Sinful?

By JIMMY R. ALLEN

DR. ALBERT C. OUTLER, eminent ecumenist, attacked the existence of denominations of churches in a speech in Dallas at the first annual assembly of the Texas Conference of Churches.

A Dallas newspaper quoted him as saying, "Denominationalism is no longer a productive form of Christian existence, or racism, or class conflict, or self-maintained elites of any sort."

All these are pollutants of the human spirit and must be discarded along with sulfonated hydrocarbons and raw sewage."

WITH DUE ALLOWANCE to the dramatic rhetoric of ministerial over-statement, the charge raises a serious issue. Are denominations of churches sinful?

Few persons want to return to the harsh, bitter sectarianism which once characterized relationships between groups of churches. Denominational loyalty which limits one's concept of God to that of some kind of tribal deity certainly is sinful. It "misses the mark."

DENOMINATIONAL STRUCTURES also become sinful when they hinder the spirit of God and his work, just as family, business or ecumenical structure may. But denominations may also become channels of Christian service.

Sin is not inherent in denominations. Harsh judgmentalism and pygmy concepts of God also are founded on many other factors.

IT IS IRONIC to watch the same type of harsh attitudes once common to sectarian groups now used on a more "sophisticated" level by those who heap scorn on denominational differences in the name of unity.

Comparing denominational loyalties to raw sewage polluting the human spirit is a tragic misstatement of the case.

CHRISTIANS SHARING a similar basic understanding of the truth of Christ's revelation, the place of biblical authority, the level of emotional content in worship, and the urgency of the message of Christ find in a normal expression of their faith in joining like-minded persons in their efforts for service.

Denominational structures do not create spiritual energy; they reflect it. Spiritual energy comes from the work of the spirit of God in human lives.

THE BASIC GROUPING founded by Jesus was the local fellowship.

Precisely for that reason, groups showing the greatest spiritual vitality, even in this increasingly secularized age, are those profoundly committed to doing the work of God on a local level, rather than concentrating their energies on creating a profile of uniformity.

UNITY, WITHOUT DOUBT, is a source of strength in any movement. However, unity is an inward bent of mind and spirit which allows Christian groups to cooperate, not a uniformity of structure.

Diversity of denominations has a valid element of strength to offer. Denominations, therefore, are not inherently sinful.

However, every man-made channel of service must be kept under constant examination to make sure it remains sensitive to what God is doing in His world.

"Have you seen a lot of people dressed like us march past here?"

A Boy Died

The Doctor's report called it a blood clot of the brain, but rumor, backed by several local teen-agers who are "in the know," has it that the boy maintained a massive dose of "speed" methedrine last Friday night.

HE WAS A NEWCOMER to our town. Only last September he transferred to the local high school as a senior.

During his short stay he quickly earned a reputation as a bright, diligent student. He also held down a part-time job after school and on weekends, and his boss speaks very highly of him.

I LAST SAW the boy in church two Sundays ago with his mother and young sister.

WHEN HE WAS ADMITTED to the intensive care unit at the hospital, I was called immediately.

I've spent many hours with his family these past few days, listening to their tearful recollections of the good times they all had shared, searching with them for some meaning in this unexpected tragedy, and praying with them for their boy's recovery.

Now I can only pray that they will find the strength to accept his untimely death.

ACCORDING TO THE DOCTOR the methedrine overdose caused the boy's blood pressure to soar violently, doing irreparable damage to the brain.

He has seen it before, he says, and he expects he will see it again.

THE BOY WILL BE BURIED in his old hometown in a nearby state; I will officiate at a memorial service for his friends here.

Like most of the members of my generation I find it difficult to understand the kind of emptiness and confusion that drives young people to experiment with dangerous drugs.

HOW CAN I EXPLAIN to my young listeners that our bodies are the gift of God and that we must protect them and use them well?

And how can I comfort the boy's grieving family as they return to a life that will be forever marked by the great void once filled by a bright, vibrant young man?

WHY DID THE BOY turn to drugs? We'll never know.

But we do know that his death was unnecessary, that we could have prevented it if we had acted in time.

How many others have to die unnecessarily before each of us get personally involved in trying to stop this dangerous experimentation with drugs?

A BOY DIED this afternoon, and we need not ask who it affects. It touches all of us, and our own youngsters.

Whose boy-or girl- will die tomorrow?

A WOMAN'S VIEW

God Can Hear

By PEARL BRANDON

ONCE I HEARD of a man who was lost in the Sahara desert. As he lay tormented, trying to pray, he seemed to identify with the sufferings of the world.

He thought of all the prayers going up to God from human hearts everywhere... from millions of sick beds... from slums and ghettos... from the halt and the blind... from youth and old age... and the pitiful cry of the very young.

Surely such a clamor rising from suffering humanity must be a terrible din in the ears of the Lord.

"HOW CAN HE hear only one voice? Can God hear me when I pray?" agonized the man.

As he lay facing death he seemed to catch a vision of a continual caravan of people moving through the sky, after being released in death.

They were from every race and color... all ages and all types. There were beautiful young girls... fair, strong young men... old men and old women... lovely young children and tiny babes.

All with faces turned upward. Where were they going?

SURELY THERE IS some place in the bright beyond where souls go when they leave this earth... for the old who creep toward death, and for the young who are snatched away prematurely.

Then this thirsty man laying on the desert floor saw another vision. It was the picture of a shepherd leading His sheep by the still waters and making them to rest in the green pastures.

He heard a voice saying, "I am the way, the truth and the life... no man cometh to the Father except by me" and then... "He that cometh to Me, I will in no wise cast out."

THE MAN DROPPED off to sleep secure in the knowledge that he was the concern of our Lord... even though he was only one tiny voice among many.

He notes the fall of the sparrow... He numbers the hairs of our head.

Thinker Bombed?

TROUBLEMAKERS, foreign and domestic, are now concentrating on phase three of a concerted effort to knock our nation off balance. First were the street and campus demonstrations. Second, they planned and executed a militant affront to our court system.

NOW GUERRILLA WARRIORS, schooled and skilled in making and planting bombs, have launched a spring offensive against military governmental and industrial installations. This enemy is capable of mass murder.

President Nixon has asked the death penalty for criminal bombing. Will that stop it?

YOU ARE FAMILIAR with Rodin's statue of "The Thinker," the muscular chap sitting on a rock with his chin in his hand and his elbow on his knee-thinking.

One of the few copies of the original is owned by the Cleveland Museum. One night last week (March 23) somebody planted a lead pipe bomb under that statue and toppled it over on the museum's steps.

THERE HAD BEEN HALF a dozen bigger blasts in the preceding 12 days, but the utter senselessness of this one was most significant and the fact that they bombed "The Thinker" most symbolic.

The objective of the obviously co-ordinated bombings is to unnerve Americans, one community at a time.

MARCH 12, bombs caused major damage to three buildings in New York City. Bomb threats had sent workers scurrying into the streets from 12 others. In all, there were more than 400 "scares" in less than 48 hours.

Twenty-three stores were damaged by a blast in Pittsburg.

SEATTLE HAS HAD 32 bombings in 12 months, most of them in the last four months.

San Francisco police have counted more than 100 recent bombings, attempts or threats.

MOST OF THE BOMBERS are symbols of the so-called "New Left" movement.

In Albuquerque, an ROTC building in Denver, the home of a judge. In Detroit, police headquarters and an army draft board and an army recruiting station.

Some of the bombers have destroyed themselves. A Greenwich Village townhouse destroyed by explosions and the police found evidence inside the townhouse had been a "bomb factory". There was enough dynamite on hand to blow up most of the block.

Among the dead in the Theodore Gold, 23, a member of the SDS, a leader of the 1968 post revolt at Columbia.

THE FBI has identified radicals involved in recent bombings as having close links with the Communists.

There is evidence that some "students" who went to Cuba to harvest sugar cane came back to the United States trained in sabotage. Theodore Gold last year spent several weeks in Cuba.

Those two black militants in Bel Air, Md., when their car exploded, apparently accident on the front seat of their car. Recent returnees from Cuba.

IMITATIVE ZEALOTS who follow the lead of the saboteurs now organized in more than 100 states.

But though alien conspirators to co-ordinate the offensive without them there would be no internal combustion in our cities.

THE HUMAN ANIMAL reacts overawing as any animal with resentment, resistance and defiance.

Primitive passions expressed and "The Thinker" is destroyed.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Full Appreciation

By BOB

APPRECIATION IS UPLIFTING and enriching as a feeling, and as an expression of sensitive awareness. It literally means to add to the price-- increase the value. It is the opposite of depreciation. Feelings of admiration, approval or gratitude are commendable. The full contribution to the good of all, however, is not realized until these feelings are expressed in some appropriate way.

THERE IS NEED for appreciation, and it is a dual need.

There is the need to feel that we and our life-performance are appreciated.

There is also within us the need which is satisfied by our feelings and expressions of appreciation. In fact, if we deliberately withhold expressions of appreciation; we damage ourselves more than anyone else.

ASSUMING THAT WE are not appreciated, or that our service to others is not appreciated is a source of mental anguish.

It can cause a crippling degree of discouragement, and may even injure our self-concept.

Some people have been known to give up much needed and important work, because of the growing feeling that it was not appreciated. This is a mistake we must not make.

EXPECTATIONS can be excessive, and we must not permit this to happen. Of course, it is pleasant and encouraging to receive appreciation from others; especially from those who are benefitted by our work and service. If, however, such expressions are not forthcoming; we must not give up.

ON THIS SIDE of appreciation, it is best that we not expect too much.

It is better that we find our satisfaction, and sense of well-being in the realization of well done.

WE MUST NOT DEPEND upon expressions of appreciation from others. If we do, we not live up to our potential. There will be some appreciation expressed, and we can be sure that there will be some appreciation expressed.

It is true that "We are much what others think of us." The reception our observations with gives us courage to press on or dampens our efforts. This is also true in our other worthy actions.

ONE THING WE CAN DO can be sure that we remember importance and the worth of expressed appreciation. We cannot control others in important area of living, but we can control ourselves.

WE WILL BE HAPPIER, realize greater satisfaction in life situation, if we think more about expressing our appreciation than we do about being appreciated.

There are many ways in which we are being blessed by the and the activities of the people among whom we live.

Let us be sure to let them know that we are grateful for them and what they are doing.

EVERYBODY IS HUNGRY for appreciation. Let us be diligent in feeding this hunger.

In doing so, we help others; we are blessed, too. "When one does something good, another will make two people happy."

LET US BE sincerely appreciative of others, and the contribution they make to the community.

When we tell them that we noticed, and that we are thankful, we have strengthened them and enriched our lives.

A TONACAN FLYER, dressed in a ceremonial costume, is one of the daring flyers of the Los Voladores troupe which will this year at SIX FLAGS Over Texas. The troupe is located between Dallas and Fort Worth, and open April 11.

New Season At Six Flags

SIX FLAGS Over Texas will begin its 1970 season April 11, featuring one of the world's most colorful and exciting attractions, Los Voladores, the Flying Indians Spectacular.

The best-known feature of the Los Voladores presentation is the "flight" by four members of the troupe who spiral from the top of a 100-foot pole while grasping four slender ropes.

The breathtaking descent of the flyers is preceded by a performance by the group's chief who dances on a 12-inch platform at the top of the pole . . . ten stories in the air.

Los Voladores will present four to five shows each day, and like all rides, shows and attractions at SIX FLAGS, the performances are free to Park guests who have bought the popular one-price ticket.

Tickets are priced at $5 for adults and $4 for children (under 12).

From April 11, until May 22, SIX FLAGS will be open on Fridays from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The Park's summer schedule begins May 23, and extends through Sept. 7 (Labor Day). Summer hours will be 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. seven days a week.

From Sept. 12, through Sept. 27, the Park will be open Saturdays and Sundays only from 10 a.m. until 8 p.m. From Oct. 3, until closing day, Nov. 29, the Saturday-Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Workers have been busy throughout the winter months adding new surprises to many sections of the 145-acre family fun center at Arlington.

New, electric-powered boats will move swiftly through the "treacherous" waters of the La-Salle River Boat ride, passing animated figures never seen before by SIX FLAGS visitors.

One of the new scenes portrays the building of the first

Spanish mission in Texas. Colorful animated studios of puppets Marty Kroff bring excitement and fun to War Canoes. Along the tracks of narrow gauge railroad will see a ghost train, and -- at the station -- a comical band pounds out their huge, smiling hot their own version "Twist."

Social Security Checks To Get Bigger April 1

When Social Security checks got bigger April 1, virtually all recipients of state public assistance for the aged, blind, and disabled in Texas will benefit by a $4-a-month increase in income--although more than half actually will receive smaller state assistance checks, and some people no longer will be eligible for state public assistance.

Also, while federal law prohibits the states from counting any part of retroactive Social Security increases for two months (January and February) as income against state assistance grants, Texas public assistance recipients will be able to keep all of their retroactive Social Security increases for three months--January, February, and March.

State Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney said that the recent amendments to the Social Security Act will have these effects on Old Age Assistance (OAA) payments in Texas:

1. Approximately 138,500 OAA recipients will receive smaller state assistance checks beginning April 1. At the same time, Social Security payments to these individuals will increase, and the combination of the two sources of income will mean an additional $4 per month per person.

2. Approximately 95,500 OAA recipients, who receive no Social Security benefits, will receive $4 a month more in their state Old Age Assistance checks beginning April 1.

3. Approximately 4,100 people now receiving state OAA benefits will no longer be eligible for state assistance. These people--representing less than 2% of the OAA caseload--are those receiving relatively high Social Security benefits and having comparatively small "unmet needs" which had entitled them to receive state assistance checks of from $1 to $5 a month.

The increase in their Social Security benefits will be sufficient to make them ineligible for continued state aid. However, these people will not be removed automatically from the OAA rolls as of April 1.

They will receive their state assistance checks for the month of April, and each of these 4,100 cases will be reviewed on an individual basis to determine whether their "unmet needs" have changed.

This individual review will be made during the month of April, and assistance payments will be stopped as of May 1 for those persons found to be no longer eligible.

Comparable results will be seen in the other two state programs of assistance to "adult categories." Aid to the Blind and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled, Hackney said.

Approximately 30 recipients of Aid to the Blind--or less than 1% of the caseload--will no longer be eligible for state assistance. The remaining 4,100 blind recipients will benefit by an increase in total income for both Social Security and state assistance, or will receive the $4 increase in their state grants if they are not receiving Social Security.

Approximately 370 recipients of the Aid to the Disabled no longer will be eligible for state assistance. This number represents less than 2% of the total disabled caseload of 24,000. The remainder will receive more income from a combination of Social Security and state assistance, or from higher state grants.

County NFO Member Hear Cotton Program

The Lamb County NFO met Thursday night in the Willie Room of Lamb County Electric.

Chairman Charles Lewis presided. He read to the membership a letter of interest to all area livestock men. In an unprecedented legal move, NFO has initiated a "class suit" in federal court against drug manufacturers that have already been found guilty of monopolizing trade and commerce in tetraacycline drugs.

Lewis pointed out that anyone who has used animal feeds and medicines containing Tetraacycline sold under brand names such as Terramycin and Aureomycin since 1953 may be eligible to recover overcharges plus damages under provisions of federal statutes. It now appears that in many cases the overcharge in feed has been between $2.00 and $6.00 per ton.

Anyone in the county who feels that he may have a claim in this situation should contact a member of the NFO Meat Committee or the NFO County Office--phone 285-3318 or 285-2071 in Olton.

George Johnson, Chairman of Lubbock County, presided.

County NFO Member Hear Cotton Program

facts of the new NFO Program to the group. Lewis explained how the cotton NFO farmers in his area are selling cotton in the open market has already caused a sharp drop in the cotton price. Last fall bids for the longer staple cotton in Lubbock were well below the market rate. This condition change until NFO began cotton production from the nation together. Blackstock County farmers in 1969 quantities are now above $10.00 per bale.

Lamb County Bargain coordinators are now signing NFO acreage to participate in the new cotton program. A logue of all cotton to be by NFO members in the will be presented to the this spring. If a farmer to list his potential production for sale through He must get his acreage estimate on the proper form the NFO County Office by 1. An area cotton meeting will be held in July. At this time any NFO member who has his estimated production catalogue, will be given an opportunity, if he wishes, to contract one third of his crop firm price presented at that time. The rest will be for a sale later in the year.

Cotton seed will be bargaining in 1970, also.

Lewis asked local members to urge their neighbors to come informed about the cotton program and to compare its relative merits. In cases a fair price for his cotton this fall will determine whether or not a man will be able to continue farming. A local meeting at the County Meeting far as cotton goes, everything to lose and everything to gain with this new program.

"The help of all cotton farmers is needed to convert the turn around the price in cotton," Lewis concluded. "Cotton is still in demand. Its price should cover the cost of production plus a reasonable profit."

Utilizing a widely practiced "patterning" technique, the Amarillo Institutes provides an integrated and interdisciplinary approach to the problem of children with a diagnosis of brain injury, cerebral palsy, retardation, aphasia, dyslexia and brain dysfunction.

"Patterning", also known as the Doman-Delacato program, is designed to train the uninjured portions of the human brain to take over the functions of injured areas.

Initially, the parents and their child spend three days at the Institutes, during which period the child is evaluated and placed on a specially tailored program to stimulate the brain through body movement, sensory stimulation, breathing exercises and other activities.

This "patterning" procedure is then conducted in the home, with re-evaluation by the Institute's staff taking place every two months, for the purpose of measuring progress and recommending appropriate changes in the child's program.

Since the rehabilitative program is carried forward by the parents in the home, the Institute's fees are relatively low.

Located only a few blocks from several shopping centers, the Institute is the first of its kind in the panhandle area. It is one of over 20 similar institutes throughout the world that are currently treating an estimated 15,000 children in the areas of brain-damage and reading and speech deficiencies.

The staff of the institutes includes a cybernetic developmentalist, clinician, as well as a medical adviser, who is a general practitioner.

Additionally, the institutes have availability to consultants representing a wide range of specialties: neurosurgery, pathology, orthopedics, ophthalmology, educational testing, nursing, social work and family counseling.

The result, states Institute Director Don Zeman: "...is a fully coordinated program permitting the application of the many interdisciplinary skills required in helping brain-injured children to function in the mainstream of society."

"Just as importantly, from the viewpoint of the parents of these children," Zeman adds, "is the ready availability of these many professional skills at a single source such as the Amarillo Institutes, which now serves children from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas."

The Institutes also provide a specialized program in the area of reading and speech, pre-school learning and child development.

Professionals, educators, parents and others desiring information on the Institute's programs should contact: Don Zeman, Director of Institutes of Neurological Organization and Learning Disabilities, Inc., 2417 South Kentucky, Amarillo, Texas 79109, Telephone (806) 355-7811.

Icy Pavement Causes Wreck

Bad weather last weekend caused inconveniences to several people in the area.

Several cars were stranded in snowbanks alongside the highways and one wreck near Rocky Ford was attributed to the weather.

Friday night moisture measured .30 inch in Littlefield.

A Lubbock resident, Mrs. Andrea Peters Lowe, was traveling north on US 385 Saturday morning when the '69 vehicle she was driving hit a patch of ice and went into a skid and overturned.

Mrs. Lowe said she was driving behind a truck when she let off on the accelerator. An icy spot on the pavement caused the car to skid and go into the west ditch. The car came to a rest on its top next to a utility pole.

Deputy Jerry Collins investigated and estimated damage to the car at $450.

she said. "I like to look at them when I go down there."
A little sign near her front door reads:
The kiss of the sun for pardon,
The song of the birds for mirth,
One is nearer God's heart in a garden
Than anywhere else on earth.
Miss Sell moved to Littlefield in 1943 after spending most of her life near Temple. In addition to teaching Littlefield second graders, she taught Amherst third three years, Spade second graders, two years. She taught the second at Lubbock one year, and her last seven years of teaching were at Anton where she taught in the second grade.
"I was a tough teacher," she said. "Oh, I was tough. But it paid off. Even students' fathers came and thanked me for things I'd done for their children. I had a good time, though." She added, "You might as well. And do a good deed everyday. A kind word. A smile."
Many of Miss Sell's students were of Mexican origin. "I don't feel sorry for these children who start school without speaking English," she said. "Both of my parents were from Europe and when I started to school at seven years I couldn't speak a word of English. Just because you can't speak English isn't any sign you can't learn. You've just got to get after it. You can't just sit there with your mouth open waiting for a plum to fall in your mouth. I've heard it said 'all things come to those who wait', but you've got to work like everything while you wait."

Miss Sell learned to read and write German in a private class because her dad said she could learn to read and write English in public school.
A German Bible is included in her books. It is an old family Bible given to Miss Sell by her mother.
Miss Sell spends much of her time reading. She subscribes to 15 magazines and five newspapers. In addition, she reads history, and has recently reread the ancient, early and modern European history books in her collection. "I like to read about Queen Victoria, besides I understand history better now," she said, thumbing through some letters on her desk. "She opened a thank you card trist, of Plainview, was made medical director, in charge of treatment services.

Mrs. Elizabeth Woodley was elected coordinator.
Dr. Bubliss aided in the initial planning of the Center by preparing information needed for a federal construction grant. She has worked since Nov. 1, 1969, on a contract basis for outpatients through her office and through the High Plains Children's Training Center.
Mrs. Woodley has been employed by the board since November 1968 planning and developing a program that would qualify on state and federal levels for services for the nine counties.
Lamb County Judge Truitt Sides and the Commissioners Court have signed an agreement with the Center for cooperative care for patients referred by them to the Center.
The Center will employ approximately 80 persons, including nursing staff for the 25 bed psychiatric inpatient service, and has a budget of more than a half million dollars.
Mrs. Woodley, who has been writing the staffing proposal, explained to the board last week the federal, state and local resources requirement for a $339,000 grant from federal sources, and a $90,000 state grant in aid.
Under the present Yarborough bill that has just passed and been signed by the President, 75 per cent of the budgeted amount for staffing will be available for the first two years of operation.
Dr. Bubliss will assume full-time duties as the Center's medical director July 1.
Mrs. Woodley will continue the planning and program development until the Center opens and she assumes the administrative duties. She will accept and process applications for the Center's staff.
Woody Allen, chairman of the board, Plainview, states that he hopes most of the staff can be recruited within the nine counties to be served by the Center.
Information may be obtained by writing to Mrs. E. Woodley, P.O. Box 578, Plainview, 79072, or calling 296-5289, Plainview.

ten information such as listing members of a household, ages, and other specific information that can't be answered by filling in small circles. A pencil is recommended in filling in the circles in case of an error that needs to be erased.
A computer will do much of the tabulation of information by scanning the filled circles.
Enumerators will answer any questions that trouble people when they call to pick up the forms.
Every fifth family will be asked to complete a longer form, and these will be brought along by the enumerator. This form contains a number of additional questions, including the state, or foreign country, in which each household member was born.
Information on state where born is useful in measuring the shifting of people within the U. S., such as migration of Negroes from the South to the large cities in the north and west.
Foreign country information is an aid to setting immigration quotas.
Other additional questions on the longer forms deal with the educational level of each family member, some that will identify the nation's potential labor force, one on whether a person is an armed service veteran, and some on occupation.
The longer forms will be in addition to the short form and will be of two different types. The census enumerator will use the forms on a set schedule, and the result will be that three families in 20 will get a different longer form.
These additional questions forms will provide guides for the federal government and other agencies for basing forecasts and programs, or Congress may find them of special help in developing legislation.
The Census Bureau stresses that information is entirely confidential, and that use made of all material gathered will be statistical and compiled by computer method to show a full pattern.
Enumerators are paid on an arrangement that is planned to yield them about $2 an hour.
Headquarters for enumerators under Mrs. Aten is in her home. "I've always liked figures," Mrs. Aten said, "and liked to try new things."

Services for Mrs. Joyce Mathews, 24, editor of the Levelland Daily Sun-News, who died Friday night in an airplane crash near Austin, were conducted Monday afternoon in St. Michael's Catholic Church in Levelland.

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES
Farmers receive 40 cents of each dollar of consumer spending at the farm produced food. In 1957-59, nearly 100 million dollars more than in 1947-49. The share depends both on the cost of production and the cost of marketing. The more marketing the greater the cost. Consumer spends a food at the grocery buying 40 cents worth ducts and 60 cents marketing service.

... THE BACKBONE OF BUSINESS TODAY

The Credit Bureau is set up to serve the community. Both individuals and business can benefit by using it.
The purpose of the Credit Bureau is to encourage the sound use of credit as an indispensable part of modern business.
Use the Bureau when you need a credit reference. For you see, the Credit Bureau is like your personal secretary, we keep a record of the credit transactions of Littlefield area residents.

To Merchants:
Before extending credit, the businessman must determine if the purchaser of his goods or services is credit worthy. You can make one call to the Credit Bureau to find out. You can reduce your credit losses by checking your customer's credit before you extend credit. Dollars stop working when they are tied up in uncollected, past-due accounts.
The Bureau also protects its members from undue credit loss by giving detailed information on the pay habits and financial responsibility of credit users.
Accounts receivable come under the heading of perishables. Unless they are collected systematically and promptly, they steadily deteriorate.
Remember, the most costly delay can be the period from your last effort for collection to the time you are paid.
Money is short this year. Be sure you know the people getting yours.

To Individuals:
Your credit experience is kept in a credit file. It is a list of your credit references. The file shows the way you pay your bills, any repossessions, past due accounts, and other information that pertains to your credit transactions.
Your file, good or bad, depends upon the past due accounts reported to your credit file on your record for several years. Just one past due account can stop you from buying a home, or from getting that new job you want, or from getting that new car you need. You may not need credit today, but about tomorrow or the next day, you will need it.
If you have difficulties with your credit, contact your creditors immediately and work out a solution with them.
Like earning a driver's license or passing a test to enter college, credit is a privilege not a right—granted to a consumer who has demonstrated his ability and willingness to pay his bills on time.
Buy wisely, and pay promptly.
