QUALIFYING FOR MUNY TOURNEY STARTS MARCH 17

FIRST ROUND APRIL 21 THRU 31

WE HAVE BEEN ASKED TO make clear an angle to Tuesday's wrestling match. La Belle got the match with Thornton by a challenge about two weeks ago. Charles Heard was wrestling the Frenchman and Thornton entered the ring to issue the challenge. He shook hands with both contestants which meant acceptance. Unfortunately, the match went to a draw. By agreement between the two battlers the matter was decided by the toss of a coin—La Belle won and that was all there was to it.

AFTER THE MATCH HERE Tuesday the Frenchman told the promoter, "Me no fight here no more." Fuhrer argued with him as best he could and tried to explain that he didn't have the right American spirit, when Gene Burt, "Me never drink. Me sober man." He later confided to a few friends that he thought he was unpopular here.

THREE MATCHES WILL BE staged here next week, and the main event will probably be between Eddie O'Shea and Charlie Heard. Eddie will be brought back by popular demand.

ONE THING WE NEVER cared much about was a rough wrestling match. We either want boxing or wrestling, not a combination.

SATURDAY NIGHT MAY BE "farmers' night" in Lone Pine and Deaburg but it's just another night to go to bed early if you are in training with a ball club and this is the knowledge gained by Oscar "Farmer" Dean when he "stayed awake" after pitching three scoreless innings for the San Francisco Missions against the Japanese All-Stars. The Farmer swaggered into the Missions' hotel at 11 p. m. after performing his feat on the hill, only to be met by Joe Bearwald, president of the club. When Bearwald told Dean he should be in bed, the athlete then Joe about Saturday night. Then the big boss told Dean to pack his trunk and get out. He now is with Seattle, his third Coast league club so far this year. He was with Los Angeles before Gabby Street gave him his chance with the Missions. Others released along with Dean were infielder Antonio Femina, Pitchers Malcolm Jackson and Marvin Johnson, Infielder Edward Cochran and Outfielder Harry Long.

A WORKING AGREEMENT has been arranged between the Fort Worth Texas league club and the El Dorado club of the East Dixie league.

MORE THAN 60 PLAYERS were expected to report at Houston this week, when the Buffs will begin their spring training for the Texas league flag race. From this aggregation will come not only a 1935 Buff outfit but nuclei for the Jacksonville West Dixie league and New Iberia Evangeline league clubs, Houston farms.

SPORT SLANTS by Pap

Lou Ambers proved his gratitude to the New York boxing commission for naming him its No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' lightweight championship by defeating Sammy Fuller, the Illinois commission's choice.

Because he made them look good, the New York moguls have ruled that Lou can fight for Barney's crown whenever he can corner the champion. So Ambers can disregard Madison Square Garden's contract binding him to fight Ross for it—the simple reason the Garden folks cannot get the titleholder to sign with them.

Ambers proved a veritable windmill in action while scoring a clean-cut victory over the equal little veteran from Boston. He swarmed all over Fuller and never let Sammy get set to shoot his heavy artillery. Although it was Lou's first 15-round bout, he rated himself nicely and finished strong.

A Smaller Harry Greb
On all sides they were comparing Ambers' busy style with Harry Greb's windmill ring action. Lou hasn't shown any signs of a real punch but that's probably because he punches too often to get set. Ambers gave a fine exhibition of rolling with punches and slipped them by the slimmest of margins. He has a neat trick of stepping inside the punches and doing his damage with short, choppy punches in close.

Fuller, who fought both Ambers and Ross, thinks Barney's crown would not be in danger unless the champion had great difficulty making the weight limit. In his first Garden bout Ambers faced Harry Dublinsky and gave him a fair-sized pull in the weights. After a poor start he warmed up and swarmed over Harry to win the nod.

Dempsey Does His Stuff
Jack Dempsey referred the Fuller-Ambers bout and made a great bit by stepping around the ring in lively fashion for the entire 15 rounds.

The former champ's lively ring manner prompted Jimmy Johnson, Garden matchmaker, to suggest that the commission insist on referees training for their task so they might copy Jack's style.

Boxing Interest Dead? Look!
When the University of Virginia's boxing team faced the Naval cademy ringmen at Annapolis, ringside seats brought as high as $20 a piece. The original price was 75 cents. Over 6,000 spectators jammed in to watch the Cavaliers defeat the Middies for the third straight time. The Virginia boxers attract as many as 5,000 spectators to their home contests. Their string of 23 consecutive dual meet victories probably has a lot to do with that.

Aggies Have Road Games

COLLEGE STATION, (Sp.)—With most of its preliminary training completed, Coach J. F. Abbott's "sophomore" Texas Aggie tennis team is beginning to point toward the opening of its season late this month or early next month. The Aggies hope to play matches with five Southwest conference opponents and two other teams in addition to the annual conference meet May 10-11 at Austin.

Five of the seven men on the squad are sophomores. Although final rankings have not been decided, the first four men on the team probably will include Warren Sorrels, Houston; Bob Early, Waco; Jack Clifton, East Point, La.; and Irving White, Galveston.

College Station Netters Work-Out

COLLEGE STATION, (Sp.)—Netters at North Texas State Teachers college will officially open their 1935 schedule Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when they engage the strong Denison Tennis club. The Denison players, who are all seasoned veterans, should extend the Eagles to the limit.

Gardner To Take Large Team To Barnhart Meet Saturday

Out for practice less than a week, Coach Gene Gardner will take his high school track athletes to Barnhart Saturday to compete in the fourth annual Range Country Track and Field Meet.

It is the largest track and field meet held in West Texas, and over 45 teams have already accepted invitation to compete.

Twenty-seven Out
The largest number to report this season turned out for work at the stadium Wednesday afternoon. The group numbered twenty-seven. Gardner indicated he would take a large number to the Barnhart meet.

"If we can cop enough second places we can win the meet," Gardner said, "it isn't necessary to win a string of first places. The track meet for us will provide a good work-out and a lot of needed experience."

The track at the stadium has been put in fairly good condition, and work has been going forward on digging pits and erecting hurdles. The thirty-clads were out for two hours Wednesday. Indoor conditioning work during inclement weather gave them a good start.

In the half mile Gardner and Jack Horn. Flowers has been improving his stride. Neel will take part in the 250-yard low hurdles and the 250-yard dash.

Undecided About Dash
Coach indicated that he would have several boys in the 440-yard dash but had not decided on the athletes best fitted to try the task. Bender, Madison and Neel will compete in the broad jump and Bigony in the high jump. A larger entry list is expected by Friday.

There are no hurdle men as yet, and the relay team will be composed of the four best quarter men. Darwin is the lone javelin man. In 1932 Coburn of Big Spring set the high jump at the Barnhart meet at 6 feet. The record still stands.

The following trophies and awards will be given:
1. Loving cup to winning senior team.
2. Loving cup to winning junior team.
3. Track figure to winning runner-up senior team.
4. Track figure to winning runner-up junior team.
5. Loving cup to winning second runner-up senior team.
6. Loving cup to winning second runner-up junior team.

CCC Cagers Off For Tilt

Meet Ottein In Series At Temple Friday And Saturday

"Barge" Bruce and 12 CCC cagers left late today for Temple where the Foresters will meet the Ottein CCC boys Friday and Saturday in the finals of the Texas CCC meet.

The locals, with only four defeats during the 1935 season, reached the final round by taking the Taylor club in a three game series. The Brucemen, with Young and Greer as the spearhead of the attack, downed the Taylor quintet, 45-25, in the deciding game.

Young and Greer will start at forward with Finch at the pivot position and Rogers and Coleman serving guard duty. Bruce will also use Curry, Devanport, Smith and Williams. Curry saw service in last week's semifinal series.

The Ottein quintet, which falls from a settlement near Luling, reached the finals by defeating Hillsboro. The Ottein record parallels that of the locals, who enjoyed a highly successful season.

The locals' biggest threat is Diddle Yount, 230 pound Indian from the Concho. Young has led the Brucemen in practically every game. The Angelos has tallied a total of 111 points during this season with the CCC boys. He also played several games with the Dills Bakris and took part in the recent Christoval tournament. In that meet he hit the basket for nine field goals in his initial game.

Finch and Greer will alternate at center. Both are fair jumpers. Kemp and Boyd, trainers of the Foresters, accompanied the team.

Raven Trapped Once Caught 4 Years Ago

Six weeks ago a raven caught in a trap used to bag the birds for a live raven shoot here bore a small metal band.

Dr. C. W. Deans sent the band to Washington to find the raven's history. He was recently advised in a letter from the bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture, that the bird was banded November 13, 1931 at Spur, Texas by E. R. Kalmbach.

Age Talent Is Redistributed As Girls Gird For Tournament

WICHITA, Kas. (UP) — For the first time in years there is no outstanding favorite among early entries of the women's national A.A.U. basketball tournament to be played here the last week in March.

The Tulsa Stenogs this year will face the most formidable opposition a little holder ever had met in tournament competition, forecasts Lee Le Edmonds, A.A.U. commissioner. Tulsa won last year from the Oklahoma City Cardinals, three times champions. The first two times they won as the Durant, Okla. Cardinals, representing the Oklahoma Presbyterian college for women. They switched allegiance to Oklahoma City last year.

Many of the all-America players of the Cardinals have been added to other teams. The changes have served notably to level off the strength of the contestants. Coach B. F. Babk, who guided the Cardinals to their championships, has taken over the destiny of Shreveport, thrice semifinalist. He took with him Irene Hamm and Quennie Hamm Toler, rated by many as the greatest of feminine stars.

The El Dorado, Ark., Lions, who defeated Shreveport in a semi-final last year, have acquired Hazel Walker, sharpshooting all-America forward, from Tulsa.

From Holdenville, Okla., will come a team made up largely of players from the Cardinals and Stenogs. Francis Williams, Ernestine Lampton, Hazel Vickers, all former all-America guards, will compete under the banner of Holdenville.

Tulsa still has four of its six regulars from last year, but many experts believe the loss of Hazel Walker is the difference between retaining the title and being just another contestant.

The Chicago (Baby) Ruths, heartened by a close victory over the champions this year, have entered. Florida has entered an all-star team. The Tupelo, Miss., Redwings, a strong contender last year, and a Des Moines, Ia., team, will compete again. From Colorado Springs will come a team of student nurses, Bethels, rated as one of the strongest feminine clubs in the rocky Mountain states.

Young Connie Follows Dad

Rarely Does A Young Athlete Follow In Footsteps Of Father

By Associated Press
It is quite the general practice for a business man to school his son in the hope that some day he can retire secure in the knowledge that his offspring will carry on to greater heights. In sports that is hardly true.

Rarely does a young athlete travel in the footsteps of his father with anything like the success his father enjoyed. You might expect a famous athlete to be able to impart the knowledge and tricks of the athletic trade which brought him renown to his son—but they seldom do.

In most cases professional athletes dwell on the less pleasant side of the sport—in voicing the desire that their sons choose some other line of endeavor for their life work.

Sometimes the bitter awakening to the fact that athletic glory is short-lived prompts the old-timers to steer their boys into other paths.

However, not all have this attitude. The venerable Connie Mack took his 22-year-old son, Connie, Jr., south with the Athletics this year.

not in the hope of making a big league player of him but to find if he had the ability to coach and, when the time comes, to take over club management.

But Will It Work?
Connie Jr. showed considerable promise as a pitcher in prep school and later at Duke University, where Old Jack Coombs, one time pitching hero of the Athletics, took the youngster under his wing. Having lived in an atmosphere of baseball all his life it is reasonable to assume that young Mack must have assimilated a fair measure of diamond knowledge.

But attempting to act as coach to big league veterans, when he is a mere youngster of 22 with no major league experience, is going to take a lot of astuteness, Mack or no Mack. Old Connie merely insists that the boy will get the same fair chance as the other youngsters in camp and you can be sure of one thing—he'll have to deliver or Papa Mack won't have him on the ball field.

When the hockey season began and the name of Lynn Patrick appeared in the New York Rangers' line-up the word was passed around that the good-looking youth had ridden into major league hockey on Daddy Lester Patrick's coat tails. Lynn soon sold himself to the fans in a fashion that left no doubt that he belonged in fast company.

Cotton growers who customarily produce two bales or less have been exempted from the Bankhead tax up to the amount of their basic production. President Roosevelt is responsible for the exemption.

CRACKING DOWN IN EAST TEXAS

The phrase "crack down" probably is not in such public esteem, since the NRA failure to live up to its threats. But applied to the East Texas oil situation, it has a suggestion that should be popular with the people of Texas.

Well, petroleum has the call in nine states and cotton growers have the call in 13 commonwealths. Lawmakers like the laymen do not know where they are going but they are on the way.

For months "hot oil"—oil produced in defiance of the regulations of the state and nation—has troubled the industry. Civil court actions were undertaken, and in some cases fines imposed which became, in effect, small license fees.

Now Hunter may appeal the verdict. He is entitled to have his case passed on by the court of last resort. If the decision is upheld

Sim Placed In Two Classes By Rayburn In Wednesday Message

Two classes of sin were scored Wednesday evening in the Union Revival service being led by Dr. James Rayburn in the Deats garage building. This evening he will speak on "A Fatal Blunder" and Friday "Three Liars and What They Said" will be the sermon topic.

building to make people afraid of black cats and unwilling to move on Friday. There is enough foolishness and superstition in the human heart to make people pay to have their palms read and their fortunes told.

"How about hatred? Some people like to hate. And the next-wrath, strife. Some people think nothing of stirring up a row and they don't mind having a fight. Temper is as necessary to character as it is to steel, but God did not put temper in the human heart to make wild animals of us.

"Keep jealousy out of your soul. To play with jealousy is to play with dynamite.

"There are those who say, 'I am a heretic and I am proud of it.' Why don't you say that you are a drunkard and proud of it? God puts all sin on the same platform and he says that 'those who do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.' God puts all sinners into two classes—the saved and the unsaved, for we have all sinned and some short of the glory of God.

"What are the effects of sin? It reproduces itself. Like smallpox, sin is infectious. A sinner never evolves into a saint, but always degenerates into a bigger sinner.

"Next, sin binds the sinner. 'His own iniquities shall take the wicked himself, and he shall be hidden with the cords of his sins.' (Prov. 5:22) Sin is the most horrible bondage in the world. Sin works iniquity. A man does not have delirium tremens the first time he takes a drink. The American Tobacco Trust during the war installed in the soldiers a desire for cigarettes that is today netting the tobacco interests millions of dollars and has made slaves of thousands of men. Young men, do you want to chain yourself to a habit like that? (Dr. Rayburn told the tragic story of a young man who became such a slave to cigarettes that he finally took his own life, leaving a note which read, 'Tell all the boys cigarettes did it'. Girls, you say smoking is new for women. The women of the underworld smoked before your mother was born. Have we elevated womanhood? No, we have brought the works of the underworld into our homes. Sin hurts the sinner. That is why I am crusading against it.

"Sin separates the sinner from God. Moody once wrote on the flyleaf of a Bible, 'This book will keep you from sin, but sin will keep you from this book.'

"And then, last, sin kills. 'The soul that sinneth, it shall die' (Ezek. 18:4, 20), not because God wants you to die, but because sin kills, and he has told you so. Sin is like opium. It blunts your sensibility. (Here Dr. Rayburn told how sin took a talented young singer from a church choir and in six months time killed her in a saloon).

"If I were to stop here, the picture would be black; but against the dark cloud of sin there shines to him that loved us, and wished us from our sins in his own blood. (Rev. 1:19). Solo: "Only a Sinner Saved By Grace."—B. F. Butts.

there, Harry Hunter must serve his time in Huntsville. "Where there's oil there's hell," Oilman Doheny observed long ago. Harry Hunter must agree with, by now.

The courts move slowly, but once in action they move. The attorney general and the railroad commission should keep firmly on the trail. Send the hot oilers to jail.

Texas Newspapers Comment On Gov. Allred's Tax Message Of March 4th

EDITOR'S NOTE: One of the most important messages which Gov. James V. Allred has delivered to the Texas legislature since assuming office three months ago was read before the joint session of the House and Senate on March 4. It was his tax message in which he outlined ways for increasing the state's revenue.

In view of the importance of this message, the United Press has compiled the following synopsis from editorials in leading newspapers in the state.

By United Press

Genuine concern over the tax problems which confront Texas, and widespread interest in Gov. James V. Allred's program for more equitable taxation, is shown by editorial comment in leading Texas newspapers.

Comment varied from unrestrained enthusiasm for the tax program which will "provide a new weapon for the people," to cautious criticism of "revolutionary" measures.

HOUSTON POST: "His (Allred's) suggestions for changes in methods of raising State revenue and for widening the tax base, are sufficiently revolutionary to warrant careful study and consideration. Tax the rich" is a popular cry, but in the great majority of cases such taxes are passed on in some manner to the eventual consumer or to the man who works x x x One phase of the governor's message will win general agreement. That is that the legislature should consider some new taxes only as substitutes for the ad valorem tax, to provide relief from an inequitable load now borne by real estate rather than to raise more revenue."

HOUSTON PRESS: "Governor Allred's message x x x is a well-prepared document containing many valuable suggestions for the raising of more revenue, x x x if adopted we will get more money for the state, and in a few years wipe out the present deficit, x x x At the same time some measures of state economy might be considered. How to save is more important than how to tax."

DALLAS NEWS: "Governor Allred in his interesting tax message to the legislature is inconsistent though perhaps unconsciously so. He would eliminate the sales tax as an additional revenue raiser, but he urges the legislature to re-submit tax classification, although the people passed on that question in November when they rejected it conclusively as an outright constitutional amendment."

AUSTIN AMERICAN: "His (Allred's) message came straight from the shoulder. Millions of dollars of additional revenue are needed. There is a large deficit in the treasury. Those who have must pay. x x x The governor took the tax bill by the horns, x x x He suggested the augmentation of state revenue by at least $12,000,000, x x x Now it is for the lawmakers to face the music and provide the additional revenue, x x x"

WICHITA DAILY TIMES: "Whatever the legislature may think of the specific recommendations offered by Governor Allred x x x it should keep three points in mind, x x x It is not practical, even if it were possible, to wipe out the state's deficit in one year, or in two, x x x There is no quick and handy method of repairing the state's finances, x x x A comprehensive view x x x must be taken of the revenue problem."

GALVESTON DAILY NEWS: "Whatever fault may be found with the tax proposals Gov. Allred x x x cannot be accused of going back on his campaign promise. This draws the (tax) issue squarely between the governor and the senate tax survey committee x x x The governor seemingly has no great faith in the promise of relief for real estate owners he holds out."

DALLAS JOURNAL: "He (Allred) presents a thoughtful survey of the need for more taxes, and of the fields from which additional tax revenue may reasonably be taken, x x x He is interested in getting more money out of the chain stores, but it is equally obvious that he wishes to place a burden upon 'foreign' chains for the purpose of discouraging them. The mule that he urges is more in the nature of an economic find than an act of legitimate contribution to the cost of government."

MENKA DAILY NEWS: "We are making progress in Texas, however slow. The homestead tax exemption will promote home ownership and discourage tenantry."

FORT WORTH PRESS: "In Governor Allred's tax message x x x there is cited a very fine example of the cruelty and inequity of the general sales tax. He cites figures x x x which show how heavily it bears on the poor-man as against the rich."

EL PASO HERALD POST: "No doubt sulphur production could yield a heavier rate of taxation, possibly also oil and gas, as those industries begin to recover, x x x Certainly a luxury tax, inheritance taxes and a State tax upon incomes would be preferable to a sales tax x x x"

CENTER DAILY NEWS: "His (Allred's) suggestion of a state income tax x x x will be hailed by the masses as the greatest weapon yet brought out to beat the proposed general sales tax into a condition of lifeless surrender, x x x If wholeheartedly supported (Allred) has the ability, the determination and the power to bring a long-needed series of tax reforms into the hands of the people."

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Calliopsis is the annual form of coreopsis. In old-time gardens the latter name was used; but nowadays the perennial form has taken possession of it. Calliopsis is one of the gayest, hardiest and most easily grown annuals, its waxy stemmed blooms in yellow and maroon and crimson being fine materials for bouquets as well as for garden decoration.

There are a number of new strains recently developed which are particularly fine with large flowers and more compact growth than the older varieties. Most have yellow edges of differing width with a maroon, scarlet or crimson center.

Gay Calliopsis, and Annual for Every Garden

The rich red sorts are most effective in the garden but need the contrasting tones of the yellow varieties to display them properly. The tall varieties planted with the dwarf compact types for edgings make fine groups. As they come into bloom early from seed they are one of the most useful of annuals for late planting. They are not particular as to soil but want plenty of sun.

They do not transplant as well as many annuals and should be sown where they are to bloom. The plants should be thinned to a foot apart for the tall sorts and 6 to 8 inches for the dwarf types which then form a solid mass studded with bloom. The foliage is fine almost hidden by the wealth of bloom in midsummer.

Growing Perennials

Gardeners who plan to grow perennials from seed this year, and every gardener should plan to do this, will have a much easier time of it if they sow in April instead of waiting until June.

Our summers are so hot and dry that it is often a task to get seeds to germinate in June, and seedling plants must be given extra attention at that time to keep from being scorched to death.

In April and May, however, we usually have cool, moist weather which hastens germination and is favorable to the young plants. Many of the perennials germinate best in cool weather. Delphiniums, for example, grow best in a temperature of 40 degrees.

When seeds are sown in April or early May the seedlings should be transplanted in July so that they have room to develop into sturdy plants. They will be large enough by fall to be planted in the border where they are to grow.

There is no garden operation which saves money faster than growing one's own perennials. When plants are purchased they are relatively expensive because of the long growing period, the intensive care they have had and the large percentage of loss. Plants have never been grown successfully in large scale operations because of the limited area over which they can be distributed satisfactorily and the high cost of packing such fragile subjects for shipment. The gardener who grows his own pays only for the seed. The task of caring for the plants and observing their growth is a fascinating recreation, if he is a true garden fan.

Among the perennials with which beginners will have little difficulty are columbines, dianthus, delphiniums, galliardias, coreopsis, hollyhocks, pyrethrums, sweet williams, especially the variety, Newport pink, veronica, spicata and violas.

For Your Garden Library

"The Complete Gardener" might have been the title to a new book written by M. G. Keane and published by Greenberg, New York. It is called "The Modern Guide to Successful Gardening," which expresses the contents very well, for it is a complete guide for the amateur from planting annuals in the spring to big elm trees in the fall.

Such subjects as: planning the home garden, roses, bulbs that bloom in the summer, rock garden secrets, window box gardens, annual flowers, roses, flower garden for the summer residents, and a host of others are presented in chapter form, intelligently illustrated with helpful line drawings which explain just how to do things.

ADDITIONS MADE TO FORD PROGRAM BROADCAST

The recent change in the Ford Dealer's radio program, featuring Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians, to a full hour show instead of a half-hour as it has been previously, involved an amount of work that to most radio listeners would seem incredible. To the majority of the radio audience it might seem that the only change necessary would have been the inclusion of a few extra numbers to make up the additional half-hour. Actually the change was accomplished only after an elaborate new system of entertainment had been worked out and extensive additions had been made to Waring's staff of artists who are heard on these Thursday evening broadcasts.

STORY OF GIDEON TO BE BROADCAST

Selected as the next of the series of "Immortal Dramas," the story of Gideon will be presented by Montgomery Ward over a coast-to-coast NBC-WFAA network Sunday, March 10 at 2 p. m. EST. This story from the Old Testament will portray the characters of Gideon who, while the other Israelites prayed to the false god, Baal, to deliver them from the Midianites and Amalekites, continued to worship Jehovah. How Gideon destroyed the altar of Baal, restored confidence in his people and led them from their captivity of seven years duration, will be dramatically told in several scenes. Since the story offers frequent opportunities for the use of choral music, the A Cappella Choir will be featured more than in any of the previous programs of the series. Much of the music to be played by the symphonic orchestra will be original compositions.

STEADILY IMPROVING CONDITIONS REFLECTED

Steadily improving national business conditions are reflected in the record of 14 consecutive months increase in business of The Lincoln National Life Insurance company, according to Arthur F. Hall, president of the organization. "The month of February showed a gain in regular paid-for business of 49 per cent over February, 1934," Mr. Hall said. "The Lincoln National Life increase for February a year ago over February, 1933, was 31 per cent. This steadily rising tide of business indicates much healthier economic conditions throughout the nation. Life insurance sales makes a splendid business indicator since they come from a great cross-section of the public."

SCHOOL FACTS

A study of some forty-two Texas school systems compiled by John F. Bailey, acting superintendent of schools in Breckenridge, Texas, is sure to be of interest to many Big Spring people.

Most impressive fact in comparing the standing of Big Spring schools with that of the others included in the study was the cost average computed on the basis of daily attendance. Only twenty-three of the group reported on the cost-average. Of this number, Big Spring's cost-average of $25.50 was the lowest. The medium cost-average for the schools reporting was $26.72. The costs ranged from Big Spring's low up to $50, the cost-average in the Pampa Public schools.

How can a pupil be educated in Big Spring schools eleven dollars cheaper yearly than in the medium school and at less than a third the cost-average in the Pampa public schools? The answer is contained in the report—teachers' salaries.

Of forty-two Texas schools reporting, Big Spring, Eastland, and Ranger show lowest elementary school salaries with a 3675 annual minimum. Average minimum elementary school salary for the group was $267.62. Maximum was Highland Park's $350.

The high school salaries do not compare any more favorably. Thirty-eight of the reporting schools show higher minimum salaries in the high school. Average minimum high school salary was $1,175.51. Highest minimum reported was Highland Park's $1780.

In the administrative salaries, the study shows twenty-six of the schools paying a larger high school principal's salary than Big Spring. If figures were available on the matter, it is certain that most of the schools would have two administrative officers for the junior and senior high schools. Big Spring has only one. Average high school principal's salary was $2088.25, some two hundred and sixty dollars more than that paid by Big Spring schools, $1912.75 less than Highland Park's principal's salary. The report shows no data on superintendents' salaries, but in Big Spring the superintendent's salary is in line with that paid to the teachers.

Salaries in Big Spring schools have not always been as low in comparison with those of other Texas schools, though they have never been among the best. The facts that the Big Spring Independent School District is only five miles square and that many residents of the city have their business outside the district make the best maintenance of the local schools an ideal difficult to achieve.

Relief Payroll Totals $3,100 During Week

Despite a curtailed budget for March, the relief roll here for the past week totaled $3,100, County Administrator H. H. McNew said Saturday.

After a two day temporary suspension of work because of a depletion of funds, relief clients got back to their projects and have remained there since.

No project has suffered curtailment because of a cut in funds.

During the week an average of 175 men worked on the highway No. 1 project with the peak rising to 192 for one day when the men went back to work.

A sanitation project, which centers around installation of adequate pit toilets for rural schools, is requiring a few men.

About 10 men have been working on roads east of Coahoma and near Chalk. Their task has been principally one of digging out large rocks and smoothing rough sections of the road.

Work on highway No. 9 north likely will not get underway until passage of the federal relief bill since the state cannot support a budget adequate to place enough men on the job to justify its beginning.

The relief administration assumed the responsibility of paying for man hire on the highway project this week when the work was started after the suspension. The highway department agreed to pay for truck and team hire. Now the relief administration will care for team hire this next week.

Cross School House Burned

The Cross school house, 5 miles south of Lomax in Glascock county, caught fire and was destroyed Thursday morning.

Fire originated from a defective fuse, according to reports.

Most of the furnishings were saved.

Mrs. Miller Harris of this city was first teacher of the school, teaching a group of children in the home of H. G. Cross one semester before the building was constructed during the 1926-27 term.

of the school faculty have brought the local schools to 1935 in a much better condition financially than that in which many a neighboring school now finds itself. In 1922 Big Spring schools made drastic salary cuts necessitated by the revised values of depression days, and today they have no burden of unpaid salaries, a condition which does not exist in many towns that tried to maintain a better salary scale during the hard years.

W. H. Dean, Brownwood, who has had years of experience with shoots of this nature having attended shoots all over the nation, told members of the local chapter that Big Spring merchants contributed the most generous and nicest merchandise prizes he had ever seen. Also the local chapter had put on the most interesting shoot he had ever witnessed. The local club has been deluged with letters of congratulation, letters of inquiry about trapping methods and newspapers of the entire southwest carried stories about the shoot, giving Big Spring much publicity.

Local club members spent many months of hard work getting ready for the shoot, and they feel grateful to chamber of commerce and all the business men for their generous contribution to success of the first known live raven shoot. The trapping of ravens will be continued intensively all this year and as the idea is spread over the state, local club members feel their efforts have not been in vain.

3 Plead Guilty To Criminal Charges

Sentences Assessed In Seventieth District Court At Midland Saturday

Three persons Saturday pleaded guilty to criminal charges in the 70th district court at Midland. Frank Robinson, pleaded guilty to a charge of cow theft and was given a 4 year suspended sentence. Alford "Pokey" Carson pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and got a 3 year suspended sentence, and Cornelius Tyler was sentenced to serve 2 years on a forgery charge. He had previously been convicted of a felony.

Shower Given Recent Bride

County Officials, Employees Honor Former Miss Viola Horton

Mrs. W. C. Robinson, who before her marriage was Miss Viola Horton, was honored with a surprise shower Thursday afternoon by county officials and their office employees. Mrs. Robinson has been employed in the court house for several years and is at the present in the tax collector's office. A clever biography of her life was read and Cecil Collins, district attorney, made a verbose and effusive presentation speech in giving the bride a "loving cup" which was a battered can. At the last moment he happened to remember there were a few other articles she could have if she wanted them. She was then presented with many lovely gifts.

Then there was the idea of trimming passenger rates to a cent a mile as a stimulus to traffic. The Florida East Coast tried that. Result: about twice as many passengers but a smaller gross revenue than before. You can imagine what happened to the net.

Several other roads—including Southern and Louisville & Nashville—tried reductions on a less drastic scale. Baltimore & Ohio was tempted—because of I. & N. competition—but finally stuck to its regular tariffs. It wound up with the biggest passenger traffic increase of any road in the country.

Breaks—

Excitation for a paid president of the stock exchange stirs bitter comment among disgruntled brokers. "What do you mean he should be paid? Whitney and the governors don't do so badly for themselves as it is."

Governors sit on stock exchange committees. They draw a fee of $10 for each committee meeting they attend as a member. A chairman gets $15. The scale used to be $15 and $20 before hard times hit Wall Street.

Unlike a corporate board of directors, committees sometimes hold several meetings a day. The fee is paid even if it only lasts a few minutes. The amount collected by individual governors is a carefully guarded secret but the exchange's report shows a total of $176,520 paid for this purpose in 1933. Divide that by 43 governors and you get an average of $4,102. Many brokers would be glad to have made that much in commissions.

Richard Whitney—as president—is unusually active in committee work. No authoritative figures are available as to his income from fees but informed sources figure it must be at least $20,000 a year and possibly much more.

There's a lot of grumbling among the rank and file of exchange members about the breaks the governors get. Apart from this fee business the prestige of office is a big asset to their firms when it comes to landing customers.

Lifted—

New York learns that Japan wants China to supply her raw cotton in future and to buy the bulk of Japanese manufactures in exchange.

Japanese Chambers of Commerce are pushing the plan and the government itself offers technical and financial aid in building up Chinese cotton production—provided anti-Japanese agitation is halted. Foreign Minister Hirota favors this as an effective method of combating chauvinism.

It would lift a lot of pressure from other world markets if China becomes Japan's chief manufacturing outlet.

Gains—

Statistics give clear evidence of recovery on industrial lines between January '34 and January '35. Here are a few percentage gains between those dates: Manufacturing production 18.5; electric power production 8.5; auto production 83.0; residential construction 48.2; cotton consumption 7.7; mail order sales 11.2; department store sales 4.0.

At the same time wholesale prices rose by 8.5 per cent—with heavy emphasis on agriculture. Farm products went up by 31.7 per cent, foods by 24.4 and retail foods by 12.5 per cent. Prices of non-agriculture products actually dropped by 0.5 per cent.

Scrambled—

A shrewd New Yorker doubts that the New Deal will be as vitiated by adverse judicial decisions as most people think. He points out that many of the laws in question—not all—have been effective for a year or more and nullifying their results will be harder than unscrambling an egg.

Excluded—

The stock exchange doesn't like intruders in its private affairs—especially reporters. The nominating committee officially requests those who attend its meetings to wear badges "to insure the exclusion of uninvited non-members."

water wells is remarkable. He has told drillers the holes they were sinking would never hit water. He was right. He has told them they would hit mineral water. It was KIPPY.

Once a rancher questioned his ability. "If you're right, I'll pay you $25 when I hit water." The rancher paid off.

Now they are taking him around to "feel" for oil. "We have definitely proven he can feel oil as well as water," Janner declares.

J. L. Hudson, who is an old friend of Wylie's family, admits "the boy's got something." And Hudson tells how he could tell without fail which well in Howard-Glasscock field were dry holes and which were producers; if producers, good, fair or bad.

The boy was in a car when it drove over a pipe line buried underground. "That's iron," he said. He was let out of the car and followed the course of the line to a wire fence. Then he turned around, still blindfolded, and walked back to the car along the pipeline.

It was about a year and a half ago that his father, who is mentioned by J. Frank Dobie in many of his hidden treasure stories of the southwest, discovered this unique faculty in his son.

Wylie complained of a spot on which he did not care to stand. "I can feel it and hear it," he said to his father. His father took him to that spot and Wylie refused to give the names of other traffic men he knew and his opinion of their

Freshman Class Is Culture Puzzled

DENTON, (Sp.)—A class in freshman English at North Texas State Teachers college was bewildered Monday morning when the professor suddenly announced that he wished them to write a short paragraph on "What is culture?"

He warned them not to use the dictionary, and then left the class for a few minutes. That they did use Mr. Webster's book or looked on a neighbor's paper is too obvious from the paragraphs turned in.

One paper read in part: "Culture is that something none of us have, and which we all want—but I don't know why."

Another expressed himself a little more concretely. "A pure culture of bacteria is a colony which contains only one type of bacteria." Was he, by any chance, referring to his English class?

One young lady put the idea into rather elegant words. "I think culture is a condition that embraces the cultivation of the plane of higher intellectuality, and the fine art of living."

It was a rather difficult question, in the first place, which may account for the varied answers received. If you don't believe it, merely ask yourself: "What is culture?"

nothing different.

This incident led to others until his actions convinced his parents he was an unusual child. They buried metal articles in holes, hid objects. Wylie could find them with his eyes blindfolded.

Janner has since taken the child in charge. "I have trained him," he says, "or rather I have just taught him to associate his feelings with names. I believe you'll agree with me he has a very selective sense of feel. Even more so than our sense of taste."

Five oil locations Wylie has expressed himself upon have been completed or are near completion. Four of them are definitely dry holes as he says they would be.

So when Wylie says: "There's lots of oil and there's lots of gas," when standing over the deep test location you have to admit you are wondering.

Debate And Literary Schedule For County Meet Are Released

Schedule of the literary events in the county interscholastic meet were released Wednesday simultaneously with the track meet schedule.

Opening gun will be fired Monday when Coahoma and Foran meet in a preliminary debate. Tuesday evening the winner of Monday's session will meet Moore in the finals. The same night all divisions of declamation will be heard.

Friday morning all literary events will get underway and throughout the evening the singing and extemporaneous speaking competition will be held.

All events will be held from the Big Spring high school.

Another Increase In County Revenues Due For Car Registrations

Cash balance of Howard county showed a twenty-five percent increase for the month of February, according to the approved report of Treasurer E. G. Towler.

January tax payments account for the sharp increase.

Normally the gain would have been greater had it not been for the fact that automobiles do not have to be registered until April 1. That source of revenue, which may be expected to bring in about $40,000, will appear on the April report.

Trustee Election To Be Held April 6, Two Vacancies Exist

Qualifications for entering names on the ballot for the Big Spring School District trustee election April 6 have been released by the board.

For a person desiring his or her name to be placed on the ballot, written application must be filed with the board secretary, Edmund Notestine, at least ten days before the election.

Persons desiring the name of a candidate to be placed on the printed ballot for the election must also file with the secretary a written request that such name be placed on the ballot at least ten days before the election date.

In this event, the request must also be accompanied by written consent of the prospective candidate.

These requirements will apply to all succeeding elections as well as the election of April 6, the board voted.

This year two vacancies will occur in the board personnel. The places are now held by Dr. M. H. Bennett and J. B. Collins. All trustee terms are for a period of three years.

Red, White Shower Is Given Bride

Mrs. W. C. Robinson Honored By Friends At Her Mother's Home

Mrs. Ray Shaw and Mrs. Cecil Horton were co-hostesses Wednesday afternoon for a lovely bridal shower commemorating Mrs. W. C. Robinson, who before her marriage was Miss V. A. Horton. The party was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Tom Horton.

A color scheme of red and white was cleverly carried out. Favors were bags of rice, tied in red cellophane bags and on the place cards were hand-painted bride and groom.

The guests registered in the bride's book and spent the afternoon in games and conversation. Miss Marcella King and Mrs. Clyde Pearce sang several lovely numbers, accompanied on the piano by Miss Nell Robinson.

Gifts were presented the honoree by Mrs. Ray Shaw in a very unique manner.

Refreshments of red marshallow whip-cream, cherry mints, red and white iced cake and coffee were served by the three hostesses to the following:

Misses: Edgar Stringfellow, D. B. Armistead, S. J. Horton, Charles Robinson, J. D. McWhirter, I. Stusser, Jack King, Clyde Pearce, D. J. Sheppard, W. C. Williams, Johnnie Mae Thomas, J. N. Cauble, Dee Foster, T. F. Horton, Jr., Buck Griffin; Misses: Marcella King, Ruth Dodson, Nell Robinson.

The sending gifts were: Misses: Rheta Cravens, Joe Millaway, Mary Alford, V. W. Fuglar and Misses Junnie and Geneva Slusser.

Debs To Be Smartly Dressed For King & Queen

The court gown by Reville seen here is in pale roseleaf lace. The design is hand-embroidered with minute crystals and diamante. The lace train is lined with pearl pink chiffon. All gowns shown have been approved by King George and Queen Mary.

LONDON, (AP)—The old and the new will harmonize in the costumes the silver jubilee debutantes will wear when they curtsy before the king and queen.

Their simple but luxurious gowns will be as modern as 1935—but with just enough of a touch of the past to commemorate the quarter-century reign of the British rulers.

Four royal courts will be held this year in Buckingham Palace—on March 23 and 29 and June 23 and 29—with approximately 24 American debutantes and matrons joining British society to make their curtsies.

A feature of the four official Reville designs approved by the king and queen are the low-cut corages. These contrast strikingly with the 1934 fashion when many presentees wore gowns cut somewhat high in front but low in the back—a tendency that met with court disapproval.

The rather wide and sometimes square-cut décolletage of 1933 is seen as providing an excellent background for fine jewelry which, together with the availability of rich materials, is expected to give this year's court a keynote of luxury and elegance placed somewhat in the background during the depression years.

Turning back the clock of fashion, designers are also making use of Victorian period draperies.

In tribute to the silver jubilee year, silver and white are expected to become great favorites while there are a host of "jubilee" colors, especially "jubilee blue" to be used.

A debutante's gown which has been approved by the king and queen is of snowwhite and jubilee-silver. It has little dropped puff sleeves which leave the shoulders bare, the décolleté daintily hand-embroidered in a small English rose design of diamante, and a train of ruffled net lined with chiffon.

A design especially for matron, includes a little shoulder drapery. This gown is of lilac hand-woven brocade, with the décolleté and shoulder draperies embroidered in diamante. The brocade train is also hand-embroidered with diamante in a floral design.

Thin shoulder straps and a square-cut low neckline prevail in another model in larch-green satin. The bodice is hand-embroidered with gold crystals. The larch-green satin train is hand-embroidered in gold and lined with gold lame.

The fourth design also has thin shoulder straps. The gown is made of pale roseleaf lace, the design being hand-embroidered with minute crystals and diamante. The lace train is lined with pink-pearl chiffon.

The richness of the gowns will be matched by the richness of coiffures which are to be of the most elaborate and picturesque kind with curls, fringes, loops, coils and coronets of plait.

Mrs. M. E. Mitchell has returned to her home in Sweetwater after spending several days here with Mrs. Jim Currie who is convalescing satisfactorily from a severe illness.

Joe Allen Davidson, Miss Relta Bridges Married In Hospital

From his bed in the Elvings hospital, Joe Allen Davidson Monday was married to Miss Relta Bridges. The ceremony took place during noon while Mrs. Davidson was off for lunch. She procured the license and obtained Judge J. S. Garlington to perform the ceremony.

Together with Frank Hodnett, county commissioner, they went to the hospital where Judge Garlington married the young couple.

Apparently the nuptials had a good effect on the groom. He was able to be moved from the hospital to his father's home to convalesce from an appendectomy and get back to the job of providing for his family.

Relief Administrators Hold Meet In Midland

MIDLAND—Representatives of the Texas Relief Commission, here Tuesday to give instructions to administrators, certifying officers and case workers of 25 counties comprising the fifth district, expressed commendation for the entertainment and favors shown the visitors during the day.

More than 100 actual relief agency workers were present, holding a general session in the morning and group meetings in the afternoon. The meetings were at Hotel Scharbauer.

Resolutions signed by L. E. Harwood, R. H. McNew and J. Howze were adopted, as follows:

Whereas, members of the Midland County Relief Board, the Midland County Administrator and the management of the Scharbauer Hotel, have been most gracious in providing rooms and other facilities for this meeting of fifth district relief workers and,

Whereas, this meeting has been made both profitable and pleasant as a result of their efforts, therefore,

Be it resolved, that this assembly hereby desires to express its deep gratitude for the many favors shown and be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be presented to members of the Midland County Administrator, the Scharbauer Hotel, the press and that this resolution be incorporated in the minutes of this meeting.

Mrs. Ada Lingo Hatcher, her daughter, Jean, Miss Ditty Gillyuly and Cecil French left Sunday morning for Waco.

Elliott Roosevelt Spend Few Hours In City; Ship Detained

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, passengers on the east-bound American Airlines plane Monday evening, were detained in Big Spring several hours on account of bad weather. They were enroute from Los Angeles to Fort Worth, where they were to spend several days with Mrs. Roosevelt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Goggins. While here they took dinner at a downtown hotel and attended the motion picture production at the Ritz theatre. As soon as the weather cleared, the big Douglas airliner took off around 10 o'clock for resumption of the flight.

Mr. Roosevelt, son of the president of the United States, is chairman of the National Aviation Chamber of Commerce. His wife, the former Miss Ruth Goggins of Fort Worth, has a brother, Dave Goggins, who resides in Midland. He did not meet his sister here, not knowing of the ship being cancelled out here temporarily.

Asks Congress To Regulate Companies

President Strikes At Propagandists Flooding Capitol Hill To Defeat Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt in a special message to congress Tuesday called for regulation of public utility holding companies and struck at "propaganda" flooding Capitol Hill against the legislation.

He said: "Except where it is absolutely necessary to continue functioning of a geographically integrated operating utility system, the utility holding company with its present powers must go. It is a device which does not belong to American traditions of law and business."

Co-op Gin And Supply Company Has Remarkable Record

Concern Makes Rapid Strides In 5 Seasons

Value Of Firm Soars, Many Departments Added To Company

Cooperative Gin and Supply company, comparatively young as businesses go, has a most remarkable record. In its five years of existence, it has grown from a concern involving a $1,000 capital outlay to a concern valued at $50,000 and doing many times that volume of business in a year's time. Yet no member of the company has ever put a penny into the business other than his trade. Today there are 200 of these members. This is the secret of the phenomenal rise of the company. It is a living testimonial to the truth that where a man's money is, there is his interest also.

Large Dividends
For members participate in the company success in proportion to the amount they support their concern. So well have they done this that in three years dividends paid by the company amounted to $33,000.

Perhaps one reason for the sustained advance of the business and its increasing popularity with farmers is the fact that it has always remained strictly a farmer's affair.

Unless the member gins cotton, he cannot participate in the company profits. When dividend time comes around, division of the gains is made on a basis of number of bales ginned together with the amount spent with the company.

Prices Standard
Prices of merchandise are standard. Members and non-members pay the same price for any article.

The enterprise is an outgrowth of the old Howard County Marketing association, a farmer's trading union. In 1929 this body bought a 7-8 interest in the gin owned by L. F. Kiesling. Mr. Kiesling still retains an eighth interest. The late G. E. Jackson was first manager of the company. He was succeeded by Earl Phillips, president, in 1931.

Company property then consisted of the gin and a small office. It has expanded until today it boasts in addition to the gin, a modern $3,900 fireproof brick headquarters, a brick service station, oil tanks, poultry house, small outdoor warehouse, and two blocks frontage on North East second street.

Business Enlarged
The business has been enlarged to include feeds, seeds, implements, tractors, some hardware, poultry, cream, hatchery, petroleum products, feed mill, and now groceries. The latter department is the latest addition to the concern's lines of business.

Evidencing growth, the Co-op as it is known by its patrons, is going to "departmentize." Shortly department managers will be appointed and given more authority over their line of business.

Incubators Replace Old Hen As Mass Production Is Demanded

Crammed into drawers stacked one upon the other, hundreds of peeping baby chicks offer the fruit of three weeks' tedious effort expended upon the hatchery operated in connection with the Cooperative Gin and Supply company.

These chicks, pipping through their shells hourly by the scores, have an automaton for a mother. Twenty years ago they would have seen the light of day from furnished by an electric current, under a motherly hen's wing. Today the first light they see is

Then there would have been possibly fifteen in the brood. Now there are at least one hundred in their particular section and approximately 4,000 in their hatchery.

Grocery Line Is Added By Coop Company

Newest Department To Be Complete, Unique Arrangement Made

Addition of a new and complete line of groceries is the latest accomplishment of the Cooperative Gin and Supply company.

The company's grocery department, located in the northeast portion of the modern building, will have its formal opening Saturday.

Workers have been busy the past week erecting partitions and installing counters and shelving for the new department.

Formerly the company dealt modestly in groceries, handling a few bulk commodities.

Now the line has been extended company, takes off hatchings which, if taxed to capacity will run 4,000 each.

He puts on his eggs so that he will have two hatchings coming off each week. This means that 24,000 eggs can be in the incubators at one time.

These eggs must be and are turned three times a day.

The old hen, hopping off her nest for a few bites, came back and scratched around over her setting until she had turned the eggs. Less tedious is the problem of turning thousands of them. They are placed in incubators in containers resting at 45 degree angles. These containers are attached to long metal bars which permit their being swung into a reverse position. This automatically turns the eggs.

Mild weather has boomed the chicken market this spring. As fast as they have hatched, they have been sold, Holden said.

If a stretch of bad weather sets in, the demand will slacken. Holden will have hundreds of chicks on his hands. He will put them under the brooder and nurse them along until they have taken on a sturdy growth. Then they will be marketed as starter chicks.

Business has been in the hatchery for five years, coming here from Lamesa.

Twenty-Four Are Employed

Payroll Based On High Level

Twenty-four full time and seven part time employees are on the payroll of the Cooperative Gin and Supply company.

Although it joins the ranks of bigger businesses in number of full time employees, the company maintains a wage schedule above the average. The company does not have a man on its payroll but what is drawing above the NRA minimum wage requirements.

Besides Manager Earl Phillips and Assistant Manager Joe Ogden, the office force consists of H. P. Wood, bookkeeper, Grady Acuff, accountant, and W. R. Puckett, cashier.

In the store department Sidney Smith, John Davis, L. L. Curtis, Joe "Dad" Hill, Cecil Long and R. T. Parrish are employed. Part time workers in this department are Charles Robinson, Dan Dodson, E. B. Barbee.

Station men are Bob Wheeler, Rufus Davidson and Jim Deal with Bruce Anderson and Harvey Wooten serving as part time helpers.

Cecil Long is heading the trucking division now with workers from other departments assisting him.

J. M. Davis and E. M. Newton handle the implement trade. The gin is operated by Carl Clendenning as foreman and mechanic, Jess Paden, Henry Davidson, Curtis Ray and Bill Todd.

Bloddy Barrington and Ed Clendenning devote their time to the poultry trade, while Lon Curtis is the creamery man. Orlin Holden operates the hatchery in connection with the company business. Although not officially a part of the company, the hatchery is operated in connection with it. Holden has rented a space and operates the 24,000 egg capacity hatchery as though he were an employe of the business.

These workers are most congenial. During summer months they organize sporting teams and compete in games against community and commercial squads.

Efficient operation of the company is largely due to the ability and willingness of these employes to "put out" work.

CO-OPERATIVE GIN & SUPPLY COMPANY

Grocery

to embrace most any staple of fancy article in the grocery line, including standard fruits.
Like other divisions of the rapidly growing concern, the grocery will be operated on a cash and carry basis, Joe T. Ogden, assistant manager, said.
Fixtures are being painted gray to carry out the color scheme of the premises.
The space allotted to the grocery department is apparently modest, but the arrangement provides for shelving on three sides and a counter arrangement in the center. Thus as much stock can be carried in this space as in the average grocery.

Ample warehouse space is being arranged in one of the built-in wharves in the rear of the main structure. Car loads of flour in the structure proper also give the store assurance of sufficient stock in the one article that is most in demand.
Enlargement of the grocery line is in keeping with the company record of progress to make the firm one of the most complete and modern in this section of the state.

Earl Phillips Leads Concern In Expansion

Manager
Rapid strides have been taken by the Co-Operative Gin & Supply under the management of Earl Phillips. In 1931 he took over the duties of manager and has since led the concern in a series of developments which have placed the business in the class of the bigger businesses of this section.

Assistant Head
Joe T. Ogden, new assistant manager of the Co-Op, came to the company from a large milling company. For the past ten years he has been associated with the milling concern and has gained a broad knowledge of feed requirements of poultry and live stock. Although on the job less than two months, Ogden is familiar with the workings of the company and is making his position more than a title.

Taking over management of the Cooperative Gin and Supply company as it merged from its infancy in 1931, Earl Phillips has directed the business into channels of orderly progress.
Phillips has been an employee of the company since it was founded in 1929. In 1931 he was voted successor of G. E. Jackson, who has since died in San Angelo.
Although improvements had been made on the company property from a very outset, most of the rapid development has transpired during Phillips' tenure as manager.
Among the outstanding additions to the company holdings is the new, modern structure which houses the main sales unit of the concern.
The building was erected during the late spring of 1934 at a cost of $5,500. It is an 80x24 foot structure and offers a floor space of 5,120 square feet. The front of the structure has a concrete loading wharf and the rear has an 80 foot house in wharf which is now being used for storage purposes.
Gin machinery has also been replaced during Phillips' management. New gin stands and Mitchell feeders were installed in 1931 and an adequate steam power plant was put in the following year.
Phillips, while not a native of Howard county, is a long time resident of the county, coming here in 1916 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phillips, from Westbrook.
Much of his success may be attributed, not only to his energy, but to a variety of jobs which served as excellent training for this particular job.
After graduating from Britton's Training School in Cisco he taught school in Howard County for two years, one at the Richland school house and the other at Hart Wells. Cotton was selling pretty well then and Phillips was teaching a bunch of country boys who were making two and three thousand dollars a year in contrast to the nine hundred he was drawing as a salary. So he quit school teaching and went to farming. He still owns the farm.
For several falls he worked in gin offices, keeping books. When the firm needed a head bookkeeper in 1929, he was given the place. Two years later he was made manager and held the job ever since, being given credit by the officials of the company for a big share of the company's growth and prosperity.

Experience Is Asset To New Firm Leader
Joe Ogden, Assistant Manager, Specialist In Feed Line
One of the most energetic workers in the Cooperative Gin and Supply company is the assistant manager, Joe Ogden.
Ogden hardly has been at his post for two months, yet he has acquired a grasp of the company affairs and is directing the sales departments like a veteran.
He came to the company from Lawther Mills for which he worked 10 years. During his last three years with the mills, he was in charge of sales over the state. It was in this capacity that he became familiar with the organization here.
Ogden specialized in feeds and feeding of livestock and poultry before he accepted the assistant manager's post here.
"One service this experience qualifies me to render," he says, "is culling, management, feeding and dealing with poultry diseases." He also specializes similarly with cattle except for physical ailments.
He has had experience in caponizing cockerels, also.
His study of feeds enables him to "help ranchers and farmers utilize commodities they produce." Instead of marketing their rough feed stuff and using the money to purchase rations, Ogden says he is able to take what they have and supplement it with other ingredients to give a balanced ration for any animal or fowl.

CLEVELAND (UP)—Philip Masterson, jobless war veteran, found a $348 negotiable check on the street here and got a 15-cent "reward" for returning it to the owner. Masterson reached the owner and turned over the check. "Here are three nickels to cover your telephone calls," said the owner.

BELLAIR, O. (UP)—This time, the fire was brought to the fire department. When a bus caught fire here, the driver calmly drove it a half block to the central fire station, instead of calling firemen to the bus. Charles Jewel, fire truck driver, quickly put out the blaze with a small extinguisher.

With The New Motor-Lift
If you haven't seen this sensational new feature in the Case all-purpose tractor—stop in and let us demonstrate it to you! It's simplicity itself—merely step on the trip button and the motor raises or lowers the implements!
We want you to compare these modern Case all-purpose Tractors with other similar equipment! Big enough to do the job right—22.70 horsepower on the draw bar!
We also want every farmer to see the new "easy-on easy-off" MOTOR-LIFT implements. Each implement is built as a complete unit and is firmly mounted directly on tractor, forming a compact, sturdy and easily operated outfit. You can change implements and be back to work in 15 minutes.

CO-OP GIN AND FILLING STATION

History Of Officials Is Sketched

Only President Has Served Continuously Since Organization

The business administration of the Co-operative Gin and Supply company is handled by a board of directors and three officers. Walter Robinson, well-known farmer who resides just east of the Cosden Refinery, has served as president of the board since its organization in April 1929.

Co-op Head Among First Farmers Here

Walter Robinson Has Lived In Howard County For 44 Years

Among the first acres broken by a farm plough in Howard county, were those broken by the president of the Co-operative Gin and Supply company—Walter Robinson.

That was in 1891. Howard county was then a ranching county and considered none too good for that, by some; certainly not a farming country. The father, C. J. Robinson, bought a farm two miles northeast of Coahoma, in a section that remains today the best farming section in the county. The old Robinson farm is now owned by "Uncle John" Hale.

A natural West Texas resource, refined for the use of West Texans.

Cosden HIGHER OCTANE is not only a West Texas produced and refined gasoline but it equals any and surpasses most of the better grades of gasoline on the market today. Cosden HIGHER OCTANE is refined at 70 OCTANE. This high octane test is not produced by any artificial stimulants or adulterants. Its purity is attested by the fact that it can be used just as safely and effectively for gasoline lamps and stoves as for fuel for passenger cars and trucks.

FIVE POINTS OF QUALITY

The Cosden Traffic Cop sez: If you want to drive, don't drink. If you want to drink, don't drive. The motorist who goes in for hard liquor should go in a taxi. He will be much better off in the long run. In this day and age, sobriety is a fundamental of safe driving.

Farmers Deserting Horse For Tractor

This season farmers are getting more minded.

At least there has been a greater demand by the farmers at Cooperative Gin and Supply company for tractors than for harness.

During the last three months, the company has sold 26 Case tractors and necessary implements. This far outstrips the demand for harness.

Company representatives take a particular pride in their tractors and boast that they can sell them against other competition on the hardest test—performance. With the tractor goes a set of implements suitable for all types of farm work.

Implements carried by the business include points, busters, sweeps, shares and farm harness. Rock Island implements are pushed by the company.

Coop also sells Star windmills, with or without metal towers.

SALEM, Mass. (UP)—Charles E. Dow, G. A. R. veteran, should be comfortable the rest of his life if he uses the bequest left to him by Mrs. Amanda M. Moulton. In her will she left him a feather bed, four pillows, and $200.

L. F. KEISLING LEARNS GIN BUSINESS IN HIS BOYHOOD; GETS START IN OKLAHOMA

Ask any official connected with the Cooperative Gin and Supply company who is the brains behind the success of the organization and he will answer promptly: L. F. Keisling.

Mr. Keisling, a shy, retiring, modest man, who would be the last to claim this distinction, sold the gin to the company. He has retained one-eighth interest financially. As a counselor, however, his interest in the affairs of the company has been much greater than his financial percentage.

The agility of his brain is illustrated by an encounter of Mr. Keisling's with an adding machine salesman. Years ago when Mr. Keisling was directing a chain of gins, and business was flourishing mightily, an adding machine salesman called on him to sell him a machine.

"I don't think I need one. I can add pretty fast myself," answered Mr. Keisling, who can add three figures as quickly as the orinary person can add two.

"If you can beat this machine I'll give it to you," said the salesman scornfully.

"I don't want your machine but I'll test it."

The salesman selected his figures. Mr. Keisling beat the machine in adding them. Needless to say, the salesman was glad he hadn't been taken up on his proposition and could carry that machine to another and more promising prospect.

Childhood

Lafayette Franklin Keisling's experience in ginning and dealing with farmers goes back to his boyhood days. His father owned a county cross-roads store in Overton county, Tenn. In connection with it was a primitive gin and one of those antiques known as lint houses. His father was an active-minded merchant quick to appreciate the values of new mechanical devices and his son inherits this faculty. The older Mr. Keisling was, for instance, the first man in his part of the country to own one of the new steam tractors.

L. F. Keisling was grown when he left Tennessee. He started for Texas by heading north.

His destination was Canada. In St. Louis, he remembered that a half-brother was living in a town in Oklahoma that began with a T, but that was as far as he remembered its name. He went to the postoffice and looked through a list of Oklahoma towns until he came to Tecumseh. Then he turned southward.

He and his brother decided that a gin in Caddo county, Oklahoma, near Camesie, would be a good proposition. There it was that Mr. Keisling first entered on the ginning business for himself, for the brother soon sold out.

When that part of Oklahoma went in heavily for wheat, Mr. Keisling moved to Spur, Texas.

Goes to Canada

Canada, however, was still in his blood. He had married before going to Spur. After a year's stay there, he sold out and in 1917 with his family traveled over the North and west. In Washington everyone was excited over the new wheat lands being opened by the Canadian Pacific railroad in Alberta, Canada.

Mr. Keisling decided to go on one of the excursions and take a look at the country.

His wife stayed behind with their baby son, Jack, her last advice to her husband being: don't buy any land.

Mr. Keisling said he wouldn't, and really thought he meant it, but he came back the owner of a section. So the Keislings turned farmers in a fashion that no Howard county farmer would recognize. They wintered in Los Angeles, Calif., and went to Alberta in the summer to grow wheat. The farm, in common with many others up there, had on it neither horse, cow nor chicken. Tractors, trucks and automobiles furnished the transportation and the grocery stores furnished the rest. Drinking water was hauled a distance of 18 miles. That one summer was all the Keislings wanted of Canada.

Back to Texas

So back to Texas they trekked to end up in Big Spring in 1920. Mr. Keisling bought and operated the Keisling-Gin company until the farmers decided to buy and run a co-operative gin. In 1929 he sold out to them his rebuilt gin.

They sold him back one-fourth interest because they needed the benefit of his business experience and had already perceived that his advice could be depended upon. He had sold the gin on credit, anyway, and it was a good move for both sides. Later he sold one-eighth interest to G. E. Jackson, manager, and retained the one-eighth he holds today.

Before that time the Lamess territory was starting the state with its bumper cotton crops and, Mr. Keisling was interested in its future. He owned several gins in Dawson county so he moved to Lamess to look after them. There he has lived until January of this year, when he and his family moved back to Big Spring. He has an interest in the Hanson-Webb Motor Co., here in addition to his gin holdings.

His son, Jack, is a freshman in S. M. U. and his daughter, Margaret Fay, is a sophomore in the Big Spring high school. Mr. and Mrs. Keisling reside at 1100 Gollad street.

LARGE POULTRY-CREAM TRADE

While most merchandising firms will take poultry in trade, few pay standard prices in cash. Cooperative Gin and Supply company does, and for this reason, it continually is getting a good supply of eggs.

The same holds true for its cream business. On Saturdays as high as 460 gallons of cream have been bought. Last Saturday the company bought 27 cases of eggs at cash prices.
