Area Crops Making Excellent Progress

Local Wheat Harvest Bringing Good Yields

Bailey County crops seem to be making excellent progress this year.

County Agent Spencer Tanksley reports that the only drawback has been the hot, dry winds which have caused the drying out of the topsoil and farmers to begin irrigation. Corn, especially, has had to be irrigated at least one time this month.

Tanksley stated that the corn has made excellent growth during June and that the water has benefited the corn.

Cotton planting is complete now in Bailey County and has been for the last several weeks. Tanksley reported an excellent stand on cotton in this area, but also noted a light infestation of thrips in the cotton around the area. Some farmers are considering spraying for the insect.

The rains received last week certainly benefited the cotton, especially on the dryland farms. Grain sorghum planting in the area has been completed and most stands look real well, according to Tanksley.

The county agent noted that there is a possibility of a weed problem occurring this year in Bailey County. This is due to the farmers being unable to incorporate the herbicides properly this year due to the erratic soil temperatures.

Wheat is already being harvested in the county and Tanksley reports that the wheat has made an excellent crop compared to last year's crops.

He said that the grain should be of good quality and should have good yields on both the irrigated land and dry land.

There have been some acres of peanuts and soybeans planted in the area this year and these crops seem to be progressing normally at this time.

The outlook for Bailey County crops is excellent this year at this time and should bring a bumper harvest barring unforeseen events.

Health Department Assists In Disasters

A disaster is unpredictable. Tornadoes may strike with little or no warning and the path of a hurricane often changes erratically with little advance warning.

Texas and the nation this year have felt the brunt of Mother Nature's violence, and tornadoes have roamed the skies. With summer, the hurricane season lies ahead, reminds the State Health Department.

Both natural disasters are capable of causing unforeseen numbers of victims requiring immediate medical attention, plus the threats of disease brought on by unsanitary conditions, disabling of public utilities, contamination of water supplies and disruption of medical service. Floods also may produce rapid buildups in mosquito populations, a nuisance as well as a health threat.

When a disaster strikes, the Health Department joins with other state and local agencies and organizations to fight back with efforts to restore affected areas to normalcy. State disaster headquarters is in a sub-basement at the Department of Public Safety in Austin, where a core of public officials coordinate disaster activities.

In the State Health Department, the Disaster Health Services Program of the Division of Civil Defense and Traffic Safety provides additional resources at the point of need. This is a part of the Texas plan for disaster health and medical care.

Seventeen disaster relief districts, each with a physician directing disaster medical care, are tied into a district Civil Defense and Traffic Safety provides additional resources at the point of need. This is a part of the Texas plan for disaster health and medical care.

Civil Defense Council which coordinates activities of state agencies with disaster functions. In case of disaster or severe threat--such as an impending hurricane along the coast, the Civil Defense Council is mobilized. Within each district are zones from which supplies and personnel requests emanate.

The State Health Department sends representatives of the Disaster Health Services Program to each disaster area to help coordinate activities of other health department personnel. In the case of hurricanes, program personnel are pre-positioned in cities along the Texas coast to await and plan for the storm.

Always quick to arrive on the scene are engineers of the Sanitary Engineering Division whose primary function is checking water supplies. Investigators from the Food and Drugs Division check damaged food and drug products, and Communicable Disease Services Section personnel may be called in to provide vaccines and serums if needed. Other state personnel may be assigned, and local health departments put physicians, nurses, sanitarians and others on duty immediately.

Within minutes after a tornado dipped down into the heart of Lubbock the night of May 11, 1970, nurses and others picked their way through the rubble to check and salvage vaccines and get them to pre-planned emergency headquarters. A disaster health representative of the State Health Department was on the scene of the tragedy within two hours even though the city telephones and electricity were knocked out and transportation disrupted.

The Corpus Christi-Nueces County Health Department had its personnel on duty when Celia slammed into that city on August 3 of the same year. The State Health Department was also there. The personal automobiles of two representatives of the Disaster Health Services Program, who were in Corpus Christi awaiting the storm, were severely damaged. In addition, district engineers and personnel from state headquarters were on the scene.

Equipment from a Packaged Disaster Hospital was set up in a church at Aransas Pass to provide needed medical equipment after Celia.

Just recently the Health Department took over the medical inventory of a hundred 200-bed Packaged Disaster Hospitals, similar to the one from which equipment was used during Celia.

A major disaster isn't the responsibility of one agency but demands the coordinated efforts of many to snap back after tragedy. During spring tornadoes which hit Burnet and Hubbard on March 10, for instance, the Texas National Guard responded quickly with trucks, personnel and helicopters. Representatives of the State Health Department were on the scene within an hour of notification, coordinating disaster health relief.

Once a hurricane or tornado has struck, there's little one can do.

In a hurricane situation, there normally is enough warning to allow residents to leave the area or take shelter in solidly-constructed buildings.

If the possibility of tornadoes exist, individuals should listen to radios and television stations for latest advisories. Some cities and towns have sirens and other devices warning residents to take cover. It's possible to move out of the path of a tornado if sighted in time.

The State Health Department and its local and regional units have responded quickly and effectively in past disasters. With the resources and personnel at its command, it stands ready always to meet the future emergency needs of the citizens of Texas.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
 Attorney General

AUSTIN—Both the consumer and the door-to-door salesman will have reason to think twice about an at-home sale now that there is a new State law which gives the buyer the right to change his mind.

The "Home Solicitation Act" by Dallas Senator Bill Bracklein and Representative Chris Semos of Dallas became law when the governor signed it June 13.

Basically, this law provides that if a consumer is solicited at his home for a sale or merchandise or services costing $25 or more, and subsequently decides that the goods weren't what they'd been cracked up to be, he can back out of the deal within a three-day period.

But it also imposes some strict responsibilities on the consumer, as well as the seller.

For instance, the Home Solicitation Act does not cover sales of farm equipment, insurance regulated by the State, realty sales in which the transactions are being negotiated by a licensed real estate broker or attorney; or sales made pursuant to a preexisting retail charge account, or based upon prior negotiations at a business establishment where the goods were displayed. The original offer must have been made and agreed upon at your doorstep. And that seems fair enough, since the whole idea was to put the consumer on equal footing with the itinerant salesman whose sales pitch may be better than his product.

The salesman is required to give the consumer a "fully completed" receipt of contract—written in English, or Spanish, or in whatever language the sales presentation was made—at the time of the transaction.

Also, he must tell the signer about his cancellation rights, and furnish him with a copy of this printed statement:

"You, the buyer, may cancel this transaction at any time prior to midnight of the third business day after the date of this transaction. See the attached form for an explanation of this right." The form recites a detailed description of the duties of both parties.

The buyer has the duty to meet the three-day deadline by letter or telegram, and he must be prepared to take "reasonable care" of the goods or property in his possession until the cancellation procedure has been completed.

If unacceptable home improvements are involved, the merchant has to restore the property to its prior condition, unless the consumer says otherwise. Violation of the act by a door-to-door seller not only would make him liable for actual damages to the consumer, reasonable attorney's fees and court costs, but he risks having the contract voided.

Dimmitt Ceremony Unites Couple

Miss Sheila Gail Wilcox and Jesse Lynn Odom were united in marriage Friday evening, June 8, at 8:00 p.m. in the Lee Street Baptist Church of Dimmitt. Rev. Charles Harris officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Wilcox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I.N. (Ike) Wilcox of Rt. 4, Dimmitt. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Odom of Dimmitt.

The couple stood before an altar decorated with satin ropes and bows featuring a candelabra in its center. Two candelabras featuring seven white tapers each and entwined with greenery flanked the altar. White bows marked the pews and white satin carpeted the aisle. Donna Hudson, organist, played "Theme From Love Story," and Mary E. Nelm sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Wedding Prayer." Candle-lighters were Shane Smithson and Greg Odom, both of Dimmitt and nephews of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta designed with a sabbina neckline, natural waistline, long tapered sleeves and a full skirt. The neckline of the gown was enhanced by sequins and a satin bow with streamers complimented the waistline. Rows of ruffles fell from the back of the gown in waterfall fashion. The bride wore a shoulder length veil of imported illusion falling from a coil of lace flowers and sequins. She carried a colonial style bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath surrounding a white orchid. Following tradition, the bride wore a wedding band belonging to her maternal grandmother as something old; a diamond necklace given to her by the groom as something new; diamond earrings of her bridesmaid as something borrowed; and a blue garter. She also wore pennies minted in the years of their births in each shoe.

Miss Jaci Johnson of Dimmitt attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ginger Wilcox of Dimmitt, sister of the bride, and Miss Rita Wall of Dimmitt. Flower girl was Miss Cara Odom of Dimmitt, niece of the groom. The attendants were attired in floor length gowns of yellow dotted swiss designed with empire waists and A-line skirts. Lace of yellow roses and greenery and yellow satin streamers enhanced the waists. Puffed sleeves trimmed with lace of the same kind completed the gowns. Each attendant carried a nosegay of yellow pom-pom daisies on a bed of yellow lace and tied with love knots of white satin.

Jerry (Batch) Holcomb of Dimmitt served as best man. Groomsmen were Rick Wilcox of Dimmitt, brother of the bride, and Monte Johnson of Dimmitt. Ushers were Kenneth Wilcox of Big Spring, cousin of the bride; Bobby Martin and Paul Askey, both of Dimmitt. Scotty Williams of Muleshoe and Chad Smithson of Dimmitt, nephew of the groom, were ring bearers.

The bride's mother was attired in a summer pink street length dress of polyester worn under a sleeveless jacket of tan, white and pink paisley print. Long sleeves gathered to a cuff at the wrist enhanced the princess style dress. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and white accessories. The groom's mother wore a mint green polyester suit featuring a pleated skirt and sleeveless jacket. An off-white blouse and white accessories accented the suit. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Members of the houseparty were Mrs. Ruth Snider and Mrs. Sirena Teague. Sandra Tischer of Dimmitt registered guests. The bride's table was laid with a yellow cloth overlaid by white lace and centered with a silver and crystal candelabra bowl holding the bridal bouquet and bouquets of the attendants. The three tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses featured a porcelain bride and groom beneath an arch of white flowers and wedding bells. Pineapple sherbert punch, nuts and mints were served from appointments of crystal and gold. Presiding at the bride's table were Miss Bonita Wilcox of Guymon, Okla., cousin of the bride; Mrs. Paula Wilcox of Hereford, aunt of the bride; and Linda Stone of Dimmitt.

The groom's table was laid with an off-white lace cloth over gold. The three layered chocolate cake decorated in yellow featured a miniature stage coach and bride and groom. Coffee was served from a silver service. Presiding at the table were Miss Viola Jackson of Hereford and Miss Norma Wall of Dimmitt.

For a wedding trip to Lake of the Ozarks, Dogpatch and other points of interest in Missouri, the bride chose a burgundy and white western suit complimented by white accessories. She wore a white orchid lifted from the bridal bouquet. Mrs. Odom will continue her studies at Dimmitt High School where she is a senior student. The groom is a 1971 graduate of Dimmitt High School. The couple will reside at 611 N.W. 8th in Dimmitt after June 15.

Special guests for the wedding were Mrs. O.L. Landers of Winterhaven, Calif., grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Hiram Teague of Blanchard, Okla.

WIND-Y WARNING FOR MOBILE HOME OWNERS

Hurricanes and tornados are not the only destructive winds. According to the National Weather Service, "ordinary" winds strong enough to push or roll an unanchored mobile home off its blocks occur in every state and in every month.

So be prepared; anchor your mobile home to the ground. It's called tying down. Statistics show that tying down is one of the most effective ways to protect a mobile home against wind damage. For tie down tips, write for the free brochure "Wise Up—Tie Down", available from the Mobile Living Communications Center, P.O. Box 3431, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Local Youths Visit Nation's Capitol

Miss Pat Cleavinger of Springlake, Steve Block and Miss Gayla Hooten, both of Muleshoe, and Miss Johanna Rucker of Clovis returned Tuesday, June 19, from a twelve day trip to Washington, D.C. Miss Cleavinger and Block are the winners of the Bailey County Rural Electric Association's Government-in-Action Youth Tour. Competing against eight other contestants, they delivered the winning speeches that enabled them to go to the nation's capitol. Miss Cleavinger's speech was entitled "Where Do We Go From Here?"

Joe Harbin of Muleshoe drove the group to Waxahatchie June 8 where they met with the 41 other representatives from Texas and their sponsors. For the following three days, the Texas representatives rode a bus through Tennessee and Virginia en route to Washington.

On their first night in the capitol, the group toured most of the national monuments including the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Memorial. They also visited the Iwo Jima monument and saw the silent drill team and drum and bugle corps perform Wednesday, June 13, was Youth Day in Washington. Senator Edward Kennedy and Julie Nixon Eisenhower spoke to the group. They toured the White House and capitol building where they sat in on the House of Representatives and Senate. The group also met Senator Benton and Congressman Mahon. Other highlights of their trip was a cruise on the Potomac River and seeing President Nixon on his yacht. One or two of the group got to look in on the Watergate Hearings.

After another three days of bus riding, the Texas representatives returned to Waxahatchie for a farewell party and dance. En route to Waxahatchie, they held a devotional at Lookout Mountain in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Of the trip, Miss Cleavinger said, "It was a very worthwhile trip and I sincerely hope that it will be continued. The most important part of the trip to me was meeting the different kids from all over Texas and realizing that the majority of our youth is good." She

I read this little poem recently and want to share a verse with you in hopes that it has a deep meaning for you. "I saw them walking hand in hand, this father and his lad; I watched him as he spoke to you, I heard him call you 'Dad'. And on the pride he put within that dear, familiar word; I wondered if you caught it too."

HONORED BY BIRTHDAY PARTY. Tressie Web was honored Tuesday, June 19, by a birthday party in the Muleshoe Nursing Home. The members of the First United Methodist W.S.C.S. hosted the occasion.

I wondered if you heard. These children of ours grow up so fast and there is so little time to tell and show them our love and faith in them. Let us never cease to have a little time each day for them in our busy everyday lives, for their love and trust is precious in our lives. I hope there will always be pride in their eyes whenever they call you "DAD".

Market Report

COLLEGE STATION --- Supplies of processed vegetables are the smallest in several years.

"Because the carry-over is so small, prices likely will stay at present levels until sizes of the new pack is known," according to Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Fresh fruit and vegetable items in best supply at the most economical prices include oranges, bananas, lemons, cantaloupes, watermelons and celery."

Also carrots, cabbage, corn, dry yellow onions, radishes, green onions and cooking greens.

"Plums, peaches, nectarines, apricots and sweet cherries are all on the markets but not into the economy-price range yet.

"Occasional good buys appear on frozen orange juice, canned fruit cocktail and canned pineapple."

Beef-hungry shoppers can look for best values on chuck roasts and steaks, ground beef, round steaks and roasts, beef and calf liver--in addition to cuts featured at special prices, Mrs. Clyatt noted.

"Retail pork prices are generally the same as a week ago with weekend specials on hams, picnics, pork liver, shoulder roasts and steaks.

"Fryer chicken is higher than earlier in the season, but it's still a good protein buy. Purchase the whole bird, cut it up at home, and save the difference.

"Turkey prices, generally have climbed, although some markets feature specials."

Large-sized eggs are in greatest supply, the specialist said, urging shoppers to rush eggs home and refrigerate immediately to preserve their quality during hot weather.

Turning to the dairy counter, she recommended "that dish of ice cream and all the other numerous products available.

"During June-Dairy Month, try a product unfamiliar to you, or use an old standby in a new way," she added.

Ruffled Summer Fashion

COLLEGE STATION --- Ruffles attract attention this season, adding feminine touches to summer fashions.

"After all, ruffles are very feminine--whether wide and smocked or in several layers of gathered eyelet," points out Mrs. Vivian Simmons.

"This season finds them edging neckline, sleeves, collars and hems," the clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, noted.

"When sewing at home, remember that ruffle style determines the application method used.

"Single ruffles offer the choice of sewing them in the seam or directly on the garment."

Double ruffles, on the other hand, must be sewn directly on the garment. Otherwise, the desired "double effect" is lost, Mrs. Simmons explained.

"Sew strips together to make one continuous piece. Before gathering, make a narrow hem along one edge--it's much easier to handle at this point.

"Along the other edge, machine baste two rows of long (basting) stitches."

"To achieve evenly-spaced gathers, first divide both the ruffle and area to which it will be attached into fourths. Then gather ruffle to fit area, one fourth at a time, and pin."

"Stitch ruffle to right side of garment and finish with a facing."

As a general rule, in life, one gets about what one pays for.

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa,

I am a retired school teacher but still working in the schools of our county for the past five years. Each year, since retirement, I have given each senior of our county a packet of good literature which they appreciate so much--at least some of them do.

I would like to have your permission to use your letter from Joan who was going to college and was elated to be on her own, and your excellent answer to her. I think this will be good for the seniors.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I am,

E.F.B.--Tenn.

Answer:

I shall be happy to have you use my letter E.F.B. I should also like you to know that I think your idea of encouraging young people to enjoy and appreciate good literature, by giving such packets to the seniors in your county, is a wonderful thing for you to do.

Many of the children of today have grown up on an educational diet of comic books and television. The magazines that most of them read contain a great deal of trash or worse than trash. Consequently they never realize how much the reading of good literature can mean to a person.

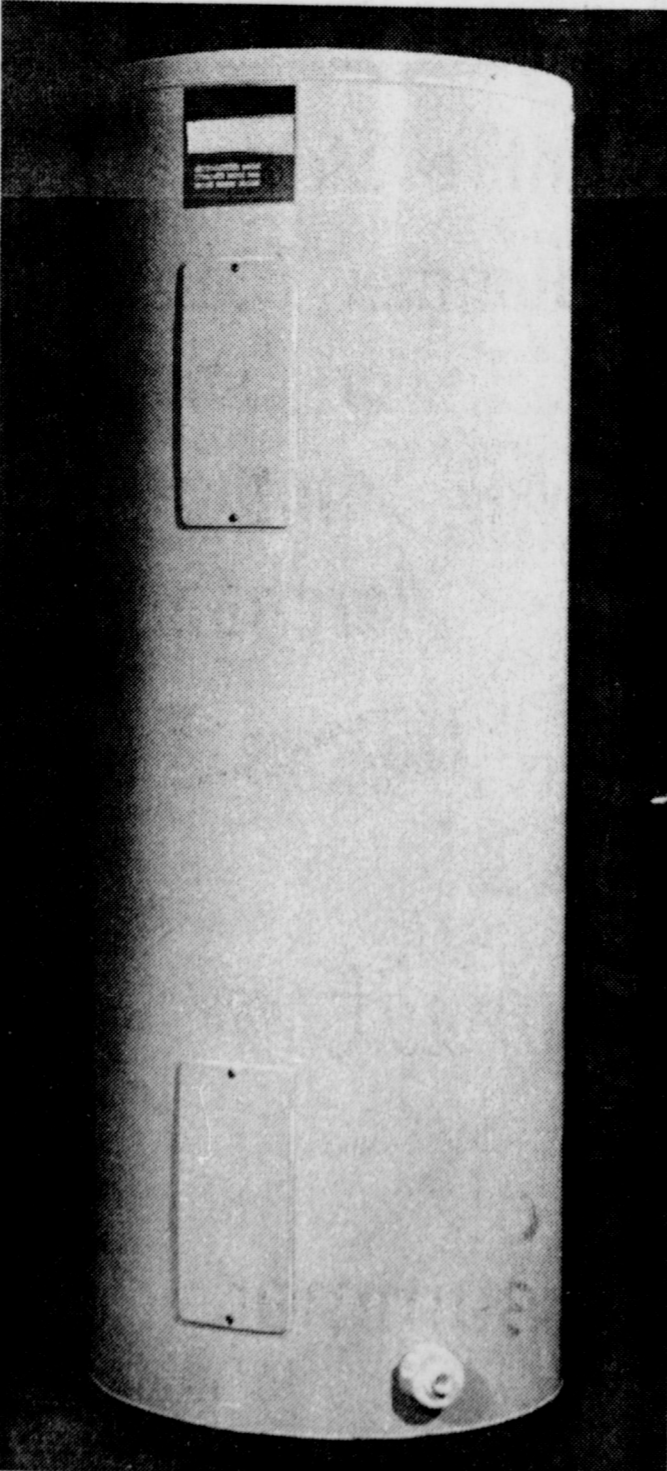

Such a habit, not only continues one's education, but is an escape from loneliness and frustrations later on.

Keep up the good work!
Louisa.

Address your letter to Louisa, P.O. Box 532 Orangeburg, S.C. 29115

Editorial

Times Blasts Post & Times

In a long editorial earlier this month the London Times charged that the Washington Post and New York Times were interfering with the course of American justice by "publishing vast quantities of prejudicial matter" in the Water-gate scandal.

The prestigious Times, in its 2,000-word editorial, warned that newspaper sensationalism, the Senate's public investigation (which Justice Department special investigator Archibald Cox asked postponed—unsuccessfully, in the name of justice) and grand jury leaks splashed across the country combined to make President Nixon a victim of "Washington's variant of lynch law."

Such a scandal-mongering process abuses the cause of justice, according to the Times editorial, which notes that the President is being tried unfairly in three different public forums at the same time, each with its own deficiencies. The editorial says newspapers such as the Post and Times are wrongly lending their tremendous weight to doubtful evidence of a very damning nature—and are thus guilty of the charge that they make a fair trial impossible.

Sober editors and lawyers have also warned of printed rumor-mongering but their voices have often been drowned out by those who would discredit the President and his Administration at any cost, most of whom have been anti-Nixon for a long time.

Wallace In 1973

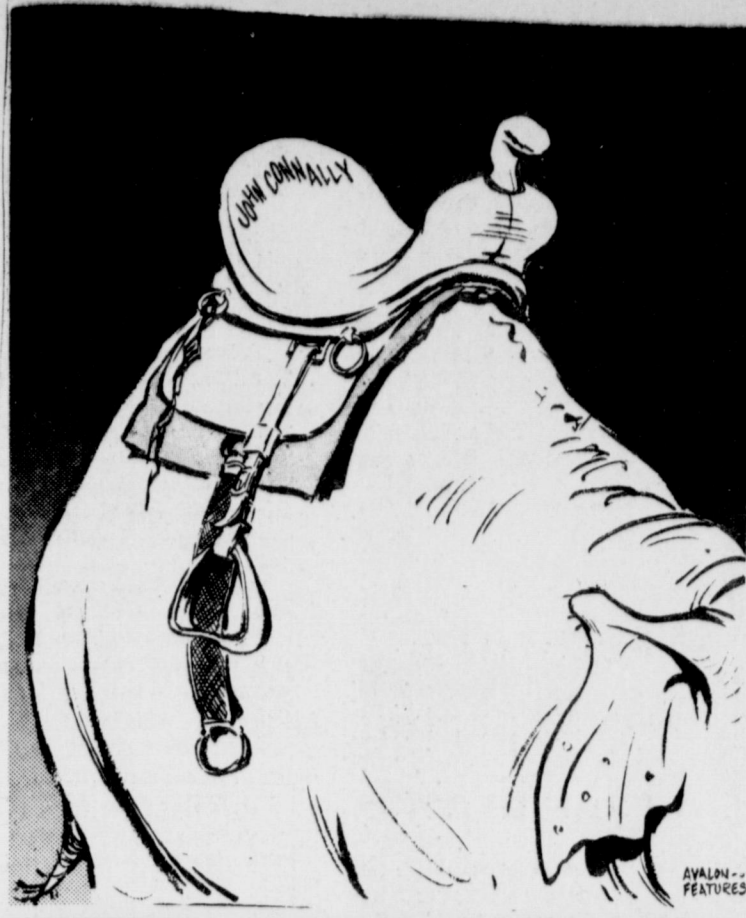

A key figure in the 1972 presidential race, likely to be influential again in 1976, George Wallace was sought out by reporters at the recent National Governors' Conference. They wanted to know the Alabama Governor's political plans.

Wallace says he's feeling good and inclined to run again for Governor in 1974. Re-election would put him in a position to exert an influence on the 1976 Democratic convention and on the November election. He intends to do just that, perhaps again be a candidate.

Wallace says the Democratic Party has moved somewhat back toward center, but that its chances three years hence depend on whether it is really a center party or again a captive of the far left.

From these indications, Wallace appears to be preparing the way for a new nomination bid in 1976. Formidable opponents might be Senators Ted Kennedy and Henry Jackson, among others. Chances are he would support Jackson, should the Washingtonian win the nomination; whether he would support Kennedy is more doubtful.

Since Wallace had much to do with the defeat of the Democratic nominee in 1972, repeatedly refusing to endorse him, both party officials and potential candidates in the Democratic Party will be keeping their lines of communication to the Governor open and active between now and 1976; he has twice demonstrated he can influence millions of voters, in and out of the South.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Farmcast

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

A Close Look... Energy Crisis... Sheep and Lamb Feeding On Increase... Red Meat Production Declines.

Take a close look at all those glowing reports about increasing farm prices and you might be surprised.

The latest average price report for Texas farmers, for example, shows that only three commodities are above parity. Earlier this year, a half dozen commodities were above parity. But even that is negligible when you consider the fact that more than 200 agricultural commodities are produced in Texas.

Those three commodities which are above parity (as you might have guessed) as of May 15 are beef cattle, calves, and sheep. Beef cattle average price was $44.80 compared to parity of $42.30 per hundredweight. Calves averaged $58.70 compared to the parity of $51.20. Sheep averaged $14.40 per hundredweight compared to the parity of $11.90.

Everything else is below parity. Eggs averaged 56.4 cents per dozen while parity is 60.5 cents. Turkeys, even though they are up two cents per pound from last month are still 3.3 cents per pound under parity.

Cotton still shows the biggest disparity. Average price as of May 15 was 27 cents per pound while effective parity is 62.46 cents per pound.

Wheat price average declined two cents per bushel from a month ago to average $2.18; grain sorghum averaged $2.85, which is nine cents above the previous month.

FUEL supplies for agriculture throughout the state appear to be getting tighter. Reports of shortages are no longer confined to most of the wheat areas. Some counties in Central and East Texas are reporting no fuel available.

If you run out of fuel for agricultural purposes, you are requested to let your county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office know, or you can contact the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Plans then will be made to see to it that agriculture producers do not run out of fuel for agricultural purposes.

SHEEP feeding is on the increase in Texas. Marketings during May were 45,000 head, which was 5,000 head above the intended marketings earlier indicated.

Current intentions to market are: June 46,000, July 54,000 and August 11,000. July and August intentions are incomplete, however.

Drylot sheep feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 111,000 sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter as of June 1, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

This is 28 per cent above the number on feed a month earlier and eight per cent above the number on feed June 1 of last year. Placements during May totaled 69,000 head with a total of 10 feeders reporting 1,000 or more head on feed June 1.

COMMERCIAL slaughtering plants in Texas produced 155,000,000 pounds of red meat during April. This is 17 per cent below the previous month and 12 per cent below the 176,300,000 pounds produced in April of 1972.

Nationwide, red meat production is down 12 per cent from a year ago.

Reasons for the decrease include the late winter and early spring freezes and narrowing margins of profit.

Red meat production in Texas during the first four months of this year is 707,400,000 pounds.

Cotton Problems Plague Farmers

In realizing the importance of cotton as one of our major crops in West Texas, the High Plains Research Foundation is concerned with new problems that continually seem to plague area farmers.

A new cotton systemic insecticide is being studied at the High Plains Research Foundation in cooperation with Texas Tech University and the project is under the sponsorship of Diamond Shamrock Chemical Co.

The research foundation is furnishing land and equipment for the study, and their personnel will evaluate the test to determine the actual effect of insects on crop yields and quality. Entomologists from Texas Tech University will be keeping insect populations under close observation throughout the growing season.

Under test guidelines, one testing method compares three rates of the insecticides as a seed treatment. Another method compares three rates in furrow application on untreated seed and two rates of side-dress applications.

Comparisons with three rates of Temik and one with Di-Syston also were established for the test.

One major purpose of the study is to determine the best source of early season insect control in cotton.

Of course, testing which has been underway for many years, will be continued in 1973.

In cotton variety testing, 49 varieties from 11 seed companies and private breeders are entered in the 1973 cotton variety test on standard 40-inch single rows. Included in the varieties are 24 experimental strains that show promise in the area. This variety test has been underway at the Foundation since its beginning in 1956.

In the double-rowed cotton varieties test which began in 1971, 36 varieties from 15 seed companies and private breeders are entered. The object of this study is to determine the best varieties available for double-row cotton production. Eleven of these varieties are experimental strains.

New System For Reporting Grain Exports

A precedent-breaking system for reporting grain exports has been developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the nation's grain firms.

The grain exporters have voluntarily agreed to disclose their 1973 sales volume on a weekly basis, according to Dr. Roland Smith, grain marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The new reporting system, with the first report to be released on July 6, should assist farmers, exporters and government officials in making production and marketing decisions, points out Smith.

Reports will come in to the USDA each Saturday covering the week's export commodity trading. The information will be compiled and released the following Friday. Thus the public will know of any export sales from 6 to 13 days after the sale, points out the Texas A & M University System specialist.

Smith explains that the delay in reporting by the USDA is to give exporting companies time to buy the grain they agreed to export. Immediate reports of sales would push up grain prices before the grain was actually obtained. This, in turn, would decrease incentives to export.

The weekly reports will show sales in metric tonnage and the marketing year the grain is to be shipped. Initial reports will include wheat by five classes, corn, grain sorghum, barley and soybeans. Additional commodities may be added later.

ON CHICKEN LIVERS
WASHINGTON -- Government tests show that about one out of every 20 broiler-fryer chickens sold to consumers in the first three months of this year apparently had illegal residues of organic arsenic in their livers.

Wildlife Diseases Dangerous To Man

AUSTIN -- Of all the diseases which may be transmitted from wild animals to man, rabies is the most feared.

Texas State Department of Health Laboratories report that during the first four months of 1973 there have been 85 confirmed cases of animal rabies. Of that number, 61 involved wildlife -- 45 skunks, 11 foxes, one coyote, two raccoons and two bats.

Texas had 343 cases of rabies last year -- 281 in wildlife. The state led the nation in 1971 with 323 rabies incidents, which was a far cry from the 658 cases reported in 1961. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reports that the chances of transmitting rabies to humans are slim. Most of the public will never come in contact with the disease unless their occupation involves handling sick animals.

The last documented death from natural exposure to rabies in Texas was in 1962. Last year one death was reported which was attributed to exposure to the rabies virus in a laboratory.

Rabies is caused by a virus which requires from one to six months to incubate within an animal.

The disease begins with a depression of the spirits and swelling of the lymphatics in the region of the wound. Crying and spasmodic breathing follows with increasing spasms of the respiratory muscles.

Fever, mental derangement, vomiting and secretion of saliva often accompany the disease. Death usually occurs within two to five days after the appearance of the first symptoms.

Positive diagnosis of rabies involves killing the suspected host to examine brain tissues.

Fortunately, however, man seems to be highly resistant to rabies and only 20 percent of those bitten by a known rabid animal will contract the disease.

Treatment for rabies in man is a painful series of shots in the fatty deposits of the stomach.

Why bother with such painful treatment if man has only one chance in five of contracting the disease?

Once the first symptoms appear, the only treatment for the disease is making the individual as comfortable as possible because death is almost inevitable once the disease reaches such an advanced stage.

The rabies cycle begins in Texas each spring when migrating bats return from Mexico to their homes. It has been estimated that five percent of all bats returning to Texas are infected with rabies.

Bats react slowly to the disease; therefore, the virus incubates longer and affects more bats within the same cave.

The disease begins to spread when infected bats fall to the floor of the cave and small mammals such as foxes and skunks enter the caves to feed on crippled adults and helpless young bats.

Traditionally, rabies builds to a peak in August and September and declines with the onset of cooler weather.

Rabies can be controlled in pets with vaccination but, as yet, there is no practical means of controlling the disease in wild animals.

BEE RUSTLING

Lawnmen in California's central valleys have a unique problem of bee rustling. The State Department of Food and Agriculture said that beekeepers had 558 colonies stolen during April, bringing the yearly total to 684--more than double last year's 319.

Dryland, Narrow-Row Cotton Shows Promise For West Texas

LUBBOCK -- Irrigated, narrow-row cotton production was said to be a severe test of the capabilities of West Texas soils when the new system began taking root in the 1960's.

Now, an even stronger test has been applied, with promising results, according to an engineer with the Agricultural Research Service - USDA. Dryland, narrow-row cotton studies over a three-year period from 1970 to 1973 out-yielded the conventional 40-inch row pattern under three different moisture conditions, says Elmer Hudspeth, Jr., based at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center north of Lubbock. Some questions remain unanswered, but the results look good, he adds. "The development of the storm-proof, short-season variety cotton, together with effective herbicides and efficient harvesting systems, enabled us to consider dryland production," he says. "We have known for some time that narrow-row cotton would yield more than the conventional row, as long as it was irrigated. What we did not know, however, was whether the South Plains soils could handle the narrow-row system without irrigation. "Our primary goals were to reduce production costs while conserving the underground water supply," Hudspeth recalls. In the studies, conventional patterns carried about 50,000 plants per acre in 40-inch rows. Hudspeth's research sites carried 100,000 in 16-inch rows. If the new system could be handled by South Plains soils, the new pattern had to yield more than the conventional. "It happened," the ARS engineer says, "that during those three years, we experienced three completely different moisture conditions at the Experiment Station. This was enough to substantiate our belief—that in years of normal rainfall, dryland, narrow-row production is possible." According to research data from the studies, the 1970 dryland crop was produced mostly with moisture already in the soil. Rainfall after the cotton came up was so insignificant that it had no effect during the later stages of growth. The opposite happened with the 1971 crop, the report shows. Little moisture was available at planting time. Rainfall after planting literally made the crop. Both weather conditions were present in the 1973 season. Moisture in the soil profile was adequate for normal growth, and additional rainfall during the growing season aided production of the crop. Says Hudspeth, "It is important that yields were not decreased in the narrow-row and high plant population system during those three years.

This means that unless a severely dry year occurs, dryland production on narrow rows is possible." The scientist recognizes that cotton producers will need to carefully consider many factors before thinking seriously about converting to the dryland, narrow-row system. Soil conditions, climate history and the grower's ability to take the risk are prime factors to think about. "Nothing is certain these days," Hudspeth points out. "This method may work like a charm for three years and then in a severely dry year, may fail completely. We just don't know yet. "Based on our research thus far," he concludes, "producing cotton on narrow rows, without irrigation, can give good results and it should conserve some of our underground water supply."

An investment in Your Future

ATTEND CHURCH

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also"

A PLACE TO PRAY

Man can, and should, pray anywhere. God has placed no limitations on his communing with him.

Our Lord has said, "... Ask and ye shall receive." God listens when we seek him, no matter where, however he desires that we gather together in prayer too. "... mine house shall be called an house of prayer for all people."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Fuel Problems Becoming Apparent

In a speech before a Stephenville farm audience, Texas Farmers Union president, Jay Naman of Waco, called on Governor Dolph Briscoe to convene a special session of the legislature to deal with the financing of the public school system and the farm fuel crisis. Addressing the monthly meeting of the Erath County Farmers Union, Naman pointed out that the excessive property taxes which are being levied on agricultural land are imposing a discriminatory burden on farm and ranch producers. He pointed out that "the educational demands of the rural areas are becoming increasingly difficult to meet with the antiquated property tax structure." Turning to the farm fuel problem, the farm leader said, "Reports of farm fuel shortages are becoming increasingly apparent as we move into the harvest season. It is obvious that unless some strong measures are taken by the federal government or by our state legislature, we could find the completion of harvest seriously hampered. The state-wide farm organization leader said that the present voluntary system of allocation of fuel is not working and urged that the Congress pass proposed emergency legislation to establish mandatory priorities. "In the absence of decisive action by our national Administration it is extremely important that Governor Briscoe call an emergency special session of the state legislature for the purpose of solving the Texas farm fuel crisis. Each day that passes moves us closer to the deplorable situation where combines, cotton strippers, and other farm machinery could be idled in the fields. Are we going to wait until this happens before responsible people in government take action?" Naman asked.

The change from SLM 1-1/16 inch cotton in the spot quotations to average prices paid to farmers was pushed by Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., on the grounds that spot market quotations do not accurately reflect prices paid to farmers. The House Committee agreed with this PCG position.

PCG is also asking that average market prices be figured on a 12 month period, using the last 7 months of one marketing year, January through July and the first five months of the next, August through December. Otherwise, cotton grown on the High Plains, Rolling Plains and in Oklahoma, much of which is marketed in January and February, will have very little influence on average prices and therefore no effect on payment rates.

"The thing to remember in this regard," says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, who was in Washington during House Committee deliberations, "is that the payment will not be the difference between a target price and the price received by any individual farmer, but on an average of prices, and how that average is figured can mean the difference between profit and loss for our High Plains farmers."

The loan level in the Senate bill for practical purposes would be set at whatever level the Secretary of Agriculture thought necessary to keep U. S. cotton "in line" with world prices.

PCG objected to this provision also and asked that the loan be set, firmly, at 90 percent of the average of world market prices for the preceding three years, with no Secretarial authority to reduce it below that level. Current law governing the 1973 loan level is similar to that in the Senate's new bill, and the Secretary has announced the 1973 loan at 20.65 cents, basis SLM 1-1/16 inch cotton, as compared to a considerably higher level that would be justified by the "90 percent of the world market price" language.

Efforts succeeded in getting a change in the loan provisions of the House Committee bill, but not exactly what was asked for. Johnson says he hasn't seen the exact language relating to the loan, "but some have calculated that the loan under the House Committee's bill could be lower than about 26 or 27 cents for 1974, whereas there would be no lower limit under the bill passed by the Senate.

The House Committee version also bases the loan and other sections, it is understood, on Middling one-inch cotton, the quality used prior to 1973.

The most disheartening aspect of the Senate's bill, Johnson, believes, was the $20,000 per farmer limitation on total payments. This was adopted by the Senate in the form of an amendment to the bill reported from committee. The current program, the Agriculture Act of 1970, limited payments to $55,000 per person per crop.

It remains to be seen what will be done on the limitation issue by the House. But it is historical fact that the House is "tougher" on limitations than the Senate. "So the picture isn't very bright," Johnson concludes.

INSIDE BEEF CATTLE COLLEGE STATION

Beef cattle producers will have an opportunity to receive a complete package of information on more profitable beef cattle production through pastures and forages at Texas A&M University Aug. 20 and 21.

The occasion is the 23rd Annual Beef Cattle Short Course and the 8th Annual Pasture and Forage Short Course, held together this year for the first time.

The combined short course will be directed to "increasing beef cattle profit opportunities with forage," says Dr. Dennis Herd, beef cattle specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Herd is serving as coordinator of the combined short course which will be held at the Ramada Inn across from the A&M campus.

According to Herd, special emphasis will be given to forage since it is the most economic source of nutrients for cattle. Discussions will highlight both effective production and efficient utilization in year-round forage programs.

Headlining the list of speakers will be Dr. W. C. McCormick, head of the Department of Animal Science at
