Dear Editor:

This letter is to let you know a little about our theater group in El Paso, Teatro del Pueblo, Bilingual Repertory Company. We have been in existence over a year. Our theater group is a repertory company consisting of twentyone full-time members, all have specific tasks assigned, but each one is trained to do the work of any of the other mem bers. We do our own scenery, lights, sound, props, etc.

We have performed at the Upstairs Theatre Downtown and the Chamizal National Memorial Theatre, where we hold our regular season, in El Paso. We performed at the Community Center for Theatre and the Arts, N.M. where some of our members sponsor a dramatic workshop on Saturdays. We have also performed at the Museo de Arte e Historia and the Benito Juarez Theater in Juarez, Chih., Mexico.

We recently attended a theater con ference in Washington, D. C., driving both ways and paying for the trip our selves.

The company will perform on request, any of the plays, one-act sketches, or sainetes from its repertory. We have always performed free of charge, just asking for donations for costumes, scenery, and so forth.

This year, our second season, consists of five plays; "Nacida Ayer" Jan. 30 and Feb. 1, a translation of Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday", "Los Cuervos Estan

For many people, the holiday season is directly followed by the "January Blues"- when they're trying to lose those excess pounds gained during the holidays.

Cutting down on calories, not valuable nutrients, is the important thing to remember when reducing.

The four sources of calories in a daily diet are fats, carbohydrates, protein and alcohol. But in addition to supplying calories, fat, carbohydrates and protein also perform specific body functions. For that reason, they shouldn't be completely eliminated from the diet.

Avoid high-calorie foods such as concentrated sweets or fats that supply few other nutrients.

Enriched whole-grain breads, cereals, vegetables and fruits generally supply generous amounts of vitamins and minerals along with the carbohydrates. But it's what goes on these foods that adds excess empty calories- such as butter, margarine, jellies, jams.

LIVING MUST BE a miserable experience for persons who are tender, and brittle, and soft, and easily hurt and upset; because they have such a difficult time trying to cope with the rough realities. They either feel hurt, and discouraged, and defeated; or they react with negativism and some degree of antagonism.

Such reactions are extremely selfdefeating, and, sooner or later, bring on more difficulties. There is a better way available to us; to all of us,

"TOUGHNESS" IS DEMANDED by the realities of life. This is not the "toughness" of rowdyism, or of lawlessness, or of rebelliousness; but is the life that is "strong and firm in texture, but flexible and not brittle" We have the capacity and the potential for such desirable "toughness".

In developing and maintaining this quality of life, it is not necessary to sacrifice any desirable character or personality traits. The truth is that the approved "toughness" requires all of these characterisitcs.

WE CAN BE TOUGH and still be kind, and understanding, and wholesomely tolerant and sympathetic. Nothing that is generally considered desirable need be lost. The approved "toughness" does not even reject the important elements of meekness and humility. Strange as it may seem to some, meekness and humility are two of the strongest and toughest characteristics; and are necessary in helping us to cope with life.

Farmer Facing Tremendous Risk

THE AMERICAN FARMER, now competing in the tenuous world market, faces the highest production cost and risk of loss in history, a West Texas State University agriculture professor and the local county agent said last week

Dr. Kenneth Wendland, agriculture economics professor, said the potential in 1975 is great that the farmer will either make good profits or suffer disaster.

"The farmer is in the most risky position he has been in for quite a number of years- and maybe even in history," Wendland said.

FACTORS WHICH affect the farmer are now world-wide factors as the farmer begins competing for world markets, County Agent John Brazzil said.

When farmers competed only a national scale- and that time has just passed into history- it was not a dif ficult thing to plan a year's operation using domestic indicators such as fuel costs, production costs and potential for crop marketing, Brazzil said. But, as the farmer begins to compete on the world market, new and unstable factors are thrown into the picture which makes infinitely more difficult the ability of the farmer to predict the need for his crop.

PART OF THE instability in the world market is directly attributable to the Arab stance on oil, he said, a stance

NIPP INFANT

Scottie Wayne Nipp, 9-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Nipp, former Littlefield residents, died at 8:20 a.m. Monday in Lubbock State School.

Graveside rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon in Littlefield Cemetery with Rev. Ronnie Williams, pastor of the Missionary Baptist Church, officiating. Hammons Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Survivors include the parents; a brother, Timothy of the home; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nipp of Slaton and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mannick of Willimantic, Conn.; and a greatgrandmother, Mrs. Lillian Littleton of Rockport.

difficult to predict and impossible to control

Wendland said the farmer faces the three traditional risk factors as he begins planning for 1975- production, costs and prices to be paid for agricultural products.

PRODUCTION COST, he predicted, will not decrease and could increase substantially this year.

Costs for the coming year, for example, are projected to increase by between 10 and 20 per cent.

"In looking at the farmer's side it can be seen that his cost will not be any less than in 1974, and may even be greater," he said.

THE PRICE the farmer can expect to receive for his product is another great factor in the risk he must take. While the past two years, due to world outlets, have seen rising prices, the farmer should be wary of anticipating continued increases.

"The farmer must measure carefully what his production returns are, and do everything possible to lessen the risk of price products," he said. "It has happened before and can happen again that bumper crops will be produced around the world. When this happens everyone can see where the farmer will be."

Wendland said the farmer must, of necessity, become a better manager.

"Banks are lending twice as much money as they were three years ago to serve the same number of farmers and the same number of acres," he said. "Because the farmer is borrowing more money, his management must be better to reduce the risk of losing all he has."

THERE ARE SEVERAL ways the farmer can improve his risk position, though, the professor said.

He, can, for example, use reserves such as cash reserves, advance payment and maintain reserve borrowing power.

DIVERSIFICATION is also a hedge against risk, a hedge which helps avoid the affects of foul weather and increases in production costs.

"Don't put everything in one crop or have everything come due at one time, he said, "But, don't add additional enterprises that will not add to returns adequately enough to compensate for added risk."

Some other points to remember when dieting are:

-Trim the visible fat from your meat, or select lightweight beef, poultry or lean fish since these meats are lower in fat

-Don't cut out milk, but drink fortified low-fat or fortified skim milk for fewer calories with the same valuable nutrients whole milk has,

-Just eat a little less, resist second helpings and don't expect overnight results.

Allocation Orders Continue

All fuel allocation orders issued by the Dallas office of the Federal Energy Administration are effective until expiration of the program and do not expire Dec. 31, 1974, unless otherwise stated, according to Delbert M. Fowler of Dallas, regional administrator for the Federal Energy Administration.

Fowler said the FEA office in Dallas has had a number of inquiries from representatives of petroleum firms who had the misconception that all allocation orders expired at the end of the current calendar year.

"This is absolutely not true," declared Fowler. "Any orders we have made from this office remain in effect until the end of the program or until some of ficial change is made in writing from this office," he added.

Allocations are made for each month, explained Fowler, noting that the allocation for any given month remains the same unless an official change is made by the Dallas office of FEA or until the program expires.

"For instance, the January 1975 allocation will remain the same as for January 1974, unless some official change is made.
