oter Registration Mailouts alted Pending Further Notice

on again, off again voter retration is off again. After Lamb my tax office deputies had spent an elermined number of hours stuffing addressing envelopes and adding a ral court-ordered notice in both ish and Spanish saying failure to m the registration forms wouldn't it in being removed from the list of ble voters, Secretary of State Mark a Ir said he is not ordering county als to mail voter registration

ite added that the forms were so ed they created an insurmountable em. The mailing originally faced a is deadline and called for those did not re-register to be purged the voter registration lists.

originally intended, the legislatived re-registration would have d tremendously to straighten out mentally messed up voter tration lists across the state. But enting the purging of names and the ion of notices in Spanish resulted a couple of persons representing rities filing a suit and a ruling from result was that tax assessortors were supposed to mail out at county expense that would do ng to correct voter registration In effect, those returning the forms be on the voter list. However, s of only known dead could be off, persons could still vote er they were registered or not, and would still be labeled as a place the dead vote.

lling of approximately 9,000 forms will cost Lamb County $1,170 at the present postal rate. (The proposed postal increase supposed to have gone into effect Sunday was struck down by another federal judge ruling, but lifted Monday and the increase means 13 cents per mailing.)

Even with the state reimbursing the county 40 cents for every change resulting from the effort, there is no way the county can come out ahead or even The first mailing would cost 13 cents, then if the registration form was returned at the voter's expense it costs the county 19 cents for the computer form to make the registration list, then the registration has to be mailed back to the voter, costing another 13 cents. All this doesn't even take into account the many hours of labor involved by tax deputies. And no good purpose would be served without being able to take names off the list

For the present time, and until further notified, Herbert Dunn said the notices will not be mailed since it will do nothing to improve the county's voter registration list which hasn't been updated since permanent registration went into effect five years ago. Since that time voting precinct lines have been changed, many have moved away and

To further complicate matters, under the new law married women are no longer supposed to register under their husband's names but under their first, middle or maiden and last names. Thus a person who is registered as Mrs. John T. Smith could re-register as Mary Jane Smith and who would ever know that the two were one person. Where there are Jr. and Sr. Smiths and Joneses or whatever would only add more problems to the registration rolls. The only redeeming feature is that birthdates and social security numbers are to be added. This could help on duplication IF re-registration were required. Without mandatory compliance little if anything will be accomplished.

After five years without a reregistration, starting over completely with a "clean voter list" is the only way a correct list can be obtained. That is why the purge provision was and is

Under the current situation, any voter registration will be accepted and placed on the eligible voter list for any election 30 days or more after the registration.

1st Class Postage Stamp 13 Cents

If another postal ruling wasn't knocked down between this writing and press time Wednesday, beginning at noon yesterday first class mail rates rose to 13 cents for a one ounce letter.

Originally the increase was to have been effective Sunday, then U.S. District Judge John Sirica blocked the increase.

But a federal appeals court stayed the lower court ruling Monday allowing the postal service to raise the cost of mailing a first class letter from 10 to 13

The appeals court will decide on the merits in the case later, but allows the postal rates to go up meantime after hearing arguments that the Postal Service would not be able to meet payrolls in February if the increase were not allowed.

WAYLON JENNINGS and his wife Jessie Colter were in Littiefield Sunday and Monday for a family reunion. They arrived in their touring bus along with other band and family members. Jennings received the "Male Vocalist of the Year" award in the recent Country Music Association Awards, and Jessie Colter was nominated in the women's song writing division for her song, "I'm Not Lisa." From Littlefield, Jennings and his group went on to Arizona for a performance Tuesday night. From there they were to fly to Houston where Waylon. Jessie and Willie Nelson were to perform on New Year's eve. Then they were to fly back to Arizona for another performance Thursday night. Jennings said he put on over 200 performances in 1975 but planned to cut back on public appearances in 1976.

Brucellosis Quarantine

In Texas Effective 5th

Department of Agriculture (USDA) will quarantine the state of Texas to prevent the spread of brucellosis from that state. Also on Jan. 5, USDA will remove the certification status of all Texas counties.

According to officials of USDA's Animal Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), these actions are being taken because Texas failed to comply with the uniform methods and rules for the eradication of brucellosis in cattle, and because measures in effect in that state to eradicate brucellosis are inadequate to prevent the interestate spread of this livestock disease.

On Jan. 1, USDA will also: -Stop paying indemnity to owners of infected cattle in Texas, and -Cancel a funding agreement with the state for testing cattle at federal expense.

The quarantine will provide for designating "qualified" herds in a quarantined areathose shown to be free of brucellosis by two consecutive negative herd tests. The qualifying herd tests must be performed at specified intervals. Cattle for shipment from qualified herds must be individually tested and found negative for brucellosis within 30 days of interstate movement.

Under the quarantine, steers and spayed heifers (over six months old) can move without restriction. Stocker and feeder heifers from nonqualified herds can be shipped out of Texas only if branded with an "S" on the left jaw and shipped to a quarantined feedlot or to slaughter. Cattle for immediate slaughter must be "S" branded or from a qualified herd and

Don't Dress Wild Meat Bare Handed

Dr. Dean Evers, D.V.M., Public Health Veterinarian with Public Health Region 2, asks that the public be notified that human cases of Tularemia have occurred recently in the South Plains area One of the cases, occurring in Lubbock, did result in death to the person infected.

Tularemia is a disease that can be transmitted from infected wild animals The contact animals, usually rabbits, comes when the hunter handles or dresses the game he kills. Another source of infection for Tularemia is transmission by vectors. such as ticks or fleas, that can carry the disease from the infected animal to

The rabbit population is unusually high this year and many hunters will be adding rabbit stew to the menu. Dr. Evers stresses that hunters should be warned not to dress or handle these animals with bare hands. Rubber or plastic gloves in good condition should be used. The raw meat should not be handled without protection until it is thoroughly cooked. In addition, care tested to move across state lines. Cattle reacting to the brucellosis test would be branded with a "B" and be moved for slaughter as under current regulations.

The net effect of the quarantine will be to stop shipments of breeding cattle from Texas to other states until owners can establish qualified herds, which will take a minimum of four months in most instances.

Brucellosis, or Bang's disease, is a highly infectious disease of cattle and other livestock. In cattle, it attacks the reproductive organs, causing abortion, retained placenta, breeding problems, weak offspring, and reduced milk production. The disease may be passed from animals to humans where it is known as undulant fever

APHIS officials explained that the purpose of "S" brandingwhether for cattle from a quarantined area or for exposed cattle as now required under the uniform methods and rules for brucellosis eradication- is to assure that potentially infected animals end up at slaughter and are not diverted in market channels so they could possibly infect healthy cattle. The rule for "S" branding exposed cattle was recommended by the U.S. Animals Health Association (USAHA) and approved by USDA for all states over two years ago. USAHA is composed of veterinary officials representing all 50 states and the livestock industry.

Texas has over 35 percent of the cattle herds in the nation identified as being infected with

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

The Small Jobs

IN THE FULLNESS of Truth, there may be no big jobs or small jobs; however, in our general way of thinking about the different kinds of work, we consider some jobs small and some big. Of course, there is considerable variableness as the needs change. Under certain circumstances, a small job can become very big and important. We see this happening every day.

Some jobs are more difficult and more dangerous, and require more training and more skill; and we will continue classifying the work we do. There is nothing wrong with this, as long as we recognize the importance of all essential

THERE IS SOMETHING we can do, and should do. We can appreciate our work, and take pride in doing it well; and we can appreciate the essential work being done by others, and let them know that we do. Such action will strengthen many, many individuals; and provide our social order with new

IT IS DIFFICULT to make any sharp distinction between the small and the big jobs. There are times and situations in which what is usually called a small job becomes very big. We are beginning to see more and more of this, even if such is being made apparent by some sort of work stoppage; or in some other artificial way. The point is that we are being forced to appreciate each other's NOTICED QUITE a few people are complaining about gaining a little weight over the holidays, not to say anything about the reduction of weight on the bank account.

I think that I may have figured out why most people gain weight especially during Christmas and New Years. Now that was a dumb statement wasn't it? Well, the logic behind this statement may make a little sense. Of course we all overeat and I'm sure that some do indulge in high calorie drinks and that in itself will cause a certain amount of weight gain, but I'm thinking that there is another contributing factor that could also aid the body in gaining. If you will note, there are other times during the year when our society in dulges abundantly and we don't seem to gain as much as we do over the Christmas holidays. So there must be something else in our diets, especially at Christmas that causes the body to gain more.

I don't have any medical documents that could back up this theory, but maybe it might be something new. I don't want to compare you readers to cattle or sheep but maybe there could be a connection in the weight gain.

It has been proven in sheep and cattle that where their diet consists of an abundant amount of tannic acid (I hope that is the correct name for it) that the animal's digestive system utilizes more of the protein that it consumes and turns it into animal weight. At Christmas time it seems that the American society increases its diet with food that contains a very high amount of this acid thus if our digestive track is similar to the animals this could be the major cause of our sudden weight gain.

Now what types of food that is not part of our regular diet that seems to be in every household during the Christmas

It can't be turkey or dressing, nor cranberrys or celery. The items that at high in tannic acid are nuts especall pecans and walnuts.

I guess a person can find someon! the family that doesn't like nuts but est rather heavily and check his or be weight gain with someone that does like nuts and see which one gained the most over the holidays. Who knows this say be a new wrinkle in medical science.  Thanks to you that called in on Cort bride, was maid of honor. Jane Wright of Perryton and Cheri Widmayer of Artesia, N.M. were bridesmaids.

They were red polyester crepe floor-length gowns with long sleeves. The V-neck bodices and skirts were gathered and tied at the midriff with belts. They carried holly nosegays.

Lt. Skip Vogler of Winston-Salem, N. C. was best man. Lt. Denny Maple of Lubbock and Bobby Smith of Spearman were groomsmen. Frank Lemons of Columbia, Missouri, and Al Lemons of Friona were ushers and candlelighters.

Vows were read at an altar flanked by two spiral can delabras with red candles. There was a holly and red candle arrangement on the altar and Christmas greenery in the background.

Traditional organ music was played by Mrs. Wilma Clark of Spearman. Vocal selections were "Panis Angelicus" and 'My Own True Love," with Mrs. Karen Countiss of Spearman as soloist.

Barbara Whorton of Lubbock played piano selections at the reception in Fellowship Hall following the wedding. Kim Daniel, Gaye Woolley, and Beckee Kelp, sisters of the bride, served at the reception. Dana Daniel registered the guests.

The bride chose a burgundy jacket and skirt with coor dinating blouse for her going away attire. The couple are honeymooning in Acapulco, Mexico.

The bride attended McMurry College in Abilene. The groom attended Princeton University Air Force Academy.

"Happy New Year."

For most of us this greeting is stated perfunctorily, merely as a thing to say at this time of the year. It seems to us the matter should be given more thought, and the statement should be made with all the enthusiasm in our hearts

It happens that we live in one of the comparatively few countries in the world where people can really expect to be happy. All of us have our individual worries, of course, but think of these things:

As a people, we are not hungry

Our government is not oppressive.

We can go to sleep at night with confidence that we'll wake up snug and safe in the same bed next morning. No KGB or Gestapo exists here to drag us to prison in the middle of the night.

If we want to travel, across town or across the world, nobody stands in our way.

We are free people in a free nation.

Compare that with much of the rest of the world, where in many nations millions live in daily fear of their own governments and many are in peril from outside attackers as well. Hunger is a daily companion of millions also, not only in backward nations but also for the politically dispossessed in some of the world powers. Imprisoned thousands, held for the crime of opposing their national regimes, are reduced to the status of animals.

Russia as a whole is a vast prison for its people. Russian sports contenders travel to other nations under constant guard. If a Russian woman marries a man from a capitalist nation there's almost no chance that she will be permitted to emigrate to his country, or that he will be admitted back into Russia even for a short visit.

Heartbreak, suffering, cruelty and deprivation are the way of life for the majority of the people of the world.

By comparison, our country's freedom, even more than our standard of living, is the envy of the world.

So, as we enter this 200th birthday of the United States of America. let all of us who live here in Littlefield be thankful for our town, our progressive state and our material blessings. But most of all let us be thankful for, and dedicated to, the great freedom we have to be really free— a rather unique privilege in a troubled world.

We believe in this country and its people. Like the writers of our Constitution, we believe that the strength and the real intelligence of government originates with the people. So we urge all our citizens, here and elsewhere, to do our part-keep up with public issues and send our opinions about them to our elected representatives.

SPS To Refund Rural Customers to assess rural customers.

Southwestern Public Service Company announced today that it will no longer bill its Texas customers monthly for the onesixth of one percent of its annual Texas revenues that it is assessed under the law which established the Texas Public Utilities Commission. The company also announced that it would refund the amount that it has collected since the new law went into effect. A Southwestern spokesman said that, while the company and the Public Utilities Commission were in agreement that the tax clause in the company's rate ordinances made the collection of the assessment completely legal in urban areas. there was a difference of opinion between the Commission and the company on whether the tax clause permitted the company

"The question here is what is to Southwestern's customers. It would not be fair to collect legally from one set of customers and not assess the

THE ART OF DOING GOOD

Wouldn't it sound funny if the Bible said Jesus "went about being good"? Instead it says "He went about

The person who goes about wanting to be something is usually one who is not meeting his ego needs in a healthy manner. This kind of person is detrimental to the Christian cause. His outlook on every potential Christian involvement is expressed by "How can I use this occasion to enhance my reputation? Teaching a class, helping with church visitation, singing in the choir, or taxing the offering-can I use these opportunities to help myself?"

Christian service is an end in itself—not a means to an end. Any other outlook will distort one's view. The real need is hidden from this person since what is perceived is twisted by his own unhealthy ego needs. As Jesus, we should go about wanting to do something. Our ego needs are healthily met from deep wells of personal worth which flow from within us. And the larger agenda in our lives calls for kingdom service. Perhaps this is the meaning of the scripture, "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man" (Luke 2:52). The larger task was the end, and He was the means to accomplish it!
