To The EDITOR LETTERS

Dear Editor:
I think the article, "Wednesday Marks Train-Bus Accident Anniversary," should not have been published. All of your facts about the safety precautions were all right, but your recollection about the children who got killed were stupid. I knew Edward and the article made me sad because it brought back the thoughts of that day. On the next anniversary, please don't remind us of that grim day.

Sincerely,
Blake Altman

DEAR STUDENTS:

I wanted to do something more than just a straight news item marking the anniversary of the tragic train-bus accident in Littlefield, lest we forget.

Those who lost their lives were children with bright eyes, shining hair, light hearts—whose hopes and dreams and promising futures ended abruptly, prematurely and needlessly.

Mary's teacher cried when she told me about the beautiful valentine wreath Mary's classmates bought for her casket with their nickels and pennies. I cried with her.

My heart goes out to the Davis family and everyone involved—even, or maybe the word should be especially, the bus driver.

No, nothing in this world can bring back any of those children, nor others who've lost their lives at that crossing. It's a shame that sometimes it takes tragedy to bring about reform.

Without the nationwide publicity and some of the courtroom drama, it is unlikely that the crossarms at the railroad crossing would be approved and train speeds reduced. (Such measures were not taken following other fatal accidents.)

Upgrading of safety features on buses and higher standards and salaries for bus drivers are long overdue. How sad that young lives have to be snuffed out before preventative and corrective measures are taken.

Hopefully next year's accident anniversary will center around an upbeat, straight news story telling about a new tennis court as a memorial to the seven dead students. The lawyers for the families who brought suit offered to donate $1,000 each toward installation of better safety devices at the U.S. 385 crossing.

That money has been appropriated by the state and work will soon begin. Meantime, a memorial fund has been started at the Leader-News, Amarillo attorney Robert Templeton said in a telephone conversation last week that he will give his $1,000 and request that the Lubbock lawyers donate $1,000 each toward the erection of an all-weather outdoor basketball and tennis court rather than their original offer.

The First Baptist Church has offered to donate fencing. Only official action from the school board is needed to get the memorial tennis court started.

When the concrete is poured, perhaps it would not be tactless and dramatic to inscribe the names of the seven students and date of the accident in one corner. Let's not forget!

Sincerely,
Nilah Rodgers

Dear Editor:

We realize that by writing this letter, we are setting ourselves up for public criticism, but we cannot help our feelings in this case. This concerns Sunday's (2-3-74) write-up by Nilah Rodgers.

In short, we hated the write-up, "Wednesday Marks Train-Bus Accident Anniversary." We most sincerely believe that an objective reporting of the facts about how new laws are being enacted, warning devices and better buses are being sought, and bus drivers are being more thoroughly screened as a result of this and several other similar accidents would have been effective enough. We really doubt that dramatization and recollection of the fatally grotesque accident made anyone feel any better. And certainly it did not bring back any of those children. It made us sick, and we felt for any parent who read the write-up. It was very unnecessary to say, "Julie's last ride was in a black hearse and not barrel racing on her favorite horse," or, speaking of Mary Medina, "She never saw the prettiest valentine she ever got in her short life," or such a phrase as "The sickening lurch and grind of metal against metal."

Most everyone has had their fill of this thing. We hope that on the second anniversary pictures and dramatic reminders of the event will not appear in the paper. We feel that this incident and those in the future should be handled a lot less dramatically and quite a bit more tactfully.

EDITORIAL School Needs Money

The Littlefield School Board of Trustees will meet Monday morning to consider an eight-item agenda. Item seven on the agenda is a topic which we feel needs serious consideration by the board and the citizens of Littlefield.

"Assessment percentage for tax purposes" is the way the item is presented, but what it boils down to is this: whether or not our school system continues to operate with so little money that barely the essential spending necessary for educating our children is available, much less money for expanding educational programs, increased salaries for teachers (other than what the state laws provide for), increased salaries for other school personnel, supplies and equipment in some departments, and, last but certainly not least, improvements on all existing buildings and school facilities.

One can always get an argument on the last point on the ol' "you can't judge a book by its cover" theory. True, but by the same token, it's hard to see why some of our facilities have to resemble the last car remaining in a demolition derby.

Presently, local revenue is based on a tax valuation of $27,200,200. The local maintenance (operating fund) rate is $1.50 per $100, and the debt service is $0.40 per $100, for a total of $1.90 per $100 value based on 55 percent valuation.

The superintendent's office has prepared a list of estimated additional costs for the '74-'75 school year. The total comes to $41,000 and once again this is the minimum amount needed—no extras.

While we, like everyone else, don't relish the fact of increased taxes, we do feel that money spent in building a first class school system—faculty, buildings, all phases—is money well spent.

We're always asking students to "go that extra mile" or "give 110 percent." Now we're asking the board to "go that extra mile" also in obtaining enough revenue for the needs of the entire school system.

By WADE WARREN

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

WE KNOW that everything on this great earth belongs to God, our Father.

Everything is His, the great wealth of all nations, the huge corporations that reach around the world, the communication systems, the vast agricultural lands and the great transportation systems—the planes that fly, the automobiles, the trains, the ships at sea—yes, even down to big trucks on the road and the oil companies.

EVERYTHING is God's. He made them, or furnished the knowhow in the form of human creatures carrying on His work. All the big cities in the world, the mountain ranges, the oceans and the stars above are His.

All of this belongs to Him, yet we limit Him in our thinking by our lack of faith and consciousness of Him. We pray for tiny little things and keep them from happening simply by our own lack of faith.

SOMETIMES when I pray I think, "Why should this happen to me when there are others in the world much needier than I." But I know this is a silly way to feel, for God can answer my prayers and at the same time withhold nothing from other people.

Jesus said, "It is the Father's good pleasure to give us the kingdom." He also told us to ask anything in His name.

GOD IS OUR FATHER in that He knows every detail of our lives, including our needs and inmost thoughts; and He is concerned about us, even as a kind earthly father cares about His children.

He cares about the sick and the old, the handicapped and the poor, and He is also concerned about the rich and the healthy. For we all have our problems.

LIFE WOULD NOT be interesting without problems. Imagine going on from day to day without anything to worry about. We would be bored to death. We need challenges and faith enough to meet them. How else would we know the great power of God.

God wants the best (both spiritually and physically) for every human being. It is our own fault if we do not reap His rich blessing. Those who have overcome great handicaps seem to be the happiest people.

MOST OF US suffer a bit of feat as National and International news continues to be bad. We should remember that God moves in history and He still has control over His world, although right now the old Devil seems to be putting up quite a fight, but it will be a losing battle for him.

Man, with God on his side will continue to go onward and upward. David said, "The Lord is my strength, a very present help in time of trouble." Psalm 46.

Funeral services for Leon Williams, 35, of Tucson, Ariz. who was killed by a hit and run driver Friday, Feb. 1, in Tucson, Ariz. were conducted Monday, Feb. 4, in Miles Mortuary Chapel in Miami, Ariz.

Burial was in Pinal Cemetery at Globe, Ariz.
Surviving are his father, Lindsey Williams of Littlefield; his mother, Mrs. Edyth Zander of Miami, Ariz.; two brothers, Roy Williams of Globe, Ariz. and Lindsey Williams Jr. of Middletown, R. J. E. BLAKNEY
Funeral services were pending with Rix Funeral Home in Lubbock for J. E. Blakney, 71, of Anton, who died about 3:15 p.m. Friday.

Among survivors are his wife, Bernice; a son, Leonard D. Blakney of Lubbock, assistant chief of police; and two grandchildren.

L. E. HAIRSTON
Funeral services for Leonard Elvin Hairston, 52, of Yuma, Ariz., a former Littlefield resident who died about noon Friday in Yuma after a brief illness, are pending with Hammons Funeral Home in Littlefield.

A representative of Hammons Funeral Home said it would probably be Monday before the body arrives here.

Hairston had moved to Arizona only 12 days ago.

Surviving are a son, Gary Hairston of Spade; two daughters, Mrs. Jim Francis of Littlefield and Mrs. Ron Rogers of Lubbock; his mother, Mrs. Annie Hairston of Levelland; two sisters, Mrs. Verna Wims and Mrs. Wayne Kirby, both of Levelland, and four grandchildren.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE No Grumbling

WE HAVE THE RIGHT to "grumble", if we wish to do so; or do we? If this is a right, and so far as I know it is, it is one right that received plenty of exercise.

If we wish "to mutter in discontent" or "to growl" about things, and happenings, and people; we can always find something to feed this desire. We can even find justification for this useless practice; at least, we seem to feel that "our grumbling" is justified. This is some more of the self-deception in which we seem to delight.

GRUMBLING DOES NOT HELP US. It is an exercise in futility, because the energy generated is lost, it is wasted, it never reaches the desired end; it is like the short-circuited electrical current or the leaking water line. It is even worse, because it is an additional; and totally uncalculated obstruction, and makes the desired solution more elusive.

It is also a social barrier, and can become a wall which separates us from other people. "Grumbling" is one sure way to alienate our fellowmen, to cause them to avoid us. This is understandable. Other people have problems and difficulties, and are probably displeased about many things. If they are wise about living, they are trying to maintain a positive, constructive attitude; and they cannot afford to listen to our grumbling.

Generally, those who do grumble do not want to listen to "our grumbling". If there is going to be any grumbling done, they want to do it.

"THERE IS A VERY large, very knowing class of misanthropes who rejoice in the name of the person who are so sure that they are going to ruin that they attempt to comfort them as their sagacity, and according to their chief consolation in being displaced."—E.P. Whittier

"GRUMBLING" is self-defeating two ways. It not only builds between us and other people, misuse of our time, energy, and our opportunities.

It is not a positive, constructive expression of our character, personality, but is waste of energy, another difficulty we add to our difficulties, and compounds them.

GRUMBLERS are not active; are not the people who do worthwhile things. In fact, usually sniping at and finding fault with the people who are trying to do things that need to be done. They are displeased about someone or something, and they are not the useful and commendable people and situations, and concentrate on the flaws, imperfections, failures.

IF WE WISH TO LIVE the life, there must be "no grumbling".

WELL, THEY'VE up and tore it! The oil companies, that is! Here it is, I've been makin' sounds of sympathy for the Yokels, and now they're tryin' to go whole hog. Give them an inch, and they want the whole pea-pickin' yard-stick!

Seven, eight, or even ten cents per gallon increase in the cost of fuel, I could see! But as of late, the guys down to the station ain't got time to pump gas, because they're too busy changin' the prices on the pumps!

LAST TIME I noticed, the majors were askin' (and gettin') 50.9 cents per gallon for the regular grade of petrol. THAT'S UNREAL!

I used to think my ol' gas-hog ran so much better on ethyl fuel that it was worth the difference. However, we've long since had a heart-to-heart talk about that. And she's doin' very well on the lower grade, thank you! ('Course she knocks, a little.) Wonder who buys that Ethyl, anyway?

SMALL WONDER, the truckers are raisin' Ol' Ned. Sure, I know that diesel's a little cheaper than gasoline, but not THAT much. When it costs more to deliver that dozen aigs, than the aigs cost, somebody's gotta start hurtin'!

Have gotten wind that OL' UNK is startin' a movement to get the rolled back a little. Since the companies have about lost all my money, I wouldn't care if they rolled back all the way back to '32. All others included—Er, well—NEARLY! WOULDN'T EVEN HAVE been about of '1040, would we!

OUR HOUSE GOT turned down, a few days ago, and a long-forgotten memo, that I have a habit of collecting any place, came to light. The monition—Hand written, yet I wouldn't care if it was the ambition. An enemy ambush to your will. It's prey is ever a mission, yet, it bows to our patience and skill.

So hate it with hatred that's undying, for once it is welcome break any man. So whatever you are seeking, keep trying, answer this demon by saying CAN!"—Author, unknown.

NO NEED TO RUSH! You do to buy your car tags, 'til April it'll still be 15 more days, but have to file your income tax. Meanwhile, just take it and enjoy yourself, huh!

Turn Row COMMENTS

ONE THING ABOUT living in this area is that when a call is sounded for help, someone usually helps, and I guess that is the reason we are blessed with the prosperity we now enjoy. It seems that a helping hand is always offered for those less privileged than we are. And I am especially pleased that people respond when we mention someone or some group that is in need.

You turned out in full force to help the boys at the Boys Ranch in Pettit and again in adopting a grandparent and several other instances. Now I've come up with another idea that could help a center based here in Littlefield. The Center is doing a lot of good for various persons who have mental health or mental retardation problems.

Although the Central Plains MH/MR Center has not asked for help as of yet, they are in need of various training of youngsters. Simple such as clay, puzzles and games required to teach coordination in their group therapy sessions as various pieces of furniture.

The Center is operating Plainview and has limited funds what time they have been in Littlefield their work in the community has an outstanding nature. Let's give this Center and give them a hand.

NOW FOR THE contrary, was sent to me from a person of reference to the new food program. As the story goes, individual was buying her groceries while at the check-out stand checker told her she could not food with her food stamps. The customer somewhat, so she to the meat department and got to T-bone steaks to replace the. From all indications her probably eat better than most!

WHERE ELSE, but in America you get an advertising piece of $50,000 to design, $500,000 to print $2 million in prizes—and what's called? Junk Mail!

New Boys Ranch Organized, Construction Begins

Texas Boys Ranch of Lubbock, a new boys ranch, is being built northeast of Lubbock. The ranch will accommodate 100 boys who are homeless, dependent, neglected or predelinquent.

Over the past two years, the Lubbock County Juvenile Authorities have handled more than 1,600 boys under 16 years old.

The Lubbock County Child Welfare Department has informed ranch officials that on any given day their office is working with between 35 and 50 boys. Many of these boys are placed in state supported correctional institutions, because there simply is no other place for them. Many of these boys do not belong in a correctional institution, but are sent there because there is a lack of boys ranch type facilities.

The president of the National Association of Homes For Boys has stated that the need for this type of facility will increase 20 percent by 1975. This is the reason Texas Boys Ranch was created.

This week the Ranch announced that the land has been donated for the site to be located on Liberty Road, one and a half miles north of the Idalou Hiway. The land has been donated by Mr. and Mrs.
Edwin Forrest of Sun City, Ariz. and Lubbock. The ranch is irrigated land and improved grass areas.

Construction will begin on buildings at the site in 1974.
Texas Boys Ranch is projected to be a state-wide system of five ranches with the Lubbock site serving as headquarters.

TBR will be an approved
facility, licensed by the State Welfare Department. TBR is a private, non-profit corporation governed solely by a board of directors made up of West Texas people.

The Ranch is supported by contributions from people who want to help boys.
No gifts is too small or too large, and all donations are tax deductible.

Water Report Presented To Committee

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a report to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Water Development Executive Committee, as presented by Arthur P. Duggan Jr., of Littlefield, chairman of the Water Development Committee. The presentation was made Jan. 25 at a Lake Brownwood meeting.)

By ARTHUR P. DUGGAN

Dramatic! Wasn't it?

Here was the United States dollar in 1973 losing value rapidly; devalued, money leaving the Nation much faster than coming in; there was a flavor of bankruptcy. Then, as if out of the blue, came floods of grain and cotton, much of it from West Texas, exported to other countries. And dollars by the billions came pouring into the United States. The value of the dollar steadied and then rose.

When the energy crisis became apparent, the great West Texas stores of hydrocarbons helped provide assurance the United States would fare much better than most countries. The value of the dollar in respect to other currencies is rising again.

West Texas grain, cotton and energy were prominent in saving the day. West Texas food and fiber helped the American people have food to eat and clothing at lower prices than in other developed nations.

The grain, cotton, livestock, wood, hydrocarbons and food originating in West Texas were and are being transported and sold—for money. The money in the banks and expanding business mean profits and a strong economy for all of Texas. Remember this!

In the year 1973 West Texas had water supplies to produce abundantly. In 20 or 30 years, say the experts, these generous supplies of water will not be on hand unless massive conservation, brush control, transfer and importation of water occurs.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce Water Development Committee is striving to bring about this massive occurrence. Testimony has been presented at the three West Texas hearings held by the Lieutenant Governor. Appointed West Texas Water Resource Council containing WTCC Water Committee members. This Council is meeting with councils from other areas of Texas. Objective: decide on courses of action to assure plenty of water for Texas.

WTCC President Emil Rassman, President-Elect Burle Hulsey, Executive Vice-President J. Fike Godfrey, Assistant Development Director Steve Smith, the WTCC Water Development Committee Chairman Arthur P. Duggan, Jr., and experienced engineers Si Freeze and Jim Nichols met with Governor Dolph Briscoe and presented an exciting water import plan, relatively inexpensive. The Governor was most receptive. He promptly added water-knowledgeable personnel to his staff and appointed a Statewide task force composed of water district managers, including WTCC Water Development Committee members.

Recently the Governor state publicly the highest priority must be given to obtaining out-of-state sources for water to be delivered to West Texas.

Note that the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor are cooperating. Their respective study groups will meet together.

Contracts with other state governments are to be carried out through the Governor's office. Liason with Water, Inc., and with West Texas Congressmen is close.

For an ambitious project to succeed, people in general must be aware of problems and possible solutions. As a basis for intelligent direction of educational work, the Writing Task Force of the Water Development Committee has been taking a water opinion survey to ascertain knowledge and attitudes of West Texans concerning West Texas water. The material gathered has been sent to cooperating Texas Tech University Institute for Mass Communications Research for evaluation. You will be advised of conclusions reached. The Executive Committee heretofore has authorized an award for water conservation work. The Conservation Task Force of the Water Development Committee is considering making such an award.

During the coming quarter the Water Development Committee plans to push forward on all the above mentioned work.

During the year 1973 West Texas water contributed mightily toward saving the United States dollar and toward providing food and clothing to United States citizens at a cost lower than that of other developed nations. Ecologist might note the food cost requires less take-home pay of United States residents than was the case when practically all production was in humid regions.

For the future: to provide needed food, fiber and money for business and individuals in all Texas, it is imperative - NOW - to go all out to obtain a long range adequate water supply for West Texas and Texas.

The failure of the National Cotton Council Board of Directors and the Producer Steering Committee of the Council to oppose the lifting of U.S. import quotas on raw cotton "in no way affects" the position of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., according to PCG President Ray Joe Riley of Springlake. "Nor will it reduce our efforts to retain rigid import restrictions," he adds.

The Council's Producer Steering Committee, made up of NCC producer delegates, took a strong stand against relaxation of import quotas at its meeting in Dallas January 8. But that position was reversed at a subsequent meeting in St. Louis, Mo. Jan. 28, reportedly as a means to secure a commitment from textile mill interests to stop exerting pressure on USDA for cotton export controls. The NCC Board is composed of representatives from all seven segments of the cotton industry, including mills, merchants, warehousemen, ginners, cooperatives, seed crushers, and producers.

"As an organization dedicated to looking out for producer interests on the High Plains and not other interests," Riley stated, "PCG continues to feel that restrictions on cotton imports, in addition to unlimited access to export markets, are vital to our well-being, and we will present testimony before the upcoming Tariff Commission hearings to that effect."

The Tariff Commission will hold hearings on the import quota issue Feb. 7 and make its recommendations to the president soon thereafter.

PCG's statement will point out the advantages that have accrued to the cotton industry and the nation from import quotas since their imposition in 1939. Riley said "and we will emphasize that lifting quotas, while serving no useful purpose under present world supply-demand conditions, could wreck any government price support program for cotton that might be in effect at such time as world supplies exceed short term demand and cotton prices come crashing down."

The resolution adopted by the NCC in St. Louis authorizes the organization "to work for unrestricted sales of raw U.S. cotton in the world markets" and to "work with the USDA and the U.S.

Tariff Commission developing suspension of import for a period not to exceed 12 months, which would allow the domestic mill to produce grades and staples found in short supply.

"This puts all eyes on the cotton industry as supporting the standing position of other producer organizations in opposition to export controls, which is not commented," and U.S. import quotas were only for 12 months were those cotton quality short supply, perhaps action would prove.

"But in view of the that any suspension would become permanent rather than temporary because we fear a 'short supply' would be loosely interpreted. Washington officials continue to work for relaxation of restrictions in any

Texas 4-H Center Construction Begins

The construction contract for the $1.375 million Texas 4-H Center has been signed, according to H. T. Davison, 4-H and youth specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and executive director for the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation.

"The 4-H Center is to be built on a 78-acre Lake Brownwood site near Brownwood. It will have a capacity of 200 people and will add many new dimensions to the overall Texas 4-H Program," Davison said.

The site for the Center was donated by the Brown County Water Improvement District Number 1.

Programs to be featured at the Center will include summer youth camps, leadership training, citizenship seminars, adult leader training, county and 4-H club camps, and family weekend retreats.

Approximately $1 million has been pledged by business, industry, foundations and interested individuals. Presently, 4-H members and leaders in each county in the State are conducting fund raising activities, noted Davison.

Construction will begin as soon as possible by the Herman Bennett Company of Brownwood. The facility should be completed in about a year. Matthews, Cumpston and Associates, architects and engineers of Bryan, designed the 4-H Center.

Davison said the Center will also be available to other groups and businesses that are interested in conducting education programs. It will have a built-in flexibility that will allow more than one group to use the facility at the same time.

Leadership for the Center development program is being provided by the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation which is chaired by T. Louis Austin, Jr. of Dallas, president of Texas Utility Companies.

State Highway Projects Involve Ideas And Work

"Texas highways belong to the people of Texas, and the people of Texas play a major role in the highway department's construction program," says Lubbock's Highway Department District Engineer George C. Wall Jr.

"But few Texans have any idea of the work involved in bringing a highway project from an idea to a reality." "To begin with, it is the people—usually acting through their local governments—who see a need for a highway and ask the Highway Department to build it," he continued.

According to Wall, there are five general stages in the development of a highway project.

The first, or program stage, commences at the very beginning of project development when the Highway Commission or the State Highway Engineer, acting in response to a request from the people, authorizes the District to conduct preliminary studies.

This followed by the Route Stage during which preliminary planning is undertaken. Studies are made to identify and analyze the social, economic and environmental factors of the project.

The District engineering staff investigates various alternatives and performs general technical studies.

Wall notes that it is occasionally necessary to complete some design studies during this stage in order to better evaluate alternative routes.

This stage usually culminates with the approval of a new highway route or the reaffirmation of an existing highway location.

Detailed design investigations, using the most modern design techniques, are conducted during the Design State and specific identification and analysis of social, economic and environmental impact factors are performed. Specific design alternatives are evaluated.

This stage usually terminates with the approval of designs developed by the District engineers by the Highway Department in Austin and by the Federal Highway Administration.

The Right-of-Way Acquisition State follows, during which property appraisals are made, the relocation assistance program is started, utilities are adjusted, and the right-of-way is acquired and cleared for construction. Wall pointed out that the District staff works closely with city and county officials throughout this stage.

The final Construction Stage occurs after the Highway Commission awards a contract to the successful bidder. Issuance of a work order to begin work is made only after the Highway Commission and/or the Federal Highway Administration concur in the award of the contract to the successful bidder.

During construction, the District Environmental Coordinator provides on-site monitoring of the environmental effects of construction operations. And if archaeological resources are discovered during construction, they are investigated by the archaeologists of the Highway Department's Design Division in Austin.

If found to be significant, a complete archaeological exploration is undertaken.

Wall pointed out that this is a broad, oversimplification of the many steps which a highway project takes on the long and time-consuming road from its concept to its reality. Because of the wide diversity of projects, ranging from rural Farm-to-Market Roads to urban thoroughfares, it is impracticable to specifically cover the detailed procedure that must be followed.

Modifications, the need for additional studies and evaluation, funding procedures, and the laborious determination of design and materials requirements combine to make an average of 1 1/2 years from a project's conception to the letting of a contract for its construction.

The District Engineer stressed that public involvement takes place throughout project planning. Public hearings are offered and held on most projects, except those which are solely for such improvements as resurfacing, widening existing lanes, adding auxiliary lanes, installing traffic safety devices, or other similar improvements.

Throughout the project, the District Engineer uses every available means to keep the public informed as to its progress. Maps, descriptions and brochures are made available for public inspection and related information is provided to the local news media.

"To help keep the public informed, Wall has appointed his District Administrative Engineer, James W. King, as the District Public Affairs Officer. King works closely with the news media and with the Highway Departments Travel and Information Division in keeping Texans in the seventeen-county Lubbock District informed on highway projects.

"Without the close and continuing support of the people of Texas, through their local and State officials, the Texas system of modern highways would not have been possible," Wall concluded.

National Chester White Sale Set In Plainview

The leading Chester White hog sale of the nation is slated in Plainview Feb. 14-15, according to Area Swine Specialist Dr. Gilbert R. Hollis of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock.

The 24th National Chester White Southwestern Spotlight will feature top breeding and market hogs from 62 breeder in 12 states. Entered in the annual hog sale will be 127 boars, 137 open gilts and 10 bred gilts, all for sale. Along with these 274 breeding animals, more than 70 barrows and gilts have been entered in the carcass-on-foot evaluation contest.

The two-day meeting, to be at the Hale County Agricultural Center, will have a number of events of interest to hog producers, county agricultural Extension agents, vocational agriculture instructors and 4-H and FFA members, says Hollis, who works with swine producers, breeders and organizations on the Texas High Plains.

"Breeders will bring the best of their herds to the show and sale," he adds.

Competition is expected to be tight, with some of the nation's leading breeders consigned to sell, the specialist predicts.

Texas and Oklahoma have been the fastest growing states in numbers of Chester Whites, he notes, and a large group of purebred and commercial hog producers from these states are expected to participate in the conference.

Donald W. Brown, purebred Chester White breeder from Battle Ground, Ind., will judge the large breeding animal classes and the on-foot market hog show. Auctioneering the event will be Butch Young of Stillwater, Okla.

Entries will be accepted on Feb. 13. Judging of barrows and gilts gets under way at 7 a.m. the next day, (Feb. 14) followed by the breeding animal show at 10 a.m. Selection of national champions will be at 3:30 that afternoon.

A highlight of the conference will be a banquet for all consignors, Spotlight personnel and other interested individuals at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 14 at the Holiday

Lower Interest Rates Effective On GI Loans

A one-quarter percent reduction in the maximum G. I. home loan interest rate became effective Jan. 22, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

In ordering a drop from 8.5 to 8.25 percent on Veterans Administration loans, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that the new lower rate has been established for FHA loans by the Secretary for Housing and Urban Development.

A law enacted last July authorizes the VA Administrator to set interest rates on G. I. loans in line with market conditions following consultation with the HUD Secretary.

The new maximum rate was set after a series of market indicators had demonstrated the old 8.5 percent figure, in effect since August 25, 1973, was very near the par for commercial home loans.

The reduction effective Jan. 22, is the first decline in interest rates since 1971. Interest rates reduced three times since Dec. 2, 1970, and Feb. 1, 1971. Rate increases made program from its June 1944 until Dec. 1971.

G. I. loan applications month were well below normal seasonal dip period. During the first FY 1974, 155,700 applications were received percent below the total first half of FY 1973. Requests also were percent.

Noting that the interest rate can save as $1,530 over the life of a year mortgage on a home, Coker expressed hope that the reduction encourage many veterans service personnel to the home buying market.

The new loan rate apply to VA mobile loans, which differ regular mortgage loans they are for shorter term lesser loan amounts.

Conservation Annual Meet

One of the Nation's oldest conservation organizations will hold its 28th annual convention in Houston Feb. 11-14.

Ed Dawson, Chairman of the local Lamb County and Water Conservation District, said the National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD) will convene in Houston's Regency Hotel.

NACD represents 3,000 soil and water conservation districts in Puerto Rico, and the Islands.

Featured speakers include Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butts, who will deliver the banquet address on Feb. 13, and R. Poage, chairman of House Committee on Agriculture, who will preside at a luncheon meeting Feb. 12. Poage also will present the 1974 NACD Distinguished Service Award.

Other speakers will include Robert L. Sanson, administrator for water programs, Environmental Protection Agency; R. Bryant, manager, applications National Aeronautics Space Administration; W. Scott, National Wildlife Federation; and Ralph C. Winter, president, National Association of Foresters.

Texans To Pay $15.1 Billion Of $304.4 Billion Fed. Budget

$15.1 billion is the amount of Federal taxes that Texans will be required to pay as their share of the cost of the Federal spending budget of $304.4 billion proposed by President Nixon for the Federal fiscal year beginning July 1, 1974, according to an estimate today by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

This estimate was based on the State Chamber's calculations that Texas taxpayers bear 4.97 percent of all Federal taxes.

The State Chamber pointed out that any change which Congress may make in this budget will reduce or increase the amount that Texas taxpayers will have to bear depending on whether Congress cuts or spends more.

"How much is $15.1 billion?" asked J. Fike Godfrey, Executive Vice President of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"Well, to get that huge amount of money to have some meaning, our staff compiled some figures from the 1974-75 Texas Almanac and here are some comparisons: Based on 1971-72 of the government of the Texas could run for four years and nine

This much money give every person nearly $1,350 each.

If you owned all the oil and natural gas in the world, you would take nearly one-half year's production pay $15.1 billion.

Vegetable Growers' Meeting Slated In Hereford Feb. 12

Potatoes and onions will be the focus of attention at the annual conference of the West Texas Vegetable Growers' Council in Hereford Feb. 12, according to Extension vegetable specialist, Dr. Roland Roberts.

Vegetable growers and shippers, together with industry, extension and research representatives, will study all phases of production and marketing of potatoes and onions.

The event will be at the Bull Barn, with registration at 9 a.m.

Potato diseases and disease prevention, soil fertility, insect control, potato handling, shipping, merchandising and promotion all will be dealt with in detail, Roberts adds. A program on the revolutionary device known as the "Zapper" will be presented by the Oceanography International Corporation during the one-day event. Engineering and performance of the successful Texas A&M University mechanical onion harvester will be discussed.

At noon there will be a beef barbecue luncheon. Vegetable industry suppliers will have displays and will talk personally with growers.

Registration for all activities is $5 per person. Students pay a reduced fee of $2.50.

"Industry and business representatives are strongly supporting this program financially to make possible presentations by experts from other states," Roberts says.

"A few of the people who are traveling from California, Colorado and South Texas to meet with us include: Headlee Wright, a potato grower from Colorado who is president of the National Potato Promotion Board; Ernie Cornwall, central field representative, National Potato Promotion Board; Dr. Albert Paulus, Extension pathologist, California Agricultural Extension Service; Dr. William Aldred, assistant professor, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station; and Lynn Davis and Larry Vincent, of Oceanography International Corporation, College Station.

"In a successful vegetable industry, there is a strong interdependence between persons in the growing and handling phases of the business. Each shipper has a vested interest in seeing to it that he does the best possible job of preserving vegetable quality on the way to market. And likewise, each grower wants to produce vegetables of the highest possible quality, to gain the greatest return per pack and preserve a quality image in the buyers' eye.

"We expect this Conference to offer a unique opportunity for vegetable growers and others to discuss crucial matters in the future prosperity of our industry," Roberts emphasizes.

Farmcast

Compiled From Sources Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

It came as no surprise when the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service noted that cattle being fed for slaughter as of January 1 is down in both Texas and the nation.

The number of cattle on feed in Texas totaled 2,205,000, down two per cent below a year earlier, three per cent below December 1 and five per cent below October 1.

Nationwide, cattle on feed were down six per cent below a year ago.

Placements are down 21 per cent from a year ago in Texas. Feedlot operators reported intentions to market 1,150,000 cattle between now and March 31. This would be 52 per cent of the number on feed as of January 1 and would be six per cent more than the total marketed during this period a year ago.

In the state, large feedlots—those with 1,000 plus capacity—numbered 233 and held 2,158,000 cattle on feed for slaughter. Of that number, 81 per cent reported cattle on feed, while the remainder reported their feedlots empty as of January 1. Capacity for all 233 feedlots showed a 71 per cent occupancy.

"Small" feedlots—those with less than 1,000 head—held 47,000 head.

Nationwide, there was a decrease of 15 per cent in the number of cattle and calves placed on feed October through December of last year. Anticipated marketings now through March are one per cent below those actually sold during the same period a year ago.

Calling All Homemakers

Brought To You By Bert & Carol Wallace

THE FURNITURE WITH A "SECRET"
 Some designers call sofa-beds the furniture with a "secret" because the sofas are so attractive no one would guess they change into a bed until you actually see them change yourself.
 Years ago, many sofa-beds were not so beautiful, and they were often uncomfortable and difficult to operate. Their limited use was a necessary evil. But in recent years, through the ingenuity of the furniture designers, sofa-beds or convertibles, have really changed into beautiful, comfortable and practical pieces of furniture.
 Sofa-beds can now look like any other type of attractive sofa, in any style, and they may be had in all sizes from a love-seat that sleeps one, to a long-boy containing a king-size mattress.

The versatility of design and size makes them usable in the most elegant living room, as well as the den or sun room, and the ease of operation makes it possible to convert these sofas into beds with no difficulty.
 All of these features, plus the fact that for daytime use they are just as comfortable for sitting as any other sofa, makes them a good buy.
 And, for furniture to fill any of your needs, it can pay you to visit us. Accept our invitation to come in and browse around.
