City Hall and Other Items To Be Studied

R. C. D. Chairman Issues Call to People for Tuesday Night

Every citizen of the city was addressed Friday afternoon by Shins Phillips, chairman of the board of city development, in calling a mass meeting for Tuesday evening in the district courtroom for the purpose of discussing plans for the construction of a city hall and auditorium and central fire station.

"The board of city development, a body of nine provided for in the city charter, after careful and thorough study of every angle of the proposition is recommending that we build a city hall, auditorium with seating capacity of approximately 1,200 and a central fire station," said Mr. Phillips.

"We are urging the people to join hands in support of this project only after careful consideration of the city records, which disclose to us that the improvements can be made without raising either the tax rate or property valuation," he declared.

Mr. Phillips stressed that the project was being brought to the attention of the people at this particular time because it was the opinion of the board that the construction would do much toward solving the unemployment situation.

He announced the board of city development, in recommending the project to the board of city commissioners, had stipulated that only local skilled and unskilled labor should be used and that minimum wages for unskilled labor be 40 cents an hour and for skilled labor one dollar per hour.

HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

Fellow tells us—he's been in town but two months—that there are more pessimists here, with less cause for pessimism than any town in Texas.

Reckon he's right? Hops not. But, we must admit that there are hereabouts too many folks who naturally are dis-actively inclined—they fairly glow over anything smacking of ill fortune. You need a sledge hammer, figuratively speaking, to scrap them into anything resembling a smile.

Of course business is not what it was in Big Spring a year, or two or three years ago. But, then Big Spring had a boom and those things never last for long. In addition our boom came just before the nation-wide retrenchment in all lines of business and industry. That perhaps makes conditions here more markedly different than they otherwise would be.

But this business of worrying and talking about "hard times" is about the most worthless and harmful practice there is. The idea is, it seems to us, to do something about it.

The town that shows nerve instead of accepting what we term "hard times" without a struggle is the one that is sure enough doomed.

Big Spring is not that sort of a town. There may be some who feel that if certain things do not happen right away bats and owls will be roosting in most all the business buildings and residences before long. But they are in the minority.

The town that bounces higher the further down she is shoved for a time in the sort of town that gets along.

Some of our people seem to feel that if the Texas & Pacific Northern railroad should be balanced not be built Big Spring's fate would be forever decided.

The country roundabout has several revenue agencies in the nation. The natural resources are not fully developed. We need to acquire and exercise faith and vision—look ahead of temporary incapacity in all in introducing in farming and pinning our faith not only upon the resources of the country, but more strongly upon the spirit of the people, striving forward to greater things for ourselves and life else.

In this connection we'd like to point out something that can be practiced more that helps a town a lot. Filling station men, cafe employees, hotel and tourist camp employees, barbers, and others who in the nature of their business meet visitors—tourists—can be extending courteous treatment to these people being their and their friends back to town, again and again.

Dependence upon the mosquito for the completion of the life cycle of the malaria micro-organism was demonstrated by Sir Ronald Ross in 1895. In short order there followed other demonstrations to affirm beyond any possible doubt, the transmission of malaria by mosquitoes.

EXTRA

Vol. 1, No. 1.

TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1931

ONE PAGE—FREE

HUMBLY

It's funny how many of us will work like dogs all day, questioning salesmen's propositions, only to pick up any old gas or oil on the way home from the office. The whole world is like that about some things.

You'd look pretty sharp at your baby's doctor, and think twice about the medicines you bought. You'd cool off in a hurry if anyone tried to sell milk at your house, unless you knew who was putting it out—and how.

Even the best of engines is a mighty sensitive apparatus unless it's treated kindly. There are plenty of places where your motor will get the proper kind of attention. And, if you want a good number, look around for 997. There's a company behind this new oil that makes its products toe right up to the claims made about 'em. That's fair enough, isn't it?

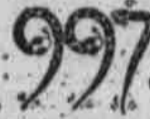

Here's a yarn come all the way from El Paso. It's pretty "far south," too, but that's not our fault. Two Fords were standing at a Texas filling station, getting their 997. The Ford from North Carolina said to the Ford from South Carolina: "Well, here's how." "And how," says the Ford from South Carolina.

This is the first time we ever knew that the Ford from South Carolina ever did have anything to say for himself, or about anything.

However, he never had found 997 in South Carolina—or in North Carolina, for that matter.

These gentlemen who write on my right have to stiek pretty tight to the awful facts of life. On the other hand, i. e., the left hand, as you look at this old sheet, I am allowed to get loose and expose my views. So, if you get tired of the dry fodder they feed, you keep these carefully chosen remarks in mind.

Back in 1917 we (that's me) had the pleasure of making frequent trips by automobile from McAllen to Sam Fordyce to Rio Grande City to Roma to Salineno and points west. This was in the summer. Unlike the sailing ship, everything was 'bke just so long as we had the wind coming at us. But with a tail wind our buggy built up a fine fever in its insides. We (I) had to stop and "blow" her on the level as well as on the hills. We had to put new water in every few miles, and there wasn't any water.

Of course, the car was a 1917 model, but I still claim that there never was, and never will be, another like it.

It was a good number.

Still, and just the same, if I had only had some of this 997, think what a comfort it would have been.

Taxi Driver says "Bueno"

It was a Houston taxi driver. And because he's a good driver and keeps his cab spick and span, he does a 12-hour-a-day business. He got some 997 Motor Oil a little in advance of the public, because Humble officials wanted to see what an experienced driver would say about the way 997 stands up under hard use. And he rubbed between his fingers some clear-looking oil from his crankcase gauge and said only one word—"Bueno."

997 HITS TEXAS TODAY

New-type, Humble-developed Motor Oil Will Sweep Lone Star State

Miss Texas 1931 model is going to be all for Motor Oil Number 997. Why? Well, the ladies these days are motor-wise about automobiles. They drive well and care for their cars equally well. They know values, too, and no motor-oil shopper alive can find better value than Humble's 997.

Humble Oil Company Claims "997 Motor Oil" a Radical Lubrication Advance

1,000 Humble Dealers Handling Oil Say, "It's a Good Number"—Public Will Say Same Thing

Do You Believe in Numerology?

Humble Refinery reporter who got exclusive story on 997.

Humble Refinery, May 1—A story so astonishing came out of the Humble Refinery here today that even hard-boiled reporters were amazed. In an effort to discover the meaning back of the mysterious number 997, your correspondent interviewed the Development Department of the Humble Company. Well, here is the story.

There are plenty of numbers, but this number is the biggest scoop I ever covered. I might tell you folks right now that I do believe in numbers. I am not technical, being a news hound, and naturally was full of questions. My first question was: "How come 997?"

It seems that there's a certain part of crude oil that is particularly adapted to make a tough viscous oil that heat and pressure has little effect upon. No one before was able to get at this heartcut without retaining light parts that make you use more oil in your motor. 997 attains a new high in boiling points, 997° Fahrenheit, guaranteeing a protection heretofore unattainable against heat and loss.

Then these technical birds went on to tell me that many motor oils are made up of the heavy carbon-forming part of the crude. This carbon deposits on the pistons and valves, and plays havoc with the motor. But 997 is 99.7% carbon-free, a most astounding fact.

Next, I went into the refinery, the realm of the molecule jugglers. Say, folks, I wish you could have been with me. First they took me to a gigantic vacuum flash coil, (whatever that may be). This monster of science seemed to be swimming in flames of white hot intensity, and I almost heard it rumbling. "It's a good number" above the roar of fire and hissing steam. When I saw the terrific heat, plus a vacuum that could turn you or me inside out, I knew that these boys had actually hand-picked those tough viscous molecules that go to make up 997. Believe me, that 997 Oil must be as tough as forged steel. I'd just like to extend a challenge to any engine under the sun to break this baby down. I wish you could have seen them make 997, then you'd believe in numbers, too.

Houston, Texas, May 1 (Special Dispatch)—A lot of good things have started in Texas, and here comes another. This time it's a motor oil. But not just an ordinary motor oil, say its makers. A motor oil made by a startling new process, an entirely different type of motor oil.

Those high-hat Rolls Royces, Minervas, and Hispanos over in Europe never enjoyed any such cooling, pep-packing beverage as this 997. For that's the name of Humble's new motor oil, on sale by a thousand dealers throughout the state today.

There's no secret about why this oil is a better lubricant, the Humble people say. It's just that they have turned out an oilier oil. And when you use an oilier oil you get a slicker running car. That's one reason 997 is a "good number."

Another reason is that 997 really stands for something as a number. In an exclusive interview with the Humble Announcer, published to the left, our reporter tells why.

Gas Station Operators Optimistic About "997"

Claim New Motor Oil Beats Field

Over one thousand gas station managers, all over Texas are unanimous in their enthusiasm over 997, Humble's new motor oil. As one man put it, "I became a Humble dealer because I knew they would never let me down on a product. Now they come along with a lubricant that beats the field coming and going." Who wouldn't be well pleased by that?

So 1,000 Texans are due for better business, starting today, and who'll say that that isn't good news about a good number?

"ACTUAL DIFFERENCE," ALL TEXAS PRODUCT says Automotive Engineer Developed Locally by Local Men

Engineer H. H. Meier Tells How He Tested 997.

Mr. H. H. Meier—the man who had charge of the development of 997.

"Laboratory tests tell us a lot," said Mr. Meier. "We couldn't get along without them. But, in the last analysis, practical performance tests in the crankcase of a car is the only final way to prove a motor oil. So I drained my crankcase free of old oil, and filled up with the prescribed amount of 997—6 quarts, in my case. "Of course, I knew from our dynamometer tests in the laboratory that this new Humble Oil should give splendid results.

"But the amazing thing to me was that I, as a critical engineer, got the surprise of my life when I used the new 997. I had expected an appreciable difference in the operation of the motor—more power—more smoothness. But nothing like what I felt. I could hardly believe I was driving my own car.

"All in all, I think we have created, here at Humble, one of the most remarkable Motor Oils ever made. I'm so sure everybody's going to buy it that I'm sure I could make a fortune as a Humble dealer instead of just being a humble engineer."

Produced by Texas wells, manufactured at a Texas refinery, and handled throughout by Texans is the record of 997. Sometimes we may overdo this business of local pride, but when we have something good, and that thing 100% Texan, why not admit it, ask Humble Oil Company officials: We're proud of it, not ashamed of it, and it's good for a man to feel a worthy pride in his accomplishments, Humble employees and dealers were told at a special meeting last week.

When most men are sitting up nights, figuring out ways and means to meet the day's competition, it is a great satisfaction to know that you have developed a product which will bring more business to Texas.

We think the public will get a kick out of 997's all-Texas record, too. Particularly when they've tried this new oilier oil and found it does more but costs no more.

MOTOR COP SAYS: "O. K."

Our inquiring reporter has a lot of nerve and it took all he had to tackle Officer P. Q. F. It seems that the two gentlemen had met before in some sort of deal over a ticket on the side of the State Road.

However, this time the reporter was on foot. "Hello!" said O'F. "E-you back?" "Back is right," said the reporter, "I want to ask you about that new 997 Humble I gave you to test. Is it any good?"

"It's O. K.," he said. "If we cops don't have the right oil, there's nothing to do but let them get away. 997 is one number I've taken down for good. And it's going to help me take down a lot of other numbers. Sure and don't be lettin' yourself be one of 'em!"

Rafael Sabatini Personal Sketch By Dale Warren

Although more than twenty of his novels had preceded him, Rafael Sabatini never saw the Status of Liberty until just a few months ago.

Liverpool and London have claimed him for the greater part of his life, despite his Italian birth and early schooling in Portugal and Switzerland. As with Joseph Conrad, English is his adopted tongue. He did not learn it until after he was able to speak five other languages with equal fluency.

You might readily take him for a Britisher if you did not happen to be dining with him in New York City in an Italian restaurant in the city. But when he praises the ravioli or orders a biscuit tart, there is not a doubt in the world about his nationality.

He likes America because the veil is better than it is in England and because the taxis are tame in comparison with their Paris equivalents. Temperate himself, he abhors the very idea of prohibition. Admitting that he was influenced by the early work of Mary Johnston, he holds no brief for the dreary romances of Sir Walter Scott. He is one of the few writers who never penned an early novel of adolescence, nor followed any passing fad or fancy.

Now that he is a best-seller on his own merits, his face lights up with an ironic smile when he recalls the day he sold a novel outright for sixty pounds, serial rights and all.

Fame and fortune beckoned him from the beginning but coquettishly eluded him until "Scaramouche" was finally launched by the seventh publisher, who had a part at the manuscript. He refers to it as his "Clambus." He discovered America for me. Although "The Tavern Knight," now released, is the first novel that he acknowledges a forgotten and out-of-print volume, "The Lovers of Yvonne," bears an earlier publication date.

"The King's Minion," published last fall, marks him more as an historical novelist and less of a romantic yarn-spinner.

"I have employed the garb of fiction," he says, "to clothe the substance of history." In his new book "Captain Blood Returns" one of his favorite characters makes his long-awaited reappearance. Now in command of the "Arabella" which brings terror to the Spanish Main, he is again the most dazzling of pirates—elegant, swashbuckling, ready of wit, tongue, and sword, arrayed in black and silver, with a claret plume to his hat and a disarming Irish twinkle in his cold, blue eye.

Rafael Sabatini is gracious yet restrained in manner and there is a quiet force about him that commands attention. Of medium height and relatively thick-set, his movements are graceful and his features enigmatical. Agile in conversation, he requires neither paper nor portable illumination to tell you a good story.

He looked directly at you out of his shining hazel eyes and at that moment one of the twelve Apostles were to walk in at the door.

EL CENTRO, Cal., (AP)—Damage to alfalfa and other crops by ducks is rampant in Imperial County. Farmers to order the secretary manager, Scott B. Episcopal Minister Files Answer to Wife's Petition for Divorce

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 1 (UP).—Stating that he stands where his church stands in regarding self control as the only Christian standard of life control, and that he has tried to live by such code for the past three years, the Very Rev. Israel H. Noe, dean of St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral here, had on file today his answer to a divorce petition sought by Mrs. Noe early this year.

"I desire to state that I have come to this conviction," the reply read, "through a slow and steady growth in spiritual development and thought."

The dean, pastor of one of the largest churches in the city and a prominent churchman in the south, was named defendant in a divorce petition signed by Mrs. Noe February 9.

His answer says he loves his wife and his children and that divorce is abhorrent to him.

He recalls that he and Mrs. Noe are only living under the same roof and eating at the same table.

The divorce plea, which shocked church members and was a surprise to friends of the dean and his wife, states that since October 1927, the dean has grown cold and aloof, and had reached such a state of spiritual perfection that he no longer cares for things of the flesh.

The Noes have two children, Eugenia, 5, and Peggy, 7. Another daughter, Ellen, 18, died a month ago, and a fourth child, a boy, died at childbirth.

The couple married in 1918. The clergyman in his answer to the divorce petition said that as a result of a serious illness, an operation was performed on Mrs. Noe although she did not wish it performed because of her desire to have a son.

"The result of this operation proved the respondent was wise in his decision," Noe's statement said.

The dean objects to his wife's statement he had "achieved spiritual perfection," saying "I know I am only a miserable sinner."

FEELS MORE FIT FOR WORK

North Carolina Man Tells How Black-Draught Helps When His Food Disagrees.

"Black-Draught has been the family medicine in our home for years, and we have never found anything else that could take its place," says Mr. Claude Dockery, of Marble, N. C.

"When I was a small boy, my mother gave it to me, for colds and upset stomach. Whenever I ate too much, or complained of a pain in my stomach, mother began treatment with a dose of Black-Draught. I grew up, thinking it was the best medicine on earth, for, as children, we did not mind taking it."

"Now, whenever I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, I take several small doses of Black-Draught."

"My health is very good, and I never have to take much medicine. Sometimes I get a little 'off' from eating something that disagrees with me—then I take Black-Draught. In a day or so, I am all right again. After taking Black-Draught, the system is freed from poisons, and a man feels more fit for work. It is fine for headache and biliousness."

Santa Fe Territory Expects Large Yield Of Wheat This Year

TOPEKA, Kansas, May 1 (UP).—Only a wet harvest season or a sudden invasion of pests can keep territory served by the Santa Fe railroad from having one of the largest wheat crops this year in history, according to J. F. Jarrell, head of the agriculture department of this road.

According to Jarrell, winter wheat states have prospect of harvesting 428,500,000 bushels, against 385,600,000 a year ago and a 5-year average of 343,349,000 bushels.

Kansas heads the list of wheat producing states with an estimated crop of 177,000,000 bushels. Average in this state for the last five years has been 121,000,000 bushels.

Nebraska is second with an estimated crop of 58,000,000 bushels. The five year average is 52,456,000 bushels.

Oklahoma, Texas, Illinois, Colorado, California, Iowa, New Mexico and Arizona will probably go ahead of the five year average.

Jarrell's report said: "Crop conditions in Oklahoma and Texas put them especially far ahead in the estimated production."

CRUMBLING SCAFFOLD Causes Hurts To Six

BEAUMONT, May 1 (UP).—Six men were injured, two seriously, when a scaffold collapsed here today and plunged them 70 feet to the ground in a shower of brick and timber.

The accident occurred at the old Kyle theater building which was being razed. Contractors said overloading caused the crash.

Cecil Dillon, 21, suffered a fractured skull, broken arm, and probable internal injuries. Physicians fear he will die.

Arthur Barrow, 29, escaped serious injury by grabbing a timber protruding from the wall on his downward flight, and swung 40 feet above the ground as construction materials rained about him.
