Parmer County Stock Show sale sets a record

Once again, the annual Parmer County Junior Livestock Show was a huge success -- and likely will set another financial record.

The 65th show brought in $126,000 the first day -- with add-ons to come later.

Last year, the first day showed a total of $108,125. With later add-ons, the final total was a record $165,348.

And those totals compare to the first day in 2010 -- $88,225. Thus, there has been a tremendous increase the past two years.

To show how far the county stock show has come, these numbers compare to the $40,965 total in 1971.

Grand Champions were shown by Ashton Mason, goats; Jared Timms, lambs; Jason Berend, heifers and steers; Cade Box, barrows, and Brayden Potts, gilts.

Here are the full results:

Their next production is "Dead to the Last Drop" and they are particularly looking for items to dress an older gentleman, a ditsy performer, a professor, etc.

County reinstates burn ban

The Parmer County Commissioners on Monday reinstated the county's burn ban, effective immediately, for 90 days.
 It is up to the discretion of County Judge Trey Ellis to lift the ban at any time before the 90 days if he sees fit, normally after consulting with the commissioners court.
 Ellis also reported on some excellent financial news for the county.
 Specialized Public Finance, of Lubbock, which handled the original bond issue for the county jail, had contacted the commissioners on the possibility of refinancing that bond issue due to lower interest rates.
 The commissioners gave the firm the go-ahead to check into it, then agreed to do so.
 Originally, it appeared that about $120,000 would be saved by refinancing on the 10-year debt.
 But for the first time, Parmer County received a financial rating from Standard & Poor. It came back as "A+," the international rating firm's highest mark.
 So on Jan. 19, Parmer County got its bond issue refinanced at a record low rate of 1.78 percent. This came at a time when many homeowners are refinancing their homes at 3 and 4 percent rates -- and happy about it.

 This meant that instead of the original savings estimate of $120,000, Parmer County will save $243,300 over the next 10 years.
 In other business, the commissioners:
 -- Received two bids for Parmer County Jail inmate medical services, from Lacey Meeks and Melinda Burney, who both have Farwell offices.
 Ms. Meeks had the lowest bid and was awarded the year-long contract.
 -- Approved the move of the 911 dispatch center in Friona to the Parmer County Jail.
 It was supported by the city councils, of Friona, Farwell and Bovina.
 The change should mean faster response time due to new costly computer equipment the county has received a grant to buy.
 The move will be made in February.
 -- Discussed repairing or replacing the air conditioning units at the county jail.
 Of the 10 original air conditioners, 7 have had problems (the jail is now 10 years old).
 County Sheriff Randy Geries plans to move the main unit from the ground to the roof, which should make it most cost efficient.

100 Years

Farwell Texico Lazbuddie Bovina

Of the State Line Tribune

Back in 1908, the school year was three months long

From 1986:

Lillian (Davis) Benderman, longtime area resident, was born in North Carolina in 1899. She came to this area in 1908 when Texico was bigger than Clovis.

They got off the train at Taiban, N.M., and went 15 miles south where they lived on a claim for several years. The claim was a dryland farm where Lillian, parents and 10 siblings lived in a one-room half dugout which had a tin roof.

All 11 children managed to go to school even though the family was poor. They walked 5 miles to school. Lillian started school when she was 9 years old. Her father taught all his children to read before they started school. At that time, the school year was only 3 months long. Later, it increased to 5 months.

The Davis family didn't have it easy to say the least. They were considered to be "nesters" by the surrounding ranchers. At one time, their fences were cut and cattle were run in on their crops.

After several years, the family moved because a good source of water could not be found. She recalls that in 1920 Lillian got appendicitis and needed a hospital but there was none in Clovis at that time. Three doctors rented a room in Clovis and performed the surgery on their dining room table.

When she was 16, she was baptized in a stock tank south of Taiban by a Baptist minister.

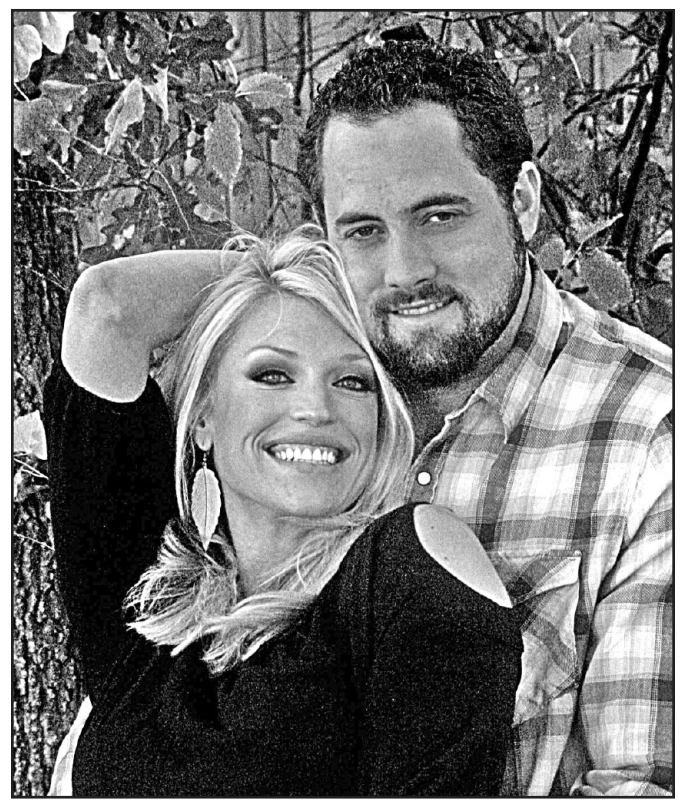

After she finished school, she became a teacher in a one-room school. In 1920, she married George Nuzum in Farwell. Because he was just under 21 and his father away, he was able to get married in Texas without parent's consent.

They lived in Clovis for awhile, then moved to Belen, N.M. When they married for 2 1/2 years, Nuzum died, leaving Lillian with two children, including a daughter born 2 days after her father's death.

She returned to school and completed new requirements for teaching, then taught school to support her two children. She worked at Yeso, N.M., then at Guadalupe, N.M. She met J.B. Benderman, a railroad man. They married in 1929.

Shortly later, the Depression hit and Benderman was laid off his job, but Lillian continued teaching school until 1935 when they moved to Fort Sumner after her husband returned to his job.

In 1942, the railroad moved them back to Clovis.

Border Banter

--Mike Pomper

One of the mainstays of rural living are fund-raising meals.

They are so important to our churches, our schools and our folks in need. It shows the strength of the folks living in a rural area when they come together to help.

It makes me proud to have been part of this over the years, as I have attended many a fund-raiser.

All during the year are different fund-raiser get-togethers. But there are a few coming up soon that I wanted to make a special note of:

First, the Texico Volunteer Fire Dept. will have a fund-raiser enchilada supper on Jan. 28 at 5 p.m. mt at the Texico Community Center for Dwayne Foreman.

The Texico firefighter has been diagnosed with cancer and funds raised will go toward medical expenses.

The following day, Jan. 29, sees the annual German sausage dinner at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Bovina. It is held from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the parish hall on 3rd Street.

I can testify to how delicious these sausage dinners are, and have been known to buy some extra sausage to take home.

Mmmmm. And coming up on Feb. 12 is the 13th annual Life in Christ Academy ribeye dinner. It will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Farwell Community Center.

The cost is a free will donation. A dessert auction is planned, and academy students will entertain.

This is the chief fundraiser for this excellent school which has become a major asset to our area. I hope you can participate.

Again, this dinner will leave you with a good, full feeling and the camaraderie with area folks is really special.

When you talk about the importance of a local newspaper, the promotion of local fund-raisers falls into that category. It's about people helping people. Government is not involved. It's up to plain folks, like you and me, to make things right. I like that.

Farwell Council told that city will get new signs

New Farwell Police Officer Jarod Romero was introduced to the Farwell City Council at its meeting Jan. 17.

Romero was raised in Clovis and has worked for Parmer County for the past four years. He graduated from the Police Academy in 2011. He plans to move to Farwell.

In other business, the council:

-- Approved a building permit for Donald Jones, of 202 7th St., to make curb cuts at his property.

-- Put on hold a building permit for Vincente Meza, of 603 Ave. B. He was previously approved for a room addition to his property, but has increased the size and changed the addition. He is now adding a second story to the addition that was not previously approved.

-- Did not approve the Farwell Care and Rehabilitation Center's request for a carport made of canvas. The Council verified that any carport must be constructed of metal per city code.

-- Heard a request from Ricardo Rivas, a production manager from Southwest Cheese, who wants to move a mobile home to 304 8th St.

Rivas had already purchased the lot and the mobile home before he knew of zoning restrictions for mobile homes in Farwell. Since the lot size is small for conventional building and Rivas was not informed prior to his purchase of the lot, the council agreed to send letters to all neighboring properties asking for their input.

If no adjacent neighbor objects within a two-week period, the council will approve Rivas' request for a variance.

-- Heard a report from the water department concerning state's tank inspections. The Farwell tanks passed with no complaints.

Also, it was reported that about a dozen applications had been received for the job opening with the water department. They will begin interviews soon.

The department reported one major leak that was repaired and a few minor ones last month. All water department buildings are currently being consolidated into one facility in order to facilitate inventory matters.

-- Learned that new signs will soon be going up in Farwell. One will be placed at the entrance to the city and will warn of high water during rain. The other will be a warning sign near the railroad crossing.

-- Agreed to postpone trying to replace the City Secretary Kinzi Hall, until the beginning of summer. Ms. Hall agreed to postpone her scheduled departure so that the city can have more time to find a replacement and train the new hire.

Hereford.

That rumor is false. Dr. Neal said they have opened an office in Hereford two days a week to work with customers who are worried about gas prices and the economy.

The office in Bovina will be open regular hours every day.

Neal said there might also be another location opening in New Mexico soon, but that would only be two days a month.

Texico Schools will host the Curry County Spelling Bee on Jan. 27 at 10 a.m. mt in the Educational Complex.

Word has been received of the death on Jan. 7 of Gerald Foster, 66, of Lubbock.

Among the survivors is a sister, Nedda Travis, and three brothers, Gary Foster, Lyndon Foster and D.H. Foster.

No new county candidates file despite later deadline

Due to the controversy concerning redistricting in Texas, the deadline for signing up for the primary election was put back from mid-January to Feb. 1.

Since the deadline extension, Parmer County's two political party chairmen, Democrat Robert White and Republican Floyd Reeve, report that there have been no new signups.

As things stand now, the only Parmer County race involves four men seeking the GOP nomination for Pct. 3 (Farwell area) county commissioner.

They are Kenny White, Michael Haseloff, Harrol Redwine and incumbent Ronald Byrd.

The primary election date also was moved due to the court decisions. It was moved to early April, but that date is not set in concrete.

Depending on how long it takes the courts to draw up the final boundaries, the election could be pushed back as far as June.

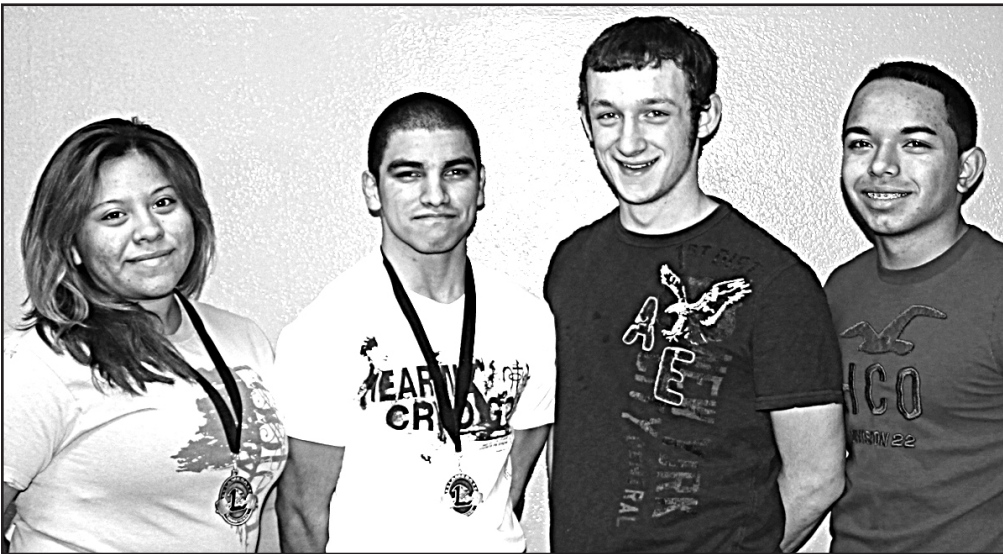

The main sticking point is from Latino representatives who argue that the new redistricting does them a disservice.

We now have the FLAVORx system.

The FLAVORx Pediatric System customizes the flavor of prescription and over-the-counter medicines. With our special Bitterness Suppressor, Sweetening Enhancer and a blend of natural and artificial flavors, we add a little fun to the process of getting better while masking the unpleasant taste that normally discourages your child from taking medicine. One important thing to keep in mind.

While our kid-approved flavors will help the medicine go down, there's no mistaking them for candy. That means you'll have peace of mind knowing your child will still understand the difference between better-tasting FLAVORx-enhanced medicines and real sweet treats.

ular sausage, jalapeno, green chile or extra hot.

The green chile variety has been a great hit. The New Mexico-type flavor blends well in the sausage and provides a tasty alternative.

And some customers prefer the extra-hot variety. Made with extra hot jalapenos and other peppers, it's the "spicy" of life, so to speak.

The actual dinner also includes sauerkraut, cream potatoes and gravy, green beans, homemade bread and desserts, and more.

The dinner will be at the parish hall on 3rd Street in Bovina from 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 29.

Donations are $8 for adults and $4 for children under 6. Take-outs are available.

The St. Ann's Society, a group of about 25 women who assist with church programs, provides all the home-cooked extras for the dinner.

Months ahead of time, they chop over 350 pounds of cabbage for the homemade sauerkraut, for example. This traditional side is always a crowd pleaser.

And if there is any extra sauerkraut or bread, it will be sold to customers on a first-come, first-serve basis at dinner's end. Plus, you can buy sausage by the pound.

Most importantly, the fund-raiser benefits church programs.

Share in the tradition and try something a little different for your Sunday dinner. I'll see you there.

Border Banter

athletes.

I observed that Sudan sometimes has student athletes who are not home-grown (I'm trying to say this in a nice way).

So let's skip to the bottom line:

What I wrote in a column years ago was that it was wrong, wrong, wrong to bring in athletes to a small town just so the team can win.

What it does is relegate the kids who grow up in the community to the bench or in a backup position or even to the point where they can't make the team.

One of the great positives about a small town school, like Bovina, Lazbuddie or Farwell, is that if a youngster wants to participate in an activity, he or she usually has that opportunity.

But I would be mad as hell if I saw Farwell Schools, for example, go out of their way to bring in some athletes from wherever and our local kids would sit on the bench or not even be on the team.

Oh, sure, the team would win more games. So what. At what cost?

Now, I don't know if this year's Sudan team is full of athletes who have been Sudan students since kindergarten or first grade. They may well have been.

But the push to beat up on a young, inexperienced opponent makes me continue to question the goals of the Sudan athletic program. And that has not changed over the years for me.

Years ago, when I wrote my column about not respecting Sudan, the then-Sudan newspaper also published it (without even asking me). And I got a call from the Sudan School superintendent defending his policies.

While I appreciated him doing that, it didn't change my mind.

I don't care about how many wins our teams get. What I do care about is how being on a team helps our youngsters mature into men and women. That should be the No. 1 belief of any coach.

Sure, the Sudan girls probably celebrated bigtime over their win over the Fillies.

But who were the real victors?

Bovina discusses paying EMS volunteers

The Bovina City Council on Jan. 17 looked at possibly paying EMS volunteers.

The pay would be for volunteers who meet certain qualifications.

Bovina is considering this as an incentive tool to help the service meet demand. Pay was suggested to be structured on a "per response" basis.

Concerns were voiced over low-income residents' ability to pay.

This will be re-addressed at a later meeting. In other news, the council:

- Supported the move of the county's 911 service from Friona to the county sheriff's office in Farwell. This will allow for a faster response time of emergency personnel.

- Joined a purchasing network with Region 4 which could offer savings on certain supplies.

- Agreed to a mutual aid agreement with Castro County. This covers responsibilities for events such as law enforcement crossing county lines.

- Approved changes to the City Code covering fencing and building permits.

- Heard from Johnny Brownlow, of Johnny Brownlow Construction, regarding an estimate on work for the planned community center.

The council unanimously approved the estimate for construction of the Bovina Community Center with certain limitations.

Construction primarily is limited to concrete foundation and the base building structure including insulation, internal frame work, and rough plumbing.

This is Phase 1 of the project. Phase 2 will be out for bids later.

- Voted unanimously to approve a 2-year contract for Jana Pitcock to continue as City Manager at agreed salary and benefits, retroactive to Jan. 1.

Mrs. Pitcock has recently received her CPM certification and is working four days a week, up from three in the past.

A St. Ann's tradition

St. Ann's Catholic Church's traditional sausage dinner has been a long-standing tradition in the Bovina area.

The dinner was started in 1969 to raise money to fund church programs. The original old German sausage recipe came from Mrs. Buxkemper, a family member to Joe and Eunice Schilling, long-time members of St. Ann's.

Mrs. Schilling's family recipe still is used today to make some of the best German sausage around.

Today, over 40 volunteers make the sausage by hand, package and weigh it, and fill their orders. Since the sausage is so popular, church members take pre-orders to make sure enough sausage is made each year.

Organizer Jason Schilling, Eunice's son, predicts that this year the church group will make 3,500 pounds of the famous sausage.

Some changes have been made over the years -- now customers can choose between reg-

Live Cattle prices climbed almost $6.00 in just the last ten trading days. Cash prices at $126 did surprise some analysts, but the nearby February contract rallied into Friday before falling back down into the close. Prices have now moved back from the lower end of a six month trading range back to the top. The highs have been falling between $126.00-127.00. Technically, trends are up, but probably are leaning towards a potential decline over the near term. A break to new highs above $127.00 would project a sharply higher move.

Feeder prices were also able to push to new contract high territory, but the nearby March contract was stopped by long term resistance around the $155.00 level. For those of you who are interested in this particular number can draw a trend line across the tops beginning from last July and into last weeks highs. This trend line crosses the September, October and November highs. Hitting this line stopped the advance on each occasion with last weeks high also stopping the advance for the time being.

Soybean prices have seen a continued advance since breaking down right after the last USDA Crop Production report. As of today, prices have actually recovered 100% of their losses seen on report day. Technically, the market is now poised to retest their early January highs.

Corn prices have also recovered about one-third of their losses seen right after the last USDA report. Corn will need to move just a little higher if intraday trends are going to turn positive. Otherwise, the $6.20 area will remain a strong level of resistance. At this time, it would take a close above the $6.37 level to project another retest of the early January high.

Wheat prices which took the hardest hit in the grain complex after the last USDA report has also seen the least amount of recover. Prices are moving higher, but they have not even recovered one-third of their losses seen since making highs in early January. If the rest of the grain complex can continue to move higher, wheat should find some support?

Cotton prices were able to turn most of their long term charts up over the Christmas Holidays and were able to hold these gains after the last USDA report. Prices have since continued to move higher with the next level of resistance coming in around the $101-102 level basis the March contract. Most of the major support lies around the $93 cent level at this time.

Futures and Options Trading involves risk of loss and may not be suitable for everyone.

A special column for our Bovina readers:

Longtime readers know I have little respect for Sudan Schools.

And the recent game where the Sudan varsity girls defeated the Bovina Fillies by a lopsided score does nothing to change my mind.

Despite the one-sided game from early on, the Bovina coach said the Sudan coach had the Sudan team play aggressively from start to finish.

It brought back memories as to why I have had such disdain for the Sudan School athletic policies from years ago.

When my son, Rob, was playing a varsity basketball game for Farwell in the 1990s, he was guarding a 21-year-old man who was playing on the Sudan team. The man scored 15 points in the game.

Coach Thackston's AP History class is conducting fund-raisers so it can take a trip to Washington, D.C., this summer.

One fund-raiser will have a 32" flat TV giveaway.

It's open to everybody and it costs $10 for two tickets.

You can buy tickets by (a) going to a Bovina home basketball game; (b) come by Bovina High during the day, or (c) send a check or money order with your name and telephone number to Bovina High in care of Coach Jay Thackston.

A big thanks to Billy Wayne, who donated the flat screen TV.
