS WHO DO A JOB THEMSELVES - because it's easier than training a child to do it or seeing that he does it, and parents who are afraid to burden their youngsters with home responsibilities, are missing a chance to give their children a real education for living.

Remember also that children need time during summer --
-To loaf, to think, to dream.
-To pursue their own interests and hobbies.
-To have fun with friends.

Field Day Visitors To View United Nations Garden

A new feature to be shown visitors soon and at the Tenth Annual Field Day on Thursday, September 8th at the High Plains Research Foundation is what a recent visitor called the "United Nations Garden".

This plot area has been planted from the "world wide seed bank" accumulated and recently received from foreign scientists. Seeds from all over the world have been planted in the "garden" to determine if any of the strains and varieties are suitable for economic production in the High and South Plains of Texas, or perhaps even in a wider area of the United States. While some of the seed resembles our own, many others have previously never been seen by scientists at the Foundation.

Included in the planting are strains and varieties of soybeans, clovers, cane, sesame, sunflowers, corn, grass and forage sorghums, grains of all kinds, legumes, beans, and peas of many varieties.

A scientist or person to person exchange of interesting and sometimes valuable seeds has been a part of the program of the High Plains Research Foundation for several years. Scientists in the different countries send the Foundation small quantities of seed they have developed for trial here. The Foundation staff reciprocates by sending seed to them.

The additional tax shall equal the difference between taxes paid or payable, hereunder, and the amount of tax payable for the preceding three years had the land been otherwise assessed. # County Agent Stresses Dangers Of Tetanus

When Jimmy cut himself on a jagged edge of an old plastic automobile, Mrs. Williams consoled her son and decided that the injury wasn't worth worrying about.

In the bathroom she washed his dirty hand, thinking that the thin, red, inch-long line on his wrist was just another of many superficial wounds he had suffered during his young life. She dabbed it with an antiseptic and returned to her housework.

Four days later the boy complained about sore arms and legs. His mother took his temperature and found only a slight fever. She was relieved that her son wasn't really sick.

But at noon he wouldn't eat. By supertime he had developed strange muscle spasms of his face, and that evening at the hospital a physician told the worried parents that there was strong possibility Jimmy had tetanus, the dreaded lockjaw, a very serious illness requiring hospitalization.

Nine days after cutting himself on his toy plastic automobile, Jimmy Williams died, Respiratory failure during a convulsion took his life.

Tetanus is a devastating disease that enters its victim's body through a wound. The wound can be so slight as to go unnoticed, and approximately 50 per cent of all tetanus cases cannot be traced to any injury worthy of medical attention. The American Medical Association reports that cases have been recorded following the peck of a hen, an insect bite or a scratch from a rose thorn. The great irony of tetanus is the fact that it can be easily and positively prevented by a series of tetanus toxoid shots.

But fewer than one third of the children in Jimmy's age group have received toxoid immunization against tetanus. This means that more than 11 million children in the pre-school group presently share Jimmy's vulnerability to this horrible disease, an ailment that kills more than 60 per cent of its victims and a killer that can strike whenever a person's skin is penetrated.

bleeds profusely, there's a good chance tetanus spores will be washed away. But even if some spores manage to hang on to the wound long enough to sprout into active bacilli, the microorganisms may be destroyed by oxygen in the blood. Tetanus germs thrive best in the absence of oxygen.

That's why the danger is so much greater in the event of a deep puncture wound from a knife, a bullet, an ice pick, a nail or a tool such as a screw driver or chisel. A crushing wound also carries great tetanus hazard. When blood flow is slight or when the spores can be carried deeply into a wound with dirt and debris, the dreaded tetanus germs can more easily gain a foothold inside the body.

Once this happens, there is little medical science can do against the germ itself because there is no specific drug for fighting tetanus.

Starting with minor symptoms of restlessness and muscle stiffness in jaw, neck or limbs (a sign the poison has already reached the brain), the disease progresses to tightly clenched teeth (lockjaw), odd muscle spasms of the face and

WE'LL KNOW MORE LATER — Agronomists, agriculturists, county agents, and other persons making tour of test plots, showing the results of fertilizer application, were amazed at some of the visible results in the first year of the tests, but they are looking forward to the final results which will be available in three to five years.

tions, is often responsible for breaking the victim's back.

Almost complete cramping of the respiration muscles interferes with breathing and may cause the patient to die from asphyxiation. Little wonder that less than 40 per cent of those contracting tetanus have managed to survive.

IT IS PREVENTABLE

Yet in spite of the fact that tetanus germs are everywhere around us, the disease itself is almost completely preventable, says the AMA.

During World War II nearly three million of our soldiers were wounded, but they had had tetanus toxoid shots, and of that huge number only four men contracted tetanus.

Protection by immunization should be started early in infancy, says the American Academy of Pediatrics—two to three months after birth. Immunity results from a series of three shots at four to six week intervals plus a booster dose after fifteen to eighteen months.

Boosters should be given again at three years, six years and twelve years, then every ten years for life.

Children, with their many bumps, bruises, cuts and falls (coupled with what seems to be a natural affinity for dirt), are usually considered the prime tetanus targets. It is a sad fact that millions of parents have been neglecting the important and easy immunization protection for their children, but that's only half the story. Adults are also negligent when it comes to fortifying their own bodies against the horrors of lockjaw.

Almost one-half of the deaths from tetanus occur to persons over 50 years of age. Yet millions of middle-age ex-G.I.'s haven't had a tetanus shot since their discharge following World War II and their wives may have gone unprotected since childhood. Perhaps one reason for this seeming neglect is the thought that, should a serious accident occur, a doctor can give a tetanus shot if he feels there is danger of the disease. But this overlooks the fact that, given a set of bad luck circumstances, even a minor scratch can lead to serious illness or death from tetanus.

The antitoxin immunization given with injury treatment provides only a temporary safeguard at best—it is often ineffective. But the toxoid series of shots will stimulate your system to produce its own antibodies for long-term protection that is absolute.

In antitoxin immunization there's another problem: the antibodies themselves must be administered, and the horse serum usually used as a base for the antitoxin provokes allergic sensitivity in many people. Sensitive individuals could be made gravely ill by the serum. For this reason, accident victims needing tetanus antitoxin should insist on a serum sensitivity test before taking the shot.

The series of tetanus toxoid shots does not carry this danger because horse serum is not used.

TETANUS IS EVERYWHERE

Tetanus is caused by a poison released by a microscopic bacillus whose spores can be found widely distributed in nature. The street dirt in cities, garden soil in almost every backyard and places where cattle, horses and other domestic animals are raised can be fertile sources of the deadly germ. Moreover, tetanus spores often can be found on our bodies and clothing. So widespread are the organisms that cause tetanus that there is no known way to control them. Prevention is possible only by means of immunization.

With tetanus all about us, why then doesn't every little skin break lead to sickness and death? The answer is that certain "bad luck" circumstances have to occur after an injury. If, for example, a surface wound

PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS & CIVIC-MINDED PEOPLE OF CLOVIS AND VICINITY

This department has been worked up largely as a reflection of public opinion. No person has written of themselves or their business. All articles have been compiled by a representative of The State Line Tribune as he saw conditions. These people are all leaders in their various lines of endeavor and the cooperation of those citizens in Clovis who helped make this department possible is sincerely appreciated.

Bill Bailey

Having a well-earned reputation for honesty, dependable judgment, and a complete knowledge of the insurance business far above the average, Bill Bailey, District Manager for Farmers Insurance Group, merits a brief tribute in this Clovis review.

Without assumption, or seeking public acclaim, he has filled his place in the community as one of its solid citizens, performing his duties of citizenship quietly, yet efficiently.

As a leading and progressive business man, Mr. Bailey holds a high position in the esteem of the public generally.

It is not only as a practical executive, whose sound judgment and far-sighted planning have brought such fine things to himself, but it is because of his inspiring optimism and loyal friendship that Bill Bailey is held in such high regard by the people of this district.

We gladly praise the successful record of this dependable Clovis insurance counselor.

Arthur J. and Dale Moorman

When a man gains recognition for the progressive and straight-forward manner in which he has managed his business affairs, and also for his generous contributions to civic projects, he is to be complimented for his achievements.

One belonging to this category is Arthur J. Moorman, a business man of Clovis who is regarded with respect and admiration by a great many residents of the city and the surrounding country.

We also think it appropriate in this review to give credit to some of the younger generation who are carrying on so ably in the footsteps of their fathers. And one who certainly deserves such credit is Dale Moorman who now shoulders his full share of responsibility in the operation and management of the State Line Chemical. It is because of the efforts of such men that year after year, Clovis continues to grow and prosper, and to become an even better place in which to live.

Lloyd Potter

In compiling this review of progressive Clovis business men, we have endeavored to select those citizens who, by the manner in which they have conducted themselves and their businesses, have earned for them positions of leadership in their various fields of activities. Such a man is Lloyd Potter of the Farmers Oil Company, who is well known, and has many friends and business associates throughout this entire district.

Mr. Potter's main interests have not been solely confined to his own business and private affairs, but have also included his contributions in one form or another to those projects of a civic nature which come within the scope of his activities.

Lloyd Potter is a man of wide experience whose exploits in the business and commercial life of Clovis and vicinity, merits more than a passing attention, and the writer is privileged to pay this brief tribute to a man who well deserves more credit than is accorded him here.

Harry E. Kelt

Harry E. Kelt, manager of Gambles, has a well-earned reputation for dependability and courtesy because of the manner in which he has treated the general public, never letting up in his efforts to make the service he renders to the people more valuable. This invariable policy has made Gambles' outstanding in its field, a fact that is well known to the residents in the Clovis area.

But Mr. Kelt has accomplished much more than just making a success of the management of the business, and we take this opportunity to pay tribute to him for devoting what time he could spare to the general welfare, not only to the city, but this entire district as well. It is such men as he, who are both successful in business, and appreciative of their civic obligations that are deserving of recognition. We take pleasure in publicly giving Harry Kelt the credit for his accomplishments which his many friends and associates have so long accorded him.

W. E. Harvey

We wish in this edition to pay tribute to W. E. Harvey of the Yucca Gas Company, for his many services to the people of Clovis, and his splendid record of achievements in the business life of this region.

Mr. Harvey probably has as wide a circle of friends as any other man we could name, because he is just naturally the kind of individual who makes friends with almost everyone, and always conducts himself in such a manner as to deserve the respect and good will of all who know him. Clovis is fortunate in being able to number among its more progressive business men, citizens of this type.

He is always ready and willing to lend his support to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit this entire district.

He may be depended upon, and his services to the motoring public are too many in number to be described here. It may be sufficient to say that we consider W. E. Harvey an asset to the community, and a dependable business man of whom we all may be proud.

Dennis W. Dayhoff

Clovis has attained a prominent position in the business life of this section of the Southwest because of the foresight of those men who had the ability to envision the possibilities of the community, and the trade area it serves. And a wide awake progressive man who justly should be included in this category is Dennis W. Dayhoff of Dayhoff Shoes Incorporated.

Such men have, many times over, proven their worth to the community, both as business men and as active workers in the civic betterment and progress of the city. Mr. Dayhoff has earned the good will and respect of his fellow citizens for contributing his bit to the general welfare of the city, and the people as a whole.

It is our duty to include Dennis Dayhoff in that group of progressive and civic-minded men who are doing so much for Clovis, and to express the wish that he will continue for many years to forge ahead with the success which he has enjoyed in the past.

Bennie F. Glover

It isn't the size or volume of a man's business which determines its value to the community in which he lives. But rather by the manner in which it is conducted. Which, to a greater or lesser degree, reflects the personality and character of the individual. The value of Bennie F. Glover's business to his city is a reflection of his progressiveness, and a determination to render the utmost in service, a policy which has caused Glover's Conoco to be so well thought of, and so widely patronized by the people of Clovis and the surrounding area.

That same dependability and courtesy which has made him so successful in his own business, has also fitted Mr. Glover to be of assistance on community projects and public drives. Furthermore, he does so cheerfully, and with a friendly spirit of cooperation that is always more than welcome.

It is a pleasure to include Bennie Glover in this Clovis review, and to wish him further success in his particular field of endeavor.

Jack and Della Holt

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Holt of Jack Holt The Clothier Incorporated, are two of those progressive type of citizens upon whom the community depends a great deal for leadership in business or other matters. They are also civic-minded and have, in the past, and no doubt will continue in the future to give more of their time and energy for the welfare of others than themselves.

They are the kind of people who make friends, and friendships once formed by them are never broken by an unfriendly act on their part, and they spare no efforts in order that their services to the surrounding area shall be more dependable.

Jack and Della Holt have never been known to inject themselves into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. However, they proceed in a calm and unostentatious manner, and accomplish their objectives with a quiet dignity. We do not hesitate to recommend Della and Jack Holt to our readers as excellent examples of the more dependable type of business people who have aided in the growth and development of Clovis and the surrounding country.

Harold Cornish

Progressiveness, coupled with ability, always a praiseworthy feature in the passing scene of any community's daily life is to be duly appreciated.

In full realization of this, and in recognition of the splendid personality which gives impetus to the personal success in his case, many residents and business people of Clovis and our own community, regard Harold Cornish of the General Adjustment Bureau, as a true asset to the city and this district.

Mr. Cornish is keeping this reliable company at the forefront at all times, both in business and civic activities, and has maintained a position of leadership in his field of endeavor. His ability to equitably adjust all types of insurance claims has gained for him the respect and good will of both companies and claimants.

What Harold Cornish has accomplished in the past in the way of both business and civic activities is the best indication of what may be expected of him in the future. He has our admiration and best wishes for continued success.

Everett Junior McCormick and J. W. New

In every community there are a number of business and professional men who can be pointed out as having taken a three-fold part in the onward progress of their city. Two well known business men of Clovis who belong in this category are Everett Junior McCormick and J. W. New of the Clovis Sign Service Incorporated.

Their leadership in their line of business is recognized throughout this entire district. And their furtherance of civic activities, and support of those organizations whose main objectives are directed along lines of civic betterment and community progress is well known to their immediate associates.

Mr. McCormick and Mr. New are men who are equally well liked and respected by their intimate friends and their customers. They are loyal to the community, thankful for their success in business, and have shown their appreciation by their contributions to various civic movements of benefit to the city.

We congratulate J. W. New and Everett McCormick for being citizens, progressive business men, and boosters of their community.

C. W. McBride

Successful business men as a rule, show their appreciation for their success by their often repeated demonstrations of civic pride. This is a fortunate fact. Otherwise a city would be lacking in that progressive element which advocates and develops various projects of a civic nature that are indicative of a progressive community.

And C. W. McBride of Zero Refrigerated Lines, is a man who has never failed to lend a hand when it comes his turn to help on some worthy project promoted for the general betterment of Clovis and the adjacent territory.

Mr. McBride takes a genuine pleasure in this method of showing his appreciation for his success, and in so doing, recognizes his civic responsibilities to his community.

It is such individuals as C. W. McBride who become acknowledged leaders in both business and community activities, and we compliment him on having attained that position in this region.

B. F. "Fred" Shipley

In critical times such as these, it takes business men of more than average ability to carry on their operations successfully. In making this statement, the man we have in mind is one of Clovis' more dependable furniture dealers, B. F. "Fred" Shipley of Fred Shipley Furniture, who has a wide circle of personal friends and satisfied customers scattered throughout this entire region - many of whom reside in our own community.

His contagious optimism and freely expressed belief in the assured future prosperity of the people of Clovis and its metropolitan trading area, are characteristics which are to be appreciated in a conscientious business man. He has always taken an interest in community affairs, and shown a willingness to shoulder his share of the civic load.

It is such men as Fred Shipley who, because of the successful conduct of their business and private affairs, and their eagerness to contribute to the public good, who are wholly deserving of a few words of commendation. It is a pleasure to pay him this brief tribute.

Ike Barnaby

It is fitting in this review of progressive Clovis business men that we acquaint our readers with the one to be now credited with having maintained the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company in the enviable position it holds in the business and commercial life of this area. That personality is Ike Barnaby, whose genius for organization, and for converting new ideas into actual deeds, has played a vital part in the distinctive reputation which this popular and reliable company now enjoys throughout this entire district.

Mr. Barnaby has found time in addition to his business interests, to give thought and energy to community projects. He is a citizen whose talents have been steadfastly devoted to the best interests of the city. He has been successful in his own business, and in the promotion of the general welfare of the community.

We are glad to pay this brief tribute to him, and to say that this district owes much to the many benefits with Ike Barnaby and the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company have rendered to the people.

Roscoe C. Sasser

Our issue today proposes to call the attention of our readers to some of those progressive and civic-minded men who have contributed their share of time and energy to the building up of Clovis and the surrounding territory to the position of prominence which it now enjoys.

One of these men to whom we wish to call the attention of our readers is Roscoe C. Sasser of the Sasser Drug Store, a firm where pharmacy is a profession, and not merely a sideline. He is a man who has never spared himself in his aggressive march forward, and one whose competitors respect as much as do all others with whom he comes in contact.

Mr. Sasser is at all times conscious of his civic responsibilities, and may be depended upon to meet in every detail, the many opportunities which present themselves to be of service to the city.

Roscoe Sasser's record of achievement is one of which he may well be proud. His value to his city and this district is an established fact, and we hasten to give him the credit which is his just due.

James Donaghe

James Donaghe is one of the more successful restaurant operators of Clovis who, by maintaining a constant standard of service and highest quality of foods, has made the Snazzy Pig Restaurant one of the more popular eating places in the community. We are glad to give him credit for his well-earned success in a field which is so highly competitive.

It is also a pleasure to give him credit for taking part in community affairs, and lending his assistance to various activities and public projects. When to take part in such matters, he always does so without ostentation, but in a quiet manner which lends dignity to his cheerful acceptance of his share of the civic load. It is a pleasure to be associated in the promotion of community activities with such a man as Mr. Donaghe.

This review of progressive and civic-minded people of Clovis would not be complete were we to fail to include James Donaghe. His is the kind of success which deserves recognition, and we wish him many more years of the same.

Calvin E. Davis

To serve the public honestly, efficiently, and cheerfully, is the basic foundation many progressive business men of Clovis have found to be the shortest route to success. In making this statement, the one we have in mind is Calvin E. Davis, Hertz Rent A Car & Rent A Truck Licensee. The popularity and patronage enjoyed by his many services accentuates the ideals of courtesy and efficiency which he has consistently applied in the management of the business, and in the servicing of its patrons.

The conduct of such businesses, and those who operate them have done much to make Clovis the business center for many miles around, and it is fitting that we give credit where credit is due to such men as Mr. Davis for his part in the onward progress of the city. In so doing, we are merely putting into words the opinions of those who know him.

Calvin Davis has earned his success by the method in which he has served the public, and accepted both civic and business responsibilities. We wish him every success in the future.

Myrtle McGill

It is no coincidence that more frequently than not, the people who take a progressive part in the civic and business activities of their city, are the same ones who are pre-eminently successful in conducting their own private affairs. In connection with the foregoing statement, we wish to mention and pay tribute to Myrtle McGill of Myrtle's Studio.

Myrtle McGill has proved very ably that she is a photographer of more than average ability, for it is largely due to her progressive methods, coupled with her sound and practical ideas, that her studio holds its high position in the public's opinion in this area. She has made her business a "profession," with the result that she is recognized as one of the more popular photographers in Clovis, giving to her patrons an excellence of artistic service seldom equaled.

It is also true that Myrtle McGill does her share toward community improvement, and has given freely of her time and energy to those enterprises which have benefited the city at large. We are glad to voice our praise of a woman who is successful in her own business, and who also has time to give toward community development.

B. N. Hudnall

Because this is a period of growth and expansion for Clovis, those conscientious business men who had the foresight and ability to lay their plans so as to be able to take advantage of those conditions, are entitled to more than ordinary acclaim. We are therefore, glad to pay tribute to B. N. Hudnall of Texaco Incorporated, for he has become a well-known figure in the business and commercial life of this section of the Southwest.

Mr. Hudnall's persistent optimism, and steadfast belief in the continued future prosperity of the people of Clovis and vicinity, are characteristics which are deserving of our highest praise.

B. N. Hudnall has also always shown a willingness to do his part in civic advancement, and has contributed his bit in a great many different ways to projects promoted for the welfare of the city. We believe that a business man of this kind is entitled to our sincere praise, both because he has achieved success in his business and private affairs, and because he is willing to contribute to the public good.

J. E. "Jim" Claiborne

One of the more progressive business men of Clovis, and one who deserves the respect and confidence of a great many residents of the city is capable, friendly, J. E. "Jim" Claiborne of the Claiborne Refrigeration Company, authorized Carrier Sales & Service, whose wide knowledge and long experience in the business has raised him into a position of prominence in his line.

It is because of this that the Claiborne Refrigeration Company has earned a reputation for reliability -- second to none.

Mr. Claiborne is also civic-minded, and has always been ready to contribute his time and energy to any plan which promises to benefit this entire district. And the people of Clovis may regard with particular satisfaction the many services which he has performed in the interest of progress and civic betterment.

We urge our readers to look to "Jim" Claiborne as a dependable business man of whom we may well be proud. His devotion to the city has been constant, and his achievements well merited. We wish for him further success.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, who just a short time ago assumed the operation and management of the Village Bakery, now located at 113 West 4th Street, quite readily demonstrated their unusual abilities by their quickness to appreciate the obligations and responsibilities of their new endeavor, and to conduct their affairs accordingly.

Although they have been operating the business for a comparatively short time, they have already made many new friends and customers for their Village Bakery.

The Smiths are active, energetic individuals, whose sincere and friendly personalities, and desire to be of service is rapidly earning a rightful place for them in this district. They have always taken an interest in community activities, and will continue to assume their full share of civic responsibilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith deserve a word of praise for having so adequately established themselves in their new venture, and we are glad to give them this brief mention.

E. J. Healy

We desire in this Clovis review to call the attention of our readers to the well-earned position which E. J. Healy has reached in the business life of this section. During the comparatively short time he has been the manager of the Household Finance Corporation of Clovis, he has made many personal friends, as well as having earned the good will of his associates for the straightforward manner in which he has conducted his business affairs.

Mr. Healy is working hard to deserve the confidence which the people of the community have in him, and he continues to work hard to maintain in every way, that high standard which he has set, not only for himself, but for the successful management of the Household Finance Corporation as well.

He has also shown a willingness to assist in every manner at his disposal in the growth and development of the city of Clovis, and is always ready to lend his support to civic projects. E. J. Healy deserves our heartfelt congratulations on the splendid record he has already established, and we sincerely hope for his continued success.

Billy Joe Shaw

Every conscientious and successful business man in Clovis contributes in some manner to the growth and progress of the city. And one who is always willing to do his part in both civic and business activities is Billy Joe Shaw of the Western Ammonia Corporation, who is well known, and has a great many personal friends throughout this entire district.

The prominent part that the Western Ammonia Corporation is playing in the business and industrial life of this section, mirrors the progressiveness and ability of such men as he. Moreover, Mr. Shaw has also at all times been steadfast in his devotion to the city and the surrounding country, and on many occasions has lent his support to the successful promotion of meritorious civic projects.

Clovis and this district are fortunate to have such a man as Bill Shaw in a position of responsibility and service, and this newspaper feels that it merely reflects public opinion in paying this brief tribute to one of the city's more dependable business men.

Robert W. Gambill

Generally speaking, civic pride is one of those things that goes hand-in-hand with success, because a man must have been successful to fully appreciate the advantages that were afforded him by the community in which he lives.

And Robert W. Gambill of Gold Star Ambulance, serving Portales, Texico, Farwell, Melrose, Grady and Broadview, as well as other surrounding communities, is one of those progressive business men of Clovis who has shown his appreciation for his success by his attention to civic matters. His willingness to become a cog in the wheels of community progress whenever united effort is needed to put over some movement or project advanced for the good of the city has always been taken for granted.

Mr. Gambill's quiet assumption of responsibility, not only in connection with his own business, but in regard to other matters as well, has often lent a feeling of confidence to others interested in the same movements.

In complimenting Robert Gambill upon his high standing in the community, we do no more than express the admiration and respect of his many friends and associates.

"Ed" and Maybeth Corcoran

In mentioning some of those people who are taking a progressive part in the evolution of the business life of Clovis, we would be censored if we failed to include "Ed" and Maybeth Corcoran of the Fabric Mart, as well as their friendly and capable personnel, Helen Wright and "Johnny" Price.

They are those type of citizens whose fairness and friendliness, and sincere desire to be of service are accountable for a large measure of their success. And as time goes on, their personal interests have become more closely interwoven with the business and civic affairs of the city. As a result they have, quite naturally, become accepted as folks who can be called upon, and who will cheerfully do their part to further the development of those community activities to which they are best fitted to lend assistance.

Maybeth and "Ed" Corcoran have, by the successful management and operation of the Fabric Mart, and by their attention to civic affairs, earned the friendship and good will of a great many residents in this region. They are to be complimented for their activities, and we only express the desire of their many friends and customers in wishing them continued success.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vaughan

Good motels and tourist courts are indispensable to the progress and development of a growing city such as Clovis. And the Sixty & Eighty-Four Motel, combining the best features of both, has accommodated a great many tourists and business men in a manner that assures them of the continued patronage and good will of the motoring public.

The management of the Sixty & Eighty-Four Motel has maintained an ideal of service which is thoroughly exemplified by the manner in which every need of the traveling motorist has been anticipated and prepared for. Nothing is taken for granted; nothing is forgotten, and hospitality and service is always their first and last consideration.

Much of the credit for the splendid reputation of this modern drive in motel is due to the executive ability of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Vaughan, whose untiring efforts, foresightfulness and careful attention to detail, have maintained a standard of hospitality and service which would be difficult to surpass. It is a pleasure to publish these few words of praise about the Sixty & Eighty-Four Motel, and its friendly and capable managers, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan.

What is there about traveling salesmen?

Well, one thing about a traveling salesman is that he gives his car hard usage. Business calls require a lot of start and stop driving. And that's when corrosive engine wear can cause serious damage.

Actually, start and stop driving is the kind of driving most of us do most of the time. So, to protect your motor under these severe conditions, your Phillips 66 Dealer recommends Trop-Artic All-Season Motor Oil. Trop-Artic starts protecting at low temperatures, and keeps on protecting at high operating temperatures. It's a light oil, a medium oil and a heavy oil, all in one!

To keep your car running better longer, get Trop-Artic Motor Oil at any station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

Original Poem Tells Wonderful Story

Editor's Note: The following poem written by Mrs. Walter (Gladys) Kaltwasser, formed part of her opening address to the Christian Growth Workshop and convention of Lutheran Women's Missionary League held recently in San Antonio. Mrs. Kaltwasser is presently serving as president of the Texas district.

What Jesus means to me!
Now I can so easily tell;
You took away my fears
And brought me back from hell.

Jesus, You are my friend,
My sister and my brother,
When I feel so all alone
You are my father and my mother.

WHAT JESUS MEANS TO ME
What Jesus means to me,
How can I ever say?
Let me tell in my own words
As to you, Father, I pray.

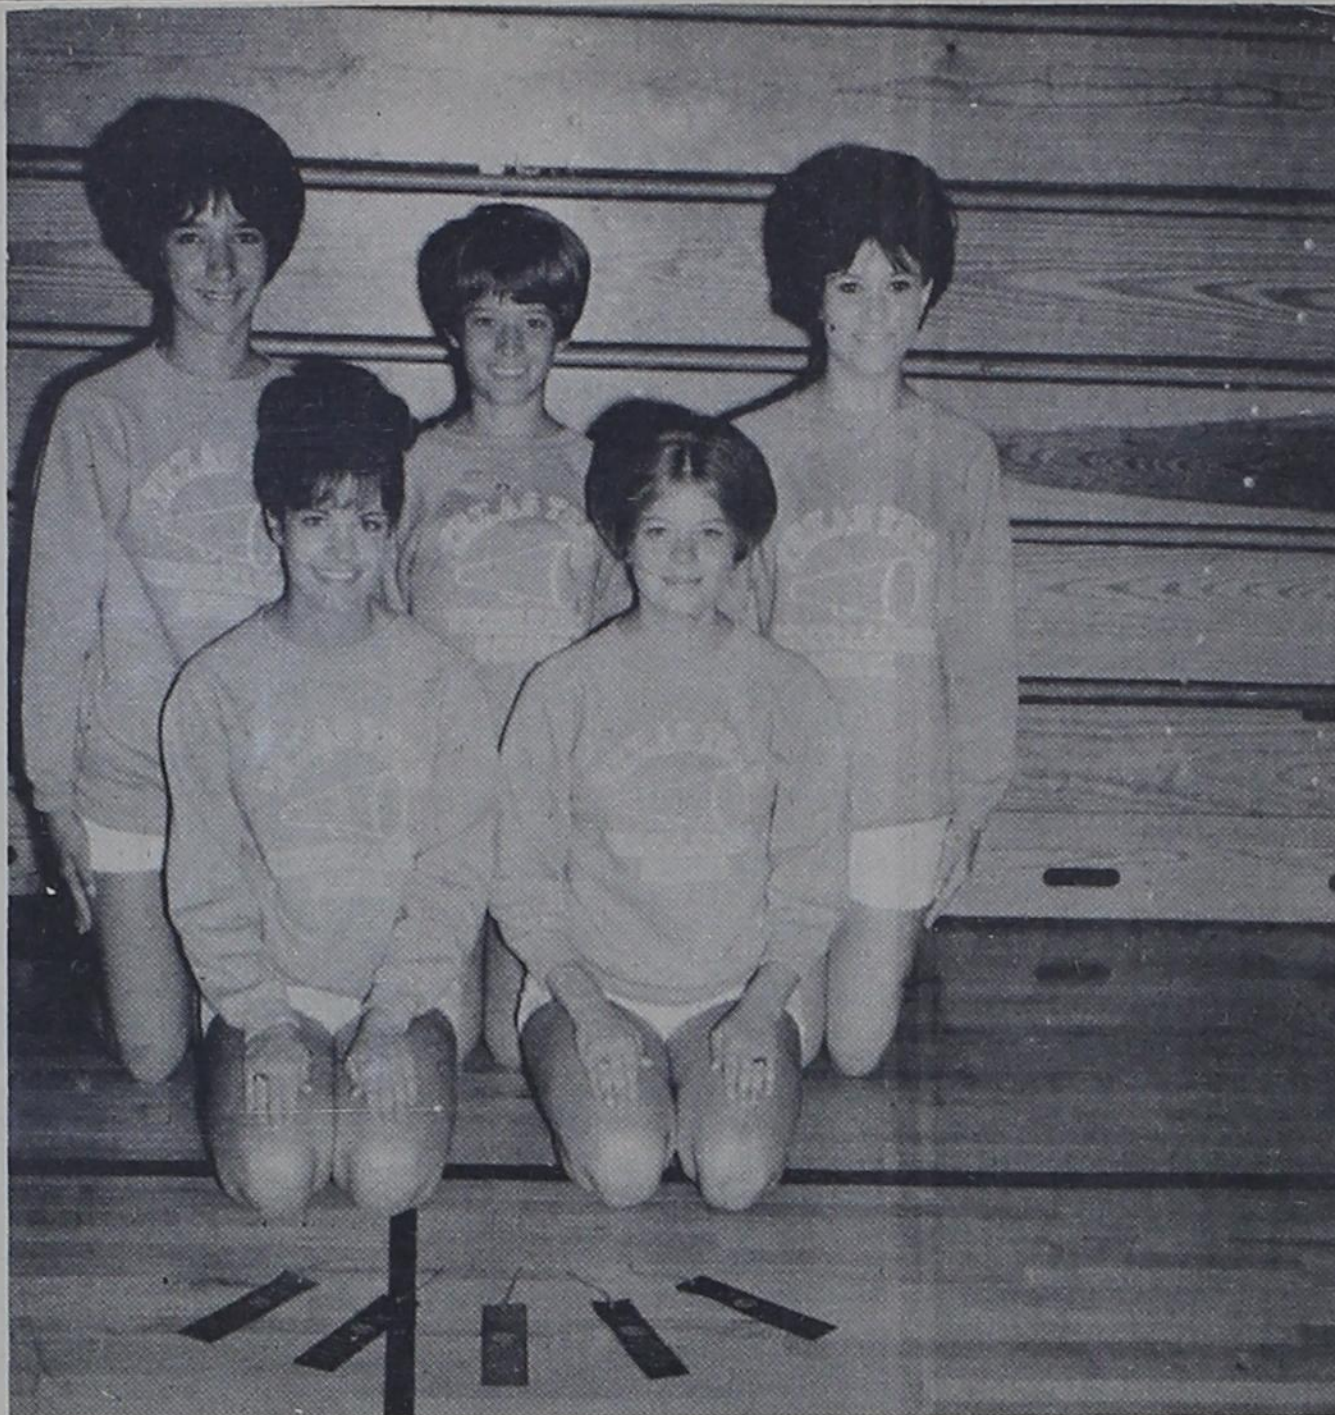

You can take away my country,
My family and my friends,
You can take away my health,
And all the joy that it brings.

I never knew of Your love
As a tiny little child,
I was always afraid
Fear had me beguiled.

"Look up; stand tall;
I hear you when you pray,
Take my hand, I will help you
As you travel life's hard way."

I traveled many a mile
Along the road of fear,
Before You bent down
And whispered gently in my ear:

But let me keep my Jesus.
He is all the world to me.
That is why I humbly tell you
What Jesus means to me.

TEXICO SCOUTS -- Texico Troop 179 paused during a weekend of activities at Palo Duro Canyon, to be photographed under one of the many rock formations. Fourteen boys camped overnight Saturday and enjoyed a full day of activities Sunday, concluding the trip were visits to "Six Gun City" and the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Texico Troop 179 Visits Palo Duro Canyon

Fourteen boys of Texico Troop 179, Boy Scouts of America, arrived Saturday afternoon in Palo Duro Canyon, southeast of Amarillo. Patrol camps were established near Prairie Dog Fork of the Red River in the canyon bottom. Beaver Patrol leaders Mitchell Turnbough and Ronnie Winegeart joined Fox Patrol leaders Danny Billingsley and Loren Gibbs in supervising tent and meal preparation. Campfire activity for the entire troop followed, under the direction of Scoutmaster Gene Bitner.

Sunday afternoon the scouts witnessed a firefight staged in "Six Gun City", a pioneer town re-created just west of Palo Duro Canyon. The sheriff, hastily appointed by the town's saloon girls, cleaned the town of outlaws with his six-gun and partner's shotgun. At the fight's end, "bodies" filled the street.

Returning to Texico, the company paused in Canyon to tour West Texas State University's Panhandle - Plains Historical Museum. Other scouts in the expedition included John Winegeart, Duane Foreman, Dennith Hultman, Terry Armstrong, Domingo Rojas, Curtis Smith, Donald Haile, Harold Hall, Tim Engram, and Gerald Whitener. Ernest Foreman and M. E. Turnbough served as sponsors. Additional transportation was provided by Howard Whitener and Howard Billingsley.

Patrol hikes began Sunday's activity. Hike destinations included the "Sky Ride" to the canyon rim, rides on the "Sad Monkey Railroad", and horse-back riding. Another hike was made to the "Spanish Skirts" area where caves were explored.
