FIGHT CHANGE IN PLANS FOR P. O. BUILDING

Mahon Protests Omission Of Part Of Basement; Large Part Of Sum Has Been Used For Plans

Rep. George Mahon, congressman from the 19th district, Tuesday wired a vigorous protest to the treasury department against omission of part of the basement from the federal building now under construction here.

In a telegram to W. E. Reynolds, chief of the procurement division, Mahon urged that area ways be provided and the basement roughed in for plumbing fixtures so that the basement could be finished at a later date if not just now.

The plans for the building called for office space in the basement. Unless the area ways are provided when foundations are poured, it will be necessary to tear down a portion of the wall if a change is

Demo Foes Of Roosevelt To Plan 'Revolt'

Anti-New Dealers Throughout Country Asked To Attend Parley

(Copyright, 1936, by United Press) BOSTON, July 28—Prominent democrats opposing President Roosevelt plan to organize revolt on a national scale at a conference in Detroit, August 6, the United Press learned today.

The meeting is being promoted by former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri and Sterling E. Edmunds, St. Louis attorney, it was reported. Former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts plans to attend, and Bainbridge Colby of New York, secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet, also has accepted an invitation, it was said.

Invitations are being sent to dissident democrats throughout the country over Edmunds' signature. They are addressed to "constitutional democrats who are opposed to the present alien control of our party's name and machinery in 30 or more states."

To "determine policy" Ely, reached at his Westfield home, said: "Yes, I plan to attend the meeting. Its purpose is 'to determine the policy,' or anti-new deal democrats, he said.

Ely was one of five democrats who sent a joint anti-Roosevelt manifesto to delegates to the democratic national convention, urging them to repudiate the president. Colby, was another, the three co-signers were Alfred E. Smith, Reed, and Daniel F. Coahalan, of New York.

A person close to the sponsors' conference said "it's difficult to tell whether Smith will be there."

The inference that the one-time residential candidate had been invited was not disputed.

Lyle C. Wilson, chief of the United Press Washington bureau, reported Saturday after several days in Topeka, that an organization of "independent democrats" was being formed to campaign against President Roosevelt from a national headquarters in New York. Today's revelation confirmed his report of plans for the organization, and substantiated other reports he heard.

One of the leaders was that the organizers would include Newton D. Baker and former Sen. Albee Fomere of Ohio.

A broadcast letter of invitation to Detroit was mailed at Waukegan, Mich., but was on business stationery bearing Edmunds' name and St. Louis address.

"We are agreed," it said, "as are all who have any knowledge of constitutional history and of our free style system of government, that the reelection of President Roosevelt and his perseverance in his collectivist policies, with the prospect of his packing the supreme court to validate them, presents one of the gravest problems which has ever confronted the free American citizen."

CLEVELAND MAN IS AWARDED A PAROLE

CLEVELAND, July 28 (AP)—Chief Police Prosecutor Perry A. Frey announced today that Gov. E. W. Marland of Ohio had approved Frey's proposal to parole to him for 30 days Carlton B. Chilton, who walked the Oklahoma penitentiary 23 years ago while serving a burglary sentence.

Chilton was described by police as a respected citizen who surrendered voluntarily to officers who had received an Oklahoma request to take him in custody.

NEW EVIDENCE IS CLAIMED IN MURDER

LOS ANGELES, July 28 (AP)—The sentencing of Robert S. James, convicted of first-degree murder in the snake bite-drowning death of his seventh wife, was deferred today until September 3 on a defense motion for a new trial based on a claim of "newly discovered evidence."

Charles Hope, a former sailor who pleaded guilty to the murder and testified against James, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Woman Hypnotized For Childbirth, Method Termed 'Complete Success'

COLUMBUS, O., July 28 (UP)—The first case of childbirth by hypnotism in Columbus medical history was recorded today as a "complete success."

A 19 1/2 pound daughter was born to Mrs. Leonard Loomis, 51, while her physician, Dr. A. H. Kanter, kept her in a deep hypnotic sleep. Mrs. Loomis said the childbirth, her first, caused her no pain.

Dr. Kanter held Mrs. Loomis' left hand, palm down, above her head while he said in a soft tone:

"You are tired, so very, very tired. Just keep your eyes focused on my hand, and relax. Your arms and legs are relaxing. They are so heavy. Just relax, relax. You are so sleepy, so sleepy, so very, very sleepy."

And so on until "When I count three you will be asleep. One, two, three."

Mrs. Loomis was reported to have been kept asleep about 6 1/2 hours before the actual delivery. She was awakened at intervals to keep her refreshed.

Dr. Kanter reported the actual delivery, of which Mrs. Loomis remembers nothing, required about 15 minutes.

While workmen raze the old Coahoma school building, (lower photo) the new structure, shown in the two upper views, nears completion. The original two-story structure was condemned as unsafe long since and school was transferred to another comparatively new building. Last year the city voted $25,000 bonds to make possible a FWA grant for the construction of a combination high school unit, gymnasium, and auditorium. Bids for equipment will be taken soon and fixtures installed in time for opening of school.

925 Cars In Scouts Give Safety Lane

195 Inspected First Day Found Defective In Some Way

Nine hundred and twenty-five cars were run through the safety lane operated here Monday as a courtesy service by the highway patrol, department of public safety.

A steady stream of traffic was routed through the lane again Tuesday morning and afternoon and Capt. G. P. Nully, in charge of the six highway patrolmen conducting the safety tests, predicted that more than 1,000 cars would pass through the lane before the day was over.

Of the number which were inspected Monday, 195 were defective on one or more points. Fifty-three were immediately repaired and run back through the lane and given approvals.

Trip To Sea From Madrid Must Be Made

Couple Left Tied To Bed; Three Intruders Escape

Three bandits, two of them masked and armed, robbed Floyd's Place No. 2, east of Coahoma, Monday evening and escaped with a quantity of liquor and $36 in cash.

Entering the place at 9:45 p. m., two of the men ordered E. L. Gregg and his wife, Lazelle, into the back room and made them lie face down upon the bed.

Hit With Pistol

The cash register was cleared of about $28 and the bandits took approximately $8 from Gregg's pocketbook. When Gregg attempted to steal a glance at one of the robbers, another rapped him over the head with the butt of a pistol, he told members of the sheriff's department.

After loading 200 bottles of whiskey into a waiting car, the bandits ripped the telephone cord away and lashed Gregg and his wife to the bed.

It was more than 10 minutes before Gregg was able to free himself. With the telephone out of order, he had to catch a ride to Coahoma to report the incident.

The place was owned by Floyd Thomson and operated by Gregg.

Besides the money and liquor, the robbers made away with a suitcase, a double barrel shot gun and an old pistol.

Must File For New Permits

Applications, With Bond, Due From Package Stores Soon

Operators of package stores and other similar establishments for operation of which bond is required are being notified by the district offices of the Texas liquor control board that applications for new permits are now being received.

Bonds must accompany the applications, district officials said.

All applications for such permits must be in by August 26, it was said. Permits granted on applications and approved bond will be good for one year. Liquor board officials advised prospective applicants to arrange for bond and make application for permit before the deadline.

Publication was ordered for Tuesday on notices by the Texas liquor control board of cancellation of two package store permits in Big Spring. The places affected by the order were Dave's Liquor Store on highway one and Red's Liquor Store. The order asserted that permits were being cancelled because satisfactory bond was not maintained. A new application was being sought for Dave's store.

The meeting is sponsored by the Howard county chapter of the conservation associations, of which Lee Hanson is president and H. C. Carson is secretary. They are inviting all interested persons to attend tonight's session.

May Complete Airport Deal This Evening

Corporation Representatives Due To Meet With Commission

A representative of security holders in the Big Spring Airport corporation told The Herald today that papers were complete whereby title to the local airport property could be transferred to the city, when the commission meets in its regular session tonight.

Work of securing releases on bonds and stocks in the corporation to permit transfer of the property at a price of approximately 90 cents on the paid-in dollar has been under way for some time. Voters more than two months ago approved a proposition for the issuance of $42,000 in municipal warrants to finance purchase and improvement of the landing field. Of this sum, $36,000 is to go for purchase and $6,000 to be used toward improvements.

City officials announced some time back that the municipality was ready to complete the deal when title can be transferred.

Stockholders and bondholders in the corporation put up something over $70,000, several years ago, to purchase and improve the landing field.

The property is listed as 272.5 acres and improvements thereon. It was reported Tuesday that the city had made a survey of the field and found a discrepancy in the acreage. This problem probably will be up for discussion between airport corporation representatives and city officials tonight.

Man Killed, Two Injured

Shooting Result Of Dispute Following Car Collision

SAN ANTONIO, July 28 (AP)—J. W. Britte, automobile salesman, was dead; Mrs. W. R. Hull suffered a head wound, and Roy Franklin, 14, was also wounded, the result of a shooting in the Olmos Park section here.

Britte died from a bullet wound in the temple after he had fired two shots into an automobile in which Mrs. Hull and the boy were riding, following a collision between his car and that of Mrs. Hull.

The woman attempted to disarm the man, and during the struggle the shot was fired which killed Britte, police said.

The woman's husband said he and Britte had been friends for some time. They recently had a misunderstanding but had parted friends, he told officers.

Drouth Cuts Corn Figures

Three Producing States Revise Yield Down As Heat Continues

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP)—Drouth blight deepened in the Corn Belt today with three of its big producing states revising yield expectations downward.

In Iowa, the premier corn state, Federal Agricultural Statistician Leslie M. Carl estimated that for 20 counties along the western and southern borders 50 to 90 per cent of the crop was ruined.

For 15 other counties in the same area, Carl said the prospects were the worst "they've ever seen" and scantier than in the drouth year of 1934. Only the northwest quarter of the "fall corn" state, Carl said, had a chance to raise a "decent crop."

Wisconsin's corn has been irreparably damaged, reported Walter M. Ebbing, statistician for the state-federal reporting service.

One hundred degree heat again prevailed in downstate Illinois, as statistician A. J. Suratt said the "drouth remains unbroken" except for scattered favored areas.

With no general rains predicted, corn prices soared on the Chicago board of trade and closed 2 to 2 1/2 cents above Saturday's final figures.

Frank Morris Wins Place In August Runoff

To Oppose Ernest Thompson In Railroad Commission Race

DALLAS, July 28 (AP)—Frank S. Morris of Dallas county, credited with 252,057 votes in the latest Texas Election Bureau tabulation, was virtually assured of a place in the August democratic runoff with Ernest O. Thompson, in the contest for state railroad commissioner.

Thompson, present commission chairman, lacked a majority, with his total poll of 407,952.

Morris had a small lead over Carl Hardin of Stephensville, but only scattered blocks of votes remained out today, and it is considered a certainty that Hardin could not overcome the lead.

The Election Bureau indicated the total vote would be about 980,000.

Interest of voters switched to congressional contests, in which at least five-run-off races were probable.

Attracting most attention was the fight between Thomas I. Blanton of Abilene and Clyde Garrett of Eastland, in the 17th district. In an upset, Garrett piled up a big lead over Blanton in Saturday's primary.

Militant Maury Maverick of San Antonio faced a run-off with Lamar Seeligson, popular attorney, in the Twentieth district. Maverick was ahead with 18,969 votes to Seeligson's 12,773.

Ed Gossett of Vernon, who came with a rush in late returns to the Texas Election Bureau, was placed in the run-off against Rep. W. D. McFarlane. The choice lay between Oscar Holcombe, Houston Mayor and Albert Thomas in the Eighth district. Thomas was but a few hundred votes behind Holcombe.

Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth, in the Twelfth district, went into the second contest with Julian Hyer.

RECEIVED 286 VOTES

A typographical error in Monday's Herald listed the vote of Pete Johnson, in the run-off for commissioner of precinct No. 2, as 196. It should have read 286 votes.

Pen Fugitive Is Arrested

Escaped Convict Taken At Odessa Following A Chase

ODESSA, July 28—Fred Shelburn, who recently escaped from the Texas penitentiary at Huntsville, was arrested here following a chase through town yesterday afternoon. Three men, suspected of harboring Shelburn, were also arrested and are being held in the Ector county jail.

Sheriff Reeder Webb, Hugh Ratliff, city marshal, and Bill Jones, deputy sheriff, encountered Shelburn about four miles from here on the Andrews road. The escaped convict was driving a Ford V-8 and led the officers, also driving a V-8, a merry chase through the heart of town. Shelburn abandoned his car, believed to be stolen, after he failed to make a turn at the telephone office. He was then run down by the officers.

Shelburn at first denied his identity, giving the officers another name, but a Midland deputy sheriff came here and identified him as the man given ten years in a Midland court on a charge of shooting Foy Bell in an attempted hijacking.

Officers found an automatic shotgun, knob-knocking tools and dynamite fuses in the abandoned car.

"Naturally his consistent hitting would help drive in runs if he were to be moved to clean-up position," Dyke agrees.

What Makes the Wheels of Jumbo Go 'Round

Artist's Conception of the Innards of Billy Rose's Spectacle

Billy Rose's circus-musical comedy-drama-revue-extravaganza "Jumbo" will be seen to even greater advantage during its stay at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial than during its season-long run at the New York Hippodrome. True nearly a quarter of a million dollars was expended making the famous Manhattan playhouse habitable for the elephantine spectacle. But the "little ol' cow town way out west" has gone the big town on the Hudson one better. At Fort Worth a complete circus amphitheatre has been constructed, the first to be devoted exclusively to a circus in over seventy years. Designed and supervised by Albert Johnson it represents an investment of $300,000.00, over a third of which is allotted to electrical equipment and another $100,000.00 to paraphernalia.

When Billy Rose set out to produce a new kind of circus he did. Truly it may be said that "Jumbo" is the first upset to tradition in the sawdust ring in 100 years. As Brainy Bowers, the comic character in the hit show observes with scorn, "Women? Women in a coliseum? Dames wid big muscles. No sex appeal. Sex appeal, dat's what dey want." And that's precisely what they get in "Jumbo" which 's one of the main attractions at the Fort Worth Frontier

Salvage

When voters last year approved a constitutional amendment to permit the mentally-afflicted to receive temporary treatment in state hospitals without having been declared lunatics, usually the effect was thought of in terms of an individual patient, and his chance to be cured of impending mental derangement.

But the result has been to lay a particularly heavy task upon the state, and the board of control which handles this particular supervision for the state. To meet the task, the board now is taking strenuous action, and later will ask the legislature for cooperative efforts.

There are now about 500 insane persons—those tried in court under the old procedure and declared legally insane, awaiting admission to the hospitals, where, so far as known, they will be wards of the state the rest of their lives. Present hospitals are full.

The new temporary treatment plan, designed to salvage many of those in early stages of mental illness, will call for facilities to receive at least 1,000 patients. The state has in prospect three small psychopathic wards at Wichita Falls, Terrell and Galveston hospitals, if it can get federal aid in time to make contracts by the end of August; but they will not be enough to begin the widespread temporary hospitalization intended by the voters.

Chairman Claude D. Teer of the board of control has emphasized the financial benefit as well as the returns in human salvage of the early treatment of psychopathic cases, because often the 90 days' early treatment saves the state from supporting an inmate for perhaps 10 years.

The legislature should be convinced readily in favor of a liberal policy in providing enough facilities to carry on this work in the spirit of the voters' approval of the constitutional amendment authorizing it.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

—By George Tucker

This is being written on a private terrace, in a smart hotel, 32 stories above New York. There is a sun, but the feel of it is scarcely noticeable under these cooling awnings. Actually, a breeze is whispering in from the river, and the green wicker furniture and the pleasant hedges (real ones in trenches which are filled with dark, fertile loam) provide a gratifying escape from the sultry levels of the sidewalks.

Across the canyon on another terrace a snooty girl is taking a sunbath. Her adequate costume is composed of two brightly printed bandannas. She has a pillow and a pile of magazines, and every now and then a maid appears to ask her if she desires anything.

Today the visibility is excellent and the waterfront is in bluish relief. You can see some boys fishing off the end of a pier—probably for eels—and nearby a man is coiling rope on the end of a barge.

Wonder of wonders, there are no gulls in sight. It is the first time I am able to recall a complete absence of them. Usually they are wheeling lazily out to sea or screaming in profusion around the ferryboat slips. But today there isn't a single one.

However, there is some activity. A lone tramp, freighted to her bulwarks, is waiting to dump her cargo into those trucks on the end of that big dock. What does she carry? Maybe oil, maybe bananas. (That girl across the way has just turned around and so I am now qualified to report on her appearance. She is pretty but impudent looking, with a turned-up nose and very wide eyes which grow coldly impersonal as they swing past this obtuse observer. Her attention finally settles on a magazine and she idly thumbs through it.)

(You can see the grimaces on the faces of those huge grinning gargoyles adorning the crest of the Chrysler building. Those gargoyles are interesting, because one of them used to be the resting place of a vicious hawk which landed there while waiting for unsuspecting pigeons to sail by. Then he would seize the terrified birds and make off with them. One photographer was bold enough to crawl out and get a picture of the hawk as it perched there.

Queensborough bridge, Hellgate bridge, Brooklyn bridge arch like rainbows across the river. The cars on them seem like toys in a department store. The men are little mechanical figures.

On a lower roof—probably 15 stories down, a group of men are playing volley ball. They are business men who are attempting to reduce their waistlines.

Here comes one of those big airliners, a silver streak in the sun, heading it to Boston. From here it doesn't look a bit larger than from the ground. Wonder if the hostess is very pretty? There's a bloke following the plane with field glasses. I'll bet he's the No. 1 Peeping Tom this side of Yorkville.

Later, a Filipino appears with a tray of iced coffee and nibbles. It is delicious and I leave off thinking about that girl across the way to reflect on the joys of the palate. But only for the moment. "Why not," one argues, "relax just a moment? Forty winks, no more. A cat nap!"

When I awaken it is late afternoon and the object of my vigil has been defeated. That snooty femme with the tilted nose has disappeared!

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—This may be a bitter pill for Henry Wallace's boys to swallow, but the confidential fact is that the campaign to plant soil-binding instead of soil-depleting crops is not going over with the farmers.

This has been the spearhead of Wallace's policy for three long years, reaching a climax with the soil conservation program adopted after the supreme court knocked out the AAA.

After the supreme court voided the most-often word, went out from the agriculture boys that the decision was a blessing in disguise, that the new soil conservation program was better than crop limitation.

But it has not worked out that way, and the best gauge is the purchase of seed. Farmers are simply not buying seed for soil-binding crops.

This is the verdict of the hay, feed and seed division of the bureau of agricultural economics, an outfit established long before the new deal was thought of. It reports there has been no appreciable increase in clover, alfalfa, timothy or redtop purchases during the past spring.

Only explanation is that the soil conservation program is not getting across.

Entirely aside from republican or democratic politics, this is something of a tragedy, since one of the best ways of preventing quick runoff, floods and erosion is the planting of soil-binding crops.

Too Bad
President Roosevelt anchored one night at South Brookville, Me., a small fishing hamlet on the "steep and rock-bound coast" of New England. He moored his craft close ashore.

It was a big occasion for the little town, and after supper all the summer visitors and natives crowded down to the water's edge to look at the trim presidential vessel and to try to catch a glimpse of its distinguished skipper.

Said a summer visitor: "Too bad the president anchored in so close. Somebody should have warned him. He'll be eaten alive by mosquitoes."

Replied a native: "Afraid not; wind not in the right direction."

Unaffiliated
Secretary Ickes was holding a press conference.

"Say, Mr. Secretary," demanded a reporter, "aren't you doing a bit of 'scabbing'?"

"The interior department chief sat up, somewhat disturbed.

"Scabbing? What do you mean by that remark?"

"Well," drawled the reporter, "you're the only cabinet member remaining on the job. All the others have walked out on the Washington heat."

"As far as I know, the cabinet has not so yet affiliated with the American Federation of Labor," wince-cracked Ickes.

Absent Executives
Apparently the new deal is not worrying about the elections. A check-up on the Roosevelt merry-go-round on the day of the Ickes press conference showed only two cabinet members in the city: Ickes and Madame Secretary Perkins.

And Miss Perkins was leaving for Europe.

Here was the roll call of the other cabinet members:

Secretary of War Dern—In the hospital.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson—Canvassing at the Rapidan camp.

Secretary of Commerce Roper—in Europe.

Secretary of State Hull—Weak-end in Virginia.

Attorney General Cummings—At a Pennsylvania mountain resort.

The president—Yachting off the coast of Maine.

Certainly, if the republicans lose the election it will be their own fault.

No Pie
If you are waiting for a windfall in the form of extra dividends from the new corporation surplus tax this year—don't hold your breath.

There won't be any—at least not as a result of the tax. Not until after elections, anyway.

Treasury experts, whose business it is to know, say their confidential information is that most corporations plan to withhold distribution of their surpluses until they see what happens November 3.

If Roosevelt wins, and the house remains democratic, then there will be a flood of extra dividends. But if Landon should win, there will be no pie.

For in the latter event there will be a knock-down-drag-out fight to repeal the corporation tax. It does not become operative until March 15, and there would be plenty of time to wipe it off the statute books.

The treasury is proceeding on the basis that the law will remain operative. Therefore on September 1 it will issue a set of regulations covering the administration of the new tax.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

Chapter 15
No lack of bread and butter, together with three slices of bread and butter of precisely the right thickness before James White's footsteps sounded in the house. He was a trifle taken back to find the inspector in the kitchen, and started to remonstrate with his wife about it.

"Please," Hylton begged. "It's entirely my fault. I insisted on poking my way in here. I hereby give her leave to say aloud all the things she has been thinking of me for the past 20 minutes."

"They might make you blush, Mr. Hylton."

"Well, no one can say fairer than that," the inspector laughed. "Any news, sergeant?"

White was still faintly repressive. "Shall we go into the other room, sir, and talk there?" he suggested.

"Just as you like."

The two men settled down in the front room, which was given over to White's official capacity.

"Do you object to smoking in the office?" Hylton asked, and White smiled thinly. "You do as you like, sir," he answered.

"About the murder, sir—" White began.

"Ah, yes, the murder. I knew there was something. Go ahead, sergeant."

"I haven't had any luck, sir."

"Where have you been?"

"I've been to Morechester, Fannum and Fentown Poor Law Institutions. I thought I'd look through the casual wards and see if by any chance they had any of the chap I spotted in the village a day or two back."

"Any luck?"

"No, sir. Drew blank everywhere. I called at the Morechester station and they let me see a couple of toughs they've got in the cells for vagrancy, but they weren't my men."

"You've still got a soft spot in your heart for the 'outsider' theory, sergeant?"

"Well, sir, I can't think of anyone in the village who could do it."

The inspector carefully knocked the ash off his cigar. "Can't you?" he asked. "I can. Several. Anybody in Hope Ederton could have done it, sergeant, and what's more quite a few of 'em would have some sort of motive."

"But everybody's going on just the same—"

"Good heavens, man, what do you expect? You don't think that whoever did it is going to pack a hand-temper than he was then. In fact, it was afraid he would have a stroke in my office, which would have been very awkward, very awkward indeed—"

"What happened next, Mr. Hanley?"

"Why, Mr. Burdett instructed me there and then to draw up a new will. When I heard his terms I protested and begged him to reconsider the matter, but there was never any arguing with Arthur Burdett. He would have the will drawn up and executed on the spot." Quinton Hanley paused and looked over the top of his round gold rimmed glasses. "And it is that document, Mr. Inspector," he said, "that I have with me at the moment."

"Dig it out," Hylton urged, "and let's have a peep at it."

A spasmodic Quinlan Hanley's face at these unlegal expressions; he paused with his fingers on the buckle of a black leather attaché case.

Kyle Sanders Wed In Clovis N.M. On 12th

Marries Miss Frances Pangburn In Sunday Evening Ceremony

A marriage of interest to many Big Spring people is that of Kyle Sanders, former high school football player here, to Miss Frances Pangburn at Clovis, N. M., on Sunday evening, July 12, at the First Baptist church.
