

Myers sentenced to 25 years for murder of baby

NILAH RODGERS
Twenty-four-year old Terrel Earl Myers was found guilty as charged of the murder of 7½-month-old Jimmy Myers and sentenced to 25 years in the prison in district court here late Monday after two days of testimony before District Judge Pat Boone Jr. Judge Boone heard the case after the defendant entered a plea of guilty and waived his right to a trial by jury. The defendant sat impassively throughout two days of testimony, and showed no emotion as he stood for the verdict. The infant was pronounced dead on arrival at the Littlefield Hospital on August 9 of last year after police received an emergency call from the residence of Dr. I. T. Shotwell at 217 E. 12th in Littlefield.

Terry Myers confessed to murdering the infant the following day when he turned himself in to city police. Bond was set at $50,000 and Myers has remained in the Lamb County jail since he was charged.

In the closing arguments, prosecuting attorney Jack Young said the helpless baby's death was caused by a trauma of such nature that the autopsy showed the liver of the child was split and ribs were fractured.

"I submit that in all reasonableness something had to have caused that injury, and this court has heard of prior incidents between the defendant Terry Earl Myers and this dead baby boy that showed treatment at the hands of the defendant of such nature that is evident there was malice on the part of Myers toward the child. We've heard of the way he squeezed the baby, jerked him up by his legs, threw him up in the air, dropped him, held him under water. All these people have testified to things they saw him do. And what reason did the defendant give? He said he was toughening him up. He wanted to toughen up a 7-month-old baby.

"A baby that was normal on the evening of the party, but as the party progressed, that baby wasn't normal at all.

"I wouldn't be proud at all of what went on in that house. I couldn't be proud at all of a group that got together to take controlled substances, which is a criminal act itself. And witnesses said they drank and smoked pot.

"We don't pick our witnesses. We take them where we find them and we don't find this kind in Sunday school class.

"When a party ends up with this kind of result, we seldom find Sunday school teachers and students. It's hard to believe things like this went on in Dr. Shotwell's house. But does that mean we can't believe these witnesses?"

"When you weigh in proper perspective five individuals' testimonies against the autopsy statement, there is reason to believe that somebody at that party placed enough trauma on that baby to cause death, and that that somebody was Terrel Earl Myers.

There is reasonable evidence to believe that the sound Kenneth Tomes described was the striking of a hand against the body of that child. It is reasonable since previously the defendant testified that he "spanked" the baby with a closed fist. Kenneth told you he saw the defendant pitch the child on the floor and cover him with the child's carrier.

"From time to time we have a crime so heinous it is hard to believe it occurred. It is hard for me or anybody else to accept that anybody would kill a baby. Yet the facts are inescapable. See MURDER, Page 2

Million-dollar rains bring farmers' smiles

One of those multi-million dollar rains swept into Lamb County late Saturday night, and after heavy showers most of Sunday night and Monday morning, area farmers could be seen with smiles of relief on previously worried faces.

The area west of Littlefield around Fieldton and Spade seemed to get the most out of the slow, steady showers. The Spade Gin reported about two inches from Saturday night until presstime Tuesday afternoon. Some of the farmers around Spade counted almost three inches of moisture in their gauges.

The Fieldton Butane office claimed 2.8 inches of rain, and an employee there said most of the farmers in the vicinity had reported an average of 2.6 inches.

Littlefield was slowed down by sporadic showers all day Sunday and Monday and the town received about two inches of welcome rain. Dwight Starnes said he got about 1.6 inches on his farm six miles east of Littlefield.

Buck Ross at Bull Lake said the rain was very light there, amounting to just three-quarters of an inch. "Business was kinda bad because of that," Ross said, "but it never really started raining hard."

At Amherst, two inches seemed about the norm for the area, although a farmer 2½ miles east of the city reported 2.5 inches.

Anton received from 1.5 to 2 inches, and southwest of the city it was a little better with 2.3 and 2.4 inch rainfalls recorded.

About 1.8 inches was the most anyone in Springlake received, according to a resident there. A little over an inch was reported at the Sudan feedlots, but in town and southwest of the city the amount increased to about 1.6.

Two youths to attend Dist. Revue

The new Lubbock Regional Airport is the setting for this year's District 2 4-H Dress Revue which gets underway today.

"Flight Into Fashion" is the theme, according to Catherine B. Crawford, district Extension agent and dress revue chairman.

Young 4-H ladies from each of the 20 counties in Texas Agricultural Extension Service District 2 will model their own creations as they compete for honors and the right to represent the district in state competition.

Representing Lamb County will be Kelli Smith of Littlefield and Dawn Branscum of the Springlake-Earth Club.

Already the lasses are winners of county competition. Contestants are judged on their sewing and construction skills, overall appearance, modeling abilities, and their 4-H record books.

A dinner will be served for dress revue participants, parents and guests, following a special 6 p.m. tour of the new airport facilities. Revue and presentation of awards begin at 8. Edward Breihan, manager of Plains Coop Oil Mill, will present the honors.

In addition to the naming of the top seniors who will compete in the State 4-H Dress Revue at San Antonio this Sept. 17-18, awards also will include the recognition of the girl making the best all-cotton outfit and the best all-wool garment.

A junior level contest will be staged at the same time as senior competition. These younger lasses, ages 9 to 14, will not compete beyond the district level. For them, the event offers experience and leadership development.

Parents, 4-H leaders, and special guests will be on hand for the occasion. The public is invited to the 8 p.m. revue on the upper level of the airport complex west wing.

Girlstown open house scheduled July 24th

The annual open house for Girlstown, U.S.A., near Whiteface, has been scheduled for Saturday, July 24th.

Featuring a "reunion" theme, the Open House marks the 27th year of operation for the youth facility, which has served as home to more than 1,300 girls since 1949.

According to the Executive Director Marshall Cooper, this year's open house will reunite previous residents, board members, Girlstown donors and friends, as well as members of the staff at Whiteface.

Highlighted by the crowning of Miss Girlstown of 1976, Saturday's events will include tours of the campus and musical entertainment, culminated by a Barbecue at 4 p.m. prepared by the Littlefield Fire Department.

Cooper expressed concern that the facility's official publication "The Girlstown Guardian," was distributed throughout Texas last week with the wrong day of the week inadvertently given for the Open House.

"It is Saturday, July 24th," he stressed, adding that the event is open to the public.

Girlstown, which has grown to a three-campus facility since its beginnings at Whiteface, now provides care for approximately 120 girls from throughout Texas and the United States.

FRESH CORN, coming to market in abundance, requires consumer "know how" for buying, says Mrs. Dorothy Powell, county extension agent.

"Fresh corn of good quality has a fresh looking green husk; the cob should be firm enough to offer slight resistance to pressure," she said.

Immature corn, in which the kernels are very small and not filled out lacks flavor.

Color of the kernels may be white or yellow, depending on the variety. Current taste runs to the yellow types.

Most fresh sweet corn is hydro-cooled as soon as it is harvested and kept under refrigeration until it reaches the market—because the sugar in corn, which makes the corn sweet, starts to change to starches as soon as the corn is picked. This change is hastened by warm temperatures (above 40 degrees F.) but develops at a slower rate when corn is cooled.

"Hurry fresh corn from the store to your refrigerator. If the husk is still on the corn, leave it on until just before you cook it," Mrs. Powell advises.

If the husk was removed at the store then wrap it or put in a moisture proof container to store in the refrigerator. The sooner you use it the sweeter and tastier the corn.

AMERICAN FOODS of 1976 are the result of cultural heritage, a bounteous land and a creative people, notes Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist.

"From a 1776 population of about 2.5 million people with a simple agricultural society, we have grown to today's 100 million people, mingling all their food traditions and ethnic temperaments," she added.

Miss Reasonover is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Immigrants came to America because of the vision of a land without hunger, as well as the promise of freedom to worship and to govern themselves.

"Some of the ancestors of peoples living in the United States in 1976 did not belong to the original colonies, but brought food backgrounds which are a part of today's food heritage," she said.

In all parts of the continent, the Indians shared their knowledge of foods. Corn was used in different parts of the continent, but was especially important in New England because it could be grown there successfully where wheat was not productive. Corn was a primary crop of Indians living in the Southwest.

The Mexican-Americans of both Spanish and Mexican-Indian origin added to the nation's food selections frijoles, masa, chocolate. Aztec hot peppers and hot chili peppers in such dishes as chili con carne, she continued.

Franciscan fathers brought seeds of peaches, apricots, apples and plums—the start of the fruit industry in California. They planted the first figs, olives and walnuts and experimented with the first oranges.

"Foods from the sea and forests were important to Indians and white. Indians taught whites the use of the sap of the maple tree for sweetening before molasses and sugar were available to any great extent. They shared their seeds for beans, squash, peppers and pumpkins and taught the white man how to grow them," she said.

By 1776, the influence of foods by the Creoles had been felt. They were a mixture of Spanish and French. Creole food was influenced by Negro cooks and Indians in what was to become the Louisiana Territory. Negro cooks from Africa added okra to stews.

"Polynesians who came to Hawaii over a thousand years ago brought with them their own plants and animals. Their food was primarily fish, poi and native fruits until Captain Cook's discovery of the islands in 1778," she said.

Following this, Chinese, Japanese, Tahitians, Mexican, French, Portuguese, Germans, Koreans, Italians and mainlanders came to the sunny islands bringing their own foods. Today Hawaii presents one of the truly cosmopolitan food cultures of the world, she noted.

"In early New England, even after the Revolution, most people in rural areas raised all of their own food and bought only salt. By 1776, the West Indies had made sugar cane, cloves, nutmeg and ginger root available.

"Until the building of the first 19th century Yankee Clipper ship, England controlled the spice trade. After one skipper made a 700 per cent profit on a shipload of pepper from the East Indies, Salem became an important seaport. Pepper was valued to disguise the flavor of spoiled food, and cookbooks carried instructions on making tainted foods palatable.

"What sugar was available was often brown, hard and lumpy. Salt was important for preserving food as well as for adding flavor.

"Early Americans depended on Yankee peddlers for supplies. First they carried them on backpacks. Later they rode horseback or carried their supplies in wagons over poor roads. They took few bulky or heavy foods. At first, they had only salt, and a little tea—later they also had coffee, spices and sugar. Peddlers on rafts reached early settlers living on rivers and waterways. When specialized heavy-duty wagons were acquired, they might carry 25 cooking ranges on one trip," she said.

Earliest grocery stores sold spices, tea, coffee and sugar.

"By 1800, most Americans in the colonies were living above the subsistence level. Their meals were more elaborate and varied. But there were differences in the diets among families in the towns and those on farms."

Much of the produce grown at the edge of towns was brought by the producer to the consumer until late in the 1900's. Milk came to homes in large cans and was dipped out. It was often kept cool in the "spring" house or by lowering it in a cistern or well just above the water level. Preserved food was salt-brined, smoked or dried.

Original settlers in New England found an abundance of fish and wild game. Cooking fat was bear oil.

Venison stew was common during Revolutionary days. Beef was available only when cows had outlived their usefulness. Sheep were grown for wool, and chickens were grown for eggs.

Carrots, cabbage, parsnips and turnips were grown because they could be stored for winter, but leafy vegetables were often considered fodder because they were thought to have little food value.

In 1776, travelers were essentially the only people who ate food away from home.

The Dutch of New York introduced doughnuts and waffles to the American foods, and the Germans added coleslaw, hamburgers and frankfurters.

Many settlers who came to Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas were wealthy families from England. They served elaborate meals prepared by Negro cooks.

Thomas Jefferson had a great influence on American food habits. He brought recipes from France, one of which was for ice cream. He set a standard of excellence for food in the White House. Martha Washington invented Boston cream pie.

Recipes used in both the northern and southern colonies were often the homemaker's own invention. She had many new foods to use and had to adapt recipes brought from native lands. The first American cookbook was printed in 1742 in Williamsburg, Virginia, but the first cookbook to use American ingredients was printed in 1796.

Frontiersmen and pioneers carried dried foods such as jerky and pemmican which they learned about from the Indians. Most bread was hardtack, a dehydrated flour and water mixture. The jolting of wagons churned butter for the pioneer wives.

America has a rich food heritage, has contributed many new foods to the world and enjoyed the cultural contributions of many nations, the specialist said.

And so God agreed to divide the light from darkness and he would call the light Day and the darkness Night. (The Council expressed no interest with in-house semantics.)

When asked how the earth would be covered, God said, "Let there be firmament made amidst the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters."

One ecologically radical Council member accused Him of double talk, but the Council tabled action since God would be required first to file a "firmament" permit from the ABLM (Angelic Bureau of Land Management) and further would be required to obtain water permits from appropriate agencies involved.

The Council asked if there would be only water and firmament and God said, "Let the earth bring forth the green herb, and such as may seed, which may have seen itself upon the earth."

The Council agreed to this as long as native seed would be used.

About future development God also said, "Let the waters bring forth the creeping creatures having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth under the firmament of Heaven."

Here again, the Council took no formal action since this would require approval of the Game and Fish Commission, coordinated with the Heavenly Wildlife Federation and Audio-bongelic Society.

It appeared that everything was in order until God stated He wanted to complete the project in 6 days.

At this time Heaven advised by the Council that his timing was completely out of the question.

HEPA would require a minimum of 180 days to review the application and environmentalists made the statement that there would be the public hearing.

It could feasibly take 10 or 12 months before a permit could be granted.

And God said, "Forget the whole thing."

—murder—

Somebody did kill the baby and testimony will show that somebody was Terrel Earl Myers.

Defense lawyers Gayle Warren and Richard Collard of Friona pointed out that no one saw Myers do any of the things that would cause enough trauma to kill a child, that the old fractures revealed by the autopsy were much older than the injuries which caused the death. "Maybe he was too rough when he disciplined the child," Warren said, "but he didn't think he was too rough. The burden is on the state to prove Terry Myers did this with intent to harm this child to cause death. There has been no direct testimony that he did anything too harsh. There's been no showing of intent."

Attorney Collard said it was evident that various witnesses were hiding the issues and leaving out things to protect this one, that one, or themselves. "This has to put a doubtful light on everything these witnesses said where they are doing this sort of thing," he said.

"I cannot agree with Terry Myers on all his feelings on life. I can't agree on his use of drugs which he readily

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Not a wrecker

By BOB WELLS

SOME THINGS, because of their undesirable condition, must be torn down; they must be wrecked. The real need, however, and it is a widespread need, is for building up.

We must improve what and where we can, and build anew where there is need; because this is life. Of course, it is a constant and demanding challenge; but this fact is one of our greatest blessings.

WRECKING IS EASY. We can destroy in a few minutes that which may have required years to build up. No skill; no well-planned action; no intelligent effort are necessary.

The madness of wrecking what others have built, and that which is useful is probably the worst manifestation of a corrupt and mixed-up person.

THE WELL-BALANCED, responsible, useful and desirable person is "not a wrecker". The wreckers are not building anything for themselves or anybody else. Perhaps they don't know how, or it may be that they just don't have the character to do so, or they may have the dog-in-the-manger complex.

It may be that they have never grown up, and, in their destructiveness, they are simply expressing their childishness. Regardless, we cannot tolerate the wreckers.

THE THREAT of wreckers is more than a nuisance. It is a very real threat, and places all of us and everything essential to our well-being in danger. It doesn't seem to matter that these wreckers, in their destruction of what belongs to others self-destructive, too.

They wreck the very things that everybody else must have for a decent living.

THEIR ACTIONS are senseless and must be opposed. It seems that are people who would wreck anything, if they could. These people must have a very poorly-formed idea of themselves and life in general. Obviously, they are wrong in their views; in their muddled thinking they degenerate aims; and in senseless actions.

Everything about the wrecker is wrong, because he has set his face against the whole purpose of which is to build up, not tear down.

THE WRECKERS fight against the most noble and most needed of all life elements; the drive to build and be constructive. Their actions have the effect of setting back human progress and keeping alive one of the most human evils.

It becomes a kind of double-edged monster that keeps growing more and more out of shape, and more evil gets bigger.

THE MATURE, wise individual "not a wrecker", but appreciates everything in life with a constructive attitude. Such a person is a blessing and a blessing to all humankind.

BUILDING IS the great need. We build for the good of all. When we build we help ourselves and we help others; and the self-fulfillment we are in building up.

Right-Parish vows read in Springlake

SPRINGLAKE—Miss Kathy Wright and Sammy Don pledged nuptial vows evening in Springlake Baptist Church.

Presented for marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight gown of point d'gaze lace designed in a princess silhouette style with a scoop neckline. The full bishop sleeves were emphasized by wide scalloped cuffs. The hemline was bordered by deep scallops of lace which swept into a full chapel train. She wore a matching bouffant veil of imported silk illusion edged in Venice lace flurettes. The veil was held in place by a bonnet headpiece covered in Venice lace and seed pearls.

For "something old" and "blue" she wore the blue garter worn by the groom's mother at her wedding. The bridal gown was "something new" and a necklace was "something borrowed". She carried a penny in her shoe for "something" borrowed.

Maid of honor was Miss Ruth Street of Earth. Brides-matron was Mrs. Cindy Whitlock of San Angelo, sister of the bride. Vicki Wright, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Feminine attendants wore identical gowns of powder blue polysheer over taffeta, designed with fitted bodice featuring a portrait scoop neckline collared by layered ruffles which spanned the shoulders into a deep back scoop. A set-in midriff fell into a full A-line skirt ending with a deep hemline flounce.

A Banker's Viewpoint...

A retired Massachusetts congressman named Hastings Keith got curious not long ago about his congressional pension. He wondered what it would amount to by the end of his life.

Using his normal life expectancy as a base and accounting for the present and expected future rates of inflation, along with the automatic inflation - offsetting provision in his pension, Congressman Keith calculated that before he died he would be drawing $16,000 a month.

That sounds great for the congressman, until you allow for the fact that if his figuring is accurate, $16,000 won't buy him any more than his present pension buys today. In fact, if inflation should turn into a runaway, as inflation has in many countries many times, the $16,000 might not buy him anything at all.

Unless such a runaway inflation should occur, however, the people who create inflation - our members of Congress - are insulated nicely against its effects. Automatic escalation takes care of them.

But the people who pay the price for both government and inflation have no cushion whatever. These are the self employed and wage earners who have to try to save enough to build a decent retirement fund.

Even harder hit are people already retired, trying to live on the inflation-watered income from social security, pensions or self retirement plans based on what they earned ten or 15 years ago.

Inflation is created by federal deficit spending. Period. It is not created by the merchant who, as distressed as the next person about rising prices, has to charge more and more for the articles on his shelves.

It is not created by the banker who, having to pay more to borrow money himself, and faced with ever-increasing costs of operation and paperwork for the government, has to charge a higher rate of interest on money he loans.

It is not created by any business of any type or any size.

Only government can create inflation, because only government can print money, or create federal debts, which amount to the same thing as printing surplus money.

We are in a bad way when our lawmakers can find amazing unity in raising their own pay, but break up into a paralyzing wrangle when there's a logical demand for a balanced federal budget.

Census Bureau to make survey

Rosemary McNeese, local representative of the Bureau of the Census, will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of July 19-24, according to Percy R. Millard, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas.

The survey is conducted for the U. S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in May the survey indicated that of the 94.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 87.7 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent, down from 7.5 percent in April and substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 percent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Sudan board approves four

SUDAN— The hiring of four new teachers highlighted the meeting of the Sudan school board Monday. The board also accepted the resignation of Alvin Scott, athletic director; Beverly Scott, social studies teacher; Beverly Thurmond, kindergarten; Kay Morton, economics; and Charlene Shafer, first grade teacher. The post of girls' athletic director still needs to be filled. Approved for the 1976-77 school year are new faculty members Mary Horton, high school math; Joan Nix, home economics; Felice Bryant, kindergarten; and Loretta Reid, first grade. The board also approved the teacher merit pay schedule for teachers who go back to college to take more hours for their degree; set teacher in-service expenses; and authorized the six-period school day after changing from the traditional seven. Bids were accepted on a 1968 Chevrolet school bus for $980 and a 1963 Dodge bus for $857. Plans for the construction of a four-foot cyclone fence around the west side of the elementary playground were also passed.

Olton faculty complete

OLTON— According to Olton school superintendent Joe Turner, "If we had to open our doors tomorrow, we'd be ready. This is the earliest we've had all our teachers hired for the coming year in some time." The Olton school board made this possible by approving seven new contracts for the fall in their meeting Monday night. Bill Nelson will replace Fred Stockdale as band director, coming to Olton from Ralls. Lynn Martin has been hired to replace Melinda Smith as junior high girls coach. Martin is a recent graduate from Tarleton State University. Johnny Taylor has been named an assistant high school coach and social studies teacher in place of Bill Johnston. Georganna Nafziger and Lucy Maruca will be new elementary teachers, following the resignation of Virginia Bell. David Grayson will assume duties as vocational counselor, replacing Jack Burkhalter. The board also named Turner as tax custodian and had a short discussion concerning next year's budget.

Wolverines sign coaches

SPRINGLAKE-EARTH— The Wolverine high school coaching staff was completed for the fall when the S-E school board named a new basketball coach and a football assistant. Buddy Luce will head up the basketball chores, and Joe Kinman has been hired as a varsity assistant grid coach. They now complete new head coach Roland Murray's three-man staff. The board also hired Richard Roper as band director, Melody Reper as special reading teacher, James Murray in special reading and Frances Beard to teach special ed. Glen Wester, choral director, resigned, and his replacement is being sought. In its Monday night meeting, the board also revised the school handbook, discussed school property insurance, chose Keystone Life Co. to handle student insurance, heard a report on the summer maintenance program and started preliminary hearings on next year's budget. There will be a public meeting Aug. 23 to set the 1976-77 budget.

Amherst to build fieldhouse

AMHERST— The Amherst school board accepted a bid from West Texas Steel for the building of a fieldhouse and public restroom building in its meeting July 6. The fieldhouse will be built as an extension onto the vocational ag building. The board also approved a bid from an Earth painter to paint the inside of the gymnasium. The resignation of Betty Rosson, special ed. teacher, was accepted, and the board is now considering applicants for her replacement.

Martin new Longhorn coach

SPADE— Mike Martin, a 1975 graduate of West Texas State University, was named new head coach of the Spade Longhorns in the school board meeting Monday. Martin, 25, will coach basketball and teach social studies. He has been married three years, and for the last five months has been filling in on the Lorenzo coaching staff. Spade is still seeking a high school principal and grade school basketball coach.

IF YOU THINK water witching is a hoax, you may change your mind at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 when Chester Burrier of Stockdale makes his diving stick magic. If he finds a vein of water on the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures, he'll sink a narrow gauge well to prove his skill. And that's not all. If you've got a corn, wart, or similar ailment, he might cure it by stuffing a certain scrap of paper in his pocket. (Institute of Texan Cultures Photo)

Folklife Festival to get underway Aug.

Amid the jeers of skeptics, Chester and Lester will perform their skill-water witching.

But disbelievers will change their tune at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 in San Antonio when Stockdale water witchers Lester Hastings and Chester Burrier prove their ability at finding ground water sources using only a stick.

"I don't know how it works," Burrier said. "I can find the vein and tell if the water is good or bad. Lester can tell how deep the vein is."

The two use only green branches. Burrier holds a forked stick before him then walks over the area waiting for the magnetism of water to pull the nose of the stick down. To determine the water's quality, Burrier notches his stick and wedges in a silver coin. He passes over the water source again. If it is good, the stick travels down once again.

The depth is determined with a long reed. Hastings kneels at the site of the water source, holding the stick loosely in his hands. The stick taps out the number of feet.

Hastings, who has been a water witcher for 35 years, started as a skeptic himself.

"I learned to do it by laughing at a man I was watching," Hastings explained. "But," he added, "not everyone has the power to do it."

The two witchers will comb the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures for water during the Festival. Once it is found, visitors can test the accuracy of the divining rod by helping to sink a well in a spot.

And, if you still doubt, up a forked stick and test your own power.

The Festival, sponsored by The University of Texas at San Antonio's Institute of Texan Cultures, is held on the grounds in HemisFair Plaza downtown San Antonio.

Advance tickets are available now at $2 per adult and 50 cents for children under 12. At the gate, prices rise to $3 and 50 cents.

The water witchers are part of a multicultural array of folk art and dance, arts and crafts demonstrations and food featured at the Folklife Festival.

a man, J. B. James of together with his family, has purchased some 8,600 acres of the Big Sand division several miles north of Sudan, and west of the original Springlake headquarters.

Jearl James, son of J. B. James, has purchased several thousand acres joining his father on the north. This acreage has the old Soda Lake on its northern extremities, and thus a lot of sub or semi-sub irrigated land and almost sure of good grass in dry weather.

When the James purchased this vast territory, they also got in their deal many of the original Mashed O cattle and horses carrying this famous brand, and the last of the Mashed O.

These large and sturdy old cows, together with a few of the high bred bulls and fine quarter horses with age brands that tells their age and denotes their origin, will soon be gone, but their heritage and quality will long be remembered by the cattlemen of the plains.

Now, J. B. and Jearl James have one of the nicest and most useful ranches in Lamb County, and with their fine families and ranching determination, shall surely carry on the cattle business started by the Halsells of long ago.

J. B. James brands the Jay Five, and Jearl brands the Jay Bar. Seems kinda pitiful to put a different brand on the Old Mashed O cows' calf, but time, progress, and tradition changes a lot of things.

Farm field proposal extended

The period during which the Occupation Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) invites the public to comment on a proposed farm field sanitation standard has been extended from July 6 to Aug. 16.

A June 29 Federal Register notice clarified some of the issues raised in the April 27 proposal to provide field sanitation rules for farm workers. A second notice, published in the Federal Register June 30, extends the deadline for public comment to Aug. 16.

The Clarifying notice recognizes the geographically distinctive nature of American agriculture, where products, farming methods and work practices vary widely among regions. It raises the issue whether these differences should affect the requirements of a final standard.

The notice affords the opportunity for added public comment on proposed requirements for drinking water, toilet and handwashing facilities.

OSHA officials explained that the proposed standard merely initiated the rulemaking process. Only after full public comment is received on the original issues, and on the clarifications, public regional hearings are held and the entire record is complete, will a decision be made a final standard published.

Written data, views and arguments or requests for hearing must be submitted to the U. S. Department of Labor, OSHA, Docket Officer, Docket No. S-307, Room N3620, 3rd St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20210, on or before Aug. 16.

USDA proposes testing for Food Stamp program

Testing of new administrative procedures, such as photo identification cards for food stamp users, could be allowed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) under a proposed amendment to Food Stamp Program regulations.

USDA is planning to test the use of photo identification cards— in hopes of stopping unauthorized persons from getting food stamps.

This testing would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to evaluate test projects on a small scale, for possible national use. The proposed amendment gives states a chance to show administrative and cost benefits of procedures not currently authorized by program regulations. The proposal also outlines the way states may request the Secretary's approval to carry out test projects.

Comments are invited on the proposed amendment, scheduled for publication in the Federal Register of June 11. Comments should be mailed or delivered in writing to Nancy Snyder, Director, Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, to be received no later than June 26.

All comments received will be open to public inspection.

Hand hoeing is best in culling garden weeds

Hand hoeing is still the most effective way to weed a small garden, believes Birch L. Lobban, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Hand hoeing is inexpensive, accurate and even enjoyable and rewarding for some," he says. "Begin hoeing when weeds appear and keep it up through out the growing season. Weeds that are close to the base of plants should be pulled by hand."

If you can't stand the strain of hoeing, mulches and herbicides (chemical weed killers) can be used to keep weeds out of the garden. Mulches, which prevent weeds from emerging by blocking out the sun, work best against weeds that come up each year from seed, Lobban explains.

Compost, straw, leaves, hay, sawdust, wood shavings and bark all make good mulch materials. Plastic sheeting, newspaper and black polyethylene film can also be used for mulching. However, clear plastic is not an effective mulch because it lets in sun light.

"Before applying any mulch, moisten the soil," points out Lobban. "If you plan to use plastic sheeting apply most of the fertilizer plants you will need beforehand."

Lobban recommends applying organic mulches only when the soil temperature has warmed up. Otherwise, the soil will stay cool longer, thus slowing plant growth.

It might be necessary to add nitrogen to organic mulches because micro-organisms in the mulch use this element in the decaying process.

As far as herbicides are concerned, these are difficult to use in a small garden with many different kinds of vegetables. A herbicide that is safe for one kind of vegetable may not be safe to use on another, Lobban points out.

A good all purpose preplant herbicide that kills weeds, nematodes and fungi is Vapan. The material can be applied to the soil with a hose-on sprayer several weeks before planting. Water the soil well for a few days after application so the herbicide seeps into the soil. Covering the garden with plastic sheeting immediately after applying the herbicide makes the treatment more effective.

Lobban adds that herbicides applied at or after the time of planting are not as good as preplant herbicides. However, Dacthal, a pre-emergence herbicide which is applied after planting, is a satisfactory weed killer for gardens.

All chemical herbicides should be used only according to instructions on the label and should be applied with caution, emphasizes Lobban.

GOD ALWAYS LEAVES HIS MARK

I stood in the mouth of the little cave at Qumran by the Dead Sea. "So this is the place where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found," I mused. "Not a very likely spot for anything of importance to happen." But scholars tell us something of great importance occurred there. A few fragments of parchment were found in a clay jar where they had lain untouched and undiscovered for more than 2,000 years.

After examining the published portions of the scrolls and reading much of the literature published about them, I reached a personal conclusion which has remained with me to this day. An artist always leaves some mark or signature to supply authenticity to his work. It may be in the combination of colors, intensity of light, brush strokes or even the arrangement of figures—but what he or she does makes that canvas unquestionably theirs!

So God, from time to time, does certain things in certain ways—so distinctively, so surely His style—that when those of us, His children, see it, we exclaim, "It's His!"

The scraps and almost unreadable fragments of the Dead Sea Scrolls? It's unimportant what they say. It is of immense importance what they imply—"He did it—He was here!"

—Paul M. Stevens

TAES Field Day set September 14

The 67th annual edition of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Field Day for Lubbock and Halfway, which highlights a variety of crop research programs on the Texas High Plains, has been set for Tuesday, Sept. 14.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Halfway, located 14 miles west of Plainview is host this year, according to Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of the TAES Lubbock Experiment Station, and Dr.

Bill Lipe, field day chairman. In the past, field days at the Lubbock and Halfway Stations have been held two days apart, but this year will begin an alternate year arrangement, says Ott. The field day will be at Halfway this year and at Lubbock next.

Scheduled for this year's event is a five-stop field tour of the Halfway Station research sites and facilities. Machinery displays presented by area implement dealers will be an added attraction. Stops along the field tour include research plots for corn irrigation, corn and sorghum insects, soil fertility, weed control, short-season and cotton varieties.

Professional of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station USDA-ARS, NWS, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be on hand for all programs, say the TAES officials.

CONGRESSMAN George Mahon was in Littlefield Tuesday speaking to several government projects and gleaned information from them as to how government monies are spent here. He asked questions of those attending and vice versa. (Staff Photo)

Disabled veterans may replace aids

Disabled veterans who are entitled to purchase or replace adaptive equipment for their automobiles with government financial assistance should check first with the Veterans Administration to make certain the equipment has been approved, says Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director in Waco.

New VA standards as to the quality and safety of such equipment went into effect on Jan. 1, 1976.

Coker said an estimated 63,000 disabled veterans of World War II and thereafter are eligible or have already received assistance in the purchase and equipping of automobiles.

Under the VA program, a one-time grant of up to $3,300 is available to eligible veterans for the purchase of an automobile.

The VA will then provide financial assistance in purchasing special adaptive equipment which will allow the vehicle to be operated by paralyzed persons or amputees.

The VA program also provides for the repair, replacement or reinstallation of such adaptive equipment.

Depending on the nature of the veteran's disability, the adaptive equipment can provide for hand control of brakes and accelerator, relocation of foot controls or power equipment for seats and windows. The amount of VA financing for adaptive equipment is not fixed but depends on the needs of the individual veteran.

Eligibility for benefits under this program is limited to veterans of World War II and thereafter and current service personnel having service-connected loss, or permanent loss of use of one or both feet or hands, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to a prescribed degree.

Interested veterans should contact a VA benefits counselor or prosthetics representative at the nearest VA office, hospital or outpatient clinic, veterans county service officer, or a veterans organization service representative.

Regulatory rule making causing negative action

Rule-making by government and regulatory agencies is causing Americans and Congress to react against overzealous actions, according to Rep. B. F. Sisk (D-Calif.).

Speaking to the third annual National Cotton Outlook Conference in Lubbock, Sisk said, "Every new rule is just that much added to cost and the recent action by the House to exempt farms and other small businesses with 10 or fewer employees is an example of the changing mood in Washington."

He referred to a House-passed amendment to the appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Bell told the conference developing countries are more important to American agricultural commodity exports than developed countries. He said 35-40 percent of all U.S. farm exports and more than 55 percent of cotton exports go to developing countries.

Jack H. Barton, vice president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, said farmers will find credit available in the future but warned that lenders are going to require more and better records on productivity and budget management before they will lend money for farming.

J. H. (Tony) Price, executive vice president of Texas Cotton Ginners' Assn., described regulations' impact on cotton as being in "the iceberg stage" because there is little on the surface to serve as a warning that the big part is under water and is actually the most dangerous part.

He said the cotton dust control standard being proposed by OSHA will have a double-barreled effect because textile mills can't meet the proposed levels and the ginning industry also lacks the engineering control expertise which would be required.

Macon Edwards, Washington representative of the National Cotton Council, told conferees that in a 10-year period (1965-1974) Congress has passed 61 major laws covering matters formerly left to the judgment and management of the people in private firms.

Other reports covering a wide range of topics were heard by more than 100 industry leaders attending the conference sponsored by The Cotton Foundation, in cooperation with the National Cotton Council.

Cleanup set for LL Park

Cleanup for the Little League Park has been set for today at 5 p.m.

All interested persons are urged to attend to help prepare for the All-Star Tournament set for July 19 and 20.

Over 1,800 expected for Leadership Week

More than 1,800 church workers and their families are expected to attend the Church Training Leadership Conference, Aug. 7-13, at Glorieta, (N.M.) Baptist Conference Center.

The week will provide leadership opportunities for staff members, associational workers, general officers, and age-group leaders in church training, as well as in Sunday School.

Other opportunities include a writers' conference for potential writers of church training materials; evening worship services conducted along a different theme each night; a Bicentennial Church Training Street Fair, to include age-group displays, drama and a "senses show" in the Media Center; separate Bible study sessions for youth and adults and Youth Bible Study. Special guests for the week are Ralph Langley, pastor of Willow Meadows Church, Houston, as leader; William M. P. pastor of First Baptist Wichita Falls, as assistant leader; Larry Norman, Okla., as assistant leader; and Norman E. Hodges, board's church department.

The conference is directed by Phillip B. Harris of the Baptist Sunday School Board's church training department, and coordinating field services staff.

OSHA extends deadline for guarding machinery

Farmers and ranchers will have more time to meet safety requirements of the new Machine Guarding Standards for Agriculture.

According to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), the June 7 effective date has been extended to Oct. 25, 1976.

This coincides with the scheduled effective date of the standard for roll-over protective structures on tractors.

Myers sentenced to 25 years for murder of baby

BLAH RODGERS
Twenty-four-year old Terrel Earl Myers was found guilty as charged of the murder of 7 1/2-month-old Jimmy Myers and sentenced to 25 years in the prison in district court here late Monday after two days of testimony by District Judge Pat Boone Jr. Judge Boone heard the case after the defendant entered a plea of guilty and was given his right to a trial by jury. The defendant sat impassively throughout two days of testimony, and showed no emotion as he stood for the verdict. The infant was pronounced dead on Monday at the Littlefield Hospital on August 9 of last year after police received an emergency call from the residence of Dr. I. T. Shotwell at 217 E. 12th in Littlefield.

Terry Myers confessed to murdering the infant the following day when he turned himself in to city police. Bond was set at $50,000 and Myers has remained in the Lamb County jail since he was charged.

In the closing arguments, prosecuting attorney Jack Young said the helpless baby's death was caused by a trauma of such nature that the autopsy showed the liver of the child was split and ribs were fractured.

"I submit that in all reasonableness something had to have caused that injury, and this court has heard of prior incidents between the defendant Terry Earl Myers and this dead baby boy that showed treatment at the hands of the defendant of such nature that is evident there was malice on the part of Myers toward the child. We've heard of the way he squeezed the baby, jerked him up by his legs, threw him up in the air, dropped him, held him under water. All these people have testified to things they saw him do. And what reason did the defendant give? He said he was toughening him up. He wanted to toughen up a 7-month-old baby.

"A baby that was normal on the evening of the party, but as the party progressed, that baby wasn't normal at all.

"I wouldn't be proud at all of what went on in that house. I couldn't be proud at all of a group that got together to take controlled substances, which is a criminal act itself. And witnesses said they drank and smoked pot.

"We don't pick our witnesses. We take them where we find them and we don't find this kind in Sunday school class.

"When a party ends up with this kind of result, we seldom find Sunday school teachers and students. It's hard to believe things like this went on in Dr. Shotwell's house. But does that mean we can't believe these witnesses?

"When you weigh in proper perspective five individuals' testimonies against the autopsy statement, there is reason to believe that somebody at that party placed enough trauma on that baby to cause death, and that that somebody was Terrel Earl Myers.

There is reasonable evidence to believe that the sound Kenneth Tomes described was the striking of a hand against the body of that child. It is reasonable since previously the defendant testified that he "spanked" the baby with a closed fist. Kenneth told you he saw the defendant pitch the child on the floor and cover him with the child's carrier.

"From time to time we have a crime so heinous it is hard to believe it occurred. It is hard for me or anybody else to accept that anybody would kill a baby. Yet the facts are inescapable.

Million-dollar rains bring farmers' smiles

One of those multi-million dollar rains swept into Lamb County late Saturday night, and after heavy showers most of Sunday night and Monday morning, area farmers could be seen with smiles of relief on previously worried faces.

The area west of Littlefield around Fieldton and Spade seemed to get the most out of the slow, steady showers. The Spade Gin reported about two inches from Saturday night until presstime Tuesday afternoon. Some of the farmers around Spade counted almost three inches of moisture in their gauges.

The Fieldton Butane office claimed 2.8 inches of rain, and an employee there said most of the farmers in the vicinity had reported an average of 2.6 inches.

Littlefield was slowed down by sporadic showers all day Sunday and Monday and the town received about two inches of welcome rain. Dwight Starnes said he got about 1.6 inches on his farm six miles east of Littlefield.

Buck Ross at Bull Lake said the rain was very light there, amounting to just three-quarters of an inch. "Business was kinda bad because of that," Ross said, "but it never really started raining hard."

At Amherst, two inches seemed about the norm for the area, although a farmer 2 1/2 miles east of the city reported 2.5 inches.

Anton received from 1.5 to 2 inches, and southwest of the city it was a little better with 2.3 and 2.4 inch rainfalls recorded.

About 1.8 inches was the most anyone in Springlake received, according to a resident there. A little over an inch was reported at the Sudan feedlots, but in town and southwest of the city the amount increased to about 1.6.

County brought much welcome water to area farmers, and turned places like the Park in Littlefield (above) into temporary lakes. [Staff Photos]

Two youths to attend Dist. Revue

The new Lubbock Regional Airport is the setting for this year's District 2 4-H Dress Revue which gets underway today.

"Flight Into Fashion" is the theme, according to Catherine B. Crawford, district Extension agent and dress revue chairman.

Young 4-H ladies from each of the 20 counties in Texas Agricultural Extension Service District 2 will model their own creations as they compete for honors and the right to represent the district in state competition.

Representing Lamb County will be Kelli Smith of Littlefield and Dawn Branscum of the Springlake-Earth Club.

Already the lasses are winners of county competition. Contestants are judged on their sewing and construction skills, overall appearance, modeling abilities, and their 4-H record books.

A dinner will be served for dress revue participants, parents and guests, following a special 6 p.m. tour of the new airport facilities. Revue and presentation of awards begin at 8. Edward Breihan, manager of Plains Coop Oil Mill, will present the honors.

In addition to the naming of the top seniors who will compete in the State 4-H Dress Revue at San Antonio this Sept. 17-18, awards also will include the recognition of the girl making the best all-cotton outfit and the best all-wool garment.

A junior level contest will be staged at the same time as senior competition. These younger lasses, ages 9 to 14, will not compete beyond the district level. For them, the event offers experience and leadership development.

Parents, 4-H leaders, and special guests will be on hand for the occasion. The public is invited to the 8 p.m. revue on the upper level of the airport complex west wing.

Girlstown open house scheduled July 24th

The annual open house for Girlstown, U.S.A., near Whiteface, has been scheduled for Saturday, July 24th.

Featuring a "reunion" theme, the Open House marks the 27th year of operation for the youth facility, which has served as home to more than 1,300 girls since 1949.

According to the Executive Director Marshall Cooper, this year's open house will reunite previous residents, board members, Girlstown donors and friends, as well as members of the staff at Whiteface.

Highlighted by the crowning of Miss Girlstown of 1976, Saturday's events will include tours of the campus and musical entertainment, culminated by a Barbecue at 4 p.m. prepared by the Littlefield Fire Department.

Cooper expressed concern that the facility's official publication "The Girlstown Guardian," was distributed throughout Texas last week with the wrong day of the week inadvertently given for the Open House.

"It is Saturday, July 24th," he stressed, adding that the event is open to the public.

Girlstown, which has grown to a three-campus facility since its beginnings at Whiteface, now provides care for approximately 120 girls from throughout Texas and the United States.

FRESH CORN, coming to market in abundance, requires consumer "know how" for buying, says Mrs. Dorothy Powell, county extension agent.

"Fresh corn of good quality has a fresh looking green husk; the cob should be firm enough to offer slight resistance to pressure," she said.

Immature corn, in which the kernels are very small and not filled out lacks flavor.

Color of the kernels may be white or yellow, depending on the variety. Current taste runs to the yellow types.

Most fresh sweet corn is hydro-cooled as soon as it is harvested and kept under refrigeration until it reaches the market—because the sugar in corn, which makes the corn sweet, starts to change to starches as soon as the corn is picked. This change is hastened by warm temperatures (above 40 degrees F.) but develops at a slower rate when corn is cooled.

"Hurry fresh corn from the store to your refrigerator. If the husk is still on the corn, leave it on until just before you cook it," Mrs. Powell advises.

If the husk was removed at the store then wrap it or put in a moisture proof container to store in the refrigerator. The sooner you use it the sweeter and tastier the corn.

AMERICAN FOODS of 1976 are the result of cultural heritage, a bounteous land and a creative people, notes Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist.

"From a 1776 population of about 2.5 million people with a simple agricultural society, we have grown to today's 100 million people, mingling all their food traditions and ethnic temperaments," she added.

Miss Reasonover is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Immigrants came to America because of the vision of a land without hunger, as well as the promise of freedom to worship and to govern themselves.

"Some of the ancestors of peoples living in the United States in 1976 did not belong to the original colonies, but brought food backgrounds which are a part of today's food heritage," she said.

In all parts of the continent, the Indians shared their knowledge of foods. Corn was used in different parts of the continent, but was especially important in New England because it could be grown there successfully where wheat was not productive. Corn was a primary crop of Indians living in the Southwest.

The Mexican-Americans of both Spanish and Mexican-Indian origin added to the nation's food selections frijoles, masa, chocolate. Aztec hot peppers and hot chili peppers in such dishes as chili con carne, she continued.

"Franciscan fathers brought seeds of peaches, apricots, apples and plums—the start of the fruit industry in California. They planted the first figs, olives and walnuts and experimented with the first oranges.

"Foods from the sea and forests were important to Indians and white. Indians taught whites the use of the sap of the maple tree for sweetening before molasses and sugar were available to any great extent. They shared their seeds for beans, squash, peppers and pumpkins and taught the white man how to grow them," she said.

By 1776, the influence of foods by the Creoles had been felt. They were a mixture of Spanish and French. Creole food was influenced by Negro cooks and Indians in what was to become the Louisiana Territory. Negro cooks from Africa added okra to stews.

"Polynesians who came to Hawaii over a thousand years ago brought with them their own plants and animals. Their food was primarily fish, poi and native fruits until Captain Cook's discovery of the islands in 1778," she said.

Following this, Chinese, Japanese, Tahitians, Mexican, French, Portuguese, Germans, Koreans, Italians and mainlanders came to the sunny islands bringing their own foods. Today Hawaii presents one of the truly cosmopolitan food cultures of the world, she noted.

"In early New England, even after the Revolution, most people in rural areas raised all of their own food and bought only salt. By 1776, the West Indies had made sugar cane, cloves, nutmeg and ginger root available.

"Until the building of the first 19th century Yankee Clipper ship, England controlled the spice trade. After one skipper made a 700 per cent profit on a shipment of pepper from the East Indies, Salem became an important seaport. Pepper was valued to disguise the flavor of spoiled food, and cookbooks carried instructions on making tainted foods palatable.

"What sugar was available was often brown, hard and lumpy. Salt was important for preserving food as well as for adding flavor.

"Early Americans depended on Yankee peddlers for supplies. First they carried them on backpacks. Later they rode horseback or carried their supplies in wagons over poor roads. They took few bulky or heavy foods. At first, they had only salt, and a little tea—later they also had coffee, spices and sugar. Peddlers on rafts reached early settlers living on rivers and waterways. When specialized heavy-duty wagons were acquired, they might carry 25 cooking ranges on one trip," she said.

Earliest grocery stores sold spices, tea, coffee and sugar.

"By 1800, most Americans in the colonies were living above the subsistence level. Their meals were more elaborate and varied. But there were differences in the diets among families in the towns and those on farms."

Much of the produce grown at the edge of towns was brought by the producer to the consumer until late in the 1900's. Milk came to homes in large cans and was dipped out. It was often kept cool in the "spring" house or by lowering it in a cistern or well just above the water level. Preserved food was salt-brined, smoked or dried.

Original settlers in New England found an abundance of fish and wild game. Cooking fat was bear oil.

Venison stew was common during Revolutionary days. Beef was available only when cows had outlived their usefulness. Sheep were grown for wool, and chickens were grown for eggs.

Carrots, cabbage, parsnips and turnips were grown because they could be stored for winter, but leafy vegetables were often considered fodder because they were thought to have little food value.

In 1776, travelers were essentially the only people who ate food away from home.

The Dutch of New York introduced doughnuts and waffles to the American foods, and the Germans added coleslaw, hamburgers and frankfurters.

Many settlers who came to Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas were wealthy families from England. They served elaborate meals prepared by Negro cooks.

Thomas Jefferson had a great influence on American food habits. He brought recipes from France, one of which was for ice cream. He set a standard of excellence for food in the White House, Martha Washington invented Boston cream pie.

Recipes used in both the northern and southern colonies were often the homemaker's own invention. She had many new foods to use and had to adapt recipes brought from native lands. The first American cookbook was printed in 1742 in Williamsburg, Virginia, but the first cookbook to use American ingredients was printed in 1796.

Frontiersmen and pioneers carried dried foods such as jerky and pemmican which they learned about from the Indians. Most bread was hardtack, a dehydrated flour and water mixture. The jolting of wagons churned butter for the pioneer wives.

America has a rich food heritage, has contributed many new foods to the world and enjoyed the cultural contributions of many nations, the specialist said.

City Council to meet tonight

And so God agreed to divide the light from darkness and he would call the light Day and the darkness Night. (The Council expressed no interest with in-house semantics.)

When asked how the earth would be covered, God said, "Let there be firmament made amidst the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters."

One ecologically radical Council member accused Him of double talk, but the Council tabled action since God would be required first to file a "firmament" permit from the ABLM (Angelic Bureau of Land Management) and further would be required to obtain water permits from appropriate agencies involved.

The Council asked if there would be only water and firmament and God said, "Let the earth bring forth the green herb, and such as may seed, which may have seen itself upon the earth."

The Council agreed to this as long as native seed would be used.

About future development God also said, "Let the waters bring forth the creeping creatures having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth under the firmament of Heaven."

Here again, the Council took no formal action since this would require approval of the Game and Fish Commission, coordinated with the Heavens Wildlife Federation and Audubon Society.

It appeared that everything was in order until God stated He wanted to complete the project in 6 days.

At this time Heaven advised by the Council that his timing was completely out of the question.

HEPA would require a minimum of 180 days to review the application and environmentalists made the statement that there would be the public hearing.

It could feasibly take 10 or 12 months before a permit could be granted.

And God said, "Forget the whole thing."

—murder—

Somebody did kill the baby and testimony will show that somebody was Terrel Earl Myers.

Defense lawyers Gayle Warren and Richard Collard of Friona pointed out that no one saw Myers do any of the things that would cause enough trauma to kill a child, that the old fractures revealed by the autopsy were much older than the injuries which caused the death. "Maybe he was too rough when he disciplined the child," Warren said, "but he didn't think he was too rough. The burden is on the state to prove Terry Myers did this with intent to harm this child to cause death. There has been no showing of intent."

Attorney Collard said it was evident that various witnesses were hiding the issues and leaving out things to protect this one, that one, or themselves. "This has to put a doubtful light on everything these witnesses said where they are doing this sort of thing," he said.

"I cannot agree with Terry Myers on all his feelings on life. I can't agree on his use of drugs which he readily

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Not a wrecker

SOME THINGS, because of their undesirable condition, must be torn down; they must be wrecked. The real need, however, and it is a widespread need, is for building up.

We must improve what and where we can, and build anew where there is need; because this is life. Of course, it is a constant and demanding challenge; but this fact is one of our greatest blessings.

WRECKING IS EASY. We can destroy in a few minutes that which may have required years to build up. No skill; no well-planned action; no intelligent effort are necessary.

The madness of wrecking what others have built, and that which is useful is probably the worst manifestation of a corrupt and mixed-up person.

THE WELL-BALANCED, responsible, useful and desirable person is "not a wrecker". The wreckers are not building anything for themselves or anybody else. Perhaps they don't know how, or it may be that they just don't have the character to do so, or they may have the dog-in-the-manger complex.

It may be that they have never grown up, and, in their destructiveness, they are simply expressing their childishness. Regardless, we cannot tolerate the wreckers.

THE THREAT of wreckers is more than a nuisance. It is a very real threat, and places all of us and everything essential to our well-being in danger. It doesn't seem to matter that these wreckers, in their destruction of what belongs to others, are self-destructive, too. They wreck the very things that everybody else must have for a decent living.

THEIR ACTIONS are senseless. It seems that they are people who would wreck anything, if they could. There must be a very poorly-formulated concept of themselves and life in general. Obviously, they are wrong in their views; in their muddled thinking; their degenerate aims; and in their senseless actions.

Everything about the wreckers is wrong, because he has set his face against the whole purpose of which is to build up, not tear down.

THE WRECKERS fight against the most noble and most essential life elements; the drive to be constructive. Their actions have the effect of setting back human progress and keeping alive one of the most evil human evils.

It becomes a kind of double-edged monster that keeps growing more and more out of shape, and more evil, gets bigger.

THE MATURE, wise individual is "not a wrecker", but approaches everything in life with a constructive attitude. Such a person is a blessing and a blessing to all humankind.

BUILDING IS the great need. We build for the good of all. When we build we help ourselves and we help others; and the self-fulfillment we experience is in building up.

Local Candystripers recognized for service

Two Candystripers have been recognized for their long years of service to the two Littlefield hospitals. Carol Hobratchsk has served four years and Stephanie Benner, five years.

Miss Hobratchsk was president two years, and has attended three Candystriper conventions. She has received two 100-hour bars, and her cap.

She plans to attend Amarillo College this fall and major in medical office secretarial work.

Miss Benner was president two years, secretary-treasurer two years, scrapbook chairman one year, and attended three Candystriper conventions.

She has received four 100-hour bars and her cap.

She is now a member of the Hospital Auxiliary and assists Ruth Hinds, director of Candystripers.

Others who will attend the Candystriper Convention in Fort Worth July 21-22 are Cathy Champion, Carrie Reed, and Phyllis Smith.

The girls have held several fund-raising projects to raise money for the convention.

admitted. I hold that he was candid on the witness stand. Faced issues straight on. Admitted things which couldn't put him in a good light. I can't condone obvious rough treatment of the baby. But none of these things could have caused his death. None of the witnesses testified to seeing him do anything which caused the death of the child," Collard concluded.

Testimony of all of the key witnesses will be capsule in the Sunday edition of the Leader-News.

Almost 30 witnesses were heard in the two days of trial.

After hearing the verdict, Myers consulted with his attorneys and will wait 10 days before sentencing or take the option of filing a new motion. Judge Boone remanded him into custody of the sheriff and cancelled his opportunity to make the $50,000 bond.

Barbara Mandrell booked for 59th annual PSP Fair

Barbara Mandrell has been booked to replace Dolly Parton in the entertainment lineup at the 59th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair.

Steve L. Lewis, general manager, said Mandrell will appear on stage with Freddy Fender on Sept. 27-28.

Superstar Parton withdrew on her doctor's advice. Her personal physician ordered her to take a "complete, uninterrupted rest" until Oct. 1.

Mandrell is the youngest member of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry. The pint-size (5-2, 95 pounds) country stylist also is adept on the five-string guitar, steel guitar, bass and saxophone.

Considered a show business veteran at 14, Mandrell set several records in 40 and 50 yard dashes in a Los Angeles track meet during her high school days. She still admits to being a "tomboy."

She started out with a family band and landed a stint at the Showboat Hotel in Las Vegas at 14. Now a successful Columbia Records artist, her top releases include "Midnight Oil," "Treat Him Right," "Holdin' On to the Love I've Got," "Show Me," "Playing Around with Love" and many others.

The Texas native resides in Nashville with husband Ken Dudney, a pilot on the staff of Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn.

She joins a top array of stars for the Sept. 25-Oct. 2 exposition, dubbed Festival 76.

Others include Charley Pride, with Dave and Sugar, Sept. 26; Charlie Rich, Sept. 29-30; and Neil Sedaka, Oct. 1-2. Shows will be presented at 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. daily and tickets will be $4, $5, and $6. All seats are reserved. No tickets will be on sale until mid-July and no mail order requests will be accepted until then.

A fiddlers' contest, offering some $1,500 in prize money, will take over the limelight in Fair Park Coliseum on opening day.

A Banker's Viewpoint...

A retired Massachusetts congressman named Hastings Keith got curious not long ago about his congressional pension. He wondered what it would amount to by the end of his life.

Using his normal life expectancy as a base and accounting for the present and expected future rates of inflation, along with the automatic inflation-offsetting provision in his pension, Congressman Keith calculated that before he died he would be drawing $16,000 a month.

That sounds great for the congressman, until you allow for the fact that if his figuring is accurate, $16,000 won't buy him any more than his present pension buys today. In fact, if inflation should turn into a runaway, as inflation has in many countries many times, the $16,000 might not buy him anything at all.

Unless such a runaway inflation should occur, however, the people who create inflation - our members of Congress - are insulated nicely against its effects. Automatic escalation takes care of them.

But the people who pay the price for both government and inflation have no cushion whatever. These are the self employed and wage earners who have to try to save enough to build a decent retirement fund.

Even harder hit are people already retired, trying to live on the inflation-watered income from social security, pensions or self retirement plans based on what they earned ten or 15 years ago.

Inflation is created by federal deficit spending. Period. It is not created by the merchant who, as distressed as the next person about rising prices, has to charge more and more for the articles on his shelves.

It is not created by the banker who, having to pay more to borrow money himself, and faced with ever-increasing costs of operation and paperwork for the government, has to charge a higher rate of interest on money he loans.

It is not created by any business of any type or any size.

Only government can create inflation, because only government can print money, or create federal debts, which amount to the same thing as printing surplus money.

We are in a bad way when our lawmakers can find amazing unity in raising their own pay, but break up into a paralyzing wrangle when there's a logical demand for a balanced federal budget.

The Littlefield Jr. Babe Ruth 13-year-old All-stars had to wait until Tuesday for their first round game against

Census Bureau to make survey

Rosemary McNeese, local representative of the Bureau of the Census, will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the week of July 19-24, according to Percy R. Millard, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas.

The survey is conducted for the U. S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation.

For example, in May the survey indicated that of the 94.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 87.7 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent, down from 7.5 percent in April and substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 percent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Sudan board approves four

UDAN— The hiring of four new teachers highlighted the meeting of the Sudan school board Monday.

The board also accepted the resignation of Alvin Scott, athletic director; Beverly Scott, social studies teacher; Beverly Thurmond, kindergarten; Kay Morton, economics; and Charlene Shafer, first grade teacher. The post of girls' athletic director still needs to be filled.

Approved for the 1976-77 school year are new faculty members Mary Horton, high school math; Joan Nix, home economics; Felice Bryant, kindergarten; and Loretta Reid, first grade.

The board also approved the teacher merit pay schedule for teachers who go back to college to take more hours toward their degree; set teacher in-service expenses; and approved the six-period school day after changing from the traditional seven.

Bids were accepted on a 1968 Chevrolet school bus for $890 and a 1963 Dodge bus for $857. Plans for the construction of a four-foot cyclone fence around the west side of the elementary playground were also passed.

Olton faculty complete

OLTON— According to Olton school superintendent Joe Turner, "If we had to open our doors tomorrow, we'd be ready. This is the earliest we've had all our teachers hired for the coming year in some time."

The Olton school board made this possible by approving seven new contracts for the fall in their meeting Monday night.

Bill Nelson will replace Fred Stockdale as band director, coming to Olton from Ralls. Lynn Martin has been hired to replace Melinda Smith as junior high girls coach. Martin is a recent graduate from Tarleton State University. Johnny Taylor has been named an assistant high school coach and social studies teacher in place of Bill Johnston.

Georgeana Nafzger and Lucy Maruca will be new elementary teachers, following the resignation of Virginia Hill. David Grayson will assume duties as vocational counselor, replacing Jack Burkhalter.

The board also named Turner as tax custodian and had a short discussion concerning next year's budget.

Wolverines sign coaches

SPRINGLAKE-EARTH— The Wolverine high school coaching staff was completed for the fall when the S-E school board named a new basketball coach and a football assistant.

Buddy Luce will head up the basketball chores, and Joe Timman has been hired as a varsity assistant grid coach. They now complete new head coach Roland Murray's three-man staff.

The board also hired Richard Roper as band director, Melody Roper as special reading teacher, James Murray as special reading and Frances Beard to teach special education. Helen Wester, choral director, resigned, and his replacement is being sought.

In its Monday night meeting, the board also revised the school handbook, discussed school property insurance, chose Keystone Life Co. to handle student insurance, heard a report on the summer maintenance program and started preliminary hearings on next year's budget.

There will be a public meeting Aug. 23 to set the 1976-77 budget.

Amherst to build fieldhouse

AMHERST— The Amherst school board accepted a bid from West Texas Steel for the building of a fieldhouse and public restroom building in its meeting July 6.

The fieldhouse will be built as an extension onto the vocational ag building. The board also approved a bid from an Earth painter to paint the inside of the gymnasium.

The resignation of Betty Rosson, special ed. teacher, was accepted, and the board is now considering applicants for her replacement.

Martin new Longhorn coach

SPADE— Mike Martin, a 1975 graduate of West Texas State University, was named new head coach of the Spade Longhorns in the school board meeting Monday.

Martin, 25, will coach basketball and teach social studies. He has been married three years, and for the last five months has been filling in on the Lorenzo coaching staff.

Spade is still seeking a high school principal and grade school basketball coach.

IF YOU THINK water witching is a hoax, you may change your mind at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 when Chester Burrier of Stockdale makes his diving stick magic. If he finds a vein of water on the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures, he'll sink a narrow gauge well to prove his skill. And that's not all. If you've got a corn, wart, or similar ailment, he might cure it by stuffing a certain scrap of paper in his pocket. [Institute of Texan Cultures Photo]

Folklife Festival to get underway Aug.

Amid the jeers of skeptics, Chester and Lester will perform their skill-water witching.

But disbelievers will change their tune at the Texas Folklife Festival Aug. 5-8 in San Antonio when Stockdale water witchers Lester Hastings and Chester Burrier prove their ability at finding ground water sources using only a stick.

"I don't know how it works," Burrier said. "I can find the vein and tell if the water is good or bad. Lester can tell how deep the vein is."

The two use only green branches. Burrier holds a forked stick before him then walks over the area waiting for the magnetism of water to pull the nose of the stick down. To determine the water's quality, Burrier notches his stick and wedges in a silver coin. He passes over the water source again. If it is good, the stick travels down once again.

The depth is determined with a long reed. Hastings kneels at the site of the water source, holding the stick loosely in his hands. The stick taps out the number of feet.

Hastings, who has been a water witcher for 35 years, started as a skeptic himself.

"I learned to do it by laughing at a man I was watching," Hastings explained. "But," he added, "not everyone has the power to do it."

The two witchers will comb the grounds of the Institute of Texan Cultures for water during the festival. Once it is found, visitors can test the accuracy of the divining rod by helping to sink a well in a spot.

And, if you still doubt, up a forked stick and test your own power.

The festival, sponsored by The University of Texas at San Antonio's Institute of Texan Cultures, is held on the grounds in HemisFair Plaza downtown San Antonio.

Advance tickets are available now at $2 per adult and 50 cents for children under 12. At the gate, prices rise to $3 and 50 cents.

The water witchers are a multicultural array of dance, arts and demonstrations and food featured at the Folklife Festival.

THE MASHED O Lamb County records registration of cattle as one of the very documents to be recorded that one of the registrations was the one recorded by W. E. J. James, son of J. B. James, has purchased several thousand acres joining his father on the north. This acreage has the old Soda Lake on its northern extremities, and thus a lot of sub or semi-sub irrigated land and almost sure of good grass in dry weather.

When the James purchased this vast territory, they also got in their deal many of the original Mashed O cattle and horses carrying this famous brand, and the last of the Mashed O.

These large and sturdy old cows, together with a few of the high bred bulls and fine quarter horses with age brands that tells their age and denotes their origin, will soon be gone, but their heritage and quality will long be remembered by the cattlemen of the plains.

Now, J. B. and Jearl James have one of the nicest and most useful ranches in Lamb County, and with their fine families and ranching determination, shall surely carry on the cattle business started by the Halsells of long ago.

J. B. James brands the Jay Five, and Jearl brands the Jay Bar. Seems kinda pitiful to put a different brand on the Old Mashed O cows' calf, but time, progress, and tradition changes a lot of things.

The period during which the Occupation Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) invites the public to comment on a proposed farm field sanitation standard has been extended from July 6 to Aug. 16.

A June 29 Federal Register notice clarified some of the issues raised in the April 27 proposal to provide field sanitation rules for farm workers.

A second notice, published in the Federal Register June 30, extends the deadline for public comment to Aug. 16.

The Clarifying notice recognizes the geographically distinctive nature of American agriculture, where products, farming methods and work practices vary widely among regions. It raises the issue whether these differences should affect the requirements of a final standard.

The notice affords the opportunity for added public comment on proposed requirements for drinking water, toilet and handwashing facilities.

OSHA officials explained that the proposed standard merely initiated the rulemaking process. Only after full public comment is received on the original issues, and on the clarifications, public regional hearings are held and the entire record is complete, will a decision be made a final standard published.

Written data, views and arguments or requests for hearing must be submitted to the U. S. Department of Labor, OSHA, Docket Office, Docket No. S-307, Room N3620, 3rd St. and Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D. C. 20210, on or before Aug. 16.

All comments received will be open to public inspection.

Comments are invited on the proposed amendment, scheduled for publication in the Federal Register of June 11. Comments should be mailed or delivered in writing to Nancy Snyder, Director, Food Stamp Division, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250, to be received no later than June 26.

USDA is planning to test the use of photo identification cards— in hopes of stopping unauthorized persons from getting food stamps.

This testing would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to evaluate test projects on a small scale, for possible national use. The proposed amendment gives states a chance to show administrative and cost benefits of procedures not currently authorized by program regulations. The proposal also outlines the way states may request the Secretary's approval to carry out test projects.

USDA proposes testing for Food Stamp program

Testing of new administrative procedures, such as photo identification cards for food stamp users, could be allowed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) under a proposed amendment to Food Stamp Program regulations.

Hand hoeing is best in culling garden weeds

Hand hoeing is still the most effective way to weed a small garden, believes Birch L. Lobban, county agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Hand hoeing is inexpensive, accurate and even enjoyable and rewarding for some," he says. "Begin hoeing when weeds appear and keep it up through out the growing season. Weeds that are close to the base of plants should be pulled by hand."

If you can't stand the strain of hoeing, mulches and herbi-

cides (chemical weed killers) can be used to keep weeds out of the garden. Mulches, which prevent weeds from emerging by blocking out the sun, work best against weeds that come up each year from seed, Lobban explains.

Compost, straw, leaves, hay, sawdust, wood shavings and bark all make good mulch materials. Plastic sheeting, newspaper and black polyethylene film can also be used for mulching. However, clear plastic is not an effective mulch because it lets in sun light.

"Before applying any mulch, moisten the soil," points out Lobban. "If you plan to use plastic sheeting apply most of the fertilizer plants you will need beforehand."

Lobban recommends applying organic mulches only when the soil temperature has warmed up. Otherwise, the soil will stay cool longer, thus slowing plant growth.

It might be necessary to add nitrogen to organic mulches because micro-organisms in the mulch use this element in the decaying process.

As far as herbicides are concerned, these are difficult to use in a small garden with many different kinds of vegetables. A herbicide that is safe for one kind of vegetable may not be safe to use on another, Lobban points out.

A good all purpose preplant herbicide that kills weeds, nematodes and fungi is Vampan. The material can be applied to the soil with a hose-on sprayer several weeks before planting. Water the soil well for a few days after application so the herbicide seeps into the soil. Covering the garden with plastic sheeting immediately after applying the herbicide makes the treatment more effective.

Lobban adds that herbicides applied at or after the time of planting are not as good as preplant herbicides. However, Dacthal, a pre-emergence herbicide which is applied after planting, is a satisfactory weed killer for gardens.

All chemical herbicides should be used only according to instructions on the label and should be applied with caution, emphasizes Lobban.

GOD ALWAYS LEAVES HIS MARK

I stood in the mouth of the little cave at Qumran by the Dead Sea. "So this is the place where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found," I mused. "Not a very likely spot for anything of importance to happen." But scholars tell us something of great importance occurred there. A few fragments of parchment were found in a clay jar where they had lain untouched and undiscovered for more than 2,000 years.

After examining the published portions of the scrolls and reading much of the literature published about them, I reached a personal conclusion which has remained with me to this day. An artist always leaves some mark or signature to supply authenticity to his work. It may be in the combination of colors, intensity of light, brush strokes or even the arrangement of figures—but what he or she does makes that canvas unquestionably theirs!

So God, from time to time, does certain things in certain ways—so distinctively, so surely His style—that when those of us, His children, see it, we exclaim, "It's His!"

The scraps and almost unreadable fragments of the Dead Sea Scrolls? It's unimportant what they say. It is of immense importance what they imply—"He did it—He was here!"

—Paul M. Stevens
