Thursday's Thanksgiving Festival Marks 30th Annual Event At Pep

marks the 30th annual Pep Day feast. 30 years ago Father Wagner, Pep's St. Phillip's Catholic priest, thought the parishioners needed a church. He proposed that in the community pool their and make German sausage to use funds to build a new church. About the community everyone beef, pork and pooled their talents to make the sausage. Traditional sausage making got

During the day there will be games, carnival attractions and an auction. Items to be auctioned off include homemade breads, pies, cakes, and even bales of cotton.

All of the activities will take place in the new parish hall, one of the many improvements and additions made with the proceeds from the annual Thanksgiving celebration.

Wildcats Win 4th Straight

The Littlefield Wildcat varsity basketball team won their fourth game in as many starts Tuesday night as they defeated Floydada, 49-45.

Coach Dee Blevins' 'Cats had to come from behind to capture the win as Floydada built a 10-6 lead in the first quarter and maintained it at the half, 23-19.

However, the Wildcats came back strong the third quarter to take a two-point lead and eventually won by four.

Ralph Mendez led the scoring in the close game with 12 points with Narva Simington tossing in 10. Rayford Green had 8, David Davis 7, and Lonnie Twitty, Richard Rogers and Rudy Ayala each had four points.

In Monday night action, the 'Cats put away Shallowater, 70-56.

Simington had 14 points, Davis 13, Green 10, Kip Elms 9, Mendez 8, Twitty 6 with Rogers and Doug Perrin tossing in 2 each.

Tuesday, Dec. 2, the 'Cats will host the Muleshoe Mules with a full slate of games involving the varsity and junior varsity boys and girls team.

Tuesday, Friday and Saturday of next week, the 'Cats will be in the Kress Tournament.

Parker Captures Contest

Ricky Parker is the top guesser in this year's Leader-News Football Contest and as a result, he wins two tickets to the Cotton Bowl Classic in Dallas New Years' Day to see the Southwest Conference Champion and Georgia in action.

He also will take $25 in expense money as a result of his predictions.

This was the closest race in many years for the contest as Parker and Harold Pollard had identical year-end totals of 89-31 and judges had to compute their tie-breakers over the entire length of the contest to determine the winner and it was still even until the very last contest.

Other entrants who were close to winning include Ed McCandies who was one behind with an 88-32 mark, Randy Hall with 87-33, and W.W. Fry, Lilburn Bales and Arthur Duggan with 86-34 tallies.

In the last contest, Mrs. Pat Donnelly won the top prize in a contest marked with many upsets and Walter Liles came in 2nd.

Paul Yarbrough and Shauna Clayton tied for the third place spot.

Thanksgiving Weekend 4-Day Holiday For Some

Thanksgiving weekend is a long one for the lucky persons. School is out Monday of course, so both students and teachers get a four-day holiday.

County and state employees get off, with offices at the city hall warehouse closed both Thursday and Friday.

Banking institutions are closed Monday for observance of Thanksgiving. Tri-County Savings and Loans will be closed both Thursday and Friday, but the other banking businesses will be open for Friday business as usual.

Most retail businesses will be closed Thursday, but starting Friday merchants are all geared up for the Christmas season. Watch for merchants' Christmas specials in this issue and the special dollar day issue this week.

Emblem Contest Deadline Extended

The deadline for entries in the emblem contest has been extended to Monday according to Dr. Howard Head DVM, committee chairman.

Head said that not many entries have been received in the school age divisions—particularly elementary and junior high, but many entries have been received in the adult division. "One lady sent in 20 entries," Head commented.

Head said the extension is only to cover the weekend, and that all entries must be received no later than Monday morning's mail. Entries may be addressed to the Chamber-BCD, P. O. Box 507, Littlefield. Offices in City Hall will be closed through the holiday weekend.

Head pointed out the contest is an emblem contest, not a slogan contest. Entries will be judged upon originality and concept rather than artistic merit. The contest is open to anyone, and prizes will be awarded to elementary, junior high, high school, and adult divisions.

The $400 in prizes for the contest are being donated by Carlisle-Oldham Ford, ACG Textile Mill, Littlefield Seed and Delinting, Littlefield Farmers Coop Gin, Ware's, Littlefield Pay & Save, and Lamb County Leader-News.

The contest judges will start judging entries Tuesday, and members of the Chamber-BCD Denim Promotional Committee are: Head, Jerry Roberts, Mickey Brewer, Phelps Blume, Tina Wicker, Carlton Tanner, and Joe Carlisle.

The 'Signs' Lots of Spiders, Woolly Worms Mean Hard Winter

If squirrels start burying nuts in the ground early, it's a sure sign of a long hard winter, according to a mini-survey of Lamb Countians. Another indication is animals with a heavy coat of fur. An outdoorsman noted that all dogs, cats and cattle have heavier coats this year.

"It's their environmental instinct," one man said. "When the days start getting shorter animals have a built-in radar which enables them to forecast cold weather."

It is apparently accepted as fact that animals can sense what the weather will be several days in advance. In the days before radio and hourly weather forecasts, many people relied on the "signs" in nature to predict the weather. Without consciously realizing it, a number of people do today.

People who have enjoyed a close association with the outdoors often claim they can feel weather changes. Probably such people are close observers of nature who pick up indistinct signals.

Of course, arthritis and rheumatism sufferers don't need any other signs to tell them when the weather's going to change. Their built-in barometers tell them.

If the wasps and flies seem to try to take over your house, it's a sure sign of a cold snap, says many cattlemen.

"If there's an unusually good acorn crop, it might be construed that nature provides an abundance of acorns in anticipation of a severe winter," he said.

People who go by the "signs" say it will be a bad winter if squirrels build nests low in the trees. However, say some, when nuts are on the ground, it means there won't be any snow.

If crawdads and ants build their hills high, it means a bad winter.

Other sure signs of winter are when birds huddle on the ground; there are a lot of spiders about in the fall; and the woolly worm has a heavy coat.

Leaves pointing toward the sky mean rain can be expected. If the moon tilts down, you can expect rain within three days.

An almost infallible sign of rain, according to numerous people, is if the sun sets behind a cloud, it will rain within three days.

A ring around the moon indicates rain and if there's a star inside the ring, it will rain the next day. The number of stars in the ring indicates the number of days before rain can be expected.

Fluffy "mare's tail" clouds floating like feathers in the air, mean rain also, said one sportsman. If there is a rainbow in the east it rains the least; a rainbow in the west means it rains the best," he added.

Moss growing on the north side of trees means you can expect a bad winter, another man said, and yet another person said if it has been a long hot summer, a long cold winter can be anticipated.

"If the moon falls in the morning, you're much more apt to have rain than if it becomes full in the afternoon or at night. And if it starts raining a little before 5 p.m., it will rain all night," he added.

The weather will be fair if you hear a whippoorwill at night.

If the smoke rises from the ground and the crickets holler, you can expect fair weather.

Want to ward off a cyclone or tornado? One 85-year-old woman vows that an axe stuck in a stump or log will split the cloud and the storm can be averted.

There you have them, some of the "signs" the old-timers used and some of them still follow. Superstition or fact, there are lots of people in the county who swear by the "signs."

WHITHARRAL NEWS

DANNY GRANT was in Waco to attend a Farm Bureau meeting. He is on the Resolutions Committee.

ROSETTA POLK has gone to Dallas to be at the bedside of her father who was admitted to the Wadley Hospital on Monday morning.

MRS. M. C. Chavez a former resident visited with her son and family Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chavez.

TUESDAY MORNING the fifth grade class went to Lubbock on a field trip. The first stop was the Bell Dairy. The students toured the dairy and saw the operation of processing milk. They were told that 20,000 gallons of milk are processed daily. They enjoyed the freezer where ice cream is frozen. The temperature in the freezer is 35 degrees below zero, which caused shivers, shakes, and squeals. Then they were treated to an ice cream bar.

A PICNIC lunch was enjoyed at AstroPark. It was also rather cool there. From the park the students went to the Planetarium. This experience was both enlightening and enjoyable. They were told to watch for the moon eclipse that evening. The students are studying planets and stars in science. So the Planetarium was very meaningful.

THE TRIP was climaxed with a visit to the South Plains Mall. Here the students viewed the cotton displays and various demonstrations of cotton processing. All seventeen were nice and all seemed to have a good day. Jo Copeland is their teacher.

THE THIRD AND FOURTH graders of the Whitharral Elementary School made a field trip of Levelland on Wednesday from 9:15 to 1:15.

There 24 students and the teachers Treva Hyatt and Mary Ellen Guerry. They enjoyed a tour of the jail, county library and the fire department. Sheriff Blair, Mrs. Slaughter of the Library and Mr. Joiner of the Fire Department were very cordial to the students and teachers. They then enjoyed lunch at the Burger Kitchen and ice cream at the Dairy Mart.

THE CUB SCOUTS met Tuesday after school. Those attending were Bart Harlan, Kip Grant, Brad Stafford, Jay Farabee, Mike Durrett, Jaff Timmons, Britt Eslinger, Kerry Doshier, Adam Salinas, Givino Salinas, James Salinas and Junior Fuentes.

Mrs. Jones Attends Meet

Mrs. Viola Jones of the High School homemaking department attended an In-Service meeting for Area I Homemaking teachers held Friday night and Saturday, Nov. 21-22 in the Hilton Inn in Lubbock.

The main speaker was Saul Schur from the Good Housekeeping Institute of New York. He told of the procedure necessary for an article having the "Good Housekeeping seal" to appear in an advertisement. Many articles, pamphlets and other literature were given the teachers to assist in their work. Two hundred and seventy attended.

"I'd rather explain higher gas bills than why you don't have gas."

Your natural gas bill is higher. And, you have every right to know why.

One reason is lower temperatures brought on by winter.

The main reason, however, is simply that you are paying more for natural gas. Because we are paying more. This chart shows how much:

This increase hurts both you and Pioneer. It adds to your bill and to our cost... a cost for which Pioneer is not entirely compensated. It is passed through without mark-up or additional charges.

Why does gas cost more? Competition... particularly from petrochemical and other industries. The competition for gas has never been so fierce.

We will have to pay more for gas than in the past. But by working together, and without outside interference, you'll have the gas you need today and in the future.

Special Waltons Program Aired Thanksgiving Night

The two-hour broadcast "The Waltons" will bring into focus the dimensions of this family when it is shown on the CBS television station, Channel 13, on Thanksgiving night, Nov. 27, at 7 p.m.

The story finds the Waltons' regular Thanksgiving celebration sadly altered with its membership in the American Bankers Association. (ABA).

Area Women Attend State Convo

The annual state PTA convention, held at the Sheraton Hotel in Houston, was attended by Mrs. Harmon, Amherst, Mrs. Patterson, local representative of South Plains Council, Mrs. Floyd Gilton, and Mrs. Demel, Pep.

The following regional vice presidents were elected to serve two-year terms in field service to the Texas PTA: Mrs. Junior Powell of Lubbock; Mrs. Ben Johnson of Midland; John O. Belle of Austin; Mrs. Richard Bouillon of San Antonio; Johnny Clark of Baytown; Mrs. Warren Tynes of Waco; Mrs. Vernon Jackson of Grand Prairie and Mrs. Fred Parker of Fort Worth.

Principal Gives Anton Honor Roll

ANTON—Principal Ray Saunders announced the honor roll for Anton Junior-Senior High School for the first quarter ending November 14 as follows:

Ten students had grades no lower than 92 which placed them on the honor roll. They were seniors Teri Butler and Anita Wright; juniors Lisa Boothe, Janette Bishop, Zane Butler, Foy Mills, and Lon Timms; sophomore Ray Stone; and freshman Tina Gossett and Risa Stone.

Shared Experience Programs Slated

A symposium on love, caring and sexual responsibility, "The Shared Experience," will be presented by the University Center Programs Council at Texas Tech, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Dec. 4.

The symposium in the Coronado Room of the University Center will feature local clergy, educators and health personnel. The day-long program is an educational effort about such topics as venereal disease, contraception, abortion and sex education, a spokesman for the Programs Council said.

Speakers and their topics include Marla H. Handis, instructor of courtship and marriage, college of home economics, Texas Tech, on contraception; Norma Porres, M. D., private practice and active with Planned Parenthood of Lubbock, and Coren Yates, M. D., instructor at the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, on abortion; and David Brown, venereal disease coordinator for the absence of John-Boy who is in the hospital.

While preparing for scholarship and entrance examinations to the University of Virginia, John-Boy has also been working with his father in the mill. As a result of an accident there, he develops a blood clot which threatens his eyesight and even more fatal complications and forces him to miss the examinations as well as the traditional family Thanksgiving celebration. But being the Waltons, they find many things to be thankful for at their annual holiday dinner.

Eventually, John-Boy recovers and returns home—which infinitely enhances the holiday's meaning and inspires the Walton family to give thanks by holding a second Thanksgiving dinner.

This Thanksgiving special is one of several telecasts that will be sponsored by the ABA in cooperation with the Security State Bank in the Littlefield area. In February the fifth in a series of telecasts on the life of Abraham Lincoln will be seen on NBC, and Feb. 3-15 the ABA will sponsor the Winter Olympics games being held in Innsbruck, Austria.

The couple is making their home in Hale Center.

Witnesses Attend N.M. Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Littlefield congregation have recently returned from a circuit convention held in Clovis, N.M., Nov. 22-23. The two day program featured the theme 'As For Us, We Shall Serve Jehovah' and had a peak attendance of 1,474.

The program presented practical demonstrations and discussion on how families and individuals can continue serving Jehovah with joy and happiness while facing trials of life that affect all people to some degree.

"Of special interest was the session illustrating how parents can keep the lines of communication open and still help their children to avoid the pitfalls common today," explained Danny Martinez, presiding minister of the local congregation.

"The public talk entitled 'How the Kingdom of God Affects You' was the keynote address," Martinez said. "The speaker showed God's Kingdom as a real government, with rulers that exercise authority from heaven, fully able and willing to solve all the problems of mankind. God's purpose is that in time all people will be under this one government."

The high point of the assembly was the public baptism of 49 new ministers.

Teacher Retirement Counseling Slated

Individual and group retirement counseling for teachers in the Plainview area will be available in meetings conducted by Teacher Retirement System staff Friday and Saturday, Jan. 16-17, at Gates Hall, Wayland Baptist College.

Teachers planning to retire in 1976 who want to attend individual sessions must submit request for an appointment to TRS Headquarters, 1001 Trinity, Austin, by Dec. 5.

Counselors will have a complete retirement estimate for each member at the individual meeting and will be able to discuss the retirement options available and application procedures.

At the group meeting the retirement formula, option selection and other information will be presented and participants may have questions answered.

This is one of a series of nine area retirement counseling sessions scheduled by TRS across the state in an effort to make retirement counseling more readily available to members.

The meetings are being provided by TRS in cooperation with Texas State Teachers Association. Any member of TRS may take part.

Student Councils To Attend Meet

ANTON—The Student Council will be a candidate for the office of President of the South Plains Association of Student Councils at the annual conference to be held at South Plains College, December 10.

The theme of the conference will be "Look Up and See What You Can Be." The keynote speaker will be John Paul Bremerman, President, Texas Association of Student Councils, Andrews High School.

The Council will lead a discussion group on "State Projects," led by Greg Couch, president.

Homemakers Have Meeting

THE YOUNG Homemakers met Monday night. Donny and Charla Chronister gave the program on ceramics. The club has ordered more pecans to sale. They also drew secret pal names. The next meeting will be the Christmas party at Freda Kristinek's December 15th. Those attending were: Jonny Sue Polk, Anita Rock, Gayle Rodgers, Ilene Nickleson, Sandra Keener, Paula Wade, Ludell Stafford, Erna Mae Wade, Bettye Stafford, Patty Tripp, Esta Mae Hisaw, Peggy Lorenz, Joyce Clevenger, Lois Avery Sandy Mills, and Fredda Kristinek.

A Banker's Viewpoint....

If members of Congress are keeping their ears to the ground, as they should, they are getting a message that is vitally important to this country.

The message is simple and direct.

The people of the United States, whether they are liberal or conservative as political labels go, want our government - or, more accurately, governments - to stop fiscal waste, save money, and balance the budgets.

People simply are fed up with the process of vote buying - with the people's money and credit. They have shown this countless times in local and state elections. Bond issue proposals, for everything from new schools to street paving, have failed by the dozens in the last two to three years, in states, cities and hamlets.

Public dissatisfaction with spend-and-spend philosophies, in the last national election, changed many faces in Congress.

Within the last couple of weeks a number of warnings have gone to spenders and taxers. For example:

Ohioans voted on the all-time champion spending proposal for any state ($4.5 billion). The score was overwhelmingly against it.

Likewise, New Jersey voters voted down a $922 million bond issue supported by environmentalist, organized labor and civic boosters.

New Yorkers, already smarting over the bankruptcy of New York City, refused a $250 million issue for low-rent housing, and Washington voters, by 2 to 1, rejected a proposal for a 12 per cent tax on corporate profits.

Massachusetts is only a jump or two behind New York on the road to bankruptcy, and politicians there have begun to wake up to the problem. The president of Massachusetts' Senate suggests that spending has gotten so far out of hand that state personnel will have to go and some of the state's programs will have to be scrapped.

Does Congress hear these rumblings from the grass roots?

We have a notion, and a hope, that it had better. Otherwise there may be still another great change in the faces on Capitol Hill.

We believe in this country and its people. Like the writers of our Constitution, we believe that the strength and the real intelligence of government originates with the people. So we urge all our citizens, here and elsewhere, to do our part—keep up with public issues and send our opinions about them to our elected representatives.

The First Thanksgiving

It would be the first American Thanksgiving proclamation issued for many years that didn't end in "God Save the King," this proclamation issued in 1774 just two hundred years ago. And it would set a pattern for all future American Thanksgiving proclamations.

Almost from the beginning, the colonists in New England had set aside a day in spring for fasting and prayer and, again in the autumn, a day to give thanks for the blessings of God. These mostly had been proclaimed, however, by Royal Governors on paper bearing the royal crest. But in this October of 1774, there was no hope of this. For nine years, since the time of the imposition of the aborted Stamp Tax, Britain and her American colonies had been struggling in a cold war, and it was getting hotter.

The street riots, later to be called "The Boston Massacre," when British soldiers fired on demonstrating civilians, were only four years in the past. Just ten months earlier, in December, 1773, "The Mohawks" in flames by a new tax on tea, had swarmed over London-loaded vessels in the Boston port and dumped overboard the cargoes of tea—tea worth 10,000 pounds which washed up in windrows around the edges of the harbor. The newly appointed British commander and Royal Governor was General Thomas Gage, a famous soldier, who did not easily suffer people whom he regarded as rebels and traitors. His troops were quartered in Boston, five regiments of them, and the guns of his ships in the harbor were trained on the town. That June Parliament had closed the port of Boston until the citizens should pay for the tea that had been jettisoned.

Earlier, in May, when the Provincial Assembly had petitioned him to set aside a special day for prayer and fasting because of the unsettled times, Gage had not even bothered to respond. "The request," he said, "was only to give an opportunity for sedition to flow from the pulpit."

There was, therefore, no hope that General Gage would proclaim a day of Thanksgiving, but the colonists were to have their Thanksgiving, General Gage or no.

The bedeviled Gage was learning that he had lost control of his colony. He had thought, for instance, to humble John Hancock by removing him from the colony of a showpiece company of cadets. The cadets quit in protest. Further angered by the Assembly vote appropriating money for Massachusetts attendance at the First Continental Congress, Governor Gage pocket vetoed the appropriation and dissolved the Assembly. Gage then called for the election of a new Assembly, summoned it to meet in Salem, and then changed his mind and told it not to meet.

The newly elected Assembly, ninety strong, met in Salem anyway, on October 5th, waited two days for Gage to turn up, and then voted: "To resolve themselves into a Provincial Congress, to be joined by such other persons as have been or may be chosen for that purpose..." The newly formed Provincial Congress then elected as its President, John Hancock.

Hancock was a merchant prince, a lover of fine wines, good books and elegant clothing. He liked to compliment a friend by ordering a suit of "superfine broadcloth" from his own tailor as a present. At the time, he was becoming one of the most dedicated of the new breed of American patriots. He was a man with fire in his eyes and a jutting jaw, and his popularity and influence were such that the royal power could hardly touch him. He would later become the first man to sign his name to the Declaration of Independence.

The Congress adjourned from Salem on a Friday and met again the following Tuesday, Oct. 11, in Concord. There it resolved: "That when this Congress shall adjourn over the Sabbath that it be adjourned to the Court House in Cambridge."

From the small Court House they moved across the street to the larger Meeting House on the First Church of Cambridge, the place from which the first independent Thanksgiving proclamation would be issued. It was a long rectangular building, then 18 years old, at the corner of what is now the Harvard Yard next to Harvard Square.

A towering spire topped off by a jaunty weathercock rose from its west end. Like most colonial meeting houses, it served as a church on Sundays and a place for town meetings on weekdays.

The delegates entered under a one-story porch on the south side. Inside the 71x51 foot hall, they were seated facing the long north wall with its pulpit surmounted by a large round-headed window.

The Congress convened there on Monday, Oct. 17. On the following Friday, the 21st, it was moved to set 3 o'clock in the afternoon as a time for considering the "propriety of recommending a day of public thanksgiving throughout the province" and set 4 p.m. for discussing an alternative proposal for a day of fasting and prayer.

However, they spent all day talking about avoiding the use of any East India tea whatsoever and didn't get around to either.

The following morning, Saturday, Oct. 22, in the second item of business, it was ordered that the Hon. John Winthrop, the Rev. Joseph Wheeler and the Rev. Solomon Lombard draw up a Thanksgiving resolution.

All three were Harvard men. Professor Winthrop, a senior member of the Harvard faculty, was one of the sixteen children of Judge Adam Winthrop and had been baptized by that clergyman and first great American man of science, Cotton Mather. He had been elected President of Harvard in January without his consent and having refused the honor, in this very month of October he had turned the college administration over to the President. John Winthrop had been the head of his Harvard Freshman class at the age of 18, partly because of his father's distinction but also on his own merits. He was now one of the foremost scientists of his day, ranking with his friend Franklin. He was one of the men who had received a John Hancock suit.

Before noon Winthrop's committee reported. Whether they had written the Proclamation in a little more than an hour that same morning or whether they had written it the night before in anticipation, no one knows. It was read, amended and accepted. It satisfied both those who wanted feasting and those who wanted fasting.

The Congress passed the resolution to its President, John Hancock. He affixed to it the bold Hancock signature, and boldly did Benjamin Edes and John Gill print the signature and proclamation in their Boston Gazette of Monday, Oct. 24, 1774.

This was the first Public Proclamation of the first independent, although quasi-legal, legislature of the Revolution. Formally printed as a broadside it was sent to be posted up in every town and village and "sent to all the religious assemblies in this province". The proclamation and the following Thanksgiving day were enthusiastically received. "Their edicts are implicitly obeyed," an embittered General Gage complained. On that December 15, the business of the Province shut down. The Boston Gazette reported that "two or three embittered persons of the most insignificant and contemptuous of Sects" opened their shops, but that even some British soldiers had chided them for insulting their countrymen.

Never again though were American thanksgivers to worry about the "Smiles of our Sovereign". This first Thanksgiving proclamation by an independent legislature set a pattern for the future prayer proclamations of the nation about to be born. Within nine months, soon after the bloody surprise of Lexington and Concord, where the British troops were pursuing Sam Adams and John Hancock as well as illegal arms, the infant Continental Congress proclaimed a day of prayer and fasting for all the Thirteen Colonies. This action on the 12th of June, 1775 was the first national prayer proclamation in the long history of the Republic. At this moment of crisis in the far scattered Colonies, this proclamation bound them together in their prayers as in their arms. This was also signed by John Hancock, now president of the new and "continental" congress.

Many times during the next terrible years the Continental Congress set days of prayer and fasting. It wasn't until 1777 after the battle of Saratoga that they were finally able to declare the first day of national Thanksgiving and rejoicing. But the significant note had already been struck. The Thanksgiving Proclamation of 1774, on the threshold of free government in America, was a call for gratitude with the same lasting power as when 150 years before their forefathers began their life in the New World with an act of Thanksgiving.

Now we ourselves are venturing into a great beginning, the third century of American freedom. We too can feel—as deeply as those who pioneered and those who won our freedom—their abiding sense of humility and thankfulness. May it be so.

STAR-SPANGLED HISTORY

HISTORICAL DRAWINGS BY JOSEPH BOGGS BEALE (1841-1926)

"THE FIRST THANKSGIVING"

The first Thanksgiving in America was celebrated in Plymouth, Massachusetts, on December 13, 1621. During their first winter in the New World, almost half of the Pilgrim colonists died because of the severe weather and a lack of food. During the following summer, with the help of the local Indians, the colonists were able to harvest a large crop that would more than last the winter. They invited the Indians to help them celebrate. As their contribution to the festivities, the Indians arrived with wild turkeys and venison. Thanksgiving was declared a legal holiday by an act of Congress in 1941 to be observed on the last Thursday in November. From the collection of American National Insurance Company, Galveston, Texas.

Happy Thanksgiving

"I LIKE SPRING, but it is too young. I like summer, but it is too proud. So I like best of all autumn, because its leaves are a little yellow, its tone mellow, its colors richer, and its tinged a little with sorrow... Its golden richness speaks not of the innocence of spring, nor of the power of summer, but of the mellowness and kindly wisdom of approaching age. It knows the limitations of life and is content."

AS WE CELEBRATE Thanksgiving this year, perhaps this reflective thought by Oriental philosopher Lin Yutang may help us appreciate our blessings—and our country from which many of them flow. For America, like autumn, is no longer either too young or too proud. Rather, we have come to know better, if not accept, our limitations as a nation. And, after nearly 200 years, we continue to enjoy some of the innocence of spring, the power of summer, and perhaps even a growing degree of autumnal wisdom.

The first Thanksgiving Day, of course, predates the birth of our country.

Following a winter of tremendous hardship, Pilgrim Gov. William Bradford in the autumn of 1621 ordered a three-day festival to celebrate a life-sustaining harvest. "Our harvest being gotten in," wrote Edward Winslow in a letter of December 11, 1621, "our Governor sent four men on fowling, that so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labours."

DESPITE THIS EARLY beginning, shared with some 90 neighboring Indians, Thanksgiving Day was not celebrated throughout the United States as a regular national holiday until it was so proclaimed by President Lincoln on Nov. 26, 1863. Since that time, it has been celebrated annually and has become a cherished American tradition.

Our hope this year is that you will join with us in thanking a generous and merciful Creator for the blessings of liberty and abundance in which we continue to share. And may you have a Happy Thanksgiving!

Mrs. Peal moved to Amherst in 1959 from Dallas. Her husband, H. L. Peal, died in 1964. She was a dietitian at South Plains Hospital in Amherst more than 12 years. She was a member of the Church of Christ in Amherst.

Mrs. Peal is survived by a step-daughter, Mrs. Charles Cannon of Dallas; a niece, Lavell Clayton of Earth; and a nephew, Windie Clayton of Earth.

Pallbearers were Bobby Clayton, E. E. Gee, Marvin Wagoner, Winston Ferguson and Doug Lewis.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

We Can Manage

WE ARE BECOMING more and more concerned about some of the more important considerations of life; we are being forced to move in this direction. Be that as it may, the important realization is that we are trying to correct our mistakes, and trying to improve our attitudes and behavior patterns.

OUR PRIORITIES are being revised. We are not going to be flawless in our present efforts; but "we can manage", as long as we don't give up. Of course, there are problems; and we will be able to do better with some than we will with others. This, however, must not become a cause of discouragement; because it is to be expected as an acceptable part of reality.

WE HAVE BEEN CARELESS about many things, and we couldn't afford this carelessness. This is one of the mistakes we are trying to correct. At least, many of us have come to the conclusion that we can no longer afford such carelessness. It is not too late, and we can change; "we can manage".

APPRECIATION FOR BLESSINGS has not been as it should have been, and we know that we have been wrong in our lack of appreciation. No, we have not been completely lacking in appreciation; but we know now that we have not been as appreciative as our general life situation justified. We can improve in this area. Of course, we "can manage" ourselves and make adjustments, corrections and re-form our basic views to whatever action is indicated.

MORE LAND, MORE LIFE wealth and more time are not given to us. There are no promises that there will be anything else. It is wisely suggested we do not need more, but that we need is the correct use of what we already have. This is generally accepted as the only possible hope for acceptance, however, is not because "we can manage".

We can turn from self-indulgent wastefulness, and accept our share of stewardship and conservation. We can do this. In fact, there is a desirable choice.

CONFIDENCE IN OUR ABILITY to manage" our life situation is mandatory; it is a must. If we fail, it is due to our lack of capabilities, insufficient desire. We must not happen, but must pay the price of personal diligence and self-discipline. We know that all self-improvements can be overcome.

THE CHALLENGES ARE great, but our potentials are great; but stop our wastefulness; we can stop the degree of inefficiency in the natural and human resources; re-direct the expenditure of all our energy; and we can rearrange priorities according to our needs. "We Can Manage."

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

JUST GOES TO show ya, I reckon. For the longest time we've been gripin' about too much government. Now that it comes to light that we've just got a part time governor we're not happy about that, either.

It is appalling, don't you think, at the little time Mr. Briscoe spends in Austin?— Trouble seems to be that you can't find him anywhere else, either.

MUST BE PRETTY soft to be able to hold a $65,000.00 (?) per year job as a sideline— especially when it doesn't take much of your time!

SEEMS THE GAME of the day in Washington is political football—the balls being the CIA and FBI. Anyway the passtime seems to be keeping a few prominent names before the public. No such petty thing as working on the economic questions, nor the energy crisis. Too insignificant, I guess.

Now, it was my impression that these agencies were at the beck and call of the president. If they have gone astray, then who is to blame? Certainly we need these people, and their jobs are very important.

KNOWING THAT we have every kind of spies from about every country on the globe prying into our own activities, it would seem fitting that we try to deal with current events in our own way. Sure would have been nice if we had some little warning about the Harbor debacle, wouldn't it?

No, we couldn't prevent assassinations and murder, I suppose. But it would also be nice if Washington big-wigs could find other means of keeping their names in the headlines.

THO HE SEEMS to be very chafant about the whole process, JFK is having his troubles about being able to rest in peace. His name cropping up in the afore mentioned investigations and whether or not actually Oswald did did him in. Latest rumor is that they're the body of ex-husband Oswald's body, and on trial again.— Surely we don't do this!

NOTICED TURN ROW unit in vain in his wasted space last night. Doubt if he meant to be complimentary, and also I doubt that he got it out of Progressive Farmer.

If that's a sample of things to be heardly recommend that he should be his honest stuff.— That way we just ignore the whole mess!

Turn Row COMMENTS

By EMIL MACH

BASKETBALL SEASON is in full swing with almost all the schools in the area and I'd like to take this time out to encourage you to attend a few of the games.

One reason is that you will see a lot of action, another reason is that the environment is pleasant, you can enjoy a game in your short sleeves. Another important reason is that the young people need our support. Take in a basketball game sometime; you might like it.

NOTICED THAT THE department of Public Safety is going to take on another law enforcement project. Apparently they will be after those vehicles that are equipped with Citizen's Band Radios. Apparently these individuals are interfering with some of the highway patrol in their attempts to catch speed violators. I understand that they will be checking for F.C.C. permits and other types of legal documents.

I don't deny the "Smokey Reports" have been slowing down traffic as well as in other instances encouraging people to violate the speed limit.

If D.P.S. gets their way the patrol cars will be equipped with CBs and old Smokey could be giving you the "Greenlight" instead of a helpful motorist, thus encouraging you to speed right into their "picture taking machine".

Haven't made up my mind whether this procedure is good or bad, but I do know in many instances CBs have saved people from accidents. Noticed the other night, there was about a half a dozen CB units traveling on a stretch of highway.

None were speeding but the network was hot with a lot of talk. One message was loose cattle beside the highway, was a pickup and trailer stalled about half of the vehicle was pavement. Warnings were sent down the line by the CB operators from last report no one had an accident mainly because the traffic slowed and even those without the CB units followed the pace of the CB.

Of course no one knows for sure if an accident would have occurred without the broadcast network. It does narrow the odds.

Many of the women operators they felt secure with a CB unit in their vehicle especially when they were traveling by themselves.

Don't get me wrong, I'm promoting the sale of CB units, but have a lot of benefits. One thing I like to see done is that more channels be used instead of everyone using channel 19. This channel should be used by travelers. It would be nice if the people who use the units just by themselves would use another channel, and the agri-business people and the monitor even a different channel. The way the flow of communication would not be interrupted and each unit could communicate more and without interference.

HAVE YOU MADE OUT a will? haven't, might ought to take time and describe how you want your possessions divided after you die.

A COUNTRY BOY'S opinion on the dope crisis may appear in this issue Sunday.

Christmas Season Can Bring Dangers

Season to be careful. Fire hazards in the decorated youngsters and lights can trigger incidents during the season. When handling boxes and ladders are common. Need to be wary of rough, sharp edges or parts that can be cut. Some dangerous made of lead or are with poisonous lead. Christmas trees, candles and devices present problems, according to the Medical Association. Christmas tree can be a safety hazard in the wiring on lights, a flicked cigarette ash and youngsters can easily get cut down on to keep the tree bottom in wet sand or set in help keep the branches from falling out so quickly.

Some lighting repairs can be made safely using a roll of electricians' tape, but of course a new string of lights is much cheaper than hospital bills or furniture replacement from fire damage. Buying Underwriters Laboratory (UL) approved equipment adds extra safety. Curious kids can often burn themselves on hot lights or even overturn some Christmas trees. A well-placed, firmly anchored tree with ornaments placed out of children's grasps adds increased safety but even the biggest, safest Christmas tree cannot withstand a persistent child for long. Our forefathers were used to candles and took appropriate precautions but modern Americans often forget that that soft glow can be dangerous. A runaway flow of hot wax can ignite some materials and the tiny candle flames cause their share of blazes when they are placed too near to flammable objects like curtains, walls, some plastic flowers, etc. Sometimes a candle in a glass holder can crack the glass and unleash trouble. Screens in front of open-flame heaters and fireplaces can prevent many accidents. But all family members should know what to do when clothing catches fire. Above all—don't run; don't panic. Roll on the ground; smother the flames with a blanket or a coat. Get severely burned persons to a doctor immediately. For severe burns, apply a clean cloth to keep out air. Keep the victim's head and chest a little lower than the rest of the body. Raise the legs if possible. If the victim is conscious and can swallow, give him plenty of nonalcoholic liquids to drink. Do not apply ointments, greases, baking soda or other substances to extensive burns. For minor burns, wash in cold water and/or apply clean ice to relieve pain. Place a pad over the burn and bandage loosely.

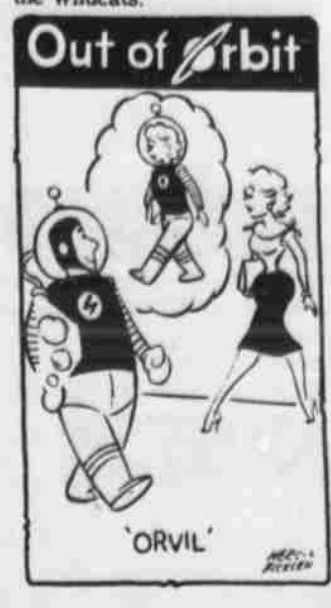

But prevention can save pain. Eliminate fire hazards, practice smothering clothing fires and pre-plan escape routes from burning rooms. The children probably will enjoy a couple of drills, valuable practice that helps prevent panic for everyone. Some heaters can produce deadly carbon monoxide, CO, gas. This killer is odorless, colorless and tasteless. Hazardous quantities usually accumulate when a relatively cool, slow fire burns in limited air. Autos are also a prime source. Danger symptoms include drowsiness, headache, lightness across the forehead, confusion, nausea and muscular weakness. Some major causes of CO poisoning are running a car in a confined place like a garage, closing a fireplace damper before the fire is entirely out and faulty home heating systems (which should be checked annually).

Littlefields' 7th grade girls team lost in the consolation Finals of the Cotton Center Tourney last week to Lubbock Christian, 33-30. Linda Glover scored 12 points to lead the scoring with Michelle Phillips close behind with 10 and Pam Fisher had 8. Littlefield lost the first game of the tourney to Cotton Center, 38-19, but came back to defeat Amherst, 34-23. In this game Michelle Phillips had 10, Sally Wilkinson had 8, Linda Glover 7, Sylvia Martinez 5 and Pam Fisher 4. In Monday night action, the 7th grade defeated Dimmitt, 25-21. Phillips again led the scoring with 11, Fisher had 7 and Glover 6. Leading defensive players include Sally Wilkinson, Jeanette Johnson, Arleen Williams and Cindy Klein. The Dimmitt 8th grade defeated Littlefield 36-28. Jamie Lee had 13 points while Bridgett Twitty had 10 and Jana Jones had 5. Defensively Sandra Healy, Gloria Brockington, Lavonna Sanderson, Lisha Short, Kim Tollett and Darlene Williams led the Wildcats.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

Activities scheduled for the first two weeks of December in the Lubbock area furnish additional evidence that the eyes of the textile industry are turning more and more to the Texas High Plains. On December 1, three representatives from the Investa Foreign Trade Company of Prague, Czechoslovakia, accompanied by an official from the Czech Embassy in Washington, will be visiting the Textile Research Center at Texas Tech. Investa is one of the world's most important and progressive manufacturers of textile machinery. On December 2 W. Gordon McCabe, Jr., Group Vice President of J.P. Stevens & Company, Inc., will bring head cotton buyer Foy Fisher and five of the company's mill superintendents to look over the High Plains crop, visit gins and acquaint themselves with Lubbock's new open-end spinning plant, Feather Yarns, Inc. Stevens, based in Greenville, S.C., is one of the U.S. leaders in open-end spinning and the mill superintendents are those from plants involved in the production of yarns on the open-end system. The following week, December 9, the Cotton Committee of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute (ATMI) will hold a breakfast meeting in Lubbock followed by a tour of harvesting and ginning operations and the Feather Yarns plant. The 30 members of the ATMI committee are top officials of 27 textile manufacturing companies that account for over half the cotton consumed in the U.S. each

HANDS

The hand has been spoken of as a marvel of engineering and anatomy, the human body's most outstanding structure. The hand's functions are innumerable. Hands perform a thousand separate tasks a day. A mother renders first aid to a bruised knee; a surgeon wields a scalpel; a tailor threads his needle; a laborer swings his pick; a writer pecks away at his typewriter; a musician manipulates a keyboard or the strings of his instrument. Hands are symbolic of service, of helpfulness, of accomplishment. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman was a preacher of unusual ability in Brooklyn, New York. He was called to a humble home by one of his members who was gravely ill. The minister listened to the lady's story of years of hard work as a breadwinner for a large family. Her financial support of the church had been small indeed. She whispered wistfully, "What shall I do when I stand before my Master?" Dr. Cadman noticed her workworn hands clutching at the bedcovers. He knew that her life had been spent in unselfish service for others. He replied with all the tenderness and assurance he could command, "Show Him your hands." —Author unknown

Governor Notes Start Of Holiday Season

Governor Dolph Briscoe has reminded Texans of the forthcoming holidays and urged extreme caution in driving in this potentially dangerous period.
Said the Governor, "Thanksgiving is a time to reflect our successes and to be thankful for the good things of life. It is a time for us to consider a closer relationship with our neighbors, friends and families. But, it is also a time to be mindful of the start of the busy holiday season.
"We are all going to be rushing to enter the spirit of the holidays. And, with this fast paced life style, some people are forgetful of the need to slow down and be more careful when driving.
"Traditionally, the month of December is a time when traffic deaths start to climb. But, with an increased effort, we can reduce the number of fatalities and injuries that usually occur during the most active time of the year.
"Texas is truly a land of plenty with a sound economy, fine highways and well planned cities. We have much to be thankful for, yet we still have traffic accidents that kill and injure hundreds of people.
"Therefore, I ask that each Texan accept a commitment to be cautious during this season. Let's make Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Year, the best time on Texas streets and highways," concluded Governor Briscoe.
The Governor said he would increase his awareness efforts through media to remind motorists of the hazards of holiday driving.

Turkey Fourth As Major Meal

The American consumer is buying and eating more turkey now than ever before.
"Turkey currently ranks fourth among the major meat protein sources in the American diet, and per capita consumption now stands at about nine pounds a year," said Dr. Philip Carter, director of the Division of Veterinary Medicine, Food and Drug Administration, told participants at the Turkey Industry Day recently.
Cazier, who is head of the American Dietetic Association, said that the technological advances in turkey production resulted from research, particularly the addition of medication to turkey feed. While it is easier to grow on less feed now, Carter said that producers have the responsibility of wholesome meat for consumers by following all label directions concerning use of feeds and care of equipment used in feeding.
The Turkey Day program sponsored by the turkey industry, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Agricultural Experiment Station, was chaired by Dr. Cawley, Extension specialist.

Traffic Accidents Will Increase

Traffic accidents and deaths are going to increase in the next few weeks, according to Major C. W. Bell, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety.
Traffic volumes will mount due to Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday traffic. Christmas shoppers will travel in large numbers. Both deer and quail season will be open and hunters will be out in large numbers. Football traffic will also continue to be heavy and travel to basketball games will add to highway traffic.
Increased night time driving will add to the problems of the motorist.
Speed too fast for conditions and the drinking driver continue to be the leading factors in accidents.
Major Bell said that DPS Troopers investigated 1,095 accidents involving 569 injuries and 22 deaths in November and December of 1974 in the Lubbock Region.
Major Bell also reminds the Texas motorist to recognize hazardous weather conditions as a factor in causing traffic accidents. The driver should adjust his speed to prevent a tragedy.

Can Sale-Priced Turkey, Use Later

Wise consumers can take advantage of turkey bargains by canning about half of a large bird bought on sale and freezing the other half for Thanksgiving dinner, Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist, says.
Canning the turkey is also a way to extend use of the pressure canner when vegetable canning is done.
Miss Reasonover is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.
"To prepare turkey for canning, rinse the bird thoroughly in cold water and wipe dry. Use a sharp knife to disjoint the bird; then sort into meaty and bony pieces. Set aside giblets to can separately.
"Pour enough hot water or broth over raw, meaty pieces in a pan to cover the meat. Put lid on and cook until pieces show almost no pink in the center when cut."
Cut turkey parts small enough to fit loosely into the jars. Leave one inch headspace at the top of the jar. Add one-half teaspoon salt per pint if desired, or it may be left out for people on low-salt diets.
Cover the turkey with boiling broth, again leaving one inch headspace at the top of the jar. Avoid overflowing the jar to prevent loss of liquid during processing, the specialist reminded.
"Wipe the jar rim clean. Fat left there will interfere with sealing. Place the lid with the sealing compound next to the glass. Screw the metal band tightly.
"Have two to three inches of boiling water in the pressure canner to prevent it from boiling dry during processing. Place jars in canner on rack and fasten lid securely."
Let steam escape from open petcock or weighted gauge opening for 10 minutes. Shut the petcock or put on the weighted gauge. When pressure rises to 10 pounds, start counting time. Adjust heat to keep pressure steady.
Process pint jars of turkey with bone for one hour and five minutes and quarts for one hour and 15 minutes. Process turkey without bone in pint jars for one hour and 15 minutes and quarts for one and one-half hours.
"Slide canner off the heat when time is up. Let pressure fall to zero. This takes about 30 minutes. Wait a minute or two and open petcock slowly. Unfasten cover, tilting far side up to keep steam away from the face."
Cool jars overnight, wipe clean and label.
"Canned turkey may be used in casseroles, soups and stews."

Population Faces Flu

At the height of the winter wheezing season, people begin to look around at their ailing neighbors and wonder what they can do to avoid catching influenza.
Physicians usually recommend flu vaccinations mainly for the elderly and persons with serious chronic illnesses such as heart disease, lung disease or diabetes. The best advice is to stay away from infected people. A number of people seem to get flu-like respiratory infections even after being immunized. Often vaccines taken in the middle of a flu epidemic are not effective, especially if a person has already been exposed to the virus.
Once the flu strikes, the Texas Medical Association says, patients often are encouraged to rest, drink adequate amounts of fluids and eat a light diet. Aspirin and cough syrup may ease discomfort. If fever is high or persists, a physician should be consulted since other diseases may have symptoms similar to flu.
Flu symptoms include headache, cough, sore throat, nasal discharge, fever, muscle pains and a general feeling of sickness. The most uncomfortable symptoms usually subside after a few days but the patient is likely to feel very tired and below par for a week or more.
Flu seems to strike most in winter months and often spreads rapidly through classes, schools and offices. Health officials advise flu victims to stay home until they are recovered, to protect their own well-being and to cut down on the disease's spread.
Complications of the flu are varied and include everything from pneumonia to ear infections. If any problems along with the flu, be sure to see a physician. Many complications are easily treated if their early stages by administering the proper treatment.

Pheasants Need Helping Hand From Area Farmers

Pheasant is a more colorful bird than most. It has many of the characteristics of other game birds, such as a fox face and as many as 100,000 feathers. When it comes to hunters or environmentalists, pheasants are a big attraction. Production into the ring-neck has its range and the Texas counties now have pheasant populations that can be considered moderate and well established. Most sportsmen, and may landowners, in the Texas panhandle would like to see the ring-neck pheasant expand its range and increase its numbers.

A closer look at the pheasant's habitat needs will provide the answers that will enable it to prosper throughout more of the high and south plains areas. Food and cover are the critical habitat needs. Without good food and adequate cover throughout the year, the pheasant cannot prosper.

Soil Conservation Service personnel made a survey of waste grains during the 1975 harvest season. The survey was made in eleven panhandle counties and was made up of 53 samples. Crops sampled were sunflowers, corn, grain sorghum and soybeans. Random samples were collected following harvest and calculations extended to show the average pounds per acre of waste grains available as feed for pheasants or other birds.

The survey revealed that sunflowers averaged 38 pounds of waste grain per acre, grain sorghum 89 pounds per acre, corn 113 pounds per acre and soybeans 138 pounds per acre.

Projecting these figures to the total acreages of these crops under irrigation in the Texas panhandle, shows there is ample food for game birds on the ground, immediately following harvest. To be beneficial to the gamebirds on a long term basis, these waste grains and crop residue must be left on the soil surface through the critical winter months. This can be achieved by residue management practices, such as deferring all tillage practices as long as possible or adopting minimum tillage or no-tillage practices. Chiseling or one time disking will leave most of the crop residue and waste grains on or near the soil surface and available as food and winter cover for wildlife.

Proper crop residue management provides other benefits than food and cover for wildlife. It protects the soil from wind erosion, it holds precipitation, in the form of snow, in place for absorption into the soil and it prevents crusting of soils from rains, reducing runoff and allowing better utilization of available moisture.

Corn and grain sorghum residue provide the best winter cover for wildlife in the panhandle. Sunflower residue provides the least soil protection and wildlife cover and therefore annual cool season cover crops, such as rye or winter peas, are required to provide adequate soil protection and wildlife cover.

Leaving fence rows, add areas, equipment yards, play areas and abandoned farmsteads in natural weedy vegetation during the fall and winter months provide excellent cover for non-migratory game birds, such as the pheasant or quail. In the panhandle croplands where the pheasant makes his home, there is very little natural vegetative power.

Farmers who adopt crop residue management practices that will provide the pheasant with the necessary food and cover throughout the lean winter months will be rewarded with increased pheasant populations throughout the irrigated croplands.

Weed Control Symposium Slated

Topics to be discussed include weed control in sorghum, corn, cotton, sunflowers and wheat, as well as new research developments in controlling perennial annual and perennial weeds.

The meeting is one of three area-wide symposiums sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University System and USDA-Agricultural Research Service.

Besides the Plainview meeting, another has been set for Bushland Dec. 9 at the USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center, and a third at Brownfield, Jan. 22, place to be announced.

The South Plains Development Program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is co-sponsoring the Plainview and Brownfield symposiums, while the Panhandle Economic Program is co-sponsoring the Bushland meeting. Both SPC and PEP are area economic programs geared to the economic and social improvement of South Plains and upper Panhandle citizens.

Speakers for the Plainview meeting include Dr. Allen F. Wiese, TAES weed scientist from Bushland, who will talk on watergrass control in sorghum; James C. Esty, Hale County Extension agent from Plainview, discussing sunflower and soybean weed control; and Jim Schrib, associate weed researcher for the Experiment Station at Halfway, who will speak on solving weed problems on corn.

Also, Harry Garretson of Garretson Farm Supply in Hale Center will discuss particular problems in weed control. Dr. James R. Supak, area Extension agronomist from Lubbock, will speak on controlling weeds in cotton, and Dr. Frank C. Petr, area Extension agronomist from Amarillo, is to discuss how to grow weed-free wheat.

Dr. Abernathy will round out the slate of speakers with a topic on perennial and problem weeds. A question and answer session will end the program, with responses from speakers and representatives of several herbicide companies.

Billy C. Gunter, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. John R. Abernathy, assistant professor of weed research for the Experiment Station in Lubbock, are coordinating the symposiums.

According to Abernathy, both chemical and cultural methods of controlling weeds in major crops on the high Plains are widely used. More recently, systems of limited tillage have been developed and adapted as a method of cultural control.

"Research and education relating to both chemical and cultural weed control have played major roles in the development of commercial agriculture," he adds. "They have done much to make West Texas one of the most efficient crop producing areas in the world."

"Because of these control practices, crops are produced with less hand labor than anywhere else in the United States. We want to make sure this trend continues through the use of such area meetings as this week symposium."

Everyone is urged to attend. No fees will be charged.

Brighten Yuletide at your house with a new color TV set

If you would like to do your Christmas gift shopping in practically one-stop style this year, then brighten the holidays at your house with a new, advanced color television set.

When making a selection — and here Zenith has some down-to-earth helps for you — be sure to choose a screen size that is large enough to "fit the family" — whether it numbers two or ten.

Be sure that you get a set with an all-solid state chassis. The reasons: it runs cool, lasts longer, conserves energy and so saves money.

Some color TV sets have gone even one step further. They have a combination: a solid state chassis and what is labeled a Power Sentry. This uses a magnetic voltage regulating system that produces typical energy consumption which is only 130 watts in large screen sets. It also keeps receiver performance uniform and increases reliability under varying household voltage conditions.

Look for one-button color tuning and electronic tuning with a single knob for channel selection of VHF and UHF. These keep knob twisting to a minimum, and make operation of color sets easier than earlier receivers without them. Ask the dealer to demonstrate.

Remote control is another desirable feature. Some systems have a mechanical hand control with pushbuttons. The newest provides an electronic, six-button and six-function unit that introduces a ZOOM close-up picture to home television. Ask the TV salesman to show you how it works. Then, do it yourself.

Since about one-third of industry color set sales this year are expected to be replacements, manufacturers have placed strong emphasis on console receivers and sets to meet virtually every decorative requirement. Furniture styles include: Mediterranean, Early American, Contemporary or Modern, Ultramodern, Transitional, Country English, Country French and French Provincial.

FUN FOR ALL THE FAMILY TO SHARE is a new model big screen color television set like this 25-inch diagonal receiver. Furniture-styled set, from Zenith, provides brilliant pictures, solid state dependability, one-knob electronic VHF, UHF channel selection. Cabinet top and ends of maple veneers and select hardwood solids. Decorative front, base — of matching simulated wood material.

International radio lets you turn world on

A deluxe gift item that opens the door to a big, wide world of entertainment, information, and news is an FM-AM international short wave portable radio.

With such a set, like Zenith's Trans-Oceanic with its 11 tuning ranges, the owner may listen to domestic broadcasts as well as many international broadcasts from the continents of Europe, Africa, Australia and South America, or the Asian subcontinent; play-by-plays or reports of international sports events; the overseas Voice of America; and a wealth of other programs. Reception, of course, will vary by geographic location, atmospheric conditions, and other phenomena affecting short wave reception.

Radiogood for giving

In almost the last three decades, Americans have purchased more than 870 million radios.

The favorite in this huge family of receivers is the portable.

Since the tiny transistor made smaller and more specialized radios possible, the "carry-about" has developed great appeal as a personal gift item. It may well be the answer to some of the names on your Christmas gift list.

As a basic, most portables tune the standard AM and FM broadcast bands.

In addition, other receivers, including all of Zenith's multibands, tune the 161.55 to 162.55 MHz section of the Public Service High Band (PSB-Hi). These bring the listener around-the-clock broadcasts of weather news at the touch of a button and turn of a knob if the set is within range of any of over 70 National Weather Service Stations in the U.S.

They dot our coastline all the way from Anchorage at the north, Corpus Christi to the south, Miami to the east, and Hyannis and Portland in the northeast, and our inland large-waterways. Mid-America also has a share of these VHF government weather stations.

With such a service at one's fingertips, anyone who is a weekend hiker or cyclist or other outdoor lover can benefit from forecasts of temperature, wind velocity, hazardous weather warnings, and news of various travel conditions. Even the picnicker not too far from home can be helped.

zoom, new arrival to Yule scene

All-new and a fun gift for Christmas this year is color television with a remote control that introduces a ZOOM feature.

Just pressing a button on a special hand control that comes with the TV set provides the viewer with an instant close-up. The center two-thirds of the picture is enlarged, covering the entire screen.

As a result of special circuitry developed by Zenith, the ZOOM picture is as bright and colorful to the eye as the original.

Five other buttons on the hand unit turn the set on and off, change pre-set channels higher or lower, adjust sound to four different levels, and mute sound. Each operation is silent.

Small screen gets big welcome

Small screen television sets offer the buyer a seemingly unending selection from which to choose a gift for whoever heads your Christmas list this year.

Important too — prices of the sets fit nicely into many gift budgets.

Popular color portables come in 13- and 17-inch diagonal sizes. The selection broadens in black-and-white TV to include 9-, 12-, 16- and 19-inch diagonal screens.

The little take-along 9-inch diagonal set has much to recommend it. Those from Zenith, for example, operate indoors on alternating current; outdoors on direct current — from the 12-volt electrical system of an auto or recreational vehicle; or on an optional rechargeable battery pack in areas without electricity — such as the beach or campsite.

Some portables have a stitched, padded blue denim covering; a simulated leather luggage look and belt-like handle; a base that swivels. Whatever the need, there's a set to fit it.

With a personal TV of his or their own, Junior or Dad can relax and watch football... the local ball club... golf on the tour... today's news. If Sis is the recipient of your gift, she can tune in on her favorite programs while others in the family watching a larger other program. Those are the stages of multi-set TV single household.

Kid stuff, delight at Christmas

New baby in the house? Christmas is a more special time for baby than one would expect.

Long before a child begins to walk and talk, he or she is responding to all varieties of sights and sounds, each of which is a very important learning experience.

So pull out Christmas records, pin up colorful decorations, light the tree early and gather 'round it — and let the baby of the family absorb all the joy of this wonderful season!

Children love stories, and what better time is there than Christmas for the whole family to share in some old-fashioned tale-telling?

Starting a week or so before Christmas, set up an after-dinner story hour. You might want to research the Christmas customs of different countries for an armchair holiday tour. Or select a good Christmas storybook and read a chapter a night.

Christmas magic

WITH ANY OF THESE CAMERAS you can enjoy your Christmas photos on Christmas day. What's more, you can enjoy them without bending your holiday budget out of shape because, in contrast to most everything else, you can now get more Polaroid camera for less money than ever before. All the teens are talking about the Electric Zip—and no wonder. It comes in three dynamite colors—red, white, and blue and delivers color photos in 60 seconds, black and white in 30 seconds. At an unbelievably low price—only $21.95 suggested list. Mom and dad will love the versatility of the Super Shooter, which uses six film types—only $25. Or add a timer and a case and you have the Super Shooter Plus, which has a suggested list price under $35. Christmas magic isn't just in instant photos—it's in the amazingly low cost of instant picture cameras.

WARRANTY TIP

The warranty for a new product works the same way when you receive a gift as if you bought it yourself. Mail the warranty card to the company. If service is needed within the warranty time period, contact an authorized dealer in your area.

Home-style hockey for entire family

The American family, according to a recent study, spends almost as much money on leisure activities each year as on rent or home loans. That's about $100 billion annually. During the past year, as a result of double digit inflation and spiraling fuel prices, many Americans have begun to look for leisure activities at home.

Fun at home
In part, the rising cost of living may account for the increasing popularity of such games as backgammon and chess and renewed interest in contract bridge.

Popular favorite
During the past two years another game has developed an avid coterie of fans. It's Brunswick's Air-Hockey game. Brunswick, the originator of the game, introduced a coin-operated model in 1972. It rapidly became a favorite in college unions, taverns and free-standing game parlors. Before the game was a year old, inter-state tournaments were held with the finals shown on CBS-TV. Table top model game prompted Brunswick to introduce a home el. Air-Hockey game in 1973. It inspired Products, under the name from Brunswick, to manufacture and sell a table version of the game in 1974.

The game's popularity is easy to explain. It is to learn and it offers speed and action of hockey. Players stand at each end of the table utilizing hand-held goals to defend their own goal. The puck flies at blinding speeds across the table on a cushioned forced air. A blow located underneath the table forces air through thousands of minute holes in the surface of the table creating the air cushion. As a result, the puck across the table is friction-free.

Larger versions
This year Brunswick introducing two new models of its Air-Hockey game—a 5-foot Brunswick model and a 6-foot Professional Style table.

THIS FAST-ACTION GAME, which simulates ice hockey fun for the entire family. Brunswick's popular Air-Hockey game is now available in a five-foot Bantam table model as shown. It sells for about $100. Also available in six-foot Professional Style model.

Christmas spirit spreads joy ## holiday time, it's the thought that counts as you choose those special gifts comes Santa Claus... bushy-browed and rosy! Only for another holiday of merry-making and herald him with light hearts, kind thoughts and greetings. Let's follow his example and spread cheer all around so everyone can enjoy this special time of year to the fullest.

begins the season of glowing candles, home-baked bread and family reunions. The season when streets and country light up with festive decorations and faces. Santa himself appears in Toylands everywhere and carolers fill the air with their joyous refrains. Some families make ready for visiting friends and relatives. Greeting cards are displayed, Christmas trees are decorated and colorfully trimmed, an event the whole family looks forward to. On the outside, houses are decorated with bright lights, frosted windows and garlands of holly.

Merry mood
Festive mood prevails in anticipation of the Christmas day, when gifts are exchanged and everyone gets together for the long-awaited holiday tradition is observed in countries all over the world. And for many years, Christmas, approaches the start of the Bicentennial year will give many a name for the holidays. Decorations, table settings and menus can all have an Americana flavor. The spirit of '76 can be seen in red, white and blue decorations, a festive addition to the traditional red and green at Christmas. Stars and stripes, eagle motifs and pointed hats are all the way of saying, Merry Christmas, America!

shoppers, Santa Claus is early!" Prepare your gifts well in advance. Think about every gift and know just what

Freezin' season for hip hostess
Many Christmas hostesses will get a jump on the holiday season and all the extra work that it entails by starting early to prepare and freeze their holiday dishes. Cookies, cakes and hors d'oeuvres can all be frozen in advance of Christmas so there's never any worry of being unprepared for those unexpected guests. They'll fit right in next to the Tom Turkey — ready and waiting for his pre-banquet thaw!

A word of advice: don't let all of your good intentions be ruined by last minute confusion. Be sure to mark all of your items before placing them in the freezer.

CANDLE LIGHT
To add to the Christmas spirit in your home, display decorative candles in the house.

like. Keep a notebook, and whenever you hear of a good gift idea, or see the perfect present, write it down for future reference and where to find it. It's a practical way to save steps, and sometimes money. Many times you'll find the perfect gift for someone on sale in July!

Mail in advance
It's also wise to mail greeting cards and packages early. This is an extra busy time of year for the post office, and by mailing well in advance you can be assured cards and gifts will reach their destination right on time.

To be safe, print all addresses in clear block letters. And don't forget to include the ZIP code. A letter or package without a ZIP must be individually routed, causing certain delay, especially during this busiest of all seasons.

Putting thought into gifts, and knowing just the right gift for the right person is the best way to ease the chore of holiday shopping.

Use imagination
Christmas gifting doesn't have to put a strain on the budget. The smart shopper can take advantage of early store promotions and sales to save money. With a little imagination, one can come up with many inexpensive gift ideas.

It's wise to pick up hints throughout the year as to what each person would

Right on — easier holiday cleanup

Holiday time is traditionally enjoyable, filled with warm memories of old friends and family togetherness. However, it can also be a harrowing period for those responsible for the housekeeping chores... from preparing the goodies to cleaning up the mess afterward.

Here are some tips to help make your post-holiday period as pleasurable as your holidays themselves:

• GET ORGANIZED before attempting clean-ups. Do one room at a time, starting with the kitchen and dining room and leaving the bedrooms (the least trafficked area) for last.

• CATCH SPILLS and crumbs immediately. Don't give them a chance to "set" or become ground-in.

• FOR THOSE INEVITABLY CLOGGED DRAINS, use Drain Power, the first pressurized drain opener that does not contain harmful lye or acid. Because it works in about one second, you won't have to put off doing the dishes while you wait for the clog to dissolve. And with all those youngsters around the house, you'll appreciate its safety features.

• HAVE PLENTY of those giant plastic trash bags on hand for the "wet garbage" that never seems to end this time of year.

• ONCE THE MAJOR CLEANUP IS COMPLETED, treat yourself to a vacation from housework — eat dinner out or order lunch in. Pamper yourself when the family routine returns to normal by spending a day at your own private "beauty spa," taking a warm bubble bath, doing your nails and just plain relaxing. After all, you worked hard to make this holiday a special one and now you deserve a "holiday" of your own.

FRAGRANT IDEA
Bath oil is an excellent Christmas gift for the gals on your list. Aside from its obvious use, it can be for a veil of fragrance sprinkled (springly) into a box of loose face powder.

"SCENTSIBLE"
A lovely fragrance is one of the most popular gifts of any season. Christmas is the perfect time to indulge your favorites with any number of heady delights.

standards when selecting your gifts this Christmas.

For our forefathers, there was no compromise on quality.

"Craftsman" was a title that meant much more than "king." And good old-fashioned pride saw to it that every customer got his money's worth.

So it is with our gift selections for Christmas '75... 200 years later.

Quality, craftsmanship and value still take top priority in America. Now, more so than ever.

And you'll find all that in each carefully selected item presented on the following pages.

Look them over. Pick out the rings, pendants, earrings, watches, accessories and other gifts you'd like to give your loved ones this Christmas.

Then come in and inspect them closely.

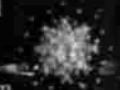

We're certain you'll find the beauty, quality and craftsmanship, and the value you're looking for...

To make this Christmas your most heartwarming ever.
