crash that killed Lewis Douglas Hafley, 46, Wednesday evening. The operator of the Little-field Municipal Airport was spraying parathion on the Ollie Davis farm six and one-half miles north and one-half mile east of Littlefield and had made a turn and was coming back north when the Callar C-9 lost

Flagman Allen Yoakum of Fieldton said he first noticed the plane had lost air speed in the turn a quarter of a mile from the trees that figured in the crash.

Yoakum sald Ha'ley dropped the nose of the plane to pick up air speed, then when he thought he had his air speed up, apparently noticed the trees he had to clear and pulled the plane back up

Yoakum said that on a hot day like Wednesday, a plane has lots of problems -- especially with a load, and that in a normal stall a plane will fall to the left or right, "He stalled out," Yoakum said "There is no doubt at all."

Yoakum said pilots have been complaining all summer about air being dead over trees in hot weather.

Some authorities believed that if the temperatures had not been so high and the atmosphere so dry, or that if the same procedures had been followed earlier in the day, the accident possibly could have been averted.

Parathion is a potent in-

Hot, dry weather was blamed secticide and some theorized that it could have caused the pilot to lose consciousness, but Hafley reportedly used a respirator, and Yoakum said he had helped the pilot re-fuel about 15 minutes before the crash and that he appeared to be in good shape. The plane was carrying 105 gallons of the insecticide, or almost 900 pounds of chemicals when the crash occurred.

Inspector Lee Boedecker of the Federal Aviation Agency Administration investigated the accident Thursday morning, Inspector Boedecker said heat and high temperatures can cause a density altitude problem making a plane perform at sea level like it would at 5,000 feet. THE TELEPHONE companies are in trouble. They will not publicly concede the cause of much recent inefficiency because they are scared

The Fair Employment Practices Commission says "no discrimin-ation in employment," no matter what.

COURT INTERPRETATION of the law and pressure from organizations of ethnic minorites result in hiring a percentage of everybody, qualified or not, and promoting a percentage whether they have earned promotion or not., and this practice is eroding the efficiency of many industries.

But for telephone companies and public utilities with a "extra obligation to government," the hireeverbody, promote-anybody practice really is goofing things up.

HISTORICALLY, telephone company technicians took great pride in their job categories. Promotion required time, study and improved proficiency. The rewards, more than monetary, included self-respectplus the admiration and esteem of their fellows.

When less qualified employees are moved into positions of seniority arbitrarily -- whatever the longrange objective--the immediate ef-fect is demoralizing. Incentive is diminished, pride is diluted and the senior man--at least for a while -- is likely to find himself doing two jobs.

RESULTING INEFFICIENCY IS apparent to any telephone user. Long lines subscribers, who heretofore, ran a routine frequency response every week or so, now do so daily.

A recent issue of Time magazine was devoted to "inefficency in America," Articles in that issue cited examples of malfunctioning equipment, poor repairmanship, delays at airports, ill-natured salespeople and savage cab drivers.

The trains, the plumbing, the vending machines -- nothing works." And the telephone.

TIME TRIED TO BE philosophical about it, conceding that much pre-sent inefficiency derives from our determination to teach skills "on the job," Editorially, the magazine ... to hire getto blacks and other handicapped people instead of leaving them to subsist on pub-lic welfare is a good thing, what-ever inefficiency it may breed."

Industries, meanwhile, find themselves squeezed between rights organizations demanding more amalgamation of minorities and consumer crusaders protesting shoddy merchandise and shabby service.

THERE ARE EMPLOYEES too long secure in their jobs who have become lazy and neglectful, who need a shaking up. For them, the influx of energetic and ambitious new employees is an irritant and a threat where it should be a challenge to do better.

But for skilled tradesmen and technicians whose hard-earned seniority is handed to others who have not earned it -- that constitutes reverse discrimination against the

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

We Can't Quit

By BOB WEAR

"I MIGHT AS well stop trying" is one of the saldest statements a human being can make. It is sail because no one should ever stop trying. None of us can afford to be overcome with the living expartence. Of course, there will be some rough spots, and some dark days; but these are to be expected. They are never reasons for giving

Much of the troublesome spirit of our times is some sort of feeling of defeat. This should never have happened and every possible effort must be made to help change this to a strong feeling of resolution to keep trying. "The block of granite which is an obstacle in the pathway of the weak, becomes a steppingstone in the pathway of the strong." -Carlyle.

WE ARE NOT BOUND to succeed, but we are, by our very nature, bound to keep on keeping on. In fact, this quality of endurance is a kind of success in itself. "Not in achievement, but in the endurance of the human soul, does it show its divine grandeur, and its alliance with the infinite God," - Chapin

Dear Mr. Turner:

Congratulations on your achievement an an award-winning newspaper at the Texas Press Association convention in Houston.

I know that your readers are mighty proud of your accomplishments -they certainly have a right to be,

Keep up the good work!

Sincerely. Lloyd M. Bentsen, Jr. but cessation of effort is. Making setback bigger than it is, or foolishly permitting it to overcome us is accepting defeat unnecessarily A setback is no bigger than we want

After doing our best to learn what caused the temporary failure, let us try again; if the original goal is a worthy one. We may have to change directions and/or pro-cedures, but we must never give up.

WE CANNOT DO EVERYTHING, but we can do some things, some worthwhile things. Let us do these, and do them well. It has been proven again and again that there is unexpected opportunity and success for those who refuse to be overcome -- those who are doing, with skill, what they can do. We can stay busy, and we must stay proper expression of the life prin-

We are not overcome until we give up Many of us fail, not beattainment is beyond our reach, but because we quit trying. Continued efforts, guided by our very best judgement, will actually become better quality efforts. We become stronger by doing, we can correct mistakes, and our under-standing of what has to be done improves.

"OUR STRENGTH often increases in proportion to the obstacles imposed upon it .-- It is thus we enter upon the most perilous plans after having had the shame of failing in more simple ones." -- Rapin.

Living is not easy. It is not supposed to be easy. On the other hand it is not so difficult as to be impossible. It is indeed a challenge, but a delightful challenge, Even so, we have nothing else to do. Therefore let us be doing it with the advantages of the power of total concentration and devotion.

Step #2: set up a "must ave" budget--one that lists the things you simply can't get along without, Food, Clothing. Shelter. Medical and Dental costs. Travel to work. Insurance. Dry Cleaning, Installment payments for things you've already bought, An al-lowance--at least a modest one--for the children. Money for appliance repairs and replacement. Add any other items that belong on this "must" list, and come up with a total number of dollars that you must spend each year, Deduct this amount from the after-tax income you are likely to have during the next 12 month, and the difference is what financial experts callyour "discretionary income"--money available for items not on the "must have" list.

Step #3: decide now-before the temptations of sales, gift-giving occasions and the like come into view -- how much of the discretionary income is to be allocated to each family member each week, and how much is to go into savings. Have a wallet with two sections -- one for must money and one for discretionary money. Want to buy something on redit? Go ahead, But understand that the payments have to come out of the discretionary section of your wallet. Do you think the system will lead to squabbles over who should pay for what? prisingly, it often works just the other way; there's deep appreciation when one family member uses his discretionary money for the benefit of others. And you avoid the much more serious squabbles and tensions that result when there's not enough money for a necessity and nobody knows where the money went.

FREE ASSISTANCE "Help Wanted -- Free." No one ever runs such a classified ad, but the surprising fact is that a lot of free help is available, and often unused, in the area of money management, Take appliance repairs, for instance. It gets more and more expensive. Yet tens of thousands of people pay out good money for appliance repairs--needlessly--because they could get the work done free, or at least for a lot less, if they had saved all those guarantee papers that came with the applaince when they bought it.

Take newspapers. You can save much more than the cost of your newspapers just by using them to check the supermarket specials. Meat, in-cluding fish and poultry, takes up about 25% of the average family's food budget, and meat specials often mean a reduction in price of 20% or more.

But that's just a start. Department store buyers make mistakes just like everyone else, and when they do--sale, It's in the newspaper. Free entertainment--it's in the paper. So is news of what political leaders are proposing to do with your money.

Banks can help a lot, and not just by securing your savings and providing loans. Old laws, passed when life was much different, prevented banks from offering new services that their customers need. But now, with the formation of onebank holding companies--firms that own not only a bank, but also other companies that pro-vide financial services related to banking--it's possible to get all under one roof, insurance at good rates, tax assistance, budgeting advice and charge service for family purchases. Banks help in still another way, for when a one-bank hold-ing company gets into a field such as insurance, the competition in that field is increased, and the more competitive a field, the lower the prices are likely to be.

At other organizations, people earn their whole living by helping you and other consumers to save money and avoid loss. Did you ever notice, for instance, the "UL" label on extension cords and elec-trical appliances? The letters stand for Underwriters Laboratory, an organization that tests electrical things, and per-mits its "UL" label to be used only on the safe ones. The words, "sterling silver" can be stamped only on pieces that are 97.5% or more pure silver. A piece stamped "gen-uine silver" may have much less pure silver in it, and "Dutch silver" has no silver at all!

Learning what the standards mean, before making your choice, can help you manage to make your money buy full val-

Interestingly, so can an even temper! A motivational re-searcher once estimated that fully half of all dress purchases are made by women who are at the time angry at their husbands

This suggests one of the most important rules of wise money management: avoid making a big purchase on impulse. The word is will power. It's like money in the bank, with its fishing and swimming and loafing. The living may be easy for the song writer's reminiscing about yesteryear, but summertime living isn't easy for children in steamy inner city neighborhoods, for bored teenagers with energy to spend and no place to invest it, for highpressured Americans who do not know how to unwind as they pantingly pursue pleasure.

IT IS A TIME of slowly building pressures and tensions in which minor irritations take on major proportions. It has all the component elements for explosions.

Scholars are writing these days about a leisure society in which two percent of our population will be able to do the necessary work to provide food and consumer goods for 98 percent,

The rapidly increasing amount of leisure time is hard to comprehend by those of us who find fulfillment within our work, mixing leisure and labor together in a rapid paced life.

CAREFUL SCHOLARS and social scientists, however, are warning us that we must learn to cope with new approaches to play, which will be an increasing part of our lives. Theories aren't important, however, to the four out of 10 young people who want to work during the long hot summers and cannot locate jobs.

IT'S NOT ENOUGH to explain how a technological society demands more skills than yesterday's farm life. They have time on their hands and the fantastic energies of youth to expend,

If constructive channels are not found for them destructive ones will abound.

NOR DO THECRIES count for the thousands of children locked in poor neighborhoods with virtually non existent parks and few adults to supervise constructive play oppor-

THEY SOUGHT to evaluate the number of people affected by a problem and the stage of development of efforts to meet that problem. The tendency at first was to place a low priority on the recreational aspect of their city's

However, as they examined the role of play as an outlet for pentup energy, as opportunity for learning to relate to others, and as a means of development of creativity and meaning in the human spirit, they came to place the highest priority on this element,

They discovered it had the least developed program in comparison with the needs

WHY SHOULD PERSONS primarily interested in the spiritual or religious dimension of life be concerned about the place of play? It's not only because the hours of leisure are filled with temptation for wrong doing. The "idle mind is the devil's workshop" theory is demonstrably true, but this is not the basic reason for religious concern.

SINCE GOD created us and placed in us the capacity for play. He has a place in His plan for recreation to be re-creation of spirit for the tasks of life.

God calls us to creative leisure-to the use of our time in contructive ways. He also holds us accountable for demonstrating genuine concern for others for whom in "Summertime, the living is". . . hellishly

Social Security County Payroll

"One of Lamb County's largest 'payrolls' brings more than $197,000 per month into this area," said Jim Latimer of the Lubbock Social Security office

Statistics recently released by the Lubbock office show Lamb County has 1,254 retired persons, 520 dependents of retired workers, 126 disabled workers, and 103 dependents of 607 surdisabled workers, vivors, and 54 persons drawing the special age 72 social security benefits.

Lamb County ranks third, after Lubbock County and Hale County, in the receipt of money benefits under the social security program. Student benefits paid by the nation's social security offices amount to more than all scholarships and grants from private sectors.

Any person needing assistance with his social security may see Latimer at the county courthouse any Tuesday, except federal holidays, or go to the Lubbock District Office at 3428 Avenue H.

Tree Seedlings Through SCS

Tree seeding sales at the state's Indian Mound Nursery near Alto in 1969 increased nearly 18 percent over the 1968 sales, according to Paul R. Kramer, director, Texas Forest

Slash pine accounned for the greatest volume of seedling sales with 6.9 million trees Loblolly pines accounted for 5.9 million trees, Windbreak species in order of preference were cottonwood cuttings, black walnut, osage orange, mulberry, Oriental arborvitae, sweetgum, eucalyptus, catalpa, sycamore, redcedar, Austrian pine, and ponderosa pine.

Applications and planting information for the 1970-71 planting season are available now at Soil Conservation District offices, district offices of the Texas Forest Service, county agricultural agents, Texas Forestry Association, Lufkin, or from the Texas Forest Ser-vice, College Station.

STATE BANK V hat a story here! And it's all written down, too. The stub of an old check book! Here is part of the story of what one man wanted most in life. Here he selected and paid for the things dearest to his heart. Here is the measuring stick by which he determined things most valuable to him ... his selection, then his check, his money. Mister, what would the stubs of one of your old check books reveal? Suppose in the future friends of yours should thumb through it. Would you be proud of your portrait there? Would you be ashamed of the relative importance it gave to the church on the corner? Don't kid yourself. As a good steward of the goodness of God, act on your better judgment today.

Still A Deadlock

Who is the stronger? It was thought that Friday night's Pee Wee ball game would determine that question between the Littlefield Delinting Chiefs and the Green Ramblers.

Earlier in the season these two teams played to a 6-6 tie. Friday night they met again, hoping to break the tie in another season game, but history re-peated itself as they played to a 9-9 deadlock.

The Green Ramblers came from behind to get a 9-7 edge over the Chiefs.

The Chiefs narrowed the gap with a run in the fourth and another in the fifth to tie the game.

Vicky Gregory Is '70 North All-Star

Vicky Gregory, 1970 Spring-lake-Earth senior, is one of 14 first team forwards for the Texas 1970 North-South All-Star Tournament that will be played as a climax to the Texas High School Girls' Basketball Coaches meeting in Austin this week, July 16-18.

The All-Star game will be played Saturday night at 8.

Only 28 forwards and guards were chosen as starters for the north and south teams that will be pitted against each other in July in connection with a coaches clinic in Brownwood,

The All-Stars were chosen from more than 1,200 players from 753 schools with girls' basketball programs, including Classes AAA, AA, A and B.

She was named All-District for three consecutive years in the Class 3-A championships.

The Springlake-Earth forward lettered four years and was a Wolverine state finalist and defending state finalist team member her freshman and sophomore years, and starred in the regional competition her junior and senior years.

She held an impressive 30point per game average this season and completed 80 per cent of her free throws.

When Harley J. Redin's Way-Ion Flying Queens couldn't go to the Gallup, N. M. National Basketball Tournament, Redin chose Miss Gregory and six other high school basketball stars from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma to play in the tourney in competition against college teams from across the nation.
