Steers Down Hornets 28-0

Farwell Steers downed the Sudan Hornets Friday night 28-0, in a game marked by heavy penalties.

Farwell didn't look as good on offense as has been the pattern, says Coach Toby Booth, but the team looked pretty good defensively. The game was marred by the heavy penalties, he adds.

Bobby Fields looked good throwing the football, he says and Danny Huffaker did a fine job carrying the ball. Defense was sparked by Gilbert Dale, and Gossett did a good job line backing. Jerry Childs, Butch Ford and Jerry Fields caught the majority of the passes. Bobby Fields and Dale were listed as players of the week.

Jerry Fields scored the first touchdown for Farwell Friday night early in the first period and a pass from Bobby Fields to Ford clicked for the extra points to give Farwell a lead of 8-0.

The second quarter, Sudan smothered attempted passes by Farwell and held the visitors scoreless. The second half was another story, with the Steers taking the opening kickoff and marching upfield 88 yards to paydirt. Huffaker carried the pigskin for the score. Points was no good. The remainder of the quarter was a standstill. In the final quarter, Farwell drove over for another touchdown in the opening minutes with Ford carrying, and extra points were collected on a pass from Bobby Fields to Ford, score 22-0.

Larry Donaldson intercepted a Hornet pass midway in the first quarter and ran back 50 yards for a score, but the count was called back on a rule infraction. Refusing to be rebuffed, the Steers Jerry Childs scored again. Points were no good.

In the final minutes, Sudan rolled up 75 yards to the end zone, but they too lost the count on a penalty, and the game ended with Farwell leading 28-0. Statistics as compiled by Mitz Walling read: Farwell -- 25 first downs, 303 yards from line of scrimmage, 94 yards passing, for 397 total yards, 8 of 19 passes completed, 1 pass intercepted, 5 punts, 145 yards penalties, 81 plays; Springlake -- 10 first downs, 122 yards from line of scrimmage, 71 yards passing for a total of 193 yards, 5 of 14 passes completed, no passes intercepted, 7 punts, 1 fumble lost, 65 yards penalties, 58 plays.

Rip Curtis of Melrose, whom we know through church work, called long distance the other day "just to talk to somebody who voted for Goldwater."

He allowed that the papers reported that from 25 to 30 million people voted for him, but since the election he hasn't been able to find a single one.

"Conservatives" as they call us, Rip, sure took a drubbing. Now that the smoke has cleared, I'd venture a few long-range predictions:

1. Republicans will not, in this generation anyway, again risk offering the candidacy of one who espouses constitutional conservatism again -- no matter how popular he might appear to be.

2. Democrats and Republicans will renew their contest to see which can buy the most votes with ever more daring steps toward socialism.

3. Advocates of a constitutionally limited government and the free enterprise system will find themselves without a home in either major party, which will lead to some sort of "third force" along organizational lines if they are to still be heard.

Ray Zauber, writing in The Oak Cliff Tribune, adds it up this way: "Having to buck the tremendous prestige, patronage, and payrolls of the federal government are almost insurmountable problems. One out of every five persons in this country now gets some kind of financial assistance from Washington, D. C."

We Apologize

In addition to the G. D. Anderson Sr's, other local grandparents of the personable young man (David Anderson) who was crowned football hero in Bovina last week are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Williams.

The Johnnie Williams name was not mentioned in the story and we are sincerely sorry. Please accept our apology.

Jaycees To Hold Important Meet

All members of the local Jaycee organization are reminded of the Tuesday, Nov. 17, 7:30 p. m. meeting of the group. At this time plans are to be completed for the sale of Christmas Trees and the Yule lighting of the downtown area in Farwell.

The Yule tree sale is to begin in the Twin Cities on Dec. 1, says Joel Tankersley. The trees are of the Scottish Pine variety and are being brought here from the state of Washington. They will range from 4' to 8' with prices ranging from $3.50-$10. Plans are also underway to have other varieties of trees, according to Tankersley.

Mrs. McFarland And Mrs. Herington Tied In Football Contest

This was the week for upsets in the local armchair quarterback club football contest. Mrs. John McFarland who has stayed in the group of top contenders for the overall prize for the last several weeks jumped into a tie with Mrs. L. C. Herington, who has been leading in the contest by calling nine of the games right. Herington missed on four of the games. Each of the ladies has 71 games to her credit.

In second place is Theo Ackinson, husband of last year's winner, who has 70 games to his credit and in a close third is Mrs. Darrell Norton, sister of Mrs. McFarland, with 69 games called right.

Other contenders for the top prize are Mrs. Hope Shuman with 68 games right; and Mrs.

Georgia Lee Rundell, Leroy Kitten and Albert Johnson with 66 games each to their credit. Winner of the weekly prize money was Richard Haseloff, end on the Steer football squad, who called nine games right and missed only four points on the tiebreaker score.

Winners of second and third place prize money (also with nine games right) were Billy Boling and Hobbie Coffman. Boling missed the tiebreaker score by six points and Coffman missed the score by seven points. 87 persons entered the contest this week.

The only other person calling nine games right was Mrs. McFarland, who called the score within 15 points (too far out to win weekly prize money but good enough to put her in a tie for the lead).

The contest will end next week and the winner will receive two tickets to the Cotton Bowl and $50. expense money, courtesy of several local businessmen.

Sponsors of the contest are Shuman-Haseloff Agency, Worley Grain, Oklahoma Lane Farm Supply and Gin, Continental Oil Co., Texaco Inc., Larlat Gin, Farwell Equipment, Nickels Gin, Shierley - Anderson, Shierley-Anderson-Pitman Inc., Security State Bank, A. A. Bowl, John Getz Ins., and Piggly Wiggly.

NOW WHICH SHALL I CHOOSE -- Mrs. John McFarland and Mrs. L. C. Herington, who are leading the entries in the local football contest for top prize (two tickets to the Cotton Bowl and $50. expense money) were studying this week's games and standings of the teams listed on the contest prior to making their choices. Each of the ladies has 71 games to her credit at the end of 10 weeks. Contest ends this week and their decisions must be made now.

alumni of the three schools this week. All persons receiving a card are asked to return it with the correct address in order that the file on addresses be kept up to date. Anyone who is an ex-student of the schools and who does not receive a card is asked to contact one of the officers of the group.

In addition to Christian other officers are Carl Deaton, Clovis and Mrs. Joel White, Farwell, Route 1.

Richard Haseloff, end for the Steer football squad, out called 87 entrants in the local armchair football contest this week to win first place prize money. Richard, who called nine of the ten games right and missed on the score of the tiebreaker game by a scant four points is shown receiving a check for his winnings from C. C. Christian, of Oklahoma Lane Farm Supply and Gin Co.

Big Game Of Season Set Friday Night

Farwell Steers are preparing for the big game of the season.

Game time is 7:30 Friday night when the Steers and the other top team in the district, Springlake, play the blue ribbon football game on the Wolverine field. Winner of the game will be eligible to play the winner of the Petersburg-Crosbyton contest as representatives of the district.

"Oh me, it's gonna be rough", was the sentiment of Coach Toby Booth this week, as he in turn praised his boys for their outstanding work this year.

"I feel that we probably have the finest group of working boys we've ever had in the school", he says, as he explains that the fighting Steers are "willing to sacrifice and to play the game the way it ought to be played." He particularly points out the team effort that has placed the Steers in the district win columns.

As for Springlake, Booth says the Wolverines will be the biggest ball club faced by the Steers, outweighing Farwell about 20 lbs. per man. He lists the Springlake halfback (Gregory) at about 195 lbs. as a fine player, 200-lb. Sanders as a good fullback, and Patterson (about 205) as one of the best guards we've faced."

He says Springlake has a fine, sound ball club and defensively, they are tough. In a nutshell, Booth says "probably the team that gets the breaks will win the ball game."

Springlake has an 8-1 season and has won all district contests, Farwell holds a 6-3 season, and has also won all district games.

Yearlings Defeat Sudan

The Farwell seventh grade Yearlings and eighth grade Sudan seventh and eighth grade teams last Thursday night with scores of 6-0 and 8-0, despite rainy weather and a wet field. Jean Stovall scored the seventh grades lone touchdown midway in the first quarter on a 49 yard gallop.

The try for extra points was no good and the score remained at 6-0.

The third quarter was a seesaw battle as the ball kept swaying back and forth from one team to the other due to several fumbles.

The final quarter saw some good ball handling and ground yardage gaining by both teams although neither team was able to score and the game ended with the Farwell team on the big end of a 6-0 score.

Farwell made eight fumbles to Sudan's six. Farwell gained approximately 104 yards. Sudan got 123. Yearlings were penalized 30 yards on six penalties. The Sudan team had four infractions of the rules but all four were refused. Both teams had two time outs.

Danny Prince did a wonderful job of blocking a punt in the second quarter.

In the eighth grade game Farwell again came out on top 8-0.

The first quarter saw some good ground gaining by both teams although neither team was able to score.

Neither team was able to gain much yardage in the second quarter and the score stood at 0-0 at the end of the first half.

The only touchdown in the game came in the third quarter when Kyle Sheets marched over the goal line to paydirt after an 18 yard drive to put the Yearlings out in front 6-0. Greg Hargrove ran the extra points over to put two more points on the home team's side of the scoreboard.

No further points were made that quarter.

The fourth and final quarter saw quite a few fumbles on the part of both teams and some good passing by the Sudan team.

Neither team was able to score in the fourth and the game ended with the Farwell Yearlings leading the Sudan Hornets 8-0.

Dear Editor,

St. John Walther League To Host Fall Rally

Walther League of St. John Lutheran Church, Lariat will host the fall rally of fellow leaguers of the Lubbock circuit for the annual rally on Sunday, Nov. 15 (afternoon), reports Richard Haseloff, president of the Lariat League.

Visiting leaguers are expected from Lamesa, Littlefield, Lubbock, Plainview, Wilson, Clovis, Friona and Rhea, Vicki Kaltwasser and Gaye Ramm will preside over the registration, which will start at 2:15 p.m.

The business session will begin at 2:45 p.m. Rev. Herbert Peiman, pastor of St. John's will bring a devotional on "The largest rally in history -- Elijah and all Israel on Mt. Carmel." The fascinating story of this rally is told in the 18th chapter of First Kings and has many valuable lessons for church rallies in this 20th century space age, Peiman commented.

Most of the afternoon will be spent with leaguers from Christ Church, Lubbock directing a Bible study; Immanuel League of Littlefield directing a topic study and St. Paul's of Plainview directing a recreational period.

The rally will close with a devotion on "Hymns of the Church Year" by the local league directed by the sponsors, Wilbert Kalbas and Calvin Meissner.

The Walther League is the International Youth organization of the Lutheran Church--Missouri Synod. It was organized in 1893 and named for the Synod's first president, Dr. C. F. W. Walther.

GOOD YARDAGE -- Benjy Dial, ENMU quarterback, rolls around right end for good yardage in Saturday's game with Southwestern Okla. which the Hounds lost 23-20 on a field goal in the last five seconds. Social Security Funds To Increase

The Social Security Trust Funds total nearly $22 billion, according to Hal Geldon, District Manager of the Amarillo social security district office. The funds are expected to increase by about $5 billion by the end of June 1968.

Social security taxes are placed in one of two trust funds. The assets of these funds can be used only for the payment of social security benefits and administrative expenses. The money in these funds not needed for current operation of the program is invested in interest-bearing U. S. Government bonds. The interest earned on these investments is added to the trust funds.

Geldon pointed out that this method of financing the social security system has proven to be a reliable one over the years. The program has always been self-supporting and financially sound.

No part of the social security program has received more careful consideration by Congress than the financing of the system, Geldon stated. It was and is the intent of Congress that social security remain self-supporting both for now and for the long-range future.

Methodists To Buy Residence

Texico - Farwell Methodists agreed at a called quarterly conference Tuesday night to purchase a residence now being constructed on Fifth Street from Charley Hromas and Jelly Vincent.

The new house, to be purchased at a price of $23,000, will become the parsonage for the church. The deal will be closed the first of the year.

This is the first step in a program now underway by local Methodists which has at its aim a new parsonage and new sanctuary for the church.

A committee on both these projects, plus one on finances for both, is at work, and about $80,000 will be involved in the overall program.

A special banquet at $25 per plate to raise funds to liquidate the approximately $6,000 remainder of the debt incurred five years ago when the present educational and fellowship hall units were built will be later this month.

First Grade Teachers Present Demonstration

A. D. McDonald, superintendent of the Texico school directed the PTA program Tuesday evening. He introduced Mrs. Leroy Faville and Mrs. Hazel Stewart, first grade teachers, who demonstrated techniques of teaching a child reading. The getting ready to read program takes almost six weeks and includes the teaching of phonics (one of the related subjects which plays a major role in preparing a child to read).

The teachers explained that the first grade program is part of a planned coordinated program, much of which carries over into the other elementary grades. Play periods are also a part of the overall program. One of the games the children particularly like is that of "Mrs. All", in the game the children take a letter of the alphabet and place it in front of the word "all". If the letter placed in such a position spells a word the child is allowed to put his name in the house and become a member of "Mrs. All's" family.

In addition to the demonstration, Kathy White and Sarah Walker, girls state representatives from Texico the past year told of their experiences at the sessions.

In closing McDonald and Mrs. Zelfa Younger each gave a short talk.

News From Your Traveling Library

New books have been arriving at a steady rate for the High Plains Library Bookmobile from the Texas State Library in Austin.

If any of you young readers are wanting to make some marionettes for the Yule Tide season that is fast approaching, come to see us the next time we are in your community and see the new book MARIONETTES, EASY TOMAKE, EASY TO USE by Edith Ackery.

KEEN TEENS, 101 WAYS TO MAKE MONEY by Stookie Allen tells industrious teen-agers how one boy went into business making chairs out of barrels; how a girl created a successful business making trout files; how another boy figured out a way to extract gold from sea water, and how many other teenagers are corraling the cash!

For the nurses-to-be TRUDY WELLS, R. N. PEDIATRIC NURSE will provide an insight of how rewarding the nursing profession can be.

Now for the adults who like a good "who done it," Gwendolyn Butler's THE MURDERING KIND should provide thrills a plenty. In this same caliber is THE MISTY CURTAIN by Lucy Cores.

Take a select handful of cats, dogs, roosters, snakes, and kids, kids, kids. Mix well, adding one slightly harried housewife with a delightful sense of the incongruous, and you have the stuff that laughs are made of. Peg Boland's DON'T PANIC MOTHER gives one a look at causes of panic for every mother, but which she sees for what they are: tempests in teapots and very funny ones at that.

Among the new shipment of books just received is a book which we have recently had several requests for -- THE SPY WHO CAME IN FROM THE COLD.

Several of our other new titles are: ACCENT ON APRIL by Betty Cavanna, THE DOG WHO CAME TO STAY, by Hal Borland, WUTHERING HEIGHTS by Emily Jane Bronte, THE RED BADGE OF COURAGE by Stephen Crane.

DRESS RIGHT... You Can't Afford Not To

JACK HOLT "The Clothier"

304 MAIN CLOVIS

JOTTIN'S By Jeanne

One friend says that the worst dressed gals in town are those who have daughters who wear the same size.

For years, I've looked for THE recipe to make dumplings—the kind that my mother and grandmother always made with a dab of this and a dab of that, and always turned out just right. But my dabs never did have the magic touch.

Finally, I found the recipe I'd been looking for -- not the same one exactly, but the results are perfect. I don't know when the Graham boys have enjoyed a dish so much.

This recipe came from Mrs. Conda Jones originally, and Ann Smith passed it on to me. I want to thank both Mrs. Jones and Ann.

CHICKEN DUMPLINGS

Cook chicken in salted water until tender. Remove meat from bones and save liquid and meat.

Dumpling mixture -- 1/2 cup cream, finish filling cup with boiling water. Mix in enough flour until dough is stiff. Put on board and work until stiff with flour. Divide dough and roll until very thin. Cut into strips and put into boiling chicken mixture. Sprinkle pepper over top. Cook until done.

Have you tried cleaning the desk drawers recently. If I don't have all day, I don't dare begin.

It's unbelievable how many unrelated objects I can collect in a short while. Each time, there are items I haven't used, which I still can't bear to throw away. So back they go until the next cleaning day.

With football season nearing the end, thoughts turn toward basketball and warmer pastimes.

That good-looking young man in The Tribune last week, David Anderson, has another set of Farwell grandparents which we failed to mention in the story-- the Johnie Williams.

was served with white cake squares, decorated with minute confection yellow booties. Table appointments were milk-glass. Presiding over the serving table were Mesdames Craft and Kittrell. Mrs. Kittrell also directed several games.

The honoree, her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Dollar and her daughter, Little Miss Delia Dollar, were presented with corages featuring tiny storks in foliage. Mrs. W. H. Dollar assisted her daughter-in-law with opening gifts.

On The Farm In Parmer County

By JOE VAN ZANDT
County Agent

During the past week we have had questions asked about the value of soybean straw as a livestock roughage. Since the soybean straw consists chiefly of course stems and pods with very few leaves it has a low feeding value.

Morrison's "Feeds and Feeding" book lists soybean straw as containing 1.1 per cent digestible protein and 34.1 per cent total digestible nutrients. Most good roughage feeds will contain around 50 per cent total digestible nutrients.

Since soybean straw is about 16 per cent below this standard of 50 per cent, it would be better to consider using another feed as roughage if one is available. As a comparison, Morrison lists milo stover, which is similar to our maize stubble or stalks, as containing 50.1 per cent digestible nutrients and 1.1 per cent digestible nutrients so maize stalks are a better roughage than soybean straw.

TREES, SHRUBS FOR WINDBREAKS

The trees and shrubs may be used for windbreaks, soil stabilization and Christmas tree plantings but cannot be used or resold for shade or ornamental purposes. All seedling orders will be packed in moss and moisture proof paper and shipped prepaid direct to the purchaser.

Orders for species shown on the application must be in multiples of 50.

Weather Lowers Quality Of Cotton

The rain and extremely heavy dews the past week lowered the quality of the cotton classed at the three South Plains Classing Offices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock Office.

The harvest was continuing to gain momentum until interrupted by the mid-week rains. Samples received at the three USDA Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa declined sharply on Friday and Saturday. Sample receipts at the three offices were averaging 15,000 daily early in the week.

The three USDA Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa classed 57,600 samples during the week ending Saturday, November 7th. This brought the season's total for the three offices to 164,800. At this date last year the three offices had classed 236,000 samples.

During the past week, approximately 60 per cent of the cotton classed at the Lubbock Classing Office were in the White grades with 30 per cent of all cotton classed being Middling or better. This was a sharp decline in the percentage of the higher grades from the previous week when 51 per cent of the cotton classed was Middling or better. During the past week, approximately 40 per cent of the cotton classed was in the Light Spotted and Spotted category with Middling Light Spotted making up 27 per cent of the total.

Average staple length declined slightly again the past week. The average length was 30.3 thirty-seconds of an inch compared to 30.4 thirty-seconds of an inch one week earlier. During the past week 40 per cent of all cotton classed at the Lubbock Office was 31/32 and longer.

Micronaire readings continued to decline slightly but were still very good. Eighty-eight per cent of all cotton "miked" in the Lubbock Office was in the desirable category of 3.5 and better.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported continued increased trading in new crop cotton. Prices for White grades ranged from CCC loan levels to 55 points over the loan. Light Spotted grades were still in greatest demand and were bringing from 20 to 130 points over CCC loan rates.

Prices quoted in the Lubbock market for the most predominant qualities were 28.75 for Middling 15/16, 29.35 for Middling 31/32 and 30.25 for Middling 1-1/2, 27.65 for Strict Low Middling 15/16, 28.10 for Strict Low Middling 31/32 and 28.70 for Strict Low Middling 1-1/2. In the Light Spotted qualities Middling Light Spotted 15/16 was quoted at 28.05, Middling Light Spotted 31/32 at 28.50, and Middling Light Spotted 1-1/2 at 29.05.

Prices to farmers for cottonseed ranged from $44 to $50 per ton, averaging $45.70.

Sewing Ability Just So-So?
This is the time of year women begin to think about fall and winter wardrobes - and often they try their hands at making some of their own clothes. If you are one of these amateur seamstresses, here are a few tips to help you sew the easy way.

A simple machine attachment, the seam guide, takes the guesswork out of stitching a full seam allowance. This gadget adjusts to any width, and it's a help in sewing an accurate, even seam.

Another trick that's good to know is how to gather by machine. This helps distribute fullness evenly.

If, for instance you want fullness at sleeves and waistline to be soft and comfortable, try using elastic thread. Wind the elastic thread on the bobbin by hand, then lengthen your machine stitches. The thread will gather while you stitch.

Here's a way to give your garment that "finished" look. If hem is slightly flared, machine gather the top edge of hem then pull underneath thread to ease fullness in top of hem to fit the dress. A quick slip stitch by hand will finish the job and give a neat smooth appearance on the right side.

House Plant Pests?
It doesn't always take an insecticide to rid your house plants of insects and other pests. Sometimes a bath will do the trick.

A washing with soapy water and a soft brush (or cloth) may be all that's needed to remove aphids, mealybugs, and scale insects from broad-leaved plants. Use 2 tablespoons of a mild detergent to a gallon of water.

A number of these insects may also be washed off the plants with a lukewarm spray of water. If only one or two plants are infected, try removing the aphids and mealybugs with tweezers. Or, use a small thin stick (a toothpick will do nicely) with a tuft of cotton on the end. Dip the stick in rubbing alcohol and dab up the insects.

Drunk: "Can I help it if you don't get promoted?"

"Thanks to our electric heating - we never worry about Shawndi kicking off the covers!"

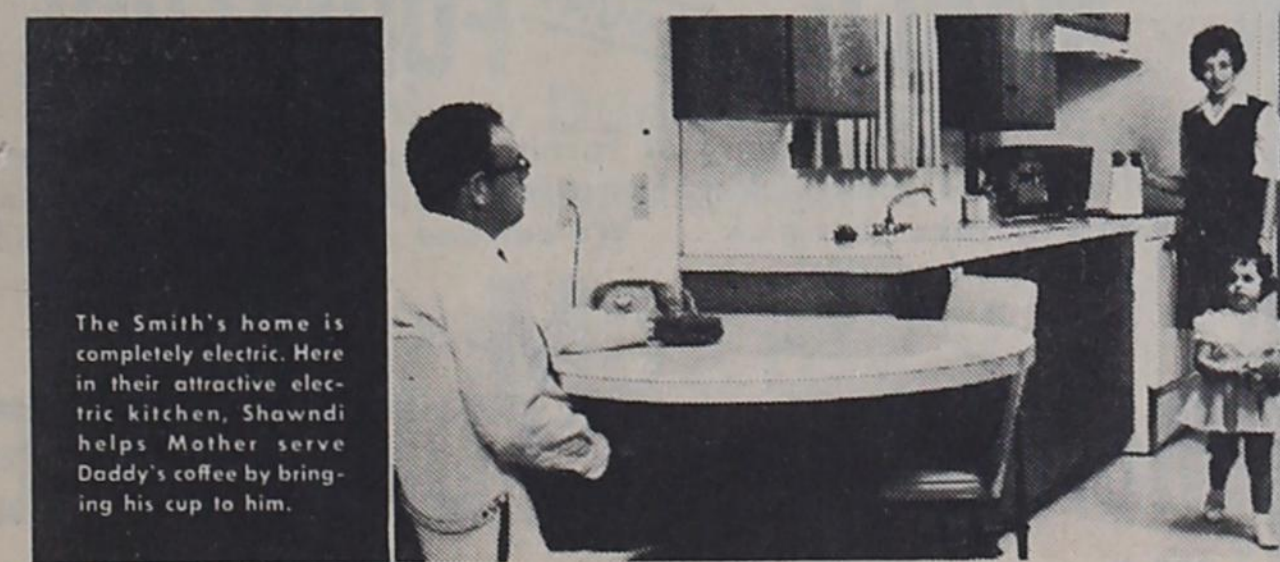

Individual room control gives the Danny Smith family of Earth, Texas comforting assurance of desired warmth!

Shawndi, like any other normal child, occasionally kicks off the covers when taking a nap or sleeping - thanks to the constant, controlled temperature, the Smiths know from experience that Shawndi will stay warm.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith specified ceiling cable electric heating when they built their Gold Medallion home because they could have a thermostat in each room to insure individual room control. The Smiths set the thermostat in their bedroom at 60 degrees; in Shawndi's room 70 degrees; with appropriate settings in other rooms. So even is the temperature and so accurate that Mrs. Smith's tropical fish (in the family room) have not required auxiliary heating. In short, the Smiths enjoy comfort for all, all through the house.

The Smith's home is completely electric. Here in their attractive electric kitchen, Shawndi helps Mother serve Daddy's coffee by bringing his cup to him.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

What has been accepted as fact for some time -- that the present one-price cotton program would come before Congress during its next session -- has now been made official by an announcement from Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman. The Secretary has said that the Agriculture Department will ask Congress for an extension of the law.

In his statement, which was sandwiched into a press conference discussion on domestic and international agriculture questions, Freeman said, however, that any new cotton legislation may have some modifications and that new legislation is not likely to be "precisely the same."

One-price cotton is being given credit for the recent upsurge in domestic consumption, and producer organizations across the belt have joined the textile industry in going on record as favoring an extension of the program. The law's chances for life beyond the present July 31, 1966 expiration date were enhanced somewhat in Georgia recently when President Johnson revealed that the administration favors a permanent one-price cotton program.

Not so favorable to prospects for cotton legislation, from the producer's standpoint, is the well known preference of Vice President-elect Hubert Humphrey for direct compensatory payments in farm programs. Growers, fearing the imposition of limitations, have consistently voiced strong opposition to such a feature in cotton legislation.

Probably the first inkling of what Secretary Freeman may have had reference to when he spoke of "modifications" will come from the Cotton Advisory Committee meeting scheduled in early December. In the announcement of this meeting the Department of Agriculture said there would be, among other things, a "discussion of program provisions, ways in which the program may be strengthened, including the need to obtain additional acreage reduction, the support price level, the rate of payment under the domestic allotment program, and other aspects."

Farm Labor

With Public Law 78 (the bracero law) expiring December 31 of this year, many area farmers have been asking whether they will be able to get any Mexican Nationals at all in 1965, and if so, how. At the moment, no one can give a specific answer to this important question. However, officials of the Department of Labor in Washington have indicated to the National Council of Agricultural Employers that workers from Mexico will be available under Public Law 414 if they are needed and if certain prerequisites are met. No indication was given as to the nature of these prior requirements except that wages and full utilization and recruitment of domestic workers were mentioned.

The National Council of Agricultural Employers is a newly formed national organization through which employers interested in foreign labor are working with the Department of Labor and the Immigration Service relative to the entrance of such workers.

Public Law 414 is cited as the "Immigration and Nationality Act," which is administered by the Department of State through the Immigration Service. There is a provision in this law under which foreign workers may be admitted for temporary employment provided the Secretary of Labor will certify to the Secretary of State and to the Attorney General that domestic workers who are able, willing and qualified are not available and that the admittance of such workers will not adversely affect the employment of domestic workers.

The Immigration Service has advised that so far as they are concerned plans have already been completed for admitting workers under Public Law 414 after December 31. They emphasize, however, that under current regulations the approval of the Department of Labor will be necessary before these plans can be carried out.

The directors and advisory committee of the National Council of Agricultural Employers now plan to meet in Washington D. C. on November 18 and 19, at which time plans will be laid for further work with the Labor Department and others in an effort to get a firm commitment on a supplemental labor program which would operate under reasonable requirements.

Occupational Outlooks Are Projected For Next Decade

Occupational outlooks for the years ahead have been projected by specialists with the U. S. Department of Labor.

Their findings should be of special interest to young people who must soon choose careers, and to their parents, says Mrs. Wanda B. Meyer, Extension specialist in home management. For the next decade -- at least -- greatest increases in demand will be for people in professional and technical fields -- in jobs that generally require at least a bachelor's degree from college.

Also needed will be more skilled craftsmen, clerical and sales workers, service workers, people for management jobs. There will be only moderate increases in semi-skilled jobs, few increases in unskilled jobs, a decline in farm jobs.

Outlooks in some specific fields, as indicated by Labor Department studies, are:

Engineers will continue to be in strong demand, with greatest gains in chemical, electrical and mechanical engineering. The strongest demand will be for those with advanced degrees for research and teaching jobs.

Physicians, dentists and nurses will be needed in growing numbers, along with more medical technologists, dietitians and therapists.

Teachers will find sharp increases in job openings, with demand heavy for science, mathematics and industrial-art teachers. There'll be a need for many more school counselors.

Also in demand will be mathematicians, economists, sociologists, historians, welfare workers, accountants, graduates in business administration and programmers for electronic-computer operations. Only moderate numbers of job opportunities are expected in the printing and machinist trades. The outlook in law is for keen competition. Musicians, actors, singers and dancers will find their fields overcrowded, according to the job projection.

Proper Dressing Brings Home Quality Venison

Quality venison depends primarily on how the deer is handled from the time of the kill until it is placed in the freezer. That's why field dressing a deer properly is so important, says Wallace Klusmann, Extension wildlife conservation specialist, Texas A&M University.

After making the kill, begin field dressing at once, using a strong, sharp knife with a guard and at least a four-inch blade. The first step, says Klusmann, is to stop the deer on its back and remove its external sex organs.

Beginning between the hind legs, cut down to the pelvic bone; then cut up the middle, through the breastbone and all the way to the jaw (unless the head is to be mounted). After cutting the windpipe and esophagus as far forward as possible, grasp both and pull downward to free the insides to the mid-section.

To free the entrails from the ribs, roll the carcass on its side and cut the thin layer of muscle (diaphragm) down to the backbone. Then turn the deer over and do the same on the other side, the specialist points out. Cut around the vent so the entire visceral mass can be removed without severing any part; then, using both hands, pull the entire entrails out.

The next step is to prop up the deer's rump to spread the back legs, cut through the seam in the middle of the pelvis and finish cleaning the visceral cavity.

To allow remaining blood to drain from the body cavity, hang the deer by the head or antlers from a nearby tree for about 20 minutes. If no tree is near, turn the deer upside down on a clean place to drain, advises Klusmann.

Skinning can be begun while the deer is draining. However, if the head is to be mounted, hang the carcass by the hind legs to skin. The skin comes off most easily while the deer is still warm, explains the specialist, so it is best to skin the animal within two hours after the kill.

To remove the skin, cut down the inside of each leg to the deer's middle. Then cut the skin all the way around the neck, grasp with both hands at the back of the head and pull down. Usually the skin will come off down to the front legs. Use a knife to work the skin off the legs and other areas where it sticks tightly to the meat.

If the specimen is to be mounted, do not make any cuts in the skin around the neck or head but rather cut around the shoulders when removing the skin. Allow the skin to remain intact with the head, says Klusmann, and salt or freeze until delivered to the taxidermist.

Back at camp, hang the carcass in a tree by the hind legs for four or five hours. This will allow all the tiny blood vessels to drain. Wrap the carcass in a sheet, cheese cloth or sack made for this purpose, and always remember to keep the carcass in the shade.

After it has cooled, cut the carcass in half or quarters and wrap to take home. It is wise to keep the hide, head, antlers, legs and tag until the meat is placed in a freezer or commercial locker, advises Klusmann.

If commercial processing is desired, it is only necessary to remove the entrails and to allow proper drainage of blood from the body cavity.

Gardens Offer Chores As Winter Draws Near

By A. F. DeWorth
Professor of Floriculture
Texas A&M University

In regions that experience only mild winters such as those along the Gulf Coast, gardeners are not always as winter conscious as they should be, especially during November.

In these areas, however, occasional hard winters may develop and kill unprotected or neglected plants. Such winters have provided a certain amount of knowledge about the hardness of semi-hardy or tender plants that have been introduced into gardens.

When a hard ruinous frost occurs, it does not descend suddenly and without warning. Usually there will be several nights of light frost that may nip the soft growth on plants without killing them before the real damaging freeze arises. This can be a real help to the gardener in many ways.

In addition to providing some notice of the impending danger, light frosts also enable the gardener to locate where more severe frosts will take their toll. White patches of light frost on the lawn and the tops of plants indicate where severe frost damage and plant loss may occur.

Frosts often occur in the Gulf Coast areas as early as November 15, so gardeners still have time to make preparations for the welfare of plants that may be severely damaged by extremely cold weather.

The tender growth on plants should be hardened off as soon as possible and where necessary, providing the protection they may require. This can be done by reducing watering and feeding practices, but care must be taken to see that some of these precautions are not overdone.

Last summer's drought makes it imperative that the watering of plants during this period be studied carefully. Even in normal years it is usually a mistake to assume that winter rains will take care of all the water requirements of the garden.

While most garden plants will require less water in November than in the summer or early fall, they can dry out, especially after a dry summer similar to the one experienced this year. This situation most often occurs when plantings prevail under roof overhangs or under trees that cast heavy shade.

Spring flowering bulbs should be planted as soon as possible, if not already done. Shrubs and trees that need moving in the garden should also be transplanted at this time.

Move container plants into protected areas on the terrace or patio, or place them behind windbreaks or close to buildings if they are exposed to the sweep of prevailing winds.

Now is also a good time to move or plant out new broad-leaf evergreens such as azaleas.

When subtropical fruits such as citrus trees are garden subjects, they should be protected by constructing shelters for young trees and, in exposed areas, even the older ones. Spraying with antidesiccants has also proved to be a good precaution. If such plants have not yet been sprayed for scale insect control, this should be done as soon as possible.

Roses also continue to grow well through the winter in Gulf Coast locations. It is often a good practice to reduce and finally discontinue watering so that dormancy will begin to take place. In many instances, however, the plants will not become dormant even after watering has been discontinued completely or when winter rainfall is high. When this occurs, they should be pruned in January regardless of growth conditions prevailing at that time.

Hydrangeas should receive attention in November as well. Head back at least half of the year's growth, except for the tips of branches that did not flower this year, since they may produce flowers next season. Then remove some of the inside branches to allow for next season's growth.

Occupational outlooks for the next decade indicate greatest increases in demand will be for people in professional and technical fields, in jobs that generally require at least a bachelor's degree from college, reminds Mrs. Wanda B. Meyer, Extension home management specialist. Also needed will be more skilled craftsmen, clerical and sales workers, service workers and people for management jobs. These job projections come from the U. S. Department of Labor.

Selections of fresh vegetables are improving. They afford possibilities for eye-appealing salads and nutrition-rich dishes, says Mrs. Gwen Clyatt of the Extension Service.

At most stores, the consumer marketing specialist says, there's variety in tender, young cooking greens -- including collards, mustard and turnips and greens. Good offerings of broccoli, cauliflower, eggplant, celery, sweet potatoes and lettuce are to be found in most markets.

Cabbage prices remain relatively high. Don't overlook the waxed rutabagas and dry onions now on the market, the specialist says.

Retailers continue to offer "specials" on a steady supply of high quality beef. With cooler weather bringing a greater demand for pot roasts and stews, some stores feature the quick-cooking cuts, especially steaks and chops. Since cow slaughter remains high, there are good buys on ground beef.

Frying chicken remains at a low price level, with large supplies expected for the remainder of the year. Turkey, too, continues to be a good value, with quality high.

Pork values include smoked hams and picnics, half or whole pork loin roasts, shoulder roasts, shoulder roasts and steaks and pork liver.

More Texas grapefruit joins that from Florida to make the supply greater. Flavor of the fruit is improving, too. Fresh apples of several varieties highlight fruit counters. There are all sizes. Other good fruit choices are grapes, pears, and bananas.

Eradicate Lice Now With Suitable Controls

Lice are busy with their annual invasion of Texas livestock and will take a sizable chunk of producers' profits again this year unless controlled.

These pests appear in greatest numbers during fall and winter, and losses can be reduced materially if control measures are taken now, says Weldon Newton, associate Extension entomologist, Texas A&M University.

Animals infested with the parasites usually are restless, eat less, do not have good feed conversion and have a rough, coarse appearance.

Sprays recommended for controlling lice on beef and nonlactating dairy animals include Clodrin, coumaphos (Co-Ral), methoxychlor, malathion, dioxathion (Delnav), Lindane, Ruelene, carbaryl (Sevin), ronnel (Korlan) and toxaphene.

For dairy animals, Newton recommends these formulations: Clodrin, pyrethrin and rotenone.

Irrigation induced by lice on sheep and goats causes the animals to rub or bite themselves. Thus wool or mohair may be pulled out or become matted or low in grade.

A thorough spraying, immersing or dusting is suggested for ridding sheep and goats of these pests. Coumaphos (Co-Ral), DDT, dioxathion (Delnav), toxaphene, Diazinon, malathion and ronnel (Korlan) are effective controls, says Newton, but should not be used on milk goats. Lindane, as well as methoxychlor, is specified for use on milk goats.

The blood-sucking lice occurring on swine can be controlled by such insecticides as coumaphos (Co-Ral), DDT, dioxathion (Delnav), malathion, lindane, ronnel (Korlan), methoxychlor and toxaphene.

To control these tiny parasites on horses, the entomologist suggests chlordane, coumaphos (Co-Ral), dioxathion (Delnav) and toxaphene.

Poultry are also attacked by several species of lice that irritate the birds and cause weight loss, reduced egg production, decreased quality of market birds and even death. Coumaphos (Co-Ral), malathion, carbaryl (Sevin) and nicotine sulfate all rate as good controls.

In using insecticide formulations, Newton stresses the importance of following the manufacturer's recommendations and observing all safety restrictions.

More detailed information on the control of lice and other external parasites is found in Extension publication, MP-691, "Texas Guide for Controlling External Parasites of Livestock and Poultry," available at the local county agent's office.

The five-man Texas Farm-City Week Committee have asked mayors of 850 Texas towns and cities to proclaim the week locally and to appoint committees to work on projects to help carry out the theme of Farm - City Week, November 20-26, "Partners in progress." A speakers bureau has organized and local county agents and soil conservation districts will participate in local planning. Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde, is chairman of the committee in Texas. Other members are Calvin Pigg, Renner; John G. McHaney, College Station; Dan Sparks, Texarkana and James E. (Monk) Vance, Fort Worth.

Frost can mean trouble for livestock producers. Johnsongrass and sorghums often develop a high prussic acid content after a killing frost and if grazed by livestock can cause animal losses, warns, A. M. Meekma, Extension dairy specialist. He suggests a visit with the county agent or local veterinarian for detailed information on grazing, harvesting and storing of frost-wilted plants.

Consumers who shop for belts after January 1 will receive more protection in the form of additional labeling, says Lynn Parks, Extension consumer education specialist. Labels must then indicate, as the case may be, if they are "genuine cowhide," "split leather," "alligator" or whatever materials are used in the article of clothing.

Parmer Ag Census Being Organized

Faye Marie Hall of Dimmitt, Texas, has been named a crew leader for the 1964 Census of Agriculture, Percy R. Millard, director of the regional office of the U. S. Bureau of the Census at Dallas, announced today. The new crew leader is one of about 1,825 persons throughout the U. S. to receive this appointment.

The new crew leader will supervise a team of census enumerators who will visit all farms and ranches in Parmer county to collect official census questionnaires from farm operators. Enumeration of all farms in the county will take place in November and early December.

The census will be taken in the following way: Shortly after November 5, the Bureau of the Census, an agency of the U. S. Department of Commerce, will mail census questionnaires to all rural boxholders. Those required to fill out the forms should do so and hold the questionnaires until a census enumerator comes to collect them. At that time, the enumerator will help answer any questions that may have proved troublesome.

The crew leader is a key person in conducting a Census of Agriculture. He recruits and trains the enumerators, schedules their work, reviews the accuracy of completed forms, and conducts difficult interviews.

The Census of Agriculture is taken every five years in years ending in "4" and "9" to gather information on the nation's agricultural resources and production. Such information is vital in making decisions affecting many segments of the U. S. economy. Data gathered include the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock inventories,

Field Conditions Influence Cotton Stripper Efficiency

Three factors will determine the efficiency of your cotton stripping operation says Bev Reeves, Extension Cotton Mechanization Specialist. These are:

1. Field conditions at harvest time;
2. Machine characteristics and adjustments; and
3. Skill of the operator.

Very important is field conditions at harvest. In damp weather, performance of a cotton stripper will be less efficient than under dry conditions. Extensive testing has shown best cotton stripper performance is obtained when humidity is below 60%.

So, for better grades and cleaner fields delay harvesting until the relative humidity is 60% or less at boll height in the field to be harvested. This measurement can be conveniently made with a dial-type hydrometer -- a relative humidity measuring instrument. Dial hydrometers are available and information on farm equipment and improvements and income and some production expenditures.

The information will be published starting in 1965 for counties, States, and the nation.

from hardware stores or instrument houses for approximately twenty dollars, points out Reeves.

Measuring relative humidity and using this measurement as a guide for scheduling harvesting operations is important. However, also of importance, is condition of the cotton stalk. Strippers are designed to handle comparatively large volumes of dry trash efficiently. But a small amount of green leaves and other green trash can cause a significant reduction in the grade of stripped cotton. For this reason, cotton harvested with a stripper prior to frost should be treated with a chemical desiccant to kill the leaves.

After the desiccant application, delay harvesting for a week or ten days, recommends Reeves. This will allow leaves and leaf stems to become brittle. Harvest should not be delayed until the main stalk and branches are dead, as this will cause more bark to be accumulated with the cotton, which can cause a reduction in grade.

Harvesting after frost should be delayed until frost-killed leaves and stems are brittle or crisp. Here again, harvesting should be done while the main stalk still has enough sap in it to be limber. Brittle stalks and branches mean more bark in the cotton, but leathery leaves and limber leaf stems mean extra moisture in the harvested cotton which can cause sweating during storage prior to ginning.

Careful hunters know the safety rules but all hunters need to take the time to review them.
