

BY HOP JR.

If sometimes you feel the weight of the world on your shoulders, and wonder what it is that makes you so down-trodden, you're apt to hear a lot of different answers.

The preacher will tell you it's sin that is the cause of human misery and frustration. Psychologists will probe your unconscious and inform you that you're insecure because you felt your mother never really loved you.

The food faddists maintain that the modern day diet of canned and pre-cooked meals is playing hob with natural laws of nutrition, thereby affecting your mental state, and pacifists insist that nuclear testing has so contaminated the air we breathe that we are not our normal selves.

These hazards don't make life any easier, I'll admit, but the thing I think most gets us down is the got-to.

Got-to's come in all sizes and shapes but I've yet to see one that didn't strike terror in the heart of its victim. For instance, if you've "got to" make a $1,000 payment on a note at the bank, that's rough, but it's not much worse than your wife's admonition that you've "got to" fix the garage door immediately after lunch. One is about as easy to bear as the next.

There is something about a got-to that is terribly final. If someone asks something of you that's one thing, but when they tell you it's "got to" be done, then the heat is on, mister.

Whenever a case of got-to's gets started in the house, it's hard to stop and seems to spread infectiously. We all realize we've "got to" do our work, but when we sick the got-to's onto other activities, things take a turn for the worse and the pressure builds.

Jeanne has "got-to" make her ESA meeting on time and I've "got-to" have a talk with Ronny and Hal. Whenever that imperative sign of the got-to is hung on an assignment, there immediately follows a reaction of fear, resentment and apprehension in the mind of the beholder. No wonder we have illnesses with psychosomatic symptoms.

Excuse me, I've got to get this in.

! Rain Finally Came !

Familiar Sights: Water running along the curbs and in the streets proved much more inviting on Wednesday following the Tuesday night rains, than more common place activities such as riding bicycles or playing baseball. Here Vicky Smart 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bob Smart abandons her bicycle for a puddle near her home.

On Wednesday morning all activities in the Twin Cities were temporarily suspended for a few hours as area farmers and townspeople gathered at their favorite meeting places to discuss the rains of the night before. Several persons were heard to remark "Well the rains finally came," with many adding that it sure had been a long dry spell.

Rain reports varied from .90 inch on the Elmer Langford farm eight miles north of Texico to two and one half inches on the Earl Roberts farm 10 1/2 miles east of Farwell, in the Oklahoma Lane Community. Farther to the east on the Sterling Donaldson place only 1.09 inches was reported indicating that the rain in that area was slightly less than nearer town.

Reports in town varied from one inch to one and one half inches. On the John Hadley farm south of town only a light shower was reported.

Sunday Accident Claims Three Lives

A grinding crash at the intersection of FM 1731 and FM 145 near Oklahoma Lane Sunday morning claimed the lives of three women and seriously injured a daughter of one of the victims. Killed instantly were Mrs. Oscar Hubbell 53, Oklahoma Lane, Mrs. Josie Dye Heard 59, Lockney, Mrs. Tine Smith 70, Lewisville. Injured was Jane Hubbell 18.

The Hubbell car traveling west on FM 145 and the Heard automobile going south on FM 1731 met almost in the center of the intersection. Absence of skid marks at the scene led investigating officers to believe that neither driver saw the other car approaching the intersection. The cars apparently traveling at cruising speed at time of the impact careened some 80 to 100 feet after colliding, say investigating officers.

Only obstruction near the intersection is a house, located northeast of the intersection. The north-south road has stop signs at the intersection.

At time of the accident Mrs. Hubbell and her daughter were enroute to church in Clovis while Mrs. Heard and her sister were returning home via Lubbock from a visit in the Bovina area, with Jimmy Heard a son of one of the victims. Late reports indicate that Jane Hubbell is suffering from a broken hip, broken collar bone, several broken ribs bruises and lacerations about the body. She is reported to be in fair condition at Farmer County Community Hospital in Friona.

About $1400 Goes To Ball Park Fund

With perfect weather to compliment the evening, enthusiasm was good and a small crowd of civic boosters for Texico-Farwell added about $1200 to the till for the building of the softball field at the Twin City Council sponsored box-sox social Saturday night. Contributions were still coming in early this week and Joe Jones reported that about $4150 had been raised in all. He encouraged those who have not helped in the fund-raising event to contact him as soon as possible. A track meet in Clovis prevented many of the Little League and Babe Ruth boys and their parents from attending the social.

Mrs. C. C. Christian was named loveliest lady in contests and Joe Jones was selected as ugliest man. Kandy Meeks was recognized for the most artistic box. Her box resembled a large doll with the full ruffled skirt covering the design.

Don Gerles and Haney Tate were auctioneers and Mr. and Mrs. Orval Francis was clerk. The pony which was given away by Farwell Youth Commission went to Bill Dollar.

A NEW AGRICULTURAL AGENT LOOKS AT HIS NEW COUNTY

"THE BEST WHEAT I'VE EVER SEEN" is the exclamation Joe Van Zandt, new Parmer County agent, makes about this field in the Lazbuddie community. This being the case, the agent is understandably reluctant to make an estimate of the possible yield, Parmer County area farmers have been hitting around 60 bushels an acre with good irrigated fields in recent years.

A HEALTHY SUGAR BEET BUSINESS seems in store for Parmer County area farmers, who have the 1964 crop (their first in history) off to a running start. Van Zandt says the field southeast of Friona is as pretty and clean as any he's seen.

New County Agent: "I'm Impressed"

Parmer County's new agricultural agent, after a quick swing through the county the first of the week to size up his new territory, says "What I have seen so far has been real impressive."

A slender 5-10 and friendly as you would expect a county agent from Texas to be, young Joe Van Zandt, 28, arrived in Farwell Thursday for his new assignment.

Originally from Wheeler in the Panhandle, this part of the world isn't exactly strange-looking to Joe, but Parmer County's agriculture is vastly different from what he has been working with since his graduation from Texas A&M in 1959.

He moves here from Live Oak County in South Texas, where they raise about 15,000 acres of cotton and a like amount of grain sorghum.

Joe is "long" on livestock and hogs, and has a record of intense effort in 4-H Club work.

He is not sure about what type 4-H program he will attempt to carry out here. "It all depends on what the people want," he says.

Van Zandt is impressed with the productivity of Parmer County, which is ranked as one of the state's top agricultural producers—if not one of the leaders in the nation.

"I think we've got a real good future here," he says.

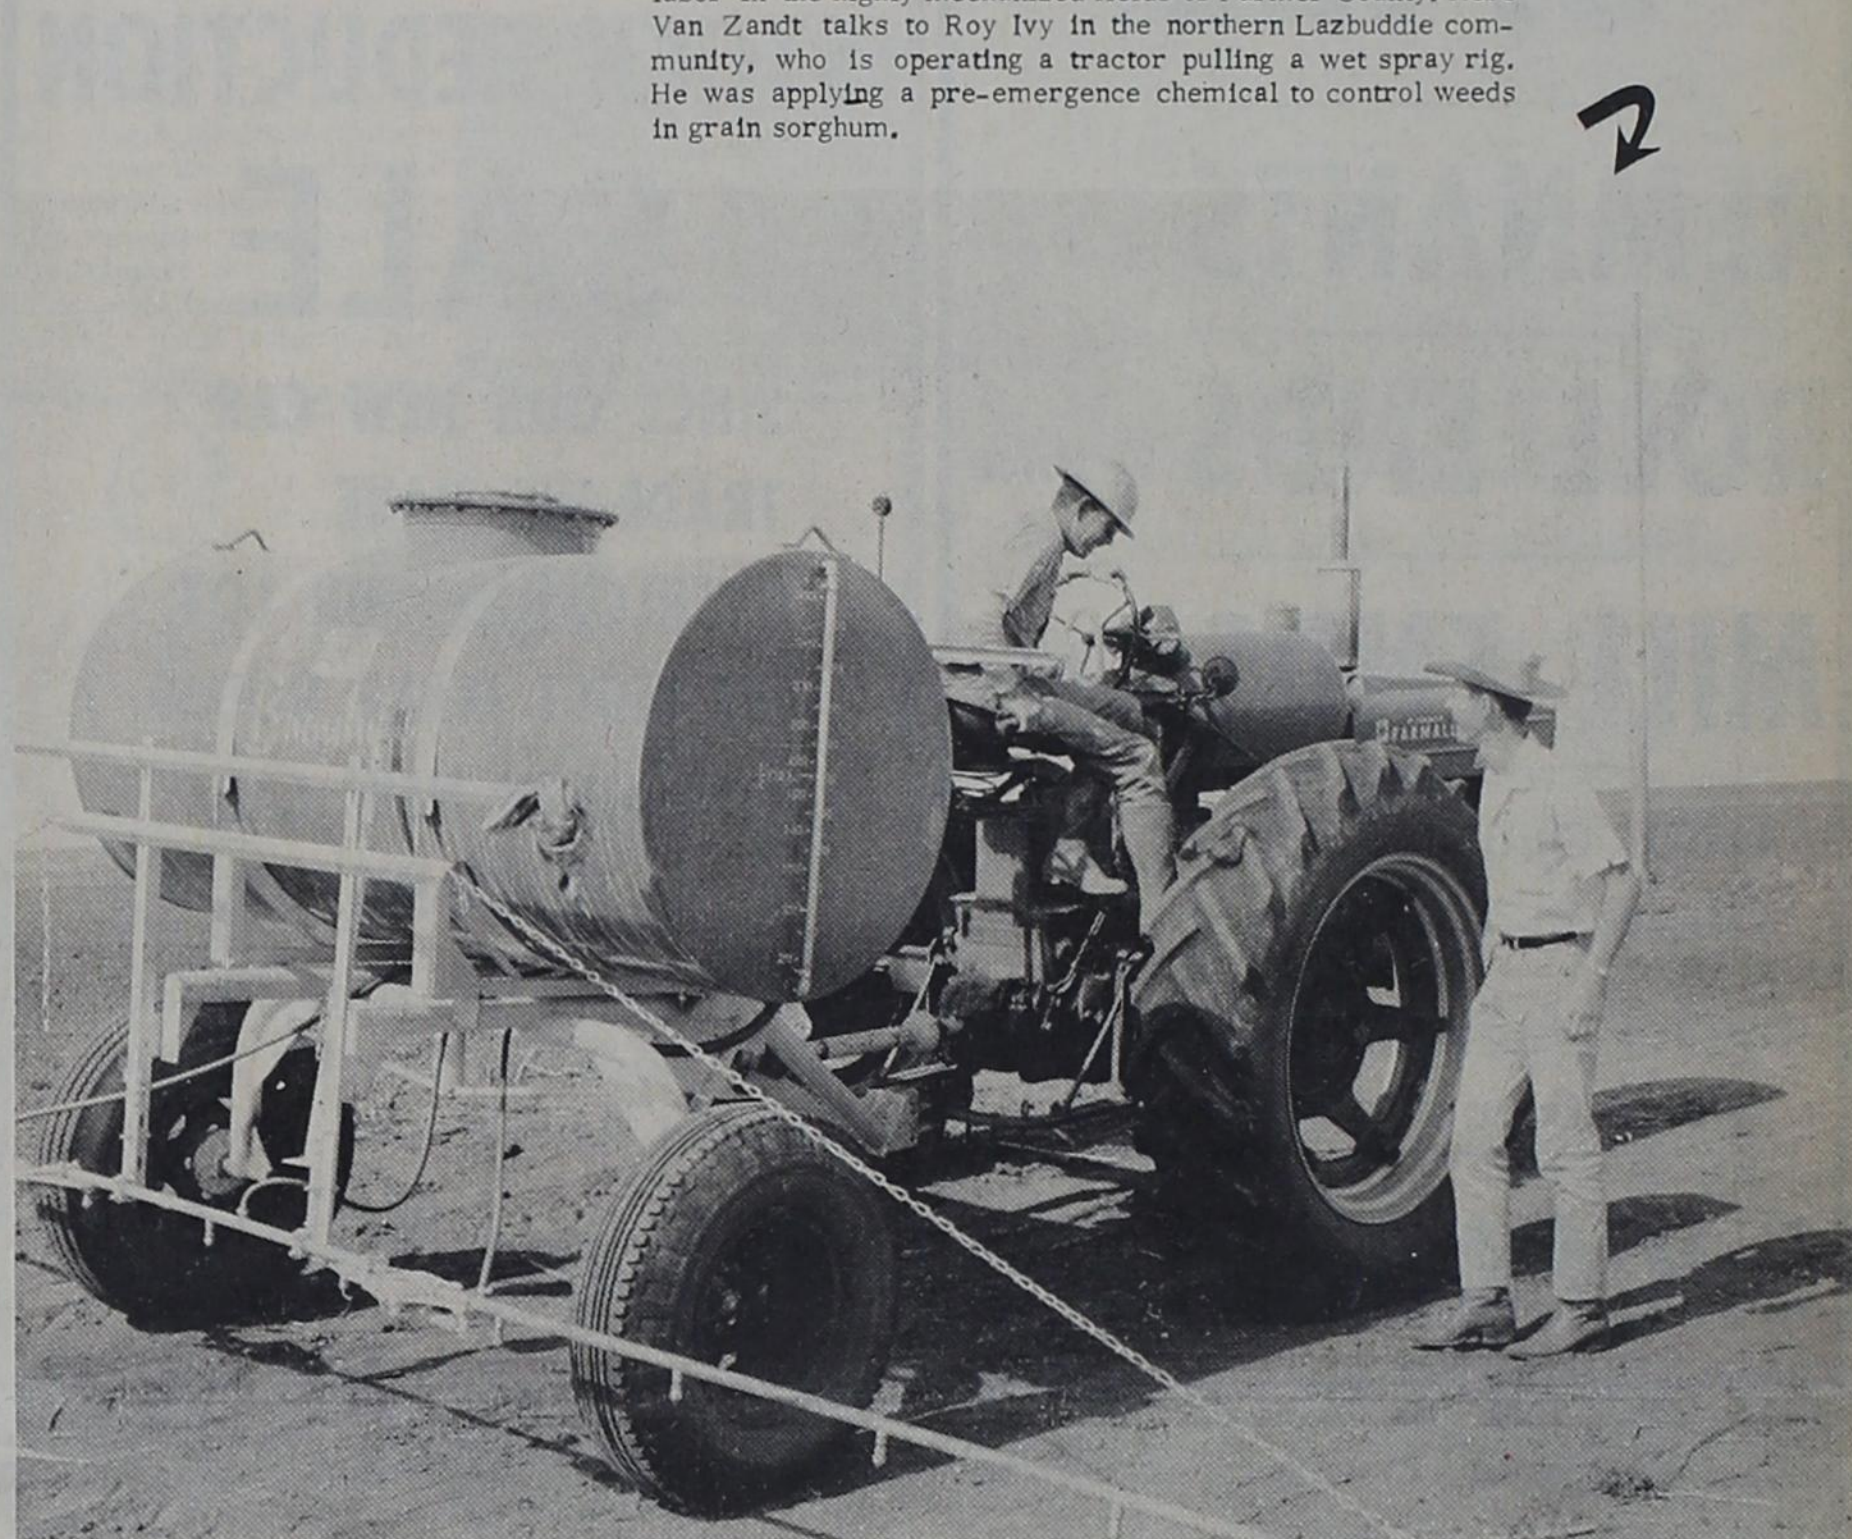

The new county agent has purchased a home in Farwell and his wife and two children (girls, four and one), will be moving to the county next week.

At Home In Parmer County

By CRICKET B. TAYLOR
County HD Agent

Here's a bit of information that may prove helpful to you homemakers who are interested in getting your moneys worth when buying food.

Labels provide basic information about ingredients about contents of food products and it can really pay to form the habit of reading labels on cans and food packages.

In other words, if there is more potatoes than meat in a brand of hash, the label will have potatoes before meat in the statement of content.

Labels must carry a statement of contents except in cases where government has set a "standard of identity".

Since the list of ingredients given on a label is in descending order as they appear in the product, consumers can profit by reading the label. If chicken is way down the list on a can of chicken soup, you can be quite sure there is not much chicken in the soup. Check another brand and you may find chicken first or second on the label, indicating a higher chicken content. This labeling provides the consumer with a window into the package.

Now that school is out 4-H activities are getting in "high gear". Janis Billingsley, Kathryn Gober, Mrs. Billingsley and Gary Foster will be leaving June 1st for State 4-H Round-up at A & M, where they will compete with other contestants for State awards.

Sewing groups are getting started on project work and Home Improvement Projects will continue through the summer.

The Parmer County 4-H Dress Revue date has been changed to July 16th due to a conflict of a District meeting of agents. Leaders will need to make a note of this date.

Don't look for it just yet, but some day soon there may be frozen tomatoes on the market, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer information specialist.

The flowers that bloom in the spring are not always a joy to the farmers' hearts, as this picture bears mute witness. The little poppy-like blossoms belong to the land-killer named bindweed, here shown in a bank-to-bank profusion across a ditch. Parmer County has waged war long and hard on the tenacious noxious weed.

Weed Group Studies Need For Control

The Parmer County weed committee, begun with Farm Bureau backing several years ago, through whose work noxious weed development in the county has been brought to a standstill in most areas, met Monday night to review the needs for 1964.

The Railroad has never been effective, and committeemen are seeking the cooperation of the railroad in controlling this area. A program along the right-of-way of the Amarillo branch has been successful.

The meeting, which was in the Bureau offices at Friona, was attended by 11 persons from across the county.

Occupying the main attention of the committee at the present time is the still serious infestation in some sections of the southwestern part of the county, especially in and near Farwell.

Also, control on the right-of-way along the Slaton Division (Lubbock) branch of the Santa Protein deficiency is a major international problem, considering the world as a whole, says Dr. Carl M. Lyman, head of the Department of Biochemistry and Nutrition at Texas A&M University.

FOR FARMERS ONLY!

ARE YOU A FLFWTMMM?

* Farmer looking for ways to make more money.

2100% return on investment sounds phenomenal, but that is the sort of return cotton farmers in this area can receive this season.

The investment is one boll of cotton every 7 feet down the row. The kind of results to be expected is an extra boll of cotton on every stalk.

These statements come from 9 of the nations leading soil scientists who have devoted most of their lives to soil fertility in the southwest and especially in the plains.

Such authorities as Dr. Alex Pope, Dr. Bill Trogdon, and Dr. Gaylord Hanes have been instrumental in the manufacturing of a completely new product at the new Plains Division Plant located at Plainview. This new product for plains soils has been named "Am-Sul-Phos".

Am-Sul-Phos contains almost three times as much nitrogen as phosphorus. The nitrogen is in a form highly resistant to leaching and losses to the air. The phosphorus is highly water soluble. The remainder of the pellet is soluble sulfate ion which reacts with excess calcium in the soil, thus giving maximum uptake by the crop of phosphorus and nitrogen as well as minor elements such as iron, zinc, boron, and manganese.

The product was used in experiments last year. Yields were increased as much as one bale of cotton per acre over standard fertilizer practices in many field scale experiments.

A 100% increase in grain sorghum yield, with high protein grain and 400% or more profit on your fertilizer investment?

Sound far fetched? ? Not at all!

Best's staff of experienced Agronomists has developed an entirely new product which contains the correct ratio and sources of nitrogen and phosphorus which combined with the sulfate ion (SO4) will result in greater efficiency of nitrogen and phosphorus uptake and in a more balanced nutrition for grain sorghum.

What is this product? - "Am-Sul-Phos".

If you have not fertilized your sorghum this year, "Am-Sul-Phos", applied as a sidedress before the sorghum is 10 inches high can double your yield and increase the protein content of your grain.

If you have applied part of your fertilizer at or before planting, apply the rest as a "Am-Sul-Phos" sidedress.

On The Farm In Parmer County

BY JOE VAN ZANDT
County Agent

In 1963, this crop has boomed in planted acreage. Gunter says over 90% of the total Texas soybean acreage is on the High Plains. While 40-45 bushels are not uncommon, average yield last year for the High Plains was approximately 32 bushels an acre. In recent years, market price has been higher than the support price.

I look forward to getting acquainted with you in the near future. I am anxious to become familiar with the agricultural situation here so I can be of service to the people of Parmer County.

Soybeans look like real "comers" on the Plains. Not only are they usually a profitable crop in their own right, but they also have an advantage in their late planting date. According to Area Extension Agronomist Billy Gunter, soybeans are fast gaining acceptance as a "catch crop" for hauled-out cotton when it's too late to replant. Gunter points out that soybeans are recommended for planting on the Plains between June 1 and June 20. However, they can be planted as late as July 1 in the southern portion of the Plains if required.

Another advantage of the late planting date is in weed control on weedy field mechanical tillage can be practiced up until the time beans are planted. In the last few years, soybean acreage on the Texas High Plains has mushroomed. From 18,000 acres in 1956 to a record approximate 90,000 acres

The bulk of soybeans on the High Plains are grown within a 35 mile radius of Plainview. Producers outside this area should check with local elevator operators to see if they can handle soybeans.

To grow soybeans successfully—for both high per acre yields and high net profit—an ample amount of management knowhow is needed, continues Gunter. He outlines recommendations for soybean production as follows.

Varieties: Hill and Lee varieties are recommended for the High Plains. The variety Hinn looks promising, but at present is available only to certified seed producers. Soybeans are well adapted to all major soils of the High Plains. The only exception is where chlorosis shows up in grain sorghum.

Planting: Seed one bushel (60 pounds) per acre. Use good quality seed and place them two inches deep in the soil. Plant with a shallow bed to assure getting cutter bar of the combine below bottom pods. (On

UNDER A HOT AFTERNOON SUN, life-giving irrigation water trickles down these rows of brand-new cotton in a Parmer County field east of Bovina. Area farmers, pleased to have early stands of cotton, feel the 1964 crop is off to a good start.

Referring particularly to his own ginners, he said: "Many of us are so busy, however, trying to keep one step ahead of our competitors locally that I'm afraid we lose touch with some of the big forces that affect all of us in the cotton industry. "These forces," he continued, "regardless of our initiative as individuals, could sweep the efficient and inefficient alike down a calamitous road. These forces are the over-all factors that will determine whether or not cotton in the long run will compete as a major textile fiber."

Williams went on to say that gins alone, of which there are more than 5,000 across the cotton belt, represent an investment of over one billion dollars, excluding land values, and they represent only a small portion of the $23 billion cotton industry.

"Their future," he said, "depends solely on the extent to which customers buy and use cotton products. Without this demand there is no need for lint or seed or the processes to convert them. Diminish it and the prosperity of the cotton industry is diminished. Increase it and the benefits to all are increased."

"When surpluses accumulate, acreage is cut back and the volume of cotton production is reduced. There are less bales to gin, compress, warehouse, transport and merchandise. Decreased volume results in lower efficiency, higher costs and curtailed profits for all concerned. The economy of hundreds of communities dependent on cotton suffers a serious blow.

the last cultivation, lay by so cutter bar can still get under lower pods.)

Irrigation: For maximum yields, three to four summer irrigations are required. However, 30 to 35 bushels are frequently made on only two summer irrigations. The first irrigation should normally be made when bloom buds begin to appear. The last irrigation is normally in September—and can be the most important watering. Though not recommended for dryland, an occasional producer has made good yields on dryland.

Fertilizer: Soybeans are a legume and supply their own nitrogen—when properly inoculated. An exception to this is when they follow a high residue crop such as grain sorghum. In such situations, Gunter recommends adding about 20 pounds of nitrogen to act as a "starter". Soybeans are also heavy feeders on phosphorus and a soil test is recommended to learn if a phosphorus deficiency exists.

The new cotton program is widely acclaimed as a first step toward increased cotton consumption and an eventual solution to at least some of cotton's pressing problems. It is just that and no more — a first step. The forces of supply and demand are still to be reckoned with, and cotton is still a long way from being out of the woods.

An exceptionally clear and concise presentation of this fact has been made by Harold Williams, President, National Cotton Ginners Association. His remarks go straight to the heart of the dilemma, transcending the differences of opinion which exist between the many segments of the cotton industry, and we believe them well worth repeating.

Writing for an International cotton publication, Williams said: "High quality, competitive pricing and imaginative promotion are essential to survival in today's competitive society whatever one's business might be, whether it's ginning or the manufacture of cat food. "The competitive facts of life are just as applicable to an industry as to an individual; and those who grow, process and merchandise cotton have real reason for concern when their biggest customer, the U.S. textile mills lay those facts on the line."

The facts to which Williams referred were illustrated with a quota from a textile industry spokesman who said earlier this year: "Speaking to you as one of your customers. . . We only want to sell our products in the volume in which they deserve to be sold. . . But if we cannot sell yours (cotton producers) we will devote our time, our efforts, and millions of dollars to selling your competitors' fibers."

Notes On Agriculture From

DOYLE'S DESK

MR. PARMER FARMER,

Beginning with this issue I will publish, from time to time, notes on the use of farm chemicals in Parmer County agriculture.

We, at Cummings Farm Store, believe that the use of chemical in farming operations is just beginning. That in the months and years ahead the use of chemicals will be as necessary to total farm profit as fertilizers are today.

We will keep abreast of the constantly changing chemical picture and always be in a position to honestly advise you on the proper use of chemicals in your farm operations. You may look on Cummings Farm Store as a place to get the latest information on farm chemicals and an evaluation of the place in your farm program.

I am looking forward to writing this column and to meeting you in the months ahead.

Sincerely

Grain Sorghum Freights Reduced To West Coast

Grain sorghum rail freight rates from the High Plains to the West Coast for export are to be lowered from the current level of 80 1/2 cents per hundred down to 55 cents per hundred. The California domestic rate remains unchanged at 60 1/2 cents per hundred. Provisions for the new rate were authorized by the Executive Committee of the Trans-Continental Freight Bureau meeting in Chicago last week. An effective date for implementing the reduction in the rate will be announced as soon as the railroads have an opportunity to publish new rate schedules. Bill Nelson, Executive Vice President of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association commended the individual railroads for this action through their Bureau. Nelson said the old 80 1/2 cent per hundred rate have been prohibitive to West Coast movements of grain sorghum for export even though users in Japan—the World's largest cash buyer for U. S. sorghum, has been interested in West Coast purchases. West Coast ports are 20 days closer to Japan than Gulf ports and ocean freight savings average $4.00 per ton. He said that the combination of savings in ocean freight and reduced rail rates will now make it possible for Japan and other Far East grain buyers to have a choice as to point of delivery of area grain sorghum. He also added that in times of stress such as the recent Panama incident, the new rate may make a difference as to whether the foreign buyers have access to grain at all or not. According to Nelson, the Grain Sorghum Producers Association had requested a 54 1/2 cent rate on a permanent basis in 110,000 pound cars. The announcement is for a 55 cent rate on a one-year trial basis with 130,000 pound cars minimum. He said that oversized car requirement will not be a serious problem if the railroads will step up efforts to make such equipment available which has up to now been in short supply. Elbert Harp, farmer-President of GSPA said that work such as this on freight rates by the Association is part of the overall research, market development and service programs for grain sorghum by farmers themselves to better their position. Such work has pushed sorghum exports from a mere 22,000 million bushels annually in 1956 to over 112 million bushels now and resulted in stronger cash prices to area farmers.

Proper Care Important Before Storing Clothing

Winter clothing and covers need correct care before storage for the summer. Proper cleaning, labeling and storage will assure that garments will be in good condition and easy to locate when the first norther comes next fall, says Mrs. Elsie Short, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University. If storage space is limited, you may want to consider taking all woolen items to a professional firm for cleaning and storage. Near-zero temperature will destroy clothes moths in all stages of their development. "Make a list and jot down values of all items -- one for the establishment and one for your home file," Mrs. Short says.

You may give your own woolen clothing the cold treatment if you have enough space in your home freezer. First, clean the garments, seal them in heavy paper, and store in the freezer for 24 hours. Then store in a closet, being sure the seal remains unbroken. All clothing should be cleaned before storing -- whatever the fabric. The storage space should be clean, free of all dust and sprayed for protection from household insects. Woolen blankets or other woolen covers should be cleaned and sprayed with a moth spray, if not previously moth-proofed. There are many good sprays on the market. Read the labels before buying, the specialist says.

Holley Joins Study Staff

William D. (Dub) Holley of Olton has joined the staff of the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway. Dub will be working in the fields of flame cultivation research and in soil and crop studies. In his duties, he will be assisting both Jack Parks, farm superintendent and flame cultivation engineer, and Dr. Arthur Gohlke, senior soil scientist. Holley is a 1950 graduate of Olton High School, growing up in the Olton area on an irrigated farm. Dub graduated from Texas Tech with a B. S. in agricultural economics and has worked towards his Masters in the same field. Dr. Earl H. Collister, director of the High Plains Research Foundation, said of Dub, "We are most fortunate at the Foundation to have Dub Holley with us. With his knowledge of this area and of agriculture in general, Dub will be a most valuable member of the staff."

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION

by James E. Edwards

No. There are exceptions but, generally speaking, the only mention of feet and shoes is in the health unit of the biology course. The discussion is brief and usually might just as well be left out entirely. For example one very popular textbook says "Shoes are very important to foot health. Shoes should not be too long, too short, too narrow or too wide." Next Subject. Pages and pages are devoted to eyes and teeth because the authors of textbooks, like the general public are eye conscious and tooth conscious but seem to be oblivious of the fact that 99% of our foot trouble is caused by ill-fitting shoes.

One notable exception to the lack of foot-health education was the project in the schools of Lorain, Ohio where each child in the elementary grades had his feet measured each year for 3 years. The first year 76.4% of the children were wearing ill-fitting shoes, the second year 71% and the third year 59%. If, as medical authorities agree, ill fitting shoes cause the vast majority of foot trouble, the Lorain Schools seem to have discovered the way to eliminate the cause.

Suggestions For The Food Shopper

Food shoppers may find these buying ideas easy on their budgets, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist. Look for best beef values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, shortribs and round steak. Pork values include end cut pork chops, shoulder roasts and steaks, smoked hams, picnics and fresh pork backbone, she says. Fryers remain low in price and high in quality. Grade A large eggs offer the most quality and nutrition for the money, the specialist says. Sweet potatoes, fruit cocktail and pickles also are found at special prices this week.

AMMO NOTES

By Bill Bennett, Agronomist

Young sugar beet plants in most areas are showing a very slight purpling around the outer edges of the plant. This purpling is being called a phosphorus deficiency symptom. However, the chances of it being caused by a phosphorus deficiency are very slim.

Three reasons could be causing the purpling. It could be due to the rapid growth of the beets during the past two weeks. It could be due to sand damage. It could also be due to salt accumulation in the beds.

Salt has accumulated this year to a level which is slightly above normal. This is due primarily to a lack of rainfall and the evaporation of moisture due to wind. Accumulation of salts has been slightly higher in sugar beet beds due to the additional irrigation which has been required.

Deficiency symptoms due to actual phosphate shortage are usually expressed as a reddish-purple coloring of the entire upper portion of the beet leaf.

Let's switch to grains sorghum and cotton and let me encourage you to sidedress early and get the job done ahead of the rain.

The sterile-male technique of insect control is being used in this year's campaign against the Mexican fruit fly. Technique is similar to that being used in the southwestern campaign against the screwworm, a pest of livestock.

THE HUB AREA IN PARMER COUNTY is a laboratory-like testing area for the High Plains Water District, which is conducting studies of the use of irrigation water. Van Zandt looks

Time And Temperature Important For Frozen Foods

Frozen foods are here to stay and with good reason, but the housewife should be aware of the importance of time and temperature as related to the food's quality, says Gordon R. Powell, fruit and vegetables marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

It is almost impossible to evaluate the quality as food is examined in retail stores. There are few really good guides for evaluating quality of frozen foods since the foods are often packaged so they cannot be seen. The food can be hard and cold, but this not a guarantee that it has been kept cold enough, throughout its journey to the consumer.

Powell considers time and temperature to be a major cause of poor quality in frozen foods. At the very best, no form of processing improves quality, but if properly stored under the right temperature, the original quality may be maintained. However, this is impossible over a long period of time. Time affects quality but temperature affects it to a larger and more rapid extent.

If frozen foods are held at a temperature of 0 degrees or lower, time quality losses are slow, but at a temperature above 0 degrees, the quality loss is rapid even though the foods are still hard and cold. Several weeks above 0 degrees can be as damaging as thawing and refreezing. Temperature damage cannot be repaired, it can only be avoided, the specialist adds. Time and temperature do the real damage but people let this happen. If precautions are taken in freezing, storage, transportation and in the retail stores to see that the proper temperature is maintained, a quality frozen food will be available to consumers.

When everyone involved in the total marketing process of frozen foods, guards against time and temperature shortcomings, explains Powell, the consumer will have a quality product and a more enjoyable and nutritious meal.

Plainview PCA Ranks As Largest In Nation

The Plainview Production Credit Association again ranked the nation in 1963 as the largest of the 484 agricultural financing institutions in three different categories and ranked among the top four in the nation in two other divisions.

In figures recently released by the Farm Credit Administration, Washington D.C., the Plainview association, serving an eight-county area of the high plains, had the largest loan volume, the most member-owned capital stock and the highest stockholder-owned total net worth.

The association had a loan volume of $45,923,000, an increase of nearly $5 million over 1962. Association-owned capital stock totalled $3,056,165 and the association's net worth totalled $4,193,531 at the end of 1963.

The Plainview PCA also ranked fourth in the nation in new worth reserves accumulated from earnings and third in loans outstanding on Dec. 31, 1963.

"We are, of course, pleased that our association made this enviable record during the past year," commented General Manager Noel Woodley. "However, these records themselves are important only in that they reflect improved and increased services and benefits we can provide our stockholder-borrowers."

The Plainview Production Credit Association serves Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Bailey, Lamb, Hale and Floyd counties and is owned and operated in its entirety by more than 1,750 farmer and rancher stockholder-borrowers.

"We have but one reason for our existence," Woodley pointed out, "and that is to provide a dependable source of agricultural credit at the lowest possible cost."
