

ON NINE STATE AMENDMENTS

Vote Slated Tuesday

Voting on the nine proposed constitutional amendments may be one of the most important moves citizens in this area make this year.

The propositions cover "deadwood," raising legislators' salaries, exempting nonprofit water supplies from taxation, raising welfare, interest rates, assistance payments to survivors of public officers, bonds financing student loans, and annual legislative sessions.

Amendments 2 and 4 affect this area more than the other proposed amendments because of the economic impact the passage of the water amendments would have.

"It's hard to measure in dollars and cents what the passage of this water plan would be worth to the Plains," John D. Smith, president of the Lamb County Water Assoc. said.

"This is the most important thing for this area I can think of," Smith said. "Just look and see for yourself what dryland is worth and then look at good irrigated land."

"This whole county is 100 per cent agriculturally based. Plenty of water in this area is the most important thing that could happen. The water plan is fine for the state, better still for the area, and the greatest thing for the Littlefield area," Smith said.

Because our Constitution is the instrument guaranteeing our liberties and since it is not simple or easy to revise, citizens have a great responsibility in voting to adopt or reject proposals such as the nine which are separately analyzed here.

AMENDMENT NO. 1 H.J.R. No. 3 - The proposed amendment repeals those sections of the Texas Constitution which, after careful study, have been determined to be obsolete, superfluous, and unnecessary. The basis for this determination is the Texas Legislative Council's report to the 57th Legislature which contained an exhaustive study of the Texas Constitution and recommended changes.

The proposed amendment also provides that the enumerated sections be repealed with the specific understanding that the repeal shall not in any way make any substantive changes in the present constitution.

ARGUMENTS FOR (1) The proposed amendment is a mere "cleanup" measure which makes no substantive change in the Texas Constitution.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST (1) If the Sections to be repealed are obsolete, why bother with them.

AMENDMENT NO. 2 H.J.R. No. 9 - This proposed amendment adds a new Section 49-d-1 to Article III of the Texas Constitution which is designed to grant to the Texas Water Development Board the powers and flexibility of operation necessary to develop sufficient water

Early Deadlines For Next Sunday

Deadlines are being moved back for the Aug. 10 issue of the Leader-News.

Because that edition will be printed Saturday morning, rather than that evening, deadlines will be as follows: society, 10 a.m. Friday; local news, noon Friday; local advertising, noon Friday; classified advertising, 2 p.m. Friday.

These deadlines will not effect any other edition.

County Oil And Gas Bring In $2.2 Million

County oil and gas wells brought in approximately $2.2 million into the county's economy last year, according to a study just released by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association.

"Output from Lamb County is part of this country's domestic oil supply which is endangered by some of the proposals now before Congress," commented Corbin J. Robertson, Association president. "Attempts to destroy percentage depletion provisions of our income tax laws and to nullify present controls over imported oil could discourage further development of Texas oil resources. Eventually oil markets now shared by the county would be given over to foreign producers."

Last year, the county produced 714,000 barrels of crude oil and 596 million cubic feet of natural gas.

Of this total, county landowners and others with mineral interests received royalty payments of $271,000.

The state received $101,000 in production taxes with crude oil accounting for $96,000 and natural gas $5,000.

Drilling expenditures were an estimated $815,000. Three gas wells were completed in the county, according to Ira Rinehart's Yearbook. All were wildcats.

The Texas Employment Commission lists 14 workers on oil and gas payrolls, which totaled $65,000.

A Ranchful Of History

By NILAH RODGERS

When George White moved to the Yellow House Ranch in 1933, lots of historical water had passed under the bridge.

Owner George White believes that his ranch is the site of an ice glacier 10,000 years ago. Eight mastadon skeletons have been unearthed here, proving that these unusually large mammals related to the elephants once roamed the Yellow House Canyon land.

White is also convinced that cave dwellers once inhabited the caves carved out in the limestone bluffs above the present-day ranch headquarters. And history records the coming of the Comanches after the cavemen, and the redman's struggle with the Spaniards, the Republic of Texas, and finally the U. S. after Texas was annexed to the Union.

White's great half uncle, Major George W. Littlefield, and George White's dad, J. Phelps White, bought the entire Yellow House Division of the XIT Ranch in 1901, paying $2 an acre for 275,000 acres. Due to a surveying error, Littlefield became owner of an additional 37,000 acres, the Yellow House spread totaling 312,000 acres of land in Lamb and Hockley Counties.

The giant ranch was sold to the Yellow House Land Co. when Major Littlefield died and the estate had to be sold to satisfy the Major's estate.

Malcolm and Dave Reed and Bob Badger headed the Yellow House Land Co., and when the company decided to sell off most of the ranch in individual farms, Phelps White decided to sell his land at the same time the Littlefield land was sold.

The land company issued Plains Investment Bonds to be paid back in sequence, and began selling tracts of farm land.

Meantime the Dust Bowl days and the Great Depression hit, and in 1932 it was evident to Phelps White that the Yellow House Land Co. couldn't pay for the ranch.

The University of Texas bought the majority of the bonds sold by the Yellow House Land Co., and Phelps White took back 23,000 acres of the 312,000 acre Yellow House Ranch to protect his first lien note he had with the land company.

George White married in 1933 and moved to the Yellow House Ranch from Roswell, N. M.

The Yellow House Ranch has been the home where buffalo roam, and it was once strictly a sheep ranch. For generations the ranch was picnicking grounds for the people in the Littlefield area and surrounding towns. The bunk house, with its walls covered with pages of funny papers, was a favorite spot of the young. And over the years many boys have gone swimming in their birthday suits in the stock watering tanks or gone skinny dipping in New Goat Dam.

The big buffalo slaughter took place in

Vandalism Case Is Investigated

One vandalism case was reported to county authorities this week.

Bill Seibley of Rt. 1 Littlefield said he and his wife left home Wednesday evening to change irrigation water.

While they were gone vandals filled their car, parked in front of the house, with water and took antique porch furniture.

Missing were a wrought iron pot filled with artificial geraniums and a three-legged metal table with an antique white finish.

1877 when George and John Causey and another man invaded the area and killed more than 7,000 buffaloes on the Yellow House and Running Water Draws. For the cow hides the hunters were paid $1 each, and they received $2 each for the bull hides.

Native buffalo thus wiped out, J. Phelps White later bought 50 head of buffalo cows, calves and bulls from McKenzie at Fort Sumner, N. M. The rancher soon learned the amazing homing instincts of the buffalo.

"It took an extra man just to keep the buffalo from heading home," George White said. "Those wire fences didn't mean a thing to them when one of them decided to head home."

Phelps White sold the buffalo to a circus man in 1924. By that time there were four train car loads of the animals. The man who purchased the animals loaded cows, calves, bulls and all into the cars without separating them, White said. "At the time father said he didn't like the way the man loaded them all in together," George White said, "but they were paid for and father said he didn't feel like it was any of his business, telling the man how to ship them."

When the train reached Gallup, N. M., the buffalo started fighting. "The biggest end of them were killed," White said. "You never saw such a bloody massacre in your life."

White said he doesn't know whether buffalo hunters smelled as badly as the movies depict them to smell or not, but he is willing to bet on it.

White recalls the bad blizzard in 1918 when more than 700 of his dad's cattle died. Due to hard times many men were forced to gather bones from the prairie and sell them for a small price to keep their families fed. "They just picked up the bones," White said, "and you could smell them for six or seven miles."

THIS HISTORICAL MARKER stands just below the front lawn of ranch owner George White's home at the Yellow House Ranch. The lines across the monument are wires placed there to keep livestock away from the flowers surrounding the Texas landmark.

The church was decorated with a memory candle covered with a daisy chain on the guest table. The altar had a candelabra arch with yellow candles which was accented with emerald foliage, yellow and white daisy mums and green ivy. The pews were marked with greenery and daisies.

The wedding music was presented by Sue Stogner, soloist, and Pat Hinds, organist. Dennis Falk of Amarillo was best man.

Groomsmen were Gary Love and James Bruce of Denton and Wayland Taylor of O'Donnell.

Those seating the guests were David Nimmo of Amarillo, Gary Love of Denton and Wayland Taylor of O'Donnell.

Maid of honor was Mary Janet Blackwell, sister of the bride.

Helen Hope Shockley of Fort Worth, Linda Gail Harris of Sweetwater, and Sharon Lois Flavin of Dallas were bridesmaids.

The bride's mother chose a persian blue sheath dress and coordinating accessories for her daughter's wedding. She wore a yellow and white daisy corsage.

The groom's mother wore a soft yellow sheath of voile with coordinating accessories. A yellow and white daisy corsage completed her attire.

The bride's attendants wore sleeveless yellow formal-length gowns with high stand-up ruffles around the neck. The empire design was accented by yellow velvet bows held yellow silk illusion.

They carried colonial nosegays of yellow and white daisies.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white formal-length gown of swiss embroidered organza with tiers of ruffled lace lined with peau de soie featuring a stand-up collar edged in lace. The waist was accented with a peau de soie cummerbund. The long full sleeves terminated with formal cuffs. The long floating train was attached to the dress by a Dior bow.

The elbow-length veil of silk illusion was attached to a peau de soie band accented with swiss appliques and seed pearls.

She carried a formal cascade bouquet of yellow daisies and white daisies, white stephanotis, with English ivy intertwined.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church.

The bride's table was laid with a white satin cloth centered with a flower arrangement of yellow and white daisies with English ivy.

Mrs. Sharon Montgomery of Amarillo served the three tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells.

Miss Candace Hitt of Dallas served wedding punch.

For their wedding trip to Colorado, Springs, Colo., the bride chose a champagne violet empire waist dress with accordion pleats and long sleeves. She wore beige accessories and the corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride, a 1966 graduate of Littlefield High School, is a senior secondary education major at North Texas State University.

What The Leader-News Thinks

High Interest Rates

THE RECENT INCREASES in the interest rates are supposed to fight inflation, but I say they help cause inflation because what they do is cause you to pay higher prices for a home, a car, or just about everything else you buy.

Recently, what they call the prime interest rate was jumped to 8½ percent. Now, the prime interest rate is the interest rate the big banks charge their preferred customers. But that interest rate would be higher if an individual went in to borrow money.

WHEN THE BIG banks announced that the interest rate was going to 8½ percent, the cost of a home loan jumped to 9½ percent in some states, while in other states the loan companies announced that they were not raising their interest rates for mortgages quite that high. They charged bigger service fees. This means you have less money to pay the contractor for him to pay materials, and to pay the workers. So, you've got less home for the amount of money you borrowed.

This latest jump in the interest rate was the fifth since December. Now we have the highest interest rates since the Civil War.

NOW WHEN A BIG loan company borrows money and has to pay 8½ percent on the loan, it has ways of getting that money back. It simply raises the prices and passes on to you that extra cost.

So you're hit from several sides with these new interest rates. You have to pay more interest if you borrow money or buy something on credit, and you also have to pay higher prices if you pay cash.

THESE NEW INTEREST rates hurt cities and school districts and all other public authorities because these high interest rates hurt any public governing body which sells bonds.

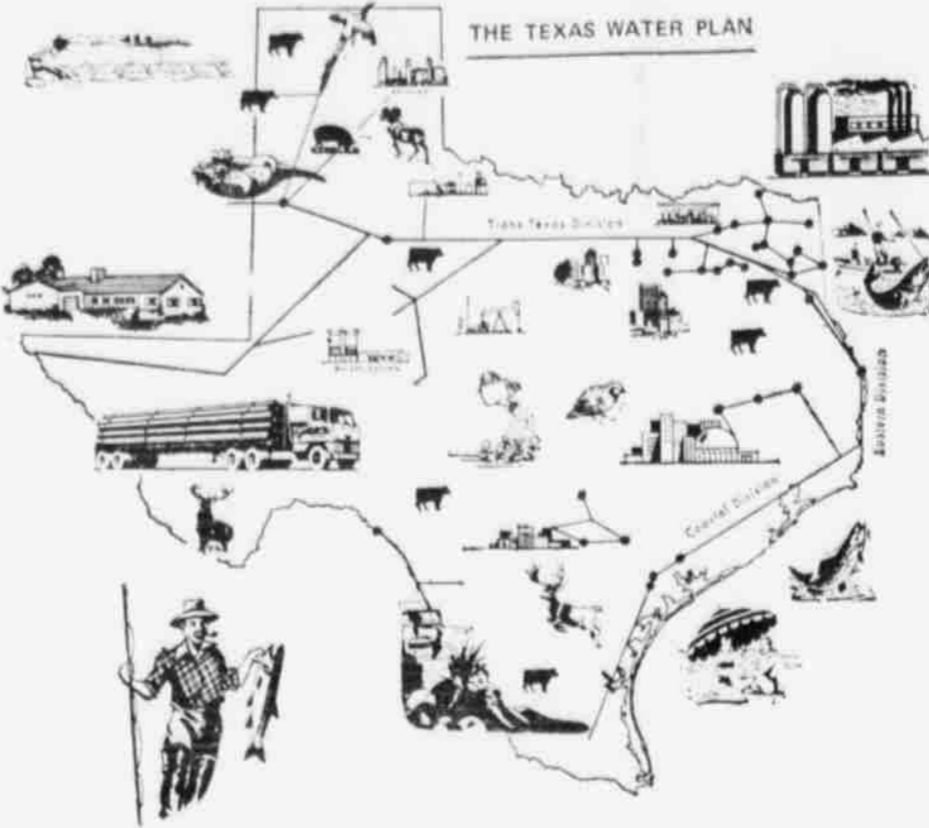

The interest rates on the school bonds and city bonds and other public bonds are higher, and you, the taxpayer, have to pay higher taxes on your home and business, farm and ranch to make up for the higher interest rates.

Some school districts, even with the higher interest rates, are now unable even to sell tax exempt bonds because banks can make more off of 8½ percent prime loans than they can off of what schools can pay on bonds. This means the high interest rates are holding back education. They're holding back building city halls and all kinds of public development.

NOW THERE ARE some people in our economy who are not suffering from these higher interest rates. They are the big banks who are reporting big increases in their earnings.

Compared with what they made for the first six months of last year, the big banks report that during the first half of this year their profits were up more than 21 percent over that year in that six months. They're the ones that profitted from the high interest rates.

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Kennedy Poll

By LIBBY MUGGETT

THE GRASSIE ROOTS Poll for this week asked the question "If you had been a Massachusetts voter, how would you have responded to Teddy Kennedy's plea of whether to resign or not?" Here's the results:

"I'd have begged him not to resign. I'd rather he'd stay in, run again and get defeated then!"

"But what if he does run again and is NOT defeated?"

"Well, down here he WOULD be."

"I think I'd have told him that it was good for all of us to find out just how he would react to an emergency."

"But he asked whether or not he should resign."

"I just answered that he should."

"Gee, I dunno. Personally, I don't see much difference between his mess and Joe Namath's."

"You don't? Would you have asked him NOT to resign, then?"

"Gee, I dunno."

"Well, I probably wouldn't have responded at all. I wouldn't vote for him if he runs again, but then on the other hand, I wouldn't have voted for him in the first place, either."

"I'd have responded, definitely, and asked him to resign in the interest of the whole nation."

"Do you think he should have posed the question to the whole nation?"

"No, no. It was Massachusetts put him in the Senate. Besides, he knew better than to ask that question anywhere down South."

"I'da responded by sending his wife a letter of condolence."

"Why?"

"It was the death of her chances of ever being First Lady."

"Would you have asked him to resign?"

"You bet."

"Yes, I'd definitely have asked him to resign. Furthermore, I think I'd write the rest of the Senate and let them know we think there's more than just Teddy guilty of hanky-panky. He just got caught."

"You can still do that, you know."

"Well, that's true. Maybe I will, too."

"I really don't think I'd have responded at all. But I do think it's fortunate that we know."

"Know what, ma'am?"

"Well, several things. Mainly what kind of person Kennedy is, but more important, what kind of machinery he's got working for him. If that had been most people, they'd have been in jail right now."

"I think I could have forgiven him everything except the lying. There's a possible chance that the whole thing was innocent."

"Would you have asked him to resign?"

"Yes, for lying. There's several conflicting statements he made and he's bound to have not told the truth on some of them."

"I don't know if I'd have responded or not. He'll probably wind up being President anyway and there'd he'd have my request for his resignation."

"You wouldn't have responded?"

"Probably not. This nation forgets quickly and you know the old saying about what a Kennedy wants, a Kennedy gets. I'm yellow."

County Residents Getting Younger?

For a number of years, up to 1967, residents of Lamb County were getting younger all the time. Not individually—only collectively.

The median age of the local population, which is the point at which there are as many persons above that age as below it, had dropped about 7 percent in a period of 7 years.

It went from 25.9 years in 1960, as determined by the census taken at that time, to approximately 24.3 years, where it remains today.

That is neither younger than Springtime nor older than Methuselah. It compares with a median age of 27.4 years in the nation as a whole and with 25.4 in the State of Texas.

Why the sudden end to the growing younger process? It is all tied up with the nationwide drop in the birth rate, which is attributed in part to the new attitude of the young women of the "now" generation toward child-bearing.

This is borne out by Census Bureau findings that women under 30 are having children at lower rates and are spacing them to a greater extent than did women of the previous generation.

While the report does not indicate the extent to which the pill and other relatively new techniques of family planning are responsible for this drop, it declares that these techniques "undoubtedly have been a contributing factor."

The lower birth rate and the trend toward smaller families is ascribed by the Population Reference Bureau to an awareness among young couples that "rearing children in this complicated and expensive world presents big problems."

The figures bear out this trend, according to a recent survey by the Census Bureau. It finds that there are 20 percent fewer young children per mother than in 1960.

This so-called "fertility ratio" refers to the number of children under the age of 5 per 1,000 women of child-bearing age.

In Lamb County, in 1960, this ratio was 567. It is now estimated at 454.

The local ratio, although considerably lower than before, as is the case generally, is still well above that in many sections of the country. The United States average is 376. In the State of Texas it is 416.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Devotion Decides

By BOB WEAR

IDEALS AND PRINCIPLES, however noble and desirable they may be, have no life or vigor in themselves.

They are dependent upon devoted people for their life and effectiveness.

These will be people who understand them, and sincerely appreciate and support them.

WE MUST AWAKEN to the somewhat startling conclusion that a way of life will not automatically survive just because it is a desirable way to live.

An inferior ideology to which people are selflessly devoted will live and flourish because the devotion of the people will animate it.

In fact, it can displace a more desirable viewpoint to which there is little or no dedication.

WE ARE BEGINNING to more fully grasp the hard-to-believe fact that the selfless devotion of communist adherents is a living reality. No effort will be made here to give reasons for such devotion, but we must realize that it is a devotion with all of the power, purpose and enthusiasm that devotion gives to a cause.

We may say that we cannot understand how anyone can be devoted to such a system but, understand it or not, the devotion is real. This is one reason communism is such a formidable enemy.

IT IS SO EASY and comforting to think that our general concept for living is best and, regardless of what happens, it will survive. Let us not deceive ourselves.

A second-rate ideology supported by dedicated people will prevail over a first-rate pattern of life that is only half-heartedly supported by selfish, self-indulgent people.

OUR "WAY OF LIFE" can survive and will survive if enough people care enough. If we will do

PAUL HARVEY

The Education Gap

IN RECENT YEARS you and I have assumed that education is useful, college is necessary.

Two recent generations have aimed themselves and their offspring at a college education, figuring that more school after high school is almost absolutely essential.

DROPOUTS WERE DECRIED. Where funds for higher education were unavailable, government offered assistance. We were certain that every young American could and should benefit from acquiring an academic degree.

Now along comes a survey by Fortune magazine, which suggests the possibility that tomorrow's leaders may come from the noncollege.

THE FORTUNE SURVEY compares the manner in which identical questions were answered by college and by noncollege young people. Examples:

Would you welcome more law and order? While 60% of college students said yes, 81% of noncollege youth also said yes.

Do you consider religion very important? College, 38%; noncollege, 64%.

Premarital sex: 64% of college students approve; 41% of noncollege students approve.

Reject conformity in dress and grooming: 38% college; 19% noncollege.

NO ONE QUESTION is intended to indict those who reply; the sum of all the questions and answers, however, appears to add up to the fact that students are likely in college to abandon many of the beliefs which have been considered basic to the American ethic.

It is apparent from this responsible survey, and comparisons with a similar one last October, that resistance to the draft is growing—the belief in war as an acceptable strategy is declining—and a majority of college students no longer hold either religion or patriotism to be very important.

EVEN AMONG practical-minded college students, those who are mostly conservative in other things, support for war is less and lessening.

some honest, analytical we will realize that the devotion must become strong

OUR ENEMIES call decadent nation of people point to many of the blemishes, caused by our spiritual ideals and principles for lack of devotion to they die, we die, too. He replete with an abundance evidence to support this

NOTHING CAN BE tragic than pretending well with us when there to indicate that we are many things go wrong.

It is very necessary well-being that we evaluate ourselves, and making right whatever wrong.

WE MUST BE DILIGENT discarding everything that weakening us, and the thing will weaken us. We must positive action to develop national climate of devotion to that which is good, and decent.

These form the social political structure which blesses mankind, and offer hopeful promise for us and posterity.

WE MUST NOT PERMIT "Way Of Life" to perish because a lack of personal devotion ideals and principles which framework.

We must not let this happen

DEVOTION DECIDES ahead for us and our children who have been so about blessed must not forget the of our blessings. We must encourage each other to greater devotion and service that will the vigor of individual and life.

Thus, we can prove worthy custodians of a heritage.

Is the war in Vietnam imperialism?

Last October 14% thought now 41% do.

HERE ARE RESPONSES will be worrisome to some:

Do you accept the authority police? Noncollege, 78%. College, 48% or college students do.

Are you a revolutionary? Noncollege, only 4% of 1%. College of college students label themselves revolutionary.

COLLEGE STUDENTS less that competition excellence, that hard work that money is important.

You and I may think the right track in Vietnam. But if they turn backs on laws, lawmen, incentive, money and more college students may so on their own ambition that they their own effectiveness.

THEN IT MAY again be once was, that from hard-driving, disciplined, and noncollege group our nation seed and find tomorrow's

THE PHILOSOPHER

Moon Olympics 1972

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reacts to the moon trip this week, in his own peculiar way.)

Dear editor:

"Now that we've got the moon, what are we going to do with it?" a neighbor asked me yesterday.

I know this is a question a lot of people are asking but that's because they haven't put their minds to it.

Didn't they see those astronauts striding around up there? Take a step and go six feet instead of three before your foot comes down. Bound out of sight of the camera before you knew it.

Right off, anybody ought to be able to see that's the place to hold the 1972 Olympics.

It'd be sensational. Pole vault 50 feet, high-jump 20, while down here on earth athletes are straining themselves trying to see which one can be first to pole vault a measly 18 feet and high-jump 8. What's the record on earth for the shot put? Less than 72 feet. Up there I figure 200 feet would be a snap.

Furthermore, no contest would ever be postponed on account of rain.

This is just a start. There are other uses for the moon.

Think how easy it'd be to have a crop control program up there.

Also, how could you have an air-pollution problem when you've got no air at all?

Furthermore, you won't catch any cities dumping their sewage into lakes and streams up there.

Having to carry your oxygen in a back pack, think how few people would risk using up their supply singing with a rock-and-roll band. The hollering thus eliminated would justify a large portion of the moon costs.

Think the earth eventually will be paved over entirely with highways? The moon is paved already.

People aren't taking a broad enough view of the moon business. Yours faithfully, J. A.

DEAR EDITOR

Help The Elderly

To The Editor:

Many of us who are financially secure are sometimes inclined to overlook the needs of other people. This is especially true of our older people.

Last year, the voters in Texas let false prejudice cause them to defeat an amendment that would have helped thousands of our elderly people live a better life. I hope this won't happen again on August 5th.

I hope the thinking people of our great state will face up to their responsibility. I hope they will be sure that Amendment 5 passes. We will all feel better if it does.

I'm sure you, as an influential editor, will support this amendment, and your editorial voice will be loud and clear.

Thank you Mrs. T. L. Cheshier

SGT. REX JONES

Rex Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Jones of Morrilton, Ark., has been promoted to technical sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

Sergeant Jones, a transportation specialist at Wakkana Air Station, Japan, is a 1953 graduate of Nemo Vista High School, Center Ridge, Ark.

His wife, Patsy, is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell A. Eritt of Anton.

BENNIE P. PRIDDY

Captain Bennie P. Priddy, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Priddy of Amherst, completed a 16-week helicopter pilot course at the Army Primary Helicopter School, Ft. Wolters, Tex., July 3.

During the course, he was trained to fly Army helicopters and learned to use them in tactical maneuvers.

He will next undergo advanced flight training at Hunter Army Airfield, Ga.

Capt. Priddy entered the Army in June 1960 and was last stationed at Ft. Campbell, Ky. He received his commission through an Officer Candidate School.

He holds the Silver Star, two awards of the Bronze Star Medal for heroism, and the Purple Heart.

His wife, Sarah, lives at Clarksville, Tenn.

Stockholders

Conduct Sixth

Annual Meeting

The sixth annual stockholders meeting of Olton Grain Co-op Incorporated was held at 8 p.m. Friday in the school cafeteria.

New directors elected were Don Huguley, Floyd Light and Dan Quigley.

Refreshments were served and door prizes were given.

CHARLEY HARMON of Amherst stands by an apricot tree in his orchard which was struck by lightning in a recent electrical storm. The large tree, located not far from the house, was damaged in many places and ripe apricots covered the ground.

Apply Herbicides Properly

"Herbicides can be useful tools for controlling weeds when properly applied," says Lamb County Agent Buddy Logsdon "but improper application can cause problems particularly on susceptible crops," he continued.

To get satisfactory results from herbicides, Logsdon says to follow the directions on the label as approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"These directions should be followed exactly," he said.

Of the hormone-type herbicides, the salt or low-volatile ester formulations are safest, Logsdon said. They are less likely to vaporize than the high-volatile ester formulations.

The county agent gave these five rules for applying herbicides:

1. Use chemicals only on crops for which they are recommended.
2. Use only the quantity and only at the time recommended on the label.
3. Calibrate equipment properly and regularly.
4. Avoid application when conditions are likely to cause drift to susceptible crops.
5. Observe all label restrictions and special cautions.

In Lamb County, farmers must obtain an application permit from the field representative of the Texas Department of Agriculture, Fred Roy of Lubbock, for applying hormone-type herbicides on plots of 10 acres or more.

On smaller plots, the operator must notify the same office of his intent to spray before making application.

Texas A&M University specialists report that the greatest problems with herbicides are occurring where inexperienced operators are making applications.

They suggest that even on extremely small plots, great care be taken when applying chemicals.

All interested persons are advised by Logsdon to utilize information on herbicides available at the County Extension office. In the Courthouse.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF LITTLEFIELD:

... Please Tell Us What To Do

1. Most of our Mexican farm workers feel that they are under the watchful eyes of a police state while in Littlefield. This may or may not be justified, but of the 17 reported as being arrested in the July 27 issue of this newspaper NOT ONE WAS CHARGED WITH A CRIME. The answer given that aliens do not have to be charged with a crime SEEMS TO BEG THE QUESTION.
2. Our Mexican farm workers much prefer to trade at other cities in the area where it is ASSUMED THAT THEIR PAPERS ARE IN ORDER. This is understandable as no one likes to undergo inspection.
3. Their fears become our problems, and our problems are also your business problems.
4. We have stiff competition for labor with areas that are more attractive to Mexican farm workers, and we need all the help we can get in keeping good farm workers. We certainly do not need police agitation.
5. The fact that there may be some Mexicans in the area without proper papers should not give the law enforcement officers any reason to crusade. Why not have them knocking on doors at night checking for marriage licenses? There ought to be enough unsolved crimes to keep the police busy.

6. We feel that unless a man has committed some overt crime there should be NO REASON to ask for papers. This is just the way our American system works.

7. We do not feel that we should be forced to the additional expense of taking our farm workers to other cities to do their shopping because of misguided law enforcement. We get the notion that you do not want us to go to other cities for any reason.

WHAT DO WE DO?

LEGAL PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE Littlefield Delinting Company, Spade Highway, Littlefield, Texas 79339, has applied to the Texas Water Quality Board for an initial permit for its existing discharge of a maximum average of 5,700 gallons per day (10 hours of operation) of industrial (99% process water and 1% undefined) wastewater from its facilities located north of State Highway 54 (Spade Highway) approximately one-half mile east of Littlefield, Lamb County, Texas. The effluent is discharged to a privately-owned lake from which any overflow is into a city-owned lake. A public hearing on this application will be held in the Lubbock County Commissioners' Courtroom, Room 102, First Floor, Lubbock County Courthouse, Lubbock, Texas at 10:00 A.M. on August 20, 1969 to determine the conditions, if any, under which the permit may be granted. Additional data will be developed at the hearing, but further technical information concerning any specific aspect of the discharge, if available, can be obtained by writing the Texas Water Quality Board, 1108 Lavaca Street, Austin, Texas 78701.

resources for present and future economic development of the state.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The future economic growth of Texas is dependent on adequate water resources and the passage of the proposed constitutional amendment is necessary to insure that those resources will be available at the time they are needed. Studies made by the Texas Water Development Board and by the United States Bureau of Reclamation show conclusively that Texas' present economic growth is far outstripping the state's available water resources. Unless additional water resources are developed, the state's economic growth will be stymied and, in many areas of the state, economic conditions will actually retrogress. (2) The Texas Water Plan offers a means of developing adequate water resources in an orderly, efficient manner over a 50-year period. Although Texas Water resources are fairly adequate at the present time, the adoption of the proposed amendment is necessary to implement the Texas Water Plan and avoid extensive water deficiencies in the future since long periods of time are required to construct the facilities necessary for water resource development and distribution.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) The burden to the Texas economy of the bond issue and the construction project envisioned under the Texas Water Plan will be made greater even though all the bonds will not be issued at the same time.

AMENDMENT NO. 3 S.J.R. No. 31 - Authorizing the legislature to set the salary of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives at not more than one-half of the salary of the governor and to set the salary of other members of the legislature at not more than the salary of a district judge.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The legislator can no longer be considered a part-time official. The increasing complexity of the problems facing state government and the increasing amount of time spent on standing and special interim committees meeting between sessions leave him little time to devote to his private business or profession. The $4,800 annual salary now provided under the constitution is scarcely adequate to meet present day costs of living. (2) The setting of a specific salary in the constitution required a majority vote each time the legislature needs a pay increase. Calling a special election and printing ballots and election notices is costly. The fact that legislator must face the voters for reelection to office provides an adequate check on the legislators in voting to raise their own pay. (3) Enabling legislation passed last session would provide a meager increase if this amendment passes an increase of $2,000 per year. Presently a legislator's secretary makes more salary than the Representative himself.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) The proposed amendment allows the legislature to raise legislative salaries to not more than the state salary of a district judge, and to raise the pay of the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house of representatives to not more than one-half of the salary of the governor. However, since the salary of the governor or a district judge may be increased at any time by the legislature, the removal of the dollar ceiling on the presiding officers' and members' salaries would, in effect, make any salary possible. (2) A substantial pay increase and a longer period during which the per diem allowance would be paid would add still further to the expenses of state government at a time when state finances are already straitened. In meeting constantly expanding needs of a growing population.

AMENDMENT NO. 4 S.J.R. No. 6 - This proposed amendment amends Article VIII, Section 2, of Texas Constitution to exempt nonprofit water supply corporations if the sale of water is the corporation's only authorized purpose and if it is nonprofit corporation.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) Nonprofit water supply corporations perform a vital function for many parts of the state that would not otherwise have adequate water supplies. The amendment would encourage the formation of the corporations and the development of water resources.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) With rising governmental costs and increasing difficulty in finding sources of revenue, any reduction in the present tax base is undesirable.

AMENDMENT NO. 5 S.J.R. No. 8 - This proposed amendment makes changes in Article III, Section 51-a, of the Texas Constitution. (1) It raises the ceiling on the amount which may be expended out of state funds per fiscal year for money payments (grants) to public assistance recipients from $60 million to $80 million. (2) The payments under this program are for the following: Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled, and Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The proposed amendment no. 5 allows the legislature to appropriate sufficient funds to again enable the State Department of Public Welfare to make assistance payments to all four classes of welfare recipients in accordance with the minimum standards of need established by the Department. Texas consistently has been among the lowest of the states in terms of average monthly assistance payments per recipient and in terms of per capita cost to taxpayers. It ranks almost at the bottom in Aid to Families with Dependent Children, with its average payment per recipient to Aid to Families with Dependent Children now less than $19 per month. The failure of the proposed constitutional amendment in 1968 resulted in drastic reductions in public assistance to needy children. The State Department of Public Welfare now is able to pay only 50% of what it says should be provided for needy children, and it is powerless to restore benefit payments to the levels it recognizes as minimal unless the proposed Amendment No. 5 is adopted. If the proposed amendment is defeated, it will cause another immediate reduction in assistance to needy children and the Department predicts that it ultimately would have to reduce levels of assistance to the needy disabled and needy aged.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) The large overall expenditure of state funds which this proposed amendment authorized would increase each recipient's income only a few dollars a month but would possibly require $20 million in new funds each year at a time when the state is already hard pressed to meet existing financial obligations.

AMENDMENT NO. 6 H.J.R. No. 7 - Authorizing removal of constitutional interest-rate limitations on certain bonds subject to limitations imposed by the legislature.

The Regular Session of the 61st

Legislature passed S. B. 20, which would set the maximum interest rate at 6% on bonds issued under constitutional interest-rate limits as well as on bonds and other public securities issued under statutory interest-rate limits. If Amendment No. 6 is adopted the statutory interest-rate limit in S. B. 20 will control maximum interest rates on bonds whose maximum interest-rate limits are presently set in various sections of the constitution.

Agencies that would be affected by this amendment are the Texas Water Development Board, the Veterans' Land Bureau, the Parks and Wildlife Department, and the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System. Some of the programs that would be affected are the Texas Water Plan, the Texas Opportunity Plan, and the Veterans' Land Program.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) Adoption of Amendment No. 6 would make it possible for certain state agencies now under constitutional restrictions establishing maximum interest-rate limits to provide for higher interest rates on future bonds issued by other entities. (2) Failure to adopt Amendment No. 6 would cause many major state programs to be curtailed or discontinued due to a lack of funds. Among these programs are the Texas Water Plan, which is designed to provide Texas with an adequate water supply for the next 50 years, and the Texas Opportunity Plan, which provides student loans enabling many young Texans to attend college.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) Removing the constitutional limit on maximum interest rates for bonds issued by certain public agencies would allow those agencies to provide interest rates on future bond issues, which in turn, would require increased tax revenue from Texas citizens to pay the added interest.

AMENDMENT NO. 7 H.J.R. No. 4 - Adding certain governmental employees, officers, and agents, including members of organized volunteer fire departments and members of organized police reserve or auxiliary units, to the list of person whose surviving spouses and children are eligible for assistance as provided by law.

The 61st Legislature amended the statute (conditioned on approval of the constitutional amendment) to include surviving spouses and minor children or members of organized police reserve or auxiliary units with power to make arrests, juvenile correctional employees of the Texas Youth Council, employees of the Rusk State Hospital for the Criminally Insane, and members of organized volunteer fire departments.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The people have already voiced approval of the principle involved—that the public should aid those dependent on public employees who perform hazardous duties for the public benefit. It is logical to extend the eligibility for this assistance to all public employees and volunteers who perform hazardous duties, such as volunteer firemen and policemen, attendants at the Rusk State Hospital for the Criminally Insane and others.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) Many of the employees who are within the scope of this amendment are employed by cities or counties. This cost might more appropriately be borne by local political subdivisions.

AMENDMENT NO. 8 H.J.R. No. 50 - Authorizing the legislature to provide for additional loans to students at institutions of higher education under the Texas Opportunity Plan.

The amendment gives the legislature power to authorize the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, to issue and sell $200 million of additional general obligation bonds, the revenue from the sale of which is to be used to make loans to students who have been admitted to any institution of higher education in the state whether publicly or privately owned or operated, and including junior colleges.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) The total amount of funds presently available for student loans will be in use and loaned out before repayments of outstanding loans begin to return a substantial amount of funds available for re-lending. It is desirable that a certain amount be available every year to insure equal treatment of deserving students and to maintain a stable recycling of funds. The demand and need for student loans is great and, in addition, a cutback is expected in the amount of federal funds available. The federal cutback will increase the states' burden. Therefore, the proposed amendment is essential to continuation of the Texas Opportunity Plan. (2) The single greatest natural resource in the State of Texas is its young people. Each year, thousands of high school graduates with college potential are deterred from continuing their education due to inadequate finances. Adoption of the proposed Amendment No. 8 would assure many of these students of the college education and training they deserve and would assure the State of Texas that future state development will be in the hands of those best qualified for service.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) State loans to students take business from private enterprise. Banks, savings and loan institutions, and private charities have helped students finance their educations for years. The Texas Opportunity Plan Fund already has authorized $85 million and any more loans would create administrative problems adversely affecting the repayment rate. (2) Those able-bodied young people who are serious enough about wanting an education and who are willing to work can finance their own schooling. At a time when violence and disrespect for law and order are evident on our campuses, the state should encourage students to work and build for themselves rather than foster idleness through practically give-away loans.

AMENDMENT NO. 9 H.J.R. No. 8 - Providing annual sessions of the Texas Legislature.

This proposed constitutional amendment to Article III, Section 5, of the Texas Constitution adds a new paragraph to provide for the holding of regular sessions in even-numbered years. Present provisions prescribe that regular sessions be held biennially in odd-numbered years. Thus, the proposed amendment would institute annual sessions.

ARGUMENTS FOR: (1) Economic and efficient state government requires minimum time lag between the date budget estimates actually prepared and the passage of an appropriation bill. State agencies can prepare a more precise and practical budget which takes

THE YARD of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lyman, 118 E. 21st, was chosen as Littlefield's Yard of the Month for August. Anonymous judges from "We, The Women" chose the yard and stated they had chosen it because of "its beauty and overall effective specimen planting in full bloom, and well groomed lawn." Juanita Howard, left, presents Mrs. Lyman with a potted yellow chrysanthemum in behalf of Chisholm Floral.

County Pioneers Set Get-Together

A barbecue, program and plenty of visiting is promised when long-time residents gather at the Community Center in Laguna Park Aug. 26 for the 20th annual Lamb County Pioneers Reunion.

A change in food arrangements have been made for the reunion. The supper meal will be a barbecue with area residents furnishing salads and desserts. Registration begins at 2 p.m. with Mrs. Herbert Dunn and Mrs. Simon D. Hay in charge.

Ray Smith is president; Fred Lichte is vice president; Lyle Brandon is secretary and Sid Hopping is treasurer.

Directors are V. M. Peterman, L. L. Uselton, R. L. Byers Jr., Mrs. Bonnie Haberer and Myrtle Clayton.

'Law' Magazines Warned Against

Lamb County Sheriff E. D. McNeese issued a message to local businessmen this week, warning them of some recent operations of law enforcement magazines seeking support of local agencies through advertising.

In an adjoining county businessmen said five or six law magazines had contacted them asking the businessman to support local law enforcement by taking out advertising in these magazines.

"The Texas Lawman," a monthly publication is the only magazine supported in Littlefield, McNeese said. When this recognized magazine seeks advertising, one of the Littlefield-Lamb County officers is sent around with the magazine representative so that businessmen will know it is a locally supported operation, McNeese said.

"The Texas Lawman never solicits advertising over the phone," McNeese said. In the adjoining county, all the contacts were made by phone, McNeese said, and he warned businessmen to beware of these "fly-by-night" operators. McNeese suggested that any businessman receiving calls from any magazine should decline to take any advertising.

Contract Grain

Sixty-seven Lamb County National Farmers Organization members signed a contract in Hereford last week agreeing to sell grain to West Friona Grain and Tri-County Elevators of Friona to be used in feed lot operations in Parmer County.

into consideration only those funding requirements for the succeeding fiscal year instead of incorporating the inadequate guesses of longer range planning. (2) The actual business of state government has reached such proportions that adequate supervision can no longer be given to the affairs of state by one legislative session every two years. More frequent legislative sessions would insure more considered legislation on budgetary and other matters since fewer items would be considered at each individual session and the legislature as a whole would be more in tune with the progress and activities of state government. (3) Annual sessions continue to grant support more and more states are abandoning the biennial session as inadequate to serve the legislative needs of a modern, progressive state.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST: (1) The added regular session is uneconomical in itself in that the cost of the additional session represents a significant increase in the cost of state government. (2) An additional session is unnecessary because of the power of the governor to call a special session in the event that unforeseen circumstances require any new legislation prior to the succeeding regular session. On the basis of existing programs, adequate information is available for budgeting over a biennium. New or changed programs of sufficient importance can be provided for by special session.

AREA SERVICEMEN

PVT. ARTHUR HABERER

Pvt. Arthur R. Haberer, son of Jerrel Haberer of Littlefield, is now stationed in Fort Lewis, Wash. with the U.S. Army.

He received his basic training at Fort Bliss and received a two-week leave before his transfer. Haberer was in the LHS class of 1967 and earned his high school diploma at South Plains College and Lubbock Christian College.

Hutchinson is a 1959 graduate of Littlefield High School and a 1963 graduate of Abilene Christian College. He received his master's degree from the University of Texas and his doctorate degree in chemistry from the Illinois Institute of Technology.

He first joined the ACC faculty in 1965 before attending graduate school as an instructor. He will serve as an assistant professor in the chemistry department.

Shower Honors Shirley Johnson

A miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Shirley Johnson, bride-elect of Steve Burleson, was given Tuesday afternoon, July 22 in the Don Muller home at Hart Camp.

Special guests were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Ershel Johnson of Olton and her grandmother, Mrs. M. O. Evans of Plainview, and the prospective bridegroom's mother and sister, Mrs. Elma Burleson and Miss Lajuana Burleson of Hart Camp.

The party table was laid with a lace cloth over green and centered with a green styrofoam heart with a miniature bride and groom standing in the arch of the heart.

Miss Brenda Leonard and Miss Sharon Hendrick presided at the serving table where cookies with green centers and yellow fruit punch were served to the honoree and guests.

Guests and gifts were registered by the Miss Lajuana Burleson.

Hostess gift was an electric mixer and an electric can opener. Assisting Mrs. Don Muller with the hospitalities were other hostesses, Mmes. Roy Hendrick, Dewey Parkey, Paul Hukill, J. W. Johnson, Jr. Blanton Martin, Gerry Langford, J. C. Muller, D. R. Leonard, T. C. Covington, Edwin Oliver, Junior Muller, O. J. Neeley, Jr. and Ed Kinsky.

SPRINGLAKE - Two young people are four weeks in the area under the Youth Exchange sponsored by Lions International. Matakichiro of Ikeda, Osaka Japan and Noriko Ikushima of Fukuoka, Japan. Matakichiro is staying with Rev. Don Holmes, and Miss Watson. The youths have not the abundance of and horses, they here. Visiting Boys Ranch Ikushima American boys are very bought Western and found women's to be less here than in says the women of countries dress in a manner but the mini skirts here are shorter than in Japan. Her parents are Eizaburo and Mickiko Ikushima. He is an obstetrician and his wife serves as a nurse working with him. Moriko is 19 years old and is a sophomore at Seinan, Ctaquin University of Japan where she is a Business English Major. She has two younger brothers. She says young people in Japan conduct riots and marches on the university campuses to express their conviction on political issues. Christmas is celebrated by the decoration of trees and the exchange of gifts. New Year's is observed by parades. Boys Day is May 5 and Girls Day, March 3. Mothers prepare their children's favorite food on these days. The Emperor's birthday is a holiday as are the vernal and autumnal equinox. Miss Ikushima ate her first hot dog with chili here in Springlake. American foods enjoyed in Japan are hamburgers, hot dogs with no chili, sandwiches and cokes. Rice remains the favorite food of that country. Kittaka stated "Texas is flat. I can't find the mountains." He is surprised to find high temperature at 5 p.m. here while in Japan at that time it is twilight and cool. He is the son of Kunisuke and Aiko Kittaka. The father is a dentist and is a member of The Ikida Lions Club. Other members of the home are the grandfather and Matas' sister who is 15 years old. Matakichiro is 22 and is a student of Osaka Dental University. He says "American girls look much older than they really are. Also you can't tell the married ladies from the unmarried ones". He did not expect the younger girls and married ladies to dress alike. He says baseball and soccer are the most popular sports in Japan but he enjoys snow skiing more. His hobby is the making of boxes, boats, and other objects of paper squares. Mata considers the religion of Americans to be more a part of the individuals life than the Buddhist religion in Japan. Thirty per cent of the population of Japan is engaged in agriculture. Ikeda, Mata describes, as a "bed city" with many of its inhabitants going by street car into Osaka to work in the factories which produce cameras, watches and other technical articles. About 2.5 million cars are manufactured annually in Japan. Mata said there are many gardens and parks in Japan with Cherry Blossoms, red maples, and chrysanthemums as well as ponds. The Texas Youth Exchange Students will tour our nation before they return to their native countries. Among the places they will stop are Washington D. C., New York, City, Chicago, and San Francisco.

HD Club Studies Consumer Credit

During the month of July, home demonstration club women in Lamb County have studied the meaning of and cost of Consumer Credit.

They also learned more about the "truth in lending" law which became effective July 1. Such questions as these were discussed: How to figure the cost of credit, how to figure the rate of interest, will the item last longer than the payment period, what is the difference between the cash price and the credit price, do you know how to shop for credit, do you always read your contract before signing and do you know what may happen if you fail to make a payment. The summary included: before you use credit talk it over with somebody who may have had similar experiences, read your contract before signing, do not sign when there are blank spaces, guard your credit rating and stay out of debt if possible.

PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN received promotion certificates in special graduation ceremonies Friday morning. They attended classes to familiarize the non-English speaking children with the school, tools they will be using, and with each other. Standing to the right is one of the teachers, Mrs. Iris Hamm, and in the background are some of the mothers.

Littlefield Church To Host Convention

The 66th Annual Session of the West Texas Baptist District Association and its auxiliaries will meet in Littlefield Aug. 5-8.

Irvin Street First Baptist Church, located at Irvin and Jones Streets will be the host church for the annual event.

Auxiliaries which will meet during the session are the Women's Convention, Minister's Conference and the Laymen and Ushers' Convention.

Cities to be represented include churches from Mineral Wells, Lubbock, Odessa, Fort Worth, Eastland, San Angelo, Abilene, Andrews, Ranger, Cisco, Pecos, Kermit, Rotan, Southland, Plainview, Monahans, Jacksboro, Brownfield, Happy Union, San Saba, Friona, Midland, Amherst, Slaton, Tulla, Kress, and Littlefield.

Theme for the meeting will be "The Challenge of the Change" and the aim of the four-day meeting is "To Do

More For Mission and Education."

A goal of $7,000 has been set to support the mission and education program of the Association—mainly the support of Bishop College in Dallas.

Wednesday night, Aug. 6, Mayor J. E. Chisholm will present the welcome in behalf of the city. Rev. R. B. Hall, pastor of First Baptist Church and president of the Littlefield Ministerial Alliance, will deliver the welcome from the Alliance; Mrs. Opal McCarty will bring the welcome from the business and professional men and women of Littlefield; and Mrs. Eula McCarty will bring the welcome from the host church.

M. K. Curry Jr., president of Bishop College, will speak.

Monday night, Aug. 5 prior to the main session, a pre-musical service will be conducted featuring visiting choirs, a men's chorus from Lubbock and several solo numbers.

Highlight of the meeting is scheduled for Thursday, when Dr. A. L. Dunn, moderator and first vice president of the convention, will deliver the annual address. Dr. Dunn is pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church in Lubbock.

"The public is invited to attend the services," said Dr. W. A. Terry, host pastor.

WMU Circle Has Meeting

AMHERST--The Annie Armstrong Circle of the W.M.S. met Monday afternoon, July 28, in the home of Mrs. Charles Pollock.

Mrs. James Holland brought the study, "Lord, Give Me Concern for Others", from the book, THE UNLIMITED POWER OF PRAYER, a Guideposts anthology.

Circle Chairman, Mrs. Don Carter presided at the business session.

A committee to plan the Family Picnic which will be held Aug. 11 was appointed. They are Mmes Vic Reynolds, Bill Bradley, and T.L. Bennett.

The need for a piano at the Amherst Manor was discussed and it was decided that the Circle would cooperate with other organizations of the town and area in providing for this need.

Mrs. Charles Mixon and Mrs. Charles Pollock were appointed as the nominating committee to select officers for the coming year.

Mrs. J. P. Bradley brought the closing prayer, remembering missionaries who had birthdays.

The hostess served refreshments of congealed salad, assorted crackers, and sherbet floats to those attending.

Missionaries To Speak Wednesday

Rev. and Mrs. John Elliott, missionaries to Brazil, will speak at the Sunset Avenue Baptist Church Wednesday night Aug. 6, at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Elliott, missionary for the Baptist Missionary Association of America, has been in Brazil since 1955.

The Elliotts live in Pirapora, Minas Gerais, where they work with local churches.

During the school term both teach in the Baptist Seminary in Corinto, Minas Gerais, Brazil.

Prior to going to Brazil, Rev. Elliott taught Greek and Bible in Jacksonville Baptist College at Jacksonville.

REV. BILL HART

GARY WOOTEN

Rev. Bill Hart-Gary Wooten To Lead Anton Baptist Revival

Revival Services will be conducted at Central Baptist Church Aug. 3-10.

Services will be at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. each week day. Sunday services will be at the regular hours.

Rev. Bill Hart, pastor, will do the preaching and Gary Wooten of Amherst, will be in charge of the song service.

There will be special music each evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

The nursery will be open.

Sewing Club Has Meeting

OLTON--Olton Sewing Club met Friday in the home of Mrs. Bob Starritt.

Members met for the purpose of visiting while they did various types of handwork.

Mrs. Starritt served refreshments to members. Mmes. Ruby Crosby, Irene Souther, Leona Martons, G. T. Galloway, D. B. Adair, Anna Gallagher and Bessie Cowart.

OES Has New Organization

The past matrons and past patrons of the Littlefield Order of the Eastern Star met Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Smith for the purpose of organizing a past matron and patron organization in Littlefield.

When plans were completed, officers were then elected for the coming year.

Doris Frey was elected president, and other officers elected were Betty Melton, vice president; Francis Ricks, secretary and treasurer; Rhoda Price, reporter, and Parlimerian is Lorraine Hopping.

Baptist Church Completes VBS

ANTON-- Five day vacation Bible School at Central Baptist Church closed Friday morning with commencement exercises Sunday evening.

Following a program presented by the pupils, refreshments were served.

There were 60 registered, with a daily average of 55.

Rev. Bill Hart was principal. Teachers were Mrs. Bulah Houston, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. H. G. Timmis, Mrs. Swau and Mrs. Morton.

Parents-Coaches Honor Ramblers

Parents and coaches of the Green Rambler Pee Wee team honored the boys with a swimming part and weinner roast at the Country Club Friday night.

Later, in the Lloyd Jaquess home, the boys were served watermelon.

The boys presented their coaches, Clinton Harris and Lloyd Jaquess, autographed baseballs.

Present were the families of Mark Harris, Kendon Zahn, Kelly G. Grammer, Austin Dally, Van Jaquess, Marty and Tim Austin, Stacy Black, Jack Aodorra, Jammie Gray, and Ken Hastey.

PANIC OR TRAGEDY

Dividing a home pool by depth lines can be a life saver. Swimmers who go in over their heads may find themselves in more than just deep water. Panic and tragedy may ensue.

YOUNG SWIMMERS

Youngsters under 10 years old who swim in home pools must be watched closely and taught pool safety. Over half the victims of drownings in residential pools are children in this age group.

Unbeaten Road Runners Take Pee Wee Crown

It's all over now, and the rampaging Road Runners emerged the undisputed champions of the Littlefield Pee Wee League with an undefeated season.

Brent Jones hurled the champions to their ninth consecutive victory Friday night to close out the season, winning 23-12 over Tasty Cream.

Thursday night action saw second place Barracudas close their season with a 21-17 win over the Green Ramblers.

Jeff Bryant, Ronnie Martin, Brady Brady, Roger Hall and

Jeff Lust were the players for Tasty Cream. Barracudas were winning pitcher Larry and Steve and Dennis Todd Harrell, Eddie E. Chuck Russell.

Standouts for Ramblers were Kimm Kelly Grammer and Jacquess.

Family Health Record Could Prove Important

Sooner or later everyone will find the need for a family health record, and if you don't have one, now is the time to start keeping it, advises the Texas State Department of Health.

If you have a youngster about ready for school, you'll realize the necessity of having accurate and current records. The health record can be of permanent value for the children's school records, for insurance data, and for your family doctor's use.

An individual personal health record can be had free of charge from the Texas State Department of Health in Austin.

Too, you can start by jotting down the basic information you already have at hand concerning the injury and illness history of each member of your family.

Start it off with a brief listing of family history. Enter the date and place of birth of each person, and the place and date and cause of death of any deceased. Also enter pertinent information and the medical facts about each family member, such as the presence of chronic illness or physical handicap.

Next, start a section for dates of immunizations, being sure to provide space for each member of the family. Allow room for entering dates of immunizations against whooping cough, polio, smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, measles and typhoid fever. Don't forget to include the dates of booster shots.

In a section of general information, list such things as the type of blood each member of the family has, and the drug sensitivities or special allergies of each. If the RH factor is known to be present in anyone, be sure to record it prominently.

The health record ought to include a check list of who in the family has had the more common diseases of childhood—chicken pox, measles, mumps, whooping cough, scarlet fever, diphtheria. Most of these are diseases of childhood, but sometimes an adult is exposed. German measles is a serious threat to expectant mothers, and mumps is a dangerous disease in any adult.

Dates of physical examinations, with a line or two for notes of special advice or instructions that followed the check-up, should be noted in the health record. So also should illnesses requiring hospitalization, listing the nature of illness or injury, name of physician and hospital, dates of entry and discharge, length of illness, and type of surgery, if any.

Finally, list the family's health and accident insurance information for quick and easy reference when needed.

Yankees Feted By Coaches

ANTON—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Melton and Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Cranfill honored the Yankees Little League Baseball team with a wienner roast at the Yellowhouse Canyon, Saturday night.

The team presented their coaches, Mr. Melton and Mr. Cranfill with plaques of appreciation.

Team members present were: Lonnie Timms, Rodney Turnbow, Dario Rendon, Harvey McLarty, Rendon, Mickey Melton, and Tim Egan.

Others present were Mrs. Bill Timms, Tina, Mr. and Mrs. L. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Chris, Mrs. Bill Sherrill, Joey and Dario Rendon and Mr. Trinidad Rendon. Mrs. Melton, Pat and Mrs. Cranfill, Allen.

Meat Substitutes

It may look like ham, it may taste like ham, but it may be soybeans.

Food technologists recently introduced the ersatz ham along with chicken and corn beef made of protein derived primarily from soy beans. Pork and bacon substitutes are now made of soy beans and lamb is being developed.

The meat substitutes are tailor made, so they can excel nutritionally over the meats they simulate.

Would anyone else dare this "guillotine" test?

What happens when a knife-sharp blade cuts into the soft cover of an ordinary golf ball?

That's easy. It cuts. It becomes unplayable.

But try the same trick with a Faultless. What happens? Nothing. That's why you can hit it—right or wrong—time after time, round after round, without worrying about cutting it.

irrigation needs for... necessary to implement the Texas Water Plan. Proposed Amendment No. 4 (S. J. R. 6) on the ballot would exempt non-profit water supply corporations from ad valorem taxation. This would give the many rural water systems that have been set up in recent years the same tax status as municipal government water systems.

The Texas Farm Bureau supported both of these proposals in the recent regular 61st session of the Legislature, Wisian said. In regard to Amendment No. 2, the Farm Bureau policy on the matter states that any water plan for Texas must be "equitable" to all sections of the state, Wisian explained.

Both of these water-related propositions are important to agriculture and rural areas, the county farm leader asserted.

"Therefore, I am urging all voters of Lamb County to go to the polls on August 5 and cast their ballots for both Amendment No. 2 and Amendment No. 4," Wisian said.

BOBBY, DONNA AND JIMMY Avery of Rt. 2, Littlefield, feed their ground squirrel, Federation, his favorite food, ice cream, from a spoon. This ground squirrel has departed from the average prairie squirrel's seed and insect diet; and lives a life of luxury in a bird cage instead of a hole in the ground.

CHIPMUNK IS PET

'Federation' Happy With His New Home

The little ground squirrel is sometimes called a chipmunk. This sun loving little rodent does his up and doings in broad daylight in the summer. Loving a life of comfort and ease, the ground squirrel sleeps all night, and all winter, too.

Donna, Bobby and Jimmy Avery know all these facts about the ground squirrel, and more, too, for they have one of these little Plains underground dwellers for a pet.

When they first found their little ground squirrel, he could easily curl up in a table spoon for his naps, his eyes hadn't been open too long, and his fur coat was almost non-existent.

The Avery kids' squirrel is the 13-striped ground squirrel, or "federation squirrel" as he is commonly called because his remarkable coat is decorated with 13 to 15 alternating stripes and lines of "stars" resembling the Federal flag.

So the Averys named their squirrel "Federation."

The ground squirrel is up and about when the sun rises and remains out during the heat of the day. He sits up on his hind feet in a characteristic pose when he wants to look around.

The average ground squirrel departs from his vegetarian diet of seeds and grains by eating grasshoppers, insects, field mice, and even bird eggs and fledglings, for half of his daily rations.

But Federation is no ordinary prairie squirrel.

Federation sits up on his hind legs in the bird cage that now serves as his home, munching on lettuce leaves or holding a whole slice of American cheese in his front paws, nipping squirrelly bites off around the edges.

Federation drinks his milk and water from a medicine dropper. His favorite food is ice cream, and he climbs up in his owners' laps and begs for this delicacy, then eats it from a teaspoon. Ordinarily the ground squirrel isn't sociable and lives a fairly lonesome life. But Federation doesn't know this.

The ground squirrel is in the rodent class with his chisel-like incisor teeth used for gnawing. These front teeth at the front of both the upper and lower jaws would soon be useless stumps if it weren't for a fact that the teeth continue to grow throughout their life.

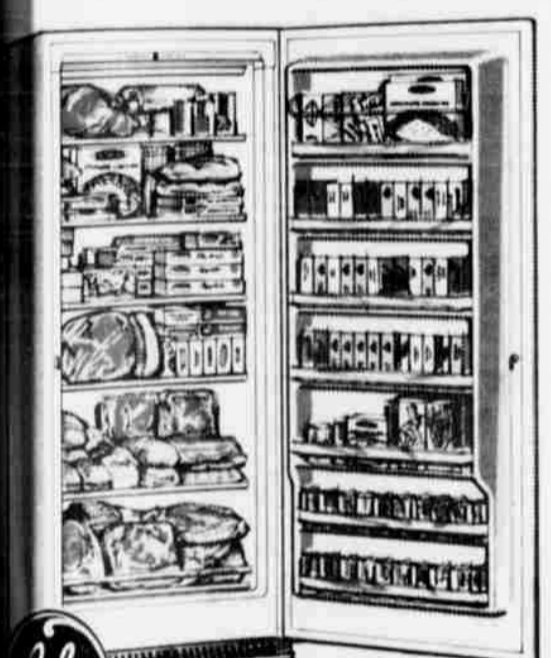

About the only ground squirrelly thing about Federation is his birdlike trill, a long drawn-out "chur-r-r" or trembling whistle in a high key.

This trill is usually a signal to other ground squirrels and sometimes sets off a series of sounds from other squirrels.

At the Avery household it is a signal for "bring on more ice cream," or "pass the lettuce and cheese, please."

13th Annual Field Day Scheduled

The 13th Annual High Plains Research Foundation's Field Day has been scheduled Sept. 11, according to Dr. Tom Longnecker, Foundation director.

An annual observance featuring the research projects at the farm at Halfway will be conducted from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. with tours of research plots and office and shop facilities scheduled.

Of special interest for High Plains farmers attending the event will be new studies in minimum tillage seedbed preparation for cotton and grain sorghum, swine production studies and feeding trials in portable pens with slatted floors, various applications of herbicides and fertilizers, as well as the continuing studies on soybeans, sunflowers, castors and corn.

Representative Bob Price of Pampa, will be guest speaker for the evening program.

Other displays at Field Day will be farm equipment showing and various exhibits by foundation commodity committees and several agriculture agencies.

CHURCH-GOERS
On an average Sunday morning, 50 million Americans, or 43 per cent of the adult population, attend church services.

New Books In Library

New books on the shelves in Lamb County Library include: "Catch Me A Spy" by George Marton and Tibor Meray. "When In Greece" by Emma Lathen, an inner sanctum mystery. "Flashman From the Flashman Papers, 1839-1842", edited and arranged by George MacDonald Fraser, the funniest picturesque adventure in the English language since Fielding's "Tom Jones." "A Place in the County" by Sahah Grainham, author of "Night Falls on the City." "Why Me?" an autobiography by William Gargan, a compelling story of life, faith and courage. "The Money Makers" or "The Great Big New Rich in America", by Kenneth Lamott. "Twelve Cities" by John Gunther, a fresh revealing inside book about London, Paris, Brussels, Rome, Hamburg, Vienna, Warsaw, Moscow, Jerusalem, Beirut, Amman and Tokyo. "It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit, Air Disasters—Why and How They Happen—And the Menacing Future of Jet Travel", by Fred McClement. "A Small Town in Germany", by John Le Carre, a novel. "The Arms of Krupp" by William Manchester, author of "The Death of A President". "The Red Orchestra" by Gilles Perrault, the anatomy of the most successful spy ring of World War II. "I Said the Demon" by George Baxt, author of "A Parade of Cockeyed Creatures." "The Least One" by Borden Deal, a story of the depression.

CORN AS HIGH as an elephant's eye is grown by Henry Agakai of Olton. This year Agakai contracted 320 acres of corn to the Frito Lay Co. Lamb County residents who munch a bunch of Fritos after Agakai harvests his corn crops may be crunching on corn grown in this county. In addition to Agakai's corn, sizable acreages of corn are being grown on contract in Lamb County for making corn starch, corn oil, dextrose and other food products. (SCS Photo.)

FUN TIME
Summertime is fun time in and around the water. Make it a safe time too! Drowning is the fourth leading cause of accidental death—don't you become a statistic this summer.

AMHERST

MRS. LESTER LA GRANGE 246-3336

PATRICIA MUNCY of Dallas was home for the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Muncy. She was accompanied by her fiancée, Jerry Don Toliver, also of Dallas. Their wedding will be Saturday, August 30 at 7 p.m. in the Tremont Baptist Church in Dallas.

MR. AND MRS. Howard Campbell returned early last week from Parsippany, N. J. where they visited her sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bowers, and family. They made several trips into nearby New York City where they visited places of interest. While there Howard visited a marine buddy of World War II, in Warwick R. I.

MR. AND MRS. Allan White are in Atlanta, Ga. where they will attend the wedding of their granddaughter Debbie Lynn Kindred tomorrow August 1.

ANNE LaGRANGE of Pelham, N. Y. is expected today for a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Lester LaGrange.

MR. AND MRS. Harvey Patterson had a dinner for members of his family Sunday. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patterson of Truth or Consequences, N. M. were here. Mr. and Mrs. David Harmon, her parents, were there for the occasion.

MR. AND MRS. Joe Allen Miller and children are at Lake Altus, Okla. this week. Relatives from Arkansas joined them there for the outing.

MISS JUDY BOWMAN was in Hale Center last week. She was making arrangements for her move there next month. She will serve as girls' basketball coach.

VISITING HER cousin Mrs. Ben Fisher, and Mr. Fisher Friday was Mrs. Bud Duren of Goldthwaite and Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett of Sudan.

MR. AND MRS. Leroy Nuttall, Shonda and Kevin of Friona were here with his mother Mrs. Annie Nuttall Sunday. Leroy has almost fully recovered from a car accident suffered early last Spring in Friona. It is necessary for him to continue wearing a back brace.

THE HOWARD Campbells are making improvements on their home on Adams Street.

RECENT GUESTS of her father, Raymond Cantrell, and other relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Jene Hughes of Shreveport, La.

JUDY LONG was honored with a cookout at her home on her birthday Sunday evening.

Her parents Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Long, Mr. and Mrs. Gaylen Long and family of Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs.

Hudson Cantrell and children and Mrs. Ed Love were there for the occasion.

TWO SISTERS and their husbands took a week outing near Cowles, N. M. Mr. and Mrs. Don Britt of Slaton and Mr. and Mrs. Jolin Harmon of Littlefield returned home Sunday evening. The Britt's visited his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Britt, that evening.

THE TWO new coaches for Amherst school have moved here—Head coach Lewis Sessuss, his wife and two young sons are occupying the Campbell house on Wood street and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Elliott are located in the Chajin house on West 9th street. They are from Idalou.

SUPERINTENDENT LAMAR Kelly stated that the new commercial teacher for Amherst High School will be Miss Loyce Baker from Wilson.

MR. AND MRS. Jeff Brantley, Mickey, Sharla and Stephen of Albuquerque visited their parents, the W. P. Hollands and the Harry Brantleys. They took the children to visit Six Flags Over Texas.

AT LAKE BROWNWOOD last week were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Jones and granddaughter, Cynthia Embry of Littlefield. While there he attended to business for his father in Comanche.

IN SLATON Sunday to visit her mother, Mrs. Effie Pribotl, were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Enloe. They returned by Lubbock Monday to see the surgeon who performed surgery on his hand last spring.

Print Exhibit Entries Open

A national print exhibition, "COLORPRINT U. S. A.", open to all artists residing in the United States, will be held at West Texas Museum on the campus of Texas Tech University Nov. 2-23.

Sponsored by the art department of the university, the exhibition will feature original prints in more than one color, according to Lyn Kreneck, instructor of art who is coordinating the show.

Ruby Pozzatti will be juror of selection and awards. Oct. 14 has been set as the deadline for receipt of entries, entry cards and fees.

Artists who wish to enter may get further information from Kreneck or The Museum.

A brochure is available explaining the exhibition, and is available from the Texas Tech art department or The Museum.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

and get a spiritual lift for the whole week

Firmly Rooted

How strong are your roots? In Sequoia National Park one may read: "These Sequoia Gantea are of a noble lineage which bridges humanity back through eons of the age of reptiles. — Here dwell venerable forest kings in reveries which carry back a thousand years before Jesus Christ walked the shores of Galilee." How strong are your roots? "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God." These reflect being well rooted. In a spirit of unity let us read: "Unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout the ages, world without end. Amen." — Eph. 3:17-19, 21.

Lutherans Do Not Accept

Double Predestination

(Editor's note: This is the next to the last set of questions and answers on religion from various Littlefield ministers. The series of articles began earlier in the year, with preachers answering identical questions. This week Rev. Phillip Berry, pastor of St. Martin American Lutheran Church, gives his answers.)

Is the Lutheran Church autonomous? How is it governed?

Ans.: St. Martin Lutheran Church of Littlefield, is one of 4906 congregations of The American Lutheran Church. This congregation is governed locally by a Church Council of 12 laymen, each elected for a two-year term by the voting membership of the congregation (that is, all adult confirmed members, male and female).

The local congregation calls its own pastor, owns its property, provides for its maintenance, and conducts its own program. The local congregation raises all of its money through gifts and offerings. It is autonomous in every way.

The district and national agencies and institutions of The American Lutheran Church exist only for the mutual edification and support of the many congregations. However, The American Lutheran Church does have jurisdiction over the local congregations in three limited areas: 1) to insure faithful adherence to the doctrines of the Church; 2) to apply discipline when disloyalty to the Church's doctrinal position is evident; and 3) to enlist wholehearted cooperation with the program approved by the Church.

What does the St. Martin Lutheran Church believe about the Bible?

Ans.: That which determines pure doctrine is Holy Scripture, including all of the canonical books of the Old and New Testaments, which Lutherans accept as the divinely inspired Word of God and the only infallible authority in all matters of faith and life. Lutherans accept as brief and true statements of the doctrines of the Word of God: the three Ecumenical Creeds (that is, the Apostolic, the Nicene, and the Athanasian); the Unaltered Augsburg Confession; and Luther's Small Catechism.

Lutherans believe in the one and only God, who has revealed Himself to us as the God of our salvation. In His work of creation, redemption, and sanctification, He has designated and manifested Himself as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. We therefore confess our faith in the Triune God, three distinct persons in the one Godhead.

We believe that Jesus Christ, true God and true man, came into the world to be the Redeemer of mankind. By becoming one with man through the incarnation, Christ entered into decisive conflict on man's behalf with sin and Satan. By His Holy life, He perfectly fulfilled the divine law for us. By His innocent sufferings and death in our stead, He made propitiation for our sins and delivered us from the wrath of God and from the power of the Devil. By His resurrection from the dead, He released us from the dominion of sin and death, and has promised us eternal life.

Do members of St. Martin Lutheran Church believe in the virgin birth?

Ans.: Lutherans accept the doctrine of the virgin birth, in that the Son was miraculously conceived; although, He was born by natural process. Lutherans tend to emphasize the FACT of the incarnation (God becoming man), rather than attempting to explain God's process.

Does St. Martin Lutheran Church believe in predestination?

Ans.: God has willed that the knowledge and benefit of Christ's redemption be brought to man through His means of Grace: namely, through the Gospel in the Word and in the Sacraments. Through these Means of Grace, He not only offers, but actually bestows His Grace in Christ; that is, the forgiveness of sins and a life of everlasting fellowship with Him in the steadfastness of faith. It is part of God's great and gracious plan for the salvation of all men.

Therefore, Lutherans believe that all men are predestined by God to be saved. However, Lutherans do not separate the teaching of predestination from the teaching of justification by faith (that is, the man is justified by grace, through faith).

In Christ we are justified, that is, forgiven. Believing that we are justified in Christ, we are predestined: we are elected in Christ, for those whom He knew would accept Him He predestined.

If we are saved, the glory belongs to God who made our salvation possible, for we are saved by His Grace, through faith.

Lutherans, however, do not accept the doctrine of double predestination; for we believe that if one is lost, it is not God's doing. The responsibility is man's. God does not predestine man to hell.

What does St. Martin Lutheran believe about Heaven and Hell?

Ans.: Now concerning heaven and hell, Lutherans tend to reject the geographical concept of place which is often applied. We believe that heaven is a state of right relationship with God, and that hell is a state of alienation from God.

Therefore it is possible to speak of heaven in the now-time of God's kingdom here on earth, which is already established by Christ's coming in the flesh 2000 years ago, for faithful Christian men do enjoy a heaven on earth with God. And it is also correct to speak of heaven as still coming; the time that will be the everlasting kingdom, where there will be no more pain, no more sorrow, nor death, nor tears, for then the former things will have passed away.

That kingdom is to be established by the Christ at His second coming, at the Parousia, on the Last Day. Now this brings us to the question of the dead. Lutherans confess our belief in the resurrection of the dead.

The Biblical concept of the resurrection of the dead is: "But we would not have you ignorant, brethren, concerning those who are asleep, that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope. For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep. For this we declare to you by the word of the Lord, that we who are left until the coming of the Lord will precede those who have fallen asleep. The Lord himself will descend from heaven with the sound of the trumpet of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first; then we who are alive, who are left, shall be caught up with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air; and so we shall always be with the Lord. Therefore comfort one another with these words." (1 Thessalonians 4:14-18).

Body, mind and soul are inseparable and are raised again by the Christ on the Day. Now that is quite different from the Greek view of the separation of body and the immortality of the soul.

What sacraments are observed by the Lutheran Church?

Ans.: Lutherans recognize two Sacraments: Baptism and the Lord's Supper. There are marks which determine a Sacrament, and to Lutherans: 1) that it be divinely instituted; 2) that it be observed to be perpetuated; 3) that it be visible means; and 4) that it have the attached, concerning the available of God.

In the Sacrament of Baptism, we are again of water and the Spirit, receiving the Spirit and the forgiveness of sin, and members of Christ's body and kingdom. As Luther explained baptism with Christ, by participating in his death and resurrection, we are raised up again into the newness of life. We are partakers of Christ's death and resurrection.

Lutherans believe that it is Christ's command that all men be baptized. Since all men have sinned and fallen from the glory of God, we baptize infants because the sinfulness of fallen man. Baptism is the establishment of the covenant of Grace, which has everlasting validity unless it is repudiated by unbelief. Therefore we also accept all which are performed by Christ's Church which administer the water, the Word, and the promise of Christ.

The benefits of baptism are not dependent upon the mode in which the water is administered; therefore, we accept baptism by immersion, sprinkling, or pouring, as long as the water is poured in the name of the Lord.

In the Lord's Supper, Christ gave His body offered up for us and His blood shed for us, to eat and to drink for the forgiveness of sins, for the strengthening of faith, and for the increase in holiness of life. We believe that Christ's body and blood are really present under the elements of bread and wine. We believe that Christ Himself is really present, symbolically present; and that He serves Himself to us. Faith in Christ is the key to the promise in Christ, from sin, and faith in His promise in the institution, together with repentance, necessary for worthy participation in the Sacrament.

Which rules, conventions or rituals of the church are most misunderstood?

Ans.: I believe that it is concerning the practices of baptism and the Lord's Supper. Lutherans are probably the most misunderstood. Most of the critics of our practice have confused mode with means. It must be remembered that when it comes to Grace and the Means of Grace, it is God who gives. It is even God who opens man's heart, that he may receive. He can do nothing except thank God for His bountiful Grace. Or man can, if he desires, "no", and thereby reject God.

Another misunderstanding toward Lutherans is that some critics consider us to be too conservative. This is an old opinion. Lutherans follow only Christ. It has also been said that in our view Lutherans are just like the Roman Catholics. In that Lutherans and Roman Catholics liturgical, the accusation (if it can be said) is true; but there are great differences also.

It must be understood that the Lutheran Reformation was a conservative reform. Luther himself believed that whatever was contrary to the Scriptures might be retained in the reformed congregations. Zwingli, on the other hand, worked on the principle that only what was commanded in the Bible should be retained in the churches. The Lutheran Church in the liturgy, vestments, and symbols, is only to bring all faculties: eye, ear, and heart to focus upon the Christ, and Him crucified, risen from the dead.

What is the historical background of the Reformation movement?

Ans.: Lutherans are a part of the Catholic and Apostolic Church established by Jesus Christ. We trace our history back to the time of the Apostles. We adhere to the revealed in the Old and New Testaments, confess the summary of these truths: Apostles' Creed, the Nicene Creed, and the Athanasian Creed.

Lutheranism as a movement in the 16th century is traditionally dated from Oct. 31, 1517, the day on which Martin Luther posted his 95 theses calling for renewal and reform in the Church. While Lutherans take their name from this day, Lutherans take their faith on Jesus Christ, the Son of God and Saviour of the world. We look to the Bible as the Word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and life.

Lutherans were the first Protestants who 'protested' against the error of corruption in the established Church of the day. The term "Lutheran" was first applied to these reformers in a derogatory way, but soon proudly accepted by the adherents of Luther's reform.

SCS Recommends Cover Crops

Bare land, (land that is clean tilled or summer fallowed) will need cover this fall and winter to protect land from wind and water erosion and to maintain organic material in the soil.

There are other advantages also. If a covering crop is planted early, and grows off well, it can be cash leased for livestock grazing. This works very good if it is controlled to maintain enough cover to prevent erosion. If it is overgrazed, there will be an added erosion hazard. Cover crops are needed most on turn rows, through and along the edges of fields, and on directed or clean tilled land.

Cover crops can be broad cast seeded in peason cotton with the last cultivation without causing any trouble with harvesting of either.

Cover crops can also be planted in feed or hay stubble, where conditions are good and enough acres are involved. Generally, 30 to 90 days of grazing can be expected.

The Lamb County Soil and Water District board of supervisors, the county extension service, and the agriculture stabilization conservation service urges the planting of cover on bare land. For information on cover crops—what kind, how much and proper management—contact any of the personnel at the SCS office. Staff members will be glad to help you any way they can.

ABOUT ELECTRICAR:

Editor's note: Since the EMV Corp. announced plans to build 25 ElectricCar test models in Littlefield, numerous publications have written stories about the world's first practical electric car. The following is by Larry Cheek, Lubbock Avalanche-Journal staff writer.

There is no way a 2,000-pound car with five horsepower can go 50 mph.

But Cotton Whatley's electric car, a prototype job built in his home garage in Amarillo and slated for production in Littlefield, does not know it cannot go 50 mph. So it goes 50 mph anyway.

And in doing so, it comes surprisingly close to a pretty decent answer to the nation's transportation problems.

It produces no smog, makes less noise than its gasoline-powered garagemates, takes up little space in traffic or parking, and corners like a weasel in a drainpipe without benefit of power steering, fat tires or other expensive gadgetry.

Whatley, president of the new Electrically Motivated Vehicle Corp., plans to build a second prototype model in Amarillo beginning next week. If that one is successful, the EMV Corp., will pack up and move to Littlefield for an initial production run of up to 25 of the little coupes, all to be sold as experimental models to consumers around the nation.

Full production of the fiberglass-bodied coupes is hoped for as early as January, 1971, Whatley says. The factory will begin producing about 300 cars per day and hopefully increase that to 900.

What that large an industry will mean to Littlefield, a town of 7,500, is obvious. Kenneth Ware, president of the Littlefield Industrial Corp., called it a "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for Littlefield's progress."

What it will mean to Detroit—if the production of 900 units per day is achieved—is a market analyst's nightmare. When the term "economy car" is mentioned in the Motor City, designers trot out drab sedans weighing nearly 3,000 pounds, powered by a hundred hungry horses. Load them up with accessories and an automatic transmission, and the "economy" can drop well below 20 miles per gallon.

Whatley's brainchild, dubbed the Electricar, has a single five-horse motor powered by eight 6-volt lead-acid batteries, giving a range of about 60 miles between rechargings. Like most other electric cars, including Westinghouse's Marketeer I, it can be recharged overnight simply by plugging it into the house current.

Whatley claims the batteries can be fully recharged with about four kilowatt-hours of electricity—about 15 cents worth. This would yield economy on a par with a small motorcycle, while still offering the advantages of weather protection and a three-passenger capacity.

Riding with Whatley around Amarillo, we were more than a mite alarmed when he turned toward the expressway. Driving an electric car in 60 mph traffic is usually a shocking (pun intended) experience, as two-ton juggernauts roar past on all sides at twice your speed.

But the sporty coupe merged into traffic and was soon clipping along at nearly the rate of traffic flow. Thus the Electricar eliminates the major failing of the Marketeer, having enough performance to give the driver some degree of confidence.

The fact that the car has a four-speed transmission is probably the reason for the relatively good performance. Most experimental electric cars have only two speeds—forward and reverse. A gearbox is not essential, like in a conventional car, since an electric motor produces a more nearly constant output of power and torque throughout its speed range than does a gasoline engine.

The Electricar does have bugs, however, most of which Whatley promises will be eliminated in the production version. The rear window, formed in the shape of the Corporation's shield, is too small and made of plexiglass, which scratches easily. The rear suspension, well, there is none, an omission which makes it easier to change engines on this "test bed" car. The production version will have springs to soften the buckboard ride.

The production version will also be made available in many of the states included on conservation. A gasoline-burning engine can be installed, as can be even a stereo tape deck.

If Whatley's wonder goes into production it will be the mass-produced electric car available in recent years.

Bill Wood, chief of Lubbock Power and Light, said, however, he thought production of electric cars "a long way off."

"It's not a practical technology," he said, "the petroleum industry allow it."

Whatley said this has been true 10 or 15 years but "thanks to pollution problems now, probably not."

And Whatley, himself an oil supplier, is helping to put himself in a business with a car that only in drops instead

Conservationist Knocks Countryside Littering

"Litter is almost as bitter an enemy of conservation farmers and ranchmen as erosion," according to Joe Blevins, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service.

He said that was why his office and Lamb County Soil and Water Conservation District are glad to join with the Beautify Texas Council in helping focus public attention on the statewide litter problem.

The Council recently asked all Texans to renew anti-litter efforts this summer.

"Too many people still litter our countryside with bottles, cans, and other trash," Blevins stressed. "This not only mars the beauty of our rural lands, but when it collects on farm or grassland, it can also become a conservation problem."

Blevins listed several ways litter is a conservation menace. First, it is a fire hazard. He pointed out that under certain conditions, bottles had been blamed with magnifying the sun's rays enough to start costly grass and forest fires.

Every year, countless wildlife and livestock are poisoned by litter thrown in pastures and fields.

Others are starved or injured when get their heads or feet caught in bottles, cans, and other trash.

The conservationist said litter hinders farming and ranching operations; some trash catches water, increasing mosquitoes, thus becoming a health problem; it can be a safety hazard; and it costs millions just to pick up every year. Besides that, he said, "it's ugly."

"Conservation farmers and ranchmen do as much to help beautify Texas as anyone," Blevins added.

"Neatly contoured fields, well-managed grasslands and woodlands, sediment-free ponds, lakes, and streams, sloped and seeded gullied areas; all this and other work done by conservation farmers adds to the beauty of the landscape. The least rest of us can do is put our litter in a trash can instead of throwing it on the land to mar this beauty," he said.
