City Declares Insect War, County's 'Hands Tied'

Commissioners' Court 'Not Inquiry Board'

The city of Littlefield declared war on flies and mosquitoes this week while the commissioners' court said in effect their "hands are tied" in doing anything about a fly problem west of town just outside the city limits.

"It's between the airport and the runner-up All-American city," one person stated.

"The commissioners' court is not a court of inquiry or enforcement," County Judge G. T. Sides told about 20 persons at the public hearing in the county courtroom Thursday morning.

Those present voiced loud complaints against the flies they said were caused by Barton Farms, the caged laying plant owned by Jack Barton.

Charlie Richardson presented a half-gallon syrup jug filled with wriggling fly larvae "scooped up outside the chicken coops late Wednesday," he said.

He also presented an orange rind sprinkled with fly bait and filled with dead flies.

Richardson, who owns a tomato green house on the Bula highway, said, "If the fly problem isn't solved this year I will move my buildings and business to another city."

"It isn't the poultry industry I object to," Mrs. Hollis Smith said. "I object to the lack of control of sanitation. The fly problem could be prevented."

Mrs. Smith lives inside the city limits on the Bula road. "But those flies don't pay a bit of attention to crossing the city limits," she said.

Slow Grissom is another resident inside the city limits who attended the hearing.

Ross Lumsden, who lives west of the airport, said he had stopped at Grissom's Gulf Station at the by-pass and Bula highway intersection, "when the flies were so bad I had to get them out of the way to sign the credit card. Chicken manure is piled up out there three and four months at a time," he said.

Mowing, Spraying Are Ammunition

Littlefield will begin its annual war on weeds Monday when city mowing equipment will be put to work.

The annual fight to control mosquitoes and flies already has begun with nighttime spraying down streets and alleys.

Beginning Monday, city officials will make weed inspections and will send out 10-day notices to residents who need weeds mowed. If, after 10 days pass, and weeds still need mowed, the city will mow the property and send a bill to the property owner.

Thirty-five Littlefield residents received notices this month, after garbage can inspections were made, and were informed that their cans had improper lids or needed lids on them. The garbage can ordinance enforcement began May 1, and is another step being taken by city officials to reduce flies and mosquitoes in the city.

According to City Manager Jim Shearer, city spraying equipment had been used every night last week through Thursday, and the "mosquito and fly population had been reduced quite a bit." The weather—rainy or dry, high winds or light breezes—determines spraying need and frequency.

The Baytex insecticide, an odorless liquid, recommended by the State Health Department, is being used. The insecticide is residual and should last two weeks—depending on the weather.

"The annual weed mowing program for Littlefield usually begins around June 1," said Shearer, "and we hope we can eliminate the mosquitoes and flies with the spraying program."

INSPECTION MADE

Farm Complies With State-Fain

Dr. J. R. Fain, Lamb County Health officer, said in a telephone interview that complaints on flies "come from the same people every spring."

Reacting to criticism of his office at Thursday's county hearing, Dr. Fain said: "The chicken houses are inspected at least once annually, and they comply with state regulations in fly control."

Dr. Fain said he had been to the egg plant only once and that was before he was named county health officer.

"But I've been invited by Jack Barton to inspect the premises at my convenience," Dr. Fain continued, "and I intend to do so regularly during my tenure of office."

"Fly control of rural areas is regulated on a state basis and not by individual wishes," Dr. Fain said.

After the phone interview Dr. Fain made his first official inspection of the chicken houses as Lamb County health officer.

Friday morning he reported that he had inspected Barton's premises as well as two chicken houses on the Bill Zahn property.

"I found the operations to be within state qualifications," Dr. Fain said, "I'll give a thorough statement later."

City To Stop Air Pollution

Because of a new law pertaining to control of air pollution from outdoor trash burning, Littlefield residents must establish a new system of doing away with their trash—at an initial cost of about $29,190 to establish the system.

"Compliance with these regulations—set up by the Texas Air Control Board—must be accomplished on or before July 1," said City Manager Jim R. Shearer.

"Pursuant to meeting the requirements, this office has conducted an extensive study of various methods of solid waste disposal to determine the most efficient and economical program for Littlefield," he continued.

The outdoor burning of waste material or other combustible material is prohibited in all Texas municipalities of 5,000 population or more.

Shearer has attended three workshop meetings, has consulted engineers, State Health Department officials, Air Control Board staff members, construction contractors, and equipment dealers before recommending the project.

He will make his recommendation to the sanitary landfill method to the city council for deliberation at their next regular meeting Thursday night.

City Studies Suburb Attack

Members of the Littlefield city council will take action Thursday night on a proposal to spray properties outside the city limits on the Bula highway.

According to Mayor J. E. Chisholm, tentative plans call for spraying all of the property in and around the Barton egg plant when the city makes its regular run in the west part of town.

Mayor Chisholm said Jack Barton had given the city his permission to spray his property.

The city plans to spray all the property in that vicinity, too. Chisholm said the spraying should cut down on the insect problem in the city of Littlefield.

A long lasting insecticide with the trade name Baytex will be used. This residual spray kills flies and mosquitoes and is the same spray used inside the city limits. It is not harmful to animals or vegetables and has no offensive odor, the mayor said.

TWO MEN STAND POISED over spilled gasoline at the collision site of a motorcycle on Highway 385 Friday night. Fear of sparks and a lighting cigarette smoker brought out the firemen, who doused the scene after the tangled vehicles were pulled apart.

Woman Hospitalized Following Wreck

Martha Ann Vanostrand, 25, was injured Friday night after she was involved in a 1955 Harley Davidson motorcycle accident.

She and her husband, Edward W. Vanostrand, 30, were traveling south on Highway 385 when their motorcycle collided with a 1963 Chevrolet driven by Peggy Dean of Littlefield, who pulled from the left on 19th Street into the path of the motorcycle.

Both were thrown clear of the motorcycle before the automobile came to rest on top of it.

According to a telephone interview with Mrs. Vanostrand Saturday morning in Littlefield Hospital, she was "pretty sore and bruised up." Her husband went back to the hospital Saturday morning to have a broken thumb set and have a cast placed on his hand.

Peggy Dean had just received her diploma at graduation exercises, and was on her way to a family gathering at her grandparents' home when the accident occurred.

Gasoline from the motorcycle had spilled over the highway and the fire department was called out to stand by when the vehicles were torn apart.

Some feared a spark would result when the vehicles were pulled apart, or from cigarette-smoking onlookers.

MRS. C. D. NELSON is recuperating from her third broken hip and can hardly wait to get back into the swing of things. Seventy-four years young, she still writes the Anton news for area papers and even when confined to a wheel chair with mending bones "gets as much done as ever, and just has a ball."

Whatever It Is... We're Gonna Have It

What has no name, no obvious reason for being, and yet will probably be the biggest thing to take place in Littlefield in the past several years?

Give up? The first annual celebration that has been slated for Aug. 29-30.

At a meeting last week of the celebration's steering committee, made up of representatives from organizations of the community, the dates were tentatively set and activities were tentatively scheduled.

There will be events of interest to residents of every age group during the two-day celebration, with yet more activities yet to be proposed.

The celebration came about when residents observed that Littlefield had nothing during the year to bring them all together at a particular time or event. In years past, an annual cotton event was held, but that fell by the wayside and nothing took its place.

A contest was suggested, to be held sometime during July, to name the new annual event. Dates, rules and prizes are tentatively set.

'Swinging Stringer' Has A Ball

PHILAH RODGERS

Staff Writer

C. D. (Anna) Nelson of Anton is a "swinging stringer" in spite of a broken hip.

Nelson says you get as much out of life as you put into it, and over the several years she has gotten three broken hips, among other things, and has a ball.

She is in the Medical Arts Hospital recovering from her third broken hip.

The last time I broke my hip," 74-year-old Mrs. Nelson said, "I told myself that if I ever broke another hip I was going to throw in the towel and quit. But in the ambulance on my way to the hospital this time, I said, 'you ain't ready to give up yet!'"

A "stringer" is a person who writes for newspapers and is paid by the inch. The "swinging" came about because newspapers write their own headlines, and it is common for "correspondents" or "stringers" to string all their clippings together with transparent tape for easy use.

Mrs. Nelson has 16 years' experience as a stringer, writing nine years for the Leader-News, five for the Levelland and two for Anton.

Even with Mrs. Nelson in the hospital, her column inches keep building. Mrs. Dorothy (Neal) Conkin is keeping Mrs. Nelson's column going until she can resume the writing herself.

"I don't write for what I get out of it," Mrs. Nelson said. "I write for what it does for me. My doctor has often remarked he thought writing for the paper was good for me. And I do, too. It gives me something to do, and I enjoy it."

When asked to guess how many inches she'd written, she replied, "Oh murder, I wouldn't even want to guess how many. I had 70 inches in two different papers Easter."

She used her newspaper writing to become eligible to draw Social Security before she got 72-years-old. She had to show earnings of $400 per year for two years to qualify. In addition to her stringing, she sells subscriptions for The Leader-News. "I've got many a subscriber," she said.

Mrs. Nelson said she has a living without her writing and subscriptions, "but it helps financially."

She gets all the personal items, club news and such that she can get by phone. "I used to jump in my car and go a half a dozen times a day," she said. "I don't do as much driving now, but I manage to get into Littlefield at least once a week."

Mrs. Nelson has changed her mind when it comes to driving, too. "I told my son-in-law once to see to it that my driver's license were taken away from me when I got to be 75. I told him the other day to just forget what I said, that I'd changed my mind about that, too."

Mrs. Nelson expects to be walking again in about four months. "I've lived in a wheelchair two different times," she said, "and I got as much work done as ever. I had a bunch of company come by every day to see me, and I just had a ball."

She can hardly wait to get back to her "Anton News." "I'm missing so much that's going on here at the end of school I can hardly stand it," she said. "People have been so good to me. They cooperate when I call them and some bring news to me, especially the weddings and showers."

Littlefield Went To The Dogs Thursday...

"CAN'T STAND TO LOOK," Kevin Bell said when it was Missy's turn to get her rabies shot. He slapped his hands over his eyes until the ordeal was over. The abandoned hand holding the dog is Pete Hill's. He was bitten earlier, and had to go across the street to the hospital for a tetanus shot.

"NOW THAT WASN'T SO BAD, was it?" Kevin asked Missy after the vet gave the Bell's mixed terrier and border collie his vaccination. Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bell. Missy is one of 158 dogs who received vaccinations Thursday. Dog tags went on 115 of the animals.

What The Leader-News Thinks

A Few Thoughts To Reckon A Message For Graduates

This letter was given to us by a father who had written it to his son some years ago. It is in answer to a letter from the son who was away from home and was seemingly having some of the difficulties which we all encounter from time to time during a lifetime.

We felt that, although it was written to a son of early years, it might refresh in our minds some of the things we know, but do not practice as often as we should.

Dear Son,

Personal responsibility is the single most important thing in any man's life. It is the summation of his honesty, integrity, self-discipline and thoughtfulness (or love for others).

Learn to be reliable, to do what you know is right and what you know you should do.

Tell only the TRUTH—stick to it no matter what! Liars can't be believed, nor trusted. Lying (including continual overstating, exaggerating) even about unimportant things is like shouting wolf. You won't be believed when you're telling the truth about something really important.

When in Rome don't keep telling the Romans about some other place. Self-centering all conversation, bending every comment or conversational opening around to yourself, your home town, your experiences, is not calculated to win nor hold friendly attention. You know this. Try to put it into your life and practice it. Avoid making yourself and your demands the center of all eyes and attention. Learn to take your turn, you're not the only one.

Avoiding everything in the way of study or books will keep you out of contact with the society of educated men. To attempt it is to spend your life in the self-centered joy of proving you don't need to learn anything from the experience of others. This automatically guarantees you the unhappy certainty of making all their mistakes for your own self. Certainly one learns from experience, but study, worthy of the name, is experience.

When you have the opportunity to learn, don't side-step it by immediately saying you know all about it. Listen and you might learn something. Ask a few interested questions and you're sure to.

And when you have learned a little about something, don't assume that you're an expert and know all about it. You'll be surprised how much more you really need to know.

You may feel you'd like to skip all this, just not be bothered thinking about it. A lot of people have felt that way. In fact, at one time or another, everyone has felt that way and actually acted that way.

They get devious, careless with the truth, dodge personal responsibilities, shove other people around to fit their selfish needs of the moment, prove their own stupidity by discounting every experience and fact that isn't their own.

When that happens, of course, a lot of people around them get bruised, but it is the guy himself who really suffers the most. Because nobody does things which he knows are wrong without trying to hide from himself the fact that he's really doing wrong things. He kids himself. And, brother, when you begin kidding YOURSELF, you're in trouble!

You've had some setbacks and some difficulties. Everybody does. Learn all there is to learn from those jolts without hiding your head in the sand and without kidding yourself. You're just as good as the next guy, and a lot better than most. You've got a lot to be proud of. Let it show through by the things you do.

Look at the hard facts. Then look inside for the reasons for your failures. You know. It may be easier to place the blame outside yourself, but a man always knows why he flopped and then he does something about himself to succeed.

Grandpa used to tell me, "If you can't do anything about it, don't worry about it. But if you can, why, boy, you'd better get busy!"

With Love,
Dad

Doctors Don't Fight

INDIVIDUAL DOCTORS are adored by their patients, but as a bunch they are suspect.

Now they, collectively, are getting another smearing as a result of a mushrooming Medicare scandal.

A MIAMI OSTEOPATH is accused of collecting Medicare payments totaling $285,866 in one year. Two brothers in New Jersey are said to have collected $375,000 from Medicare for patient care in nursing homes they own.

The "secret government list" made available to Congress identifies (without naming them) 47 physicians receiving $50,000 a year from Medicare.

OUR SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE quite rightly wants to know whether the taxpayer is getting his money's worth from the $6 billion government program of health care for the elderly.

At the same time, and for the same reason, the tax-financed, state-administered Medicaid program is under investigation.

Congress hears that there are thousands of doctors, dentists, optometrists and others who are receiving $25,000 or more annually from the Medicaid program.

AND THE MEDICAL profession, per se—including its AMA—allows its rebuttal of silence to sound like a mass confession of guilt.

Somebody should be on the stump for the medical profession replying to these accusations and allegations.

THE OHIO STATE MEDICAL ASSN. was alone in its prompt response when the scandal broke. With a united and impressive voice, that state's doctors—without polling the membership—publicly called for a no-holds-barred congressional investigation of this situation.

The Ohio association did not have to poll the membership; it has an established policy to call for proper investigation of any such allegation, both to punish the guilty and to clear the innocent.

IT IS EXTREMELY UNFORTUNATE some similar statement was not forthcoming from their national association.

When the charge hit the front page that "5,000 physicians earned more than $25,000 each from Medicare last year"—somebody should have explained that the gross income of a physician is drastically reduced by his average 40 to 45% overhead. Nobody did.

AND WHILE CONGRESS is seeking leaks, the biggest leak of all is in the government's own administration of Medicare.

If you insure yourself with a private company, your benefits amount to 92 to 96 cents of every dollar paid in.

But nationally, for the first 18 months of Medicare, Part B, for every $6 paid in each month for each beneficiary, there was paid out in benefits only $4.08.

WHAT HAPPENED to $1.92 out of every $6? HANDLING CHARGES. Doctors didn't get those dollars; bureaucrats did.

We have a President in Mr. Nixon who is ready, willing and able to reverse the tendency toward Big Brother Government, but the pressure on him is all from the other side.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Put Up The Iron

By LIBBY MUDGETT

I'M ONE of those people that gloats when any of my numerous enemies gets into deep trouble. (I sometimes wonder if ALL people don't and are lying in their teeth when they claim otherwise.)

Anyway, when I read that the U. S. is deeply concerned over the ever-increasing influx of cheaply made synthetic fibers, my day was made. The U. S. synthetic industry has been one of my special targets for venomous attack for years. (Pure jealousy, that's what it really is.)

DID YOU KNOW that two out of five suits produced in the U. S. are made out of Japanese cloth? Har har de har har.

Cotton went through that for years—watching our government send tractors and agricultural advisers to foreign countries, many of whom were against us anyway, and then letting them compete (and win) with American grown cotton.

SO IT'S TIME the synthetic industry learned a little about that frustrating position, me thinks.

However, they aren't taking it lying down. Already they've sent Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans on a tour of seven countries to see about that little problem.

I CAN'T RECALL anybody going on any kind of tour to take up for the cotton industry, but that just proves that the synthetic people have a little more pull and a lot more moolah than we do.

Stans hasn't gotten anywhere yet, though. Japan told him in so many words to drop dead, they weren't about to hold back their textile exports.

KOREA TOLD HIM that 30% of their total employment and 34% of their exports were from the country's synthetic textile industry. And also to drop dead.

Which just proves that if North Vietnam was very smart, they'd let us win the war and we'd teach 'em how to cut our throats while we were financing the whole operation.

THIS ALL PUTS ME in mind of the time I met a Du Pont executive in the flesh at a college graduation ceremony. Much to my surprise, he didn't have horns.

In fact, he was sort of nice after his second martini.

I lit into him about all of the problems his company had created for us cotton farmers and he politely told me that the cotton industry had only itself to blame.

HE SAID THAT the cotton industry had the ability and know-how to have done all the research and improvements it has now done long before the day of the synthetic.

The reason it didn't, he went on, was because the tight-fisted cotton farmer wouldn't finance the research.

This didn't set very well with me, so I went into a long tirade about why should the farmer pay for the research instead of the cotton mills.

HE GAVE ME a long suffering look and said I had just answered my own question when I lit into him about the trouble synthetics had given cotton. Synthetics had been willing to try to please the mills, did so, and thereby got a lot of cotton's markets.

I started in on all those facts about cotton being more absorbent, cooler, longer lasting, etc. etc. and he heard me out.

WHEN I FINISHED, he was well into his third martini and finished the whole argument with one undeniably true remark: "If there's one thing a woman likes to put away forever, it's her iron."

I could see I'd better take over tactics and started in on the hard time we cotton farmers were having with higher cost production and lower income results, besides the hail.

TURNED OUT the fellow was a Yankee and had no idea how cotton was grown and how hail could possibly hurt it.

I launched into a long educational explanation of the facts of cotton life.

He cried into his fourth martini for us all.

HE SAID TO COME down to the Du Pont factory at Orange and we'd work together perfecting a hybrid plant of cotton and synthetic rubber that hail would just bounce off of harmlessly.

I shoulda taken him up on that.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

'Life Style'

By BOB WEAR

MUCH IS BEING said about "life style", and most of the talk comes from a very unstable social and moral climate.

The persons whose attitudes and ideas are fashioning this climate have obviously assumed that each individual is free to make his own rules for living.

No one has such sovereignty.

THIS UNSTABLE AND DREARY social and moral condition is deadly and completely unsatisfactory. History reveals it to be totally tragic.

As time passes, it becomes less and less desirable as a life establishment. It becomes progressively worse because it is formed by a variety of "life styles" in which most, if not all, time-tested standards and ideals are discarded.

THESE FAULTY "Life Styles" are contrary to everything that a long history of the human race reveals to be essential to human well-being.

These reckless "life styles" are destructive of every good known to us. They undermine and weaken our whole human, social structure.

THE PRESENT, widespread "Life Style" of rebellion and self-indulgences contains the unsound view that each person is free to do "his own thing". This view is neither wise nor workable.

It is a rejection of all specifics and absolutes. It is the silly, weak, perverted attitude that everything is relative; that nothing is either right or wrong, but thinking makes it so.

RELATIVITY as a philosophical "Life Style" has nothing to recommend it. It is "the state of being dependent for existence or determined in nature, value, or some other quality by relation to something else."

This is a very poor guide for conduct of life. In fact, it is almost no guide at all.

RELATIVISM IS WIDELY accepted by many in the actions which form their "life style".

THE PHILOSOPHER

Scientific Proposal

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm thinks he has a method of finding out if life is possible on the moon, his letter this week claims.)

Dear editor:

Like nearly everybody else, I guess I followed the astronauts to the moon last week and am now convinced we can actually put a man on it this summer if the money doesn't run out, but a phase of the project has been bothering me since I read an item in a newspaper day before yesterday.

According to it, great precautions are going to be taken to keep the moon-landing astronauts from picking up possible moon germs and bringing them back to earth.

When they get back with their 30-billion dollars worth of rocks and soil samples, the astronauts as I understand it, as soon as they splash down in the ocean, will be sealed with their loot inside germ-proof bags and, untouched by human hands, flown to their base and let out in a germ-proof room for a few weeks, so that if any moon germs have been picked up they'll die before they get a chance to take hold on earth.

This is no doubt a good idea, certainly we've got all the germs we need on earth now, but I was just thinking: What precautions are we taking not to get any earth germs started on the moon?

This is the view that "life style" (relating to moral action, most character) truths depend upon individuals and groups to them." Those who follow the discard everything decent moral with a flippant "Well, what you think!"

SITUATION ETHICS is an faulty view for the formation "life style". This is the attitude an individual cannot beforehand what is right or in his behavior.

He must wait until he becomes part of a situation before he know how to behave.

This view that a situ provides trustworthy guide one's behavior is an unsatisfactory for establishing "life style". It destroys individuality, personality, spirituality.

"LIFE STYLE" determines what others are doing or not do or by what seems expedient at moment is very close to nihilism. In fact, it may be some style, but it is more of abandonment of life than living. It is a kind of resignation from life. It is filled with ob faults, weaknesses and utility.

THE "LIFE STYLE" unrestrained license, in which one does "his own thing" rejection of the time-tested standards and ideals.

Those who accept this way living have not emancipated themselves.

They have enslaved themselves vacillating, nebulous and destructive rules and guidelines.

THERE IS A SENSIBLE "Style" that serves the best interest of each person and the common good.

It preserves and protects, sustains everything that is stable and useful, and beneficial, decent.

It is the "life style" established by our conformity to the God's pattern for living.

Here we've got an unspoiled object that's been floating around up there for centuries and you an astronaut with a head cold get out and the first rattle out of box sneeze, and the moon never be the same again.

Of course if there's no life on moon and no possibility of it then no harm will be done, but do we know something can't get up there?

This is a question that ought be answered and I'm proposing scientific experiment to find out.

All the space scientists have do is shoot a small rocket full Johnson grass seed up there, and that stuff doesn't take root, grow in 30 days, you know moon is eternally barren.

Yours faithfully

Where To Find Happiness

(Taken from Nathaneal Olson)
By CAPT. LON KINLEY
Salvation Army

EVERYONE WANTS to be happy. The problem is where to find happiness. Sad individuals, unhappy families, grief worn cities, sin sick nations, and a troubled world tell a dreary history of looking for happiness in things which do not bring it.

If you want happiness, don't look for it in:

RICHES: Jay Gould, the multimillionaire, said, "I am the most miserable man on earth." Ivar Krueger, who had an immense fortune and was head of the world's largest monopoly, committed suicide.

FAME: Stephen Foster, the famous composer of "Swanee River", "My Old Kentucky Home" and many other plantation songs, died a drunkard's death at the age of 38, penniless and heartbroken.

Samuel Johnson, the famous English author, who was praised by even the critics, said: "I think I'm going crazy."

World famous musicians—Tschatkovski, Schubert, and Mozart—died heartbroken, without eternal hope.

POWER: After conquering all the then known world, Alexander the Great sat down and cried because there was no more world to conquer.

Hannibal, the greatest general and statesman of ancient Carthage, took poison, which he always carried with him.

PLEASURE: Lord Byron, who lived a fast life of pleasure and ease said that youth is a mistake and that old age is a regret.

The Scotch poet, Robert Burns, after experiencing sinful dissipation in seeking pleasure wrote: "Pleasures are like poppies spread; you seize the flower, the bloom is dead."

EDUCATION: Rescue mission workers have many educated men with B.A.'s, M.A.'s, Ph. D.'s among the hopeless, horrible Skid Row. Their faces show their happiness.

RELIGION: Stressing ritual for reformation for regeneration, the "resolution" for the "new birth"—religion failed to bring happiness.

HAPPINESS, which cannot be found of these, CAN be found in—

JESUS CHRIST.

Why is there Joy in Jesus Christ?
1. He forgives all your sins, past and present. (1 John 1:9).

2. He promises eternal life. "Believe in the Son (Jesus) and you will have life." (John 3:36).

3. He assures you that your need, what it is, will be supplied. "But my God shall all your needs according to His riches by Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4:19).

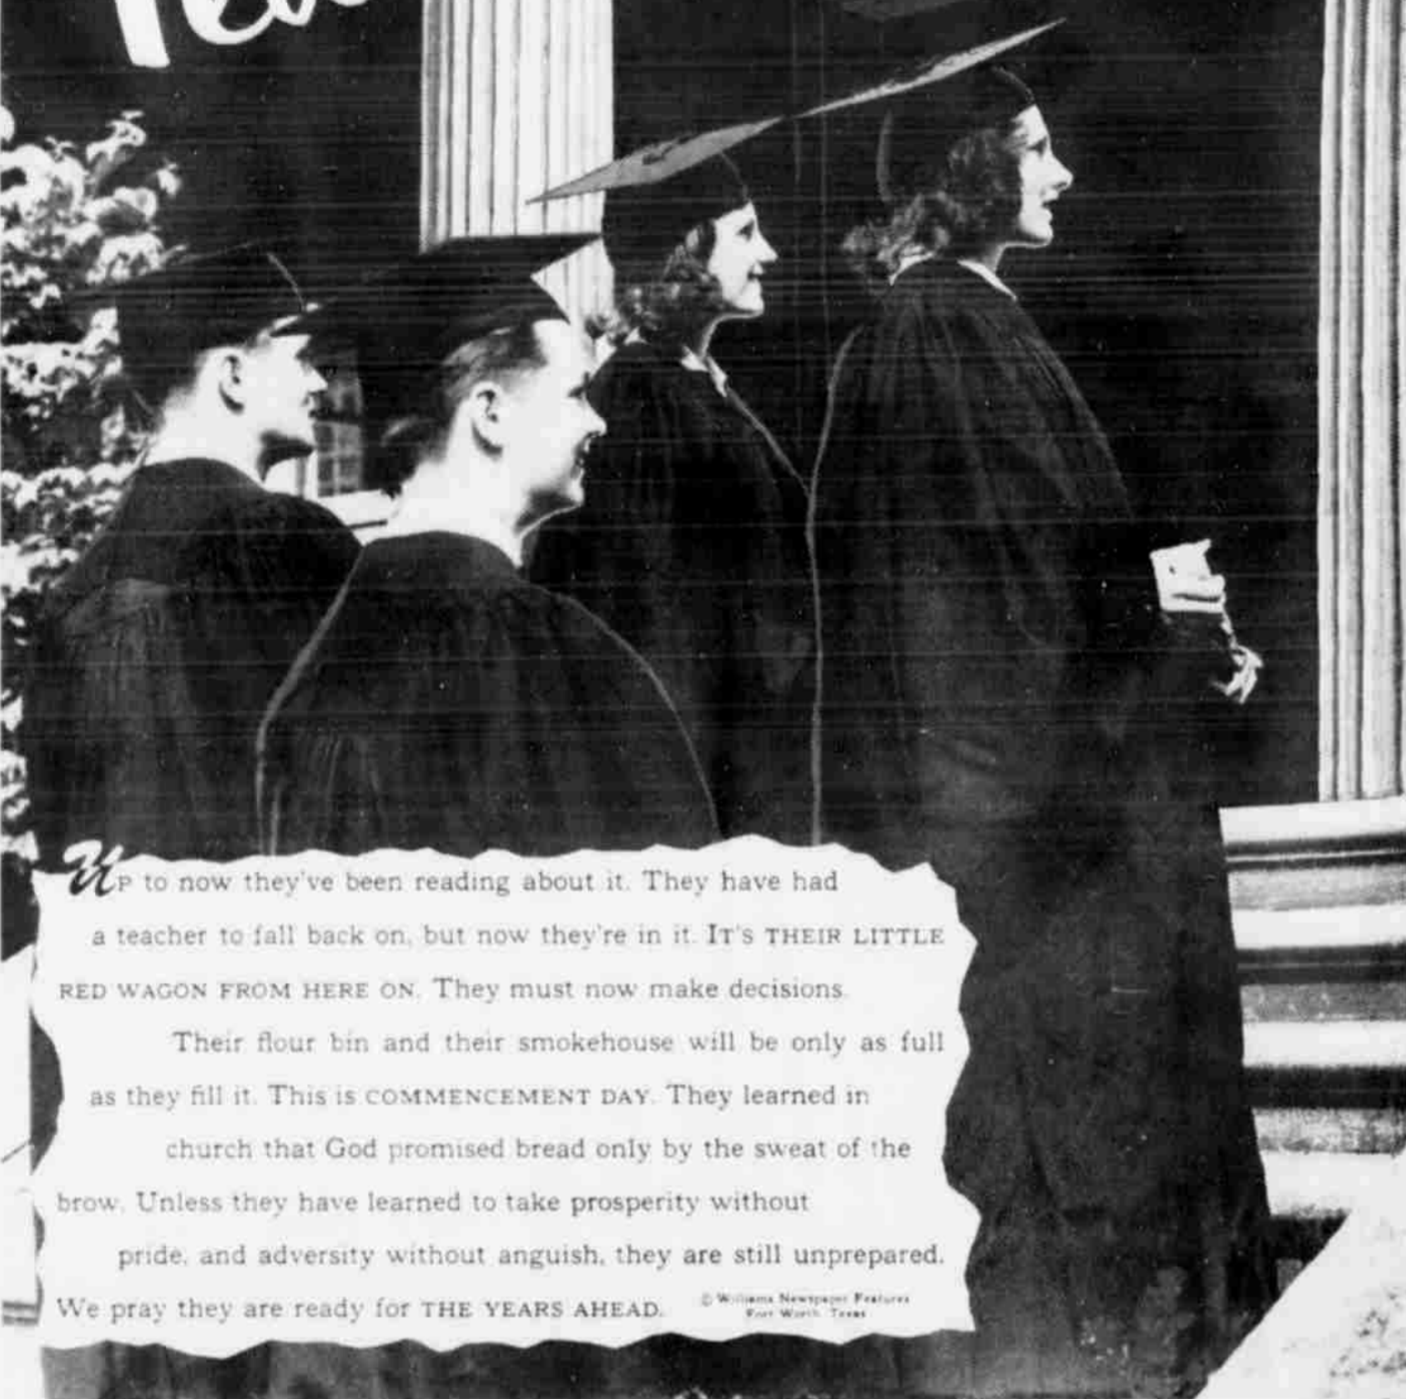

4. He promises a home in Heaven. "In my Father's house are many mansions were not so I would have told you. I prepare a place for you. And if I go and a place for you, I will come again, and you unto myself. That where I am, there you may be also." (John 14:2,3).

JOY NOW and through eternity can be found in Christ. Receive Him today and this assurance: "As many as received Him gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name." (John 1:12).

STRENGTHEN YOUR FAITH

Through Regular Church Worship

The Years Ahead!

Up to now they've been reading about it. They have had a teacher to fall back on, but now they're in it. It's THEIR LITTLE RED WAGON FROM HERE ON. They must now make decisions. Their flour bin and their smokehouse will be only as full as they fill it. This is COMMENCEMENT DAY. They learned in church that God promised bread only by the sweat of the brow. Unless they have learned to take prosperity without pride, and adversity without anguish, they are still unprepared. We pray they are ready for THE YEARS AHEAD.

Red Raider Group To Visit June 10

Littlefield, thanks to the formation of a Red Raider Club here, has been added to the golf trail of the Texas Tech coaches and sports public relations department.

It was announced last week that the long-established visitation tour of the Tech athletic department will visit here Tuesday, June 10.

The touring group includes most of the coaching staff, some of the Tech faculty and sometimes out-of-town members of Red Raider Clubs.

A typical day on the annual tour will find the coaches at a service club luncheon at noon, on the golf course with local fans in the afternoon, and at a dinner or barbecue that evening.

Those attending the night meetings will hear football coach J. T. King and new basketball coach Bob Bass discuss prospects for the coming seasons, view a new highlight film on all sports at Tech, and listen to Leete Jackson, Red Raider Club Executive Vice President, discuss the organization's activities.

Littlefield is the third city to be visited on the 18-town agenda. The tour will go to Levelland June 4 and Gaines County the following day. After that most of the major towns between Hobbs, N. M., and Wichita Falls, Midland and Pampa, will be invaded.

Glenn Batson and Tom Hihun are coordinating the visitation here.

KYLE JONES took two strikes in the sixth inning Thursday night, attempting to advance two base runners with a bunt. Then he squared off and drove in big mates, tying the score at 7-7. Following him, Ronald Parmer drove in two more to provide the margin of victory, 9-7, for the Lions over Butane in Major League play.

IN MAJORS

Rotary Bats Boom

Rotary, apparently fuming from last week's upset loss to Optimist, sent their big bats cracking Friday night and slammed Batson 17-0 in a fracas highlighted by two home runs.

The Lions broke their tie with Butane, 9-7, Thursday night and stood alone in second place behind Rotary...but that standing depended on last night's outcome in another clash between the same two clubs.

ROTARY 17 BATSON 0

Rotary skunked Batson 17-0 in action Friday night.

Glenn Smith got the first hit off Rotary's Gary Brown this season, a single. This player also did an excellent job at short stop for Batson.

Doug Perrin of Rotary hit his best night of the season, a grand slam home run double to account for two runs. Brown hit his homerun of the season, a Hopping and Ken Turner single and a double each. The losing pitcher Randy Lucas.

LIONS 9 BUTANE 7

The Lions overcame Butane 9-7 Thursday night. In spite of the fact Butane took an early lead in the first inning the were still able to come back the fifth and sixth innings to score four runs in each.

The tying run was hit by Kyle Jones in the inning. The winning run driven in by Ronald Parmer. Danny Brockington was winning pitcher and Tom Batson was the losing pitcher. The leading hitters for Butane were John Paez with two doubles and Gary with a double and a single. The leading pitcher for Lions were Ronald Parmer with a single and a double. Ricky Parker with two

Big Scores Highlight Minor League Action

There were some big scoring games on this week in the Minor Leagues.

Despite a two-run victory in one of three contests, the winners out-scored the losers by a total of 75-29.

Security State remains undefeated through six contests, and holds a game and a half lead over second-place Leader-News. Coca Cola is advancing in the standings, now in third, and two straight losses by Production Credit has dropped them into fourth place.

looked as though Piggly Wiggly was going to win because they had racked up a lead of 9-2. But Leader-News accumulated 12 points in the last three innings.

The winning pitcher was Mike Gage and the losing pitcher was Benny Trevino.

The leading hitter for Leader-News were Ralph Mandez and Tommy Hodge with a triple each, and Blate Allman with a double.

The leading hitters for Piggly Wiggly were Bobby Roddy with two singles and Kevin Yandel with two singles.

Babe Ruth Slates Games

The Babe Ruth League swings into its regular four-night schedule of play this week, with the ending of school.

Teams have been playing on Friday and Saturday nights only. But now they will meet on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights, leaving the local field open to the American Legion club on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

State Line-B & C Pump faces Ware-Richey Monday night, and then takes on Amherst Tuesday. Two games Thursday pit Ware-Richey against Security State and Roden against Sudan. Friday's contest will be Security against Roden.

SECURITY STATE 4 AMHERST 3

Security State beat Amherst 4-3 in a clincher Thursday night.

There was no score until the fourth inning, when each team scored three runs.

Then in the sixth inning Danny Estrada got a base by a walk. Two stolen bases and a wild pitch brought him home to beat Amherst by one run. He was also the winning pitcher, allowing Doug Cummings the only hit of the night for Amherst.

Cummings was the losing pitcher. Doyle Washington, Rickey Sanchez, and Russel Turner were the leading hitters for Security with a single each.

attended the hearing and testified that he moved to Brownfield three years ago because of the fly problem.

"I just gave up the home where I had raised my family and moved," Young said. "I cannot sell the property. People who have looked at my home say 'Man! I wouldn't have that fly trap!' It's hard to have to give your home up. If somehow the flies could be controlled, I would like to move back."

Richardson said he had contacted Dr. Cecil Ryan, head of poultry science at Texas Tech. He said that he had been advised that malathion and kerosene oil was a cheap and effective fly control. Also a residual spray, "and Barton knows about this measure, too," Richardson said.

Richardson said he had talked with Barton, unsuccessfully, "about trying to control the flies."

"We will listen," said Judge Sides, "and sympathize. But I don't know what else we can do. This will just have to be taken through due process of the law," the judge added.

County health officer Dr. J. R. Fain came under fire at the meeting.

Several said he was unsympathetic to their cause, saying he had taken the stand that the chicken houses were there first and the people could move if they didn't like the flies.

A. A. Allen asked the commissioners why they didn't see that the health officer carried out his duties when he was appointed by the commissioners' court.

"There are about 150 dead chickens piled up out there right now," Allen said. "That smell early in the morning on a weak stomach isn't a very good way to start the day."

"Then a couple of flies land in your coffee before you drink it. This may sound funny to you," he told the commissioners when a titter ran through the room, "but just come out to my house some day for a cup of coffee and strain flies through your teeth. Then it won't be funny."

Commissioner Jack Peel said the county health officer's jurisdiction ran from county line to county line.

"Perhaps this court should see to it that he carries out his duties," Peel suggested.

Hubert Dykes, county commissioner in the involved precinct, said, "I believe there is a problem there and it needs taking care of."

What action to take when the county health officer doesn't investigate "is strictly supposition" Judge Sides told the gathering.

He agreed an injunction could be filed, "but not every injunction is granted."

Jack Barton did not attend the meeting, and later did not comment on the issue.

Farmers, Ranchers Set Conflab

Two issues of vital importance to farmers and ranchers will be discussed at a District 2 meeting June 2 in Lubbock, according to H. L. (Hub) King of Brownfield, Farm Bureau board member from this district.

The meeting, which will be attended by county Farm Bureau presidents and policy execution and policy development committee members, will get underway at 7:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn East.

King said the purpose of the meeting is to explain in detail the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1969, which incorporates most of Farm Bureau's farm program proposals, and Senate Bill 8, which provides for extension of the Labor Management Relations Act to agriculture.

Bill Wedemeyer of Waco, TFB research and education director, will outline the provisions of both the farm program proposal and the proposed farm labor legislation.

Farm Bureau opposes the extension of the Labor Management Relations Act to agriculture.

GI Bill Celebrates Third Anniversary

According to Jack Coker, manager of the Veterans Administration of Waco, June 1, is the third anniversary of the post-Korean GI Bill education and training program.

Mrs. Ruth Wade, Lamb County Veterans Service Officer, stated that during the past three years, more than 1,148,000 veterans and 83,000 servicemen nationwide entered training under this program.

In Texas, more than 68,739 veterans and servicemen entered training during the past three years, some 43,390 of which went to college and 23,383 entered schools below the college level.

There were also 1966 veterans entered as on-the-job trainees since Oct. 1, 1967, when this benefit went into effect.

This spring more than 33,454 veterans in Texas were enrolled in training. This is an all-time high for the three-year-old post-Korean GI Bill, Coker said.

More than 21,770 were enrolled in institutions of higher learning.

To be eligible for post-Korean GI Bill education and training from VA, a veteran must have had at least 181 days of service, part of which was after Jan. 31, 1955, and have received an other than dishonorable discharge.

A recent change gives a veteran one-and-one-half months of educational entitlement for each month of service with a maximum of 36 months entitlement. Veterans eligible under two or more VA programs may have a total entitlement of 48 months education.

Veterans who have not completed high school may receive full VA educational assistance while earning their high school diploma without having any of this time charged to their maximum entitlement to college training.

Bighorns In Bumper Crop

Texas' bumper crop this year of 12 bighorn sheep lambs may be part of a new era in Texas hunting.

Since 1956, bighorn sheep, trapped on the Arizona Kofa Game Range and brought to Texas, have lived in a 127-acre holding pen on the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area, 35 miles south of Marathon.

Texas started out with four rams and five ewes which, in the past 10 years, have accounted for 56 descendents. During this period four lambs died and two were removed for research on bluetongue, a noted sheep-killer. Three of the original sheep died. There are, at present, 54 sheep in the enclosure.

Because bluetongue could affect the whole bighorn herd, biologists felt research on the disease was urgently needed. In 1968 a ram lamb was taken from the management area to Texas A&M University and inoculated with bluetongue, a commercial vaccine for the disease.

The ram, later inoculated with virulent bluetongue virus from a 30-month old ram which died from the disease, survived and is now living in a zoo.

For the moment Texas' bighorn sheep are living lives of comparative safety. They are hunted neither by man nor beast because of a specially constructed and electrified, high pasture fence.

Biologists are busy studying the bighorns for more effective management, and say they plan to maintain a certain number of brood animals within the enclosure when eventual release of any surplus animals into the wild is made.

ABOUT THE BRAIN

The human brain contains 10 million nerve cells, receiving signals at speeds up to 300 miles per hour.

Don't 'Rock The Boat'

Wind and waves can turn over or swamp small crafts, an official of the Texas Safety Association has warned in citing sudden weather changes in springtime as a major hazard for both seasoned and novice skippers.

"Too many skippers become overly adventurous in spring and fail to heed storm warnings or check local weather predictions before they cast off," George Wm. Perry, Dallas, President of the Safety Association said, and added: "As a result, they often find themselves in real trouble when storm clouds gather."

Compounding their troubles are other common mistakes such as, overloading, improper trimming, unseaworthy crafts, lack of proper auxiliary gear, and poor seamanship, he reported.

The Safety Association President, a Dallas attorney, who also holds the rank of Captain in the U. S. Navy Reserve and has served as Flight Deck Officer on the USS Boxer and Main Battery Officer on the USS Toledo, suggests skippers not only observe storm warnings and check local weather forecasts, but also learn to read cloud formations and other weather signs which warn of impending squalls.

"If you are out on the water and storm clouds threaten, head for the closest safe anchorage or landing," he advised. "Riding out a storm might seem exciting, but it's taking too much of a chance."

POINT BOW INTO WIND

Boatmen trapped by a sudden squall on open waters, should point the bow of their craft into the wind, reduce speed, or take in sail at once.

If it is impossible to make headway against a strong sea, trail a sea anchor from the bow to keep craft headed into the waves.

A bucket will serve as a sea anchor.

LOAD AND TRIM PROPERLY

Perry pointed out that waves can easily swamp a boat that is overloaded or not properly trimmed—balanced.

"The number of seats in your boat does not indicate capacity," he emphasized. "They're there to permit a variety of seating arrangements—not necessarily to be occupied all at the same time."

"Most boats have a plate on them showing maximum capacity. In cases where the plate has been removed, a simple rule to follow is to allow 150 pounds of passenger and cargo weight for each 12.5 cubic feet of the boat."

"Keep in mind that capacity plates on boats are maximum for fair weather and do not relieve the skipper of the responsibility for exercising individual judgement. If the weather and water conditions are rough, the number of persons carried should be reduced."

Perry also advises skippers to load the boat properly by keeping the center of gravity as low as possible. Stow gear amidship, flat, not piled up. Balance should be maintained from side to side, as well as from bow to stern.

Changing seats or otherwise suddenly shifting the weight in a boat is often the cause of a small craft capsizing. If it becomes necessary to move from one position to another, keep low and move smoothly. In choppy water, stay seated on the bottom of the boat.

"As safe as it may seem, standing up is one of the most common causes of getting tossed overboard," Perry said. "Fishermen are most often the victims of this maneuver."

USE CAUTION IN FUELING

Failure to keep auxiliary safety gear in proper condition, or failure to have it on board, can get boaters in trouble with law enforcement authorities, as well as cause problems in an emergency, the Safety Association official continued.

Texas law requires that one life preserver—of a type approved by the U. S. Coast Guard—be on board for each person in the craft.

Keep fire-fighting apparatus in good condition and in a handy spot protected from the elements. The first few seconds of a fire are frequently the most crucial.

The number of approved extinguishers required in Texas depends on the class of the boat. On motorboats 26 feet and under, one and one-quarter-gallon foam extinguisher, a four-pound carbon dioxide or a two-pound dry chemical extinguisher will usually meet requirements.

Complete equipment requirements may be obtained from the Texas Highway Department.

To avoid fires when fueling—do not smoke. Always mix fuels on dock and wipe up any spillage.

SMALL CRAFTS LIMITED

"A boat should be used for the purpose it was built," Perry said and explained: "Pleasure, racing and fishing crafts are all constructed differently, each having its limitations."

Find out what you can expect from your type boat under various weather, sea and load conditions. Match your power to the boat—too much horsepower is risky.

Running in choppy water with too high powered an engine can break up a small boat.

He advised skippers to check crafts to see that they are seaworthy each time they are taken out.

Look for leaks and fix them.

Check motor or sails before leaving shore.

A breakdown after you have cast off, invites trouble.

He also pointed out that there is much more to handling a boat than starting the motor and advised new boat owners to take a course in small craft operation, such as those offered by the U. S. Power Squadron and the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

"Practice proper boating techniques and follow nautical rules of the road. Do not take your craft out alone until you are sure you can handle it in a sudden storm. Your life and the lives of your passengers can depend upon your ability," he said.

Jobs Available For Summer, Fall

Summer and fall jobs are available at South Plains College under the federally subsidized work study program, according to Charles Hays, director of Special Services.

"We have several full-time jobs available for the summer months," said Hays, "and we are accepting applications for part-time jobs for the fall."

Hays emphasized the point that students who wish to work during the summer do not have to be enrolled for classes at the college's summer school.

"The only stipulation," he said, "is that they assure us that they plan to enter the college this fall."

Jobs are available in the physical and biological laboratories, library, bookstore and cafeteria areas.

The college has participated in the Federal Government Work Study Program four years. During the current school year, approximately $110,000 in federal funds was received, and 220 students were employed.

Eligibility is based on family need.

Students receive $1.10 an hour for all jobs.

Anyone interested should contact Hays at the college.

THREE-WAY RIG. Bill Elms of Amherst in Lamb County accomplished three separate operations in a single pass over his cotton land this spring with the planting rig shown here. In addition to shaping beds and bed planting, Elms attached deep-running chisels to a second tool bar to deposit a fumigant to control nematodes. Chisels (like the one in front of his hand) were set to deposit chemical about 4" deeper than opening plow. Elms fumigated 100 acres this year after soil tests indicated he had a nematode problem. He had tests made after his yield dropped from a high of 1242 lbs. of lint per acre in 1962 down to where "it's all I can do to make a bale and a quarter."
