Fun for families

It's here again -- the Area Merchants Football Contest.

Please, please, please don't forget to turn in your entry today, either at the office, through the mail or over the phone.

The package we offer the overall winner is for the World Champion (I still consider the 'Pokes world champions) Dallas Cowboys vs. their conference rivals, the New York Giants, at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 17, at Texas Stadium.

Besides the two tickets you win to the game, you also get free overnight lodging for two at the famous Radisson Hotel in Dallas.

Other goodies you win are:

-- Bus transportation to and from the stadium.

-- A free tour of Texas Stadium (although these tours aren't available on the day before Game Day).

-- Free breakfast at the hotel.

We buy our Cowboys' package through the Cowboys' travel agency. They offer several packages and we buy the most expensive.

I can assure you that past winners have really enjoyed these trips.

So go for it!

I haven't commented on the OJ trial for awhile.

As I've written, there's no way you can convict a man who rushed for 2,006 yards in one season. It just isn't done.

But justice is blind, as they say, and I believe that.

What's I've thoroughly gotten a kick out of lately has been the latest bombshell involving that ex-detective who used the n-word during taped interviews in North Carolina.

OJ's excellent defense attorneys have sought to portray the ex-detective as a racist who has tried to frame OJ by putting blood at the scene as part of a conspiracy.

Another part of the defensive strategy has been to stress that the blood at the crime scene was not OJ's.

Okay -- let's accept both defense strategies: that the blood at the scene wasn't OJ's, and that the conspiring, racist detectives put OJ's blood at the scene.

Think about that...

From Teresa:

We got a call the other day out at our dairy from a local farmer that we have contracted corn from.

His message was straightforward and simple: "The corn has dented!"

It took me several years to understand that this was not a bad thing. It hails the beginning of one of the busiest times of the year on our dairy - corn silage time.

Growing corn and cutting it for silage is a precise science.

Some feed lots contract corn to be cut as high moisture corn silage, others like it a little drier, but not much.

Dairies like it another way, so the condition of the corn must be watched very carefully. Farmers must be very precise in watering the crop or in not watering it - and a whole lot of other technicalities go along with growing it.

No pay raises; no county annex

No pay raises for most county employees, and no county annex in Friona. Those were a couple of the hard decisions coming from Monday's meeting of the Parmer County Commissioners during its budget discussions.

The annex, which basically would add a county tax assessor's office in Friona, has been avidly sought by the Friona Chamber of Commerce the past two years. But county officials have estimated that such an office would need an extra full-time employee, at a rough cost of $18,000 a year. Thus, the county commissioners were being asked to start a new program -- a county annex -- at a time when they were looking to make cutbacks.

Commissioner Johnny Mars, of Friona, moved that the county put the annex in Friona, as the Chamber had proposed, but it was not seconded. The commissioners then voted 3-1 to not to establish the annex.

The county employees have been receiving 3 percent pay raises for the past few years. But this year, county judge Bonnie Clayton reported, there won't be raises except for four employees who will get higher wages to be "equalized" with others. Three dispatchers will get higher salaries to be in line with the 4th dispatcher. And the county attorney's salary will be upped to be more in line with other county attorneys of counties the size of Parmer.

Another hard decision the commissioners will have to face deals with the county's tax rates. Since 1987, the rate has gone up 3 percent a year. Prior to that, it had been quite awhile since county taxes were raised. This hurt the county because inflation coupled with unfunded state mandates raised costs during that period but the county's tax rate remained the same, helping cause today's dilemma, said Mrs. Clayton.

Each year, the county department heads submit budgets. After the commissioners received this year's requests, they asked the department heads to trim whatever they could from them. Mrs. Clayton said the department heads were very cooperative in this effort.

As a result, she said the commissioners didn't make any cuts in their requests during the workshops so far.

But the shortfalls have continued the past few years. County Treasurer Anne Norton said the shortfall in 1994 is about $104,000. She anticipates a projected shortfall for 1995 of about $177,000. Currently, the county has just over $1.4 million on hand in all accounts.

In order to eliminate those continuing shortfalls which have seen the county's "carry-over" of funds shrink the past few years, the commissioners are looking at possibly approving a higher tax rate for 1995-96.

As stated, the hike has been 3 percent for several years, but this year they are looking as high as 7 1/2 percent. The 3 percent hike adds about half a cent (per $100 valuation) to county residents' tax bills. If the rate was hiked 7 1/2 percent, for example, it would add just under 2 cents (per $100 valuation) to the tax bills.

No decision will be made on the 1995-96 tax rate until the public budget hearing on Sept. 25. The county's tax rate for 1994-95 is .3246 cents.

In other business at the commissioners' meeting:

-- A bid from Yellowhouse was accepted for a new motor grader for the Lazbuddie precinct. West Texas Equipment also bid. These funds are paid from individual commissioners' FM funds -- they don't come from the general fund where the financial problem lies.

-- Election judges were appointed for the fall election -- voters will vote on constitutional amendments.

Fliers to publicize businesses

The Farwell Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday agreed to have fliers made up featuring Farwell businesses that will be given to participants at the annual El Cid competition next month.

Chamber members are asked to get their information to the State Line Tribune by Sept. 9. Or call Mike Pomper at 481-3681.

There will be room on the fliers for short informational and/or advertising messages from Chamber members.

In other business, the Chamber:

-- Discussed putting more electricity at the city park but decided for now to leave it as is.

-- Will ask the Farwell City Council to stay on top of the needs at the Farwell Community Center. Some minor repairs are needed there.

-- Selected Town & Country Insurance as its Business of the Month, to be featured in an ad in the Tribune in September.

-- Discussed the street banners. One larger banner has been made and will be put out, to see how it goes.

The Chamber received a letter from the Border Town Days Committee asking that pennants be placed over the highway, as has been done in the past. The LTD Committee was given permission to put out pennants, as the Chamber has been involved with its banner project.

-- Tentatively set Nov. 10 as a special day to honor veterans. The Chamber will sponsor a program.

Football contest is under way

The annual fall past-time -- the Area Merchants Football Contest -- begins its 37th season today. The entry blank is on the back of this newspaper issue; more entry blanks are available at the Tribune office.

In order to have a strong chance at the grand prize, it's vitally important to enter every week. So be sure to watch for the first week's contest starting in two weeks.

The top prize for the winner of the 12-week contest will again be two tickets to see the World Champion Dallas Cowboys play at Texas Stadium. They will play the New York Giants, Dec. 17.

The grand prize winner also will get $50 in cash, a night's lodging for two at the Radisson Hotel, game day breakfast, transfers to and from the game, and transportation to and from the airport.

And the reason the Tribune is able to offer the contest, and the weekly cash prizes ($10 for first and $5 for second) is due to the following sponsors:

1. Franse Irrigation
2. Farwell Feed Supply
3. Lovelace Oil
4. Tri County Tire
5. Tri County Video
6. Friona Motors
7. ENMR Telephone Cooperative
8. Citizens Bank, Texico Branch
9. Security State Bank
10. Muleshoe State Bank, Farwell Branch

15. Town & Country Insurance
16. Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative
17. Jones Pontiac - GMC - Mazda
18. Furniture Plus, Clovis
19. Trans-Matic Transmission
20. Trans-Matic Wrecker Service
21. Muleshoe Cooperative Gin

27. Farwell Hardware
28. Kirkland Pump
29. Kelly Green Seeds
30. Southwestern Public Service
31. West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative
32. Williams Fertilizer
33. Paco Feed Yard

Rules for the 1995 contest will be the same as in the past. A person must be at least 12 years old to enter. Entrants must choose 12 teams they think will win the selected games.

Games will be divided by high school, college and professional ranks. In case of a tie game, unless the tie was predicted by the entrant, that game will not be counted.

Each entrant must remember to pick a tie-breaker score, a very important feature of the contest since many weekly winners (and overall winners) have been determined by the tie-breakers.

The person naming the most games correctly each week will receive a check for $10. The second place winner gets $5.

Each week's scoring is tabulated and kept on record at the Tribune office. The standings are posted each Monday and may be seen during regular business hours.

All entry blanks must be turned in to the Tribune office by 5 p.m. cdt Fridays or, if mailed, must beat a Friday postmark.

Farwell branch of BofA purchased

The Farwell branch of Bank of America has been sold to American State Bank, of Lubbock.

An agreement was announced Tuesday in which American State Bank will acquire BofA's branches in Farwell, Floydada, Littlefield, Muleshoe and Plainview.

The transaction is expected to be completed by the end of this year or early in 1996.

BofA had listed several of its Texas banks for sale earlier this year.

American State Bank, with assets of about $708 million, was established in 1948 and has three locations in Lubbock, plus Brownfield, Levelland, Plainview and Snyder.

Hughs names GOP chairwoman

Teena Hughs, of Friona, is the new Parmer County Republican chairman.

She replaces Byron Boyd, a Friona attorney, who resigned, citing he was too busy, Mrs. Hughs reported.

Mrs. Hughs is the wife of Feller Hughs, who manages the Paco Feed Yard. They moved to a home two miles south of Friona about two years ago.

Mrs. Hughs will be attending a seminar in mid-September for county chairmen. She will learn the new election rules, and also meet with other GOP officials to plan strategy for the 1996 elections.

Mrs. Hughs has two early goals:

-- To increase the number of GOP polling places in the primary election from 4 to 9 (the number that the Democrats have).

-- To raise more funds so as to put on a more energetic campaign.

She noted that Sandra Warren was elected as a Republican to the district clerk's office in the last election. Mrs. Warren was the first Republican elected to a countywide office in quite some time.

Here's a look at Texico's sports picture

The Tribune got some information on high school sports in New Mexico from the state.

Texico is in Class AA in basketball and track (enrollment from 151 to 400).

Texico is in Region H's 7AA with Eunice, Jal and Loving. Also in Region H is 8AA -- Clayton, Mora and Santa Rosa. Overall, there are 33 teams in Class AA.

In Class A football (up to 200 enrollment), the Wolverines are in 1A along with Fort Sumner and Springer. Overall, there are 15 teams in Class A.

The state also ranks teams for the All Sports Trophy.

In Class AA in 1994-95, Texico ranked 4th with 125 points. Eunice was first with 325 points; Tularosa second with 315 points and Santa Rosa third with 175 points.

The All Sports Trophy competition represents the best all-around programs in New Mexico, by class.

A lot of rule revisions also have been passed.

Banter

As a child growing up, I had never even heard of corn silage; there's not much need for it in the cities and the beef cattle that I was around weren't fed this regional staple.

Our dairy is a hub-bub of activity every day, but the intensity of the activity increases during silage time.

My husband packs the silage in our pit and it requires sitting on a tractor for anywhere from 9 to 12 hours straight, with very few breaks in between.

But he loves it. The monotony never gets to him as long as he has a big bag of sunflower seeds, plenty of cookies, chips and tea, Dr Pepper and water close by. He catches up with all the hit songs on the radio charts, the news, what Paul Harvey has to say and so on.

He comes out of the season very well educated and knowing all the words to the latest hits. I'm very impressed at his ability to absorb everything while driving back and forth, up and down at least 1100 times a day!

And on the days that I help run the scales to weigh the silage trucks, I get a refresher course in mathematics. It's a great way to keep fresh on adding and dividing.

Our whole family gets into the season and what has to be done to get through cutting silage. We all pull together to get the silage work done along with the regular chores and jobs on the dairy. It's almost incredible to me at times to see how much work we all do together.

I'm also very much impressed at how talented the cutters and truck drivers are at driving in the fields.

They have a certain rhythm going in keeping up with the chopper and in timing their loads. I tried driving a silage truck one year...actually it was only one time. That was all it took to see that my style of driving a big rig, didn't exactly meet the standards of a silage truck driver.

I either drove too fast or too slow. More silage was dumped on top of the truck cab, the field and on the bumper of the truck than into the wagon. I quickly left this position and went to one that better suited my talents and the cows' best interest.

Ahhh, silage season! It's here and the hum of choppers can be heard in fields all across the region. It's big business and a very busy time. But once the pits are filled and packed tight, we can all rest a little bit and look forward to next year. But most importantly, the beef and dairy cows of the area can all be assured of a good supply of filling feed for the next year.

at Lawrence-Adams Funeral Home Chapel with Wayne Shamblin officiating. Burial was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

He was born in Swans Chapel in Jones County. He attended East Texas Teachers College in Commerce. He married Lela Holland in 1934 in Anson.

He taught school for 14 years. He managed the Northside Gin in Anson for 19 years and he and his son operated the first herbicide store in Jones County. He owned and operated the Roberts Texaco Station for 21 years before retiring in 1989. He was a farmer and a Jones County 4-H club leader for many years. He was a Baptist.

Surviving are his wife; 2 sons, A.H. Jr., of Big Spring, and Jim Roberts, of Abilene; 2 daughters, Phylecia Shooling, of Ranger, and Betty Hart, of Olden; a brother, Willie Roberts, of Farwell, and 10 great-grandchildren.

Farwell football coach Stan Stroebel said of last weekend's scrimmage against Sudan: "I was for the most part pretty satisfied."

Farwell scored a second time when Preston Ketcherside intercepted from about 35 yards and ran it all the way.

Sudan scored 3 times with their first group and once with their second.

"I felt we did some good things and were real physical," said Stroebel.

Farwell has a second scrimmage on Aug. 31 here at 5:45 p.m. against Lockney.

The Farwell JV gridders scored a 1-0 win over Sudan. Brett Curtis scored on an option play.

Insects threaten cotton crop

From Plains Cotton Growers:
Protecting the potential that exists for the 1995 High Plains cotton crop won't be easy.

Dr. Jim Leser, Texas ag extension service entomologist, reports the combined threat posed by late-season build-ups of the boll weevil, beet armyworm, bollworms and aphids could have become a very costly bullet to dodge for many producers.

Leser warns producers across the area to keep a close eye on their crop and advises them to step up their scouting efforts for each of these pests. He notes that newly emerging boll weevils are continuing to cause problems for producers south of Lubbock and that several counties north of Lubbock that are considered to be "threatened" will have cotton treated for weevils before the growing season ends.

Leser notes that fields as far north as Edmonson, Hale County and Kress, Swisher County, have already been treated for weevils this year.

Producers are advised to do everything they can to get their fields past the point where weevils can damage their crop or else face the possibility of up to six insecticide applications to get them through.

Anyone who wants more complete information about boll weevil management can obtain a pamphlet titled "Boll Weevil Management in the West Texas High Plains" from their county extension agent.

Leser adds that the threat posed by the beet armyworm is also significant enough that producers will need to keep a close watch on their crops. The key to beet armyworm control is early detection and treatment. Later planted, lush fields or fields with skippy stands are the most vulnerable to this pest.

Routine scouting for boll weevils and bollworms are not adequate for beet armyworms since egg masses are located on the underside of leaves.

He notes that beet armyworm eggclays are currently widely scattered across the entire High Plains region. So far they have not swept across the area with the same ferocity that devastated the Lower Rio Grande Valley or, more recently, the Southern Rolling Plains area around San Angelo.

More information about the beet armyworm can be found in a pamphlet at the county extension office.

A Section 18 for American Cyanamid's insecticide Pirate has been approved for the High Plains. Whether or not enough of the product will be available for use in the area is still unknown. PCG officials are working on this.

Farwell sorority members attend breakfast in Clovis

Ten members of Alpha Rho Lambda chapter of Beta Sigma Phi attended the Clovis Area Beginning Day Breakfast in Clovis on Aug. 26.

This year, Alpha Rho was in charge of name tags. Cynthia Thigpen and Tori Meeks made the tags to march the theme, "Catch the Dream." The breakfast was a very relaxed social event to kick off the year's activities. It afforded members an opportunity to relax and get caught up with the news they had missed over the summer.

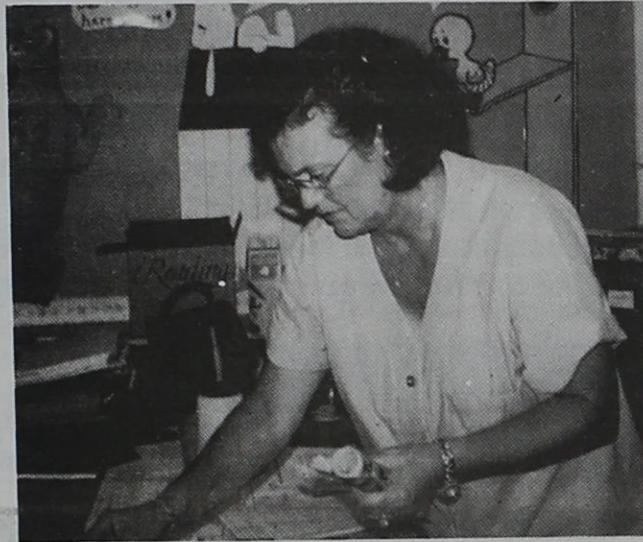

Some of the groups had completed their yearbooks which outline the year's activities. Alpha Rho's yearbook showed that both the social committee and the yearbook committee had kept the theme in mind when they planned activities and the yearbook this year.

Tori Meeks was the winner of one of the potted plants given away.

Attending from Farwell were Lynne Mahaney, Cynthia Thigpen, Colleen Stover, Judy Pomper, Michelle Kirkland, Peggy Goetsch, Leigh Ann Woods, Tori Meeks and Anne Norton. Texico teachers Ann Liethen and Kendale Burch attended with one of the Clovis chapters.

Students at Farwell High School relax during their lunch period on the grass outside of the school building. Taylor Mesman got in on the relaxation while his mom shot pictures.

Texico knocks off Loving

By Greg Bass

The Texico Wolverines started their season right this year, with a 14-6 defeat of the Loving Falcons, a team they were unable to beat last year.

The game started with Luis Trillo kicking off. It was returned 17 yards with Lary Tomlinson on the stop. Texico brought Loving to a screeching halt, holding the Falcons to a 2-yard gain. Good defensive plays were made by Chris Salinas and Marshall Baker. And Tomlinson made a remarkable tackle behind the line of scrimmage.

On offense, Texico lost a fumble by Pecos Chumley. But he redeemed himself just two plays later when he sacked the Loving QB for a 5-yard loss. The first half was well played by both teams, and it was 0-0.

Aaron Stanley made the first tackle in the second quarter, holding Loving to a 3 yard gain. Then Leroy Salinas and Stanley had good tackles, causing a fumble.

On offense again, Michael Shelton had his first carry as a Wolverine, a gain of 9 yards. Chumley then ran for 7, and then 7 more. Trillo attempted a field goal but it was blocked.

Loving had the ball for four plays and out. But Texico was stopped, too, and had to punt from deep in its own territory. Loving took over on the Wolverine 6 and scored on a 5-yard run 15 seconds later. The run for extra points was halted short of the goal line by Leroy Salinas and Stanley near the end of the half. So it was Loving, 6-0, at the half.

Texico began the third quarter on offense. Runs by Shelton and Chumley gained a first down. QB Mel Askew ran for another 5 yards. Chumley's runs gained another 15 -- but was short of a first down by an inch.

Loving went nowhere, as Stanley recorded a tackle 8 yards behind the line of scrimmage. Baker made another good stop, keeping Loving from a first down. Askew also proved his worth on defense, making an important pass coverage stop.

On offense again, Askew threw an apparent beautiful completion to Tomlinson, but it was ruled incomplete. Chumley followed up by gaining a first down as the third quarter ended.

Texico was halted, despite a nifty pass from Askew to Chumley. On defense, Baker had a good tackle, as did Tomlinson. Stanley recorded a QB sack, and Texico regained possession with just more than 8 minutes left in the game.

Chumley ran for 5 yards. Then Askew culminated the drive with a 7-yard run for a score. Trillo kicked the point after and Texico was ahead, 7-6.

On defense, Leroy Salinas had a tackle for a Loving 4-yard loss. Then Chris Salinas recovered a fumble. Chumley and Askew moved the ball on the ground, with Askew scoring from the 4. A Trillo point after kick made it 14-6.

-- Sheriff's Report--

Loving didn't have much time left to try to knot the score. But Chris Salinas followed up with another sack for Texico. Then Stanley recorded a QB sack. As did Chris Salinas. And Luciano Hinojos made the final hit of the day.

Coach Barry Partain said, "This was a big win for us. Texico had never beaten Loving before. The kids made a lot of mistakes in the first half, but learned from them and played a very good second half."

1995 Property Tax Rates in Lazbuddie ISD

This notice concerns 1995 property tax rates for Lazbuddie school district. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the school district used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the school district can set before it must hold a rollback election. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes and state funds by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Rachelle Rice, a 1995 graduate of Lazbuddie High School, was honored in Orlando, Fla., on July 3 at the Future Business Leaders of America National Leadership Conference, a professional association for students pursuing business careers. Competing in the FBLA's national awards program, she was presented with an award for the National First Place Championship in Accounting II.

The award was part of a comprehensive competitive events program sponsored annually by FBLA - Phi Beta Lambda. Nearly 40 different events are sponsored, representing a wide range of activities. Winners of these awards are selected from among FBLA-PBL's membership of 270,000 students.

The 6,000-plus delegates to the National Leadership Conference participated in a four-day meeting that included business and leadership training workshops and seminars, corporate tours and the election of national officers.

Rachelle was accompanied to Orlando by her mother, Linda Rice, and her accounting coach, Marsella Jennings. They arrived June 28 and traveled to Daytona Beach for two days on the beach.

Rachelle was the silver medalist in UIL Accounting during her freshman year at Lazbuddie High. She was awarded the gold medals in UIL Computer Science during her sophomore, junior and senior years. She graduated as class valedictorian.

Rachelle will be a freshman honors student at Texas Tech this fall, majoring in horticulture and landscape architecture.

She is the daughter of Doug Rice and Linda Rice of Lazbuddie.

Cool temperatures make a difference

Most of us don't mind the cool temperatures in the spring and the fall, but for local farmers it can mean the difference between a bumper cotton crop and one that's not.

Dr. Norman Hopper, an associate professor of agronomy at Texas Tech University and a cotton research scientist at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station here is studying cold tolerance of cotton under grants funded by Cotton Incorporated and the Texas State Support Committee. In addition, he is looking at a seed coating which may improve seedling emergence under cool conditions.

The high elevation in this area of over 3000 feet above sea level means that this area may experience very cool temperatures during the spring and fall of the year.

"One of the problems we face in this area is that we have a short growing season. It is not particularly short in terms of the number of days from last frost in spring to first frost in the fall. We have an adequate number of days in terms of our growing season," Hopper said.

"When we talk of a short growing season, we are talking about it in terms of total heat units that are available to mature the crop. Because we often have these low spring and fall temperature conditions, this narrows us in on the number of heat units available," he explained.

In order to use as much of the heat units as possible to grow and mature the crop, we have to plant early. When planting early, we often run into cool spring temperatures, especially at night, Hopper said.

Cotton is basically a crop of tropical origin, and it likes warm temperatures.

When cotton is planted under cool conditions, it slows germination, emergence, establishment, and growth.

Hopper and his research team are trying to improve the emergence of cotton under cool conditions.

"There are several ways to approach this, and one is through genetics. We try to select lines that have what we call cold tolerance. That means they can germinate and emerge under cooler temperatures than, say, other lines and we can use those in a breeding program," Hopper said.

"We try to incorporate genes for cold tolerance into lines and varieties that will eventually have the genetic capacity to germinate and grow under cool conditions," he explained.

The second way is to look at some kind of physical method that will enhance germination and emergence.

"One of the things we are looking at is trying to identify why these early season cool temperatures tend to hurt germination and emergence. We know that as a dry seed imbibes (absorbs) cold water, cellular damage occurs, primarily to the membranes," Hopper said.

When seed membranes are damaged, one of two things will happen. If enough damage occurs, the seed will never germinate. The second, is that the seed will receive a certain amount of chilling injury.

It may or may not germinate and emerge. It will depend on how much injury there is. If the seed is injured, it is going to emerge slower than if no injury occurred.

"So one of the things we believe is happening is that as dry seeds imbibe cold water too fast, the membranes in the cell are cold and not very elastic. Since the membranes are cold and not very stretchable (brittle), they may rupture, Hopper said.

One of the things Hopper is looking at is polymer film coating. Polymer films form a coating on the seeds, slowing the water uptake and letting the cells stretch slowly instead of quickly under the cold conditions.

"Now we don't want to slow the imbibition a whole lot because this would also slow emergence. Slowing emergence would have the same effect as delaying planting and thus not utilizing the entire growing season," Hopper warned.

When cells rupture they are dead. If enough of the cells rupture, then the seed dies or doesn't have the capacity to germinate. Anytime a seed is damaged but not killed, the vigor is reduced.

"The amount of vigor loss will determine whether the seed will survive and live. Anytime we've ruptured those cells like that, it may not be enough to keep it from coming up; meaning it can still go ahead and emerge," Hopper said.

Anytime a cell is ruptured the contents of the cell actually spill out into the seed environment and because the contents are very rich in amino acids and sugars, the contents become the perfect media for pathogenic organisms (such as fungus and bacteria) to grow and invade that seed and cause it to die.

"So what we are hoping to do with the polymer coating is to slow imbibition, thus, causing less damage to the seed, what we call imbibitional chilling injury. In addition, we won't have those cellular contents in the soil acting as a media for pathogenic organisms, both of which should give us a higher emergence," Hopper said.

Parmer County youths attend D.C. tour

Amber Willard, daughter of Dennis and Tammy Willard of Bovina, and Jim Bob Sides, son of James and Tina Sides of Farwell, represented Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative during the 1995 Government in Action Youth Tour of Washington D.C. in June.

The tour is sponsored by the electric cooperatives in Texas.

While in Washington, the teens visited their congressman and observed the legislative process in action. Other highlights included visiting monuments, memorials and other attractions such as the White House, Arlington Cemetery, the Smithsonian, Ford's Theater, the National Cathedral, Mount Vernon, the National Archives, the Supreme Court and the Vietnam Memorial.

Special activities included Rural Youth Day, participating in the wreath-laying ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, viewing the sunset parade at the Iwo Jima Memorial and attending the U.S. Army's production "The Spirit of America."
