THE SPORTS CIRCUIT

Semipro Are Big Business This Season

By Tom Beasley

THE ORGANIZATION of the West Texas baseball league is only one of a number of steps being taken to put baseball back on a firm foundation. The high moguls are out to strengthen the game in a number of ways, and one of the big moves is the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress which is sanctioning a series of 48 state tournaments, from which winners, state champions, are eligible to compete in the national finale August 13 to 25, for a minimum cash prize to the winner of $5,000. As a further inducement, mileage checks will be given each team playing in a state tournament.

Baseball's outstanding celebrities are now affiliated with the baseball congress, which is putting out its own guide for interested teams.

The Dukes, back from a trip into Oklahoma and Kansas, report baseball interest at low ebb in that section.

MONDAY CLEAN-UP

When Carl Hubbell's famous left arm goes back on him he'll join his two closest friends and a favorite hunting companion in the oil field supply business. Carl will serve as vice president. . . Olie Cordill, former B. S. H. school grid star, visited here over the weekend. Olie is making a good showing at Rice Institute. . . Foran placed three players, Chambers, forward, and Scuday and Loper, guards, on the District 5 all-tournament cage team. . . The colors were mixed in a recent amateur boxing tournament in Kansas City. A negro, named Gerald White, knocked out a white boy, John Black. . . Some what overshadowed by the holdouts of such stars as Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio is the one staged by Captain Shortstop Hal Rhyme of the San Francisco Seals. It seems that last season club bookkeeping, as between monthly and daily pay, cost Rhyme $2.00. He got the matter adjusted to his satisfaction before signing this year. . . Hub McQuilhan, Texas Aggie cage mentor, is a pliable-witted-but sometimes his thinking processes jump far ahead of his speech. Complimented by a fan during a recent scrimmage on the condition of the Aggie court, Hub remarked: "Yes, and it will look even better when we give it another point of cost." Later McQuilhan was teaching his boys an intricate new play, stopping them with a shout when anything went wrong. After one pause for corrections, he instructed: "And now remember, boys, yell when I quit."

MUSTANGS SIGHT FIRST CONFERENCE CAGE TITLE

NEED WIN OVER TCU FROGGIES

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

DALLAS, Feb. 22 (AP)—Early season choice to wind up banging its head against the cellar door, Southern Methodist today stood only one game away from its first Southwest Conference basketball title.

Already certain of a first-place tie, Coach Jimmy St. Clair's unseasoned Methodists need only a triumph over the last place Texas Christians at Dallas Tuesday night to look over their shoulders at the rest of the pack.

Only Arkansas, defending its title with a last-minute rush that holds mathematical possibilities, can head off the Mustangs. To do it, they must trim T.C.U. in their two remaining games while S.M.U. is dropping road games to Rice at Houston and Texas A. and M. at College Station and the home game against the Christians.

Two lanky sophomores and a senior playing his second year of varsity basketball have brought Southern Methodist through an amazing season. Sophs J. D. Norion and Billy Dewell teamed with Capt. Bill Blanton to supply all the scoring punch. Guards Charlie Sprague, another sophomore, and Pete Acker, a junior, although stout on the defense, have not made more than 25 points between them in nine games. Only Blanton was a regular last year.

The Methodists are not letting T.C.U.'s position in the standings fool them into thinking Tuesday night's game is tailor-made for winning a championship, for the Christians, despite only one victory in seven starts, are dangerous. They have lost five games by less than five points.

A second half rush gave Southern Methodist the 24-19 triumph over Texas at Austin Saturday night that clinched a tie. After Texas Christian Tuesday, the Methodists meet Rice, losers of two games to Arkansas last week, at Houston Saturday night.

Texas Christian, dropped by Baylor, 36-35, in a wild game at Fort Worth, meets Texas A. and M. at College Station.

Baylor, resting in third position, tackles Texas at Austin Saturday night. The Bruins broken even last week by taking the Christians after losing to S.M.U. earlier.

S. M. U. . . . 9 8 1 .889 Arkansas . . . 10 6 4 .600 Baylor . . . 10 5 5 .500 Texas A&M . . . 9 4 5 .444 Rice Institute . . . 9 4 5 .444 Texas U. . . . 10 4 5 .400 T. C. U. . . . 7 1 6 .143

Brownwood Gets W. T. Tournament

BROWNWOOD, Feb. 22 — Brownwood Country club was unanimously awarded the 1937 tournament of the West Texas Golf association at a special meeting of the association's executive committee here Sunday.

At the recommendation of the host club, the date for the tournament was set for May 27 to 30, inclusive. Qualifying rounds will be played on May 27, with watch play in flights of 32 beginning the following day. Championship flights will be played on Sunday, May 30.

Allen Gunn, president of the W.T.G.A., presided over the special meeting here. Mr. Gunn and others played the country club course Sunday morning.

Shirley Robbins of Big Spring, and Stator Bonner of Wichita Falls, association officials, were unable to attend the meeting but sent telegrams casting their votes for Brownwood. Ned Robertson, Brownwood representative of the West Texas Golf association board, was named resident secretary for this year's tournament.

Olie Cordill, Jr., left this morning for Houston after visiting with his parents several days. He is a student at Rice Institute.

INDOOR TRACK SEASON TO REACH CLIMAX THIS WEEK

Record Smashers To Compete In The Garden

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—The indoor track season reaches its climax this week as the stars who have been shattering records for the past few weeks and the future record smashers come together in a pair of meets in Madison Square Garden.

The National A.A.U. championships Saturday night will bring out nearly all the aces who have been competing in the big invitation meets here and at Boston, including Glenn Cunningham, winner of four one-mile events, Don Lash, two-mile record smasher; Syracuse middle runner, who lowered the indoor 500 yards standard to 57.6 seconds at the New York A. C. meet last Saturday; and George Varoff, new pole vault record holder, and Earle Meadows, who missed equaling the mark by a quarter of an inch when he cleared 14 feet, 4 5/8 inches Saturday.

As a curtain raiser, the national high and prep school championships will be held in the afternoon along with trial heats for some events of the big meet.

Thirteen of last year's 16 champions are slated to defend their A.A.U. titles with international competition in at least three events. Gene Venke, defending the 1,500-meter crown, is expected to face the hardest opposition. In addition to the durable Cunningham, Luigi Bealati of Italy, Miles Sasse of Hungary, and Archie San Roman of Emporia, Kas., all finalists in the Olympic 1,500 last year, are entered. Likewise Lash, after being clocked in 8:58 and 9:01.6, the two fastest times ever recorded by an American, in successive two-mile races, has shifted to the shorter event.

But the hero of the Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance combination is up and about again and asking Maurice I. Bloch, president of the Southern League, to keep an eye open for a manager's post on "some club."

"The old yen has me again," Tinker said today. "The boys showed me with telegrams, letters, flowers and tokens while I was in the hospital. They made me well again, and I think there ought to be a place for me again in baseball."

Since leaving the hospital Joe has been helping to manage a group of ambitious sandlotters.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE Monday—McMurry at Daniel Baker, Texas Wesleyan at St. Edward's. Tuesday—McMurry at Howard Payne, Austin at Trinity, Texas Wesleyan at Southwestern.

Friday—Howard Payne at Southwestern, Trinity at McMurry, Daniel Baker at St. Edward's. Saturday—Trinity at McMurry.

PGA MAY ABOLISH PRACTICE ROUNDS

Cubs Line Up With Trio Of 2-Way Hitters

Club Leads Nat. League While Pirates Lack Switch-Batters

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Notes of the National League: The Chicago Cubs, with Augie Galan, Ripper Collins and Linus Frey swinging from both sides, lead in switch-hitters, while the Pittsburgh Pirates are totally devoid of turn-over batsmen.

No matter how it's figured, Dizzy Dean ranked no better than fourth in the pitching standings. Van Mungo, Carl Hubbell and Bill Lee bettered him in the opponents' batting average column, a new way of compiling the rankings; Hubbell, Danny MacFayden and Red Lucas rated above him in the earned run column; and Hubbell, Lucas and Larry French topped in the win and loss pillar.

Joe Haines is the only pitcher in the senior circuit with more than 200 National League victories to his credit. . . The St. Louis Cards and the Philadelphia Phillies lead the league in players used. Each club made use of 38 different men in the course of the season. . . Half of the Cincinnati Reds' catching staff, Dee Moore and Ernie Lombardi were born on April 6. . . Lee Grissom, pitching prospect up for a second try with the Reds this year, almost struck Bill Terry on the head with a wild pitch last year, and then promptly struck him out. . . Only three pitchers, Schoolboy Rowe, Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell are figured to win 25 or more games this year. . . Experts predict that night baseball will become universal in five years, pointing to the almost total conversion of the National league to the idea. . . 1936 the New York Giants were the only team in the league that has won more games than they have lost to all seven opposing clubs — best record is against the Philadelphia Phillies, 49-29, the poorest against the Chicago Cubs, 40-39.

The Phillies have landed in eighth position in the final standings 19 times and the Boston Bees nine times in 36 years, while the Giants hold the first division record, landing in that spot 31 times, with the Pirates but one step behind.

Two catchers, a pitcher, eight infielders and four outfielders are due to report to Daniel for the softball team. Bethel, Hart, Battle, Deason, Martin, Reed, House and Weifer will try to break into the infield positions, while B. McGuire, Rowe, Wells and Young will divide time in the outfield.

Bobby Savage is slated to be the hurler, with Miller and D. McGuire to alternate behind the plate. The Devils are scheduled to meet Snyder on March 5.

JIM FARLEY MAY HEAD MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

By SCOTTY RESTON (Punch-Hitting for Eddie Briets) NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Jim Farley can come back to the sports world when he finishes his fabulous political career. . . Walker West of the New York state athletic commission is quoted as saying Farley has been approached about taking over the managing directorship of Madison Square Garden. . . When the directors of Soldier Field asked 25 per cent of the Braddock-Louis gate for renting the stadium, Manager Joe Gould said calmly, "maybe I've got this wrong. . . is Soldier Field fighting? or is it Louis and Braddock?"

Gabby Hartnett wants to break Ray Schalk's total game mark before he quits. . . Schalk caught 1,705 games, and when Gabby spreads behind the plate opening day, he'll be working his 1,588th game. . . There's a clause in the St. Louis Browns' contract with the Hall of fame saying they have to pay $100 a game extra for Sportman's Park for every World Series game they play there. . . This should go down as height of caution. . . Bill Harris of Buffalo, purchased by the Boston Bees, pitched two no-hit, no run games in the International League last year. . . Correction: Sam Snead, the West Virginia golfer, wants it known that he isn't a writer. . . His former partner with Leo Walper as this corner reported the other day. They're just traveling together. . . "I have won $2,945 and it's all in my bank account," he says. . . Ken Loeffler, Yale's basketball coach, got all excited the other afternoon discussing the zone defense. . . He explained it at great length, and when he finished asked, "are there any questions?" . . . Cracked Mrs. Kelley's boy Larry. "Yeah, coach, how much do you get for a lecture like that?" . . . We think we see H. C. Salinger's hand in the move that brought Hank Anderson to Michigan. . . Somebody deserves a handshake on that one. . . "Da Hum!" is easily one of the best line coaches in the business. . . We like Paul Kenney's crack about bowling. . . Says he: "I like it because it's civilized man's last chance to make a beluga racket without apologizing to a soul."

Wood's Return Brightens U. S. Davis Cup Hope

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Blondie Sydney B. Wood, Jr., one of America's best tennis players for a half dozen years, gave the 1937 Davis Cup prospects of the United States a boost today by announcing his return to competition. . . Ready to start west, where he plans to begin a comeback campaign by practicing with Don Budge, the country's No. 1 player, Wood said he had fully recovered his health and had strengthened his finances so he could devote plenty of time to tennis. . . He played in only a few tournaments last year after undergoing an appendicitis operation in January. In addition, he had been bothered by stomach trouble for a couple of years, he said. After his elimination by Henry Cullley in an early round of the national singles championship last fall, Wood went to California where he has been working in gold and sulphur mines. . . Although handicapped somewhat by his slender build — he weighs only 143 pounds now and says that's heavier than he ever has been—Wood is considered one of America's greatest tennis stars. His brilliant shotmaking earned him a place on the Davis Cup squad in 1931 when England best the United States in the interzone final. He also won the Wimbledon title that year through the default of Frank X. Shields in the final. . . Wood's return assures the United States of another top flight candidate for a singles berth. Budge is almost certain to get one place in the singles and pair, with Gene Macko in doubles. . . Fredrick Fuchs and Bryan (Bitty) Grant, second and third ranking stars, likely will be Wood's leading rivals for the second spot.

BASEBALL FANS MEET TUESDAY

Big Spring baseball fans will meet Tuesday morning to discuss plans for securing a baseball park here. Joe Fats, agent for the National Baseball Association who is aiding in organization of the West Texas league, was in Big Spring this morning with C. Uro and Paul Trammell, both of Dallas, who are interested in backing a Big Spring team in the league. . . Fats left at noon for Midland but planned to be here for the Tuesday meeting.

Celebrate First Title Fight in Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 22 (AP)—A fiesta was scheduled in the little town of Barcelona today as Sixto Escobar celebrated his retaining the world bantamweight championship in the first title fight Puerto Rico ever has seen. . . Sixto outpointed Lou Salca of New York before a banner crowd of 25,000 fans to retain his crown in a 15-round "rubber" fight. They had met twice before with each winning a bout.

HENNING HAD FINE RECORD IN SECTOR 3

Edgar A. Hennig, skilled football tutor at Sweetwater high school since 1930, will be given a free rein in selecting his aides at Tyler, according to reports. Hennig resigned Saturday as Mustang coach and signed a three-year contract to coach at Tyler. It was understood he received a substantial boost in salary.

Succeeds Rufus King, former University of Texas star, who will be retained in the physical education department. The new coach will be allowed to select two assistants, and although he has given no indication as to whom he will select, it is considered likely that Laurence Priddy, Hennig's assistant at Sweetwater, will be taken to Tyler. If not, Priddy may be promoted to the head coaching job at Sweetwater. There is also some talk of making strenuous efforts to get Sweetwater's Slingin' Sam Raugh, All-America quarterback at T.C.U., as a member of the Mustang coaching staff.

Ed Hennig went to Sweetwater in 1930 from Rutgers Preparatory school at Princeton, N. J., where as head coach two years he established an enviable record as coach of both basketball and football. In his final year there, his basketball and football teams copped both prep school conference crowns. . . A native of Southwest Texas, Hennig was not satisfied with the east and desired to return to his native state. . . Previous to his work in Rutgers Prep school, Hennig was head coach at Gainesville high school. While he had limited material at the North Texas school, his teams were always in the running in the district, which was composed of such strong teams as Sherman, Denison, Denton, McKinney and at that time, Gretnville.

To Sweetwater in 1930, Hennig took over the Mustang job and found championship material. In 1931 he piloted the Mustangs far in the football race and in 1932, with one of the classiest teams in the state, went to the quarter-finals with Amarillo. Playing in a near blizzard on a gridiron covered with snow, with a number of his stars suffering influenza, the Ponies held the touted Sandstorm to a 7-0 score. . . Among the great high school athletes turned out at Sweetwater high are Ney "Red" Sheridan, mentioned as an All-America by the University of Texas last season; Nob Hall, named co-captain of the Tulane Green Wave in 1937; Virgil Jones, Texas A&M, said by Assistant Coach Bill James of the Aggies to be one of the best guards in the Southwest; and Sammy Baugh, T.C.U.'s great All-America pass slinger.

Brilliant Field Ready For Santa Anita Derby

By ROBERT MYERS LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—Santa Anita Park commanded national attention today as a brilliant field of thoroughbreds lined up for the Santa Anita Derby and its added purse of $50,000. . . Twenty-three of the leading 3-year olds in the country were expected to go postward in quest of the rich purse, topping the record 22 that started in the Kentucky Derby in 1928. . . Interest, mounting yearly since its first running in 1935, found thousands of holiday fans trooping into the Arcadia Park long before noon. . . Last year rainy weather cut attendance to about 30,000, and out of 11 starters, Mrs. Silas B. Mason's He Did ran through the mud to win over Valiant Fox and Gold Sealer. . . Today such outstanding 3-year olds as Walter H. Furst, the Gerald, Walter Taylor's Sir Oracle, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Tedious, Willis Kilmer's Best Beau and the Foxcatcher Farm's Fairy Hill were groomed to try for a purse double the 1936 offering in weather that promised to be perfect. . . More than a million dollars will undoubtedly be wagered on the eight race program today.

LINDSTROM IS GIVEN RELEASE BY BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers handed Freddie Lindstrom his unconditional release today, apparently cutting off his hopes of a comeback after retiring voluntarily last season. . . The 32-year old outfielder, once a star and won the final by soundly drubbing the Lyons Chamber of Commerce team, 35 to 23. Opening against the Halliburton Cementers after a hard day's drive, the Dukes were pushed around almost at will, and came out on the short end of a 45-30 count, but the next night gave the powerful Globe Oilers a terrific battle before losing, 43-37. The count was 18-18 at the half and at one stage of the game the Dukes were leading. . . On the return trip the players narrowly escaped injury in a car wreck.

Six Bovine Cagers Get Letter Awards

Longhorns Win 9 Games During The Season, Lose 8

Closing the 1936-37 basketball season with a 23-17 loss to Peacock in the first round of the District 5 basketball tournament at Snyder, high school basketballers packed away their suits today, leaving behind a rather disastrous season record. . . Six letters were announced by Coach Carmen Brandon. They are Weldon Bigony (capt.), Chock Smith, H. C. Burrus, Wyatt Pose, "Red" Womack and T. South. Black and gold felt jackets will be awarded the lettermen, Brandon said. . . The Steers played 17 games during the season, winning nine, and barely managed to out-score the opposition, 425 points to 491. Most of the victories came early in the season before injuries and ineptly struck the squad. . . The Longhorn record for the season: Steers 26, M-W 23. Steers 27, Westbrook 24. Billies, Jackets To Challenge Indians

SHERMAN, Feb. 22 (AP)—McMurry's Indians will be challenged by the Daniel Baker Hill Billies and Howard Payne's Yellow Jackets this week in the Texas conference. . . McMurry, with seven victories, will engage three opponents in four contests. Monday night at Brownwood they defend their lead by tangle with Daniel Baker and Tuesday night clash with the Howard Payne cagers. They wind up the week by entertaining the Trinity University Tigers at Abilene Friday and Saturday night. . . After battling McMurry, Gene Taylor's Daniel Baker squad travels to Georgetown and Austin for tiesles with Southwestern and St. Edward's. . . McMurry and Abilene Christian improved their standing each checking up two victories over the crippled Austin college Kangaroos in a four-game series at Abilene. Daniel Baker and Howard Payne continued in the race by whipping Southwestern while the latter tallied a victory over Trinity. . . Austin's Kangaroos will close their season Tuesday night by engaging their traditional rivals, Trinity university at Wxahachie.

DUKES WIN FROM LYONS, 38 TO 23

The Dukes, strong local independent basketball team, returned late Saturday from their first trek into the big-time, playing games at Duncan, Okla., McPherson, Kas., and Lyons, Kas. . . They lost two of the games, but seemed to improve with each contest and won the final by soundly drubbing the Lyons Chamber of Commerce team, 35 to 23. Opening against the Halliburton Cementers after a hard day's drive, the Dukes were pushed around almost at will, and came out on the short end of a 45-30 count, but the next night gave the powerful Globe Oilers a terrific battle before losing, 43-37. The count was 18-18 at the half and at one stage of the game the Dukes were leading. . . On the return trip the players narrowly escaped injury in a car wreck.

WOOD'S RETURN BRIGHTENS U. S. DAVIS CUP HOPE

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Blondie Sydney B. Wood, Jr., one of America's best tennis players for a half dozen years, gave the 1937 Davis Cup prospects of the United States a boost today by announcing his return to competition. . . Ready to start west, where he plans to begin a comeback campaign by practicing with Don Budge, the country's No. 1 player, Wood said he had fully recovered his health and had strengthened his finances so he could devote plenty of time to tennis. . . He played in only a few tournaments last year after undergoing an appendicitis operation in January. In addition, he had been bothered by stomach trouble for a couple of years, he said. After his elimination by Henry Cullley in an early round of the national singles championship last fall, Wood went to California where he has been working in gold and sulphur mines. . . Although handicapped somewhat by his slender build — he weighs only 143 pounds now and says that's heavier than he ever has been—Wood is considered one of America's greatest tennis stars. His brilliant shotmaking earned him a place on the Davis Cup squad in 1931 when England best the United States in the interzone final. He also won the Wimbledon title that year through the default of Frank X. Shields in the final. . . Wood's return assures the United States of another top flight candidate for a singles berth. Budge is almost certain to get one place in the singles and pair, with Gene Macko in doubles. . . Fredrick Fuchs and Bryan (Bitty) Grant, second and third ranking stars, likely will be Wood's leading rivals for the second spot.

LINDSTROM IS GIVEN RELEASE BY BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers handed Freddie Lindstrom his unconditional release today, apparently cutting off his hopes of a comeback after retiring voluntarily last season. . . The 32-year old outfielder, once a star and won the final by soundly drubbing the Lyons Chamber of Commerce team, 35 to 23. Celebrate First Title Fight in Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Feb. 22 (AP)—A fiesta was scheduled in the little town of Barcelona today as Sixto Escobar celebrated his retaining the world bantamweight championship in the first title fight Puerto Rico ever has seen. . . Sixto outpointed Lou Salca of New York before a banner crowd of 25,000 fans to retain his crown in a 15-round "rubber" fight. They had met twice before with each winning a bout.

NEW RULE IS ASKED BY DUDLEY

By KENNETH GREGORY THOMASVILLE, Ga., Feb. 22 (AP) Ed Dudley of Augusta, Ga., chairman of the Professional Golfers association tournament committee said today he would recommend abolishment of practice rounds at tournaments sponsored by the P. G. A. except in the case of major championships. . . He added that he has found a majority of the top notch professionals believed practice rounds are being overdone. . . "We find the courses in beautiful condition," he said, "and by the time everyone gets through practicing, they are pretty well chopped up. In fairness to players, committees and sponsors, something must be done." . . Lighthouse Harry Cooper of Chicago, leading money winner of the winter campaign, recently won the Houston open without a hit of practice. . . Said Harry: "Why waste good shots on the practice tee?" . . . "This will be one of the most progressive steps the P.G.A. has taken," said Dudley, "and I believe it will meet with favor of the U.S.G.A. We know that club chairmen and greens committees will heartily appreciate the move if it is adopted."

Reading AND Writing

By John Selby

Don't worry unduly because the book of Arthur Calder-Marshall's is in the 'sky' says the book is only people to a "frustrated search" for what they consider happiness.

The novel, composed of four casual, interlocking groups of characters, the most interesting of which are the Yorkers, old Carter York and his sons, and the woman who comes in contact with them.

A second cycle develops around penniless millhand whose curious idea makes him a tramp before he will permit him to be a pauper.

There is no point trying to trace the action. Truth to tell, the author has made that a little difficult anyway, since he has broken up his story into short scenes which are each other, after a plant that is always apparent to the reader.

These build up the desired mosaic fashion, and do not they might very well have given the impression of being a collection of short related stories.

There probably is some point in the style, however, and the author has aimed at it, and has tried for an arrangement of words which will give the fires burning, as it were, in the unfortunate that he has not been successful in his choice of words.

He often spends many pages describing with meticulous care a thoroughly nauseous scene of Charlie's hemorrhage, for instance, and then, suddenly, his taste deserts him for a moment.

Silence Pays This Professional Listener, Who Hears Girls' Woes

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—The bright young woman who is making a living simply by being a good listener has found that love and loneliness are the great American public's biggest worries.

Miss Urie Kay—she blazed a new trail in Gotham by listening when everybody else wants to talk—decided today that loneliness outranks love as a problem on Manhattan Island.

But next comes romance—the stenographers who fall hopelessly in love with the boss, and the man who decides his best friend's wife is the girl of his dreams. They come to Miss Kay, and unburden their woes. She doesn't do anything about it. She just listens.

You pay your money ($3 for an hour, $2 for a half hour), take your choice of the troubles that beset you, and get them off your chest to a willing ear.

The theory is that what humanity wants isn't redress, but just a hearing. Miss Kay calls herself "a professional listener." She is a tall, cheerful young woman from Chicago—one of those good listeners from the middle west.

When she "hung out her shingle" six weeks ago she expected women to be her clientele; but men come too. Some of the men talk about the stock market, and seem deeply grateful because she doesn't interrupt. Her clients range from 20 to 72, but are mainly middle-aged.

Miss Kay said her job isn't so easy as it sounds—that listening takes a lot of energy. She's had some strange queries, too, from people who didn't understand she just listens, and doesn't advise.

The "professional listener" never asks the names of her callers, and keeps no records.

OIL TAX PROSPECT

Legislators from some of the oil districts are talking discreetly about "no unreasonable increase" in the oil production tax.

One or two of them, in public debate, such as Sen. Joe Hill in the senate, have given warning against "unreasonable new taxes" on oil.

These are straws to indicate the oil sections really expect to find some more tax on the industry when this session ends.

It is obvious that nothing like a 10-cent per barrel levy will be made.

But, more important even than the rate on the vast flush pool, is the evident intention by lawmakers of affected districts to protect other elements of the industry from serious harm.

These involve two phases:

1. Protect 2-to-7-barrel stripper wells, most of which bear costly pumping charges.

2. Protect the 60-cent and 70-cent low-grade oil from the injustice of an equal rate with the $1.25 oil.

Sponsors of some of the tax bills propose to exempt the small wells, but there is a difference of opinion as to its legality. Some suggest that the nearest equity is a percentage levy, but this only takes account of the variety in prices, and fails to cover pumping costs or the disparity in transportation costs.

There needs to be some way found to keep the man who has to pay for pumping his oil from having to pay the same tax as paid on flush oil.

Nobody argues that the independent producer is able to "pass the tax on." The buying companies fix the price. He can take it or leave it, but he has no real choice, since he must keep producing, and must sell the oil for what he can get.

Oil and gasoline seem to be the conspicuous targets for taxation, every time more money is needed. The industry accepted a 37 1/2-cent increase in the oil tax last year. Indications are now it expects to accept another hike. The fight will be to keep the load bearable, and at the same time to avoid harsh discriminations against the independent, least able to stand the burden.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Maxwell Anderson's third play of the season, "The Mask of Kings," is a poetic, romantic interpretation of the tragedy at Mayerling, where, in 1889, the Crown Prince Rudolf, heir to the Austrian throne, was found dead with his 17-year-old mistress in his shooting box not far from Vienna.

In the Anderson story, the pair shoot themselves, just as other writers have substantiated the suicide theory.

An interesting and different version, however, is that Rudolf was slain accidentally in a brawl. This account of the Mayerling doings comes from the Archduke Leopold Wolfing, kinsman of the Hapsburg heir, and undoubtedly possessed of facts which never have been made known.

Wolfing says this:

"The girl, Marie, probably committed suicide as soon as she knew that Rudolf was slain. But Rudolf himself I believe to have been the victim of manslaughter. I don't believe he was deliberately murdered, but the pieces of green glass, which I saw the doctor extract from his head, most certainly belonged to a champagne bottle, and from what I was told at Schonbrunn, my opinion now is that he was slain by accident in a drunken brawl.

"You must remember that the girl, Marie, had other admirers—men whose intentions to her were honorable and who would have married her, if they could. Rudolf was outwardly on friendly terms with these men, and what I understood at the time was that one of them turned up at Mayerling, and late at night. While Rudolf and he were drinking heavily together, Rudolf, who was always apt to wax abusive when drunk, insulted this man in such a way that (the man) without meaning to kill him, smashed the champagne bottle across his head. Of course, the man was not proceeded against. Before receiving the blow Rudolf might have assaulted him physically, for all we know. In any case the Emperor (Franz Josef) forbade investigation. The whole thing was so frightful that it had at once to be hushed up."

Another version whispered at the time, but later rejected, was that after Rudolf and his mistress arrived at the shooting lodge he went out one night to meet the wife of one of his foresters. The woman's husband, discovering them together in the woods, killed him on the spot. Later, the story goes, Marie discovered his body in the woods, and, feeling forsaken, returned to the lodge and took her life. Anderson's view of the dual suicide is the charitable explanation, and other writers before him have held to this be-

Politicians sigh with relief as Winant quits. Security chief disregarded senators on patronage. Now he joins the "Dear Dad" boys. Capital watches Roosevelt sons' oil deal.

Rejoicing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The capitol was tilted two inches by the sigh of relief from congressional politicians at the departure of Chairman Winant of the social security board. There has not been such a loud outburst among the politicians since Prof. Tugwell left for Wall Street.

Winant may not choose to say so, but it was an ordeal from this same source which lifted him out of his seat here and blew him back to New Hampshire.

It seems Winant had the naive notion he could appoint his own men for seats in the key positions of his new board, and regardless of the people's senators. If he had just disregarded the ordinary senators and representatives he might have had a comfortable and long existence in the new order, but he made the unpardonable mistake of including in his disregard the people's senators from Pennsylvania, Joe Guffey. He was even rude to the people's choices on the telephone, telling them to go to the most remote places, etc.

Consequently, his nomination has languished in the senate finance committee since January 8, when it was submitted by President Roosevelt. There is reason to believe it would have languished there until Mr. Guffey dies or ascends into heaven, which, presumably, will not be soon.

Spot

Winant is one of those independent causes, a species which is practically extinct in Washington. Only a few other government officials have independent means and independence sufficient to sustain them in case they lose their jobs here. Another notable example is Chairman Eycles of federal reserve. He, too, will walk out and return to his Rocky Mountain financial interests any time the six comes too close for comfort.

Those who were near Winant suggest that Mr. Roosevelt might have gone to bat for him in his misunderstanding with the senators, except that this happens to be a very bad time for it.

The president is known to have backed some other government officials in their patronage battles with senators, but just now he is trying to beg, borrow or force every possible vote in the senate for his court-appointing program. He cannot afford to fight with independent senators.

D. D.

Apparently all that could safely be done for Winant was to give him a presidential letter of commendation. "Dear Guffey" thereby making him a member of that great fraternity of the "Dear Dad" boys who, upon their departure from the new order, have received familiar notes of gratitude from the president.

There is some talk of holding a national convention of the D. D.'s, now boasting such names as "Ray," "Hugh," "Red," "G.H." and a dozen others.

Oil

The most widely circulated news item appearing in Washington on Feb. 22, is the report of the "Dear Dad" boys, who, upon their departure from the new order, have received familiar notes of gratitude from the president.

Some crowds at movie prizes

Some official position.

Freeze Out

John L. Lewis took his first secret step in his drive against Ford and Chrysler last week. He personally purchased a Chevrolet.

But Wolfing insists on the champagne bottle version, and he advances a convincing argument in his autobiography, "From Archduke to Grocer," published in this country by Dutton.

Whether you accept his account or not, there's one thing you've got to hand the Hapsburgs. They may have been epileptic and imbecile, but, as subject matter, they certainly make exciting theater.

HOLLYWOOD

Film factories: This will be hard to take, but the screen's golden-haired curls is slowly but inexorably changing to a seven-haired lass.

On the "Wee Willie Winkie" set she goes into a scene with A. Aubrey Smith, innocently unaware that in two or three more years her crown of curls will have lost the glitter. But when the time comes, Shirley Temple will be past caring—at least the producers probably won't care.

Standing by on the set, observing how-liked for any crumb of news that might fall from the glided area of the diminutive Golden Presence, I observe this trick of nature in its earlier stages. Unmistakably, there at the roots of the curls is a suggestion of incipient Brunette and Mrs. Temple's sitting by as always, confirms the suspicion. Once she herself has golden curls she turns her back on the world.

Bleeding Out The Candle

They seem to be having trouble with the scene C. Aubrey, seated with Shirley standing before him in nightgown and holding a lit candle, is "blowing up" on the lines, a falling Shirley seven days ago. But Shirley seems to enjoy this. Each time she can blow out the candle.

Keenan "Licks" Mrs. Temple

Director John Keenan, an assistant, disarms tomorrow's location trip. "I'll drive in my car," she says. "But I think the studio ought to buy the gasoline!" This is her idea. When Mrs. Temple talks business, she goes and dies in a variety of but one, piety-ness or piety-ness.

"The Gilded" is operating in a seven-covered scene on the back lot. Under the canvas is the prize show where Wayne Morris is to do battle. They are talking "action show" of the crowd, but it is only part of a crowd. Turning the camera first in one direction and then in another, and showing an entire position, each time they get a different crowd in each position.

White Bitch Davis

On the set, White Bitch Davis, and Joe Cummings (playing a rascally crowd around, and Edward G. Robinson and himself outside) Assistant Director Jack Sullivan promptly urges the crowd to freeze. Sullivan, like a cheer leader, gets the gang of "gives" and "gives" it does.

Some crowds at movie prizes

Some official position.

Keenan

A wise observer in Alabama says that President Roosevelt exceeded to such number of the supreme court all the Christian virtues except resignation.

Freeze Out

John L. Lewis took his first secret step in his drive against Ford and Chrysler last week. He personally purchased a Chevrolet.

But Wolfing insists on the champagne bottle version, and he advances a convincing argument in his autobiography, "From Archduke to Grocer," published in this country by Dutton.

Whether you accept his account or not, there's one thing you've got to hand the Hapsburgs. They may have been epileptic and imbecile, but, as subject matter, they certainly make exciting theater.

Hollywood Fight Grows A Bit Dull

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 22 (AP)—Peace dawned on Hollywood today after a weekend marked by a showdown and boxing the fight between Dan Topping, Milligan and Pat E. Glenn, actor's agent.

Admiral Judge, who plans to seek a name divorce this week from Film Director Wesley Ruggles, dismissed the brief fracas as a triviale.

"It's so silly," she said. "Evident-

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

Chapter 22
The Escape to England

"I should go home if I were you, and the business to Anne slowly. The police will be wanting to get into communication with you."

"The police?" repeated Bigelow curiously.

"With me?" gasped Anne. "Why?"

"Well, you were almost engaged to him, were you not?" asked the baroness.

"Not quite," answered Anne dryly.

"But you were close friends. You were together a great deal. I should think there must be many things about his affairs that you can tell them. And he was dining with you only last night. I saw him leave Mudge's with you and go to the studio."

"Certainly, but he was alive then," said Bigelow stily.

"Yes, he was alive then," agreed the baroness. "But what happened after that? Why did he disappear so suddenly and then reappear? That seemed odd to me at the time. You remember I remarked on it to you?" She stared at Anne, and Bigelow noticed, now, that her eyes looked as if she had been weeping. She had attempted to conceal the effects but without success. He wondered what part Vronski had played in her life. It seemed inconceivable that she could have loved him—she was years older. But one never knew.

"He went back to Mudge's to pick up some of you," Anne was explaining carefully. "You know how he was when he had been drinking. He couldn't just wait for the party to begin. . . . And then, he telephoned that he wasn't coming back. Whatever happened to him must have happened after that."

"The baroness looked off with half-closed eyes as though she were absorbed in some new thought that had just occurred to her. "I noticed at Mudge's that he danced only with the Russian women—never once with you," she said. "You hadn't quarreled with him, had you?"

"No, of course not," answered Anne impatiently, and rather crossly.

"I can assure you of that. I was there, too, you know," put in Bigelow suavely.

"Don't you think Anne murdered him?" asked Chat grinning.

"The papers say his apartment was broken into and robbed."

"It would have been easy enough to create that impression," said the baroness slowly. "How would she have known he was there?"

"He had only just moved in. How would they have known he was there?"

"No, I don't believe in this theory of casual thieves. Someone killed him who knew his ways—and all about him. There is more in it than appears yet. You'll see I'm right."

She moved off toward the restaurant barely noticing the look and Chat made a grimace behind her back as he followed her in.

An Appeal to Karsanokoff

At dinner, Bigelow and Anne hunted a taxi and got in. He gave the address of the studio.

"You don't mind dropping me there, do you?" he asked. "I didn't expect the news to be out so quickly. I've no time to waste."

"No," said Anne. "It won't be long before the bloodhounds are on the trail."

"Was she in love with him?"

"I think so. I know she always watched me like a hawk—completely misunderstanding my association with him, of course. Anne frowned out of the window. "Imagine her not knowing that I did not dance with him last night—and remembering."

"That fact alone is of no consequence. I shouldn't worry," said Bigelow.

"No that fact alone is of no importance," admitted Anne. "Only she'll make the most of it. And you know how stories grow when people start to talk. She's suspicious, although it's only an instinct in her that tells her things are not quite as they seem. And women of that age take their love affairs seriously. If there's a flaw anywhere in our defense, she'll find it. I'm more afraid of her than of the police."

"Well, see that there is no flaw for her to find then," said Bigelow. And as the taxi drew up in front of Anne's studio, he looked carefully about as he got out. But they had not been followed.

Anne waved her hand and the taxi took her on. Bigelow let himself into the studio with Anne's key, and locked the door behind him.

He looked about first to make sure that no one had been there since he had left it the night before. Then he opened the cupboard and got out the towel and the gun. The towel, he observed with a quick frown, had marked the floor of the cupboard.

Running in the kitchen, he found wrapping paper and string and made a small package of the incriminating evidence. Then he crossed to the telephone and called up Karsanokoff at her hotel.

"Yes," answered Bigelow. "Are you wide awake?"

"No," answered Karsanokoff. "I'm not come to bed. Now, I can't talk to all. I have just had my coffee and looked at the front pages of the newspapers."

He realized she meant him to know that she had seen the report of Vronski's death and understood that their plan had succeeded.

"I'm afraid I can't come to tea," she answered regretfully. "but I was wondering if you could spare me your maid for an hour or two?"

"My maid?" she repeated curiously.

"To clear up the mess here after last night's party. The floor especially ought to be seen to without further delay."

"But of course—your lovely pet-lashed floor!" she cried quickly. "I will send her at once in a cab with instructions. Will you be there to let her in?"

"Yes," said Karsanokoff. "I'll be there."

"No, I'm taking care of that," answered Bigelow, after an instant's hesitation. "I was afraid if she washed the towel she might not make a good enough job of it and if she attempted to burn it, the smell might be noticed outside the apartment. Besides, that towel was too incriminating a piece of evidence to let out of his own hands. Not that he distrusted Karsanokoff, but she could not take too many precautions. "Will it be all right if I leave you alone here?" he asked.

"Yes," said Karsanokoff. "If anyone comes to question me—"

"I speak no English," she interrupted grimly. "Flare no fear. From me no one will learn anything. Meeting her glance, he believed her."

"Good. Don't let anyone in if you can avoid it and be sure to be in the door after you when you go. Is a spring lock that locks itself but you must make sure the door is properly closed."

Bigelow took up his package and departed. . . .

He drove next to East 67th street where Austrelitz had a small house. He had built it to suit his own peculiar requirements. On the right as you entered, there was a second-story furnished waiting room and plenty of ash trays. Opposite across the hall, was the doctor's consulting room. In the rear, a perfectly equipped motel suite. On the second story, the doctor's living and sleeping quarters and on the floor above that, several more bedrooms. . . .

A Filipino boy—very neat, well-groomed looking in his white house clothes—opened the door. Bigelow and presently ushered up the stairs and into the sitting room where the doctor's feet were a beated, breakfast. . . .

He had a heavily colored, well-groomed looking in his white silk pajamas. "Another cup, Felipe," he said as he nodded at Bigelow. (Copyright, 1932, Frederick J. son)

Seek Backing For Inflationary Farm Mortgage Meas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The House of Representatives today voted to refer a bill to the committee on agriculture to study the possibility of a new campaign to Congress to amend the mortgage law.

Representative Lemke, co-author of the bill, said the sales committee would be at the next few days to make legislation a special order of business in the house.

Representative O'Connor Monday introduced a resolution that purpose yesterday. Bankhead referred it to the committee.

Most legislators believed committee would bottle the bill. The committee's policy group and the administration opposes the bill on grounds of ineffectiveness.

Testimony Offered In County Court On Royalty Deal

Suit of Mart E. Robinson, Paducah, against Noel T. Lawson, Big Spring oilman, for collection of commission allegedly owing him went to trial in the county court today. Other cases docketed for the day were continued until March 1.

On the stand during the morning, R. N. Robinson, a party to the suit, said that he had been offered five per cent of a sale price on a royalty deal between Mrs. Katr Mayo, Paducah, and Lawson. His contract, he testified, was merely to get the two to agree on a price.

The defense contended that payment of the commission was contingent upon the consummation of the deal, something which never happened.

According to Robinson, the alleged commission amounted to $260.

Depositions were being read when the court adjourned at noon. Lawson was to take the stand this afternoon. Judge Charles Sullivan was presiding.

Students To Give Program

Mexican Pupils Will Appear In Annual Patriotic Affair

Students of the Kate Morrison (Mexican) ward school will be presented at 7:30 p. m. today in their annual patriotic program at the school building.

Proceeds gained from a nominal admission charge will go toward the purchase of a radio for the school.

"Our American Music" will be the title of the program.

The first division will deal with Indian music and will feature Domingo Castillo and Emilia Perez singing "Red Wing."

Colonial music will follow with the school joining in "Father of the Land We Love." A minuet will be an added attraction.

Negro music will include a medley of negro songs by the school and a Valentine drill.

Henry Hernandez, David Gomez, and Alfonso Mendez will sing "Home on the Range," illustrative of cowboy music. In this division will be "In An Old Cowhand" by the school, "Empty Saddles" by David Parris and Frank Martinez, "Ala en el Rancho Grande" by the school, "Prairie Moon" by Elvira Ochozotana, Vincenta Moncada, and Triene Subia.

The program will be concluded by patriotic music including a medley of patriotic airs, "America the Beautiful" by Teresa Roldan, Anselma Triviano, and Mary Cruz, a flag drill and the grand finale, "The Star Spangled Banner."

Opponents have sought to split Mr. Roosevelt's full program into two parts, one providing for a speed-up of lower federal courts and the other authorizing the increase in supreme court membership.

Senators who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt late Saturday, when he gave the "go ahead" signal, indicated there would be no compromise.

Senators who have not yet committed themselves still held the balance of power. Senator Nye (R-ND) came out last night against the program, bringing the number of announced opponents to 32. Senator Green (D-RI) at the same time expressed support, bringing to 10 those who have publicly favored it.

Bar Leader Says Plan Would Destroy Court

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 22 (AP)—Frederick H. Stinchfield, Minneapolis, president of the American Bar Association, said today President Roosevelt's plan to reorganize the supreme court would "destroy" the high tribunal.

Stinchfield said in an address prepared for delivery to the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association and a radio audience: "From that destruction will come fundamental changes in the constitution of the United States x x x"

Court justices chosen under the president's plan, Stinchfield contended, would be men "whose views indicate with utter directness their willingness and intention to support the laws which congress, under the instructions of the administration, shall pass. The result is necessarily clear."

Convict Offers Himself In The Cause Of Science

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—A 31-year-old felon under two life sentences for murder, a leader in a bloody prison break from McAlester penitentiary last May, has offered to become a "human guinea pig" for science, Paul Colvert, member of the board of affairs, said today.

Colvert said the prisoner, Julius Bohannon, one-time Texas convict, probably made the offer realizing it was his only method of ever being eligible for release, but added the state was accepting the offer in good faith.

"He wants to be a guinea pig," Colvert said, "and if some medical organization is anxious to perform some experiments with new medicines or drugs, I think the way is open."

Bohannon was dismissed from Huntsville, Tex., prison in 1931 after serving a short term for theft.

Under life sentence for murder he had served less than a year when he participated in the McAlester prison break. He was captured in Texas several weeks after the break.

1936 Wages Represent 63 Percent Of Nation's Total Income

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (UP)—Workers received approximately 63 per cent of the nation's estimated total income of $60,000,000,000 last year, the Department of Commerce has reported.

Labor income climbed from $39,000,000,000 in 1933 to $38,000,000,000 last year, an increase of approximately 30 per cent. National income increased at approximately the same rate from the 1933 low of $45,000,000,000.

Labor income is defined in the report, published in the Consumer's Guide, as income from salaries and wages of all employees. It includes wages paid to unskilled workers and to skilled craftsmen, and salaries paid to office personnel.

Depth Reached in 1933

The survey, entitled "who gets the national income?" showed national earnings hit a peak of $78,000,000,000 in 1929 and then dropped to $45,000,000,000 at the depth of the depression in 1933. About 40 per cent of that loss has been recovered.

All types of incomes—except from interest payments—suffered major slashes during the depression. All incomes—except interest payments—have shown substantial recovery in the past three years.

Interest payments climbed four points in 1930, then dropped to 13 points below the 1929 in 1933. The decline was attributed to lower interest rates generally prevailing since the boom period.

Dividend Payments Recover

Dividend payments suffered heaviest from the depression. They rose in 1929 and 1933 but declined 63 per cent. About 30 per cent of that loss had been recovered at the end of 1935. Recovery is believed to have speeded up in 1936.

Proprietary payments—Incomes which partners or individual proprietors of unincorporated enterprises and self-employed individuals withdrew from their business in 1929 to $7,300,000,000 in 1933. They increased to approximately $10,000,000,000 in 1935.

Rent and royalty recipients received $3,400,000,000 in 1929 and only $1,200,000,000 in 1933. In 1929 this type of income represented 4 per cent of the national income and in 1933, 3 per cent. In 1935 it had increased to about $1,750,000,000.

ACCUSED SLAYER IS HELD WITHOUT BOND

FORT WORTH, Feb. 22 (AP)—H Grady Jordan, 42, charged with the slaying Wednesday of his stepdaughter, Miss Christi King, 20 was ordered held without bond after an examining trial before Justice of the Peace Hal P. Hughes today.

Jordan did not appear at the hearing. He slashed his throat after the shooting and beating of the young woman and his attorney requested that his presence be waived.

The Tarrant county grand jury began an investigation.

City Detective Howerton testified Jordan signed a statement admitting the slaying.

courts program to the senate took more definite form when Speaker Bankhead said such a course was "appropriate."

Senate's Job

He pointed out that in one respect—the fact that it must confirm the appointment of judges and justices—the senate has "a deeper interest" in the legislation than the house.

Opposition to the court program, Bankhead remarked, centers around the contention the president wants to "pick" the supreme court.

"If this (court reorganization) bill passes," he said, "that is going to be of great concern to the senate."

DAMAGE SUIT RESULT OF HIGHWAY CRASH

Damages totaling $9,100 were asked in a suit filed in 70th district court here today by Mrs. Mary Lou McCombs of Graham against Clayton Stewart, Big Spring rancher.

Mrs. McCombs charged in her petition that her husband, John McCombs, received fatal injuries in a collision April 21, 1936, on Highway No. 1 in Parker county. The truck, with which her husband's machine collided, was driven by Clifton Sanders, Big Spring, and contained cattle belonging to Stewart, she alleged.

Messages Against New Taxes Heard At San Angelo Session

Next meeting of the joint conference of the credit bureau secretaries and credit managers of district No. 2 will be held in Colorado, probably in August, members of the local party which Sunday attended said today.

Speakers at the conference urged Governor Allred to "give Texas business a break" by cutting down on appropriations, avoiding new taxes, and collecting delinquent taxes.

L. A. Eubanks, manager of the Big Spring bureau, spoke during the morning on "when we work together." At a joint meeting in the afternoon Judge D. M. Oldham, Abilene, U. S. referee in bankruptcy, gave a detailed discussion on bankrupt laws, especially as they affected credits.

Attending from Big Spring were Eubanks, Mrs. Eubanks, district vice president of the bureau secretaries, Mrs. Pauline Sullivan, Crawford hotel credit agent and secretary of the district credit managers, and Marguerite Alderson, member of the A. M. Fisher company credit department.

One of the contributors to the Red Cross flood relief fund was F. T. Flood of Warren, Pa.

THE IDEA—Dance bands produce "swing music" by establishing a theme and then playing all around it. One thing leads to another in rapid, haywire succession. Since swing music is the rage, we thought you might get a kick out of "swing pictures," based on the same idea. We're not sure where we're going, but here goes!

FIRST, you need a theme—something to "swing" from. Let's take a horse (above). Horses suggest Elsa Maxwell's barnyard party, high spot of New York's 1937 social season. Here it...
