NOLE'S SCHOOL SYSTEM appears to have a problem similar to many schools concerning custodial service. Either they can't afford it or can't find people willing to do the hard job of cleaning up after a hundred children. So what is going to do is to have a pilot program to contract custodial service. The school board is planning to contract with an administration building and administration building contracted to a local janitorial

Why don't you have funny papers? I think we have the funniest paper around right now.

Why don't you have an "Advice to return" column, like Abby Lane? Some of our readers have any such suggestions.

Why do you have all those "ads" in the paper? They're the most entertaining part of the whole paper.

Why didn't you publish the poem I sent you? It was a lousy poem.

Why do you always say "we" when talking to yourself in the paper? We want our readers to think we're outnumbered.

Why don't you put out a bigger "ad" like the Milwaukee Journal? We plan on it as soon as the editor of Montello equals that of Milwaukee.

What would you give me for writing a column of moral homespun? I'd give you a sharp stick in the eye.

Why don't you write an editorial about those guys on the city council?

IF THERE'S ANY DOUBT that summer's arrived, you might just step outside for a few minutes. (And I thought it was hot out on the desert!)

My neighbor claims he had to turn his lawn sprinkler way down! Said all the water that got over three feet from the ground never came down!

SEEMS LIKE the "dog-days" of late summer. Even my typewriter's lazy! Wouldn't say I've slowed down any, but I've caught myself blinkin' my eyes, ONE AT A TIME!

Can hardly wait for that democratic thing to get started down in Florida. Believe me, we could use the breeze!

AND, ANOTHER THING, about as welcome as hair in the tooth-brush, is these needle-nosed mosquitos. Just step outside for a minute, and you'll look like you'd run amuck of a cactus!

KEEP WORRYIN' about the social drop-outs we ran into out west. It seems such a waste of humanity, to me.

I suppose, sooner or later, they could leave some kind of a mark on our society, but, I doubt it.

THEIR KIND ISN'T new, come to think about it. When I was a kid, livin' down in central Texas, we had the "BOES" (short for hoboes).

They were the guys that prided themselves on existin' and travelin' all over the states, without havin' to work. — Called themselves, "The Knights of the Road."

THEY WERE A PRETTY tight brotherhood. If one of them found an easy

"Mark", he'd brand your place so that others travelin' on his trail could easily find you.

They would knock on your back door and very politely ask for a handout. Usually they had a very sad story to tell you about just why it was that they'd, so unfortunately, fell into their dire circumstance.

OF COURSE, THEY WERE always "liberating" a chicken or two from your farmstead, in case they found no one at home, or helping themselves to your melons, corn, or other produce for their "sick" buddies, down at the railroad bridge.

Ask one of them to chop some stovewood, or do some other chore about the place for his meal, and usually, the unfortunate fellow had a bad case of asthma, a bad back, or acute rheumatism.

USUALLY, THEY WERE always polite, and gentlemanly. Don't reckon I ever heard of one of them drawin' state aid, or any such thing. Their pride of life was to be able to get along, solely by usin' their wits.

Still, it didn't turn out to be a way of life, followed by many of the citizenry, and likewise I suppose that the hippy-bum types will, also pass.

WE KNOW THAT modern livin' is some kind of a rat-race, alright, but likewise, we don't think the populace, at large is ready to resign from the human race. Guess there's always a certain number or drones in every bee-hive!

KEEP Littlefield beautiful, SMILE!!

EDITORIAL

Why Do We Stand When The Flag Goes By?

EDITOR'S NOTE: With July 4 upcoming, the following patriotic release is of interest. It was prepared by Reagan Brown, sociologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, after he heard a young boy ask his dad, "Why do we stand when the flag goes by?"

COLLEGE STATION — At Texas A&M University home football games, the Corps of Cadets always marches in to the music of the Aggie Band. At one of these events, recently, I heard a young boy ask his Dad, "Why do the people stand up when the flag goes by?" I didn't hear the father's answer, but I began to wonder how I would have answered him.

I think I would have begun by pointing to the live oak trees around the university drill field planted in memory of Texas A&M University students who gave their lives in World War I. After the game I would have taken him by the Memorial Student Center built in memory of over 900 Aggies, whose names are on a bronze plaque at the entrance.

They gave their lives in the world Wars and those since. I would have also pointed out other memorials on the campus, those that remind us of sacrifices in the most recent wars.

Later, when I could have a quiet time with him, I would talk about Concord's Bridge, Shenandoah Valley, Flanders Field, St. Lo, Guadalcanal, Bastogne, Korea, and Viet Nam. I would mention to him my young Aggie friend, James Ray '63 of Conroe, who has been a prisoner of North Viet Nam for more than five years. And, of course, all the other young men imprisoned over there.

I would then talk of what our flag represents, what kind of country it flies over. I would remind him that America is the land of the refugee, the land of "the huddled masses longing to be free," and a land dedicated to justice, tranquility, and the general welfare of its people.

I would tell him of the average man and woman and the hundreds who have conquered the mountains, prairies, and plains. I would discuss with him how the very lines of the maps have been marked by the blood of hundreds who plowed and planted and fought and planned, and whose offspring have purified their abundance around the world to lift others. Then I would talk of the slant eyes, black faces, Noric color, Irish enthusiasm, Italian grace, German laughter, Baptists, Catholics, Methodists, Texans, Yankees, Republicans, Democrats, and a thousand and one other tall, short, fat and thin people who call themselves Americans.

We would discuss the "land of the free", "home of the brave," the opportunity to climb the ladder of success according to ability and desire. Then we would talk of the philosophy of "how you play the game" and about "not who your Mama or Pap is," but what's your "life game plan." I would remind him how each man can worship God as he pleases, sing, whistle, dance, and cheer as his conscience dictates. Next we would discuss our responsibility to our neighbor, to our environment, to the minority, sick, lame, orphans, and those in their golden years.

Yes, as I thought about how I could answer, as I began to enumerate why we stand when the flag goes by, I caught myself standing there in the quietness of my office. The thoughts caught me up in a reverent respect and I wanted to cry out how much I love the land that has done so much for me. I thought of the nine boys in our company, Company G 272 Infantry, 69th Division, two of them black, who were killed in World War II. I thought of all the schools, jobs, homes, hospitals, and families that make our country not perfect, but far ahead of any other country in the world.

That is the reason why we stand, my boy. So we can get a good look at the red, white, and blue as it passes by, representing all of those sacrifices, all those hopes, all of those things we want for future Americans. This flag going by gives you the privilege to keep sitting, if you want to. But if you are part of the fabric of those who have made it possible for you to rise up in respect, you by your actions will trigger a standing ovation. So stand tall when the flag goes by, so it can always pass your way again.

what they can do to improve the town?
A. Why don't you go down to the next meeting and tell'em yourself?

Q. Why don't you print more letters to the editor?
A. Why don't you write me one? And sign it with your name, please — don't be chicken.

Q. Why do you devote space to such trivialities as "Joe Smith is feeling poorly this week?"
A. Because good old Joe has many pals who are concerned over his health, even if you are not. Who knows, somebody might read this item and send Joe a bottle of sympathy.

Q. Why do you run so many of the same people's names over and over and over?
A. Because so many things that happen, happen to people who don't happen to want everybody to know what happened.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

No Perfection

ABSOLUTE PERFECTION is beyond the reach of mankind, but this is nothing to cause concern. The word "perfect" has many shades of meaning such as; "complete", "proficient", "accurate", "whole", "entire", and "intact."

In a context conveying any of these ideas, "perfect" is a suitable word. In human behavior, however, there is no absolute perfection. We are not and cannot be "entirely without fault or defect."

WE CANNOT BE PERFECT, but this fact must never be used as an excuse for not being our best, and doing our best. It must not be the basis for making no effort to improve ourselves, and what we do.

It is important to us and our continuing well-being to be our best and do our best, and be always improving. We can make significant progress.

MUCH THAT IS USED TO cause disorder and turmoil among people comes from the misuse and abuse of observable imperfections. Many things have been written and said about hypocrisy, and there is hypocrisy and will be always.

Some of these charges, perhaps many of them, are not justified; because no hypocrisy was intended. Many of these instances of human failure branded hypocritical are just expected imperfections.

NO ONE IS PERFECT; however, this is not justification for choosing inferior standards and unworthy goals for one's life.

It really does not matter that absolute perfection is beyond our reach, because such perfection would make us miserable misfits in the human scene.

ALL OF US have imperfections, less than others, perhaps, but, speaking, we are all about the same. We are human, but we can and do improve ourselves and our performance.

We must do so, because this is the essentials in meaningful living.

"AIM AT PERFECTION" in every thing, though in most things it is unattainable. — However, they who aim at it, persevere, will come much nearer than those whose laziness and despondency make them give it up. — Chesterfield. This means that we continue cheerfully do our best.

IT IS CRUEL TO EXPECT perfection in others, because we expect in what we do not want them to expect. This just may be the greatest unfairness in human interaction. In some things, we do have the expectation of proficiency; in some, accuracy; and in some, completeness; but no one should expect another human being perfect.

SOME PEOPLE EXPECT perfection themselves, and this is a great error because it is an unreal expectation. These people may do very well, but still feel that they are failures. They may be wonderful people, but they are constantly condemning themselves. They may be living at the highest attainable level, but they are discouraged and discontented.

LET US NOT BE overly impatient with the imperfections in ourselves and others, but let us continue to be our best.

LAWS FAVOR UNIONS

During the past 50 years, while we have retained statutory prohibitions against excessive concentrations of management economic power, we have encouraged the exactly opposite condition in our evolving union legislation — namely, constantly growing economic monopoly in collective bargaining. — Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney.

Alcoholic Anonymous To Hold Open House

Littlefield's unit of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) is holding open house in its new location Saturday night at 8:30.

Littlefield AA members have been working about six weeks remodeling the former old Blair Laundry on XIT behind Mitchell Ford.

The ceiling was lowered, the walls paneled and floors carpeted.

Alcoholic Anonymous is an association of persons who have a drinking problem. Alanon is the AA's auxiliary for non-drinking family members. Littlefield has had an AA for about 10 years. At times membership has dwindled to three or four; presently approximately 15 attend the AA meetings on Wednesday nights and approximately 25 regularly attend the joint AA and Alanon meetings on Saturday night.
