Wednesday Marks Train-Bus Accident Anniversary

Plates will soon be installed at the site of the last train-bus accident scene. Train speeds have been from 40 to 30 mph. Other measures have been taken to guard against similar accidents here and across the nation. Seven children were killed and 15 were injured at this Littlefield crossing a year ago Wednesday.

By NILAH RODGERS

Wednesday marks a year since the tragic train-bus accident split the serenity of Littlefield leaving residents numb with shock.

Even now it is easy to recall the eerie quietness of that grisly scene—a bright yellow school bus—bus number 7—with a great gaping hole in its rear section, seven mangled bodies of children covered with white cloths, the quiet whimpering of the injured students, and the stunned silence of the young passengers who escaped without harm.

School books and note paper marked the trail from the point of impact eastward to the end of the broken 59-car freight train.

W. L. McDonald, engineer on locomotive number 2627, had his head and arm out to pick up a message at the Littlefield depot as the train hurtled down the track at 60 miles per hour. McDonald never picked up that message, because it was at that time that he saw the bus start from its stopped position across the tracks directly in the path of the train.

The brakes failed to stop the bus into emergency, crossing full well it was futile. Ten seconds would tick off before the brakes could take effect and if there was an impact, the 4-engine, 58-car load would require the length of the track to stop before the 5,000-ton train could be brought to a stop.

Near the center section of the bus, 10-year-old Raul Diaz saw the approaching train and yelled a warning to 68-year-old bus driver, Artis Ray Johnson.

Johnson saw the train, too, as he neared the mainline track. He could not stop the bus without being in the middle of the track. Gunning the bus, the vehicle quivered, then the front section of the bus cleared the track.

The sickening lurch and grind of metal against metal blasted the warm still Tuesday afternoon when the bus was inches from a safe clearance.

Petite, pigtailed 5-year-old Debbie Frausto was asleep in the back of the bus in her 7-year-old sister Diana Sue's lap. The impact killed Diana. Because Debbie was so gravely injured, at first she was thought dead. She faced three months of pain and immobility in a body cast. Paralysis of her right leg will probably require a brace and elevated shoe as a permanent reminder of that tragic day.

Debbie's 18-year-old cousin David Frausto sat in the rear wearing his grin that his teachers termed "full of ornery mischief." That mischievous smile and his guitar playing and dancing ability endeared him to his friends. His sisters' dreams of David having his own band some day died Feb. 6. David was one of the seven fatalities. Grief would attribute to his mother's death before the year ended.

Eighteen-year-old Anita Martinez sat in the rear of the bus, pleased with the good grades on her creative writing assignment in English. She'd chosen the theme of death and titled her paper "The Unexpected."

"The worst things in the world are bad accidents," she wrote. Then she told of the pain and grief of an imaginary family who lost three sons. "People just don't know what will happen next," she concluded.

Blond-haired, brown eyed Julie Davis impressed her teachers with her quick mind and ready smile. A good achiever, school was behind this 9-year-old for the day. There would be time for horseback riding when she got home. Sunday's Sheriff's Posse Play Day would be real fun.

The noisy bus rides still held her interest. The Davis family had moved from town to the farm only recently, so there would be plenty of room for the three Davis children's horses. Julie's last ride was in a black hearse and not barrel racing on her favorite horse.

Ten-year-old Mary Medina thought about the valentine decorations in her room as she sat on a back seat on bus 7. She never saw the prettiest valentine she ever got in her short life.

It was from her teacher and the students in her room. Her valentine was heart shaped with a red carnation for each child in her class. The single white rose in the center was for sweet, vivacious Mary whose bright eyes never

Drouth Conditions Plague Area Farmers

After reaping one of the most fruitful and profitable crops in history, area farmers face a near record drouth in trying to prepare land and shape plans for the 1974 crop.

The 1973 crop year provided excellent yields, good weather and top prices, but the dry conditions gripping the Plains along with increased production costs give farmers cause for concern.

Farmers say they are experiencing problems in trying to prepare land for spring planting. In limited irrigation areas and dry land, farmers' hesitate to put chisels and plows in the ground because they don't want to lose what little underground moisture they may have.

Even where irrigation water is fair, farmers are doing very little deep breaking of the land for fear they can't get over fast enough with water when crops need moisture.

Small grain pastures have provided little grazing through this winter, causing cattle feeding operations to soar.

Several local farmers report serious trouble cultivating fields, due to the extreme hardness of the top soil. Reports of large clods are common, and in some cases, these clods are responsible for damage to expensive farming equipment.

In the case of many clods turned up, applying fertilizer is almost impossible.

Where farmers are listing, small amounts of moisture are about two feet below the surface. Producers just hope this will be enough to hold the land until additional moisture is received.

saw such a lovely valentine.

Wednesday morning, 9-year-old Aurora Ortiz' desk in her third grade homeroom was empty. The children looked at the still empty desk so often Thursday that the teacher rearranged the seating.

In junior high school, her brother Edward's belongings and desks were moved, too, and classmates in both schools chipped in to buy flowers for their small, talkative, curly haired friends with their sparkling brown eyes.

Weather Modification Information Meets Set

Several area meetings are planned this week to discuss a weather modification program in the Lamb County area, with special emphasis on a rain stimulation program.

The Littlefield meeting is set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the county courtroom in the Lamb County Courthouse. Widely known weather scientist Tom Henderson will be present at all of the meetings to provide information and answer questions.

A weather modification informational meeting will be held Monday night, Feb. 4, at 8 p.m. in the Anton Agriculture Building.

Tuesday morning at 7:30, farmers in the Olton area will kick off their fund drive. A meeting at Amherst is set for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Community Center.

Springlake Lions are sponsoring a meeting at noon Thursday in the Lions Building, and Spade farmers are invited to a meeting in the school cafeteria Thursday night at 8.

If enough interest is indicated, seeding clouds to stimulate rain could begin in March or April. Preliminary plans call for a weather modification program, including rain stimulation and hail suppression, May 1 through Oct. 31.

Plans for this crop year call for a three-plane operation with the planes and radar system based in Littlefield. Private funding of 90 cents per acre is proposed for the five-month program.

If dryland farmers display sufficient interest, rates for dryland areas may be changed.

This will be the fourth year for weather modification efforts in this area. In 1969, Lamb County alone lost almost $4 million because of hail damages. Hail damage to agricultural crops and property is recognized as a major influence on the total economy of the area.

Although a proper evaluation of any weather modification program is difficult, figures indicate a 50 to 70 percent reduction in hail and a concurrent 15 percent increase in rainfall in the areas where seeding activities were conducted.

MH/MR Center To Organize Group

An organizational meeting of the Lamb County Advisory Committee of the Central Plains MH/MR Center will be held at 2 p.m. in the Littlefield Outreach Clinic on Tuesday, Feb. 5, according to Raymond Lewis of Olton, member of the Central Plains MH/MR Center's Board of Trustees and chairman of the County Advisory Committee.

"This first meeting will be to organize our County Advisory Committee and firm up its membership in order that we may set goals, objectives and priorities of mental health programs that will benefit our county," Lewis said.

County Advisory Committees are important to the Central Plains Mental Health Center. There are County Advisory Boards in Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Motley, Parmer and Swisher counties. One of the important features of these county boards is to give meaning to the concept of mental health, or to help present everyday interpretations of what mental health means to ordinary folks.

Gov. Assistant To Speak At Olton

Gov. Brown, recently appointed assistant to Governor Dolph will serve as keynote speaker at the annual Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Banquet tonight.

The banquet is slated to get underway at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Highlights of the evening's program will be the honoring of the Outstanding Citizen of the Year, the Woman of the Year and Farmer.

Outgoing officers of the C-CA will be recognized and the new officers and directors for 1974 will be introduced.

Flu Bug Likely Strep Infection

Whatever it is, there's a lot of it going around.

Some call it the flu bug. But County Health Officer Dr. J. H. Oyer said he doesn't think it flu that's biting people in an almost epidemic proportion.

In most cases, Dr. Oyer terms these ailments streptococcus infections rather than flu. Accompanying vomiting and diarrhea can be attributed to swallowing saliva which in turn causes the secondary complications.

One characteristic of true influenza is that there is no localized signs but an all over aching.

While some doctors recommend flu shots, Dr. Oyer said he does not. "It is too late in the season," he said. "And in the first place, I don't believe in giving flu shots. If people come in and ask for them, I give them. But I don't advise them."

The health officer said penicillin is given for the streptococcal infections. However, he does not think indiscriminate use of antibiotics is advisable.

It is Dr. Oyer's opinion that the use of too many antibiotics never allows a person to build up any immunity of his own. Such a person is susceptible to every germ he encounters.

Influenza virus tends to change a bit in makeup each year. Evidence suggests that flu is an airborne infection. Virus particles incubate in the exposed patient for one to three days. Then typical symptoms of flu begin.

The onset of the disease is very sudden and dramatic, beginning with aches and pains, and quickly followed by fever, chills, headache and cough. Often there is chest pain with the flu, but not much in the way of sneezing, runny nose or sore throat.

Many patients with flu complain of aching bones and muscles, as well as over-all weakness. But digestive symptoms such as nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, are unusual. Patients with the "intestinal flu" probably have a completely different virus infection.

Even without the abdominal complaints, the aches and pain, chills, fever, chest pain and cough of flu are misery enough.

Luckily, though, flu is not a serious disease. Most young healthy patients throw it off in two or three days. Very young children and older folks have a problem, however. They are subject to pneumonia.

Grimes-Surrett Vows Exchanged January 27

Miss Vicki Grimes and Eddie Surrett were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, Jan. 27, in the Ninth Street Church of Christ.

Don Lacy, minister of Canyon Hills Church of Christ in Canyon, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Grimes and Mrs. Loretta Surrett of Littlefield.

The vows were exchanged before an arch of greenery entwined with pink daisies and satin streamers, and on each side were spiral candelabra with pink tapers and greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of polyester crepe duette and re-embroidered Alencon lace. The bodice was fashioned with a high ring neckline edged in lace and attached to a Vee Yoke of Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls and accented with tiny covered buttons. The long bishop sleeves of chiffon were gathered onto a deep cuff fastened by tiny covered buttons and accented with lace and pearls. The skirt had an overlay of gathered chiffon with lace edging. A chapel-length veil of imported silk illusion fell from a bandeau of pearl encrusted petals.

The bride carried a traditional cascade of white Frenched carnations, baby's breath, eucalyptis, stephanotis and red sweetheart roses atop a white Bible borrowed from Jeanie Reast. Her "something new" was her wedding gown. She wore the traditional blue garter, and in her shoe she wore the coins minted in the years of the birth of the couple.

New Color Film Feature To Be Shown Tonight

"The Rapture," a new color film that deals with Bible prophecy relating to the return of Christ, will be shown tonight at the First Baptist Church in Littlefield. The showing will begin at 7 p.m.

"This film adds a new dimension to the ministry of David Wilkerson, a prophet of our times," states Rev. A. J. Kennemer, pastor. "Led by God into one of the more difficult areas of this country, he pioneered a Gospel ministry that is now world-wide. Again—led by God—he began writing and produced a best seller, The Cross and the Switchblade. Once again—David Wilkerson has added a new field—motion pictures—and 'The Rapture' is the result," he continued.

"At a time when a number of films are appearing on the subject of the return of Christ, 'The Rapture' is a low-key but highly imaginative portrayal of how a television network might possibly handle the spectacular catching away of millions of Saints with the chaos that would be the result. While recognizing that there are diverse opinions as to the return of Christ, 'The Rapture' is a fairly accurate picture of how the people of science, a liberal clergy, and the news media would react to the sudden and unexplained disappearance of millions of people whenever it occurs in God's chronology of events.

"The Rapture," in a very graphic way, reveals the folly of not being ready for the return of Christ whenever it occurs—and after all—isn't that what the Bible is all about?" Rev. Kennemer concluded.

She does the students attend for four hours per day, for each week. Rossana speaks Portuguese, English, Spanish, history, physics and chemistry. They have an education during the four hours in or snacks.

Physical education, she does a modern dance, all boys in her school swimming, basketball and other sports. Classes begin at 7:20 a.m. and end at 11:20 a.m. There is not compulsory attendance, but most people go to school. The system is not as defined as it is here. Attendance, many age groups may be in the "more" class.

Various new programs are being opened up each year and are very helpful, especially to the youth. Jim Johnson in Lubbock heads this program and does a marvelous job for the Lions in District 2-T2. Interested persons should contact their local club for more information.

To The EDITOR

Dear Lamb County Friends:
 We would like to encourage you to consider attending the Vegetable Conference to be held in Hereford on Tuesday, Feb. 12th at the Bull Barn. We feel that the vegetable industry is important to all of us and we need the entire vegetable industry working together for the betterment of the industry as a whole.
 This Conference will offer growers and shippers, researchers, extension workers and industry representatives a unique opportunity to come together to discuss matters crucial to the future prosperity of our industry.
 In a successful vegetable industry there is a strong interdependence between persons in the growing and handling phases of the business. Each shipper has a vested interest in seeing to it that he does the best possible job of preserving vegetable quality on the way to market. And likewise, each grower wants to produce vegetables of the highest possible quality, to gain the greatest return per pack and preserve a quality image in the buyers' eye.
 Just to name a few of the people who are traveling from California, Colorado, and South Texas to meet with you on Feb. 12:
 Headlee Wright, a potato grower from Colorado who is President of your National Potato Promotion Board
 Ernie Cornwall, Central Field Representative, National Potato Promotion Board
 Dr. Albert Paulus, Extension

Pathologist, California Agricultural Extension Service
 Dr. William Aldred, Assistant Professor, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University, College Station
 Messrs. Lynn Davis and Larry Vincent, Oceanography International Corporation, College Station
 You might have already received information pertaining to this conference. If so, just consider this a second invitation and reminder.

Sincerely yours,
 s/Juston T. McBride

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

supreme sacrifice and paid the top initial price for the freedom we now enjoy.

While this great sacrificial and unselfish drama was being enacted, it was done without a Washington, D. C., a White House and a President. It was our hardy pioneer forerunners who made all of this possible.

American democracy was born in the bosom of those who inhabited those tiny cabins. It was they who pushed back the wilderness and made this land free. And a refuge for the oppressed and down trodden of this world.

Today we find ourselves faced with a bureaucratic system in Washington, dominated by special interest groups. Many who have plundered the land for personal wealth, who have raped and polluted the land, and want to be allowed to continue to do so.

We also find we have one in the White House—the White House made possible by the people long before he was born. This one now tells us he does not have to answer questions concerning possible wrong-doing by him and his associates. He claims he has executive privilege to not answer.

Should anyone in this land be above the law?
 Should anyone in this land be above those who made such greatness possible?

THAT STORY in the Bible about the creation of the first man and woman has always bothered me a little. It says that God created the first man, Adam, in His own image from the dust of the earth and then sometime after, he decided to make a woman for a help-mate for Adam.

The thing that bothers me about the story is the Lord took a rib from Adam and made a woman out of it, making us more or less obligated to man for all time, just because he gave us a rib. Why didn't the good Lord just create us out of the dust of the earth too, instead of Adam's rib?

Now we have in our day and time an organization called "Women's Lib". I haven't cared much for it. I have never met any of their members, but those I have seen on television have looked more male than female with their raspy voices and their manish looking clothes.

LIKE BEING a woman. I like to see women look feminine with their pretty clothes, their frills and ruffles, and bows and bright colors. Most of them wear pants now, but they still look pretty and feminine.

I don't think I would like to do all the hard work men have to do.
 Then there is nothing more wonderful than cuddling your own beautiful baby in your arms.

LAYING ALL JOKES aside, both sexes are important to God and life. In First Corinthians, chapter 11 and verses 11 and 12 we have this, "But remember that in God's plan men and women need each other. For although the first woman came out of man, all other men have been born of women ever since, and both men and women came from God." (Living Bible)

According to the Bible, the first woman came from a man and the "second man, Adam, who was Jesus Christ", our Lord, had a virgin for his mother and He never had an earthly father. Both of these stories are miraculous — something we cannot understand. I have always felt they were symbolic, but I don't know their meaning.

BUT I DO KNOW that according to the plan of God, each of us are important and all of us have our part to play in His plan.

In the past, women have had far less privileges than men. I can remember when very few women worked outside the home. They worked all right, harder than they do now. They just didn't get paid for it—not in dollars and cents, anyway. They cooked, washed, ironed, scrubbed, sewed, and took care of the children—their jobs never ended.

THERE WAS AN old saying then, "Man works from sun to sun; woman's work is never done."

I thought it was about the limit, though, when I read in the paper where they were blaming the energy crisis on the women.

I guess they have to have a "whipping boy—or girl!"

IF THAT IS so, we women can take it. We have come a long way since that first woman away back there at the beginning, when she was just a rib. Even with Woman's Lib on our side, I doubt if we ever live it down.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

No Bitterness

BITTERNESS COMES EASY, unless we equip ourselves by thoroughly conditioning our minds for the specific purpose of preventing it.

There are many sources of this self-defeating and happiness-destroying feeling. I all of us probably know the feeling, some degree of it.

IF THE FEELING STARTS, we must go to work getting rid of it; because we cannot afford to let it fester and enlarge. We must purge the mind just as quickly as possible.

MANY HAPPENINGS can be distasteful or distressing to our mind, and it is quite possible that we will be inclined to be "harshly reproachful". We can easily justify our "sharp and resentful" reactions, and there are occurrences which may cause our reactions to be marked by "a sneering disbelief in sincerity or nobility".

We may even become rancorous. These are the emotions and attitudes of "bitterness" which can make our lives completely miserable and ineffective.

"I AM REAL BITTER about it" is a much too common expression. This feeling may come from the disappointment we feel because someone, in whom we had placed confidence, betrays us. When this happens, it hurts us; but we must not be bitter.

We should have known that betrayal was possible, and conditioned our mind to soften the blow; just in case it did occur.

ANOTHER CAUSE of bitterness is found in our feeling of not being appreciated. We work diligently, perhaps beyond what is expected of us; but no one seems to notice. There are no expressions of appreciation, and we should be appreciative of what we have done.

We can defend ourselves "bitterness" by doing what we can because it needs to be done. We expect others to express appreciation. Whatever expression of appreciation do receive will be a bonus.

OUR FAILURE can cause us to be bitter, but we just compound our problem by letting this happen. Some people succeed in everything they try to do, but most of us fail sometimes.

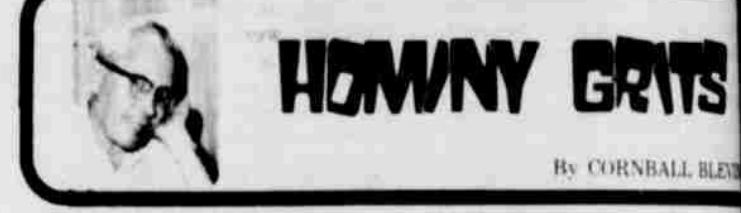

We know that failure is possible, but we have no sound basis for success all of the time. Therefore, we should be "no bitterness" when we fail.

IF OUR GENERAL expectations are out of touch with reality, we develop some degree of "bitterness" which will discolor all other attitudes and feelings. If we are not realistic, we may expect some things to never be.

We must learn how to hold our ideals, and, at the same time, accept and adjust to the reality which cannot be changed. This can be done without compromise and "bitterness".

WE HAVE THE POWER to control "bitterness" from controlling our own lives. If it does not can deliberately stop it. We can choose, cultivate and display the attitudes which will control "bitterness".

LET THERE BE "no bitterness" guideline which is necessary to living.

By CORNBALL BLEW

DIDN'T HEAR NIXON'S state of the union message, but from what I heard, it's about as we suspected:—A MESS!

SPEAKIN' OF NIXON, the prediction from U.S. NEWS smarties allow as how he won't have a heel-lickin' Congress at his beck and call durin' the upcoming session.

So what else is new? Can anyone remember when Congress co-operated with him, since he's been president?

SEEMS TURN ROW is spoilin' for me to run for some office or other. I somehow remember when he and I both ran for an office, a few years back. Don't know about him, but I kept my gun loaded and the doors locked for a good while, after that one!

If he thinks someone needs being put out of office let HIM run. Best way I know of to be able to count BOTH YOUR friends!

SPEAKIN' OF THE unmentionable, he owes me one. Anytime you get your gems of wisdom mutilated, just to make room for HIS gibberish, makes you want to start askin' questions!

THERE USED TO BE an old and popular song that began: "If I had the wings of an angel—" All we need is an update that one would be to make the word KISSINGER for AM (Don't knock him, though!)

THEN TO BE A little more ride it's said that the powers that be griping about the fuel you're haulin' your vehicle's tank.

The present distress is causing many of us to keep our fuel tanks the full side. Thus, 'tis said, several million gallons of fuel just around in our tanks, that's dead any good.

SO BE IT! I'm of the opinion to dead wrong about this one. A little the ol' tank gives the same security as that last George Washington in the old bill fold. Just that ulcers that would sprout if we were on a Sunday morning, knowin' the ol' bus was sittin' out there with full of air!

Isn't that what we want to go any especially, it's just the thought we couldn't, if we wanted to. So go and when the gauge gets on the side of one-half, fill 'er up!

Turn Row COMMENTS

By EMIL MACH

AS OF JANUARY 1, 1974, Texas gained 3,794,369 bales of cotton. This figure shows an increase of 764,087 bales over the same period in 1972.

The report, released by the United States Department of Commerce, also indicated that there were 11,602,900 bales of cotton ginned in the United States through Dec. 31 from the crop of 1973 compared with 11,602,571 for 1972.

States that were off of their 1972 figure were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, South Carolina and Tennessee. All other cotton producing states showed an increase, with Texas showing an increase that top some of the other cotton producing states' total figure.

From the figures released, Lamb County came up in the standings of cotton production. Last year for the same period, Lamb County was trailing in about 11th or 12th place for Texas Counties. This year it jumped to 6th.

Other cotton producing counties that out-ginned Lamb County for the 1973 period were: Lubbock, with 287,885 bales ginned; Lynn County ginned 228,948; Dawson came in third with 208,619; Hockley was up over 1972 with 201,116 bales ginned. Hale county ginned 152,557 bales to capture fifth place and then sixth place, Terry County, with Alva Jo Hart and Mrs. Gladys Martin, both of Amarillo; two brothers, Claude Jeffery and Lee Jeffery both of Amherst; nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

141,925 bales. In seventh position Dec. 31, 1973, was Lamb County with 141,061 bales. This figure doubled the 1972 figure which was 70,423 bales.

Following Lamb County was Floyd County with 10th with 111,000 bales ginned prior to Jan. 1, 1974.

Most of the figures have changed since the report was made, because some are still ginning and many may had as many as 2,000 unginned bales of cotton on the yard when the report was made.

What amazes me about the report that Lamb County alone outproduced the entire state of New Mexico and came close to the production of North Carolina.

NOTICED CORNBALL was to apply for a $22,000 a year job but offered by a car dealer in Florida can say is that most people aren't they are worth, which would be measured by their productivity.

And why give up a golden opportunity to get involved in politics?

FOR YOUR INFORMATION, will be a meeting in the county room for all those interested in suppression program for 1974. The evening at 8 p.m.

Anton will have a similar Monday night at their ag building meeting start at 8 p.m.

HOMEMAKING TIPS

BY BOWERMON
Extension Agent

Don't clean your oven every week. So it isn't pristinely clean when you look at it—but who else does look at it? Bake carefully, avoid spills and clean every second week with an effective oven cleaner. Lucky are you who own a self-cleaning oven!

Don't misunderstand my suggestions! I do not recommend neglect of your home, but try not to be a slave to it. There are shortcuts and easier ways for doing everything. Time spent with your husband and children will be remembered long after a spotless house.

In this semi-arid part of the country, we have little opportunity for fresh fish. This does not mean though that we can not get fish with taste appeal, and fish of some sort should be a part of everyone's diet.

Throughout the eons of man's existence fish has played a vital role in his diet. Until recent years, however, little recognition has been given the nutritional and dietary values of food from the sea. We have come to realize that fish and seafood not only satisfy the appetite and taste but provide valuable proteins and minerals so necessary for young and old alike.

Nutrition is a key to good health, and fish and shellfish can play more than a nominal role in this aspect of our living. They can furnish most of the nutrients that are required by the body and in generous amounts. Fish and shellfish, thus, should be considered as having unique nutritional characteristics, and they also contribute to the simple enjoyment of eating.

Nutritional characteristics of fish and shellfish should be of vital interest to the consumer. Dietitians must provide balanced and appealing meals, at economical prices, for large numbers of people. Certainly, fishery products are an excellent means of obtaining dietary essentials, like protein, minerals, and vitamins.

Individual consumers may be concerned about the caloric content of foods. The fat content of fish varies greatly between different species and those with low amounts of fat are particularly suited for weight-control diets. Fish contain a high proportion of polyunsaturated fatty acids. Many doctors now are recommending generous portions of fish in the diet to increase the intake of polyunsaturated fatty acids, while insuring an adequate intake of protein.

Fishery products are easily digested. They thus can play a major role in the diets of young children and elder people, where ease of digestibility is of critical importance.

Custom-tailored diets can be prepared by the proper selection and inclusion in the diet of either fat or lean species of fish. Most fish and shellfish contain low amounts of fat and high amounts of protein. In this category, for example, are tuna, jalibut, cod, flounder, haddock, pollock, mullet, rockfish, carp, whiting, crabs, scallops, shrimp and lobsters. Tunas and halibut are particularly good sources of protein. Fish that often contain higher amounts of fat but still high amounts of protein include anchovies, herring, mackerel, salmon and sardines. Oysters and clams contain relatively low amounts of fat and protein, because of their high content of water.

Fish and shellfish are excellent sources of high-quality protein. Simply stated, protein in fish and shellfish contains generous amounts of compounds called amino acids, which are needed to construct the body protein. Moreover, fish protein is easily and almost completely digested.

Because fishery products are easily digested and well utilized, they are included in many special diets for people with digestive disorders. Fish and shellfish are used liberally in diets often recommended for convalescent ulcer patients.

Since fishery products contain low amounts of connective tissue and fibrous components, they are especially suited for low-bulk bland diets. Here, the goal is to minimize the amount of undigested food in the digestive tract and still provide a diet that is nutritionally adequate. Often, fishery products can be included in diets for people with digestive disorders to provide a wider variety of main dishes that are flavorful and appealing, but still suited to special dietary needs.

Oil in fish and shellfish can play a significant role in human health. A great deal of attention recently has been given to the relationship between the amount and type of fat in the diet and incidence of heart disease. This relationship has not been conclusively established—though evidence does suggest that a high intake of meat fat may be one of the predisposing factors contributing to heart disease.

Science Show To Appear At Junior High

Local students will get a peek at the future when General Motors "Previews of Progress" research-in-action science show appears at Littlefield Junior High School on Monday, Feb. 4 at 2 p.m.

The non-commercial show, according to General Motors President Edward N. Cole, "seeks to inspire more student interest in science, engineering, and related technical and vocational careers to provide the trained talent America needs to keep pace with the promise of the future."

"Previews of Progress" demonstrations depict work being done today in America's research laboratories and point out the contributions of research to modern living. A two-man team narrates the live show in non-technical language.

More than 30-million students and adults in the United States have seen Previews since 1946. Millions more have seen the GM show in Canada and 25 foreign countries, including special presentations made overseas at the request of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Featured in the show are two energy conversion demonstrations which show by gas turbine engines and solar cells can be used as alternate power sources. Solar cells change sunlight into usable energy. Students also will be shown recent developments aimed at solving air and water pollution problems.

Another demonstration uses a laser beam to translate the sounds we hear into visual patterns of light.

In all, students will see nine examples of research-in-action.

Previews has received wide acclaim from educators and civic organizations for its efforts in encouraging more student interest in technical career opportunities.

Study Club Hosts Program

ANTON—The Anton Study Club met Monday night at the home of Mrs. L. L. Rendleman with Mrs. E. C. Sliger as co-hostess.

The program theme was "The World is Ours Through Preservation"

A panel discussion was held by Mrs. Jack Conkin, moderator, and Mrs. Donald Love, Mrs. Beulah Houston, and Mrs. Emmett Kerr. They discussed the ways in which the Soil Conservation Service aids in soil, water, and air conservation.

During the business session the club decided to again sponsor an Anton High School junior girl to attend the American Legion Auxiliary's Girls State in June. The registration fee has increased to $82.50.

At the next club meeting, members are asked to bring towels, wash clothes, or cup towels to be given to Girlstown, USA.

Mrs. Earl Glass, past president, was re-elected to membership in the club.

Mrs. Wilson Williams gave a progress report on the Big Thicket conservation project by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. S. M. Monroe. The program will be "American's Health—Fallacies, Beliefs, Practices," from the Food and Drug Administration.

"THAT'S WHAT I SAID, I'M HEADING FOR WEST MARS"

Sunflowers Being Studied For New Plains Crop

A search for sunflower varieties that will prove economically practical for the High Plains of Texas continues at the High Plains Research Foundation.

In this year's variety test, 20 hybrids were compared. "We are looking for a hybrid adapted to our area and we plan to add to our tests as more hybrids are developed", Dr. Owen said.

Of the 20 varieties, the average yield was 1,191 pounds per acre, ranging from a high yield of 1,371 pounds to a low of 921 pounds. "These yields are considerably below what we think is possible", Dr. Owen reported. "We are looking for hybrids that will yield 2000-2500 pounds", he added.

He pointed out that the variety test was damaged heavily by hail during the growing season. "How much damage, we cannot be sure, possibly as much as 25-30 percent loss. We know that after the hail storm, many seeds were on the ground. Also, due to the hail damage, the plants became more susceptible to diseases", he said.

Sunflower hybrids for the test were provided by Growers Seed Co. of Lubbock, Texas. Sunflower research at the Foundation is supported by a grant from Plains Coop Oil Mill.

Other sunflower research in 1973 included dates of planting tests and fertilizer response. Two hybrids were planted on each date and rate of fertilizer.

Dr. Owen said the earliest planting date was May 22—"a month later than what we'd normally like due to late land preparation after 1972's late harvest". He noted that although the carrot beetle has been a problem in past years, the May 22 planting did not have any serious problem of carrot beetle damage.

The second planting date, July 27, was tried to see how late sunflowers could be planted and still produce a mature crop. The July planting produced an average yield of 967 pounds per acre and matured early enough to be harvested before frost.

"This may be the most important results of our sunflower research this year", Dr. Owen stated. "If these yields are typical of what could be expected at this late planting then sunflower would be a practical crop to plant after hauled-out cotton and would be a good crop to use in a double-cropping system following wheat or other small grains."

Three varying rates of fertilizer were superimposed on the first planting date whereas the second planting did not receive any fertilizer.

Planting rates of 20,000 and 9,000 plants per acre were used in the fertilizer studies. Dr. Owen said that although the first planting yields were reduced by the hail, there was a significant difference between hybrids, and in every case, thinner population produced the higher yields.

Yield differences between fertility levels were not great but plots with 80 and 120 pounds of nitrogen did produce slightly more than plots with 40 pounds of nitrogen.

Sunflower yields ranged from 1,052 pounds at 80 pounds of nitrogen at the lower population planting rate to 503 pounds at 120 pounds of nitrogen in thicker populations. Dr. Owen estimated a possible 60 percent loss due to hail.

Harvesting with existing equipment is difficult and Dr. Owen estimated that another 10-20 percent of the crop is lost due to shattering, dropped heads and other combine losses. Development of shorter plants with more upright heads and use of new harvesting equipment currently available would greatly reduce harvesting losses.

Complete details of the sunflower study will be released in the 1973 Annual High Plains Research Foundation Report to be out sometime in March.

Veterans To Return Questionnaire

The Veterans Administration urges veterans, widows and parents to promptly return income questionnaires received last November, even though the Jan. 15, deadline has passed. "Each year, thousands miss the deadline because questionnaires are misplaced, forgotten or lost, causing interruptions or delays of monthly benefits checks," Jack Coker, Waco VA Regional Office Director, explained.

He noted that 907,000 of the 1.2 million questionnaires mailed were returned to VA before the deadline. Information from the questionnaires is used to adjust pension benefits.

Questionnaires were mailed to veterans on VA pension rolls, widows of veterans drawing pension based on non-service-connected deaths, and parents receiving dependency and indemnity compensation for service-connected deaths of sons and daughters.

Pensioners 72 years old or older who have been on pension rolls during the last two consecutive years generally are exempt. "But they still must report changes in income, and those who were mailed questionnaires must return them," Coker pointed out.

Information on pension and other benefits is available at VA offices, veterans county service offices, and from representatives of local veterans service organizations, he added.

A GOOD SIGN
Inability to locate the source of sound may be one of the first signs of developing hearing loss.

Use Of Feedlot Manure Urged

Commercial fertilizer may be in short supply in the coming months, but there's another source of fertilizer that could help relieve that shortage—manure.

"Manure is more cumbersome to handle and its nutrient content varies, but it can get the job done if the situation warrants," believes Dr. John Sweeten agricultural engineer specializing in waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Manure contains essential plant nutrients such as nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, iron and zinc and is also valuable in improving the physical properties of some soils, points out the Texas A&M University System specialist. Consequently, manure use is increasing in such areas as the High Plains where large feedlots have an abundance of the material.

"Most feedlots are now selling all the manure they have and are at least covering the cost of handling it," points out Sweeten. "That's a switch from a few years ago when manure disposal was a real problem."

Most feedlot manure is being delivered for about $1-$1.50 per ton plus five cents per ton mile. This covers the cost to the feedlot for pen cleaning, stockpiling, transportation and field spreading. Farmers in sandy areas may be paying higher prices since manure can give maximum improvement to soil structure.

Sweeten believes that attempts to place a dollar value upon manure based on its nutrient content are sometimes misleading. Rather, it is better to look at increases in crop or forage production that can be obtained.

Some county Extension agents are cooperating with farmers in conducting demonstrations to determine the true benefit of manure on various crops and soils.

The engineer cites three studies in the Panhandle where corn silage and grain sorghum yield increases from manure were practically nil to as high as 125 per cent compared to plots receiving no fertilizer.

"Physical properties of manure should receive as much attention as nutrient content," points out the engineer. "Manure that undergoes composting in piles may be more desirable than freshly-scraped manure because it spreads more evenly and contains fewer viable weed seeds."

The moisture content can also have a profound influence on the value of manure. For instance, feedlot manure can contain 20 times more nitrogen per pound of material than liquid dairy manure diluted with cleaning water. What is a generally recommended application rate for most cropland?

Sweeten contends that about 10 tons of feedlot manure should be applied per acre for cropping situations with problems of soil salinity or water pollution. However, since only about half of the nitrogen in manure is available to plants the first year, applications can be to five tons per acre in succeeding years with decreasing the total nitrogen.

"The best guide to application rates is to do a fertilizer requirements test on a particular crop and soil, an analysis of manure, and into account the availability of nutrients the first year," advises Sweeten. County Extension agents assist with determining fertilizer requirements.

Four County HD Clubs Host Friendship Day

Four Lamb County Home Demonstration Clubs hosted and participated in Friendship Day Monday, Jan. 28.

More than 50 members and guests gathered for the annual event, where the morning program was presented by the "Cow Belles" of Hereford.

At noon, a salad luncheon was served, and the afternoon program was presented by Miss Margaret Vigness on Fashion Accessories and Styles for Spring 1974.

During the noon hour the Texas Home Demonstration Association pen recipient was chosen. Receiving the pen was Mrs. Oma Pearl Murrell of Springlake Home Demonstration Club. The Texas Home Demonstration Association pen is given to a deserving member each year who has fulfilled 13 requirements.

A picture of spring fashions was created for the audience. The look is one of bygone days. The blouses or full flowing top comes on strong. The dolman sleeve and cap sleeve are also part of this full bodice look. Pants have lost their bell and flare to return to the stove pipe or straight leg look. They share the fashion scene this Spring with dresses, but dresses are pulling hard to regain their popularity.

The long dress look is still strong for spring with the "new look" being the renewed waltz length. In younger junior clothes the lingerie look is very strong. This consists of the tube, bra, or halter top covered by an over blouse of sheer fabric.

In fabrics the trend is back to cottons. A new idea is the inner lock knit that doesn't shrink and performs much as the popular man made.

Accessories also change from season to season. The shoes shown for Spring show far less to no platform. In a word, shoes go feminine. The "nothing" necklace and scarves dress my lady's neck. Some new words in accessories are "button" earrings, aviator wheels, luciet and spiral bracelets. Another new word is that shoes and bag no longer need to match to be fashionable.

The total outlook for spring may remind you of things you've seen in days gone by but with a definite new flare.

U.S. Agricultural Exports At New Record--$19 Billion

It now appears that U.S. agricultural exports in the current fiscal year ending June 30 could total $19 billion, a new record and more than the total U.S. exports of all products just a few years ago.

This, members of the first annual Texas Animal Agricultural Conference learned in College Station Wednesday, is the fifth straight increase from $5.7 billion in fiscal 1969.

The favorable agricultural export picture was described by Dr. John A. Hopkin of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station who said U.S. farm exports hit a record $12.9 billion in fiscal 1973—up 60 per cent from the previous year.

Hopkin, also Stiles Professor of Agricultural Finance and head of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Department, said the growing importance of farm exports is shown by a favorable balance of agricultural trade of about $10 billion. Of this amount, $9.2 billion represents a favorable balance in commercial agricultural trade, in contrast to government aid programs.

But Americans, he added, still import cars, radios, TV sets and oil.

"As a consequence, we expect to continue an unfavorable trade balance of $7 billion in non-agricultural commodities. Yet, experts were projecting as late as mid-December a $3 billion credit in our foreign trade account—due almost single-handedly to the outstanding performance of agriculture," Hopkins said.

The Animal Agriculture Conference (Jan. 21-24), attended by an estimated 1,500 persons, is a merger of the former annual beef cattle, dairy production, horse, swine and forage and pasture short courses. Principal sponsors are the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Hopkin listed five main reasons for U.S. increase in agricultural exports: Unfavorable weather in Russia, Australia, Latin America, Africa, China and Southwest Asia; low level of supplies from other exporting countries, seriously reduced fish meal output in Peru, continued rising incomes in friendly nations and several developing countries, and improved competitive position of U.S. products because of currency re-alignment.

Increased food and feed grains accounted for most of the higher agricultural exports from 1972 to 1973, he said, while livestock and meat rose very little. The energy crisis is throwing things out of balance, and beef likely will be affected. Meat imports likely will decline in response to pressure on foreign exchange. This, in turn would lead to more use of beef substitutes.

As for fertilizer, Hopkin foresees continued strong domestic and foreign demand. High profit expectations are leading to production expansion, but output from new plants is still at least two years away. In the meantime, plants will operate at top capacity—if they are allowed the energy.

"So we seem to have both good news and bad news with regards to fertilizer," he explained. The good news is that a higher per cent of the total production will be allocated to the domestic market. The bad news is that the amount allocated is dependent on continued access to energy, which is tenuous at best."

Overall, the U.S. livestock industry has many things going for it, the economist emphasized. Increased production efficiency, improved marketing, finance and business management are evident throughout the industry.

"You have developed a production with tremendous market acceptance—a food highly sought after by all who can afford it. Your industry, although comprised of many and varied segments and fiercely independent operators, is more today than ever before this augurs well for marketing." Hopkin

More People Working, Fewer Are Jobless

More workers than ever before were in the Texas labor force in 1973, the Texas Employment Commission says in its annual report to Governor Dolph Briscoe.

The Texas Labor Force reached 5,139,000 last August. Total employment was up 162,000 for the fiscal year, and jobless workers represented only 3.4 per cent of the total work force.

Fewer jobless workers claimed unemployment benefits each month during 1973 than in the corresponding month of the previous year.

Net taxes collected from employers were up from the preceding year. The healthy state of the trust fund caused almost 60,000 Texas employers to have their experience tax rates reduced by three-tenths of one per cent, effective Jan. 1, 1974.

During 1973 the Commission placed increased emphasis on one of its basic functions, job placement, the matching of job seeker and job opening. That led more employers to use the Texas Employment Commission as a source for their workers. Of the 614,285 nonfarm job openings placed with Commission offices during the year, 430,193 were filled. Commission employees made 1.27 million referrals in filling these positions. The Commission placed more workers in jobs than any other state in 1973.

Placement priority was on helping returning Vietnam-era veterans secure employment. Opportunities for jobs or for training were offered first to veterans, as required by federal law.

In the metropolitan areas of Texas, the Commission has begun to move away from the traditional central downtown office locations, to the outlying metropolitan areas. The Job Bank system, with its daily computerized area-wide job listings, has made it feasible to provide improved services to residents, businesses and industries in these outlying areas by establishing convenient satellite or branch offices.

These branch offices are located where the people and the jobs are located, eliminating inconvenient and expensive trips downtown by applicants, and giving employers faster service. Branch offices were located in the Dallas metro area during 1973. Such offices are planned for other Texas metropolitan areas during 1974.

Through computerization, the Commission has streamlined its services to applicants. Persons who are job-ready receive less supportive service than those who are not job-ready.

Demands for farm manpower are declining, but the Commission last year provided extensive services to farmers and farm workers, especially during the peak farm seasons. Greater attention to the role of rural manpower is now being given in the creation of jobs and in rural development.

The Commission continued to administer special manpower training programs in cooperation with the Texas Education Agency, under the Manpower Development and Training Act. Training was conducted in 46 different occupations in 32 communities in Texas in 1973.

The Commission also administered the Work Incentive Program in cooperation with the Department of Public Welfare. This program is designed to promote the employment of AFDC (Aid for Dependent Children) recipients and thus reduce the AFDC rolls.
