Teenager drowns in Bull Lake

Body of James Barrick, 16-year-old Littlefield teenager, was rescued from Bull Lake at 2 p.m. Tuesday, following an 18-hour search by a party composed of Volunteer Firemen from Littlefield, Olton, and county law enforcement.

Barrick was reported lost in the lake shortly before 8 p.m. Monday night, when two of three of his companions reported the mishap to Lake Manager Buck Ross.

Justice of the Peace Stanley Doss held an inquest at the lake at 2:15, and ruled that death was by drowning.

This drowning was the third at Bull Lake in the past four years.

His body was brought to Hammons Funeral Home by the Fire Department's emergency vehicle, and funeral services are now pending.

Barrick was in a party of four who were swimming in Bull Lake on the west side at the end of Road 3. According to Sheriff E. D. McNeese, the wind was blowing and the waters were rough. The victim apparently stepped into a hole and drowned. Others in the party were Jeff Nichols, 18; Peggy Crow, 14; and Joan Crow, 15. The two girls ran to the pay station to seek help.

Members of the Littlefield Volunteer Fire Department were being honored with a "thank you" dinner at the Sagebrush Inn, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Reese, when the emergency call came.

A Department of Public Safety helicopter from Lubbock flew over the mishap site Tuesday in an attempt to spot the body, but the water was too muddy and there were too many clouds overhead.

A skin diver from Muleshoe also aided in the search. Searchers drug the lake until 2:30 a.m. Tuesday morning, then went back at 8:45 to resume rescue operations.

Funeral services are set for 3 p.m. today at the Assembly of God Church.

Burial will be in the Littlefield Cemetery with Hammons Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

CLIPS & TIPS

By JOELLA LOVORN

Just about every home gardner has a few tomato plants that are his pride and joy. But there's more to growing a good crop of tomatoes than just setting out the plants.

Tomatoes can be some of the most rewarding garden plants, but they can also bring frustrations.

For success at growing tomatoes, here are a few pointers.

First of all, select varieties that are adapted to the area and that resist many of the common diseases. Such varieties as Spring Giant, Homestead, Porter, Terrific or Small Fry are excellent for most areas of Texas.

When buying tomato plants, select those that are short, stocky and dark green—ones that are about as tall as they are wide.

Be sure to locate tomatoes in an area that receives at least six hours of sunlight a day.

Plant tomatoes in a soil rich in organic matter and containing adequate fertilization. Allow about four square feet of space for each plant.

Set the plants somewhat deeper than they were originally growing. Apply a starter solution; one can be made by mixing one or two table-spoons of a complete fertilizer in a gallon of water.

To reduce wilting, set out plants on a cloudy day or late in the afternoon. Protect them from adverse conditions such as high winds or excessive heat by providing some cover, such as milk cartons with the ends cut out.

As the plants begin to grow, provide some form of support to keep fruit off the ground, such as stakes, trellises or wire cages.

At first bloom, dust or spray tomatoes for both insects and diseases. Once plants start setting fruit, apply small amounts of fertilizer every week or so.

For tops in quality and flavor, harvest the fruits at peak maturity.

GOOD SEASONING

Ever tried browned butter as a vegetable seasoning? Just heat the butter over low heat until it's amber colored, then pour over freshly cooked vegetables.

TUNA CHEESEBURGERS

Looking for a quick, hot, pick-up supper? Try Tuna-Cheeseburgers: Flake tuna with a fork, mix with chopped celery and green pepper as desired, with salad dressing to moisten. For each 7-ounce can of tuna used, add 1/2 cup of cubed Cheddar cheese. Spoon into sandwich buns and wrap in aluminum foil. Heat in a 350 degrees F. oven for 15 to 20 minutes and serve hot with mugs of milk.

****

ONION ROLLS

1 pkg. frozen cloverleaf rolls
1/4 cup butter
2 cups finely chopped Texas green onions or white onions
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

Thaw rolls. Separate each roll into 3 natural divisions. Roll out round and as thin as possible. In a 10-inch skillet, melt butter; saute onions in butter until wilted but not brown. Add salt and pepper. Allow to cool. Put 1 teaspoon onion mixture on each dough circle; moisten edges and fold over. Press edges together.

Let rise until double in bulk. Bake at 375° until brown. Yield: approximately 2 dozen rolls.

For additional onion or lamb recipes send a postcard request to Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

****

BAKED SPAGHETTI

2 lbs. ground beef
1/2 lb. hot Italian sausage, sliced
1 1/2 cups chopped onion
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 Tbsp. Italian seasoning, crushed
4 cans [10 1/2 ozs. each] Condensed Tomato Soup
3 soup cans water
1 Tbsp. vinegar
2 tsp. salt
1 lb. spaghetti, cooked and drained
Grated parmesan cheese.

In large heavy pan, brown beef and cook sausage and onion with garlic and Italian seasoning until done. Stir to separate meat. Stir in soup, water, vinegar, and salt. Simmer 15 minutes; stir occasionally. Add spaghetti. Transfer to two 2-quart shallow baking dishes (13 x 9 x 2"). Bake at 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until hot; stir. Top with cheese. Makes about 15 cups, enough for 10 servings.

MILK PROTEIN

Casein makes up 82% of the protein in milk. It is the protein which is used as the standard for evaluating protein in other foods, thus indicating the high quality of this particular protein.

Marriage enrichment programs so popular these days aren't the final answer to marriage and family problems. But they do provide good opportunities for couples to begin arriving at their own answer to their own personal problems, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

What's the use?

DRIFTING WITH THE TIDE makes it impossible for us to accomplish anything worthwhile, as we move along; and takes away from us all possibility of choosing our destination.

The general attitude involved in this choice is one of hopeless and helpless discouragement. Of course, there will be some happenings about which we can do nothing by which we will be affected. We do, however, have the power to choose our manner of responding.

"WHAT'S THE USE?" This is not an uncommon question. It may be appropriate in some instances, but, in most instances, it is not the wise view. It is usually part of the destructive spirit of defeatism.

It comes from not putting forth the effort necessary to inform one's self about the problems and difficulties about which something can be done; something better than giving up.

THERE ARE GOOD trends and bad trends, and they can be identified and separated; and we know the difference. There are time-tested and well-proven fundamental principles about which something has to be done.

They form the structure of our way of life. They can be preserved and strengthened and appreciated; or they can perish, they can be lost. We must not, in the times of testing and trial, turn away from these with the attitude, "what's the use?"

PERHAPS WE DON'T CARE. Is this why we are willing to accept defeat? Surely not. We must care. The only reason the good and elements of society and civilization have ever existed is enough people cared enough.

When the way was rough, probably asked, "what's the use?" but many more knew that the same effort was justified, made it.

WE ARE FINISHED, when we finally begin to say, "what's the use?" Some folk think that defeatism is increasing. This is true; however, whether this is one feeling we cannot because it will undermine our and kill our spirit.

The important point here is that an undesirable and hurtful downward trend can be overcome, and must be.

IF DEFEATISM IS our way of breaking faith with those before us; those who transmitted a wonderful heritage to us. Thinking or asking, "what's the use?" we are violating the trust and confidence that our children have in us.

We cannot afford to give up. It seems that we should our determination to work for preservation and continuous guidelines and standards which blessed so many for so long. This must be done in the home, and in every other area of thought and action.

IF WE ARE LOOKING for a reason for giving up, we will find this is just exactly what we afford to do.

HONNY GETS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

SEEMS TO ME it's high time that some of the teeth were pulled from the big labor unions. When it comes to the point where any political hopeful is afraid to resist the wishes of organized labor or to point out the expensive path down which they're taking us, it would look like it's time something was done.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that none of the presidential hopefuls can expect to get to first base, without the blessing of organized labor. And I advocate that it's not "The good of the country" that is uppermost in the labor bosses' minds.

WE MUST ADMIT that labor has done much to better the position of the common laborer—especially in the manufacturing areas but a lot of the good is purely superficial. They too have had to pay the higher prices for the goods they, themselves help to make. That as well as having to pay the higher prices for other affected goods. A vicious merry-go-round!

WHAT SHOULD REALLY raise our apprehensions, though, is the efforts being expended to organize FARM labor! It's said that legislation is working in both houses of congress to help this move along. If this should happen then we ain't seen nothing, yet!

You might remember the havoc wreaked by Mr. Chavez, and men, out California way. The being attempted, I understand, own state. When it comes to where the farmer will be paid much to pay, who he shall has to have the permission of union to be able to fire him, name a few of the things you expect). You're going to have pretty irate country people!

WHEN WE TAKE into account the fears our lawmakers of big labor you needn't be surprised this legislation passes unless a lot of protesting. When we consider the power of organized labor enterprise will have been WRITING SOMEBODY!

EQUAL RIGHTS for women! They'd have to give up all the privileges they already have!

THE MUCH-HERALDED "Out" between Mr. Ford and Reagan in Texas, will be decisive as to the preference people. Since the GOP is so our state, not many state and officials will be running as usual. Doubt if interest in the primary will be strong enough to entice the voters to forsake the elections. Exercise in futility!

Cotton Pool members receive another 5c

Members of American Cotton Growers have received another five-cents per pound progress payment, according to L. C. Unfred of New Home, president of the 3,000-member marketing cooperatives.

"This is the second progress payment made to members from the marketing pool since January," he said. "We are pleased with the progress of our pool."

The recent payment of $4.5 million brings to more than $9 million total progress payments made to the ACG membership in addition to the advance of gross CCC loan value at time of delivery.

In commenting on the balance of the pool marketing year which will conclude on Sept. 30, Unfred said the Association is in good position to capitalize on any market upturn.

"We have more than 45,000 bales of cotton remaining to be sold from this season's pool in addition to 20,000 bales which are earmarked for the Association's textile mill in Littlefield."

Commenting on progress of the $30 million denim manufacturing facility under construction by ACG, Unfred stated that the plant is progressing on scheduled and limited startup of weaving operations is anticipated sometime during the first half of May.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

On March 26, 1976, the University of Texas System School of Nursing (UTSSN) was dissolved by the Board of Regents. The system which was established by the legislature in 1967 has the outstanding features of focusing on preventive health care of all people and keeping nurses in outlying and metropolitan areas informed of new techniques and concepts concerning patient care.

This dissolution would mean that each branch of the School of Nursing would not remain a separate entity but would be taken over by the University of Texas which would mean that nursing education would no longer be under the control of nurses.

This action would affect the South Plains area nurses in that the continuing education programs would be divided into 6 programs with increased costs and different standards in continuing educational programs throughout the state.

This differing standard across the state of Texas would affect all Texans because each of us is a potential patient.

Doctors need informed nurses to help them stay informed of all changes in patients' conditions and symptoms which could give a doctor aid in diagnosing an illness. The nurse spends proportionately much more time with a patient and a knowledgeable nurse can provide the doctor with important information and better patient care for the patient.

In attempt to have a year—the effective date of this ruling—is Sept. 1, 1976, from the Board of Regents the Save Our School (SOS) fund has been established to provide time for a study of the school and gather evidence which we believe will support the school.

The fund is to raise the money which the regents say will be saved ($300,000)

MR. AND MRS. PEYTON REESE hosted a steak dinner as a "Thank You" token to the Littlefield Volunteer Fire Department and their wives Monday evening at the Sagebrush Inn. Reese presented a plaque to the department through the Fire Chief, M. O. Dunagin. (Staff Photo)

EPA, farmers must be partners

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and agricultural producers must be in close partnership. Environmental protection and increased agricultural production are not contradictory objectives.

That call for a more close working union between agriculturalists and environmentalists came from Nathan Chandler, agricultural consultant to EPA administrator Russell Train, as the annual Texas Animal Agriculture Conference kicked off at Texas A&M University Thursday, April 8.

Chandler particularly stressed the need for increased cooperation between agricultural producers and the EPA in the areas of air and water pollution and use of pesticides.

"Only recently have the adverse effects of air pollution to agriculture been realized," Chandler told a gathering of some 1,600 farmers, ranchers and agribusiness people from throughout Texas. "Crop losses annually run into hundreds of millions of dollars. In fact, commercial production of crops has been completely halted in some locations, particularly near larger metropolitan areas."

Chandler noted that EPA research is delving into such matters as the effects of atmospheric contaminants on natural nitrogen conversion vital to plant life as well as the effects of acid rain on plant nutrients and plant soil changes.

As far as water pollution is concerned, the EPA official stressed that the main emphasis of the regulatory agency is to prevent the problem before it occurs by limiting the amount of pollution at the source. "Point source" pollution, such as from feedlots and processing plants, is being regulated by a permit system. However, the "non-point sources" of pollution, those not traceable to a definite point, cause most of the water pollution problems, noted Chandler.

The major substances that are pollutants are sediment, nutrients and salts—natural components of the ecosystem. They become pollutants only when they exceed levels endangering the beneficial use of water," said Chandler. "Thus water quality objectives and program requirements for agriculture must be approached with great care and wisdom."

Good land management practices will go a long way in preventing non-point source pollution, the official emphasized. He called for preventing runoff and erosion, applying fertilizers and pesticides under optimal conditions, and retaining and recycling animal wastes.

Turning his discussion to pesticides, Chandler said, "We must balance the risks of using such products against their benefits. The EPA is making a new and concerted effort to listen to and communicate with affected pesticide users, particularly in the agricultural sector. We are attempting to increase participation of agricultural and other groups in the evolution of our pesticide policies."

Chandler cited the area of predator control to illustrate the need for flexibility and broadmindedness in dealing with pesticides.

Fort Hood open house invitations mailed

Invitations to a May 22nd Fort Hood Open House for retired military personnel have been mailed to approximately 17,000 people living in a 179-county area, extending from Odessa to Texarkana and from Childress to Galveston.

The purpose of the open house is to provide retirees and their dependents with the latest information on their rights, benefits, and privileges and to give them the opportunity to renew their interest and perspective of today's active Army.

Upon their arrival at Theater 1 at 10 a.m., the visitors will receive a welcome address by Lt. Gen. Robert M. Shoemaker, commander of III Corps and Fort Hood. General Shoemaker will be followed by Ms. Martha McSteen, the keynote speaker for this year's open house. Ms. McSteen is the regional commissioner for the Social Security Administration, which includes Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico. Additional presentations will be given by the VA and CHAMPUS representatives. The activities will then move to the Whittington Community Center, Bldg. 108, at 11:30, where retirees will have the opportunity to talk to professional personnel in the retiree areas of interest, such as general legal problems, civil service employment, social security, retired pay information, identification card renewal or issuance, Texas Employment Commission, Veterans benefits and medical benefits.

The day's activities will end with a Greater Killen Chamber of Commerce Retiree roundup Dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Mini Dome. This family affair will consist of a social hour (cash bar) and buffet dinner. Dress will be informal.

The cost of a ticket for the buffet dinner is $3.75 per person and must be paid in advance in order to make accurate arrangements. Reservations must be made through the Greater Killen Chamber of Commerce not later than May 18. Only 900 tickets are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

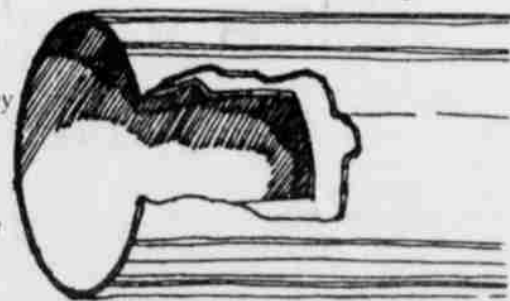

According to E. G. Fish, Fort Hood Retirement Service Officer, reservation forms for the official activities of the Open House must be turned in by May 19 in order to provide the best possible program in comfortable surroundings.

Fish further emphasized the need for people who have not received an invitation and reservation form through the mail to write or call him at Fort Hood (817-685-5210).

Our future with Gifford-Hill's aluminum pipe has made history.

Farmers tend to be pretty tough customers. They want to get everything they can out of every nickel they spend. And that's good.

Because the tougher they get the more likely they are to use Gifford-Hill's aluminum pipe.

First of all, it's clad. But that's not all. It's also roll formed. The walls are an even thickness so you don't have to worry about thin spots and cracking.

And the ends are reinforced so you don't have to worry about it getting out of round.

Whether you need a pivotal system, an underground PVC system, or an aluminum surface system, you just can't outdo us.

All you have to do is take a look at our past. That should give you a very good idea about what to expect in the future.

Cold-tolerant cotton seen for High Plains

Last September, when cotton on the Texas High Plains was entering its critical boll development stage, two consecutive weekends of cold, wet weather interspersed by several unusually warm days dealt cotton a severe blow. Agriculturists blamed the weather for causing at least a 50 percent loss in the 1975 cotton crop.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researchers at Lubbock now say at least two experimental varieties show "good genetic tolerance to cold", offering hope that varieties can be developed that will reduce the heavy economic losses that occurred last September.

Dr. Jack Gipson, Experiment Station cotton physiologist at Lubbock, says that since cotton is a hot weather crop, temperatures in excess of 70 degrees Fahrenheit are required for normal boll development. As temperature drops below this level, the rate of boll development gradually slows, ceasing almost entirely at about 60 degrees F.

In the High Plains area, most of the boll development occurs during August, September, and October, says Gipson. Beginning in September, and occasionally even in August, cold fronts periodically move through the area, resulting in minimums considerably below the optimum for boll maturation. August minimums average in the mid 60's, but in many seasons minimums dip to the mid 50's. September minimums average 58 degrees F. with lows of 41 not uncommon, and October minimums average 47 degrees F. with occasional dips to the low 30's.

"Low temperatures during boll maturation periods adversely affect yields, fiber and seed quality," Gipson explains.

"Fiber fineness, one of the most important measurements of fiber quality, is affected the most by temperature.

"In practice, fineness is usually determined by the micronaire apparatus, and is reported as the weight (in micrograms) per inch of fiber," he adds. "Since weight per inch is closely related to fiber wall thickness, the micronaire value serves as a very useful measure of fiber maturity."

Gipson has been studying the influence of temperature on cotton production and quality in cooperation with Dr. Levon Ray, Experiment Station cotton breeder, also of Lubbock. They found that certain varieties appear to be better adapted or more tolerant to low temperature than others, indicating that cotton does possess a genetic potential for cold tolerance.

Based on this premise, they began a program of testing and selection for cold-tolerant cotton in 1972. In their research they are using early maturing experimental types developed at the Lubbock Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center by Dr. Ray for narrow-row production.

These experimental lines are grown out in field growth chambers equipped with air conditioners and gas furnaces so that night temperature can be controlled at the desired levels. Three commercial cotton varieties are also used to provide standards by which progress can be gauged.

Selections are then made under low-temperature (57 degrees F.) stress conditions. Selections are made both for earliness, and for cold tolerance.

"With the aid of the low-temperature chambers the process of selection is speeded up considerably over what could be achieved under normal field conditions," Gipson says. "Thus, an earlier and more cold tolerant variety should be developed several years sooner than under ordinary selection programs.

"To date, two experimental lines show very good promise," says Gipson. "They are earlier than the commonly used standard commercial varieties and consistently produce fiber with higher micronaire values than the standard varieties."

Gipson says this is especially important in view of the large marketing discounts on low micronaire cotton. Cotton with micronaire values of 3.5-4.9 is not discounted, he said, but at 3.4 and below it is discounted in ranges, that is, 3.3-3.4, 3.0-3.2, 2.7-2.9, and 2.6 or less. Thus even an increase of a 0.3 micronaire unit could result in a shift upward of one to two brackets, thus reducing the discount.

"When one considers that on a long-term average, about 60 percent of the crop for the 25-county High Plains area falls in the penalty range of 2.4 to 3.4, the importance of shifting to higher micronaire brackets can be realized," Gipson emphasizes.

Assuming a two million-bale crop, some 1,200,000 bales would be penalized to some degree for low micronaire, he says. Based on a common discount of $15 to $20 per bale, the economic loss to the High Plains is staggering.

land, our people, our traditions, our values. Like you, I am deeply concerned about the direction of our country.

My only thought is to help bring about the changes that will heal what is troubling America so we can move on to the great victories that freedom offers.

We must move ahead. We must have concerned leadership. We must end the old politics. We must have a New Day for America.

That new day can only come when government trusts the people and the people have reason to trust the government. We must unite America in a fresh new spirit, in a fresh new approach, in a new leadership that will benefit every man, woman and child in this land.

Join hands with me. Together we will achieve this great New Day for America.

"HOLY DAY" OR "HOLIDAY"

The difference between a "holy day" and a "holiday" is simply a matter of putting "I" in the middle of the word. Actually the letter "I" has a powerful effect in most areas of our lives. The middle letter of sin is "I". In the parable in Luke 12, the rich fool uses "I" six times and "my" four times.

When we enthrone self, then holy days become holidays. Christmas is cheapened; Easter is ignored; Sunday is for sleeping.

But I'm not saying that "holy" is a Sunday word. Everything that God made is holy—everyday, every person, every material possession. No wonder the Scripture says, "Whether, therefore, ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." (1 Corinthians 10:31)

Pioneer stockholders to get increase

At the company's annual meeting held Tuesday, Pioneer Corporation stockholders approved an increase in the authorized shares of common stock to 20 million from the previous figure of 12 million. With the recent 20 percent stock dividend, the company has slightly over nine million shares outstanding.

In making the announcement, K. B. Watson, company president said, "the authorization of this additional stock keeps the company in a flexible position and free to concentrate on any new areas of opportunity that might become available."

Watson told the stockholders that Pioneer Corporation subsidiary, Pioneer Nuclear, had completed a sale to Philadelphia Electric Company of over 320,000 pounds of uranium concentrate from its Conquista mill. This "yellowcake" came from Pioneer's stockpiled inventory, and the sale was made at prices determined in accordance with the recently renegotiated contract with Philadelphia Electric. Revenue from this sale will be in excess of $4,650,000. At the end of the first quarter and following the sale to Philadelphia Electric, Pioneer had 224,000 pounds of uranium concentrate remaining in inventory.

Watson stated that earnings for the first quarter are expected to be up over the same period last year.

E. S. Morris, Pioneer Corporation, senior vice president and president of the company's two producing subsidiaries, Amarillo Oil Company and Pioneer Production Corporation, reported to the stockholders on recent activities. He said that substantially all of the development has been completed in the Jennings Townsite Field in Jefferson Davis Parrish, Louisiana. Current production from the field is running at the rate of 42,000 Mcfd of gas and 6,400 barrels per day of oil and condensate.

Morris went on to say that for the first quarter of this year the company has participated in 18 completed wells resulting in five dry holes and 15 producing wells, two of which were dual completions. He went on to say that 15 wells were being drilled at the end of the quarter. This put the success ration on a net well basis for the first quarter of 1976 to 73 percent.

All of the incumbent directors were re-elected.

Pioneer Days

WOOD, WATER AND WIND-BREAK

When white men came to the great level arid territory called The Plains of Texas in the last 18th century, three things were of their most concern—wood, water and windbreaks. Very little wood was available anywhere.

Water was far between, and often the traveler had to haul a barrel on his wagon for drinking water, and many miles of extra travel was necessary to go by places where water could be had.

Covered wagons were not always sufficient cover or protection when bad weather came. So most trails or roads went by ways where wood, water, and some kind of protection was available. The tributaries of the Brazos, The Red River, Colorado River, and various other draws and playa lakes were their only hopes of water supplies.

During wet seasons, and after long wet spells in the Spring of the year, many of these draws and lakes could provide water for the weary traveler. Then some famous springs and known creek and water holes were stopping places for both man and beast.

A live spring at Yellowhouse Canyon, one at the west side of Bull Lake, furnished water part time.

Sod House camp and springs brought relief to all who came that way.

Springlake, some six miles east of the present town of Earth, had a running spring, and for many years was a famous watering place and became a leading division of the XIT Ranch.

As you follow a north western direction from Springlake, you would come to several other watering places on Tullia Creek and Running Water Draw. The freighter, prospector, and all other Pioneers had a problem of wood for both cooking and warmth during inclement weather.

All cooking had to be done on open fire and most travelers carried a little supply of wood for emergencies. Cow chips could be found around the watering places, and always were used for wood.

Mesquite flats and other small shrubs furnished a little wood sometime. Near a lot of these famous water places were a few deep washes and canyons and hills that could be used for windbreaks, and all the freighters, buffalo hunters and others usually knew where they could get some protection in a storm. What a relief when the windmills, mesquite grubs, corn cobs and barns came to the travelers' relief.

Then, when the railroad brought car loads of coal to those who were fortunate enough to be close by, more relief for all concerned. It took a lot of determination and brave men and women to overcome hardships caused by scarcity of wood, water, and windbreak.

To The Citizens of Lamb County

I regret that it is impossible to contact each of you personally during my campaign for re-election as Sheriff of Lamb County. It is essential for me to continue to attend to the duties of this office, however I will try to see as many of you as I can. I want to thank you for your past support and ask for your continued support and vote on May 1st.

Our Seventh Year

Our future with Gifford-Hill's PVC pipe has made history.

Farmers tend to be pretty tough customers. They want to get everything they can out of every nickel they spend. And that's good. Because the tougher they get the more likely they are to use Gifford-Hill's PVC. When the ground starts shifting you need a pipe that won't argue. The pipe should be flexible and the joints should slip a little so the pipe goes where the ground wants to take it. You need a patented rubber gasket joint that lets it slip without leaking and a service program that will take care of you if something goes wrong. There's only one way to get all that. Buy Gifford-Hill's PVC. Whether you need a pivotal system, an underground PVC system, or an aluminum surface system, you just can't outdo us. All you have to do is to take a look at our past. That should give you a very good idea about what to expect in the future.

They're well within your reach.

Hightailing it from your living room or bedroom to answer the phone in your kitchen is inconvenient, inefficient and a pretty amusing sight to onlookers.

So why not add an extension or two? It's easy enough to arrange. Just call your General Telephone business office.

We've got desk phones, wall phones, decorator and pushbutton phones. In plenty of styles and colors. Which makes our extensions as easy to look at as they are to get at.
