FROM THE HOPPER

BY HOP, JR.

Some of the most unlikely people take a fling at politics. The big news in Parmer County is Frank Hinkson's announcement that he seeks the Republican nomination for U. S. congressman, and when I first heard that you could have knocked me over with a feather. Not that I am a judge of political affairs, because I'm not, but somehow the thought of the typical office seeker (talkative, hurry - it - up - type) was so far away from Frank's personality I just couldn't put the two together. But Frank's in the race, and apparently with both feet, I sure do wish him a lot of luck. I have a great deal of admiration for his courage and interest in government, if more good people would get "het up" on the affairs of state we wouldn't find the world in the mess it is today.

Frank just about has his craw full of big government and doesn't mince words in letting you know it. The difference between him and a lot of other people we know is that he is going to try to do something about it . . . not just sit on the fence and howl.

So far as political strategy goes, it would appear the Lazbuddie cattleman has picked himself a tough fight. Well, it flabbergasted everybody when John Tower got elected, so who knows what to expect?

As a matter of curiosity, I might mention that for the past few months I have had the growing sensation that conservatism in political thinking seems to be on the move, it is taking on an air of popularity. This is something you have to sort of feel as life flows by. You can't see it, as you could the hoola-hoop craze, or the current mania over the twist. It's just a sensation that creeps into you.

But conservatism seems to be on the move in a pretty big way. Most of the very popular new columnists and commentators and lecturers are hard-core conservatives. Some people call them extremists or reactionaries. I guess it depends on your vantage point.

But they have one common denominator, and that is the uplifting of the individual and the backing away from the state as The Ultimate Answer.

In fact, if political conservatism keeps on growing as it has it may leave me behind. This is a curious thing to say and I hardly know how to account for it, but it makes me feel very much as I did a number of years ago when I had a crush on small cars (all of them were foreign then).

Now, in those days style was the symbol of prestige, and the longer your wheelbase, the bigger your tail fins, and the wider your seats, the higher you could raise your nose at your fellow man as you cruised by.

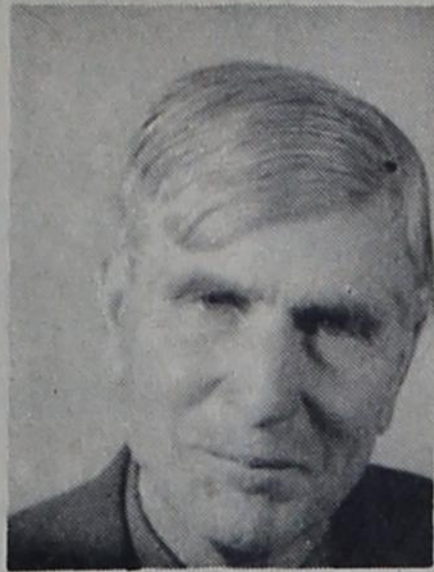

It didn't make any difference if you couldn't park the things, or if they drank eight miles a gallon, or if they had three times the horsepower you would ever need, it was THE way to live it up. Folks in that age wouldn't have been caught dead in one of those horrible little European "bugs". Remember? Well, compare that to today and you can see how the tide of thinking has changed.

I drove a small car in those days and was proud of it, I had my reasons and I thought they were good ones, I didn't want to be any odd-ball, but it looked to me like the whole world had gone nuts on car style. I still think they had. That's kinda how it is with politics too. Now that I find a good bit of company for political ideas as a conservative, I'm actually a bit uneasy about it. Company is fine but crowds get on my nerves.

Mama Graham and the writer sat in on the chamber of commerce banquet down in Lovington last Friday night and heard an ex-Amarillo boy, Jack Lacy, make a talk. Lacy is one of those guys with a machine-gun delivery and you have to really be on your toes to catch everything he throws out.

He had some of the most colorful figures of speech we've heard in quite a while. One that I got a buzz out of and which stuck in my mind was the simile, ". . . rough as a stucco bathtub." It doesn't take much imagination for that to make an impact.

Also, I was amused at the

WALTER A. DOSHER

Doshier Services At Okla. Lane

Services were held yesterday (Thursday) at Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church for Walter A. Doshier, 86, who passed away Monday night at the home of his son, Lee, in Texico, Rev. Tommy Kersey and Rev. Dee Taylor conducted rites, Steed's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

An area resident since 1919, Doshier had been in ill health for years. Pallbearers were Clyde Perkins, Bill Foster, Clarence Christian, Lester Norton, Russell Johnson and Ted Engram.

Honorary pallbearers were Wade Carpenter, George Magness, Willis Magness, Luther Crissom, Sam Billingsley, Claude Primrose, Lewis Pierce and Ben Smart Sr. Burial was in Tipton, Okla.

Survivors include his wife, Nora Ellen; four sons, Lee of Texico; Elmo of Tipton, Okla., Ernest of Yakima, Wash., and Jesse of Merced, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Jewel Herst of Yakima, Mrs. Ruby Barber of Union Gap, Wash., and Mrs. Eula Tipton of Amarillo; 29 grandchildren; 35 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Services Pending For J.J. Armstrong

Funeral services for J. J. Armstrong, 78, are pending at the Steed Funeral Home in Clovis. Mrs. Armstrong died Wednesday night at 9 p.m. in Clovis Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for several weeks.

The Armstrongs have been residents of the Pleasant Hill Community for the past 23 years, where he farmed.

Mr. Armstrong is survived by his wife of the home, one brother, Lee of Doans; and a sister, Mrs. Etta Mansfield, Los Angeles.

★ Ill One Time In 18 Years

By Ronald Watts

Just one day. That's all! One day of school in all Mrs. Jimmie Allman has missed in her 18 years of teaching in the Texico school, because of illness.

But that's not all. To top this, in her 33 years of teaching, she has missed only two days because of illness.

Mrs. Allman says that the reason for her good health is because she comes from Texas where they grow them big and strong.

"I feel I have a complaint though because the insurance company is making a lot of money off of my hospitalization insurance," she laughs and comments.

Mrs. Watson began writing during her high school days, however, she adds "Since I was a child, I've written poetry or lyrics. I've burned more than I've kept of course."

Personally, she prefers sacred music, but she comments

that publishers are more interested in western or rock and roll type songs. She has written several sacred numbers, two of which Fredric Byres, Muleshoe teacher, has set to music.

Mrs. Watson says KMUL, KCLV, and KOMA have the recording of "Big Boy Blue." Also, the Lazbuddie woman has been voted a member writer of ASCAP -- a major step for a song writer. I have been informed. She was accepted Dec. 14 by the ASCAP board.

Frank Hinkson In Race For U.S. Congress

The Parmer County newspapers have been authorized to make the following political announcement:

"I publicly announce my candidacy for United States Congressman for the 18th District of Texas, subject to the Republican Primary May 5, 1962.

"I firmly believe that positive steps must be taken to preserve these United States as a nation of free people, and I here dedicate as many as necessary, of the remaining useful years of my life to accomplish this purpose.

"If I and millions of other patriotic citizens do not do this, then the opportunities and blessings that have been ours cannot be passed on to our children and grandchildren.

"If a man has a set of principles that govern his life and they are known, then one can predict with reasonable accuracy how he will stand on questions of major importance."

FRANK HINKSON

Roberts Rehired; Election Set

The contract of W. M. Roberts, school superintendent, was renewed unanimously Jan. 8 when members of the school board met. Also plans were made for the trustee election with filing deadline to be March 6. Election is April 7.

With either Dick Gerles or A. W. Guber as chairman, Melborn Jones, Dargin Kirk, Bert Williams and Woodrow Lovelace were named on the ballot committee. Roberts says that a person can file with the school board by asking that his name be placed on the ballot or may present a petition with five names.

Terms of A. H. Haseloff and Jim Curtis are expiring. Other board members are Clay Henson, J. T. Ford, Buck Gregory, Walter Kaltwasser and Jesse Landrum.

Building Continues

According to records at Texico City Hall during the year, 1961, three new businesses came to Texico. Permits were issued for renovating three old homes, two new houses were moved into town and permits for the erection of three new homes issued. One was issued recently to Mrs. Ruth Reid for a $15,000 brick home at 711 Anderson St.

Other business transacted at the Saturday meet of the town council was routine.

All bills and claims were approved. Next meeting for the group is scheduled for February 3.

MRS. C. A. WATSON

Mrs. Watson Signs Contract For Song

Song writing has paid off for Mrs. C. A. Watson of Lazbuddie, who now has one recording "Big Boy Blue" to her credit and has signed a contract on another song "My Heart Cries". Mrs. Watson is also correspondent for The Tribune.

Mrs. Watson began writing during her high school days, however, she adds "Since I was a child, I've written poetry or lyrics. I've burned more than I've kept of course."

Personally, she prefers sacred music, but she comments

that publishers are more interested in western or rock and roll type songs. She has written several sacred numbers, two of which Fredric Byres, Muleshoe teacher, has set to music.

Mrs. Watson says KMUL, KCLV, and KOMA have the recording of "Big Boy Blue." Also, the Lazbuddie woman has been voted a member writer of ASCAP -- a major step for a song writer. I have been informed. She was accepted Dec. 14 by the ASCAP board.

FRANK HINKSON

Hinkson: He's No Fence Straddler

Frank Hinkson of Lazbuddie, who so far as anybody can remember is the first man from Parmer County to ever run for a national elective office, is a man of few - but well - chosen - words.

The easy going cattleman and farmer has his workout for him as he eyes a campaign to cover 28 counties in Texas. For one thing, he is running on the Republican ticket. In a state that since Civil War days has held close ties to the Democratic Party, that complicates his chances of election.

But on top of that, he even has opposition to overcome to gain the Republican nomination. It is sought by Jack Seale of Amarillo.

Seale, a former mayor of the city, is well - known in the heaviest voting area of the district. To gain the nomination over Seale will take some doing. The winner of the Republican primary will have a chance to do battle with Walter Rogers of Pampa, who seeks re-election. Rogers is a well - entrenched Democrat who won't be unseated easily by any opponent.

Against this imposing political challenge, Frank Hinkson places his ideologies. He is convinced that the expanding sphere of governmental activities is a threat to the citizen's freedoms.

Asked why he has chosen to seek office under the Republican banner, Hinkson says "People who are fed up with liberalism in the Democratic Party don't have a home any more."

"We are giving our freedoms away for what we think is security," he believes. "I've made up my mind I was going to try to do something about that."

Hinkson says this is the reason he has jumped into a national political race. He thinks action locally would be ineffective.

As a businessman engaged in both farming and ranching, Hinkson has seen these two segments of agriculture given different treatment under the nation's farm programs.

Farming has come under considerable government regimentation with the allotment system of determining crop production, and with much of the marketing responsibility for commodities being assigned to the government.

In strong contrast, the beef industry operates essentially on a free - market basis (there is government regulation to a degree, and there is a certain amount of "subsidy" but it is minor), and Hinkson is convinced that the cattleman is far better off for having steered clear of government programs.

Besides the ranching activities in the Lazbuddie community, Hinkson and his brother

Everette are in the cattle business in New Mexico and Arizona.

To Hinkson, the preservation of American freedoms, as defined and guaranteed in the constitution, is the basic rule of conduct. "All else is secondary to that," he says.

Hinkson is a member of Farm Bureau and is a steward in the Methodist Church. He served nine years as president of the Lazbuddie School board (the only office he has ever held.) He is "flatly opposed" to federal aid to education. He makes a single exception to this opposition, it being in the case of federally - impacted areas (such as military installations.)

Wolverines Win One, Lose One

Texico Wolverines lost and won over the weekend as the Dora Coyotes followed the lead of Jerry Skinner here Friday night and used the fourth quarter to put the game on ice for Dora.

The outcome of the game was never in doubt as Dora jumped off to a good lead and added scores consistently while the Wolverines were having trouble finding the basket. High point man for the game was Skinner with 23 points. Dwight Turner was high for Texico with 20 points.

Final score was Dora 75, Texico 47. Saturday night, the Wolverines downed Causey 40 to 29 in a slow moving game.

Don Reid was high point man in the game with 11 points; closely followed by Jerry Copeland of Causey with 10.

The B team had hard luck in their Friday night game as they were beaten 47 to 43 in the second overtime. On Saturday night, they beat the Causey B team by a narrow margin 48 to 47.

Texico Team Farwell Teams In Tourney Have Tough One

Texico Wolverines are participating in the East Plains Athletic Conference basketball tournament at Melrose this weekend. Play began Wednesday with 11 teams competing.

The Texico team was to meet the winner of the Grady-Causey game at 9:30 last night. Results of the contest were not available at press time.

It was a tough week for Farwell basketball teams, with the Steers losing to Kress and Hale Center and the girls splitting their games with a three-point margin both encounters. At Kress, the count was 41-37. Kress hit five of six free throws the last quarter to help their score. The Steers then lost to Hale Center 55-48. Max Fields made 16 points for Farwell against Kress and Maurice Smith and Leon Lovelace tied for high point with 13 each against Hale Center.

Scores were reversed in the two games played by the girls. Kress topped the locals 41-38 Friday night, then the Steerettes in turn defeated Hale Center 41-38 Tuesday night. Chris Paine hit the basket for 23 points against Kress and made 24 against Hale Center.

Junior Class Sponsors Sale

Farwell junior class is sponsoring a bake sale at the ball game tonight (Friday). They will also have a bake sale Saturday at the Piggly Wiggly store in Farwell. The sale on Saturday will begin at 10 a.m.

Adult Classes To Begin

Anyone interested may obtain information by calling the instructor, Mrs. Elaine Ory at PO 3-4514.

LES MEANS

Les Means Dies Monday Night

Friends were stunned this week with the death of Les Means, a Texico justice of peace and area pioneer. His death came unexpectedly Monday night at home.

The 66-year-old official had resided in the area since 1905 and was a member of the town board for 12 years. He had farmed until 1934 and had operated a grocery and hardware store and been in the real estate business.

Services were slated this afternoon (Friday) at 3 p.m. (Texas time) at Steed's Chapel with Rev. C. C. Morgan, former Texico Pastor, and Ebb Randal officiating. Burial is in Texico Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Winfred Smith, Jess Richardson, Russell Johnson, Tom Finley, Sam Aldridge and Olan Schleuter. Honorary pallbearers include Truman Doolittle, Rip Snodgrass Wilbur Faris, Sam Lewis, T. H. Ritchey, Frank Jones, Silas Jones, Floyd Wall and Walter Davis.

Survivors are: his wife, Mae; a daughter, Mrs. Inez McReynolds of Needles, Calif.; a granddaughter, Mrs. Sandra Kay Wilburn and a great-granddaughter, also of Needles; two brothers, Hale of Ventura, Calif., and C. C. of Clovis; one sister, Mrs. Mae Smoot of Clovis.

Indictments Total 38

Parmer County Grand Jury returned 38 indictments after hearing some 60 witnesses in a two day session this week.

Gene Davis, 38, alias George Evans, and Nellie Mae Thompson, 30, were indicted for the slaying of Jesse Dawkins Dec. 8.

Robert Traylor, 29, and Bobby Traylor, 27, were indicted for transporting a witness across the state line. All are Negroes.

A breakdown of indictments returned showed 17 for burglary, 8 for theft, 3 for obtaining money by worthless check, 2 for murder, 2 for transporting witness across state line, 5 for forgery and passing forged instruments, 1 for removing mortgaged property from county, and one for child desertion.

District Judge E. A. Bills presided at the grand jury session which began Monday morning and terminated at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

County Attorney Hurshel Harding acted for District Attorney Jack Young who was attending funeral services for his grandmother.

No cases were tried and no guilty pleas were heard.

Hugh Moseley, county clerk, stated that he expected a petit jury to be called sometime in February to try the criminal cases requiring a jury. No date for calling the jury had been set Wednesday afternoon.

Civil Cases will be called for the next court session.

Turkey Shoot At Oklahoma Lane

Oklahoma Lane Community will sponsor a turkey shoot at the Community Center Saturday, January 20, beginning at 10 a.m. Lunch will be served at the community building.

OLD HANDS AT THIS

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A man who knows nothing about trees may admire a forest. But he'll never make a living in the timber business.

The Bible is like our other resources. It can fill any man with a sense of awe... but its rich treasures are for the earnest and patient seeker.

As you've held the Book and leafed its pages, you could almost feel its sacredness. And yet, when you began to read, perhaps it was like plodding an unfamiliar path.

Try again, today. But try with the zeal of the apprentice who counts experience itself a valuable reward. And turn to the Church for the inspiration that its worship and Bible study can provide.

Soon, like the timberman's forest, your Bible will be a friendly place of familiar trails, rich in God-given treasure. For, remember, even old hands once groped to find the Way.

Women Hear Book Review

Mrs. Anna Cook, of Clovis, presented a book review "Birthright for Elizabeth", by Luella Markley Mockett, when members of Texico Woman's Club met in regular session Monday night.

Several items of business were transacted and plans made for the next meeting when members will entertain their husbands with a Valentine social.

As guests arrived, they were served coffee, cake, nuts and mints from a table laid with a white cutwork cloth over pink. Table appointments were milk glass, with a bouquet of pink roses in a milk glass container flanked by white tapers, forming the centerpiece.

Attending were Mesdames Ralph Standefer, LeRoy Faville, Johnny Green, Charles Stockton, Gerald Wilkinson, Buck Doran, Avis Patterson, Judge Stone, John Adams, Jim Moss, Elmer Teel, members, and Mrs. Dwight Potts and Mrs. Anna Cook, guests.

Lutheran Church

Walther League met at the home of Nolan Kreigel Sunday. Young folks of this group will attend mid-winter rally at Lamesa January 28. The organization will furnish the church with a new guest book.

Officers for the church council were installed last Sunday. Gilbert Kaltwasser will serve as president, Otto Lingnau, vice-president, Arthur Haseloff, secretary, Ernest Ramm, treasurer. Kaltwasser was not present due to a death in the family.

Other members of the council installed were Gilbert Kaltwasser, Walter Kreigel and Henry Haseloff; Calvin Meissner, chairman of stewardship; Walter Kaltwasser, Otto Lingnau, Fred Ramm, board of education; Clarence Kube, Martin Kreigel, Adolph Haseloff, J. P. Meissner and Edward Ramm, mission board.

Ladies of St. John held a baby shower for Mrs. Wilbert Kalbas on Wednesday.

January 21, LWML will sponsor family night; chili and pie will be served and games played. Meeting time is 6 p. m.

Ministers conference will be at Lamesa January 25 and 26. District LWML executive board is scheduled to meet January 29.

Officers Installed In Ceremony Monday

An installation team from Eastern New Mexico University, Portales, officially installed the first chapter of Future Business Leaders of America, officers and the 12 charter members in the Texico chapter Monday evening. Assisting the team was Derrell Bulls, State Chairman of the FBLA and instructor in the Business Education Department at Eastern.

The impressive candlelight ceremony emphasized the goals of the FBLA. To develop business leadership, to create interest in business occupations, to strengthen confidence of young people and to develop character were among the 12 goals given in the ceremony.

In installing the officers of the local chapter, participants were instructed to light their tapers from the four stations "future", which was symbolized by a crystal ball, "business" with the typewriter, "leader" with the symbol of graduates in caps and gowns, and "America" with the American flag.

Officers installed were Beverly Cassidy, president; Sharon Thompkins, vice president; Donna Osborn, secretary; Judy Sharp, treasurer; and Carmelita Doshier, reporter.

The new charter was presented and the ceremony closed with the entire group reciting the FBLA creed.

Carol Bell registered the guests. Presiding at the crystal punch service was Lattia Harriman with Janice Adams serving cookies.

The refreshment table was laid with a lace cloth over green and the centerpiece featured miniature letters of FBLA and was flanked by gold tapers.

Those present were the installing team, Betty True, Carolyn McCoy, Leon Moore, Lynn Johnson, and State Chairman Derrell Bulls.

Mayor and Mrs. Joe Helton, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Singletary,

The five young ladies above were installed as officers in the newly chartered Future Business Leaders of America chapter at Texico. In the foreground is a member of the installation team from ENMU, Portales. Left to right, officers are: Donna Osborn, Sharon Thompkins, Carmelita Doshier, Judy Sharp and Beverly Cassidy.

Mrs. Robbie Lee Thompson, Mrs. Blanche Osborn, Mrs. Cleo Harrison, Mrs. N. W. Peyton, Mrs. Hazel Blackwell, Mrs. W. H. # Young Couple Reside Here

Mr. and Mrs. James Oliver (Buster) Harriman are now at home in Farwell after their recent marriage at the Church of Christ with Don Tarbet, minister, officiating at the informal double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the former Linda Beth Birchfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Birchfield. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Harriman.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Ford. She is a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ford wore a beige knit suit with black accessories.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a wedding suit of white brocade satin. Seed pearls accented the white nylon hat and short white nylon gloves completed her ensemble. She carried white carnations atop a white Bible. Something old was a penny minted the year of her birth, her dress was new, her pear necklace was borrowed and she chose a blue garter.

Mrs. Birchfield, mother of the bride, wore a beige wool ensemble with brown accessories and the mother of the bridegroom was attired in a brown jersey print dress with brown accessories.

The young couple honeymooned in New Mexico.

The bridegroom was graduated from Farwell Schools in 1959 and is employed at Security State Bank. His wife is a 1961 graduate of Farwell Schools, attended IBM School and was employed at Lubbock National Bank.

Gast Home Scene of Party

Mesdames Smoky Gast, Buster Gast and C. L. Mahaney were hostesses to a farewell party for the Jim Terrells Saturday night in the Smoky Gast home.

Informal visiting was enjoyed and gifts were presented the honorees.

Cinnamon twists and coffee were served to Messers and Mesdames Amos Tatum, Joe Camp, Preston Martin, A. C. Clark, Elward Combs, Bill Craft, Pete Rundell, Claude Rose and Mesdames; John Getz, W. H. Graham Jr., Also Dick Adams, C. L. Mahaney and Mr. and Mrs. Terrell.

Women Are Circle Guests

Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. R. L. Keeter and Mrs. M. L. Martin of Clovis were guests of the Grace Circle of WSCS of the Methodist Church Tuesday evening for the regular meeting. Mrs. W. N. Foster, Farwell, who is president of the sub-district, was also at the session.

A discussion session was held with the meeting under the direction of Mrs. Joe Helton. Coffee and cookies were served.

Mesdames Avis Patterson, Fred Danforth and John Adams were visiting in Portales Sunday.

JOTTIN'S By Jeanne

Old mysteries never die, and if one will wait long enough, many of them are solved unexpectedly. That's what happened to Amos Tatum, Farwell school principal, anyway.

He was probably the most informed person present when he attended a reunion of the 1957 group recently. He learned the how, when and who of several pranks that had kept him guessing for the past five years. Since most of the participants are now responsible married folks, it was all right to tell all.

One of our editor friends included "Editors Beatitudes" in his column recently. Probably every businessman in town could list some beatitudes of his own, but these aren't bad.

EDITORS BEATITUDES

Blessed are they who do not expect the editor to know everything--and who tell him whenever an interesting event occurs--for they shall have a better newspaper for it.

Blessed are they who get their copy in early, for they shall occupy a warm spot in the editor's heart and will be sure of seeing to it that their items get into print.

Blessed are the merchants who advertise, for they have faith in their businesses, and their prosperity shall increase many fold.

Blessed is the woman who sends a written account of a party or wedding, for she shall see the details and names of her guests recorded correctly.

Blessed are they who do not think they could run a paper better than the editor runs it--yes, thrice blessed are they, because there are so few of them in the community.

I had a nice visit with R. V. Ham this week--don't know when we'd had a talk. He has been an avid arrowhead hunter for many years and still spends quite a bit of time with this hobby.

We have several people in town who have nice arrowhead collections.

Anyway, it was pleasant to visit with Mr. Ham, and more so, since he bought a subscription to the Tribune. "I don't know what's going on any more" he commented when he told me that his subscription had expired. Nice words about The Tribune or the Graham boys always make the day a little better.

Shelleys Honored With Party

Members of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church were hosts to a fellowship party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Shelley Sunday night after church in the fellowship hall. A clock, pot plant and a subscription to the State Line Tribune was presented the honorees who are moving to Plainview.

Pie was served with coffee and cocoa to members and special guests, Clytie Dial and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Shelley.

Church To Be In Program

Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church has announced plans for participation in the Northwest Texas conference evangelism workshop Jan. 22-26. Sessions begin in Brownfield Monday with Bishop Eugene Slater as speaker. He is former pastor of the Amarillo Polk Street Methodist Church and now serves the Nebraska-Kansas area.

Dr. Eugene Golay will be educational speaker for evangelism. Beginning Wednesday, the 24th, attendants will go to local churches within a 100-mile radius of Brownfield for three days evangelistic work.

Rev. R. L. Kirk Jr., pastor at Spearman, will be speaker at the Oklahoma Lane Church, and Rev. R. L. Bowman of Whiteface Methodist Church will be visitation evangelist director. Evening services are set at 7:30 Jan. 24-26.

Mrs. T. L. Kent, chairman, and the membership and evangelism commission, will direct the program here.

I will be out of the office Jan. 15 through Jan. 20 so I won't be able to attend the Hereford Stock Show. Even though I won't be there, several adult leaders have agreed to help with the livestock that 4-H members will have entered.
Best of luck to you all.

fully appreciated has just been brought into use and we can "get in on the ground floor." Promoters capitalize on these hopes.

How do we go about determining which products we should be wary of buying? What clues should we look for? The promotional pattern is likely to include several, if not all, of the following selling angles.

1. The product is said to contain a secret or unknown ingredient, very potent, almost magical in its benefits.
2. It produces such remarkable results because it operates on a "newly discovered secret."
3. The discovery is so new that most scientists haven't heard about it yet.
4. Tests under controlled conditions in laboratory or field are generally played down as not showing the benefits obtained in "practical" agriculture.
5. Use of the product gives numerous beneficial side effects - extra dividends, all highly desirable but well clothed in words of mystery.

As would be expected in these changing times, new products for agricultural use appear on the market in a steady stream. Many of these have real merit; they do a job for you and help you make a profit. They have contributed much to recent important advances in agriculture.

But other products may be of questionable value. Or they may be grossly overpriced. Or both. These are often sold by honestly enthusiastic persons who use scientific sounding sales talk, promising great benefits hitherto not available. They promise benefits based on "knowledge" which is often the product of pure fancy.

Just about everybody would like to get something for little or nothing, and it is human to hope that science will provide an easier or cheaper way of solving our farming problems. Maybe some new truth not yet

TRAVEL MONEY. Area farmers and bracero association leaders crowd around the table to give their donations to help pay travel expenses for three men to represent their interests at a labor hearing in Washington. A list of 105 names and $910 was given to the delegates at the meeting in Muleshoe Friday night. A total of 147 persons attended the meeting. Shown here are Bruce Parr, (holding coat) and W. T. Millen from Parmer County.

Feelings Run High At Friday Meeting

Bracero Association leaders and farmers from five counties met in Muleshoe Friday night to hear Labor Department and Texas Employment Commission officials discuss the Bracero program. Instead, they were informed of a new and restricting bulletin issued by the Labor Department.

The officials didn't attend the meeting. The reason for the absence of the officials was credited to orders from the Dallas office of the Labor Department which forbade their attendance because the new bulletin, which was supposed to be in the mail last weekend, struck sore spots on three major topics.

Lettuce producers in Texas, Arizona, and California were instructed to raise the prevailing wage of $1 per hour to $2 per hour for Mexican harvest hands or relinquish the use of bracero laborers.

All farmers are allowed to use bracero labor for a period of not more than 180 calendar days out of the year. This period becomes effective Feb. 1.

Bracero laborers are not to be used to operate, maintain or service any mechanized equipment which is used in farm production. He is also not allowed to fulfill any function which is necessary for the proper operation of the farm machine.

Loud grumblings from the 147-strong audience drowned out the words of Skipper Smith, Littlefield, and Preston Hatley, Olton, as they attempted to discuss the contents of the bulletin.

At the close of the meeting, $910 was contributed to help furnish travel expense for Elvon DeVaney, Muleshoe; Melvin Jones, Farwell; and W. A. Hardin, Lamb County, to represent area people at a labor hearing in Washington Tuesday at 10 a.m. The hearing was called as a result of the stipulations placed upon the lettuce growers as they are starting harvesting.

More time was needed to locate the men to go to the hearing than was needed to raise the travel funds. Bruce Parr from Black stated that whoever should be chosen to go will have to be able to hold his tongue in the face of "bald untruths."

"I profess to be a Christian and believe in the Christian way of life, but at a similar meeting up there (in Washington) in 1958, I heard the representatives of the Council of Churches, or whatever it is called, testify that we were making the Mexicans hoe with the short handled hoes (Pony hoes) so that they would be bowing in humble submission to their employers," he said. "And Bill (W. T. Millen) will say the same thing," he added.

It was explained that the 180-day restriction on the use of bracero labor was not a restriction on the number of Mexicans used. The farmer also can choose the period in which he is to employ the braceros. This decision was credited to the supposition that temporary or seasonal labor could only be applied to a term of six months or less. (Braceros are supposed to be classed as seasonal or temporary laborers).

The question was raised of what farmers who have braceros contracted for three or six months at present could do in order to be allowed to use the Mexican help during the irrigation and harvesting seasons. Two avenues seemed to be open to farmers and associations. They could cancel the contract of the braceros and pay them for three-quarters of the contracted time or they could honor the contracts and hope that the time limit would be removed or the area declared an undue hardship area before the 180 days expired.

A member of the audience suggested a third out which brought a round of laughter from the crowd:

"Well, Hell! I'll just shoot mine," was the comment.

"I think I'll just move down there. Nobody will be left here that will work," another commented disgustedly.

Further stipulations concerning the use of braceros to operate machinery indicated that the bracero could not move any machine which is used for farm production even though it was not being used at the time. For example, a bracero could not move a combine from the field to the barn in the middle of February when the ground was covered with snow.

Further, the bracero will not be allowed to fulfill any function which is necessary for the proper operation of the machine. This could mean that no bracero will be allowed to work in cotton trailers next fall and winter. It could be that pitching cotton could be considered as a necessary function for the proper operation of the cotton stripper.

"Will the bracero be allowed to bring the farmer water while he is in the field plowing?" a man in the audience asked.

"He can if it is for the farmer to drink, but not if it is to put in the tractor," snorted a man across the room.

Near the end of the meeting, Millen made a few remarks to the effect that Senator Ralph Yarborough was not the friend of any farmer in this area and that he was not doing anything for the farmer.

The meeting ended with almost everyone present promising to write their representatives and work individually and together to try to get a workable bracero program re-established.

The HAPPY HOMEMAKER

BY JUNE FLOYD

It has been said by many authorities that beginning cooks have much better success with mixes than do those of us who have been cooking a long time. Could it be possible that those who haven't been cooking so long, follow the given instructions more closely?

Perhaps too many of us decide that our knowledge of how cake, cookie or other batter ought to look is so great that we add more flour or more liquid than the manufacturer specifies. If your teen age daughter makes better cakes with prepared mixes than you do, it would probably be wise for you to follow her example by following directions as printed on the cartons.

Most homemakers derive a great deal of enjoyment from giving home made articles as gifts. Regardless of the cost of the article, no one can give a more appreciated gift than one that has been made by the giver.

BY MISS ETTIE MUSIL

For years we have been told that to save energy you should sit down to work. Now laboratory tests show homemakers actually use 4 percent more energy when sitting, than when standing. These tests were made for washing dishes and ironing.

The added energy is needed in getting on and off a kitchen stool while sitting. Of course, we still say that sitting is good especially to take off the strain on your legs and feet.

To roll out dough it takes 9 percent more energy when you are sitting on a kitchen stool than it does when your standing. This is counting the energy used in getting on and off a kitchen stool plus the extra energy used to do the kitchen work.

These latest research decisions are important in planning kitchens and other work areas in your home. Storage space in the home seems to be the big concern in planning new and remodeled homes.

Come by the office some time and we will discuss better arrangement of your kitchen storage. We have two very helpful bulletins showing how you can arrange your kitchen for comfort as well as convenience. If you have wasted space in your kitchen cabinets you may want to see how you could add step-up shelves to store more items closer to your reach.

Are you planning to buy one or more major home appliances in the next few months? We have received word from our home management specialists advising that, if you can find what you want, it may pay you to buy now.

Prices are expected to increase substantially within the next few months. This is due partially to higher materials and labor costs. New improvements and added features also add to the cost of newness.

For the new automatic washers, watch for increased capacity as an added feature. In ranges, color will receive a big play as a feature. However, be careful about colored appliances. Color will limit your decorating color change, especially if you change your wall color schemes often.

Another new feature in the range will be the high oven, counter top, and the free-standing drop-in models. This is where we need to compare costs with the service the range will do for your family needs.

In refrigerators we'll be seeing an increase in larger capacity units. This is due to the foam insulation that will cut down the thickness of walls. The space lost in the walls earlier will now be useable space. Also you will see more automatic and no-defrost systems.

News in dishwashers include built-ins and mobile models. They will also feature a wide range of colors and woods. You may be interested in the features of cycles for different type loads. These cycles will include daily cycle, fine china, pots and pans, wash and dry, and wash only and rinse only. Can you imagine a dish washer you can almost talk to by pushing a button?

Last week we were indeed happy to help the Farwell 4-H Club organize their joint club. Twenty boys and girls between the ages of 9 to 17 years were present for the first meeting. It is always an inspiration to see the parents at these 4-H club meetings.

Farwell 4-H Club has decided to meet each second Thursday night of the month. Programs for the year were planned by the officers and the organization leaders. Mrs. U. L. Lesly and Mrs. Bob Anderson will help the club with general organization. We are looking forward to a full 4-H club year with the Farwell boys and girls.

We have received a new supply of Farmers Tax Guides. Come by for a free copy to help you with your income tax. We have a limited supply so get it while they last.

Meeting Unites Group

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU BY RAYMOND EULER

It is our sincere hope that most of the people of the Golden Spread saw or heard "Hollywood's Answer to Communism" Friday night.

It was presented locally by competitive business organizations, and supported initially by loyal American producers and actors who find themselves in the midst of proponents of a switch from the from the American way. We believe most American Citizens appreciate both of these facts that bring hope for a reversal of a trend, Farm Bureau, locally, statewide and nation-wide, openly opposes Communism whenever and wherever it is found.

Officers were elected for the group: Reba Lesly, president; Doyle Johnson, vice-president; Bruce Billingsley, council delegate; Edith Ann Walling, council alternate delegate; Janis Billingsley, secretary - treasurer; Peggy Lesly, reporter, Tina Rundell, recreation chairman.

The group will meet at the city hall in Farwell on the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. The next meeting date will be February 15.

Members present were Doyle Johnson, Larry Gregory, Charles Norton, Edith Ann Walling, Viane Lesly, Janis Billingsley, Tina Rundell, Peggy Lesly, Charles Morton, Edith Carter, Keith Thomas, Milton Lee Walling, Roger Patrick, Reba Lesly, Sharon William, Camille Hobbs, Vicky Kaltwasser and Meredith Anderson.

Some of you may never know how much some of your neighbors and fellow farmers are spending and working for your benefit in this endeavor. If you knew, we know you would lend your support voluntarily and vigorously. We hope you will.

Vernon Symcox, a member of the board of the above mentioned organization reported to the Farm Bureau Board on activities of the organization last week.

President Harry Hamilton reported to your board on a meeting he attended in Amarillo last week where Congressman Walter Rogers was guest of District I Farm Bureau. He was questioned regarding his views on Farm Bureau recommendations on national policies. Of particular interest was the Bracero program which appears to be on the way out, regardless of Farm Bureau and other farm group efforts to save it.

Farm Bureau is for long range improvement in farm and other business and individual income. Generally speaking, Farm Bureau people believe this can only be accomplished by a return to individual freedom, individual opportunity, and individual initiative without undue interference from the government. We hope you share these basic beliefs enough to volunteer your membership if you are not already a member.

How Would Fallout Affect Livestock?

This is the fourth of a series of articles on Civil Defense, compiled by Deryl Coker and Ettie Musil.

If that nuclear attack should come, people will go on living, or that is, the ones that are adequately protected from the blast, heat and radiation. To do this we must know how fallout will affect livestock, and what we must do to make livestock products safe for human consumption. This is very important for it would be impossible to survive without some of the livestock products.

Following is a list of questions and answers that should be of help to you in determining what you could do in case of nuclear attack.

QUESTION: How will fallout affect unprotected livestock—that is, animals in fields, pastures, and other open areas?

ANSWER: Fallout may be dangerous to cattle, sheep, horses, pigs, and other livestock as well as to human beings. Animals can suffer skin burns if fallout settles in the coat. If animals drink fallout in their water or eat it in their feed, the radiation may cause serious internal injury or death. Radioactive materials that contaminate the skin or the immediate environment give off rays that can penetrate deep into the body. This is the major source of danger for livestock.

Q How will fallout affect sheltered livestock?

A Livestock housed in barns and other farm buildings during fallout stand a better chance of surviving the effects of radiation than those that are not sheltered. Areas that are well - built shelter prevents fallout from settling on the animals' bodies and may reduce the intensity of external radiation; it also keeps the animals from eating contaminated feed.

Q: What is the best way to protect livestock from fallout?

A: Move them indoors as soon as possible, and keep them off contaminated feed and water. If you do not have adequate facilities to house livestock, put them near farm buildings or in a small drylot. Once fallout occurs, you should not attempt to protect livestock unless local civil defense authorities tell you that it is safe to do so.

Q: What water and feed can I give livestock after fallout?

A: Water from a covered well, tank, or cistern, or from a freely running spring, should be safe. If possible, use water from a covered well.

River water is more likely to be contaminated. However, most of the fallout will be removed if it is filtered through sand or if it was muddy and the mud is settled out. Pond water is less, safe, but if necessary, it can be used a few days after fallout has occurred.

To prevent contamination from fallout, do not add water to covered tanks, except water from a properly protected well or spring, until the water originally present is used.

Give your livestock feed that has not been exposed to fallout. If the particles settle on hay, silage, or a stack of feedbags, they will contaminate only the outer portions. You can remove the outer layers or bags, and use the inside feed that is unaffected. However, do not handle contaminated feed until told by authorities that it is safe to do so, and be sure to follow the precautions they may recommend.

Farmers will be notified if local civil defense authorities measuring concentrations of fallout consider forage that is growing in an area to be harmful, but this advice might come too late in the more heavily contaminated areas. As a precautionary measure, it is best to house the livestock without giving them access to forage.

You may have to give cows contaminated feed if no other feed is available. Although the milk from these cows may not be usable, once the cows are back on clean feed the amount of radioactive in their milk will progressively diminish. Authorities will measure fallout in affected areas and warn farmers when milk is unsafe. But again such warning likely will come latest in the areas where contamination is heaviest.

Q: What can I do with contaminated feed?

A: You may be able to feed it to livestock eventually. Because of radioactive decay, contaminated feed may become safe to use after a period of storage. How long feed should be stored depends on the type and concentration of the radioactive materials. Farmers will be notified by local defense authorities.

Q: Should dairy cows receive special treatment?

A: Yes, because radioactive materials can accumulate in milk, which will be a very critical product during an emergency, you should make a special effort to protect cows from fallout.

Give cows preferred shelter and clean feed and water. If you can, milk them before fallout occurs. You may not be able to do so for several days afterward. Reduce amounts of water and concentrated feed to maintenance levels. If practicable, put cows and suckling calves together; the calves can suckle and reduce the discomfort of full udders.

Q: Is it possible to decontaminate livestock and farm buildings that have been exposed to fallout?

A: If there is fallout on the animals' skins, some of the radioactive material can be washed off with water. Civil defense authorities may advise you to hose down animals and to clean stables, barns, and other farm buildings. They will also tell you when it is safe to do these things. In handling animals, wear coveralls, gloves and boots to prevent contaminating yourself. Cleaning or disinfecting buildings will not destroy radioactivity. However, cleaning can be useful in moving radioactive materials to a place where radiation will be less harmful. In cleaning be careful to avoid contaminating yourself.

CAUTION: Before animals are hosed down or buildings cleaned, a thorough check should be made of possible radiation hazards to the person performing the task.

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION
by James E. Edwards

(Cont.) Shift your position as often as you can

If you're forced to stand for a long time, Push one hip out slightly, and throw your weight on the outside of that foot. Then repeat with the other hip and foot. You'll find this can be done inconspicuously. Don't wear the same shoes every day. Alternate between two pairs (at least). If your feet are inclined to perspire excessively, dust on special absorbent foot powder before pulling on your stockings, or spray foot spray or cologne right through your hose. Shop especially carefully for dancing slippers. Since these will probably be your highest - heeled shoes, it's particularly important that they fit perfectly. Good trick: Schedule your visit to the shoe department for the afternoon, when most feet tend to swell a little. Then there will be room for expansion on the dance floor. When trying on shoes, step down hard, and check the width and toe space with your full weight. Be sure the back is shaped so that it neither presses nor lets your heel slip.

Did you ever work really hard all day and at the end of the day look back on what you had done and see nothing but a big mess? I got all busy last Thursday when it was so really cold and decided that it would be a good day to put a new coat of varnish on the office floors, not that they needed it since it was only 14 years ago since the last coat was put on. Nevertheless you know it takes a little work to get four layers of mud off, all the furniture moved, and the floors mopped and dried. At seven p.m. I was all done except for about a square yard of varnishing near the door and the water pipes burst upstairs and covered up a wet varnished floor with an inch of water before I could get them turned off. Did you ever walk around all day with chewing gum on your shoes? That's how it was the next day, but we have got it all done over again now and it could have been worse.

Castor Bean production is just about completed and averages have not been as high as we had hoped for. New varieties are helping to increase these yields and the average production has been on Dawns, 2053 lbs; Hale, 2225 lbs; Baker 148's, 1918 lbs; and Baker 102's, 2005 lbs. If we can do as well as this in this area it still offers a crop that will have a cash value in excess of $100 per acre. Contracts will be offered again this year at $5.25 per cwt and we will take up to 5000 acres. Castor beans can be planted on layout land and will not count against sorghum allotments.

FORD'S 430 "BABY GIANT"

Is Designed and Tested Specifically For Southwest Farmers

Here Is What One Of Ford's Many Satisfied Farm Users Has To Say . . .

"Having used the 430 Industrial for about six months, I have been well pleased with it. The performance has been good and there has been no excessive oil consumption. It has a great deal more power than other motors that I have used in this price range."

Ford has designed and built the 430 "Baby Giant" for the Southwestern farming conditions. The test runs on this engine were made in this area under our adverse operating conditions before being offered for sale. Here is a quality-engineered engine that is dependable. FORD HAS MADE AVAILABLE ENGINES FOR IRRIGATION IN THE FOLLOWING CUBIC-INCH DISPLACEMENTS:
