A number of Olton residents who lined the Hair said the night the original courstreets around the blazing courthouse thouse burned, some Olton residents were carried shot guns. When the blaze died down, nothing was left but a large fire-proof vault. Countywide feelings were divided over where the new courthouse should be located. The commissioners were split two and two whether to rebuild in Olton or re-locate in Littlefield. County Judge R. C. Hopping cast the deciding vote for Olton. But even then it took two years to get a bond passed to build the new courthouse

Amherst and Littlefield both wanted the county seat. Amherst needed only a simple majority vote to gain the courthouse, since it was located in the center of the county. But Littlefield needed a two-thirds

A. P. Duggan Sr., the founder of Littlefield who was then a state senator, came up with the theory that Littlefield could get the county seat with a simple majority because Olton was more than 14 miles from the railroad. But the fact was overlooked that Hart was only 12 miles away. "Needless to say," Hair added, 'Duggan wasn't very popular around Olton for a while.

Although the second Lamb County courthouse built in Olton was brick, the floors were wooden. The jail was located in after white bloom, but the completion of the shedding process is slowed by low temperature and may not be too evident until the temperature rises again. Bolls that are 10 days or older will seldom shed. Rapid vegetative growth usually follows excessive fruit shed.

Producers can expect to see an increase in the wilt diseases since weather conditions have been ideal for infection to develop during the last two weeks. Symptoms will become more evident as warmer weather returns and plants are subject to greater moisture stress.

A boll set from a white bloom in late August will require 60 to 70 days to open depending on temperature. Thus, bolls being set now will not reach maturity before November 1. Lower than normal temperatures would lengthen the boll period and bolls set after this date would be more subject to severe damage by first freeze.

The micronaire of fiber from late set bolls will be low and recent cool weather has likely reduced the micronaire of fiber in the earlier set crop. No doubt, the overall micronaire of the crop can be expected to be lower than usual. Very little effect on staple length is expected. Wet, cloudy weather would tend to increase fiber length slightly while lower temperatures would likely reduce length. Thus, two opposite effects on fiber length have been in operation. It is unlikely that fiber strength has been changed.

With a normal or higher temperature and normal freeze date, much of our cotton has an opportunity to make good yields of acceptable quality fiber. Producers should consider herbicides for layby weed control rather than mechanical cultivation. Frequently, root pruning from tillage increases fruit shed and wilt disease. So in view of our present maturity situation, this year's crop will demand best management during the short time remaining before

We Can Improve

WE CAN IMPROVE. This is one of the greatest and most meaningful human blessings

We can improve self; we can improve our working skills; we can improve the manner in which we relate to others; we can improve our family life; we can improve our community; and we can improve just about everything with which we are associated

The opportunities are practically unlimited, and the challenge always new.

THE KNOWLEDGE that we can make improvement is a valuable source of life encouragement. It certainly helps dispel feelings of boredom and ennui.

More than this, it is a positive force that motivates and sustains us in our daily living adventure. Of course, this knowledge must be made effective by wise desire and persistent effort.

"HUMANITY MAY ENDURE the loss of everything; all of its possessions may be torn away without infringing its true dignity-all but the possibility of improvement."-Fitche

Don't wait for big things to do. It seems that many people fail to consider the value of all the relatively little things that all of us can do in self-improvement and in the improvement of our surroundings.

In fact, most of the improvement, of necessity, must be in what we generally consider the little things. Let us just remember that improvement is improvement, and that it is cumulative.

THIS IS THE FORMULA. "Use your gifts faithfully, and they shall be enlarged; practice what you know, and you shall attain to higher knowledge."-Arnold.

One bit of improvement enlarges both our capacity and opportunity for more improvement. This applies to self, and to THIS IS Lamb County's first courthouse as if the primary environ of our life movement.

EFFORTS TO IMPROVE indicate a kind of discontentment, but it is not an objectionable discontentment. It is certainly not the kind that causes unhappiness

It is wholesome, and desirable because it helps to keep open the corridor to continuing improvement. In fact, wellthought-out contentment contains both desire for and efforts toward improvement

CHANGE IS NOT necessarily improvement, because some change is regressive. It is movement in the wrong direction

'We ought not to be over-anxious to encourage innovation, in cases of doubtful improvement, for an old system must ever have two advantages over a new one: it is established and it is understood."-Colton.

SOME THINGS cannot be improved. For example, established truth cannot be improved. This is the most certain way to meaningful progress.

All worthwhile improvement begins with self, and, directly or indirectly; is profitable to self, and others.

STARTING SEPT. 5, visit a Salvation Army Sunday school, something new will be added. A major change in the Sunday school curriculum.

Young people, trying to revitalize religion outside the church, will find Jesus Christ a Superstar inside this one.

WHAT WOULD YOU think of a group of young people whose slogans proclaimed, 'Christ Is Coming," yet their religious services were noisy, unstructured, consisting mostly of individuals in the congregation emotionally relating their personal religious experiences?

Their theology is negligible and their songs are outrageous and their salute is an index finger pointed heavenward.

WHAT I HAVE just described is the founding membership of the Salvation Army in London 100 years ago.

Any similarity to the Jesus movement today is too obvious to require elaboration.

AS THE Salvation Army attuned itself to changing worship patterns of the 19th century, it is continuing to adapt. Starting Sept. 5, it will adopt livelier, more youth-oriented Sunday school study materials WHAT INITIATED this "moderof Salvation Army Sunday school? Recent increasing youth involvement in religion seems to date from, or be coincident with, release of the British pop-opera, "Jesus Christ Superstar."

CRITICS OF the rock-opera contend it

'does not go far enough.

Defenders of it contend that it purposely and THE PHILOSOPHER leaves the Calvary story incomplete. Thus it affects many moderns who are willing to be led up to the church door but unwilling to be dragged through it.

A FAD or a trend, who cares?

Billy Graham, watching young people attend crusades and respond in everincreasing numbers says, "This may be the renaissance we've been praying for; let's not deride it."

HE REMEMBERS at Oakland busloads of Berkeley students attended. Many, admittedly on their way to create a disturbance, "stumbled and fell at the foot of the Cross.

The recent generation of young people was turned off and turned out by churches which lapsed into routine religiosity; "a scripture, two dirgelike hymns, an uninspired, uninspiring sermon and an impassioned plea for money."

THEIR HUNGER for something transcendant unsatisfied inside church they're seeking outside

A Dallas minister, Dr. Howard Hendricks, remembers a troubled and troublesome boy who, attending church in the 1920s, was inquisitive, but his questions were answered with platitudes.

FIVE FUNDAMENTALIST but impatient Sunday school teachers refused to tolerate his interruptions until one day the Sunday school superintendent took the boy to the door and said, "John, don't come back." He didn't the basement, and the jail was eventually condemned because it was unsafe for prisoners in the event of fire.

After three elections and 15 years, Littlefield won the county seat and the records were moved here in 1946.

Hair remembers the fights over the courthouse well, because he was deputy tax collector under three tax collectorassessors from 1934 through 1944, serving under Roy Gilbert, Doc Holt and Frank Cummings before he joined the Olton State Bank where he is executive vice president.

Besides being proprietor of the general store. Hair's dad was a real estate agent, too, during the 20s. Hiar often rode in the back seat of the Model T as his dad showed land, "tearing out across the country because there were no fences."

Hauling groceries from Plainview to Olton was a two-day affair when it rained. It took a day going and a day coming back. That was all right with Hair, though, because there was a picture show there.

Olton's first theatre opened in 1927 or '28 and Hair was a great fan of the silent movies of Tom Mix and Hoot Gibson. "The blacksmith's wife had more kids than were in my whole family and she declared herself the official reader," he said. "She had a loud voice and read every word on the screen. That loud reading really irked some of us because we watter own reading.
