Center Locates Telephone Troubles

The General Telephone Company began operation of a new Trouble Analysis Center that officially started July 1 for the Field District.

The exchanges that are to be served by the center belonging to the General System are: Amherst, Anton, Earth, Littlefield, Muleshoe, Olton, Spade, Springlake, Sudan and Whitharral.

Other exchanges to be served that are owned by Five Area Telephone Co-op of Muleshoe are: Bula, Needmore, Lariat and Lazbuddie, and the South Plains Co-op Exchange of Fieldton.

Records are now being kept in the Center of any difficulty encountered in dialing by customers and distant operators. This will enable central office repairmen to locate equipment trouble when a pattern is developed from the records kept for each exchange. A pattern is three similar reports in any one group or section of numbers.

R.E. Haggard, area equipment installation coordinator from San Angelo, conducted a school June 30 through July 1 to instruct and assist local personnel in setting up the center.

Those in attendance other than Haggard were: G. F. Kehoe, Littlefield area district manager; C.R. Morgan, Littlefield area district central office foreman; Kenneth Gore, central office foreman trainee; Billie Harris, trouble analysis center clerk; M.J. Cotter, F.A. Feagley, T.W. Mackey, and C.C. Shelton, central office repairmen.

Haggard stated that the centers have been well accepted and have proven very effective. So far centers have been set up in Brownfield and Littlefield and one is to be started in Memphis in the near future. They are also in operation in Hobbs, N.M. and in Guymon, Okla.

Kehoe, Littlefield District Manager says it is expected that customers in the area should benefit with better service derived from the local Trouble Analysis Center's operation.

Since the office began keeping records it has enabled central office repairmen to locate and repair several defects in central office equipment that may have been undetected if the information had not been obtained from the Trouble Analysis Center.

Health Policies for Veterans Each Billion

Health insurance policies for veterans from the Veterans Administration for service-connected disabilities hit $1-billion in face value in May, Jack Coker, Waco regional office director has reported.

May, 2,000 policies were issued to VA disabled veterans, according to the active policies to the face value to the billion figure.

Coker noted that 22,000 low-rate "RH" policies were issued in May. This was a 50 percent increase over 1969, and the most in any year since the program was started in 1951.

Coker said the "RH" program fulfills a continuing goal, and VA encourages veterans with service-connected disabilities to take advantage of the coverage.

These veterans might find it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain adequate insurance coverage after age 65, except at very high premium rates.

A veteran discharged from service on or after April 25, 1952, with a service-connected disability is eligible for a $10,000 "RH" policy at standard rates.

There must be in good health at the time of his disability, and he must apply for the insurance within one year of the date VA grants him his disability rating.

The VA Regional Director is interested in veterans with service-connected disabilities to apply for "RH" insurance at their nearest VA office, or get information from any local veterans service organization representative, or VA Service Officer.

The VA office in Littlefield is located in the basement of the courthouse.

Information may also be obtained by writing the VA regional office, 1400 North Hwy. Mills Drive, Waco, Texas 76710.

BEAUTY AGAINST CANCER

A famous cancer expert once said that he rarely saw skin cancer on beautiful women. The reason: many beautiful women give special care to their skin, and protect it against overexposure to sunlight. They also have blemishes removed as soon as they find them. Skin care, says the American Cancer Society, helps you protect yourself from skin cancer--the most common and most easily cured of cancers.

DEAR EDITOR

What Our Readers Think

Paid Two-Fold

Dear Sir
 July 14, 1971
 Late Sunday afternoon, July 11, two youths of Latin-American descent, who had run out of gasoline about 1/2 mile up the road, came to our home on the Fieldton Highway. We had about 1/2 gallon of gasoline in a glass jug. We gave this to them, asking them to return the empty container.
 We were away from home on Monday, but when we returned in the afternoon, the jug, full of gasoline, was sitting at our door.
 We did not get the boys' names nor did we ask where they live. This is written to be published in hopes that the boys and/or their parents might possibly read it and consider it an expression of our thanks and a commendation to them for their unusual action.

Respectfully,
 Mrs. Glenn Blackmon

PAUL HARVEY Property Taxes

WHETHER YOU OWN your home or rent your home you pay property taxes. About 25 percent of your total expenditure for housing is property taxes. And if you think this is bad, wait until 1980.
 Next July 15, Chicago's 750,000 property owners will pay their property taxes—and 9 1/2 percent more than last year.

THE NEW RATE will cost Chicagoans about 7 percent of the assessed valuation of their property every year.

It's worse in the suburbs, where you pay $1,000 a year taxes on your $25,000 house and that tax is already scheduled to double.

NATIONWIDE, local property taxes have soared 500 percent in 20 years.

You are paying five times the property taxes you paid in 1950.

What's it all about? Schools are a major factor in the pyramiding costs of city and county government.

IN CHICAGO, for example, it takes all the property tax on your $60,000 house just to educate one child.

And most houses are worth less, pay less, yet each of those houses may have two or three or four school-age children.

As for city and county governments lean on property taxes for 85 percent of their locally raised revenue.

UNLESS WE ARE to be taxed out of all private property and thus suffer revolution by evolution, other tax sources must be sought. And brace yourself, because there is no way anybody can prescribe any tax increase that's painless.

The free-riders will have to be taxed their fair share.

Larson and Lowell recently studied 14 major cities and discovered that one-third of all real estate in the United States is now escaping paying any taxes. If this tax-exempt property were to start paying taxes, it would save each taxpayer in our nation $300 a year.

OF THAT TAX exempt property, 70 percent belongs to government, but much of the other 30 percent is owned by churches and colleges.

A house of worship should not have to pay taxes. I think that lets Caesar's foot in the door and he might want the key.

BUT WHEN COLLEGES and churches engage in profitable businesses and real-estate holdings unrelated to their primary function—they should pay.

You know of areas in which for as far as you can see in all directions the property is owned by schools or churches or foundations representing one or the other.

THESE ARE SECULAR, financial, profitable interests—allowed to sit there and appreciate while eroding the tax base out from under a struggling community. Billions of dollars worth of property is now tax exempt on that basis.

Offhand, I can't name any politicians with the courage to suggest taxing church-owned property. It would take only one churchman of prominence to break this ice jam.

THE PHILOSOPHER

Even Terms

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm tries to smooth the international feathers this week, but may have just ruffled them more.)

Dear editor:

In these days of de-classification of government secrets I was interested in reading about the latest one, a report on how much money in military aid the United States gives to various countries around the world.

Up to now, the matter has been classified as top secret, on the grounds, according to the government, that "it might be embarrassing if one country knew what another country was getting and therefore international relationships might suffer."

Some Senator did press the matter though and the government reluctantly gave the figures, showing that this year we're giving 713 million dollars in military aid to 42 different nations.

What interests me is this matter of damaging our international relationships if one country finds out we're giving more to her neighbor than to her.

It's a valid point. Everybody knows if you give more ice cream to one child than another, the one that got less will be of being thankful for what he got. In cases get mad at you because he didn't get as much as the other.

Now the fat's in the fire. Here we're giving away three-quarters of a billion dollars a year to 42 nations, each knows what the other one is getting, and but the topmost one is mad at us, probably thinks we should have more.

Furthermore, there are around nations on earth, and if just 42 got mad, that leaves 150 that didn't get anything and we give away the dough hot water we get.

There's only one way to solve this, everybody exactly the same amount. We've got 713 million dollars to spread. Divide that by 200 and write 300 checks.

If this won't keep peace in the world, nothing will. Unfortunately we won't see this motto on a youngster's sweater a few months ago. Dogs move over, we come!

Those guys seeking scientific proof of life after death are looking in the wrong place, and going about it in the wrong way. If they have doubts about what they have to do, to remove their doubts die!

SERIOUSLY, if they must go about proof of this question in scientific fashion they're doomed to disappointment. They have chosen the foolish things of this world to confound the wise.

If the proof of the Bible is not enough, history doesn't prove the reality of Christ if the creation itself, and the forces of nature aren't enough to convince minds of the truthfulness of God's word, we needn't look any place else. The Bible is raised from the dead, they would believe!

THE SIMPLE CHILDLIKE faith of a believer is necessary to fulfill God's will. We don't have this, then we're in for surprise in the hereafter.

We don't need their scientific proofs. We can read all about it in the Bible without the aid of a computer.

HONNY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

A FEW DAYS back The "Plainsman" seemed a little concerned about the opera the "Jesus People" were presenting in Philadelphia.

While his interest seemed to be in a casual manner his primary concern seemed to be about their portraying Christ as an "Ordinary Joe."

IN THE SAME edition was the account of the scientists in Durham, N.C. who were trying to find proof of life after death.

I'm not too concerned about what the "Fadist" publicity seekers are promoting to get your attention and money. We should recognize by now, that anything to gain attention and to shock the sensibilities of the older generation, as well as the decent level-headed younger person is the aim of the activities.

NOTHING IS SACRED nor moral in their minds. Their main aim is to prove by any means, that they're the "In" crowd and all others are either ignorant or "squares". They'd like you to think that they're the first to discover knowledge and truth. "Yeah, man, tell it like it is!"

This is the same kind of thinking that prompts the filth peddlers and the smut producers to think that most people accept and appreciate their offerings, both in the movie industry and the paper-back editions.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Good Friends

By BOB WEAR

IS THERE ANYTHING better than good friends? One of the greatest blessings this life has to bestow upon us is to give us friends, true friends.

Of course, this means that we must learn how to be friends. Unfortunately, there is a kind of superficial human relationship that is generally called friendship. This must never be mistaken for real friendship.

FRIENDSHIP CANNOT be bought, but we can establish an appearance of friendship by the use of gifts and continuing bestowal of favors.

As most of us know, when the gifts are discontinued, and there are no more favors, the pretended friendship ends.

"PURCHASE NOT friends by gifts; when you cease to give, such will cease to love." - Fuller.

Flattery is used by many folk to try to win the good will of others, and, unfortunately, it works for a time. The ultimate outcome of this widespread practice is a continuing source of loss. It does so much to destroy the sincere, well-meaning friendship which is given in response. Eventually, the flattery is for what it is; one of the most harmful forms of deceit.

FALSE FRIENDS are those who pretend to be our friends. They are what we sometimes call "fair weather" friends. Of course, these persons are never, in true sense, friends.

"False friends are like our shade, keeping close to us while we walk in sunshine, but leaving us the instant we cross into the shade." - Bovee. This certainly not a satisfactory human relationship.

WE CAN HAVE true friends, if we are willing to show ourselves friends. Friendship is a mutual human experience.

It has been said by some authorities that the field of human behavior that there are some persons not capable of a meaningful friendship. Most people, however, do have the capacity for real friendship; and this is a very important source for the enrichment of the living experience.

THE INDIVIDUAL LIFE is fortified and strengthened by the right kind of friendships, and that which is given in friendship enriches both the giver and the receiver.

Friends, true friends, do not take advantage of each other; but they are sensitive to the needs of one another. They want to help, and will diligently try to find ways to help.

"LIFE IS TO BE fortified by true friendships. To love and to be loved is the greatest happiness of existence." - Smith.

Friendship is precious, and is to be treated as such. True friendship has a built-in toughness. It is long-lasting and fortifying. It endures the usual very well, but cannot long endure carelessness or neglect.

WE MUST NEVER MINIMIZE the value of good friends, or the importance of being a good friend.

It Pays To Be Young

Young Families: Income Distribution

YOUNG ADULT FAMILIES, those where the head is under 35, today receive about 25 per cent of the nation's total family income.

"Finance Facts," a monthly newsletter on consumer behavior published by the National consumer finance Association, reporting on estimates made by The Conference Board, says that by 1980 it will exceed 40 per cent.

IN 1969, two-fifths of all young adult families had incomes of more than $10,000. Looking ahead, it is expected that the fraction will increase to three-fifths by 1980.

Education will be a major factor underlying these increased incomes. By 1980, one out of every three young adults (under 35) will have had at least some college.

CONSUMER INDUSTRY will be affected significantly by the rising importance of the young through the design and quality of their products and the nature of their advertising messages.

If you are a young adult today, or will be by 1980, it is and will be your world...it pays to be young, and it's going to keep on paying.

Water, Fire, Machines Threat To Farmers

Texas farm or ranch could be without water, fire and machinery. Yet these essentials are the agri-businessman's greatest threat, according to the president for Farm and Ranch of the Texas Safety Council.

Each year in Texas, water, fire and machinery accidents take the lives of at least 100 people engaged in agricultural activities. Other factors accounted for 63 deaths.

Accidents involving farm and ranch machinery were the leading killers among the three. In 1970, 19 people died in such accidents. Nineteen of the deaths involved tractors, six used shredders, two came from combine accidents, and two from mowers.

Of the deaths occurred in vehicles fell off jacks, more occurred when the vehicles were struck by vehicles on the road, and three deaths occurred when the victims were struck by other machinery.

Modern agri-businessman must use machinery in his day-to-day operation. But he does not have to become the victim of accidents, if he will follow a few simple rules.

Farmers and ranchers should read and follow instruction manuals for the operation of machinery. Guards and safety devices should be kept in place, and machines should always be shut off before anyone attempts to unclog or adjust them.

Children should be kept away from machinery and all workers should be taught to stay clear of the moving parts of agricultural machines.

Water-oriented accidents claimed 31 rural Texas lives last year. The deaths came in boating, swimming and fishing accidents on Texas farms and ranches. The most important safety step rural families can take in this area is to teach every member of the family how to swim. Stock ponds, streams and creeks should be properly guarded to protect small children. Twenty of last year's fatalities were under 19 years of age, seven of those were 9 or under.

Flotation aids should be kept handy near all agricultural water hazards and that family members should know how to administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

Fire destroyed at least one human life on Texas farms and ranches in each month, except October, during 1970. Twenty-nine people perished in the blazes.

Proper preparation for emergencies such as fire is one way of saving lives. Inspections should be made on a regular basis of appliances, electrical wiring, and power tools, and the defects eliminated. Heating systems, portable heaters, and other possible fire hazards should also be checked.

Farm and ranch families should prepare a home fire escape plan and to make assignments for each person for action in case of fire. The plan should be tried during a fire drill.

Fourteen deaths occurred on farms and ranches as a result of falling accidents. Falls generally occur when makeshift or broken ladders are used, or when people are in a hurry to take the proper amount of time to plan a specific job. Handrails and good lighting can help eliminate falling hazards on stairs and steps. Workers should also remember to scrape mud, grease, snow, and other substances from shoes before climbing ladders on machinery, equipment, or buildings.

Mite Trouble Evident On Foliage

If the foliage on plants in the garden are turning mottled yellow and dropping off the plants, there is a good chance that the spider mite may be the cause, advises Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips, county home demonstration agent.

Check your yards for insects and other problems now.

The spider mite is one of the most troublesome pests during the hot summer months.

Kelthane, Diazinon and Cygon will aid in controlling the spider mite. Use as directed on the label.

Continue to pinch mum plants to obtain compact bushy plants.

To protect roses from black spot spray with Phalten or Maneb to both upper and lower leaf surfaces.

VERSATILE INDUSTRY Versatility has become a byword of the trucking industry. Special equipment enables the motor truck to handle every type of freight from frozen foods and chickens to missiles and tanks!

Remove old flowers and flower clusters to encourage new growth and more flowers on roses and crepe myrtles.

Container grown or balled and burlapped plants can be set out anytime to replace dead plants or to renew the landscape.

BALER TWINE An art professor has sculpted a ball of baler twine 12 feet high and containing 117,000 feet of baler twine. The twine, over a wooden frame, is coated with polyester and weighs 1,100 pounds.

Food, Food Everywhere ... Sea's Promise

... tell us the oceans
... grow more than
... food to feed everybody
... world. This is a com-
... pact when we consider
... of hungry people.
... underscores the
... that we don't know how
... all that food ef-
... Tremendous strides
... made in conventional land harvesting methods, but harvesting the ocean profitably is a tremendous challenge facing industries and governments throughout the world.

Many developing nations desperately need food, especially high protein food for which the sea is an excellent source. Today, only 1 percent of all food comes from the sea, but that 1 percent is so protein-rich that it accounts for 12 percent of the protein consumed by people the world over.

The methods we use today for getting food from the sea haven't changed much since the days fishermen first cast nets into the water. If we're going to do better, new methods, practically a whole new body of technology, will have to be developed.

Governments, industries and universities are working right now to meet the challenges of the sea, to channel its potential.
They're working on new tools, developing ways of living underwater and trying to learn how to select and grow the most productive plants and animals.

Backed by these resources and the efforts of a growing body of dedicated men, tremendous strides are being made. One example is fish FPC. FPC is a high protein foodstuff made from whole fish with a process developed by the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

It could prove a mighty weapon in the battle against world hunger because less than one cent's worth of FPC can supply a child with his minimum daily protein needs.

Though its potential is great, the history of FPC is filled with controversy. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration was hesitant to clear the product for human consumption, mainly for two reasons. One, FPC is made from whole fish-bones, scales, heads-everything. Two, the fish used for raw material are "trash" fish, which people in the U.S. do not ordinarily eat.

Eating whole fish is presumably no more repulsive than eating whole clams or oysters. And trash fish are no less nutritious than other fish;
they're simply less tasty.

In its final form, FPC made from whole trash fish is a white powder, very pure, odorless and tasteless. Adding it to foods like bread is a cheap way to greatly enhance their nutritional value.

Objections to its use were eventually overcome and the FDA approved FPC for consumption at home and abroad.
That it did so is important, not only for the future of FPC, but also because it clears the way for the development of foodstuffs from other unorthodox sources. The sea will be one of these sources, but there will be others. Crude oil, for instance, can be converted into protein by a certain type of bacteria.

The promise of filling the world's pantries is not the only force pulling men toward the sea. It's filled with other possibilities. By expanding our knowledge of the ocean, we'll know more about the weather and perhaps be a step closer to controlling it. We'll be able to locate and mine the vast mineral deposits on and under the ocean floor.

There are thousands of salvageable shipwrecks that can't be reached with today's technology. And as time goes on, new areas of profit will be found under the waves.

But none will be as rewarding as the ability to feed millions and millions of hungry people.

$8 1/2 MILLION MARKET

County Retail Stores Benefit From Spending

How much is the average family in Lamb County spending per year in local retail stores?
How does the spending pattern locally compare with that in other areas of the country?
Answers to these questions are provided by the Standard Rate and Data Service in its annual report on consumer markets, just released.
It reveals, for each community, the amount that was spent in the past year for food, clothing, cars, furniture and other commodities.
The figures for the local area show that more money was spent in grocery stores, meat markets, supermarkets, delicatessens, bakeries and other food emporia than in any other direction. The biggest part of the consumer dollar went for food.
The sales volume in these stores came to a grand total of $8,460,000, as compared with the previous year's $7,552,000.

In addition to this outlay, a significant amount was spent in lunch restaurants and other places where food and drink are consumed on the premises. In effect, approximately 25 cents of every dollar spent in local retail stores goes for take-home food. It was more than many communities.
On a per family basis, if the total bill were distributed equally among the local population, it would have amounted to $1,599 per family for the year.
This compares with $1,245 per family elsewhere in the United States and $1,222 in the State of Texas.
The report gives figures, also, on the amount of business done by other types of retail stores in the local area.
Those selling cars and other automobiles had sales totaling $5,580,000. General merchandise and department stores reported a volume of $1,257,000 against $1,178,000 in 1970.
Those specializing in wearing apparel accounted for $1,841,000. The previous year's total was $1,813,000.
Sales of furniture and other home furnishings added up to $1,153,000. Last year they amounted to $1,307,000.

Agricultural Problems Discussed In Senate

Agriculture "dodged lightning" again July 15 when the Senate voted 56 to 29 against another move to lower the maximum eligibility of producers to receive payments under current cotton, feed grains and wheat programs.
But observers close to the scene in Washington warn that the storm is by no means over, advise members of the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.
The Senate vote came on an amendment to the $13.6 billion appropriations bill for the Agriculture Department and environmental and consumer protection programs.
Offered by Senator Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the amendment would have cut the present statutory $55,000 per crop ceiling to $20,000.
The House adopted a $20,000 per crop limitations amendment to the appropriations bill on June 23 by a vote of 214 to 198. Differences between the House and Senate versions, including the limitations issue, now will have to be settled in a House-Senate Conference Committee, after which both houses will have the opportunity to accept or reject the Conference report.
Congress plans a month-long recess in August, so it is expected that action on the appropriations bill will be completed this month. Senate conferees have already been appointed.
House Conferees will most likely be appointed early in the week of July 19, and it is at that point that low-level limitations proponents may make their next move. They will no doubt consider the possibility, and perhaps make an all-out effort, to have House conferees instructed to insist on retaining the limitations amendment.
However, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the wide margin by which the amendment was defeated in the Senate and the narrow margin by which it passed the House both should work against the success of such a move. There is also doubt as to the parliamentary acceptability of instructing House conferees on an issue which the Senate specifically rejected.
Johnson, who was in Washington at the time of the vote both in the House and Senate, said "The consensus now is that the lower limit on payments can be avoided for 1972, but the storm clouds continue to build and we dare not become complacent."
Johnson went on to say that Texas Senators Tower and Bentsen, along with the Department of Agriculture and other Administration officials worked very hard to defeat the limitations amendment in the Senate.
"There is little doubt," he said, "that there is now a majority in both the House and Senate who favor a lower limitation level, and without the strong opposition of the Administration we could never have won on this issue."
Thus it becomes obvious that the Senate vote against the limitations amendment was a case of Senators acquiescing to the desires of the Administration and other Senators, not a reflection of majority sentiment.
This is further evidenced by the fact that, while rejecting the House-approved $20,000 payment ceiling, the Senate appropriations Committee nevertheless wrote strong language into its report on the bill directing the Agriculture Department to do a better job of policing the $55,000 ceiling now in effect.
And the full Senate adopted handily a resolution by Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., calling for Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to supply Congress with a full report on the operation and administration of the limit on price support payments.
Johnson sums up the situation by saying "It appears dodged lightning for the moment but the storm clouds are building and get dark every year."

Auditions Scheduled In Canyon

The director for "The From Spain", the story of the Texas plains, will hold auditions Sunday, July 18, at 2 p.m. in Room 202 in the Administration Center, West Texas University Campus, on road in Canyon.
This will be for male applicants who will be asked to perform a few minutes of music. Applicants will also be asked to participate in a screen test at 4 p.m. the same day.

How Flattering Are Your Legs?

American girls are famous for having the most beautiful legs in the world. And fashion and figure authorities are always looking for new ways to help the American woman perpetuate this flattering image.

The leg experts at a hoisery company felt that New York's top fashion models would be an invaluable source of information on leg care. So they polled these girls with a "Leg Diet" questionnaire to find out how they get their legs into great shape and keep them that way. And here are the results:

Question Number 1: To keep your legs from getting heavy—or to reduce them—what foods do you avoid? All of the models were in agreement. The big "no's" are sweets, greasy foods (french fries especially), salt, alcohol, and bread. As one girl put it, "Anything that tastes good!"

When asked in question number 2 what exercises they would recommend for too-heavy legs, the models all stressed bicycling, walking and a special exercise called leg raises: lie down on your back and extend one leg up, perpendicular to your body, with the other leg straight out on the floor. Swing the extended leg back and forth across your body 10 times. Then repeat with other leg. Another popular exercise is to lie on the floor with your arms outstretched, legs straight up in the air and pedal your imaginary bike!

For thin legs the models recommend walking, bicycling and special exercises to build the leg muscles—like standing with your feet together, hands on hips, and rising up and down on your toes as fast as you can.

And how do the models keep their hips trim? "Hip Walking." As one model explains it, "You sit on the floor—no carpet, please—arms crossed in front of you, legs straight, and walk on your posterior, forwards and then backwards." For how long? "For as long as you can stand it!"

Very few of the models use cosmetics on their legs. To flatter their legs they all use specific legwear styles.

If your legs are too heavy, they say wear the darker shades of legwear. At all costs, avoid patterned or textured hose, the girls warn.

As a boon to heavy legs designers have come up with a sheer support hose, and as one busy model put it, "The terrific thing about them is they don't look matronly!" The same designers have also just created "great shape queen size" and "great shape outside" for, as they say, "the woman who has more of everything." The heavier women, the models agree, have been neglected too long when it comes to getting a good fit in pantyhose.

For women with too-thin legs, the models say stick to the lighter shades. Knee socks are good, too. They add bulk. And for young girls, pre-teens and teens, who don't get a flattering fit in regular legwear, there are pantyhose designed especially for this age group's leg problems.

Other "leg diet" pointers include: If your legs are heavy, don't wear a skirt that ends at mid-calf. And heavy legs look even heavier with chunky-heeled shoes. The same goes for thin legs—they make you look like sticks. What's the best treatment for tired legs? Lie with your elevated at a 45-degree for at least 15 minutes in the middle of the day. This, with a hot bath at night, models' final "leg diet" for keeping your legs in shape.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

and get a spiritual lift  for the whole week

for Carl Yastrzemski.

Power Is

FAITH. That simple faith of our fathers is still the strongest force on the face of the earth. "It has the highest batting average for good," says outfielder Carl Yastrzemski, Boston Red Sox triple crown winner in 1967 and American League Batting champion in 1968. "I believe that God goes to bat for and with a fellow when the going gets rough. He adds power and purpose to everything I undertake. This knowledge, coupled with my faith in all people, especially my team mates, has helped me field some of the toughest problems of my life."

To Yastrzemski, the 1967 Red Sox were the epitome of power. They won the pennant. "In a sea of doubt, we believed we could and we were. The enthusiastic support from our Winter Haven training center and our loyal New England fans spelled the difference in many close games." With all men God spells the difference between victory and defeat in the closest game of all, the game of life.

"Yes, I believe in an Omnipresent Power, the greatness of America, and the goodness of people. My personal family and my Red Sox family all find comfort, strength and happiness when we worship together."
