

New ElectriCar Board Includes Four Local Men

Whatley Named Firm's President

D. L. (Cotton) Whatley, the Amarillo oil salesman who developed the ElectriCar, was elected to head an 11-man board of directors named by ElectriCar Corporation at its organizational meeting here Monday night.

Stockholders named four Littlefield men to the board, along with Whatley and six other Amarillo residents.

Board members elected were Paul McCormick, J. E. Chisholm, Troy Armes and Jerome W. Kirby, all of Littlefield; and Glen Cowar, Jim Finch, Glen Mabry, Marshall York, Waylon Hanna, Bill Hill and Whatley, all of Amarillo.

In a board meeting following the stockholders session, Whatley was named president; Cowar, vice-president; Finch, secretary-treasurer; and McCormick, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Whatley, in a short talk to the stockholders, said plans were progressing on schedule for future mass production of the car.

Negotiations with other interests for the establishment of a plant and production here are expected to be under way in the next few weeks, he said.

ElectriCar is a million-dollar corporation which resulted from the merger of ElectriCar of Littlefield and Electrically Motivated Vehicle Corporation (EMV) of Amarillo some three weeks ago.

The merger completed an agreement reached in June, 1969, when EMV first signed a contract calling for Littlefield to become headquarters for the development of a vehicle its designers believe will be the first practical electric car.

Target date for mass production is early 1971, but first steps toward that goal are expected in mid-1970, when preliminary operations and training are anticipated here.

Until that time, testing and further development of the ElectriCar and a "dune buggy" jeep model are continuing in Amarillo.

At the temporary Amarillo location, Vice-President Cowar is heading the developmental program under the employ of ElectriCar Corporation.

A New Issue

ACTIVITY at the stock table was heavy Monday night as stockholders attended an organizational meeting of ElectriCar Corporation. In the center of the stock issuing proceedings are Cotton Whatley, third from right, and to his right, Jim Finch, Paul McCormick and Doyle Patton. The meeting was the first for the corporation since the merger of ElectriCar and EMV.

She is shown here with two dolls she got for Christmas. She just went overboard," Mrs. Marshall Cooper said, "and Becky got presents at Christmas for nine girls. But when a child is nine and has a gift before, it's time to make it up."

Betsy is a member of Beta Sigma Phi, a service organization for young business women. She told her Austin group about her dream and the members decided to make it come true. The Austin Sorority promptly donated 45 books to get the project off to a good start. Another 173 books have been added to this since then.

Any kind, color or denomination of stamps will be accepted. "If the people don't want to paste them in the books, we'll even do that," Marshall Cooper said. "We don't even care whether or not they are whole books. We will take loose stamps and pieces of books."

All of Girlstown is excited about the prospect of getting the airplane. "It would be the greatest thing that ever happened to us," Cooper said. "We are in the business to help kids, and in an emergency situation we need to be where they are. With a plane we could be."

Travel is expensive. During 1968, Cooper drove better than 120,000 miles on Girlstown business. Divided by 365 days that is well over 325 miles per day. "This seems rather impossible but when our support comes from contributions it is necessary to be in many places to See GIRLSTOWN, Page 10

'Cornball Cornfused'

Russ (Cornball) Blevins was "corn-fused" as to whether he should turn a vandalism report or write an open letter of thanks to those who shielded his little "bug" from the elements last weekend.

Cornball, who has long bombarded local and area newspapers with letters to the editor, recently began writing "Hominy Grits", a regular column for the Lamb County Leader-News. He has been getting a lot of ribbing from his co-workers since taking pen in hand. Then he returned home Sunday afternoon to find his car completely covered with newspapers.

He may be just a little "corn-fused" about the identity of the paper hangers, but he isn't blaming it on the work of little gremlins.

Census Bureau To Conduct Area Survey

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a sample survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of Feb. 15.

The households to be interviewed here by Mrs. Rosemary McNeese are part of a scientifically designed sample of the entire U. S. population.

The employment and unemployment statistics are collected monthly by the Census Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor to provide a continuing measurement of the economic health of the nation as a whole and of its major regions.

This monthly survey is not to be confused with the 1970 decennial census of the entire population to be taken next April 1 since that will cover all of the nation's 60 million households and will provide data for each of the 50 states and for each of their political and economic subdivisions.

As in the forthcoming April census, facts about the individual and the family collected in this survey are kept completely confidential and the results will be used only to compile statistical tables.

PAUL HARVEY

A Thaw?

IS THERE ABOUT to be a genuine thaw in the long, cold war? If you've been tuned in on Moscow, you've been hearing what certainly sounds like ice cracking up. Listen:

Way last July, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told the Supreme Soviet, "Russia favors the development of good relations with the United States".

This unqualified overture was without precedent in recent years. Gromyko's subsequent message was similarly conciliatory. He endorsed the Nixon policy of "intercourse between our two countries moving from confrontation to negotiation."

And that supreme legislative body unanimously approved his proposals for improved relations with the United States.

Then, in November, East and West cautiously approached a conference table in Helsinki, Finland, to explore possibilities of ending the arms race.

There, the United States and Russia, each capable of destroying the other, decided more and more weapons would be a senseless extravagance.

The atmosphere at these preliminary talks and at the social events coincident with them was one of unprecedented co-operation and camaraderie.

Then in late December the whole world received a Christmas present offering a first faint hope of "peace on earth" when the United States and Russia announced an agreement for substantive negotiations toward an objective of arms limitation, such talks to begin in Vienna next April 16. Significantly, Vienna was the Americans' choice. As a gesture of compromise, we agreed eventually to move the talks back to Helsinki, the Russians' choice. Preparing for the April talks we learn that East and West already have agreed on the range of subjects to be negotiated.

In previous dealings with Communists, we have been accustomed to months of debate on such insignificant procedural matters as "the shape of the conference table."

There was no such obstructionism apparent in Helsinki.

Heretofore our sometimes-negotiations with the Russians have ended with vitriolic undiplomatic denunciations of one another, or sometimes with us sulking and the Soviet ambassador standing there grinning like a cat spitting feathers.

This time there was visible elation on both sides. Our Gerard Smith and Russia's Vladimir Semenov made short speeches expressing unqualified satisfaction with progress to date.

An American official said, "I think we can do business."

A Soviet official said, "We believe that business can and will be done; we both came here with hope and this hope has been realized."

What begins in Vienna in April would have to require months, may require years, may abort. So it's too soon to celebrate any meaningful modification of Russia's historic belligerency.

But the fact that people--theirs and ours--are fed up with wars is, I think, being reflected by governments--theirs and ours.

DEAR EDITOR

What Our Readers Think

Where Was The Picture?

Mr. Bill Turner: I noted with interest your coverage of the Chamber of Commerce Banquet, held last Friday night and appeared in your Sunday paper.

Good write up about Herbert Dolle being named "Outstanding Farmer" of the year--but where was the picture of him receiving that honor and plaque--Page 6--and a picture of the back of his head!

Now we are proud of our farmer friends and think that winning the "Farmer of the Year" is just as important as "Outstanding Citizen" or any other award.

And I'm sure that a little more effort could have been made to get a front view of the "Farmer of the Year" receiving his plaque and be rated better than Page 6.

Earl S. Dow
/s/ Earl S. Dow

Dear Earl: We also were a mite unhappy with the banquet photo of the back of Herbert Dolle's head. We couldn't get the job re-done Saturday morning, so we went ahead with the photo, and because it was admittedly not up to standard, moved it over to page six. Herb couldn't make it Saturday morning, but came at our request bright and early Monday, and we took the photo that appears in today's paper. I guess you could say our public relations program needs a little attention, since we sponsored the plaque given to the Farmer of the Year, and then didn't get a picture good enough to spread it all over the front page!

What To Do?

By PEARL BRANDON

A BUNCH OF US women got to talking the other day over mid-morning coffee and the subject got around to the trials of being a woman.

One of my friends who is a little more out spoken than the rest of us said,

"It's getting to where everything you want to do is either illegal, immoral or fattening."

SHE WENT ON to say, "I felt women had a right to enjoy smoking, especially after going through all that having to hide in cellars and behind sofas and having all that water thrown on them, you know, 'You've come a long ways baby', until I read an article about lung cancer in a doctor's office the other day...and all that coughing on TV has taken the fun out of it."

MY FRIEND WAS wound up; WHAT'S A MOTHER to do?

THE PHILOSOPHER

Important Event

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reports a new discovery this week).

Dear Editor: People are always saying "history will record so and so," forgetting that history is mostly what some self-appointed historians claim it is, but nonetheless I got to speculating the other day on what history will record as the most important event in the past 10 years.

Landing on the moon? Discovering pollution? Anti-ballistic missiles? Airplanes that hold 500 people? Color television? Discovering some vaccine we haven't even heard about yet?

As outstanding as these things are, they won't compare with something I read on page 14 in a newspaper last night.

According to it, a manufacturer has perfected and is now offering for sale men's socks guaranteed to last a lifetime.

That's right. He says he guarantees they'll never wear out and if they do he'll replace them with a new pair free. He guarantees them against everything except losing them in the laundry, or having them pulled off the clothes line by a playful dog.

Now I haven't seen any of these socks and can't vouch for them but it's the idea that appeals to me.

It never had occurred to me before, but say the average man or boy wears out a dozen pairs of socks a year. With a hundred million males in this country, that's 12 hundred million pairs, or 24 hundred million socks thrown away each year. No small item of pollution in itself.

But in addition to the anti-pollution side effects, it's a giant stride in the right direction. In this modern society of ours things don't last long enough. Everything wears out too soon.

Think of the huge amounts of money the world can save if some day not only socks can be handed down from father to son but also shirts, suits, automobile tires, guided missiles, paved highways, television tubes, water faucets, hydrogen bombs and all those other things man is always tinkering with and producing new models of, when any of them ought to last forever.
Yours faithfully,
J. A.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

A Gracious Garb

THE GREATER THE POPULATION, the greater the need for the people to clothe themselves in the garb of graciousness. This is a quality of life which can mean much, about as much as any other one, in the improvement of human relationships.

All areas of human associations will be happier and more rewarding when the persons involved are gracious. We are being gracious when we are merciful, kind, courteous and pleasantly helpful.

FRICIONS ARE MINIMIZED, and often completely eliminated, when graciousness rules our actions and our reactions.

In the business world, the gracious garb has an inestimable value in dollars and cents.

In the family, it is a must for a happy home life. In general social life, it is the keystone of success.

THE STRAIN AND STRESS of present-day living can be greatly mollified by graciousness.

Most folk recognize its value for special situations and special occasions, but are slow, too slow, to give it the proper place in the ordinary experiences of daily living.

Graciousness is not a cure-all, but it is too valuable to be discarded.

GRACIOUSNESS CAN BE ACQUIRED.

It is a personality trait which is rewarding beyond all expectations, to those who cultivate it and use it.

Of course, all persons who touch the lives of those who wear the gracious garb will be blessed, too.

"The growth of grace is like the polishing of metals. There is first an opaque surface; by and by you see a spark darting out, then a strong light; till at length it sends back a perfect image of the sun that shines upon it." --Payson.

GRACIOUSNESS IS NOT WEAKNESS.

Since there are people who have no regard for truth, or right, or law, or order--people who are gracious; there is an inclination to assume that all people are ungracious. This inclination is justified.

Graciousness can cope with graciousness more effectively. Graciousness can cope with graciousness.

GRACIOUSNESS is a characteristic. It even has the ability to overcome ungraciousness. We can be gracious when forced to be firm in the various forms of perverseness.

Graciousness is effective. Offensive and defensive personality.

GRACIOUSNESS is the mark of courage. The bully is rude in behavior; but the courageous are gracious.

The truly courageous are not tactless, hasty, rash or impulsive, but are courteous, affable, and sympathetic.

The courageous are gracious.

GRACIOUSNESS is intelligence. It is one of the most remarkable revelations of the realm of intelligence.

It is the natural fruit of a fully developed self-confidence, abiding sense of personal responsibility, and an over-all wholesome concept.

A HEALTHY SOCIAL condition in which the best of human civilization and acceptance will be demanded gracious thought and action.

Whatever we can do, and anything we can do to support and assist the priceless quality of graciousness must be done.

DONNING THE GRACIOUS clothing ourselves in life, self-appreciation and spread acceptability by our men.

GRACIOUSNESS makes life for us, and for all persons whose lives may be touched by us.

HOLD IT GEORGE! There's a columnist on the loose, threatening my "rut". In fact, he's got me as nervous as a bucket of worms, on a fishin' trip!

Mr. Paul Harvey, that is.--He's advocating that "Sam" send us "Ol Junkers" to war, and leave the kids at home to propagate the race. Personally, I think he's nuttier than a squirrel-house!

Fact is, I'm not sure that we've not sheltered and pampered this younger generation too much, already. (Besides, THEY'VE got the PILL!)

MY GENERATION was orphaned in World War I, fought World War 2, and is busy dodging World War 3, as if that isn't enough (in between-times) we've raised up one of the most pampered generations that our country has ever seen.

Now, Mr. Harvey wants to send us off to this "Police Action" to finish us off! This, to insure and guarantee peace for all generations to come. As if to say, that if we could just get rid of this present older generation, everything would be lovely! Believe me, I'm tired of people "apologizing" to the world because of my being born!--We're being undersold!

WHEN I WAS a kid, I'd have given my left ear lobe for a bicycle. As my kids came along, that was the first thing I bought them, (at a sacrifice, too!) Were they overjoyed with it? No! The thing just laid around in the yard, and rusted and rotted away! (We don't appreciate the things that come too easily.)

Now if these young'uns want peace, let 'em help earn it.--Then maybe they'll appreciate it, and help preserve it. There is no LASTING PEACE. There's always been war, and no prophecy of it ending as long as the world stands.

THE ONLY WAY the world will ever attain true peace is by following the formula given by the PRINCE OF PEACE! (and it shows no indication of doing that!)

The other alternative is peace by force. This would make it necessary for one great power to rise up and rule the entire world. That way we could all live together and hate each other, but we'd be afraid to fight, for fear of "liquidation."

OH WELL, I may volunteer, right after Mr. Harvey, and if HE DOES, then I just might volunteer right after Senator J. William Fulbright!

(No, I don't advocate war, nor think it's right.--But we'd as well face reality.)

War is a part of history, both past, present and, probably, the future.

Each generation has to learn for itself. War solves very few problems, but, rather, multiplies them. But, since force is the only language that the Godless understands, it seems we're compelled to play the game.--and if not in Vietnam, where is the next arena??

Coins Are Up For Bid At Local Coin Center

The Littlefield Coin Center, located next door south of Anthony's on Phelps Avenue, was opened for business the first of this year by Charles Barrett. Coin fanciers and collectors can buy, sell, and get their coins appraised here.

One of the main features of the Littlefield Coin Center is the gigantic bid board. Anyone with duplicate or extra coins can bring them here. Bids are posted throughout the week, closing at 7:30 p.m. on Mondays.

Those coming in are issued a number and can write in their bid on the card containing the coin that is for sale. Owners can bid to protect their coins.

A 10 per cent charge for up to $20 and five per cent over $20 is paid for this service.

Ten cents is charged if the item doesn't sell.

Collections are locked in a safe or put in the bank every night, with nothing left in the store.

The Littlefield Coin Center is headquarters for coin collectors' supplies. Reference books, coin books, holders and folders are available here. There are mint and proof sets, also.

Charles Barrett has been collecting coins for six years and has been a hip pocket dealer for about three years. He was instrumental in organizing and the first president of the Lamb County Coin Club which now boasts of over 50 members.

The group meets every fourth Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room of the Southwestern Public Service Building. The spring coin show will be planned at the February meeting. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Anyone with an accumulation of coins is invited to bring their coins to 321 Phelps for appraisals or put them on the bid board. Or if you need a certain coin, Littlefield Coin Center may have just what you need.

General Telephone Plans Construction

Seventy-five million dollars have been budgeted by General Telephone Company of the Southwest for construction during 1970 in the company's five state area of operations, according to L. Gray Beck, president.

It is the biggest construction budget in the company's history and is a 20 per cent increase over actual construction costs in 1969.

The largest single budget item is for central office equipment and totals $27 million.

This amount will permit replacing equipment in 14 central offices and adding equipment to 84 others; seven major carrier projects using a transmission technique which improves fidelity, efficiency, and economy over conventional transmission methods; adding 47 smaller carrier systems; and General Telephone customers in 56 exchanges to dial their own long distance calls.

Eight other central office projects will enlarge the calling scope of customers, while facilities will be added to six locations where wide calling scopes already exist.

Other plans of major significance in 1970 include continuation of the company's program to eliminate eight party rural service and provide one and two party service to all urban customers as rapidly as economically feasible.

During this year, 24 projects are scheduled which will replace eight party rural service with four party service and in 17 towns one or two party service will be provided for all customers.

Students Work On UIL Competition

The University Interscholastic League competition has come up for grabs again. Many students have taken interest in this annual competition, but there is still time for more entries.

Fields of competition are: Debate, Informative Speaking, Persuasive Speaking, Poetry Interpretation, Prose Reading, One-Act Play, Ready Writing, Science, Shorthand, Spelling, and Plain Writing and Typewriting.

Much time, work and concentration is involved in UIL competition. But the satisfaction of competing against students from other schools in the district, makes up for the sweat that one has spent.

Competing in any UIL field of interest is an experience never to be forgotten. It not only benefits the individual, it also benefits his school. UIL strengthens the individual's character. It helps students to work better under pressure, and to work together toward one profitable goal. Even if one does not win in his area of competition, he has evaluated his work and others. He knows his errors and errors of others. Consequently, by these errors one can learn and gain experience.

One learns by participating and by observing. The University Interscholastic League competition can give one this opportunity.

All that UIL comes down to is communication. If one can attain a skill that will reach and convince others, he has met success.

Any student in Littlefield High School, who is under 19, is eligible to enter in any area of competition. Mrs. Elizabeth Ayres sponsors the UIL activities having to do with speech.

For Science you may contact Mr. Maylon Smith or Mrs. Charlene Reast. For Shorthand and Typewriting you may contact Miss Kraushar and for Ready Writing, you may contact Mrs. Marti Toulmin.

The district meet will be held April 10-11. Students have already practiced for the district competition. LHS students have traveled to Hereford and Dimmitt for Forensics tournaments.

The sooner one decides what he will compete in, the more time he has to prepare himself.

RUAN RICHARDSON, winner of the Betty Crocker Homemaker award, prepares one of her delicious dishes.

Ruan Ranks In Homemaking

Ruan Richardson, an LHS senior, won the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award for 1970. Ruan competed with several other girls about two months ago by taking a test.

She received a charm in the shape of a heart with a fireplace in the center. She will be formally recognized at the Honor Assembly in May.

Ruan stated she loves to cook, especially new foods and desserts. She also enjoys sewing by hand rather than with a machine.

Her homemaking career began her freshman year. Between her junior and senior year, she worked on a project. This year her project was Homemaking II.

When asked if she enjoyed homemaking, Ruan stated, "It helps me prepare for life. It teaches them the basic things they need to know. Most girls never cook at home and making them have to learn to cook."

The result of Ruan's scores will be compared to test scores from girls in Texas, then the whole state to determine who wins at national levels. The girls who win state and national receive a scholarship.

The test has more to do with family relationships, sewing and cooking, and is balanced with all phases of a home, cooking, care, budget, etc.

The Physical Education Department offers three years of P. E. and a half year of health. Physical education tries to help the individual develop strength, sportsmanship and knowledge of sports, both as a team and as an individual.

Physical Education seeks to help the individual live effectively by contributing to his total development mentally, morally and socially, as well as physically.

A balanced program of physical education consists of organized class instruction to include specially adapted and corrective exercises, intramural activities and interschool athletics.

In boys' physical education, there are 35 students. Coach Jim Jeffries teaches his boys touch football, volleyball, basketball, soccer, softball, badminton, tennis, weight lifting, tumbling, relays and coordinating drills.

Coach Jeffries grades his class on their participation and attendance.

Discipline, participation and interest are the only things required in his classes.

Coach Jeffries majored in physical education and has taught this subject for 10 years.

There are 46 girls taking physical education under Mrs. Marti Toulmin.

Mrs. Toulmin's methods of teaching P. E. include conditioning exercises as well as sport activities which encourage students toward good sportsmanship and better skills.

In her curriculum she includes tumbling, exercise to music, sports such as basketball, volleyball, softball and some individual sports.

The students are graded on their class participation, how often they suit out and physical fitness tests.

Mrs. Toulmin gives the President's Physical Fitness Test twice a year. At the first of the year it shows her how physically fit the girls are and in the spring it gives her an idea of their improvement and how strong her program is.

Her classes are required to suit out each day and to participate in the conditioning exercises and activities.

Mrs. Toulmin has her bachelor's degree from East Texas State University in physical education.

THE WAY IT IS

By JIM McCARY

There is a sign in our gym that reads, "No Drinks in Gym." Many people might feel that drinks should be allowed in the gym. For the people who would not abuse the right to drink Cokes in the gym, it is unfair.

If Cokes were allowed to be drunk in the gym, trouble would surely start. Someone sitting in the stands would think it a fine idea to start throwing ice or empty cups. Before long, everyone would be throwing cups or ice. Our stands and our gym would start looking like a mess.

You might not think that this would happen, but it would. If you have ever visited another school's gym during a basketball game where drinks were allowed in the gym, you would see this happening. A person who is trying to enjoy the game could not because of flying cups and ice.

Most people come to a ball game to enjoy watching their team play. It is really annoying for someone to be hit with a piece of ice or a cup. I imagine there would be quite a few fights because of thrown things.

Things like this really run down your school and make the whole student body look bad because of a few. The next time you have to drink a Coke outside of the gym try to remember that it is probably for the best.

Variety Of Valentines Selling For Cupid Day

It's cupid time! Members of the Student Council are going to give cupid a little help this year.

Once again, as in Valentine days in the past, the Student Council will make and sell valentines. These valentines will be in three different varieties. They will be singing, funny and serious valentines.

The funny valentines are for the type of people who are in love, but can see humor in ANY situation. The serious ones are for people who think they are caught up in a sincere, feverish romance. Singing Valentines will be delivered by members of the Student Council to students during classes.

These committees were chosen to make the valentines. The committee for the singing valentines is lead by Diane Manner, chairman, Dianne Perkins, L. D. Holt and Randy Parkman. Members of the funny valentine committee are Donarex Bowen, chairman, Nina Manley, Jan Christian, Dave Jordan, Kerry Nichols and Martha Brown. The serious valentine committee is made up of Steve Owens, chairman, Kim Hill, Wendell Horn and Carolyn Lumsden.

The student Council will begin selling valentines Feb. 12 and 13. The valentines will be sold before school and during the lunch hour. There will be a display table with the various valentines to be sold, set up in the hall.

ANYONE FOR a singing Valentine? Kathie McBride, Diane Manner, and Dianne Perkins, help boost the sale of Valentines today and Friday.

St. Valentine's Day Isn't St. Valentine's

By NINA MANLEY

If you have glanced across card counters lately, you have probably seen all types of valentines--from the gushy mushy romantic "oceans of love with a kiss on every wave", to slightly unconcerned "Roses are red, violets are blue. Only a nut like me would fall for a nut like you."

Have you noticed the unusually large amounts of candy in beautiful, heart-shaped boxes that have been flooding the stores lately? Who ever started giving candy on Valentine's Day, and why? Everyone knows boys do not like girls with acne, and every delicious chocolate nugget may bring up one or two extra ugly bumps. Besides the complexion problems valentine candy presents, remember all the calories that are packed into each piece.

These days, when it's fashionable to be slender to the point of being downright skinny, calorie filled candy just cannot cut it. I am certain that most boys would agree that money spent on valentine candy could easily be put to an entirely different use. Most girls would agree that it could easily be spent in a different way on them.

Saint Valentine was a Christian martyr of the reign of the emperor Claudius (if you have ever heard of him) about 270 B. C. His festival was observed on Feb. 14. The custom of sending valentines had its origin in a heathen practice connected with the worship of Juno around the same date. Its association with the saint is wholly accidental; so if your sweetheart forgets you this Valentine's Day, be consoled by the knowledge that the whole holiday was begun by a "heathen accident" anyway!

LOTS OF TRIM
 Spring clothes use lots of trim. They include border trims, embroidery, fringe, quilting and appliques. Ruffles edge necks, sleeves and hemlines. Still around, but not so noisily, are chains and chunky jewelry trims.

Freedom's Challenge
 With every privilege comes a responsibility. Our privilege of freedom carries with it the responsibility to defend it any time it is challenged.

With anti-American movements and protests publicized around the world, it seems that there is little willingness to assume the responsibility to defend freedom. I believe however, that the majority of young people, at least the ones I know, do have a deep love and devotion for our country. We are patriotic! The news media does not publicize our patriotism because we do not go to such extremes to show our feelings.

Some basic ideals have come to me from my analysis of my American heritage. The first one is the importance of the individual. No two people are alike; every person has his own distinct creative powers. Our nation began with individuals who had creative ideas for a better way of life. Individual freedoms are being challenged with every restrictive law that Congress passes. My own feelings about this are expressed in Woodrow Wilson's words: "The history of liberty is a history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it. When we resist concentration of power, we are resisting the processes of death, because concentration of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties." American enthusiasm and love for country, plus understanding and cooperation among individuals, will assure continuing democracy and justice.

The second ideal from my American heritage is the principle of profit. This principle can be carried out only in a society such as ours - with free enterprise. It is natural for man to work for something that will bring him profit. This principle does not include only material things, but moral values, too. For example, if it were not for my desire for increased opportunities, and a chance to help make this old world a little better place in which to live, I would not spend years of my life on education.

The third ideal is the dignity of work. Today, hands are opened and out-stretched to government, lips are saying "Give me". There would be less of this if everyone desired the self respect which comes from honest work, and considered the government a protector, and not a provider. However, it is evident that Americans do esteem work. With less than seven percent of the world's population, we produce fifty percent of the world's goods.

I think that when I finish my education and I am responsible for myself, knowing the justice of my country, and all that it stands for, I will be ready to meet freedom's challenge as a follower, or maybe even a leader.

make the necessary contacts," Cooper said. For an example he spoke at a Founders Day banquet in Amarillo one evening, a Lions Club luncheon in Huntsville the next day at noon and a Rotary Club ladies night in Corpus that same night. Recently Cooper made a television show in Amarillo at 10 a.m., a talk to a Rotary Club in Canadian at noon and a Woman's Club Dinner in Dallas at 7 p.m.

Sometimes Cooper rents a plane out of Levelland. At times Gary Stacy, a Girlstown director, flies Cooper where he needs to go when girls are in a bad situation. "They recently made a trip down state to get three girls who were literally starving to death. "They couldn't believe there was a place where people ate three meals a day," Cooper said. "Many times a plane is a real salvation," Cooper said. "I've been driving 100,000 miles a year. With a plane I can cover more territory and stay at Girlstown and work with the girls more, too. The girls remain our reason for Girlstown. If I could cut down on my time away from the home perhaps our success with the girls would be even greater.

Girlstown provides an atmosphere of family living for girls who can't remain in their own family. Some of these girls have been abandoned by their family. Others were severely abused physically, emotionally and sexually. A few girls are just not able to communicate with their family because of various reasons: divorces, alcoholism, mental illness or severe attitudes of parents.

A thumb nail history of a few follows: Gloria spent the first three years of her life locked in a closet. Let out only to be fed and cleaned, she had no more love or training than one would give a pet they were not particularly fond of....

Lee was molested by her step father. She told her mother of this horrifying experience and the mother became so violent she beat Lee into a state near death. The mother became frightened and left the girl to die. Fortunately, someone found the 11-year-old and took her to a hospital....

Becky came to Girlstown at age nine. She had never eaten at a table, her feet were deformed because of malnutrition and she was starved for love and affection....

Marsha was sixteen. Her father was a very influential man, her mother was a leader in the community (city council president at one time). Marsha felt she was unloved, unwanted and misunderstood. She ran away from home to find a place to be understood. The police picked her up with some local characters and discovered some narcotics in Marsha's coat pocket. She would have been convicted of a felony had we not been able to persuade the judge to let us work with her. It was not an easy chore we asked for. During the first week she honestly attempted suicide three times. After we finally convinced her we did care, she made a tremendous adjustment, graduated from high school, married a fine young man and is today a successful mother and wife.

Every girl has a background which is similar to these. The Austin girl the paper called Sunshine is typical of many of our girls. She was neglected at home, ran away, found undesirable companions and was arrested. Cooper is certain the reporter "played up" the role she played as a street people. The doctor gave no indication she had been promiscuous or taken dope. She is making an excellent adjustment at Girlstown. A 12-year-old needs love, acceptance and discipline to find their role in life.

All of the girls are referred to Girlstown by Court workers, ministers, teachers, doctors, lawyers or parents. Each girl is interviewed individually, no matter where she lives, to determine whether she needs to be in the home at Whiteface.

IN 6B COMPETITION

Anton Loses District B

Anton took a lead over Three Way at the beginning of the third quarter, and the two teams saw the winning edge to and fro for the final eight minutes with Three Way pulling out a 63-58 title playoff win.

Tied for the league record with 13-1 each, the two teams battled valiantly in the Texan Dome at South Plains College Tuesday night for the right to represent the district.

Three Way jumped off to a four-point lead and led 12-9 at the end of the first quarter. With a hotter shooting percentage than Anton, the Eagles gained an eight point lead going into the third frame.

The Anton Bulldogs took the cold water in the face and turned it into steam and trailed by only one point going into the final frame. Coming up from 28 percent from the floor in the first period, the Bulldogs fogged it to a hefty 51 percentage in the second and slipped past Three Way for the first of three leads before the axe fell.

With 3:52 on the clock and a one-point lead, Anton stalled the ball for a full minute, playing for a foul.

An Eagle hacked, and Anton's Darrell Hill got a one and one. The free throw failed and Three Way's Mike Roberts bucketed a field goal to put the Eagles out front again, with 2:18 left.

The over-anxious Bulldogs committed a series of errors beginning with a time violation, calling for a jump ball.

Three Way Eagles swooped down and made it count when a Bulldog stepped across the line when throwing the ball in, on a walking call and an Anton foul.

With time running out, Anton fell behind three points, then four points and the Eagles closed their talons on a five-point lead.

Three Way's Mike Lynsky had high point honors with 19 for the night.

James Turnbow garnered 17 points for Anton, Darrell Hill connected on 16 and Troy Tidwell, Anton's only senior, collected 12 in his final game.

Jim Rich's Bulldogs close their season with a 20-3 season record and 13-2 in loop play. With five returning starters, next year's District 6-B winner is predictable.

Tanners Tour Beef-Hog Plants

Twelve of the nation's leading tanners will join West Texas businessmen Feb. 11-13 for a tour of packing plants, cattle feeding operations and other points of interest in the Panhandle area.

The 12 presidents will be escorted on tours by staffers of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, specialists and chamber of commerce leaders from throughout West Texas on the three-day auto, bus and plane tour.

Leading the tanners group will be Dr. Irving Glass of New York, president of the Tanners' Council of America.

Glass appeared at the 1969 annual convention of the WTCC and stimulated interest in the development of the tanning industry in Texas.

Immediately thereafter plans were initiated to bring the tanners on a tour of the region.

First stop on the tour will be in Amarillo where the tanners will be entertained by the Amarillo chamber of commerce and hear specialists discuss natural resources, the development of the cattle feeding industry and other phases of the economic climate in West Texas.

From Amarillo the group will go to Friona for an inspection of the Missouri Beef Packing Plant and on to Hereford for lunch and a fly-over of the extensive feeding yards in that area.

The group will land at the Lubbock airport at 5 p.m. and be honor guests at the Lubbock Country Club Thursday evening.

Following the dinner Governor Preston Smith will speak to the group and a panel of experts will outline various phases of the advantages of the Plains area to the establishment of tanneries.

Following a breakfast on Friday morning the tanners will be taken on a tour of the Texas Tech research and teaching facilities and will then be taken on a tour of the Jimmy Dean Packing Plant at Plainview.

The three-day tour is designed to give an over-all picture of the cattle-feeding, as well as the hog-feeding operations in the Plains area. Many of the tanners are interested in specific types of hides for special purpose tanning and will be given an opportunity to inspect the manner in which the hides are handled prior to their purchase from the packing plants.

Study Slated

The Heavy Equipment Training Division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service will conduct a 32-hour extension course in heavy equipment maintenance and safety for Littlefield city employees, starting Monday, Feb. 16.

Chief instructor Al Jones of T.E.S., a part of Texas A&M University System, notes the objective will be to teach proper techniques of operation and upkeep to extend the life of a machine.

The City of Littlefield is sponsoring the four-day school. Jones points out instruction will be evenly split between classroom theory and practical application. Classes will be held eight hours each day.

Cost of the school is divided between the city, Texas Education Agency and state funds, Jones added.

Rep. Clayton Receives Citation

West Texas Water Institute special citations went to State Rep. Bill Clayton and to Texas Tech Prof. Herbert W. Grubb Friday, Feb. 6, as participants in the sixth annual conference of the institute were told they might find new water resources by turning "bad water into good."

The luncheon session was highlighted by the first annual awards for significant contributions in the interest of West Texas water resources and by an address by Director Frank B. Conselman of Texas Tech University's International Center for Arid and Semi-Arid Land Studies.

Clayton was cited for public service and Grubb for his work through education.

Rep. Clayton has served in the Texas Legislature continuously since 1962 and is executive director of Water, Inc.

Grubb's research in agriculture economics has illustrated that water generates more non-farm income than that directly to the agriculture sector.

He now is directing a complete input-output study of the Texas economy for the office of the governor.

Conselman reviewed the water picture of West Texas, recommending recharge of playa water and a search for deep-

Food Expenditures Vary In Families

Your family's food expenditures are different from those of your neighbors: each family differs in size, income, amount of entertaining and other factors that affect food spending. But if you want to compare yourself with others, here's a look at U. S. averages. Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips, Lamb County Home Demonstration Agent, emphasizes that this does not include the non-foods you buy at the grocery store, but it does include meals away from home.

Average family size was reported as 3.64 persons. Thus, spending by two or more persons families is about $495 per person and, of course, the person will vary by family.

Expenditures were quite as large in 1969 as they were in 1969, notes the lists. Quantity increases probably match population but price increases are likely to narrow, a further come spent for food.

Commissioners Discuss New Bill

Monday, Lamb County commissioners discussed recent legislation removing counties' exemption from suits filed for bodily injury, but did not move on insurance coverage for the county.

County bills were ordered paid and commissioners approved the monthly reports in the only action taken in the regular session.
