

Judge Delays Ruling In Cloud Seeding Case

lands. In the lengthy petition and hearing, the plaintiffs claim the hail suppression efforts result in a decrease of rainfall. Eminent weather modification authorities from across the U.S. were called to uphold the stands for both sides. At times the courtroom was filled. Generally the feelings of the spectators were reflected even in the seating arrangements with observers taking seats to the north or south side of the court room behind the attorneys representing their views.

Those who brought the case are principally dryland farmers and ranchers to the west and south of the Littlefield and Plainview headquarters for the weather modification planes and radar systems. In claiming the man-made drouth, they filed against both the Littlefield-based Better Weather, Inc., and Atmospheric, Inc., the organization of farmers and the contracting firm, and Plains Weather Improvement Association at Plainview. The Plainview operation is made up of farmers who own and operate their own radar, airplanes and equipment. Throughout the hearing, names were mentioned of prominent pioneer weather authorities, and various references were made to historical events and personalities. Those opposed to the seeding flights called Dr. E. J. Workman, a retired pioneer in weather modification in its early inception in the 1950s, and Dr. Charles B. Moore, director of the Langmuir Laboratory for weather study in Socorro, N.M. Dr. Workman established the laboratory in 1961.

Both authorities said in their view seeding to decrease hail decreased rain as well. Testifying for supporters of the cloud seeding operations were numerous notable scientists who said properly seeded clouds to reduce hail should not decrease rainfall, but instead should result in increased precipitation.

EMINENT AUTHORITIES APPEAR

Stating these views were Dr. Pierre St. Amond, director of the weather modification program of the U. S. Navy, Dr. Merlin Williams, director of the division of weather modification of the state-wide South Dakota hail suppression and rain stimulation project, Lewis Grant, a state director of Natural Resources in Colorado to increase snow and a professor of cloud physics and weather modification at Colorado State University. Other witnesses for the defendants included Dr. Richard Schleusener, Dr. Ray Booker, John T. Carr Jr., Carlie Chagnon Jr., Dr. Paul D. Schickedanz, and Thomas Henderson. Dr. Schleusener is institute director of the South Dakota School of Mines where seven and a half million dollars in research money has gone into the study of rainfall increase and hail suppression programs in the U.S., Alaska, Thailand, and Canary Islands.

Dr. Booker of Norman, Okla. is president of Weather Science, Inc. and has made more than 3,000 penetrations of thunderstorms in depth.

Carr is director of the weather modification program on the Texas Water Development Board. Chagnon is head of the Atmospheric Science section of the Illinois State Survey, and as a statistician did a detailed study of rainfall in Lamb and Hale Counties for Henderson.

Henderson is president of Atmospheric, Inc. the contracting firm for the Lamb County project and formerly in charge of both the Hale and Lamb County Headquartered projects. Atmospheric has operational programs in several states and is involved in programs in Yugoslavia, Turkey, and Africa.

BOTH SIDES SINCERE

As each side presented witnesses, charges and counter charges were made and refuted. Dryland farmers who haven't been able to plant a crop yet this year due to drouth conditions and ranchers who are experiencing dry conditions to the point of dead grass roots are sincere in their beliefs that weather modification efforts deprive them of rain they feel they would receive if clouds were never seeded.

Supporters of the weather modification efforts who have been hailed out to the point of having to plant over two or three times, and in some cases not making a crop because of late hail, took the stand to testify that hail has been reduced and they do not think rainfall has been decreased.

On the opening day of the hearing, lawyers for the plaintiffs called Ross Lumsden, Dean Elms, Robert Harrel Layton, Frank C. "Curly" Daugherty, Dewayne Keeler, Charles Burt and Wayne Wilkinson.

Lumsden is president of Farmer and Ranchers for Natural Weather and named along with the organization in bringing suit against the cloud seeding operation. When asked how he would describe natural weather, he answered "the kind of weather we had before Atmospheric came here." Lumsden said it was his opinion that every cloud with any possible potential rainfall has been seeded. Lumsden told of listening to conversations between the pilots and radar operator on a multi-band radio during thunderstorms.

Lumsden said he has about 100 dryland customers for his ginning operations west of Littlefield. In cross examination he said he ginned 4,666 bales in 1973, the best crop in that area since 1963.

Dean Elms produced dates and times he said he had observed seeding operations when he testified that on numerous occasions he observed planes with binoculars. Elms said he had seen many seeding flights and seen sparks from the wings.

In cross examination Elms said "I don't think I've seen a cloud that I don't think was seeded since 1970." He said a seeded cloud gets a blank space on the bottom and a flat solid cloud bank splits, with gaps coming in the bottom of billowy clouds.

Robert Layton is a Bailey County farmer and rancher with about 3,000 acres farm land with about 1,000 of that acreage irrigated, and about 3,000 acres in ranch land. He testified that he saw a cloud break up four or five miles north of Bula this year after he saw two planes

Public Hearing Set Monday Telephone Rate Request

Thursday night's regular city meeting, councilmen called for a hearing at 7 p.m. Monday night on the telephone rate increase submitted by General Telephone Company of the Southwest to the cities of Littlefield, Amherst and Anton.

Interested in the case is Jim Blagg. The meeting is for the council chambers in Littlefield.

On Thursday night, the council granted a rate increase to the Southwest Public Service Company, and an ordinance adopting the residential rates are 6.50 per kilowatt hour up to the first, 50 per kilowatt hour for the next 15 kilowatts, plus an increase of 0.10 per kilowatt for all additional kilowatts. The minimum for three phase service is to be increased 0.50 cents per meter.

For general service, current rates are 6.50 cents per KWH for the first 100, compared to the new rates of 7.1 cents—an increase of 8 cents per KWH. Warren Dayton, district manager for Southwestern Public Service Company, was present for the hearing and answered questions on the matter.

In further action, the councilmen directed City Manager Blagg to work out details with city officials of Amherst for providing dog catching service for the city of Amherst. They urged that the details be in accordance with those now being observed with Anton for the same service.

Councilmen approved as presented the Revenue Sharing Planned Use Report for funds to be received between July 1, 1974 and June 30, 1975.

Planned expenditures included $3,236 for public safety; $70,000 for environmental protection; $7,000 for recreation; and multi-purpose and general government; $8,070—a grand total of $88,306 for capital expenditures. Operating and maintenance expenditures included $2,500 for recreation. The published report may be found on page 3.

DR. E. J. WORKMAN and Tom Tollett, a local attorney for the plaintiffs in the district hearing, chat in the hall during one of the recess breaks in the five-day cloud seeding hearing this week. Dr. Workman is an early pioneer in weather modification who testified that seeding clouds with silver iodide results in a decrease in rainfall. See story on page 6. (Staff Photo)

Chartered 'Texas' Trip Scheduled For June 25

When a haunting bugle call drifted down through the valleys at Palo Duro Canyon State Park 12 miles east of Canyon Wednesday, the ninth season of the musical production of "Texas" got underway.

Last summer, more than 150 persons boarded four chartered buses in Littlefield to make the trip to see the play.

The Littlefield Chamber of Commerce is working up another chartered bus trip for the night of Tuesday, June 25. The bus will leave from the city hall shortly after 4 p.m.

Cost per person is $12, and includes a steak dinner, reserved show seat and the round-trip bus ticket. Reservations are to be turned in early to the Chamber of Commerce office in city hall, so that the bus may be chartered. Leon Burch will be serving as "wagon boss" for the tour this summer.

"Texas" is the story of the early settlers in the Texas Panhandle, told as a dramatic conflict heightened by spirited dancing, stirring music and sweeping pageantry.

The musical drama is held each year in the park's amphitheater which is designed in such a way that the sound flows from all sides, bouncing off cliffs and reverberating from the near and distant walls.

The show has a cast of eighty singers, actors and dancers, and almost as many other members of the company work backstage.

Couple Repeats Vows In Sudan Ceremony

SUDAN— Miss Debbie Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ritchie, and Dewayne Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Phillips of Muleshoe, were united in marriage Saturday evening, June 15, in the first Baptist Church, Sudan, with the pastor, Rev. Eddie Freeman officiating.

The couple exchanged vows before an arched candelabra flanked with tapered candelabra, all holding purple and orchid candles. Baskets of orchid gladiolas and baby's breath completed altar decorations.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight organza over bridal satin peau fashioned with a high neckline with sheer yoke, and full sleeves and empire waistline.

The bodice had an overlay of imported Venetian lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. It buttoned in the back with 50 pearl buttons with the skirt falling into a chapel sweep train edged in matching lace and seed pearls. The gown was designed and made by her mother.

The floor length veil of silk illusion flowed from a crown of net petals and seed pearls and was outlined with matching Venetian lace.

The bridal bouquet was of cascading orchids, baby mums, and baby's breath tied with purple and orchid streamers, atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Jeff Lynsky of Maple served as matron of honor, and Jo Gaye Doty was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Debra Edwards, Ann (Cricke) Watson, cousin of the bride from Farmington, N.M., and bridesmatron was Mrs. Celia Kuykendall. They wore formal gowns of orchid and purple miramist over satin and carried nosegays of orchid gladiolas with orchid and purple streamers.

The groom wore a white tux trimmed in black and black pants and an orchid ruffled shirt with black vest. Groomsmen and best man wore black tux ensembles with orchid ruffled shirts.

Best man was Rony McCall of Lubbock. Groomsmen were Bill Shelton of Reese Air Base, Lubbock, Curtis Chester, Roby Lynn, and Don Noles, all of Sudan. Ushers were Don Noles and Eugene Lopez.

The bride's niece, April

Rudd of Lubbock, was flower girl and wore a dress identical to those of the bridesmaids.

Ring bearer was Burson Corley of Farmington, cousin of the bride. Candlelighters were Leon Phillips and Steve Ritchie, brothers of the bride and groom.

Kathy Fisher, organist, accompanied Colleen Corley of Farmington, cousin of the bride, as she sang "If" and "The First Time Ever". She sang "We've Only Just Begun" as the couple lit the unity candle.

Mrs. Kaye Burge of Lubbock registered guests.

The bride's mother wore a floor-length dress of orchid with sheer sleeves and the groom's mother was attired in a royal blue formal dress with chiffon sleeves. Both mothers wore corsages of white baby mums and carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall. The table was laid with a white net cloth over satin with a centerpiece of a white candelabra with purple candles surrounded with the attendants nosegays.

Serving the three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Andrea Rylant of Whidby Island, Wash., and punch were Mary Griffith, Shellye Hargrove and Cindy Moss. They wore gowns in the bride's chosen colors and also served nuts and mints made by Mrs. Jim Arnold.

Passing out rice bags were Kimberly and Tammy Rylant, nieces of the bride, and Danene Cox and Belinda McBee, nieces of the groom.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a pant suit of purple and white plaid with the orchid corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Sudan High School.

The groom is presently in the Air Force and stationed at Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock. They will reside in Lubbock until he is reassigned.

Mrs. Peggy Ray and her daughter, Georgia, hosted a salad luncheon and lingerie shower honoring Miss Tanya Chester, bride-elect of Mark Hanna, Saturday, June 15 at their home. Following the luncheon of salads and grape sherbet, girls present made rice bags to use at the wedding reception.

THE BEACH

The beach is where I go to ease my mind,
And there I can day dream in peace and quiet.
I love to feel the sand beneath my feet.
The ocean spray feels cool upon my face.

PAULA HASTY

My cares will all go sounds of the sea.
I feel as light and birds in flight.

The rays of the sun
sleepy and warm.
The beach can bring to all.
But now I must return problems of mine.
The weekend is over beach I must now leave.

Beef, Valuable Commodity

THERE IS ONE Texas agricultural commodity for which harvest time comes almost every day. That "crop" is beef.

Mention Texas and beef cattle in the same breath and anyone who ever watched television conjures up pictures of rugged cowhands moving great, dusty herds northward to the railheads in Kansas.

In the Panhandle and plains country of northwest Texas today, however, it's different.

THIS IS THE CENTER of a whole new industry which is producing more and better beef than ever before. This growing modern agribusiness was born here because of the nearby availability of the major ingredients for making beef—cattle and abundant feed.

A third factor makes it possible for the ingredients to come together: The highways.

The Panhandle-plains area, plus adjoining areas in New Mexico, Oklahoma and southwestern Kansas, has become a center for the cattle feedlot industry in the nation.

THE TEXAS CATTLE feeding industry has grown tremendously in the last 15 years, from approximately 300 thousand head of cattle fed in 1958 to about 4.9 million head fed in 1973. That's a growth of 1500 per cent in a decade-and-a-half.

Basically, the feedlot industry takes cattle from the vast ranches of the area, feeds them carefully and scientifically balanced diets and sends them off to nearby packing houses to be turned into feed for America's tables. All the movements are by trucks over the highways.

THE AVERAGE COW coming into a feedlot weighs 600 pounds. After a 130-day stay, the animal weighs 1,000 pounds. While at the feedlot, the cow eats about 22 pounds of food per day. One eighth of what it eats in a feedlot forms beef; the rest is waste.

A 1973 survey by Southwestern Public Service Company for the four-state area showed 110 feedlots with capacities ranging from 3,000 to 81,000 head. In addition, there were 16 packing plants in the area.

THE TEXAS Highway Department's District 4, headquartered in Amarillo, recently completed a new survey on the impact of the industry on the highway system.

The Highway Department surveys were begun in 1970 to determine the effect of truck traffic generated by the feedlot industry on the highway system.

Much of this traffic moves over Farm to Market or Ranch to Market Roads. In many cases, these roads were not designed to support the heavy loads which they carry almost every day.

TRUCKS SERVING the feedlots must deliver their loads the year around and in all kinds of weather. This excessive but necessary traffic is of major concern to the highway department.

In the 17 northern Panhandle counties in the Amarillo district, the highway surveyors surveyed feedlots with an annual capacity of 3.1 million beef animals.

EVERY WORKING DAY—about 260 days per year—these feedlots generate an average of 2,246 trips by trucks. Average weight hauled is 40 thousand pounds per truck. Loads include cattle, feed and waste.

Others are concerned about ability of the highways to maintain flexible, safe and convenient transportation needed by agriculture. The chairman of the transportation committee of the National Cattlemen's Association in May said the highway system is not growing fast enough to provide for the movement of beef and other agricultural products across the United States.

OTHER STATES are concerned, too. Many Minnesota wheat producers "missed the boat" with important shipments destined for export last year because many of the state's highways were not adequate to bear heavy loads.

The problem is compounded by a nationwide shortage of rail cars and the abandonment of some 31 thousand miles of railroad lines since 1938.

OFTEN OVERLOOKED by the average urban consumer, highway transportation makes a difference in the availability and price of food for his table.

Almost three-fourths of fruits and vegetables today travel over the highways to major markets. The percentage is even higher for livestock—almost all of them go from producer to consumer by way of the roads.

WHAT DOES ONE SCANDAL SAY TO ANOTHER?

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

SOMETIMES it is hard to picture Jesus going about from day to day as a human being, (yet also the son of God) as He ministered unto the people of His day.

On one particular day He taught in the synagogue and healed a man with the palsy. A man possessed with a demon began shouting at Him, telling Him to go away. "We want nothing to do with you, Jesus of Nazareth, you have come to destroy us I know who you are—the Holy Son of God." But Jesus told him to be quiet and cast out the demon and the man was sound and well again.

JESUS WENT home with Simon from the synagogue, where He found Simon's mother-in-law very ill with a high fever. Her family begged Him to heal her, which He did, and she felt so well she got up and prepared a meal for them; so says the new "Love" translation of the Bible.

Even though it was the Sabbath day, this news spread over the village like wild-fire.

AS THE SUN went down that evening, all the villagers who had any sick people in their homes, no matter what their diseases were, brought them to Jesus; and the touch of His hand healed everyone of them! He must have been very tired as it probably took most of the night before everybody went home from this exciting, wonderful experience.

Even the demons were out screaming "You are the Son of God," but Jesus silenced them and healed the people whom they possessed.

ANYWAY, even though He had very little rest that night, early the next morning He went into the desert to be alone with God for a while. The people searched everywhere for Him and when they finally found Him they begged Him not to leave them. But He told them He must go on to other places to spread the Good News about God the Father.

He continued to travel around preaching wherever He went, and always great crowds following Him. He had very little time alone except when He withdrew to the wilderness to pray.

WE FIND our lives very crowded too, with very little time alone to meditate and talk with our Lord. This is especially true with people who work outside the home.

There is a mad rush of a morning to get off to work and the children off to school. When our children were growing up we always had our devotionals at breakfast when we were all together.

Now that is hard to do—we just have to pick our times. If we can steal away for just a few minutes in the morning and commune with God it helps us all day.

I HEARD one man say he had a long ways to drive to work so he prayed on the way.

When you get up in the morning feeling out of sorts, pause just a few minutes to pray and see how much better you feel.

WE STILL NEED the healing touch of His influence in this busy world we live in. Thank God it is still available.

He is the same yesterday, today, and tomorrow, let us lean on Him.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

How Well We Do

TO SLIGHT OUR WORK, with the attitude of just doing what is necessary to get by, is always a great loss for us. We lose the good feeling of justified satisfaction that is found in the knowledge that we have done our work well: the very best we know how.

We also lose the opportunity for the progress that we could be making, in both self-improvement and in accomplishment. In fact, many important things depend upon "how well we do".

WE KEEP FAITH with ourselves, when we approach our work with the determination to see "how well we can do it". We will not be tense and anxious, but we will be diligent and persevering.

With this approach, we will apply the best skills we can: because we will want to do our best. There is nothing in our personal behavior that will help us more than the realization that "we have done well."

WE KEEP FAITH with our fellowmen, when we carefully plan and execute our work. They are encouraged, when they see work that is done well. Most people will be motivated to do better, when they see others being proficient and diligent in their work.

If what we do involves service to others, most of them will be grateful; and some will even express this gratitude. Consequently, both we and they will have been benefitted from our good quality work.

"People forget how fast you did a job, but they remember "how well we did it." —H. W. Newton.

THE QUALITY of our work is first in our consideration. For we can get by with something, our best, we are cheating when we perform below our level of capacity.

This does not mean that we to be perfectionists, because not try to be what we cannot can always do our best. Our success will be found in what we do."

THIS GUIDELINE IS one helpful for the total life experience and should be followed in personal performance.

We must never let ourselves carelessly and apathetic in an involves the expression of our personality. So much depends upon "how well we do", that we can below-capacity behavior.

OUR CONCEPT of ourselves concept that others have of us upon "how well we do" with our social life; our home life; the management of ourselves.

WE MAY NOT DO AS someone else, but there is to be discouraged. We can be better, as we continue to be doing our honest best.

"HOW WELL WE DO" is every aspect of our person.

Judge Delays Ruling In Cloud Seeding Case

fly into the front and edge of the cloud over his land.

Under cross examination Layton said he joined the association against cloud seeding two or three months ago. He said he didn't know whose planes they were, "But I know whose planes I thought they were," he added.

OLTON RANCHER TESTIFIES
Frank C. "Curly" Daughterty of Olton said he and his son have about 10,000 acres of grassland through the sandhills and about 400 acres of farmland for growing grain in Hale County. Daughterty described the weather modification program as "the most destructive thing that's ever come up in cow business."

He said from his experience in watching clouds he could tell if he had a good chance of rain. "When a plane hits a cloud it won't last 10 or 15 minutes," he said. "They go up and along it and blow stuff in it. You can look at your watch and in 20 minutes you can say to yourself, 'what the hell happened to that cloud.' Your best chance to get a rain is when a cloud slips in about three in the morning."

During cross examination by the defendants' lawyers, Daughterty was asked if he wasn't the one who was filed on a few years ago for shooting at a spray pilot flying over his land. Daughterty admitted that he was charged with the shooting incident. "But since you brought that up," he said, "I want you to know that I did not shoot at that pilot or at that plane."

Daughterty described the storms which went through Lamb and Hale the first of this month "as rough looking boogers." "If they don't look too rank, the planes will go into the clouds," he said, "but they didn't go into that one." Daughterty said he saw five planes that day as the cloud moved east toward Hale County "dumping two and a half inches of rain and five inches of hail."

"But I'd rather have the hail and the rain than not have either one," he said.

Keeler is from Levelland and farms about 2,000 acres in Lamb, Hockley, Cochran and Yoakum. Keeler said he had seen clouds seeding in Hockley County and said he could tell they were cloud seeding planes because "normally anybody with any sense would stay away from the clouds."

Charles Burt lives six miles southwest of Pep and farms 400 acres of dryland. He told of two clouds which he believed were seeded. He said he believed that he would have received more rain during the past four years without seeding and definitely thinks he received no rain from some clouds that should have produced rain.

PILOT CALLED

Wayne Wilkinson is the chief pilot and in charge of the Littlefield-based operation, and was associated with Atmospherics, Inc. as a pilot heading the jointly-operated Hale-Lamb project before Plainview formed their own association and bought their own equipment. He was called by both sides. He said he very possibly had flown over the plaintiffs' land southwest of Littlefield but had never been over Pep. "And the only time I've flown over Bula was to look at storm damage which had occurred outside the target area," he added.

He said clouds are seeded outside the target area because it takes time for the silver iodide to take effect. "I've never seeded a cloud small enough to break it up," he said Friday. "They won't break up if seeded properly."

Wilkinson was recalled to the stand Wednesday when he described the various measuring instruments on the planes, the amount of chemicals used and the various records kept of every flight, both seeding and observation. Wilkinson said 30 percent of the flights are observation.

DR. ST AMOND APPEARS

Dr. Pierre St Amont led the list of authorities with copious degrees, honors and long strings of memberships in scientific organizations.

Dr. St Amont told of various areas of work being sponsored by the Department of Commerce through the U. S. Navy Weapons Center. His work includes hail suppression programs in California, Oklahoma and South Dakota, making rain to impede enemy troops during war, and fog clearing studies to benefit allies.

Dr. St Amont and others described cloud physics and drew illustrations. He said placing silver iodide in the middle of an updraft makes crystals grow rapidly, pick up vapor and result in enhancement of the updraft with a doubling in volume making the cloud grow wider and fatter. He said by aiding nature in this manner, the cloud should start raining by itself after it reaches 22,000 feet.

"Rather than decreasing rainfall, silver iodide is doing the opposite thing," the doctor said. "Seeding gets the stuff where it's going to make the cloud grow some more."

Because of all the fuel and pollutants in the air, Dr. St Amont said we are long past natural weather conditions. He termed weather modification as the most beneficial tool since man began to use fire.

The distinguished looking authority with a gray goatee elaborated at length on various agriculturally rich lands in India, N. Africa and Brazil that are now deserts. "It is true that clouds are not like they used to be," he said.

Dr. St Amont said the reason rain increase efforts in the 1950s failed was because sodium iodide was used with silver iodide and this combination produced an ineffective material. "When pyrotechnics to use silver iodide in pure form were developed, this opened the way for cloud seeding," he said. Work done 10-15 years ago was not done with what they thought they were using," he added.

CHEMICAL DANGER QUESTIONED

In questioning of the toxicity of silver iodide by the plaintiffs' attorneys, Dr. St. Amont said silver iodide was not soluble enough to hurt plant or animal. "There is more silver already in the ground water and being leached out of rocks than weather modification could ever add."

Later Dr. Lou Grant said a person gets more iodine when he salts his breakfast egg than he'd ever get as the result of seeding clouds.

When questioned on testimony by farmers who said they had seen thunderstorms stopped after airplanes flew around, Dr. St Amont said a full grown storm couldn't possibly be stopped by seeding, but instead rain should be increased.

"In South Dakota we put 20 pounds of silver iodide into a big cloud and in about three minutes the cloud got bigger and madder and kept raining two inches along the entire projectory. It takes an awful lot to alter a full blown monster."

"A skippy little cloud could be dissipated, but a man seeding for hail wouldn't touch a cloud like that. If you seed in the updraft, it's only going to make it stronger. If you depress the top it will discourage updraft. The only way I know to stop a cloud is to drop cement in large quantity on top of a cloud to weigh the air down. In cross examination Dr. Amond said some of the weather modifiers who had chided sides were concerned starting seeding prematurely.

"If silver iodide was injected early, this could precipitate if the cloud is dry," he said. "You've got to be careful how you do it. The cloud is, the less critical cloud is five to 10 miles across seven to eight miles high, not going to dissipate that. People (the seeding operation) Littlefield and Plainview don't have enough ammunition to do that."

"We've got to get the water back up even at the expense of getting some hail. We've got to get serious about turning drought around or we'll see food prices that will make our prices seem cheap."

S. D. PROJECT DIRECTOR CALLED

Dr. Merlin Williams was the witness for the defendants. Williams is director of the wide South Dakota weather modification program which has a two-fold goal of suppressing and enhancing rainfall.

Atmospherics, Inc., the contracting firm for the local project has been the successful bidder for the South Dakota project for past three years.

Cloud seeding there uses tip and wing tip generators like ones used on the planes in the project. Dr. Williams said clouds up to 35,000 feet are seeded. Clouds are seeded to suppress hail when there are possibilities of hail, using silver iodide to suppress hail.

"The legislature asked for an evaluation of the increase or decrease of rainfall in the target area and control techniques," he said. "At the end of 1972 we had a 15-20 percent decrease in rainfall in the clouds seeded those not seeded and this indicates hail suppression."

"In 1973 there was 22 percent more precipitation in the seeded area than in the nonseeded area. I envision overseeding. We've got to be able to turn a whole cloud into ice particles we'd have produced 1,000 times what generators can do. We don't have that much equipment."

In the cross examination Williams said it was possible to arrest a very small cloud seeding. In South Dakota clouds must exceed a mile in width before they are treated.

"Theoretically, you could seed a cloud," he said. "But there is a possibility that a cloud one mile wide could have hail 35,000 feet in depth."

COLORADO PROFESSOR APPEARS

The state director of Natural Resources in Colorado, Lou Grant, was the last witness called by defendants Saturday. Grant is professor of atmospheric science at the Colorado State University and one of 10 members on the state wide weather modification advisory committee, serving both the scientific and agriculturally standpoint. Grant farms a half section north of Collins.

Presently there are three experimental programs in Colorado. Last year a permit was denied Atmospherics, Inc. after controversy arose in the San Luis Valley between barley and lettuce growers on one side and ranchers and religious element on the opposite side. During the several years of seeding, Atmospherics was in tractor during 1972.

Working on a predictive equation preserved on computer tapes for 20 years, Grant said a study run for the period 1947-72 determined how much rain would have been measured there had been no seeding.

The study showed a 37 percent precipitation increase greater than normal. On the predictive equation, they found precipitation should have been 13 percent above during this period, leaving a 13 percent high precipitation record.

Grant said during this time Colorado's underground water table dropped from one to two feet due to increase in pump wells.

Central Air Conditioner Around

It's here. From Carrier. The Super E Round One. The Central Air Conditioner with the highest-certified efficiency rating* on the market today. It gives you more cooling per dollar of electricity used than any other central air conditioner. This means you save energy as well as money.

And Carrier's Super E also has the lowest certified sound rating*... a mere 16 to be exact. This means it's the quietest central air conditioner on the market. As a matter of fact, the Super E generates only one-half the sound power of the next quietest certified unit.

The Super E comes in 3 models... 23,000 Btu/h's, 30,000 Btu/h's, and 39,000 Btu/h's. With Btu/h per watt ratings of 10.5, 10.0, & 10.3. That's real efficiency right across the board.

Since the Super E Round One represents the best value in central air conditioning today, chances are it'll soon be in short supply. So call us right away to find out how the Super E can save you energy and money.

THE FIRST FAMILY for Parkview Baptist Church include Claude and Betty Woods and their three children, Wendell, 15; Karen, 14; and David, 12. Rev. Woods is the new post in March. (Staff Photo)

Parkview Baptist Pastor Is New Mexico Native

Rev. and Mrs. Claude W. Woods and their three children have been in Littlefield since March 20, when Rev. Woods accepted the pastorate of Parkview Baptist Church. They came here from Hobbs, N.M. where Rev. Woods was pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church.

Rev. Woods was born in Thomasville, Mo., but grew up and attended schools at Hobbs, N.M., attended New Mexico Baptist College in Hobbs, and New Mexico Junior College at Hobbs. His first church was the Westside Baptist Church in Hobbs, and his second, New Hope Baptist Church.

His wife, Betty, was Longview and reared where she also attended schools.

They have two sons, daughter, Wendell, 15; and David, 12.

Wendell will be a freshman next year. He likes to play drums, and watch sports—as well as participating in sports. His mother says he has certificates for achievements in sports. He particularly likes motorcycles, although he doesn't own one.

Karen will be a freshman. According to her mother, she's a good athlete—likes basketball, and horse riding.

David is playing baseball with the Littlefield team this year and will be in the grade this fall. He listens to the radio.

Mrs. Woods plays piano and likes to paint.

While in New Mexico, Mrs. Woods served on the Association of Stewarts Committee, Church Extension Committee, Missions Committee, and the Evangelism Committee. He has several revivals in southeastern portion of the state, and plans to do an extension study work at a Baptist seminary.

Cotton production prospects on the Texas High Plains become darker by the day according to officials of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock-based cotton producer organization representing 25 counties surrounding Lubbock.

Looking a week backward from June 7, they point to a series of devastating hail storms across 11 counties in the North and Northeast sections of the area where most cotton is irrigated, and to a continuation of dry weather over the South and Western counties where most of the cotton is highly or totally dependent on rainfall.

Earlier in the year officials were looking toward 3 million acres of cotton in the 25 counties. Now they calculate that figure could be significantly reduced, and at best much of the Plains acreage will be fighting an uphill battle to produce normal crops.

Acreage lost to hail is estimated by various sources at from 200,000 to 350,000 acres. Heaviest losses were recorded in Crosby (100 to 140,000 acres), Hale (35 to 40,000), Floyd (25 to 30,000) and Swisher (25 to 30,000).

Counties losing in the neighborhood of 20,000 acres include Dickens, Lamb, Motley, and Briscoe. Smaller acreage was destroyed in Parmer, Castro and Lubbock Counties. The best estimate of cotton completely destroyed might be about 250,000 acres, with another 100,000 acres or so suffering damage that could well reduce the harvest.

It is expected that all but about 75,000 of the lost cotton acres will go back to cotton. But the late planting in these northern counties greatly reduces chances for normal crop.

In the drought-ridden area South and West of Lubbock, much of the acreage has not been planted, and that which has been planted and is now up to a stand will not last long without rain.

Bob Metzger, Area Cotton Agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, estimates that only about 30 percent of the cotton in Dawson, Lynn, Terry, Cochran, Hockley, and Garza Counties has been planted. And those six counties were counted on for around 1,100,000 acres earlier in the year. If the rains don't come, there would be some three-quarters of a million acres in these counties to subtract from the expected 3 million total for the Plains.

Other unplanted dryland areas throughout the Plains are thought to total at least another 200,000 acres.

There is still time for much dryland acreage to be planted if moisture falls by the end of June. But high yields on cotton planted in late June or early July must be considered unlikely.

Putting all the figures together, PCG calculates that if there are no further hail losses and if all dryland areas get planting moisture before the end of June, the Plains could have 1,675,000 acres of "normal" cotton, 100,000 acres of hail-damaged and 1,150,000 acres of late-planted cotton.

But the total of 2,925,000 acres looks larger and larger with each passing day.

Water Color Workshop

Mike McCullough of Canyon will hold a five-day water color workshop at The gallery in Littlefield July 8-12.

McCullough has a bachelor of arts degree from WTSU and will complete work on his master's thesis in bronze sculpture.

He and his wife, the former Carla Chambers of Littlefield, live in Canyon where McCullough has been teaching painting and lettering design as a graduate assistant in the art department.

He has done watercolor workshops in Panhandle and Clovis, N.M. and has summer workshops scheduled in Littlefield, Plainview and Matador.

During the past academic year his work has been in shows at Colorado Springs, Colo., Amarillo, Wichita, Roswell and Dallas.

General Telephone Seeks To Increase Wages

Tentative agreement has been reached by General Telephone Company of the Southwest and Communications Workers of America on a 35-month contract that will increase wages and benefits approximately 27 percent (or $12.5 million) over the period of the contract, according to Don A. Reek, vice president-personnel.

The contract is subject to ratification by CWA membership in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Arkansas. The vote should be completed by July 1, according to T. O. Moses, CWA representative of Lubbock, union spokesman during negotiations.

A three-year contract negotiated in 1971 was to expire June 27. Negotiations on a new contract began May 15 and tentative agreement was reached June 14.

Moses indicated that the union is pleased with the agreement. "We feel we obtained improvements the membership had hoped for," he said.

Gray Beck, president, indicated that the contract will enable the company to continue to offer competitive wages that are required to attract and keep the high caliber people now employed and needed in the future to provide good service. "Overall I am very pleased with the contract. Some of the modifications will assist operating more efficiently," Beck said.

If the contract is ratified, it will become effective June 1 and new wage schedule will become effective June 1.

Increases over the year period range from 2 to 13.8 percent on living cost of living clauses. Wages also were increased for a number of employees located in designated fast-growth areas.

Other significant improvements in the settlement include an additional holiday (employee service anniversary) and increased premium pay for working undesirable substantial improvements in board and lodging expense payments for employees working out of town, improvements in life insurance, hospitalization plan, vacations; expansion of accidental leave of absence to 45 days and a variety of improvements in the company's pension plan.

General Telephone has more than one million telephones in over 400 changes in Texas, Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas. The represents approximately 6,100 craft employees in the company's operating territory.

Witnesses To Assemble For District Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses will assemble this summer at 85 'Divine Purpose' District Conventions throughout the United States and Canada. Additional assemblies will be held world wide.

John Moore, presiding overseer of the English-speaking Littlefield congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said the conventions are designed to keep delegates spiritually enlightened concerning the times in which we live.

"The 40 English-speaking representatives from Littlefield are looking forward with enthusiasm to the convention at Sunland Park near El Paso." He added that 5,000 are expected to attend the El Paso convention, June 20-23.

The Spanish-speaking congregations gather there June 27-30.

"We will be among the nearly one-million persons who are expected to attend these conventions during June, July and August," said Moore.

Moore stated the growth of Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide has created the need for more and larger facilities for these conventions each year.

Citing figures on international growth, he revealed that according to the organization's yearbook there are now 1,758,459 ministers in the field around the world, during 1973 statistics show 193,990 baptized in 208 lands.

"At times people inquire whether Jehovah's Witnesses carry on their work behind the Iron Curtain, he added. "The answer is 'yes'. Our records show that there are 150,448 Christian witnesses of Jehovah preaching publicly under severe difficulties.

Pintos On The High Plains Promises Profitable Crop

Retail prices for dry pinto beans have soared over the dollar a pound mark, causing many High Plains farmers to think seriously about switching to this premier income producer.

has slowed recently, and imports of beans, though small, have risen.

"The ultimate impact of these factors on bean prices is still uncertain. However, it seems safe to think that prices received by growers will be lower this fall even though they will probably not be as low as the 1971-72 period."

OTHER PROBLEMS

In addition to price problems, potential pinto producers also are facing other uncertainties, the economist warns. The culture of this crop on the High Plains is open to question since little research is available. The unavailability of high quality or preferably certified seed of the proper varieties is also a problem, especially at the current costs for seed.

"These factors spell increased demand and short supplies, which always create high prices," he says.

THIS YEAR

The March Planting Intentions Report showed dry bean acreage in the U.S. up almost 300,000 acres from 1973, a 20 percent increase, Sartin points out. With a return to normal yields and in spite of reduced carryover, the 1974-75 market season could see total supply of dry beans 15 percent greater than last year.

"Simultaneously, we are currently experiencing low farm prices for both beef and pork. Some reduction in retail meat prices and consumers' adjustment to meat price levels will serve to decrease the demand for protein alternatives. Export of beans geographical area, and much of this area of adaptation lacks alternative crops as attractive as cotton, grain sorghum, and corn. While beans may work this year, their continued high profitability is questionable.

Texas Declared Hog Cholera Free

Last month marked a special milestone by Texas swine producers in the battle against hog cholera. After a year free of outbreaks of the costly wine disease, Texas has been declared "hog cholera free" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Buddy C. Logsdon, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The occasion marks the first time since late 1962 that all 50 states have been pronounced free of hog cholera.

In a special ceremony in Austin, a certificate recognizing the achievement—signed by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz—was presented to Norman Moser, chairman of the Texas Animal Health Commission. The presentation was made by Dr. Francis Mulhern, administrator of the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, Washington, D. C.

Mulhern praised the work done in Texas as well as in other swine producing states to eradicate hog cholera. He noted that the efforts have already resulted in great savings to producers and that these savings will be even more significant in the coming years.

The USDA officials cautioned producers to remain vigilant, however, so that the dreaded disease can indeed be kept out of the state. This is especially important in Texas since the state borders Mexico where hog cholera is still widespread.

Recent isolated cases of the disease have popped up in Mississippi and Puerto Rico, but the cases were quickly contained and the "hog cholera free" status was not revoked, Logsdon points out.

The disease ran rampant in the 1950's, destroying an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 swine herds annually and costing producers $40 to $50 million a year in vaccine alone. Vaccine use was discontinued after 1969.

A cooperative state-federal eradication program began in late 1962 and has since cost just over $100 million. About a fourth of that cost has gone to pay indemnities to producers whose hogs had to be destroyed to stamp out infection.

The remaining costs have been for field operations and laboratory expenses.

Farm Farmers, Keep Good Records, You'll Need Them For Reports farmers and ranchers, get... the 1974 Census of... records of your... operations this year!

The U.S. Department of Commerce's Social and Economic Statistics Administration.

Farmers will receive their report forms by mail early in January. They should fill them out and mail them back promptly. Having accurate and detailed records will make it easy for farmers to do this. Questions will be much like those in the last previous agriculture census which covered farming and ranching during 1969.

Questions will ask for acreage of cropland harvested; quantity and market value of major crops produced; acres irrigated and means of irrigation; acreage treated with pesticides, lime and other chemicals; acreage fertilized by kind of fertilizer (dry, liquid, gas).

Questions on livestock and poultry will cover the number of each kind on the farm as well as the number sold and the sales value. Quantities and sales value of their products will be sought.

Details will be requested about farm products produced or marketed under contract. A few questions will be included about hired and contract labor, the number of workers and cash wages paid; also about any injuries to workers.

Further expenditure questions will cover amounts spent for feed, fertilizer, pesticides, lime, gasoline and other farm fuels, machine hire, and livestock and poultry purchases.

There will be questions about the various types and uses of land, such as cropland not harvested, other pasture and woodland, and about the value of land and buildings on the farm.

Operators will be asked about farm related income such as recreational services, customwork provided other farmers, or payments for participation in Government farm programs.

Two types of report forms are being prepared: one for farms with sales of $2,500 or more, and another less detailed form for places with sales of less than $2,500. No matter which form a farmer receives, he need answer only those questions that apply to his operation. He should skip questions that apply only to other types of agricultural operations.

By federal law, every report is confidential. It may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical purposes. The mail method reinforces confidentiality. It also allows the farmer to complete the report at his convenience with accurate information from his records.
