It's time to clean up

Let's get down to the dirt first:

It's time for Texico - Farwell folks to begin their annual cleanups. Border Town Days is just a month away. Lots of friends, relatives and visitors will be here - let's put on a clean appearance for them.

The recent rains have sure helped those weeds sprout. It's time to wipe them out.

For Farwell residents, the city has a roll-off at the former city landfill that will be available for dumping outside junk on Saturday, July 11 - at no charge for city residents.

But city residents are urged to begin cleaning up now. Use those dumpsters, urges Mayor Wendol Christian, "and finish up by July 11."

Folks, our annual BTD parade is going to really be special this year. I really hope the entire route sparkles because I predict a heavy turnout of parade watchers.

Our entire area is most fortunate to have Rhonda and Duke Kirkland run the summer basketball league at the Farwell gym. Well over 100 kids are involved in this annual fun event.

It takes a special kind of person to work well with kids - and the Kirklands fit into that mold. The entire community should be very appreciative of their many long hours of volunteer work that are needed to make this program operate smoothly.

When you see Rhonda and Duke, please be sure to thank them on behalf of all these kids. This basketball league is wonderful for our area and without the Kirklands it would be in jeopardy.

Thank you, Duke.
Thank you, Rhonda.

Important reminder:

Girls who want to enter the Border Town Days queen contest, unless they already have turned in an entry form to one of the committee members, must attend the Coke Party at the Spur Restaurant June 18 at 7:30 p.m. cdt.

A $300 scholarship is given to the winner. The contest is open to any girl attending Farwell or Texico high schools and who live within the two school districts.

A correction: The Texico Chamber of Commerce does not supply the prizes for the Border Town Days bicycle contest. An anonymous donor supplies the prizes.

Attention, Twin City merchants:

Starting next week, Tom Shumate and Willie Dannheim will be stopped by to see you to sign you up for the merchants giveaway at Border Town Days.

The cost is $10, same as in the past, for the ads.

If you aren't contacted by Tom or Willie by July 5, please call Mike Pomper at 481-3681 to sign up.

The Farwell Hospital District is considering building three more self-contained homes, such as the trio that already stands alongside the Farwell Convalescent Center.

Well, I called the NBA championships correctly, although it didn't take much of a crystal ball to guess it.

Before the playoffs began, I picked the Chicago Bulls to repeat. And, if they faltered, I said my second choice was Portland. Both were the favorites to be in the finals, anyway.

All I can say is that Michael Jordan is a man among boys

Staff Sgt. D.D. Foster shows food cans to an Italian warehouse worker in Pisa, Italy. Foster, a native of Farwell, is a veterinary food inspector who is checking unused foods from Desert Storm for safety and wholesomeness for recipients in the Humanitarian Assistance Program.

Foster involved in food project

If a million pounds of food a day seems like a lot to some people, it's a piece of cake for Staff Sgt. D.D. Foster, son of Texico resident Lewis Foster.

Foster is assigned to the U.S. Army's 7th Medical Command in Europe and has been extensively involved in supporting the U.S. government's Humanitarian Assistance Program for the people of the New Independent States, formerly the Soviet Union.

As a veterinary food inspector, Foster has been part of a team since May inspecting foodstuffs in Pisa, Italy, that were returned from Operation Desert Storm. The inspections began in October 1991 in two large warehouses. The team inspects an average of one million pounds of food a day.

"My job is to inspect the different types of rations that have been returned to ensure they're wholesome and safe," Foster said. The inspection process includes examination of metal and other containers for defects such as dents, rust, punctures, water damage and infestation.

Of his role in the Humanitarian Assistance Program, Foster said, "It's a great thing. I'm glad we're able to help some people out. It would be a shame to let this food go to waste."

Foster, whose hometown is Farwell, hopes to complete his mission in Pisa by the end of June. He is newly assigned to the 34th Medical Detachment (Veterinary Services) with duty at Camp Darby, Italy, near Pisa.

Herrington: No grievances noted

The move by some Texico residents to oust Texico School Board members because of their vote to remove Ken Shaw as high school principal may be over.

George Herrington, one of the group's leaders, said Wednesday that no affidavits listing individual grievances with the board have been turned in.

Grievances, showing alleged malfeasance or misfeasance on the part of the board, are needed to be listed on petitions, which would be turned in to a district judge. The judge then would decide whether to allow a petition drive to seek a recall election.

Herrington said a meeting of the group will be called. If no grievances are obtained in writing, then the funds raised probably will be turned over to a city non-profit group, such as the youth commission.

Editor's note: This poem was penned by Floyd Embry for his father, who will be 98 in September, is still healthy and is able to live alone. He thought the words might apply to anyone's father so we thought it appropriate for this Father's Day. The writing was done by Sherry Embry.

What Makes a Man?

*The words that we write,
Don't tend to make a man.
They only bring to light,
The race that he ran.*

*It takes work, sweat and tears,
As on the voyage of life he embarks.
It takes a faithful life for years,
To really leave its marks.*

*It's not the size of a man that depends,
On his fortune, or his fame, or his lands.
But solely on the purposes, he intends,
And on the principles, which he stands.*

*I know one who stands above the rest,
He's been through the good and bad.
By now you've surely guessed
He's the man I call my Dad.*

The mystery of the tornado

Editor's note: Jose M. Garcia, the Warning Coordination Meteorologist at the National Health Service in Amarillo, featured the tornado that hit Parmer County in the Spring issue of "The Dryline." Here is what he had to say:

One of the strongest tornadoes we have had this year was an F2 strong tornado that occurred in Parmer County, just northeast of Farwell. On the early evening of March 26, strong thunderstorms began to develop along a dryline in extreme eastern New Mexico. Remember, the dryline is a boundary between dry and moist air and is often a trigger for thunderstorm development. As the dryline moved into the Texas Panhandle, one of the storms developed into a strong thunderstorm.

Damage was reported at 6:35 p.m. cdt, and there was still daylight at this time. Based on a lack of visual confirmation and initial reports of damage, it was not clear whether the storm had produced a strong downburst or a tornado.

The mystery was solved very easily with an on-site damage survey. During the drive to Farwell, it was quickly evident that the thunderstorms had produced heavy rainfall. Water had ponded in fields and ditches. Jim Curtis (Farwell Emergency Manager) and Rex Williams (Parmer County Sheriff), were quite nice in providing details on the damage and taking us on an inspection of the damage.

The inspection revealed damage to two residences just northeast of Farwell. At this time the tornado was confirmed based on two pieces of evidence. First, large trees were found to be completely uprooted. Second, a large wooden beam traveled 200 yards and smashed into a brick home.

Generally, damage caused by large missiles is produced by a tornado. One of the strangest things found in the damage was that one end of a large tin metal structure had been lifted completely off the ground and very little damage occurred to the heavy machinery inside.

Still, there was the mystery of why no one really saw the tornado. One reason was that luckily, no one was at the residences that experienced damage. A couple of people did see the roof fly off the building they were in, but initial thoughts were of downburst winds. As it turns out, the roof was probably torn off by the outer winds of the tornado.

The large amounts of rain and lack of visual tornado confirmation, indicate the thunderstorm was a Heavy Precipitation (HP) supercell. This type of storm produces very heavy rainfall and makes tornado spotting quite difficult. Also, many times the wall cloud can develop on the right front side of the thunderstorm. Therefore, even if a spotter is on the right rear side of the storm, rainfall can obscure the view under the normally rain-free base.

The following information are excerpts from preliminary Storm Data Tornado reports that are prepared at the National Weather Service in Amarillo:

Strong thunderstorms developed along a dryline in extreme eastern New Mexico March 27. As the storms moved east into Texas one of the thunderstorms developed into an HP supercell. A tornado (F2) developed in the thunderstorm and touched down just northwest of Farwell. At this location the tornado damaged two residences. A NWS survey revealed evidence of small to large missiles.

West facing windows were completely blown out from both residences. In one of the homes, the wind moved through the attic areas and pushed out through a ceiling located in the garage. At this same residence a large tree was uprooted and a travel trailer was upended and destroyed.

As the tornado continued northeast, it destroyed power lines and power poles. Seven miles northeast of Farwell, the tornado completely totaled an old wood constructed home. Further to the northeast the tornado lifted a quonset type barn completely over and to the west of its foundation. Several pieces of heavy machinery inside the structure were left unharmed.

The tornado lifted just south of Bovina, but before doing so, outer winds tore the roof off the Caprock Feeders building just south of Bovina. Throughout the 10 mile path length, wheel type irrigation systems were overturned.

As the thunderstorm continued moving northeast, quarter size hail was reported in Friona. Then, a second tornado (F1) developed and touched down briefly just west of Friona. Power lines were downed and a grain storage facility was destroyed. One of the tin metal silos was lifted into the air across a major highway and came down to rest some 400 yards to the northeast.

Texico fireworks show on

Members of the Texico Community Activity Organization have successfully raised the $2,500 needed for the July 4th fireworks display, it was announced at Tuesday's meeting.

They plan to hold a donations only car wash at the Texico Fire Department from 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. mdt on June 20 to help raise some more money to defray the cost of the food and drinks that they plan to sell at the fireworks display and other costs related to the event.

The activities will take place at KKR Park. Local organizations are being asked to sponsor games and activities that day there.

Final plans will be made at the TCAO meeting on June 22 at 7 p.m. mdt in the Texico City Hall.

Bond issue topic

The planning for a bond issue was discussed at the June 11 meeting of the Farwell School Board.

Supt. Richard Boothby reported the findings of the District Improvement Council, which met June 8. He discussed the school system's needs as expressed by community members.

What the bond issue would cover, and its cost, are still to be determined. Probably planned is a new gym along with several other improvements. The range likely would be between $1 million and $2 million.

Currently, the school system has no bonded indebtedness. School officials would like to either keep the tax rate the same or at a small hike.

The board reviewed two old building plans that the school system had on file. Neither quite matched the proposals the Improvement Council suggested.

It was suggested that the principals and administrators be involved in the planning. A meeting will be set up with an architect, board members and administrators.

Boothby reviewed the legal steps which must be followed for the school system to hold a bond issue election, and he discussed the financial procedures.

"I was told that Farwell would get a AAA rating," said Boothby. "We need to find out what we are going to do, and what it will cost."

Charles Christian suggested it might be possible to fund classroom building projects as they are needed instead of having a bond issue. He proposed using some operational funds along with CED funds and County School funds to finance the cost of adding three or four classrooms without either a bond issue or tax increase.

"If we could be comfortable with just classrooms and pay for them as we go, it might be better in the long run," said Christian.

Byrd mentioned that the project began with the expressed need for a new gym, a project which would be much more costly than adding a few classrooms. He suggested meeting with the administrators to find out what the school really needs.

"We've got to get rid of those portable buildings," said Boothby. "It's against a new federal law. They say we cannot have special education children where no other children go."

In other business, the board: - Funded 19 1/2 of its 44 teachers on the career ladder. Some weren't funded because they weren't eligible yet.

- Heard Boothby say HB 2885, which takes effect

Sept. 1, mandates that all school employees must have access to group health insurance. He reviewed the school system's current coverage and made some suggestions.

Tom Nichols told about the success the Farwell Convalescent Center has had with its self-insurance program and he suggested the school board look at other options before accepting the programs suggested by the insurance company.

Nichols and Byrd asked the administration to have a lawyer review the insurance proposal and write a letter of complaint to the company.

Re-nominated Paul Belton to the Texas Association of School Boards Board of Trustees.

Voted to offer student accident insurance from the same company which the school system has used for the past several years: National Student Health Federation Trust Insurance.

Heard Joe Stanton report on the progress of on-going maintenance work this summer.

Heard Elementary School Assistant Principal Gwen Corn report that 20 Apple computers and some printers were to be delivered to Amarillo on June 13.

The board had voted to spend $94,000 on computer equipment May 26. This purchase is part of the school Five Year Technology Plan which was also approved at this meeting. Half money for the computers will come out of the 1991-92 school budget, and half will be funded from the 1992-93 budget.

The May 26 meeting was also used to approve the recommendations made by the administration concerning changes in Gregory's and Boothby's salaries. Byrd abstained.

head watching his moves. They defy gravity. They defy the law of averages. They defy everything.

I really enjoyed watching his matchup with Craig Ehlo during the Cleveland Cavaliers' semi-final series. Ehlo had the unenviable task of trying to guard Jordan. The picture was always the same: Ehlo, with his head turned, watching Michael race past him on the dribble.

Sometimes, Ehlo had his head turned to the left - when Michael went that way. Other times, Ehlo had his head turned to the right - when Michael went that way.

Talk about quickness. Talk about hang time. Talk about a 6th sense. Talk about Michael.

Michael is the greatest basketball player I have ever seen. And I've been watching college and pro ball since the mid-1950's.

In the pros, George Mikan dominated at first. Then, came Bob Pettit. And Wilt the Stilt vs. the Boston Celtics. The shot blocking timing of Bill Russell was a thing of beauty. And there were the Big O (Robertson), Elgin Baylor, the long-range shooting artistry of Jerry West, the drive off the wing by Dr. J (Erving), the magic of Johnson, the great all-around game of Larry Bird.

But Michael Jordan simply is better than any of them. And that's a fact.

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

Since Friday, May 29th, the citizens of Farwell and Texico have been confronted with a new ethical question: "Shall we play the Texas Lottery?"

Evidence shows that many have chosen to play the Lottery. Lottery tickets sold in Parmer County during the first week of sales amounted to $51,000. Statewide, sales climbed to $102,400,000. A total of 14,712 Texas retailers are selling lottery tickets. Citizens have answered, "Yes, we will play the lottery!" But have these same citizens really thought about the question?

This is a question of ethics and morality because the lottery is gambling! Gambling "is the act of risking what is yours in order to get what belongs to another with nothing given in return." Every aspect of this definition applies to the Texas Lottery. If gambling is immoral and the Lottery is gambling, then the Texas Lottery is immoral. The Texas Lottery is not necessarily ethical and moral merely because it has been legalized by civil authority!

In truth, gambling and the Texas lottery must be deemed immoral because they exhibit a desire to take what belongs to another without giving a fair return. This is the real appeal of gambling. It offers an exciting "hope" to the gambler that he or she will sometime get something for nothing. The desire to have what belongs to another is called covetousness. Taking what belongs to another without giving a fair return is stealing.

Gambling in the Texas Lottery is also immoral because it seeks gain without productive labor. In this regard, citizens of "lottery states" have been sold a truck load of "lotto baloney". We have been sold the idea that life's dreams can be fulfilled through chance rather than through hard work, education, and saving for retirement. A Higher Authority has written, "Let him who steals steal no longer; but rather let him labor, performing with his own hands what is good, in order that he may have something to share with him who has need."

Playing the Texas Lottery is unethical because it also victimizes the citizens, families, and resources of the State. Texas Gambler's Anonymous received 2,500 calls in the three days following May 29th. The Texas Council on Problem and Compulsive Gambling received 5,300 calls during the first week of sales; half of these calls were from distressed victims. Newspapers reported about the man who spent his $1,500 paycheck on lottery tickets and had nothing left to pay his bills. A mother broke into her daughter's piggy bank in order to play the Lottery. A Houston mother could not feed her children because she spent her grocery money on tickets.

Two Duke University economists, Charles Clotfelter and Philip Cook, have authored "Selling Hope: State Lotteries in America." They present evidence that state lotteries hit hardest those with the lowest incomes. Their study of the Maryland Lottery showed that people earning less than $10,000 per year buy more tickets than any other income group.

When lottery players like those above squander their earnings, who will feed and care for their families? You and I will through taxation and government welfare programs. Then what will these gamblers do with their welfare benefits? The addiction will be fed before empty mouths! Here begins a vicious cycle that the gamblers, family victims, and society can ill afford!

This is simply a plea to the citizens of Farwell and Texico to think soberly about the Texas Lottery. It is not a threat to boycott local retailers who sell Lottery tickets, but a request for self examination. It is a plea for citizens and retailers to act in the best interests of our families, our society, and our souls. The Texas Lottery is unethical and immoral!

Sincerely,
David Echols, Jr. Minister

Suzahn Inman, Rocky Horton wed

Marla Suzahn Inman and Rocky Lee Horton were wed in a candle light service June 6 at the First Baptist Church in Clovis with pastor Dale Rouse officiating.

Parents are Marlon and Karolene Inman of Farwell and Corky and Peggy Horton of Clovis. Grandparents of the groom are Pauline Horton and Sylvester Merl and Jeannette Tinker, all of Clovis.

Music was provided by organist Nancy Gressett and vocalist Chris Rouse: "There is Love" and "I Could Never Promise You". The Handbell Choir directed by Mike Meadows, played "Joyful," "We Adore You," and "Morning Is Broken."

Guests were registered by Donna Horton and Lisa Inman, sisters in law of the groom and bride. The table was covered with white linen and lace patchwork over nacy. Centerpiece was 12 votive candelabra filled with blue roses and wood poppies. Order of service for the wedding was given at the registration table.

Ushers were Brent Inman and Jackie Horton, brothers of the bride and groom.

The church was decorated with a 58 candle brass arch flanked by spirals to form a heart shaped background. These were intertwined with Swedish Ivy and large bouquets of blue roses, lilies and wood poppies tied with ice blue satin ribbon. Large Diffenbachia, Ficus trees, Hawaiian schefflera trees and baskets of Eucalyptus, Danica grape ivy with blue roses and wood poppies. Two 9 branch votive candelabra arrangements with flowers and ribbons on the altar railings completed the decorations. All arrangements were made by the bride's mother. Family pews were marked with white lace with pink tubing bows and blue rosebuds.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. As they approached the altar the mothers of the bride and groom went to the unity candle to light their family candles. Then they stood by their husbands as the pastor asked the two couples for their blessing on the marriage.

The bride wore a white satin dress with a modified wedding band collar featuring keyhole opening with dangling pearls. Beaded bodice and basque waistline. Leg-of-mutton sleeves feature crinkle satin, full puff encased with satin giving the illusion of petals; shear with lace applique to points. A cutout back framed with delicate lace and featured floral hanging medallion. An exquisitely designed bow featured unique blend of crinkle satin and smooth satin with beautiful petaled flower in center. The scalloped cathedral train had many cutout appliques and crinkle satin insets. She wore a pearl tiara with a sheer waist length veil. Her elegant outfit was completed with white leather Reebok tennis shoes.

Her bouquet was all white roses, small poppies with pearl centers, pearlized ting-ting and grapes, with iridescent leaves.

For something old the bride wore a gold bracelet worn by her great-grandmother, Pearl Thompson Towns, on her wedding day, Dec. 24, 1911. The bracelet was also worn by her grandmother, Mona Towns, and her mother on their wedding days.

Something new was a pearl necklace encircled in gold, a gift of the groom.

Something borrowed was her blue garter worn by her mother on her wedding day. The garter featured a blue glass button from her grandmother's wedding dress.

Something blue was her navy garter and the light blue garter for the groom to toss.

For luck the bride wore 3 sixpense in her Reeboks. They were minted in the bride and groom years of birth and the year both sets of parents were married.

The groom's attire was an all white tuxedo with tails, white accessories and white rose and pearl boutonniere, with iridescent leaves.

The Maid of Honor was Twila Rutter of Tokyo, Japan. The Bridesmaid was Lezlie Castleberry of Clovis. Their dresses were navy blue polished cotton print with ice blue and tiny pink flowers, featuring draped off-shoulder neckline and English lace accent. The back featured a cut-out with a large bow above and below. The tea-length dress featured a dropped waistline. They both wore pearl necklaces that the bride gave them and navy shoes. They carried a grapevine heart-shaped design featuring pink roses tied with soft pink ribbon which extended to the tips of the vines.

The best man was Corky Horton, Clovis, father of the groom. The groomsman was Craig Johnson of Clovis.

The groom's attendants and fathers wore charcoal gray tuxedos with blue cummerbund and tie. All had pink rose boutonnieres.

Candlelighters were Lisa Inman, sister-in-law of the bride and Jackie Horton, brother of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore an Ivory tea-length two piece silk dress with embroidered top. Pearl and gold accessories. Her corsage was pink edge ivory roses. She was escorted by her son, Brent Inman.

Mother of the groom wore a pink brocade two piece dress featuring lace accents at the neckline. She wore pink accessories and her corsage was pink roses. She was escorted by the groom.

The reception followed the ceremony in Fellowship Hall. The bride's table was covered with ivory tucked polished cotton with lace insets. The cake was a 4 tiered Italian creme with white icing, accented with light blue and pink flowers. Punch was served from a brass punch bowl and light blue napkins featuring Suzahn H Rocky. The centerpiece was a brass candelabra with greenery and flowers. Serving at the brides table was Sheran Martin and Sheila Jennings.

The groom's table was covered in navy linen edged with light blue. The cake was German chocolate iced to feature a lake with a boat and fisherman being drug into the water by the large carved fish above the watermelon fruit basket on the adjoining table which featured brass appointments. Servers were Carol Johnson and Margie Summers.

Hostesses were Kim Deaton, Pam Boatman and Terri White. Rice rose flowergirls were Jenna Deaton and Erica Boatman. Special assistants were Freddie Deaton, Sue Whatley and Bobby Deaton. Priase ringers were Cathie Meadows, Candice Borden, Lora Harlan, Kim Deaton, Michael Scholl, Deborah Borden, Bobby Deaton, Wendy Hancock, Denise Johns, Freddie Deaton, Rose Mary Whitt and Mike Meadows, director.

The reception hall was decorated with wide navy paper twist to form poofs where light blue and pink flowers were tied. Also behind the groom's table were pictures of the bride and groom on light blue background edged with pink and navy roses.

The bridal amenities included a rehearsal dinner for 30 people hosted by the groom's parents. It was a Mexican dinner held on June 5 at Leal's Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Horton

Members of the bridal party received gifts presented to them by the bride and groom. The tables for this festive occasion were adorned with white linen and decked with floral centerpieces, balloons, curly ribbons and confetti. Guests received iridescent wrapped mints tied with curly ribbons.

Following a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas the couple are living near Clovis, where the bride coaches at Marshall Junior High and the groom owns Sparklin' Car Wash.

The bride is a graduate of Farwell High School and Hardin Simmons University. The groom is a graduate of Clovis High School and Eastern New Mexico University.

Chamber donates funds

The Texico Chamber of Commerce voted Monday to donate $20 to help support the Border Town Queen contest. They also voted to provide prizes for the antique cars in the Parade.

The Chamber is planning to have a float in the parade and also to have an ice cream booth at the BTQ day in the park.

The Chamber is selling tickets for a drawing to give away a model 1400 Winchester shotgun. It is a walnut semi-automatic 12 gauge. It will be given away at BTQ July 25. A $1 donation is requested.

Members began pricing long tables that it plans to buy for the Texico Community Center to replace the ones which were damaged recently.

JESUS IS OUR KING

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!
Very exciting Bible School is about to begin!

Our theme is

JESUS IS OUR KING!
Meeting Jesus in the Parables

Get ready for a royal treat! Children will learn about King Jesus, and how to be more like Him as they explore the five "Palace Places" in this year's Very exciting Bible School! They will meet residents of the King's castle such as the Prodigal Son and the Persistent Widow. They will dine in the King's banquet hall and see the King's treasures in the Royal Treasury. Come one! Come all!

Plan now to be in attendance at this year's Very exciting Bible School.

Corn tours Washington, D.C.

Farwell's Clay Corn and Jo Lynda Hodnett of Bovina were the Deaf Smith Rural Electric Cooperative's representatives to Washington, D.C., June 4-16. They were among 77 representatives of Texas youth in a group of about 600 sponsored by various REA affiliates throughout the country. The Texas delegates traveled by bus to Washington, D.C. On the way they saw some of the dams that were part of the Tennessee Valley Authority, one of the country's first major rural electric projects.

They saw many of the tourist sights in Washington, such as the Washington Monument, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Arlington National Cemetery, Kennedy Center, Watergate, Ford's Theater, Mount Vernon, the National Cathedral and the National Zoo. Clay especially enjoyed the Smithsonian's Air and Space Museum with its new I-Max presentation about the space shuttle.

When the group visited Arlington National Cemetery one of the Texas youths was chosen to lay a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The group saw two pageants in Washington. One was a drum and bugle corp presentation by Marines at the Iwo Jima Memorial. Another was a giant pageant in honor of the history of American Wars at the coliseum in Georgetown where the Hoyas play. "There were about 700-800 people in it," said Clay.

They spent one day touring Capitol Hill where Clay met Cong. Larry Combest, who spoke to the group about the new balanced budget.

The tour also included a session where the youths were able to ask questions of the campaign managers of the Bush and Clinton political campaigns. Clay expressed amazement at the depth of understanding reflected in the questions posed by the youngsters.

"This was the best trip I've ever been on," said Clay. He especially enjoyed the comradeship of all the kids on the trip. When he started out he only knew one person. At the end, he knew all 77 of the Texas delegates by name.

For Clay, one of the best personal experience of the trip was being asked to play piano before the entire group of 600. As an aspiring musician, it was a pleasure to be able to perform and even more of a pleasure to be appreciated for his skill.

Sheriff's Report

Here is the weekly report from Parmer County Sheriff Rex Williams:

The Parmer County Sheriff's office and Texico Marshal's office joined law enforcement agents from the Curry County Metro Drug Task Force Sunday morning for an areawide drug raid.

The raid concluded a 3-month undercover operation and resulted in 75 arrest warrants with charges ranging from the distribution of marijuana to trafficking cocaine and the seizure of nine vehicles.

Warrants were issued on 36 persons, including three local residents:

- William A. (Bill) Sanger, 34, 701 State, Texico, charged with one count of delivery of a controlled substance, marijuana.
- Peter Moncoya, 25, 815 Lamar, Texico, charged with one count of delivery of a controlled substance, marijuana.
- Leopoldo Gonzales, Jr.,

33, Farwell, charged with two counts of delivery of a controlled substance, marijuana, and 1 count of possession of over 2 oz. but less than 4 oz. of a controlled substance.

Williams said area law enforcement agents met in Clovis before 7 a.m. Sunday to coordinate the raid.

"They wanted everybody to hit them at the same time. We had two teams out. We tried to hit here and Texico and Clovis all at the same time," said Williams.

In other police news:

On June 12, Montgomery Bisig, 30, Bovina, was arrested by the Texas Highway Patrol on a charge of DWI 2nd. The case is pending in county court.

On June 13, Angel Espinoza, 18, Amarillo, was arrested by the sheriff's office on charges of theft and carrying a prohibitive weapon. The case is pending.

On June 15, Mario Gomez, 35, Bovina, was arrested by Bovina police on a charge of cruelty to animals. He was fined $75 and court costs.

Volleyball day camp scheduled in Texico

The Texico Lady Spikers volleyball day camp will consist of two sessions, June 22-26 and July 13-17. Participants may sign up for one or both of these camps.

Camps are open to students in grades 6-12. They will be conducted from 9 a.m. - noon and 1 - 4:30 p.m. Monday - Thursday and 9 a.m. -

1 p.m. on Friday. All times are mst.

They will be directed by coach Michael Littlejohn who has coached several outstanding teams during his tenure at Texico.

Lisa McMath of Fort Sumner, Cheryl Scott of Tatum, and Bobby Bates of Elida will coach parts of the camps. Enrollment is limited to the first 36 participants who sign up for each camp.

AAU teams raise funds

Several local Texico-Farwell youngsters are playing on Clovis AAU basketball teams headed to the national tournaments.

Veronica and Valerie Mace of Farwell and Marcia Marlow of Texico are playing on the Young Guns, the New Mexico state champion ship winning AAU team for 11 year olds which will play in the nationals at Salt Lake City, Utah, July 3-11.

Candace Travis of Farwell, Mandy Helmer of Texico, and Amber Willard of Bovina will be on the 12 year old team which will be going to the nationals for their age bracket in New Orleans July 10-18. Terry Travis is the coach.

The AAU teams will be conducting some fundraisers locally to help defray the cost of their trips.

Reception set

A reception will be given for Arlye and Margie Crooks in honor of their 40th wedding anniversary from 2-4 p.m. mdt on June 20 at the Farwell Community Center.

Rhodes cited

Chad Rhodes, son of Wayne and Judy Rhodes of Hub, was honored at the annual Department Awards Assembly at South Plains College where he was named to Who's Who at South Plains College in Drafting and Design. He also received a Drafting Technology Award.

Recipe of Week

Cumberland Apple Tart

Crust:
1/2 c. (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1/2 c. brown sugar
1 c. Martha White All Purpose Flour
1/4 c. quick oats
1/2 c. finely chopped pecans (optional)
Filling
2 large Golden Delicious apples, peeled and thinly sliced (about 3 cups), tossed with juice of half a lemon
1/2 c. sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
Preheat oven to 375 F. Lightly grease a 9 - inch pie plate. To prepare crust, cream butter and sugar with electric mixer in large mixing bowl. Blend in flour, oats, and if desired, pecans. Form dough into ball. Dust fingertips with flour. Press into bottom and up sides of prepared pie plate. Arrange apple slices evenly over crust in circular pattern starting from outside edge working toward the middle. Fill in any gaps until all apple slices are used. Combine sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle evenly over apples. Bake 35 to 40 minutes, or until crust is lightly browned and apples are tender. Cool on wire rack. Store covered in refrigerator.

Territory annexation proposed

The Board of Directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 unanimously adopted resolutions June 9 annexing territory within Cochran and Lynn Counties into the Water District service area.
However, the annexation must still be ratified by the voters within the annexed territories before they officially become a part of the 15-county Water District service area.

We would like to express our appreciation and thanks for the food, cards, phone calls, flowers and visits on behalf of Bessie. We thank her Sunday School class for the delicious meal served to the family. We want to say a special thanks to the Fire Department for transporting Bessie to the hospital numerous times. They were always there for us. We know that Bessie was grateful to you. We thank Bro. Rick and all who helped out in any way.

1st winners

Johnny and Fela Sena of Texico were the first winners at Capitol Food of a $200 Texas lottery prize in the No. 2 game which began last week.

Jeanne Graham wins cook-off

Nelle Walling enjoyed a visit from Jeanne Graham of Lovington on June 11 when Jeanne came to town to attend John Getz's funeral. The Graham family owned the State Line Tribune for many years before they sold it to John Getz in the early 1950's.

Mrs. Graham recently won the New Mexico State Beef Cook-Off in Roswell. Her "Sisters Oven Steak/Bean Stew" was judged the best of seven final entries. It qualified her for a $500 cash prize and a paid trip to the National Beef Cook-Off in Sacramento, Calif.

The contest is sponsored each year by the New Mexico CowBelles and the New Mexico Beef Council. It drew more than 200 entries this year.

Mrs. Walling brought in an article written by former Tribune owner Hop Graham. It appeared in the Lovington Leader on June 7, and it was about Mrs. Graham's experiences in the contest. There's a lot more to winning one of these big contests than simply cooking well!

First of all, she had to start with an original, easy to fix recipe that features beef. She collaborated with her sister, Mary Davis of Silverton, on a favorite family recipe. It had to be tested carefully in advance to make sure that all of the ingredients and measurements were correct.

The recipe passed the first level of judging by the National Livestock & Meat Board Test Kitchen in Chicago where it was tested by professional tasters and testers. Then each finalist had to participate in her state cook-off.

Jeanne thought that the recipe that she and her sister used might not work because it called for beans, and beans take a long time to cook. But, Jeanne found that the rules allowed her to use pre-cooked or canned beans.

Then she had the challenge of finding an especially good piece of meat in Lovington for the recipe. Her meat market supplied her with a round steak that weighed more than 2 pounds without any fat or bone on it.

Then all she had to do is assemble all of the necessary ingredients, transport all of them including the meat to the contest in a portable icebox, and keep the ingredients cool until contest time, and cook her recipe in front of the judges.

Marshal's Report

Here is the weekly report from Texico Marshal Fry Urioste.

The Texico marshal's office assisted in the task force that served 33 warrants in drug raids Sunday. Details can be found in the Parmer County sheriff's report elsewhere in today's Tribune.

In other police news:

- Ronda Ford, 29, Farwell, was arrested on charges of DWI 2nd or sub., open container and speeding.

- Joel Ward, 28, Clovis, was arrested on charges of tampering with evidence and possession of drugs.

- Reyes Vega, 33, Muleshoe, was arrested on charges of DWI 2nd or sub, open container and driving left of center.
