Judge Denies Cloud Seeding Injunction

District Judge Pat Boone Jr. has denied a temporary injunction against cloud seeding activities. In his ruling filed Tuesday, Judge Boone said the defendant Plains Weather Improvement Association's claim of privilege is overruled, and all defendants' special exceptions to plaintiffs' pleadings are overruled. In his letter to all of the lawyers who presented both sides in the five-day hearing, Judge Boone said the plaintiffs' application for temporary injunction is in all things denied because the evidence does not show such circumstances as to invoke the harsh remedy of injunction.

In making the ruling he advised the lawyers to submit exceptions and notice of appeal as may be requested by counsel affected.

The suit was filed by Farmers and Ranchers for Natural Weather against cloud seeding activities in parts of nine High Plains counties conducted by Lamb County Better Weather, Inc. and Plains Weather Improvement Association. Also named in the suit was Atmospheric, Inc., the contracting company for the Littlefield based operations.

Approximately 127 farmers and ranchers were named as plaintiffs in seeking to enjoin the operation of the two weather modification activities.

Those against the weather modification claimed that activities carried out by the defendants to suppress hail, decreased natural rainfall over their land.

Plaintiffs lawyers were Bill Browder, Harrel Feldt and Damon R. Capps of Midland and Tom Tollett of Littlefield. Representing Better Weather and Atmospheric, Inc. was Jerry Kirby of Littlefield. Gene Owen and Paul Lyle of Plainview were lawyers for Plains Weather Improvement Association.

The issue before the court is considered of vital interest to all concerned. Even before the ruling was made, both parties expressed determination to take their case on to a higher court if they lost.

The ruling will influence all commercial weather modification programs, and the decision could influence experimental weather modification research.

The suit filed in 154th district court is the first ever filed in Texas against a hail suppression program, and the ruling of who owns atmospheric space sets a precedent for future disputes.

Equipment Damaged By Fire

Two county maintainers were heavily damaged sometime Saturday night after the seats were set ablaze.

The road graders were left parked two miles east and one and one-half miles south of U.S. 385 where road work was underway.

Sheriff's officials estimated damage of $1,200 to the interior of the maintainers and to the air conditioners mounted on top. Glasses in the cabs were broken, also.

One of the maintainers was new, with only 53 hours on it. Investigation into the arson continues.

Littlefield's first serious fireworks-related incident occurred well before July 4. Monday a fire caused from firecrackers broke out at the Boy Scout Hut in the northwest corner of Laguna Park.

According to James Cox, chief of police, four children aged 9-11 had opened a number of firecrackers and were burning the gun powder. Dry grass around the hut caught fire and then the building caught fire.

Volunteer firemen answered the call and held property damage down to about $100.

At the sheriff's office seven arrests were made during the week. A Littlefield man made a $1,000 bond on a charge of burglary of a private residence.

A Littlefield man was charged with felony DWI and bond was set at $1,000. An Amherst man and Sudan man were charged with DWI and made $1,000 bonds. A Sudan man was charged with simple assault, another Sudan man and a Littlefield man were charged with drunk.

Several thefts were reported during the past week. Vic Reynolds reported the theft of welding equipment valued at $400 from a tool shed on his farm northwest of Littlefield.

Johnnie Harper reported the theft of three batteries off his irrigation wells in the Banner Switch community.

Friday, July 5 Farmers' Deadline

All Lamb County farmers are reminded that Friday, July 5, is the final date to request prevented planting on rain torgham in order to be eligible for possible disaster payments. Producers who are prevented from planting grain within 150 days for acreage credit no later than this July 5 deadline.

July 15 is the final date for Lamb County farmers to certify. Friday of this week, 200 farms had been certified having 1,857 farms to be certified by 15.

Failure to certify acreages on time and sign up in the cotton, wheat, and feed grain programs could (1) cause farmers to be ineligible for any possible disaster or deficiency payments (2) cause crops to be ineligible for CCC loan, and (3) cause allotments to be reduced for future years.

Farmers are reminded, also, to come in a correct certification if they plant more acres or destroy and acreages after certifying the crops.

Mears Sisters' Poetry Chosen For Publication

VICKI MEARS

LORETTA MEARS

Two senior daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mears of Rt. 1, Littlefield, Vicki Mears, 17, and Loretta Mears, 16, have been notified that their poems, which were published this spring in the bi-annual anthology of high school poetry, "Young America Sings", have been selected for publication in one of a series of national anthologies.

Vicki's English instructor was Mrs. Hazel Ward, and Loretta's instructor was Mrs. Dauphene Smith. Vicki wrote "My Home" and Loretta titled her poem "How Come...Life".

MY HOME

By VICKI MEARS
My home—a place to learn and grow.
A place to love, then leave also.
To take my first small step to learn
The ups and downs of life each day.
To seek my fortune bright or bad.
To grow and make a home, my own.

My small riches begin to grow.
To build my home with love and joy.
The place loved so much by me.
I made my home like before.

HOW COME...LIFE

By LORETTA MEARS
How come life has to be this way.
Why is it a great big mess.
How come everything seems to go wrong
And no one knows where to turn.
How come life has to be this way.
Why can't it all work out right.
Why can't everyone love one another
And peace be everywhere.
How come life has to be this way.
I ask this question each day,
And the only answer I can come up with
Is that Life is just that a way.

Penny Walter's Poem Chosen For Publication

Penny Walter, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Walter of Littlefield, has been notified by the American Poetry Press in Los Angeles, Calif., that her poem, "My Love", which was published this spring in the bi-annual anthology of high school poetry, "Young America Sings", has been selected to be published in one of a series of national anthologies.

The notification came from M. Walsh, chairman of the board. Her English instructor at Littlefield High School, Mrs. Hazel Ward, submitted the poem for publication in the bi-annual anthology this spring. The poem in its entirety is included here:

MY LOVE

There is the earth and then the clouds.
There is the space, the stars—then nothing
For endless lengths there seems to be nothing.
But then so black, so pure, so sweet, but thick.
Lifetime upon lifetime you travel through.
The black, the pure, the sweet, and then the thick.
Then off, unreachable but then present.
A light, a warmth that grows and grows and grows
It's everything there really ever was.
It's everything there really ever is.
It's everything to me; it is my love.

Delegates to the 39th Annual Assembly of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate, met in Fort Worth, June 20-22.

Bert and Carol Wallace of Littlefield and Carol Favor of Spade represented the Lamb County Division of the American Heart Association as delegates to the statewide assembly.

The delegates to the assembly attended specifically designed workshops to acquaint newly-elected delegates and board members with the work of the American Heart Association, as well as to refresh the knowledge of those individuals who were already actively participating.

One workshop of particular interest to the Lamb County delegates was the research reports. This was a two and 1/2 hour session in which three of the 35 scientific investigators funded by American Heart Association in Texas, gave lectures in lay language as to what they were studying and why and how this would improve knowledge on

Dr. Richard A. Galoy, PhD U. T. Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, is studying Sympathetic Stimulation to one of the two main nerves which goes to the heart. This stimulation is done with 4 to 5 volts of electricity—which he has found to increase the heart rate, cardiac output and blood pressure. He is trying to find if stimulation of sympathetic nerve causes high blood pressure and if so how to find and treat the stimulus which is affecting this nerve to control blood pressure. His grants include $5,000 from National AHA, $2,500-Dallas School and $2,500 from Texas Affiliate.

Dr. Miguel Quinones

(Kenosis) from Puerto Rico from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston is developing ways to measure strength in the heart muscle and finding drugs and surgical methods to control pumping power. He has used an ultra sound beam to measure stress on to the heart muscle.

Dr. George Lindenmayer, PhD from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston is looking for the causes of death in heart issues. He is studying the time between occlusion of the coronary arteries and when the occluded part of the muscle dies and is also trying to find a way to control arithmics (signals to brain) after a heart attack.

John Bell Gets 'Honor Of Day'

Mrs. Frances Johnson of Littlefield was notified June 21 that her son, U.S. Army paratrooper John Bell has been selected as "Outstanding Soldier of the Day" in the first Battalion of the 46th Infantry.

According to Fred W. Goodenough Jr., LTC infantry commander, the effort with which he prepared himself is greatly appreciated by the entire chain of command. "In addition, his performance serves as an example for every soldier in the battalion to strive to emulate. If every soldier could conduct himself as he has done, the 1st battalion would truly be composed of professionals," he added.

Therefore he was commended to his mother who can take justifiable satisfaction in knowing that her son's performance was outstanding.

Korean Veterans' Names Sought

Korean veterans, when was the last time you were personally thanked for your role in keeping this Eastern Asian nation free of Communist control. "Never," you say. "No one really cared."

Well, there is a group, a non-profit corporation called Korean Light, Inc., which really cares and they want to thank you and all Korean veterans for helping Korea gain its freedom.

But unless you send your name, address, dates of service in Korea, military unit, and rank to Korean Light, Inc., P. O. Box 950, El Segundo, Calif. 90245 you won't be able to receive the recognition you deserve.

If you have served in Korea since August 1945, let Korean Light know so that you can receive a personalized letter of appreciation from an organization which is thankful for each and every American who ever set foot in Korea wearing a military uniform.

Korean Light is coordinating this nationwide search for Korean veterans as a part of commemoration of 20 years of freedom and prosperity since the armistice between the Republic of Korea and North Korea.

Their goal is to reach all Korean veterans with their letter of appreciation.

Pollution And The Weather

Man's dirty fingerprints are found throughout the air, land, and water. Now for the atmosphere at least, that pollution is beginning to acquire the influence of a major natural force.

Earth scientists Helmut K. Weickmann and Rudolf F. Pueschel say that if we go on dirtying the air at the present ever-increasing rate, our contribution of aerosols (fine airborne particles) will equal that of nature within 23 years.

Since nature's aerosols may already depress world average temperature by perhaps 1 degree C., our dirt conceivably could affect climate. The difference between an ice age and a warm period may be reflected in a few degrees of average temperature difference.

Meanwhile, pollution already seems to be affecting local weather around cities and industrial centers.

Drs. Weickmann and Pueschel, who work for the U.S. National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), focused on aerosols as the most important aspect of air pollution as far as weather and climate are concerned.

Reviewing this influence in Science magazine, earlier this year, P. V. Hobbs and H. Harrison of the University of Washington and E. Robinson of Washington State University concluded that "aerosols are probably the principal agents by which pollutants affect weather and climate." They added, "On the local scale, the effects of pollutants on some aspects of weather are unmistakable. The effects ... on global climate are a matter of debate, but they may already be significant."

According to a Stanford University study, nature now puts some 2,097 million metric tons of aerosols a year into the air. That's about 88.5 percent of the total. Man's 269 million metric tons a year make up the other 11.5 percent.

But, as Drs. Pueschel and Weickmann note, man's dirt is concentrated largely in regions covering about 2.5 percent of earth's surface. In that limited area, man's aerosols are nearly 84 percent of the total. They affect local weather in several ways—filtering sunlight, changing patterns of heating and cooling, seeding clouds. They are known to cause snow showers downwind of cities or industrial centers.

Climatic effects are harder to trace. Depending on their nature and distribution, aerosols could either heat or cool parts of the atmosphere by absorbing or scattering light and radiant heat or by affecting cloud patterns through seeding. No one knows what this might do to climate.

At the moment, man's contribution to global dustiness is relatively small, but fast growing. It could become a climatic threat if it remains uncontrolled. Since Drs. Weickmann and Pueschel think the prospect for effective control is good, they are not worried about this.

Local weather in industrial areas is another matter. They think this is being affected enough to urge immediate study of what is happening and how it is happening. Their concern is another reminder that air pollution may affect us in ways we scarcely suspect.

INDEPENDENCE DAY JULY 4, 1974

From The Living Bible

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord, whose people he has chosen as his own. The Lord gazes down upon mankind from heaven where he lives. He has made their hearts and closely watches everything they do. The best-equipped army cannot save a king—for great strength is not enough to save anyone. A war horse is a poor risk for winning victories—it is strong but it cannot save. But the eyes of the Lord are watching over those who fear him, who rely upon his steady love. He will keep them from death even in times of famine! We depend upon the Lord alone to save us. Only he can help us; he protects us like a shield. No wonder we are happy in the Lord! For we are trusting him. We trust his holy name. Yes, Lord, let your constant love surround us, for our hopes are in you alone.

CLIPS & TIPS

By JOELLA LOVVORN

THIS YEAR, an estimated 40 million campers will leave all the comforts of home for the great outdoors. A need to break city routine, the trend to "get back to nature," the pleasure of inexpensive family fun; these reasons and more have spurred the annual exodus.

Campers, who are noted for their voracious appetites, will consume approximately 2.9 billion meals. By anyone's standards—that means a lot of cooking!

To assist the camp cook in preparing simple, hearty and nutritious meals, Campbell Soup Company has published a 24-page booklet entitled, "The Cooking Camper."

Prepared especially for campers, the handy pamphlet contains numerous recipes for easy-fixing foods, checklists of camping equipment and food staples, and other helpful guidelines.

Reports of thefts and vandalism at the city police station include a $500 loss of property from the Wade Polk residence at 820 W. 2nd. Taken were a television set, tape box, three clocks, a four burner stove, toaster and coat.

Santos Gonzales reported the theft of a 16-speed boy's bicycle from a residence at 500 W. 4th.

The concession stand at the Little League ball park was broken into, doing about $15 in property damage, and about two cases of soft drinks were taken.

C. C. Seratt Jr. at 1211 W. 3rd Street reported vandalism at his residence where a window was broken and screen was cut.

Firemen answered a call to Bawcom Butane on the Spade Highway about 8:40 p.m. last Thursday.

Otha Dent Resigns

From Water Board

Judge Otha Dent of Littlefield, 20-year veteran of the Texas Water Rights Commission (TWRC), has announced his resignation from the Commission, effective July 15.

Governor Dolph Briscoe has not announced a replacement to the three-man Commission.

Dent was first appointed to the TWRC (then the Board of Water Engineers) in 1953 by Governor Allen Shivers, then reappointed in 1959 by Governor Price Daniel. In 1965, he was renamed to the Commission by Governor John Connally, and again in 1971 by Governor Preston Smith.

Chairman of the TWRC for more than three years, Dent is a former Lamb County Judge and past president of the Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association.

meal. Of course, you need to plan ahead and take the proper ingredients, most of which are canned.

And, you don't even have to go camping to prepare these—they're so easy.

ORIENTAL CHICKEN

- 1 can (19 ounces) Chunky Chicken Soup
- 1 can (16 ounces) Chinese vegetables, drained
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- Generous dash ground ginger
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water
- Chinese noodles

In saucepan, combine soup, vegetables, soy, and ginger. Blend cornstarch and water until smooth; add to soup mixture. Cook, stirring until thickened. Serve over Chinese noodles. Makes about 3 cups.

TIPS AND TIDBITS

DO YOU EVER have oversized spools when sewing? When using factory-type large spools of thread that won't fit on the home sewing machine, sit a fruit jar behind the machine with the spool in it. The thread will feed through perfectly and the spool won't be falling all over the floor.

Another hint: when changing thread, don't go through the process of rethreading your machine. Just tie new thread to the old thread at the top and pull through to the needle and thread it.

FOR AN EXCELLENT, inexpensive and nutritious drink, mix flavored gelatin in water. It won't set, for it is not concentrated enough. It is a good, protein-filled drink for small children.

GIVE A CHILD an old high-heeled shoe you no longer wish to wear. Let him paste uncooked macaroni onto the outside and spray paint it. Styrofoam can be cut to fit the inside and artificial flowers inserted to make a gift or centerpiece. It's a simple and inexpensive rainy-day project.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

I Understand

"IT WAS A MISUNDERSTANDING" is often the reason given for the strife between two persons, or among several people; and this frequently the reason. All strife is undesirable, but the strife caused by misunderstanding is about the saddest of all because it could be prevented. When the situation is considered carefully, it is difficult to find just cause for the misunderstanding.

MOST OF THE TIME somebody can understand. If we want to understand, and are willing to put forth our best effort; we can usually see. It may not be necessary to say anything, but if it is; we should be eager to say, "I understand."

In many instances, nothing can be more helpful than this simple statement. There will be times, when some extra consideration and explanation will help bring about an understanding.

UNDERSTANDING does more than prevent strife and hard feelings. It is a very good source of encouragement.

Most people want to be understood by others, and, since we know how much it helps us to be understood, we will surely try to understand others. When we have sufficient insight to understand, and we do have such insight in most situations, we should be diligent in letting other people know.

WHEN SOMEONE HAS SUFFERED a loss, or has failed, or made a mistake, or is sad, or hurt, or disappointed; they can usually be encouraged by someone who is kind enough, and thoughtful enough, and cares enough to say, "I understand."

It may not be necessary to say the words, because there will be a message.

"I UNDERSTAND" is the most helpful and human association.

"KIND WORDS PRODUCE" an image in men's souls, and comfort the hearer. They soothe the heart of his sour, morose, unkind. They have not yet begun to use such abundance as they used." Pascal.

THE FAMILY CAN be stronger and happier if understanding prevails.

Much of the bitterness could be prevented by the expression, "I understand" when it is supported by the makes it true.

MUCH OF THE STRESS in business comes even in the more common associations can be prevented by understanding. If the people honestly try to understand, enough to say, "I understand" is always better.

Even if this action makes somebody the advantage, wise action. We are not anything worthwhile.

WE MUST CARE ENOUGH to be courageous enough to understand."

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL

TODAY IS INDEPENDENCE day—the day set aside to commemorate the Declaration of Independence made nearly 200 years ago. In our mind's eye we can still see the picture of the fifer, drummer, and the standard bearer as they, though wounded and bloody, march proudly and triumphantly forward. This was the Spirit of 1776.

Today we pause to pay homage to these brave and daring men who paved the way to the building of this great nation. A nation that today doesn't have to howl and scrape to any other nation in the world! We owe a debt of gratitude to those fellows who set up the foundation for this nation, armed only with faith in God and self.— Would that we, also, were so strongly armed!

WHILE THE ENGLISH tolerate us, they have never really forgiven us. We see the evidence of this cropping up in various ways and occasions. To them, we are still the "Brash and Bloody Rebels."

We glory in our independence and strength, but when we think of it, we realize that no nation is independent; anymore than any man can be totally independent. This is a sobering thought. We often quote, "No man is an island unto himself." So, likewise, can no nation live entirely to itself.

THE DOCTRINE of "Isolationism" might have been the end of the war when Spangled Banner" was written. It was agreed upon when the signal of "one, if by sea" was agreed upon. The signal was given to war coming by air!

The world has become small, and distances have become minutes. Instead of modern Paul Revere can beam. The modern navy have reduced the walls of the dust, as it were. Not only depend on other nations, we must depend on them for our need FRIENDS!

THUS, WE FIND that additional debt of gratitude we have fought, bled, and died. Ravages of war continue on our shores. We have yet to see the awfulness of the destruction with modern war. We grumbled at the senseless becoming involved in foreign should realize that the price of our own land has been these endeavors.

TO REMAIN FREE, we must be strong, while learning to help fellow nations as brothers.

Turn Row COMMENTS

By EMIL

AS A STARTER I have some good news for all. During the month of July, we will receive more rain than usual with the first to fall by the time or soon after you read this column. Some 4th of July picnics may become dampened and again in the middle of next week there should be more rain and some precipitation should fall each week thereafter throughout the month of July.

Looks like farmers are going to have to get those dryland fields cleaned up so we can start planting milo, soybeans, sunflowers or three minute oats.

Of course if something should happen that we do not receive any moisture then we can expect high temperatures with partly cloudy skies and some moderate to high winds.

SPEAKING OF MODERATE to high winds, looks like I'm trying to date myself like another writer I know, but I can remember back when, in the month of July and August, when there was not enough wind to turn the windmills to water the cattle or the drinking water for humans was scarce.

Of course this took place good ole days when we had electricity and did have about a hundred and fifty head of cows and each one seemed twice as much water as one of the year.

In order to keep the cow from hawling and the squealing water was too shallow troughs.

By using shallow troughs animals could drink at a doing so their thirst was sooner. Then the large-filled troughs. Those were the best gasoline powered pumps. During this time you could have at least one well-leathered, working barrel repaired in the pipe.

Now to some those were days, hot dry Julys and little or no breeze or rain. Conditioning, just hard work. I'm not too good to relieve no thanks, I believe I'll go to Thomas Edison and pay back a month for electricity.

GUESS I'D BETTER STOP as I'll be accused of writing vesteryear like another know. Besides I can't attribute to the Writers Guild.

Annual rainfall in the U.S. is more than 4 million tons of chloride, 2.5 million tons of sulphate, 36 million tons of compounds.

Cotton Talks

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., High Plains Cotton Council organization with headquarters in Lubbock, are planning county office meetings of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in all farmers to measure and certify crop acreages here the July 15 deadline. Those who don't sign up for a program stand to lose 20 percent of their allotted acreage, one-third of their farm's established yield, and all chance of being eligible for disaster payments, price deficiency payments or price support loans. It's as simple as that," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald A. Johnson.

The cotton section of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, which became effective this year, offers far less benefits to participating farmers than did the previous program. And county ASCS personnel across the High Plains fear that some farmers may fail to recognize the importance of "signing up" this year.

The concern stems from an abnormally slow sign-up pace this year. Walter Wells, Lubbock County ASCS Office Manager, reported on June 28 that only about one-fourth of Lubbock County farmers had signed to participate in the 1974 program. In previous years the percentage signed up two weeks before the July 15 deadline has been from 50 to 65 percent, he says.

This year's program authorizes disaster payments of about 12.7 cents per pound times the farm's established yield if planting is prevented by drought or if crops are lost to hail or other adverse weather. And the same payment may be made on the difference between a farmer's actual harvest and the established yield from allotted acres if production on the farm falls below two-thirds of what the ASCS determines would be a "normal" yield. Also, should the national average market price for U.S. cotton fall below 38 cents per pound, there is provision for a price deficiency payment to make up the difference.

"But whether or not any payments or other benefits are involved in 1974," Johnson concludes, "it is still important that every farmer sign up to participate in the program as a means to preserve allotments and yields for the remaining three years of the program."

An analysis of the worldwide situation by the supply-demand division of Cotton Incorporated, national producer research and market development organizations, yields some encouraging conclusion, notes Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

As the transition from a cheap energy world to an expensive energy world progresses, the analysis states, "Cotton will emerge in an improved position due to its inherent advantages of being less energy expensive than synthetics and more comfortable in a world which will be less heated in winter and air conditioned in summer."

And it goes on to say "After examining the forest rather than the trees, the conclusion is that the U.S. will increase its share of exports to a growing world cotton market is inescapable."

"Getting Along"

SOONER OR LATER a man, if he is wise, discovers that life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take.

He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul - that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back.

He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses.

He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight.

He learns that the quickest way to become unpopular is to carry tales and gossip about others.

He learns that most people are human and that it doesn't do any harm to smile and say "good morning" even if it is raining.

He learns that most of the other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work, and not cleverness, is the secret of success.

He learns that it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit so long as the business shows a profit.

He comes to realize that the business could run along perfectly without him.

He learns to sympathize with the youngsters, coming into the business, because he remembers how bewildered he was when he first started out.

He learns not to worry when he does not make a hit EVERY time, because experience has shown if he always gives his best, his average will break pretty well.

He learns that no man ever got to first base alone and that it is only through co-operative effort that we move on to better things.

He learns that the fellows are not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that "getting along" depends about 98 per cent on himself.
