

SNOW WOULDN'T LET UP!

The snow has been wonderful. There is no doubt about that. We haven't heard a single complaint—even from the housewives who will be swabbing the muck out of their living rooms for the next two or three weeks.

This storm has been really something for us. We've never seen one this big before, you

Although such points as Hereford and Plainview reported considerably more snow than communities in and around Parmer County, most folks of this area feel that "we have gotten our share of snow" after a three-day blizzard which blanketed much of the Southwest.

Measurements of from 10 to 17 inches were reported from various parts of the county, with the northeastern corner appearing to receive more than other parts.

The big snowfall began innocently enough Wednesday afternoon, but by the middle of the next day, high winds and swirling clouds of flakes began to hint at the blizzard that was to follow.

By Thursday night, most traffic had come to a halt, and the snow continued all day Friday, powdering the ground with a deep blanket of white but dry cover. Intermittent snow continued throughout Saturday also.

In most instances, reports of snow measurements could be no better than rough estimates, because all three days the wind continued to shriek down from the north, and piled the flakes into towering banks along any obstruction that interfered with air currents.

Numerous cars, pickups and trucks were marooned for hours during the blizzard, but no reports have been heard from persons who suffered directly from the ravages of the storm. Inconvenience was the main item.

Only by mid-afternoon Sunday did Highways 70-84 from Clovis to Lubbock get unplugged, and the area between Farwell and Lariat proved to be the last gap to be opened.

Tourists from the west, unimpressed by the hazardous road conditions ahead of them, poured into town by the scores and a long line formed for several hours before road maintainers finally cleared the way.

Conditions were even worse on Highway 60 from Texico to Amarillo, and Hereford, Friona, and Bovina were isolated from through traffic until early Monday morning. By noon Monday, only one-lane traffic was percolating through.

Farmers Ticked over Snow

Although inconvenienced by 10-foot high snowdrifts in some places which rendered nearly all rural roads impassible until Tuesday, farmers of the Parmer County area were in top spirits this week over the first major visitation of moisture since September of last year.

The snow which fell brought with it from one to one and one-half inches of moisture—the kind that really soaks in and does some good. Amounts of snow staying in fields varied greatly because of the conditions of the fields and the driving wind, but nearly all fields managed to catch some moisture.

Dryland farmers with stubble in their fields turned out to be the greatest beneficiaries of the blizzard, and their joy the first of the week practically knew no bounds.

It was a great event for the tillers of the soil, who say they can't remember a bigger snowfall for at least 15 years.

Land which had been "deep broke" will now be much easier to work, especially after the thawing-freezing action takes place in the next few days. This natural phenomenon will greatly assist farmers in their job of managing clods which have been uprooted by breaking plows.

"Many farmers have been inconvenienced by the snow, but I don't know of any real cases of hardship," said County Agent Joe Jones. Some livestock men who were feeding were hard pressed to tend their herds, but little serious distress was heard.

Jewel Castor at the Farwell Feed Pens had a particularly troublesome problem when his earthen silo filled up with a plug of drifted snow 12 feet thick.

As he was using the silage daily, his need for the forage was immediate, and Monday afternoon, hands at the lots were busy trying to uncover the stored feed.

Pioneers Queried About Storm

How about it? Was the big blow of the past week the biggest one on record, or does it measure up to the ones that the pioneers of this area spin yarns about whenever a bull session gets underway?

For the answer to a question like this, there's no point in referring to any authority other than the "old timers" themselves—those persons who have lived on the Plains for 25 years or more.

Hubert Ellison of Bovina, who has 31 years to his credit, says there's been nothing like it since the spring of 1925, when a snow of similar severity fell.

However, he says, the wind didn't play such an important role as it did the past week, and that storm didn't measure up to the blizzard specifications of the most recent one.

There was a period in 1940 some remember as the "ice age" of the High Plains, where freezing rain and sleet disrupted power and telephone lines and made travel almost impossible for a number of weeks.

That spell resulted in more trouble for the people than the storm just finished, but wasn't comparable for spectacular snowdrifts and the like, says Ellison.

Willie Williams, Bovina's well-known amateur weather prophet, says that he has "no record other than my memory," but of the six snow storms he can recall since coming to Parmer County in '22, he says that the drifts of this one are by far the largest ones he remembers.

As Williams looks back, he remembers that the worst two storms were in 1924 and around 1939 or 1940. He says that there was just

Chamber Banquet Is Postponed

Wilfred Quickel, secretary-manager, Farwell Chamber of Commerce, announced this week that the Chamber banquet planned for Friday night, February 10, has been postponed and that the new date for the annual affair has not been decided upon.

Quickel reminds persons who have already purchased tickets that the tickets will be good for admission to the banquet at whatever date it may be held, and that announcement concerning the date will be made as soon as possible.

Sale Dates Changed To Coming Week

Dates of two farm sales have been changed because of the snow, announce Doshier & Francis, local auction team.

The Neil Hendrickson sale of Oklahoma Lane has been changed to Monday, February 13. It was originally scheduled for Tuesday of this week.

The G. W. Mayben sale of Bovina will be Wednesday, February 15, instead of Wednesday of this week.

Both sales start at 10:30.

Buck Bradshaw Back In Farwell Grocery

Mr. and Mrs. Buck Bradshaw this week resumed active management of their grocery store in Farwell, after an absence of several months while they opened a confection business in Wichita Falls.

Effective February 1, they assumed the business from John Holland, who had been operating it in their absence. Bradshaw says he is "here to stay," and that the name of the business will be changed back to Bradshaw's Grocery.

The Bradshaws are living temporarily in the Kirt Crume home until other housing becomes available.

As the printing industry is composed primarily of small business firms, it takes 900 of the nation's largest printeries to account for more than 50 per cent of the industry's sale volume.

Mrs. Jones Dies After Brief Illness

Mrs. Austin Jones, long-time resident of the West Camp community, passed away Monday night, after a brief illness and hospitalization. She was 48 years old.

Funeral services are planned this afternoon (Thursday) at 3 o'clock in the evening at the West Camp Baptist Church. Rev. T. L. Pond, pastor of the church, and Rev. E. J. Keith, pastor of First Baptist Church, Farwell, will officiate. Interment will be in Lawn Haven Memorial Park in Clovis.

Pallbearers will be Guy Austin, S. L. Busbice, W. W. Couch, O. W. Pair, Roy Sheriff and Partin Austin.

Mrs. Jones was born October 21, 1907 near Commanche, Okla., and made her home in that state until 11 years ago. She and her husband were married in Lawton, Okla., and lived near Snyder, Okla., during the early years of their marriage. They moved to the West Camp community in 1944, and had made their home there until about four months ago, when they moved to

A family fresh from a two-year stay in Alaska who were in Texico-Farwell sitting out the storm this week say they could swap the worst Alaska storms for the one which whipped through this area, and not get cheated on cold and snow.

Capt. and Mrs. Wilbur Finklea, who where on their way from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Greenville, S. C., were forced to remain overnight here Saturday in the teeth of the blizzard.

The Finkleas and their four children had to abandon their hopes to get to Plainview Saturday night when their station wagon buried up in a large snow drift as they were leaving Farwell, headed toward Muleshoe.

Cecil Rundell and Calvin Blain extricated the helpless vehicle from its dilemma and towed them into town where they gained lodging at the Illini Courts.

"I have never in my life met friendlier, more helpful people anywhere than in this part of the country," was Capt. Finklea's comment after the episode.

Because no cafes were found to be open at that time, the family was fed a hearty home-cooked meal by Mrs. A. C. Newberry of the motel, and were offered food, blankets, and lodging from other interested parties of the community.

Mrs. Kinklea, whose home is in Plainview, was hoping to visit her parents on the way to South Carolina, but because of the big snow, she didn't know Sunday what prospects for a visit would be.

He is a native of Louisiana. Even though the family included

Storm's Intensity Best Shown by These Pictures

These pictures tell better than words the story of the big snow which visited the Plains last week. (1) The home of Mrs. E. G. Blair is almost covered by a huge drift. If you look hard, you'll see her standing on the porch. (2) Sunday afternoon as thawing set in, dozens of cars filtered into Texico-Farwell from the west, trying to reach Amarillo and Lubbock. Here is a jam on Highways 70-84 near the outskirts of town. (3) Main Street in Farwell was a sight to behold after the snow. Here is a look at it from the post office. (4) This car was abandoned after being blocked by drifts in eastern Farwell. (5) Drifting snow created many beautiful scenes. This is the front yard of the Claude Rose home. (6) The granddaddy of 'em all is when they called this jam in front of Roberts Elevator in Texico. Here is a semi loaded with lumber. Note the almost-buried car at left. Behind the truck was another car and a pickup, and behind the cameraman was another truck loaded with cars. The block was not cleared until Sunday. (7) Typical street scene with everybody out shoveling. (8) Kiddoes at play on the snowdrifts. THE TRIBUNE'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

Farmers Show Initiative In Pursuing Vegetable Project

To the critics who have been saying that the traditional independence of farmers is fast disappearing, and that within a few years all agriculture will be wholly regulated by government, we suggest a look at the meeting of High Plains farmers at Plainview last week.

They met there to consider the possibility of entering into the highly competitive vegetable producing business, and even after being told that the risks will be high and a lot of money will be involved, they appear to be well on their way toward organizing a vegetable producing group of wide scope.

The farmer, is not, apparently, the pawn of the federal farm program that some have made him out to be.

While knowing nothing about the mechanics of producing or marketing vegetables, we do know enough to realize that more cash-producing crops need to be introduced into this great area, where water and soil resources are at least as good as any other area of comparable size in the United States.

The production of which we have learned to be proud has been bottled up by government-imposed controls, and even though the risks will be high, it will be heartening to see men once again dig in by their own initiative to see if they can crack profitable markets.

supporter for rolling back the tide of closed-door meetings, and "classified" public information.

For, as the senator has pointed out, had it been necessary for the state officials of Texas to publicly make known their actions at all times, the likelihood of the veterans' land scandals would have been reduced greatly. Too, there are many examples of where employees of the federal government have exercised a prerogative which they suppose themselves to have, in releasing to the press only the information which they want the public to know.

This country is supposed to be founded on the precepts of government by law instead of men, and such things as "executive order" have little place where the nation's security is not directly involved.

Price Daniel supports an "open door" policy, and we hope that other candidates will do the same as the weeks move on.

We Like Daniel's "Open Door" Policy

Although the field of gubernatorial candidates is not fully developed, and we prefer to wait a while before deciding who we think will make the best governor for Texas next year, we have warmed up a bit toward Sen. Price Daniel.

One of the things we like about his attitude is what he calls the "open door" policy. As a newspaperman himself, Daniel has an appreciation for the people's right to know the facts, particularly in the field of government affairs, and he is a strong

License Plates Are Now On Sale Here

Parmer County's 1956 license plates are now on sale, although weather conditions have hindered the usual early purchasers, according to employees in the sheriff's office. Plates must be displayed on vehicles by April 1.

The new license plates have black background with yellow letters and numerals, and are the standard size adopted by all 48 states. Another difference is that the two prefix letters read from left to right, instead of one on top of the other as in previous years.

Parmer County will have two prefixes. The first plates to go on sale are BN 9500 to BN 9999; others are BP 10 to BP 2499.

Farwell Teams To Meet Vega Tonight

Farwell High School basketball squads will perform on the home court for the final time this season, except for tournament play, tonight (Thursday) when they are hosts to the Vega teams.

This will be the first match between the two schools this year. Farwell was to have played in Vega on Friday night of last week, but because of the snow, that game had been postponed to Monday night, February 13.

The district 3-B tournament will get under way at the local gym on Thursday, February 16.

'55 Cotton Ginnings Total 46,410 Bales

Cotton ginnings in Parmer County for 1955-56 totaled 46,410 bales, according to information compiled by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Oddly enough, this figure compares almost exactly with the one of 46,412 obtained at the same time last year, but likely is no accurate reflection of the true size of the crop.

With a 46,000-acre allotment and a poor year for growing cotton, County Agent Joe Jones estimates that around 40,000 bales were produced. "This year," he said, "is probably the first one that the county gins have ever ginned more cotton than was grown in the county."

About 50,000 bales were produced last year, and some of this was taken out of the county to be ginned. In 1953, before a number of new gins were built, an estimated one-half of the cotton produced left this area for ginning.

Lions Zone Social Is Tuesday Night

Annual zone social of the Lions Club will be held at Hotel Clovis on Tuesday evening, February 14, at 7:30 p. m. (MST). Admission is $2 per person.

Texico-Farwell Lions president, James Patrick, says that it is hoped a good representation of the local club will be on hand for this annual get-together.

Patrick reminds local Lions who are planning to attend that they should contact him or Tom Wagner by Friday, February 10, so that reservations may be made.

Over $2,000 Certain For Polio Campaign

Early returns, which have been delayed due to the extreme weather, indicate that over $2,000 has been collected in Parmer County for the annual March of Dimes campaign.

Raymond Euler, campaign chairman, reported Tuesday that he had complete returns only from Friona. $1165.02 had been collected there. Of this amount, $981.94 came from the schools, $6.08 from the Cub Scouts, $172 from the Modern Study Club, and $5 from the Friona Woman's Club.

The Texico-Farwell Fire Department donated $25, the Texico-Farwell Methodist Men $9, Black $83.22; and Rhea $226.13.

No reports have been heard from Lazbuddie or Bovina, says Euler. Hugh Moseley, county Polio chairman, reported $122.10 received from mail solicitations.

Other reports: Farwell Schools $405.33, ESA $96.11, mothers' march in Texico-Farwell $149.39. Farwell coin containers $79.13. Numerous activities in Texico netted $643.24, according to Mrs. Ray Sharp, chairman.

Steers Take 77-46 Win From Lazbuddie

Only a week away from "play for keeps" in the district tourney, the Farwell Steers continued in their winning ways to defeat the Lazbuddie Longhorns 77-46 in a game played at Lazbuddie Tuesday night of last week.

The Steers have been idle since this game, but they will be seeing action again tonight (Thursday) when Vega teams will be guests here for a district 3-B battle.

Scoring high for the Steers in the duel with the Longhorns was Bert Williams who sank 21 points. Other Farwell boys scoring in the double digits were Eddie Smith with 18, Troy Christian with 17, and George Washington with 16. High point man for Lazbuddie was Jimmie Oliver who racked up 23 points.

Score by quarters, Farwell first, were 43-16 in the first; 29-25 in the second, and 46-35 in the third. Joy Smith, Lazbuddie's high scoring forward, led her teammates to a 69-45 victory over the local girls in the second game of the evening. Smith scored 37 points to add another win to the team's season standing.

High scorer for Farwell was Glenna Ruth Davis with 19 points. Mary Ann Walls scored 13 points for the visiting squad. Janice Oliver and Mary Ellen Thompson scored 15 and 11 points, respectively, for the Lazbuddie team.

Score by quarters, Farwell first, read 13-27, 23-42, and 31-54. Both local teams will play their final district games Monday night at Vega. This game is a make-up game and will be the second match between the teams. Farwell squads are playing hosts to the Vega teams here tonight.

Who was it that said no news is good news?

We don't know, but outside of the big story concerning the snow this week, the staff of The Tribune are forced to admit they are just about stumped for filling the paper with news.

Cancellations of meetings, church services, and other activities just about nullified regular news sources. June Hensley, Tribune society editor, wails that "Nobody's been anywhere or done anything, except stay at home. And that's not news."

Well, in a sense, being snowbound out here on the high, dry Plains IS news, but we think that you get the idea. When the wheels of civilization begin to turn again, we'll bring you up to date with all the details!

District Tournament To Start Next Week

The ten basketball teams, boys and girls, which compose District 3-B will be on hand next week when district tournament play gets under way at Farwell Gymnasium on Thursday evening, February 16, at 7 o'clock.

Winners of the tourney will wear the championship crown and enter competition in the regional tournament to gain the right to play at state.

In the boys bracket, Farwell and Bovina will be vying for the title. Neither team has had strong competition in any other district game. Farwell has lost twice in district combat to the Mustangs, but beating Bovina in the semi-finals of this tournament would throw the Steers and Mustangs into a tie for the championship, thus making necessary a play off game.

Here's the way the boys bracket stands: Vega, Adrian and Farwell drew byes. Bovina will play Lazbuddie at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, February 16. Vega and Adrian will be matched at 1 p. m. Friday. Winner of the Bovina-Lazbuddie game will meet Farwell at 2:30 p. m. Friday. Winners of these two games will play for the championship at 9 p. m. Friday.

In the girls division, Vega, Farwell and Lazbuddie all drew byes. Bovina and Adrian will play in the first game of the tournament at 7 p. m. Thursday.

Vega and Farwell will play at 9 a. m. Friday and winners of the Bovina-Adrian game will play Lazbuddie at 10:30 a. m. Friday. Winners of these two games will play Friday night at 7:30 for championship honors.

Admission to the tournament will be 50 and 25 cents.

Groups May Enter Traffic Safety Contest

Chicago—Are women backseat drivers?

Here is an invitation for them to sit up front and toot their own horn.

The National Safety Council announced today that nominations are sought for the 1956 Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety, administered by the Council through grant of the Shell Oil Co.

The awards, which recognize the achievements of women in the field of traffic accident prevention, are open to American women and to women's and parents' groups. Now in the fifth year, they have revealed the important traffic safety support work being carried out by women, according to the Council.

The awards are named for Carol Lane, women's travel director of Shell. The first three winners in both the individual and club categories will receive a bronze sculpture and $1,000, $500 and $250 savings bonds, as well as trips to Chicago for the National Safety Congress in October.

They'll Remember The Storm of 1956

By Jeanne Graham

Do you remember the big snow of 1956?

Remember how everyone was snowed in, and tractors were common conveyances for those caught without supplies? Each family pioneered for a while, and learned to get by for a few days without any contact with the outside.

Remember? The snow began the latter part of January and kept falling, long after many thought that surely things would let up. And the snow followed long months of drouth—not one complaint could be heard. Those living in town would be trudging through three-and four-foot drifts to get to the grocery stores, but they were usually smiling. The snow meant moisture.

Meetings were cancelled and schools were dismissed in Texico-Farwell; and mamas and papas found themselves entertaining the kids who hadn't been shut in like this for a long time. The little ones pressed their noses against the window panes and watched the great white flakes fall—something new in their young lives.

Volunteers helped push and pull the traffic through the Twin Cities, after maintainers had first made a lane through the drifts.

Iceicles hung from all the houses, and any setting would be a typical Christmas card scene. Snow men graced the yards at homes where children lived—after the flakes stopped falling. Sleds were pulled through the streets by various vehicles, and jolly young people careened through the snow on the contraptions.

By Sunday, when the day was somewhat clear—residents were driving around to see how their neighbors were faring. Although mail arrived at the post offices, the paper boys were snow-logged, with deliveries impossible for two days.

Supplies were running low for some farm families and men began breaking through the drifts Sunday. Carl Davis opened his grocery store, at the request of his customers, and checked out 263 loads of groceries that day.

Adolf Haseloff made it in from Oklahoma Lane, in search of milk for the baby and the family. Other fathers also were in town, to find food for their families.

The store was out of milk and bread, but a Clovis dairy delivered milk twice that Sunday and the bread truck replenished the supply two or three times. Farmers were trying to find ways to get their cattle fed.

Mrs. J. T. Hulsey who lives southeast of town, spent three days reading and crocheting. Her telephone was out, and her radio went out, and as a pioneer of 31 years, Mrs. Hulsey reminisced about other snows.

Melborn Jones, who has been hospitalized in Amarillo, arrived home to visit his family, and couldn't get to his country home until Sunday. His wife and her mother were snowbound at the Jones home, with the new baby of the young couple.

And the stork was out in the cold too. But it took the county maintainer to make a path to bring Mrs. Bill Philpot to the Farwell clinic, where a 7 lb. boy, William Kim, arrived safely.

And through it all, the downtown theatre boasted "It's Always Fair Weather" on the marquee.

Texas vegetable growers and others concerned with processing and shipping are cautioned by extension entomologists to follow closely recommendations covering the use of pesticides on food crops. Crops showing excessive poisonous residues are illegal in interstate commerce and when seized represent a complete loss.

Rev. C. C. Morgan, Pastor

Although regular services were not held at the church Sunday, Rev. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Watson and Miss Susan Levins met at the church to broadcast over KCLV, Clovis, the morning worship program.

Prior to the morning sermon, preached by Rev. Morgan, Miss Levins sang a solo, and Mrs. Watson read a spiritual poem, "The Beautiful Snow."

Mrs. Morgan, wife of the pastor, reports that they have received many nice comments on the presentation of Sunday's worship hour. From 11 a. m. to 12 p. m. each Sunday, the worship services are broadcast over KCLV, and Rev. Morgan said he could get to the church through the snow and therefore saw no reason why he shouldn't continue with the worship program last Sunday.

Weather permitting, all organizations of the church will meet in regular session this week. Sunday School will begin at 10 a. m. and worship services will start at 11 a. m. Training union hour is 7 p. m. followed by evening worship at 8 p. m.

Brotherhood members postponed their ladies' night meeting which was to be held Tuesday night of this week. A banquet supper and program had been planned for the evening.

Mrs. Morgan reports that no definite date for the annual event has yet been decided upon.

Passion Play Film In Clovis Monday

Marking another step toward civic and community projects is the Altrusa Club of Clovis, which is proud to have the honor of sponsoring two showings of the technical film of "Oberammergau And The Passion Play."

Showings of the film are scheduled for Monday, February 13, at Marshall Auditorium in Clovis at 4 and 7:30 p. m. (MST). Admission is 50 cents for children and $1 for adults. All proceeds from this presentation will be used by the Altrusans for local community and civic projects.

This non-denominational picture concerning the community of Oberammergau and its pageant of the story of Jesus, from manhood to the Ascension, has been filmed in English dialogue. Musical background for the film is furnished by a 65 piece symphony orchestra. The picture will be shown on a wide screen with high fidelity sound at the Clovis auditorium. The original Passion Play was staged in Oberammergau, a city in Bavaria, Germany. This first play was in 1634 in commemoration of a vow made by villagers that if God would relieve their village of a plague, they would express their gratitude in a devout presentation of the Passion week of Christ. Every decade since, with a few exceptions due to war, the play has been presented. Down through the centuries the play has become world famous.

The film of the Passion Play is presented throughout the world so that it may reach countless thousands of people who might not feel the inspiration of the Bible otherwise. The film, in two parts, includes a travelogue describing the origination of the Passion Play, and the play itself. Scenes of many of Germany's most beautiful and cultural landmarks, which are near Oberammergau, are included in the travelogue.

Members of the Altrusa Club would like to urge everyone interested to attend one of the showings of this film on February 13.

Berna Dean Kube Is Award Winner

Mrs. Berna Dean Kube was this week named winner of the Farwell High School Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow Award. She will receive a golden award pin at a special assembly program to be held later this month. Date of the assembly will be announced later, according to Mrs. L. B. Penick, local home economics teacher.

Sponsored by General Mills, this annual 50 minute written examination is given to home economics girls in some 10,000 schools throughout the nation.

The examination is designed to test the homemaker's knowledge and attitude toward homemaking and to instill in the students a deeper appreciation and understanding of the American home and the personal qualities necessary for successful homemaking.

Berna Dean's examination will be entered in competition to name this state's candidate for the title of All American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

All state winners will be awarded a $1500 college scholarship and an expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., Mount Vernon and Williamsburg, Va. State winners will be guests of Betty Crocker at an American Table Banquet at Philadelphia on April 12. The All American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be chosen on this night.

Winner of this award will receive a $5000 college scholarship. This examination is designed and judged by the Science Research Associates of Chicago, and each girl taking the test received a personal copy of Betty Crocker's "Guide to Homemaking." Schools in which the tests were given were recipients of Betty Crocker cookbooks.

Berna Dean is a senior at Farwell High School this year and has taken home economics for three years. A member of the Future Homemakers of America for three years, Berna Dean says that she is very proud of winning the contest locally.

The local winner, formerly Miss Berna Dean Snelgrove, was recently married to Clarence Kube, a Farwell graduate. They are making their home near the West Camp community while Berna Dean is continuing her education.

Our young son has a strange aversion. The only thing he will let remain out of place is a toy or toys—which repose under the desk (that happens to be the train station in Timbuktu), behind the couch and in the middle of the floor.

But he knows where everything else should be, and strives to keep mama on her toes. We have a tiny little ash tray which at one time we kept on the record player. Then we decided to make a change, and placed the little conversation piece on the sill of the picture window. In a short while, we noticed that the ash tray was back on the record player. We moved it!

We were too slow. In 30 minutes, it was back in the original position. This went on for hours which extended into three days. Finally after many conversations and explanations, we reached an agreement with Ronny and it remains on the sill. But woe to us, if we ever decide to change it again.

In fact, when he isn't sure where he should place something, he finds his own place for it. That is when this hide-and-seek game becomes really interesting. Only last week, our eye glasses disappeared, and we still haven't found them. We've asked Ronny if he knows where they are and he feigns innocence; and when we asked him if he put them away, he says "yes," but that is the extent of the information we can get.

Actually, we still aren't sure if he did find a place for them, or if we misplaced them—but nevertheless, they are well lost.

We couldn't resist the following story from the Perryton paper.

We noticed in the Waynoka paper where one of editor Aaron Fischer's neighbors, a doctor, took his car to the garage because it wouldn't run right. After much work and experimenting, the mechanic finally cut a hole in the gas tank and removed the following: One 12-inch plastic ruler, five clothes pins, four large rocks (slightly under boulder size) three heaping handfuls of gravel, two pencils, several rolls of soaked caps for a cap gun and some marbles. The finger of suspicion was pointed sternly at the three-year-old son of the doctor, and the culprit broke down under third degree and implicated some of his friends.

One of the most unique chain letters we've come across would be ideal for us—it is the recipe club. But our husband tells us it is still illegal to send these letters through the mail, even though no money is involved.

if you don't break the chain. We must say it is the most tempting letter—especially the way we worry over next week's recipe, all the time.

Observations at press convention: Red Motley, who is associated with Parade, the Sunday supplement magazine, was an excellent after-dinner speaker. In short, he told us that "when you are green, you are growing—when you are ripe, you are rotten." Maybe he had something there.

Also, he reminded us to "remember what you know." He felt that too many times, we don't use the knowledge we already have.

We were discussing column-writing with Mrs. Doug Poe of the Littlefield paper, and both of us were admitting some of the stupendous errors we had made at times. She said her biggest trouble was sentences into which other meanings can be read—not necessarily the one she had intended.

She said once in her column she had written "Mrs. Blank had her baby in the office the other day." It's all in the way you look at it she said, but many readers teased her about using the wrong verb.

Oh well, such is life!

The following is taken from the Morton paper. Although most of us do not know the family involved, as parents, this prayer will have meaning for us.

(Ed. note. The following is reprinted for several reasons. It should be particularly interesting to a number of long time residents of the area because the writer is a former Morton resident, the daughter of Mrs. Willie Rose of this city and the sister of Lee Stewart.

Mrs. R. M. Shelton of Los Angeles, the former Geneva Stewart, was a resident here from 1927 until 1948. She was valedictorian of her class which graduated from Morton High. She taught school in Morton, Neely Ward and Lehman, after attending Texas Tech for a couple of years. She received her college degree from the University of Southern California and has been teaching school in California, on and off, ever since she went out there.

The prayer she penned was printed in the Los Angeles Herald and Express last November as a pre-Safe Driving Day message. Her daughter, Ramona, had been struck by a car but escaped with only minor injuries. "Having had a close brush with an automobile as a lethal weapon" she wrote the paper, "I can appreciate the value of your safety campaign." She said the poem was really very personal, having been written only a few hours after the accident, but added that if it would help just one driver to be alert for the sight of a child in the street... she would be rewarded.

The prayer, entitled Grateful: Tonight, O God I am grateful. Grateful through my tears, and through the terror of the 'almost' Grateful for the little striped sunsuit from which I may wash the mud. Feeling that some tomorrow she'll wear it again.

Grateful for the little chocolate cake, which she baked for me just today, as a surprise, and for the assurance that she'll bake another.

Grateful that I may hear her say again, as today, "My Mommie's good to me."

Grateful that another day, there'll be the weenie roast, and the campfire, and the popcorn that were planned for tonight.

Grateful that the man at the wheel wasn't driving too fast; and for his kindness and concern.

Grateful for the kindness of neighbors, Who, knowing the toll of my terror, Sought only to assuage it.

So grateful O God, For a compassionate policeman, who, When through my tears I could not say my own name, Could say to me reassuringly, "She'll be all right."

For a gentle nurse and a trusted doctor Who could ease her wounds. And give comfort to my terrified heart.

Grateful that I could hear her, even in her discomfort. Say her prayers and ask Thee to help her. And all of her little friends to remember to cross the street with care.

Grateful, O Lord

For thy comfort and sustaining presence to every mother Who one day may hear the screech of brakes, a thud, A terrified scream—and feel cold terror in her heart.

Grateful for guardian angels and for careful drivers, That there may be few of these mothers.

Grateful

For drivers who are alert For the sight of a child in the street for in spite of all our teaching and our care, They do in their childish eagerness forget.

Aware, O Lord

That one day another child may, in his childish eagerness To show his toad to a cherished friend, Forget to look.

Tomorrow, O God I shall be grateful.

Grateful for every sock that I shall wash, And for every tear that I shall dry. For every birthday party that I shall plan.

Yes even for every smudgy fingerprint That I shall wipe from the door.

For these are the signs of life— Of a life restored, as it were, In a miracle unto me.

I beseech Thee, O Lord, That I may be worthy of this miracle, That I may nurture and love and cherish

This life restored unto me. That it may not return to Thee void.

One of the common problems that confronts those in this business of "news" is the problem of juveniles. Fortunately, we have just about the best kids anywhere—how many times do you note offences by our young people, on the court records. So far, it has been rare.

Various papers have different policies on this problem.

"The best answer I have to parental fault-finders is that if my own teen age daughter gets arrested for speeding, running a stop light, passing on a yellow line or some other infraction, it goes in the paper."

We are quoting Dow Richardson, editor of the Kokomo (Ind.) Tribune, who in a recent article published by The Bulletin of The American Society of Newspaper Editors, discussed the problem of whether teen age names should be used if the teen agers get into problems with the police.

"We never had much doubt, in our office, about policy on printing names of juveniles arrested on criminal charges," said Mr. Richardson.

"If the offender is under 18, his case comes up in Juvenile Court and we go along with the judge in sparing the youth publicity unless he is a rank repeater or there are unusual circumstances about the case. Having seen a good many kids make one mistake which never really hurt society and then become good citizens, we have never felt that a newspaper contributed much to social progress if it staked a youngster's name regardless of the degree of his offense.

"And we thought we had a fairly sensible policy on running names of juveniles arrested for traffic law violations. We run them. We don't consider that we are inconsistent in omitting identifications in most juvenile crime charges and publishing names of minors in traffic cases."

Hop used to say "we don't make the news, we just print it."

Old Timers Compare Blizzard With "What Used To Be"

as much snow then on the level ground as there was from this one, but that there was not as much drifting.

"The temperature was a lot lower during those previous two storms but the wind did not blow so much," says Williams.

Williams thinks that the other storms were a bit more severe than this one has been because it was "so difficult for people to get around then." He tells of people coming to town on horseback or by sled for many days before the thaw.

Williams says that this storm was not felt so intensely by country people because they are better prepared for this type of weather now than they were "way back when."

A Parmar County resident since the fall of 1920, J. W. Magness says that this storm is no worse than others he's seen here and that the other storms he's witnessed "were a lot colder than this one has been."

Magness remembers that in the winter of 1925 and early 1926 this area "had plenty of snow at several different times." He says that the snow from the worst storm of that season stayed on the ground for weeks and weeks and that traffic, such as it was, was completely halted. He remembers this one particularly because "we sure had a good wheat year in '26 after all that snow."

He believes that it was that winter that so many sheepherders in this country froze to death during the blizzard. Sheep and cattle died by the thousands before the storm was over.

Although Magness was living in Wheeler County at the time, he says that the most severe storm in this country was back in 1918. It was then that so many cattle died at the railroad right-of-way fence in Bovina. Magness says the cattle were all drifting southward and froze to death when they couldn't pass the fence there.

He also remembers snow being so high that cattle just walked over the fences, and that snow in the streets was "as high as my living room ceiling."

Most of the "old timers" in Friona with whom this reporter talked felt that the modern conveniences made this storm seem less severe than previous ones here, but the general attitude is that they think it has been BAD.

Roy Euler of the Summerfield Community has been here about 30 years, and he says that this is the most snow he has ever seen in this country.

C. W. Dixon, a resident of Friona since January 1902, declares that the blizzard of last weekend is the worst one he has seen here since 1918. He says that in '18 cattle were all over the ground, lying where they had frozen.

Mrs. A. H. Boatman says that she saw more snow than this near Tucumcari in 1906, but that this is the most snow she's seen here.

Sitting out the storm with a "dead" radio and with her telephone out of order was Mrs. J. T. Hulseley who says that in her 31 years in Farwell she has seen lots more snow than this and that the other storms were a lot colder than this one, but blizzard conditions as such haven't been this bad before.

Mrs. Hulseley says that she has never seen drifts this high before and that the roads were more dangerous now than in other blizzards here.

No "old timers" story is complete without a comment from Uncle Tom Randol of Farwell who has lived here since 1903.

Concerning the present snow storm, Uncle Tom thinks it's "just a baby" compared to the "granddaddy of them all" which started on November 20, 1906.

Uncle Tom says, "the snow fell and the wind blew hard for 48 hours without a let-up." Snow stayed on the ground for three weeks at this time, and Uncle Tom remembers that the only way a person could keep really warm was to "sit astraddle a stove all day."

In telling of the storm of 1906, Uncle Tom says that the wind was almost like a hurricane and that people could hardly get from their houses to the barns. Guide ropes were tied from the house to the barn to insure a safe return to the house after farmers tended their cattle.

One hundred and sixty head of cattle froze to death in one place just southeast of Farwell, recalls Uncle Tom.

"Winters were fairly mild from then until 1918 when we had another pretty severe blizzard," says the old timer. He remembers that people could get around better during this storm and that it was not nearly as cold as during 1906.

Uncle Tom laughingly admitted that they had no thermometers in 1906 to learn the official temperature, but it was the coldest weather he'd ever seen.

Prior to the present storm, this Farwell resident thinks the last heavy snow here was in 1946 when it snowed continuously "from morning 'til night" on Christmas Day.

Uncle Tom thinks that this is "a pretty good snow, and we sure need it," but as for the severity of it, Uncle Tom seemed to be saying with his eyes "you ain't seen nothing to compare with the blizzard of 1906."

Give them a Faith to live by

Worship with them this week

Naturally you want them to have all the good things in life . . . a happy home . . . a good education . . . plenty of chances to meet other nice young people.

But be sure, too, that you give them the most precious gift of all . . . Faith. When you give it—you give the youngsters the world—and all.

The wonderful part is that faith is yours to give . . . no matter who you are, what you do for a living, how much money you have in the bank.

Faith is the gift you give a little at a time. Every week you and the children worship together at your church or synagogue. The youngsters see you . . . the biggest, smartest, most important people in their world . . . asking God for help, thanking Him for blessings. Then it's clear to them . . . here they can always find the strength they need, always find the happiness they want.

Then you've done the best a parent—any parent—can do.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Gilbert Kaltwasser, E. T. Ford and L. F. Bruns attended a membership captain's meeting in Lubbock, Tuesday afternoon. Ford is membership chairman for Parmer County. He and his committee have planned a captain's meeting to be held in the Friona Club House on the evening of February 27. The Kick-Off supper will be held in the Bovina School cafeteria on March 5, and the victory meeting will be in the Bovina auditorium on March 12.

If you noticed a better quality in this column last week, it was because Glenda Rickard wrote it in our absence.

The first two days we spent on the West Coast gave us the opportunity to see seven and one half inches of rain fall. We were wishing for the same for this area, and when we reached Farwell, snow blocked the highways to such an extent that we came into Friona on the train. Everybody seems real happy about it.

We are also happy to note the absence of accident reports to this date, but there are bound to be some before the ice is gone. We just hope they are all minor ones.

We would like to remind gasoline fuel farmers again to file claim for road tax refund promptly when notified. In spite of the many conversions to butane, the refundable tax is still close to $27,000 in Parmer County. In a few months there will be an additional refund available because of congressional action allowing farm exemption for the 2c federal tax. This action, incidentally, also resulted because of your Farm Bureau action.

If you will remit your dues when you receive your statement, you can save your neighbor, who will work on the drive, some time and money.

While listening to the California Farm Bureau radio program the other day, we heard this: "A man's opinion is no better than his information."

Consider this: Then I saw that wisdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkness. Ecclesiastes 2-13.

LEGAL

An ordinance of the City of Farwell, Texas concerning "Regulations for Access Driveways to State Highways."

Whereas, The Texas Highway Department has in November, 1955, revised the booklet of "Regulations For Access Driveways To State Highways" which was prepared in accordance with instruction and policy of the Texas Highway Commission Minute Order No. 34719, dated September 23, 1953, designed to accomplish a coordinated development between the highway and the abutting property for the safe movement of traffic, and

WHEREAS, Article 8, Page 8 of said booklet sets out limitations to the Texas Highway Department in that the concurrence of the municipality is required when the "Regulations For Access Driveways To State Highways" pertain to state maintained highways routed over city streets or to highways located within the corporate limits of such municipality, and

WHEREAS, the City of Farwell desires to assist the Texas Highway Department in its efforts to promote the safe and free movement of normal highway traffic and to assist in the controlling of access driveways to property along the highways through this city;

Now therefore be it ordained by the city council of Farwell, Texas:

1. These "Regulations For Access Driveways To State Highways" are herewith adopted for the public safety and protection of the city and of the citizens thereof and all of the provisions herein shall be construed for the accomplishment of that purpose.

2. Any person, firm, or corporation who shall violate or disregard any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall be fined not less than $5.00 nor more than $100.00 per day of existing violation.

3. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

4. An immediate necessity and emergency exist by reason of the public safety and welfare of the citizens and convenience of the citizens of this city and this ordinance shall take effect immediately and shall be enforced from and after its passage and first publication.

FARWELL BAPTIST NEWS

Rev. E. J. Keith, Pastor

All meetings at the church, including regular Sunday morning and evening worship services, were cancelled last week.

The training union study course which began at the church last Monday evening, was not held on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday nights as previously planned.

Mrs. Keith reports that the final three lessons in the study course will probably be held sometime next week.

Today (Thursday) a leadership training clinic for workers with youth is being held in Friona. Several local church members were planning to attend.

Tonight, the Avenue Baptist Church in Hereford will be host to an associational worker's conference.

Rev. Keith is making tentative plans to attend the District Brotherhood Evangelistic Rally to be held in Lubbock Tuesday night, February 14. This rally is for all men of the Brotherhood and all boys of the church. Several other men and boys of the church were planning to attend the meeting at First Baptist Church, Lubbock. The meeting begins at 7:30.

Weather permitting, services will be held as usual at the church this Sunday with Sunday School starting at 10 a. m. and worship services at 11 a. m. Training union time is 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by evening worship services at 8 p. m.

WMU groups will meet Monday morning and Monday afternoon in their respective circles if the weather permits.

Sunbeams, Auxiliary groups and the Royal Ambassadors have regular meetings scheduled for Wednesday at the church.

Pioneering in first aid instruction, the Red Cross began building its program during the early years of this century. Last year the Red Cross issued 680,000 certificates to persons who satisfactorily completed training in first aid.

Letters To The EDITOR

W. H. Graham Jr.
Dear Sir,

I'm going to write you something, and if you want to, you can put it in the paper.

Last Wednesday Mrs. Earl Drake and I took Mrs. Ada Parker from Friona down to the Texico-Farwell Furniture Mart. Mrs. Parker is 84, and everyone here calls her Grandma Parker. She used to live just east of Farwell about three miles.

She bought a rug and Ben Smart asked her what her name was, and when she said Mrs. Parker, he slapped her on the shoulder and said, "You are the first person I ever worked for. When I was in the first grade, I walked out to your place and asked for a job picking cotton. It was on Thanksgiving Day, and I picked three days and don't think I made a dollar."

Grandma said he was just six years old and he picked cotton all by himself and she would have to go out and weigh it for him. He brought his lunch.

Grandma said if he was as good at his business now as he was at cotton picking, then he would be good. Ben said that was his first and last job at picking cotton. I thought that was pretty good.

Yours truly,
Mrs. A. O. Drake

HOPPERS—

know. Or at least, we certainly don't remember anything this severe.

The benefit of the moisture to growing crops is the first thought of all, and everyone is saying, "My, isn't this wonderful for the farmers?"

Don't forget that it has been wonderful in other ways, though. For our own household, it provided the first legitimate excuse we have had in years for just setting down for a day or two and enjoying one another.

Being "snowbound" is something really novel for the people of this part of the country, and we imagine that other families besides the Grahams rediscovered what home life really is. Closed inside the house for a couple of days with nothing important to do except enjoy one another was a real adventure, especially with two rambunctious young sons kicking around under foot.

Sunday afternoon, after just about everybody had managed to dig out and stir around a little, we noted with particular appreciation how friendly everyone had become.

We ourselves waved heartily to folks we had never seen before, and they enthusiastically returned the salute. The shouts of kiddoes in the front yards making snowmen or building houses or throwing snowballs were a wonderful sound.

Really, the coming of the snow changed the entire atmosphere of our neighborhood, and we have no doubt that your neighborhood was just that way, too.

Have you noticed how much longer the days are getting? This reminds us of one of our favorite subjects, and that is what a beautiful part of the day early morning is, and how folks who don't open their eyes until about 8 o'clock are missing some of the real glory of living on the High Plains.

It won't be very many weeks until we will be awakened not by an alarm, but by the steady putt-putt of the lawn mowers of our neighbors, who too have discovered how fine it is to greet the world when nature draws aside her curtain of night in the splendor called dawn.

If the big snows don't prove anything else, we hope that they draw us some more support for our contention that weather bureaus may have their place, but they more aptly fit into the category of entertainment than enlightenment.

We have old-timers right here in town who can look at the clouds and tell us pretty accurately what the weather will be for the next 12 hours. They come pretty close to knowing answers to questions like, "Will the snow keep up?" and "Will it be colder tonight than last night?"

Since the writer was sweating out a mid-winter meeting of the West Texas Press Association in Lubbock for which he has been responsible, and the thing was supposed to come off Sunday, he naturally kept his ear glued to the radio for the latest forecasts.

It didn't do any good. Reports kept coming out that the snow would soon quit and the thaw should set in, but no such luck. Finally, we had to cancel the thing at the last possible moment, which was noon Saturday.

Numerous long-distance phone calls (which were hard to get through, incidentally) and a lot of trouble and confusion could have been averted by just knowing what was going to happen in the coming 24 hours.

Well, the truth is that ground-hogs are a lot better—and a heck of a lot cheaper—than weather-men.

We also trust that this snow has once and for all put the notion out of a few people's minds that the Plains are on the brink of the semitropics, with a climate that compares favorably with Southern California and Florida.

And this is meant kindly, Wes Izard. Covering up for West Texas weather is futility. It's rugged and we might as well face up to it.

The yearly siege of spring sandstorms will again bear out the robustness of our climate.

Why don't we advertise our climate as the kind that puts hair on men's chests?

Of all personal duties that must be attended to, we suppose that for men, shaving is the most detested. Never have we met a man who felt kindly toward this menial chore—even though we have known some whose peach fuzz shouldn't have been any more trouble to whisk off than a two-day collection of dust on a piano.

Just as women glory in bragging to one another over the grim details of their most recent encounter with the scalpel, so men seem always to be moaning and claiming, "I have the world's toughest beard," or, "My skin is so tender."

These claims are designed to extract sympathy from listeners. What the effect of sympathy from the spectators has ever exacted on the morning shave has never been definitely established, but it must make the task more bearable.

Gallantry plays its part here, and when the steel-nerved male emerges from the bathroom with his face a bleeding mess, he is supposed to feel heroic for going through with this arduous assignment in spite of having a tough crop or a tender epidermis.

This expose of the shaving racket will not endeavor us on our fellow practitioners, but it is a fact, wives, that there's nothing really so gruesome about shaving.

The next time hubby gives you the old song and dance about what torture you're asking him to go through with when you suggest he buzz his fuzz before the Saturday night stomp, don't forget what secrets this department has laid bare. We ought to know. We're the worst shave-dodger ever to sit in front of a typewriter. With the possible exception of Ernest Hemingway.

Parmer County Area Gets Plenty Of Snow

No serious automobile accident occurred throughout the entire storm, according to Sheriff Chas. Lovelace, which did seem remarkable because of conditions of the road and near-zero visibility from blowing snow.

Glazed streets in all the communities of the area caused several fender-bumpings, but no injuries were reported.

Temperatures during the storm hovered well under the freezing mark for the full three days, and the ice cold wind made conditions very disagreeable for those forced to be outside. Most readings were from 15 to 20 degrees.

After skies cleared Sunday night, the mercury really went out of sight, with several readings of near or slightly below zero recorded in the western part of the county.

Sunny skies promptly restored normalcy, however, and thawing had set in on a grand scale by Monday noon.

Residents soon discovered that little could be accomplished in an automobile even in town, unless the owner was fortunate enough to own tire chains.

Spinning wheels and racing engines were common sights and sounds throughout the area as drivers experimented with the icy and snow-covered streets.

Most people soon resorted to travel by foot as the most practical choice, even though the weather required a stiff constitution of those who ventured afield. Men and women lugging boxes of food home from the few stores which stayed open during the storm proved to be a common sight.

Gas pressure for area homes and businesses provided steady heat, and no instances of lowered pressure were reported. During the cold snaps of several years ago, pressure several times sank to dangerously low levels.

Telephone service to most rural areas was disrupted, although power held out through the blizzard. Exchanges for Friona and Bovina, with a central office at Hereford, were snarled for two days.

In addition, the rural exchanges of Hub, Rhea, Parmer, and Tharp were rendered unserviceable. Telephones in Texico-Farwell and the Oklahoma Lane exchange were not on the "od" list.

In most communities, only grocery stores and cafes bothered to keep their doors, unlocked during the blizzard, but both reported excellent business even in the teeth of the blow.

Hardware stores and auto stores reported requests by the score for such items as tire chains and tow chains, and antifreeze sold like summer lemonade.

A few proprietors laughingly admitted that they missed their chance to "make a million" by not having a huge stock of tire chains in inventory.

Requests for rubber footwear and heavy gloves also zoomed as the intense cold bore down.

Schools, churches, and organizations were forced to dismiss scheduled activities, and hundreds of minor events booked in the social calendar were scratched out or postponed. Even with the interruption to the normal living pattern that the storm brought, everyone appeared to be in a good humor over the blizzard.

a nine-month-old baby, no real hardship has resulted from the encounter with the blizzard. Mr. and Mrs. Finklea were able to buy milk in town for the baby.

Noticing the Alaska license plates on the station wagon, a Tribune reporter imagined that blizzard conditions were nothing new to the family. Such didn't prove to be the case, however, and they reported that this was "one of the worst storms we've ever seen."

Capt. Finklea pointed out that temperatures are more extreme in Alaska, and several feet of snow is not at all uncommon, but that wind for such prolonged periods is a rarity.

Four hitch-hiking soldiers who were stranded in Texico, cold and broke, were fed without charge by Mrs. Newberry.

FARM ACCIDENTS HEAVY

The losses from farm accidents are so appalling and the benefits of a safety program so greatly to be desired that everyone interested in the permanent welfare and progress of agriculture must push ahead for greater safety says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Committee. FARWELL, TEXAS THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1956 NUMBER 18

25 Agreements, 11,260 Acres Signed Up by SCD Last Year

Twenty-five agreements embracing 11,260 acres were effected in the Farmer County Soil Conservation District the past year, according to the annual report of the board of supervisors.

Here is a breakdown of conservation practices which the District helped establish. Numbers represent acres:

Contour farming, 80; cover cropping, 4401; rotation hay and pasture, 337; crop residue utilization, 2345; stubble mulching, 620; conservation crop rotation, 2100; rotation grazing, 790;

Diversion construction (miles), 1; waterway development, 34; laterals (miles), 35; border irrigation, 84; land leveling, 169; improved water application, 3,481.

Equipment owned by the District includes five land planes, three legume seeders, two grass seeders, one maintainer level, one hydraulic carryall, and one Enler carryall.

Equipment and machinery owned by the District is valued at $8,953. Other resources include seed, $1400; and cash, $2,959. Supervisors placed a value in dollars and cents on assistance rendered them from:

Soil Conservation Service, $15,261.91; facilitating service (USDA), $2,289.29; county agent $400; county, $140; supervisors and SCD co-operators, $25,000; bankers, $1000; chambers of commerce, $1000; civic organizations, $1000; press, $1000.

Cash donations totaled $735, and the Friona Chamber of Commerce provided office space valued at $600. Meeting place furnished by public schools was valued at $50.

Together with the 25 new agreements written in 1955, other agreements still in force written since 1949 involve 374 farmers and 175,115 acres.

Direct benefits gained from some practices in 1955 included up to 100 percent increase in production on bench leveled land, saving of time and water by use of concrete tile irrigation lines, improved soils through use of vetch growing, better water intake of soil for same reason, and greater yields for cotton and grain sorghums also because of vetch (a legume).

"The attitude of the farmers in the District has been good this year," say the supervisors. "Outstanding is the interest in water application due to the increasing number of wells and the service they have been getting."

"There also has been increasing interest in legumes and soil building practices. There has been considerable concrete pipe line installed in 1955, and should show up favorably next year."

Specific instances of help to the District: Newspapers have helped with special editions and articles. Friona businessmen have furnished a booth at the county fair.

County commissioners have furnished office space in Farwell, and made available machinery for construction.

Businessmen of the district bought and distributed tickets to the annual banquet. Friona State Bank donated national district dues. Friona CC furnished office for SCD, and also furnished an extra man for two months during the spring rush.

Supervisors say that the District has its problems, too. Here is the way that they itemize those:

Farmers' lack of understanding, and the need for proper water application and soil building practices. There is a need for more technical help in the SCS.

More information on the dollar benefits of soil conservation practices are needed and the supervisors also feel the need for spreading conservation's story.

Range improvement work should be started with ranchers, and the District needs more statistics on water well drawdown and static level conditions.

Supervisors include A. L. Black, chairman, Friona; Joe Blair, secretary, Farwell; Loyd Prewett, Carl Schlenker, and Matt Jesko.

SNOW!!

Most of the news around Black is S-N-O-W just like it is everywhere else.

The most popular vehicle this week has been the tractor. Farmers have gone to get their cattle on them and have traveled to town in the same way.

When someone sees a tractor going by his house toward the store, some member of the family runs out and says something like "bring me some bread, milk, sugar etc."

Reports are that several head of cattle have been killed on the railroad tracks.

People At Black Comment On Snow

In calling some of the neighbors for news this week we asked how they enjoyed the snow, etc. Following are some of the answers we received:

"Sure glad we have phones." "Some of our cattle are gone; so if you see them, just pen them up and I'll come get them as soon as I can get out." "What would we do without radio and television?"

"My, how nice the neighbors have been!" "I've found time to get things done that I've wanted to do for months."

Also, "Did you know we could get Friona by telephone now? Yes, it was open to phone service Monday." "No telling when we can get out. There's a drift eight or nine feet high behind our garage."

"I didn't think this would ever happen." "My, isn't the snow nice? But I'm ready for it to clear up." "I have gotten acquainted with my children all over again." "We haven't had any water for days." "This is the first time for a long time that our families have sat down at the table together and really enjoyed a good meal." "The good Lord really knows how to slow us down, doesn't he?" "The little children are really enjoying this, but can't say so much for the teen-agers—they missed dating Saturday night." "It's going to cause some trouble and a lot of inconvenience, but I still think it's certainly going to be worthwhile. The snow is certainly what we've been praying for."

Howard Elmore hasn't been feeling well this week, and he sincerely appreciates the Luellen brothers, Ellis Tatum, and Dick Rocky for stopping by his place to see if he needed anything.

The R. E. Barnetts want to say thanks to their neighbors for bringing them groceries and for checking to see how they were "weathering the storm."

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Barnett visited in Hereford Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Willie Price.

Mrs. Ellis Tatum is still visiting in Albany. Latest report is that her niece there remains in critical condition.

Mrs. T. J. Presley is still on the sick list. We are all wishing her a speedy recovery.

Everyone at Black is thankful for the moisture from the snow, and the general feeling is that they had rather be marooned in a snow storm than in some of the "dusters" they have seen.

We feel that this is something we can tell our grandchildren about

"now if you had been here in February 1956 etc."

The first postage stamps were issued in 1847.

in & around FRIONA

With June

Everything that we know anything about in And Around Friona has been covered with snow for the past four days. The fire which destroyed the Friona Locker plant is the only disaster we have heard about. Our telephone service to Friona has been out for several days, but we can still talk to anyone on our exchange.

There has not been any school since Wednesday and all the social events which we had on our calendar have been cancelled or postponed. Up until now, it had never occurred to us to even wonder how editors printed a paper following a West Texas blizzard like the one we have been having. All we have been able to imagine for the Friona Tribune for this week, is a sheet of blank space with "And Then Came The Blizzard."

Up until this came, most of our information of blizzards was second hand, but now we can speak as one with experience. In the eight years we have lived here, Saturday and Sunday have been the only two days that no cars have passed. Sunday, two tractors came this far, from the east, and that is the only traffic that has been on the road. Most of us have heard our parents and grandparents talk about cooking beans in snow water, but how many of us have ever done just that? Today is our first experience of cooking beans in snow water.

Today the Floyds are observing their 18th wedding anniversary. On the sixth day of February in 1938, the sun was shining brightly and who would have predicted that 18 years and five children later we would be digging out of what news commentators term "the worst blizzard of the century?" We rather doubt that statement, and if there was telephone service to town, we would check with Jack Anderson on the subject.

The drifts around our house are deep and beautiful. The most interesting one is southwest of the house which looks like an igloo.

The moisture the snow has brought is a blessing to the farmers and ranchers, and so far, there has not been too much inconvenience for most of us. Our deepest regret is that the entire family doesn't have outdoor clothes to match the weather. We'd love to get out in the snow, but haven't been able to think of a single thing that would necessitate a trip anywhere.

We have never before had the opportunity to stay at home with the family for four days with almost nothing to do. Each member of the family goes to bed and gets up when he wants to. The necessary chores are done and the rest of the time we read, play games, sing, cut out paper dolls and listen to the radio. The men in our family play French harps, so we have even had "home made" music.

The only people we know of who went anywhere were the Newman Jarrells and they failed to reach their destination. The last we heard from them they were in the vicinity of Nazareth with some strangers who invited them to stay until the storm was over.

FRIONA'S OUTSTANDING

PERSONALITIES

THIS WEEK:

Mrs. L. F. Lillard

In April of 1909, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Maurer and children, Edith and Carl, left their home in a fertile valley in Ohio for a five year stay in West Texas. Many of their prized possessions were stored in the family home, and the family looked on the trip as a great adventure.

Time passed and the original plans faded into the background, the possessions were shipped by freight to a small, almost unknown station housed in a box car with a sign reading F-R-I-O-N-A, and a new home was established.

The Maurers were farmers, active church and civic workers, and have played an important part in making Friona into the town it is today. Mr. and Mrs. Maurer have both died, but both the children still live here.

Edith, who was married to L. F. Lillard on May 6, 1914, lives on Main Street in Friona. In addition to her duties as wife, mother and homemaker, she has contributed much to the cultural, social, religious and educational development of this area.

At present she has 26 music pupils, is active in the work of the Congregational Church and the Friona Woman's Club, is a painter, grows vegetables and flowers, is a good cook and has time to help anyone who calls on her for assistance with problems which confront them. She also collects antitiques.

Mrs. Lillard started her teaching career in the fall of 1909 in a small school which was located six miles north of town. The school was called Buck-Eye and there were 14 pupils from the first through the seventh grades. Since she had been educated in Ohio, it was necessary for her to study Texas History and Texas school law before she could take the examination for her teacher's certificate.

She studied these two subjects at home during the summer and was able to pass the examination required by the State of Texas and given at Farwell in the fall of 1909.

The school building at Buck-Eye was a one room building heated by a coal stove. In addition to her duties as teacher, she also served as janitor. For transportation to and from school, she used a burro and a two wheeled cart.

Fortunately for her, she had no board to pay as her salary was only $40 per month for the duration of the school term. The $40 was paid in vouchers which became valid when there was enough in the school tax fund to pay them off. Her younger brother, Carl, was one of the pupils.

The "Soil Bank" is a phrase that appears almost daily in the press. It's almost a household word all over America.

In the summer of 1910, Edith went to Denton to summer school and at the end of the summer term, she was qualified for a four year certificate. One of the most exciting topics of conversation at school that summer was the proposed establishment of a new school to be called West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon.

After the school term at Buck-Eye had ended, the teacher of the Friona School became ill and was unable to teach; so Edith finished out the term of the town school. Clyde Goodwine and Orville Stevick are two of her pupils of 1910 who still live here. E. E. Taylor was one of her pupils at Buck Eye that year.

With her new four year certificate, she returned to Buck Eye for another year, but soon was offered a step up in her profession. The school at Summerfield was able to draw money from several districts, so was able to pay a teacher $60 cash per month. She taught at Summerfield two years, then returned to Buck Eye for one term. But this time, the county was more prosperous and was able to pay her $62.50 cash each month.

Soon after the close of school in 1914, Miss Edith Maurer became the bride of L. F. Lillard.

Lillard came to Friona from Orick, Mo., in the spring of 1907 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lillard. They were married in the Congregational Church parsonage, which is now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hannold.

Their wedding trip was made by horse and buggy to Hereford. Before returning to Friona, they went to the E. B. Black Furniture Store and purchased the basic items needed to start housekeeping.

Mrs. Lillard remembers that they bought a sewing machine, bedroom furniture, kitchen chairs and a nice rug. Much of their first furniture was homemade and improvised from usable "cast-offs."

Their first home was a two-room house with attached wash house located at the present site of Benger Air Port. The wash house was equipped with a second-hand power washer.

The Lillards have one son, Harold, who lives next door to them. He was born in 1917, educated in the Friona Schools and is a graduate of Texas Tech. Harold and his wife, the former Jamie Lu Watson, have three children, Jim Carl, Nan and Myles. They also had one daughter who died at the age of three months.

In 1918, the Lillards moved to a farm north of town where they lived for 26 years. They farmed and raised livestock. Mrs. Lillard gave up her public school teaching at the time of her marriage, but has continued her music lessons.

For several years, she drove a burro into town and gave music lessons for 50 cents each. The trip was 2 1/2 hours long each way, so to make the way seem shorter, she crocheted on the way.

Through her music, Mrs. Lillard became interested in painting. The Friona druggist was a Mr. Rohrbaugh. His wife was a painter who gave Mrs. Lillard lessons in exchange for music lessons for the Rohrbaugh children.

Mrs. Lillard's schedule was a very full one. It was necessary for her to arise early so that she could do her morning chores and get to town in time to give two music lessons before lunch. After lunch, Mrs. Rohrbaugh gave her painting lessons, then she returned home before dark. Many brides have been recipients of hand painted pictures for their new homes as gifts from Mrs. Lillard.

One of Mrs. Lillard's most outstanding music pupils is Vera Taylor. She moved away from Friona years ago, but returns here to visit occasionally.

Mrs. Lillard has been a member of the Friona Woman's Club since 1914 and still takes an active part in the work of the club. She has also been a member of the Congregational Church for a long time and has held various offices in the church.

The Lillard home is modestly but attractively furnished with a combination of modern and antique furnishings.

In the corner of the dining room, there is a beautiful corner cabinet which was made by one of Mrs. Lillard's uncles for her mother. Its shelves are filled with old pieces of china.

One set of Havilland china which is more than 50 years old is cherished by its owner. It contains service for 12 and only two pieces have been damaged.

The original cost was about $40. Mrs. Lillard has in her possession three pieces of furniture which her mother, Mrs. Maurer, had in her first home in the 1880's. One of them was known as a "Hoop Skirt Bench."

One of the most interesting spots in the Lillard home is a north room which is Lillard's den. It contains many interesting specimens and articles which have been collected on hunting and fishing trips in various spots in the United States and Mexico.

USE OR RETURN ACREAGE

Texas cotton producers can plant more cotton in 1956 than was harvested in 1955 if they make full use of the state's allocated acreage. Producers who have received a cotton allotment and do not intend to plant the entire acreage are urged by the Texas ASC to return the acres not to be planted to the local county ASC office for reallocation to other producers in the county.

TOURNAMENT OPENS IN FARWELL

"Never Coached a Better Bunch" Says Coach Cal Murray

Calvin Leo Murray, who is now in his third year as athletic director at Farwell Schools, and who is also head basketball coach, sums up his feeling for his team in eight short words, "I've never coached a better bunch of boys." And that feeling along with his ability to delve for the best in individual team members, and instill "we" into their thinking as the boys work together, has given him a team that "picks a wallop" this year.

His third year in Farwell is going to be a good year as far as statistics on wins and losses, for the fighting Steers. Murray, a Memphis, Texas boy, is the son of Brackett Murray. He completed his high school work at Clinton, Okla. Next step in his career was the lure of college and higher education, so he enrolled in Duke University, and also had schooling at the University of Michigan. He received his AB from Southwestern Oklahoma and then continued his studies to gain the ME degree from West Texas State College in Canyon.

Previous to moving to Farwell to assume coaching responsibilities, Calvin was coach at Adrian, where his team racked up a memorable record of achievement on the basketball court. The coach spent seven years there, directing activities in athletics. For four consecutive years during his stay there, the Adrian boys were district champions.

But the district was merely a stepping stone in 1951, to enable the boys to go on to region to win first place sending them to state play-offs. In 1952, they were among the top teams of the region, placing second in competition for that title. Their record in 1953 was still a good one, for they once again were on the list of winners in regional, placing third in competition.

But that record is in the past for the popular young man, whose energies are directed toward a present goal, a chance to win the district crown this weekend. Calvin believes in his team—in their ability and their sportsmanship. "This team has been tops in morale and their willingness to cooperate with the coaches and their teammates is good," he says.

But he declined to make any definite comment on the possibilities of winning the district YET. He laughingly says "I can tell you Friday afternoon by 4 o'clock. I will say if we lose, it won't be because of lack of confidence."

The coach refers to the game between Bovina and Farwell which is attracting area-wide attention. This tilt is scheduled at 2:30 Friday afternoon, and many sports predictors say that it will determine the winner of the district.

If Bovina should win this game, forecasters feel they will have no difficulty with other teams in the district and will win the title with no trouble. If Farwell should win the game, and also top other teams in the district, the two top contenders would have a play-off match, to determine the contestant to go to regional.

The friendly coach has three "best boosters" in his quest for a top team. They include his petite wife, Eugenia, and two young sons. Scott, is three-years-old and the smallest Murray, is one-year-old Brent.

And they, along with devout local boosters, are plenty interested in "what daddy's team is gonna do now."

DEAR READERS

Please don't forget that this "special edition" is possible through the excellent cooperation of Farwell merchants.

They have spent a tidy sum of money in order that you might have this free souvenir of the district tournament.

You can show your appreciation by patronizing their places of business.

MUSTANGS, LAZBUDDIE ARE FAVORED

FARWELL—Hundreds of avid basketball fans from the communities comprising District 3-B are expected to flock here this weekend to watch the annual district tournament.

Bovina's mighty Mustangs, who last year fell short only a few steps of winning the state meet at Austin, figure to capture the boys' crown, but standing in their way will be the stubborn Steers from Farwell who are making a last-ditch stand for an upset.

Bovina has beaten Farwell twice in conference play (both times by a single field goal) and once in a tournament. The Steers have managed once to upset the Mustangs, also in a tournament, and will be gunning to do it again when the "chips are down."

In the girls' division, prognosticators lean toward Lazbuddie, who currently are ahead of the other teams in conference play. Fans point out, however, that the girls' brackets are more evenly balanced than the boys' where Farwell and Bovina dominate over Lazbuddie, Vega, and Adrian.

Hot on the heels of the lasses from Lazbuddie are Bovina's Fillies, who, like their male teammates, would like nothing better than to win the tournament.

Farwell likely is the best bet for a third place in the girls' division, and Adrian and Vega are expected to come up in the lower rungs of the meet. However, upsets by any of the four teams cannot be ruled out, and the girls' meet could turn into a dog-eat-dog affair.

Leading off the tournament play will be Bovina and Adrian at 7 o'clock Thursday evening. Lazbuddie drew a bye, and will move up to meet the winner of that game at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning.

Vega and Farwell both got free passes to the semi-finals by virtue of byes, and those two teams face one another at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

The finals of the girls' division will be at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, and in the event some team other than Lazbuddie should win the tournament, a play-off would then be necessary at a time and place mutually agreed upon by the two teams.

The time probably would be some time Saturday.

Bovina's Mustangs collide with Lazbuddie's Longhorns at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening in the only game played that night for the boys' division. Farwell moves against the winner of that game at 2:30 o'clock Friday.

In the other side of the boys' bracket, Vega and Adrian meet at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, and the winner of that game will move into the finals at 9 o'clock Friday evening.

As is the case with the girls' brackets, should some team other than Bovina win the tournament, a play-off would be necessary, and the time and place would be mutually

Can Steers Do It?

The Farwell Steers are thirsty for a district basketball crown. Not since 1948 have they earned a championship on the hardwoods, and even this year, with one of the strongest teams the school has ever fielded, the odds are against their making it to the top.

Standing in the way are the maroon-shirted Bovina Mustangs, who three out of four times this year have defeated them—twice by a scant two-point margin.

Bovina, expected to roll over Lazbuddie with ease, almost surely will be the Steers' first district tournament opponent Friday afternoon, and if statistics mean anything, only an upset of major proportions can save the Steers.

Beating Bovina in the tournament would only bring the conference competition to a tie. A playoff would then follow in the "sudden death" fashion of a single game. Bovina can "afford" to lose—one game—but Farwell can't.

What are the prospects? How do the members of Farwell's team feel about this tough assignment?

Here are some of the comments from the boys themselves. From it, the fan can draw his own conclusions, and as Farwell Coach Calvin Murray says, "know a lot more about it after the Friday game," anyway.

Gerald Hardage says he thinks the Steers' chances for a victory are very good. He sums up his feeling toward the coming duel by saying, "We'll beat them 11 points."

"Sure, we'll beat them," is the comment of Truitt Hardage, and David Willard says "I believe we can win it."

"I think we'll take it O. K. It's not going to be easy, but I just feel inside that we can win," says Eddie Smith.

Bert Williams remarked, "We'll win it for sure—if we play right," and George Washington says "I think we'll beat 'em by 10 points if we play 'heads up' basketball."

"We CAN do it if we just WILL!" is the feeling of Troy Christian, and Alan Price thinks the game won't be an easy victory for the Steers, but he feels Farwell will win it "if we all play good ball."

Donnie Carpenter thinks the Steers "will beat heck outa' Bovina," and Jerry Owens says "Sure, I think we'll win it."

Dean Jones, one of the Steer managers, says, as if there was no doubt in his mind about the outcome, "Of course we'll win it!"

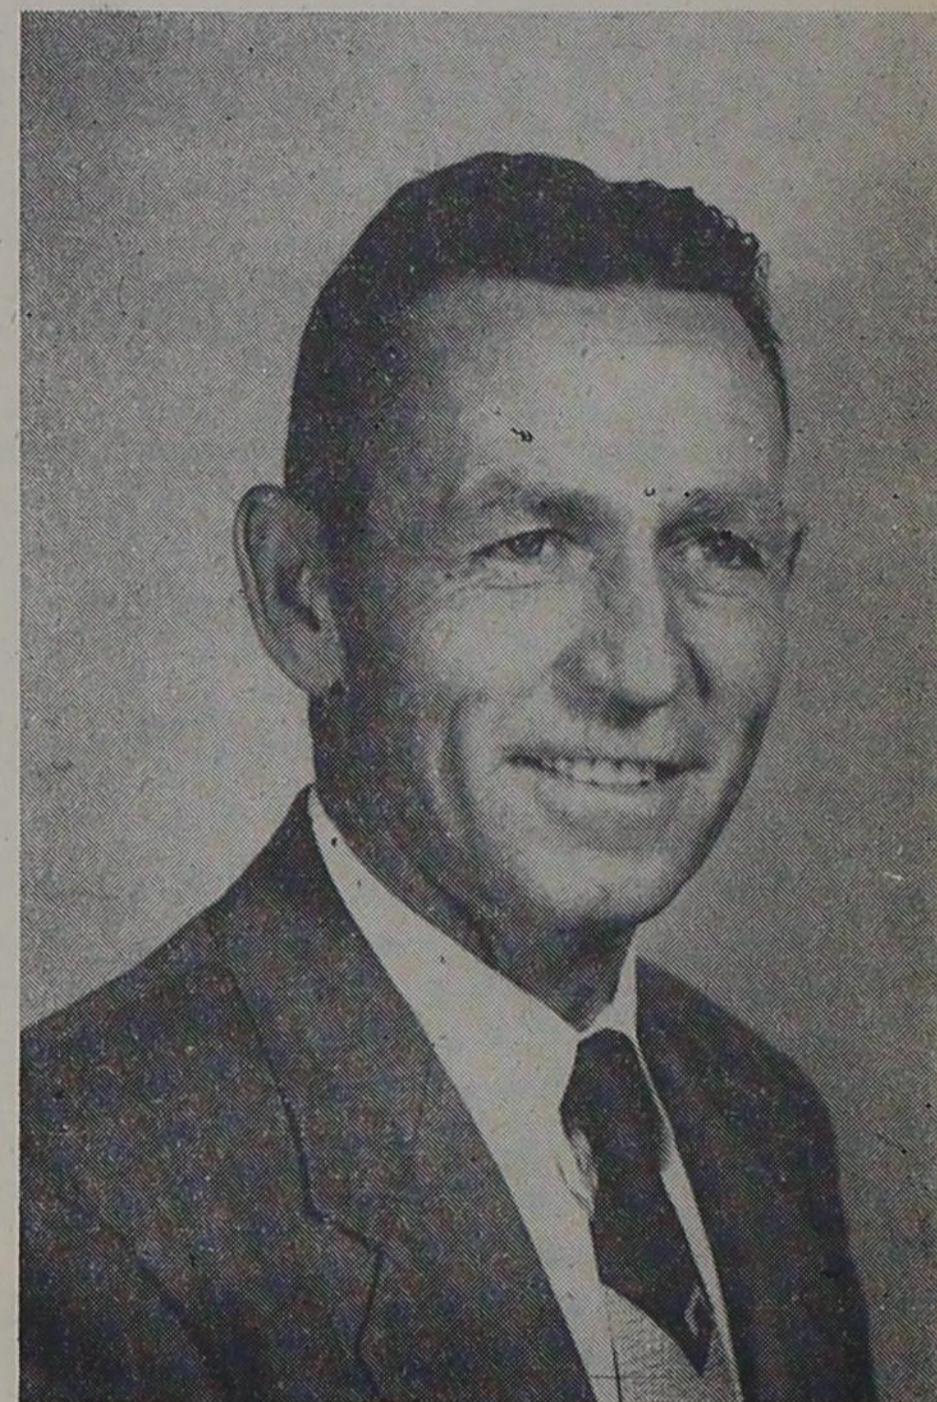

NOTICE

Keep this program as a district tournament souvenir. The brackets are on the last page, and you can fill them in as the meet progresses.

agreed upon between the opponents.

According to regulations now in effect, the regular season play counts one-half of the championship, and the tournament crown the other half.

Officials for the tournament will be Eddie Conner of Amarillo and H. H. Bledsoe of Canyon.

Sportsmanship First, Says R. B. Tucker, Farwell Girls' Coach

R. B. Tucker, girls basketball coach at Farwell, is just like Jack Benny—he's only 39. But there the resemblance ends. He can't play the violin.

But the jovial good-natured teacher, who has been a coach for high school athletics more years than he likes to mention, has a remarkable philosophy about basketball and sports in general. He wants his team members to exhibit good sportsmanship first, and then, to win if they can. But their performance on the court as fair players, is more important than the numbers on the scoreboard, for Tucker.

Tucker was born in Eldorado, Okla., and grew up in Hollis, Okla. He received his B. S. Degree from Southwestern at Weatherford, Okla., and then won his Masters degree at Western State in Gunnison, Colorado in 1940.

He is now in charge of sports for girls at Farwell, both grade and high school.

As he enters his third year as an instructor here, he, like Coach Murray, feels that his team is an inspiring one.

"I have the most cooperative group of girls I have ever coached," he praises. He emphasizes that the young women are congenial with one another, and there seems to be no complaining among the team.

When they enter competition, "They are in high spirits. It is a real pleasure to have the opportunity to work with such a wonderful group of girls."

Tucker was an instructor in Oklahoma before becoming high school principal at Estelline, Texas, previous to coming here.

He served that school for four years, his first job in the state of Texas.

But back to coaching, Tucker says he has coached girls basketball for 18 years, and during that time, has been in charge of boys teams too, at times.

His pride in his team is justified, for two local girls who still play on the Farwell six, were on the all-district list last year. They are Linda Kube and Glenna Davis. And the local man feels that he coaches four girls that are all-district material this year.

Although he realizes the possibility of placing that many girls from one team on the lineup is slim, he feels that the girls are that good on the basketball court. Farwell now is third in the district, for games played this season.

Tucker believes that his team has as good a chance as any in the tournament, to win this weekend. If they should happen to top their opponents, play-offs would be necessary.

Mrs. Tucker, who is school supervisor for Farwell, Bovina and Lazbuddie, "is my best fan and my worst critic," the coach muses. And he admits that she "hits the nail on the head" many times.

Doug, the coach's son, is a sophomore in high school and plays on the B team for Farwell, and Emalee Ann, seventh grader, one might guess, plays on the grade school girls' team.

She is also an indispensable fan of her father's charges.

But this weekend, before the Farwell girls take their places on the basketball court, they will bow their heads for a brief prayer. They will not ask that their team win, but that they observe the rules of a clean game.

In the three years that Tucker has been here, the girls have taken time before every game to observe this moment of reverence.

And after this sober interlude, fans will again see the team in action—as they strive to learn good sportsmanship.
