Home Owners
 Spend More
 for Repairs

Lamb County families are spending more for home improvements in a big way these days. They are spending more for alterations, additions, replacement and maintenance than they ever did. In the past year, local home owners spent an estimated $25,000 to spruce up their homes, based upon government data showing average out-of-pocket housing unit in the residential area.

represented an average expenditure locally of $221 per year. Nationally, the average was $285.

Homeowners spent considerably more than this, of course, and others much less. Only a small proportion of them undertake major improvements in any one year.

During 1969, according to a survey conducted by the Department of Commerce and others from the National Association of Home Builders, approximately $13.5 billion was spent by homeowners throughout the country to refurbish their property. This compares with $12.7 billion in the previous year.

Why the increase? The answer is that many families had been contemplating buying their present dwellings and moving into newer homes and that they couldn't do so. They were held in check by tight money conditions, which made mortgages difficult to obtain, and by the high interest rates that made for big mortgage payments. They decided, therefore, to do the next best thing—fix up their present places.

Their biggest expenditure, in most cases, was for additions, alterations and replacements. This accounted for 61 per cent of the total.

The other 39 per cent was for maintenance, repairs and general upkeep, including painting, plumbing, roof reshingling, electrical work, floor sanding and the like.

To a greater extent than ever before, these jobs are being tackled by the owners themselves. This do-it-yourself trend was brought about by the high cost of labor and the scarcity of competent mechanics. As a result, much of the $25,000 spent in the year was for home improvements went to local merchants selling paint, hardware, plumbing, electrical supplies and the like.

BOB BROMLOW, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Retail Council, prepares for Saturday's big Free Auction, to be held in the old Knit Shop building, near Roden Drug. Shown in the window are a few of the items, donated by Littlefield businessmen, to be auctioned off at 5 p.m. to the highest bidder with auction dollars.

If possible, Miss Perkins' impressions of Sweden will be shared with readers through her letters, and she will be interviewed for a feature story when she returns.

water feels good on the face for a starter. . . Believe it would be better to start at the top. . . Say, looks like I've got company! Boy, this is the life 'Princess', come on in!"

Everyone in the area can participate in this unique Auction Dollar Days Sale by shopping with the merchants with the Auction Dollar Days Stickers on their doors and saving the Auction Dollars that are given dollar for dollar on all sales, (cash, charge or lay-away) for purchases up to $100 through Saturday.

Only "Auction Dollars" can be used to bid on the prizes, and the excitement of bidding on the gifts promises to be one of the year's top events.

Any participating business will be happy to give you all the details. Littlefield merchants have gone to considerable effort to make this one of the biggest events of the year. It is their way of saying "Thanks for your patronage."

WIN TRIP, CARBURETOR Name Calling Pays For Dad-Son

By NILAH RODGERS
 Leader-News Staff Writer

Someone really does win those contests.

Jack and Duff Wattenbarger know, because they recently won a national contest.

Duff is a racing car enthusiast who goes to the races and reads the car specialty magazines. When he read about a contest to name a carburetor, he jalked his dad into entering.

"I'd have entered it in my name," said the red-haired youth who will be a junior at Littlefield High School this fall, "but you had to be a licensed driver, and I didn't have my license at the time."

Young Wattenbarger said he figured he didn't have anything to lose, so he and his dad got their heads together and came up with the name "Dominator" to win the Holley Carburetor Company's "name the carburetor" Holley 4500 contest.

Seventeen other entries were received with the same name, but the Wattenbargers' entry was postmarked the earliest and declared winner by the judges over 6,000 other entries from every state in the union.

The two Wattenbargers said they chose the name "Dominator" because the carb had been on the winning car at every major NASCAR race.

Jack is manager of the Farm Bureau office in Littlefield. A long-time follower of racing, Jack got his indoctrination years ago watching sprint cars on a half-mile dirt track at Cederburg, Wis.

The prize included one of the carburetors and a manifold, plus an all-expense paid trip to Anaheim, Calif., to attend the Specialty Equipment Manufacturers Show (SEMA).

Jack and Duff flew from Lubbock to Los Angeles and were guests at the Disneyland Hotel and center of attention at the special awards breakfast and press review before an overflow audience of 250—including high-performance distributors, company presidents and famous name racers.

While in California, Jack and Duff toured the Mickey Thompson facilities and met a number of speed equipment manufacturers, including Vic Edelbrock who designed the aluminum intake manifold designed especially for the prize carburetor.

The prize was supposed to be the display model, but instead of taking it, the Wattenbargers waited for the first carb off assembly line production.

"The display model really wasn't functional," Duff said. "It was all chromed up and painted and didn't have a choke."

Each of the four barrels is two inches in diameter and a double pumper mechanical secondary flows with all four carbs open. The production version flows 1150 cubic feet per minute, toned down from 1350 cfm.

The Wattenbargers traded the prize manifold for one that could be used on their Mustang. The carburetor is kept on top of the television in the Wattenbarger den.

"It's quite a conversation piece," Mrs. Wattenbarger said.

"We keep it out like a trophy," Jack said. "It's pretty enough."

"We'd have to have a racer to use it," Duff concluded, "and even then we probably couldn't afford the gas."

DUFF WATTENBARGER shows off the carburetor that lists for $209.35 that he won as part of the prize for naming the new carb "Dominator." In addition to the carburetor and a manifold designed especially for it, Duff and his dad, Jack, won an all-expense paid trip to California.

Viet Amputee 'Getting Around'

Army Specialist Joe Galindo Jr. "is doing fine and getting around everywhere," according to his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miraval Sr. of Littlefield.

Specialist Galindo is now in Brooke General Hospital in San Antonio, recuperating from the loss of both legs, due to injuries he received from fragments of a booby trap in Vietnam April 16.

Mrs. Miraval reports, "Joe's spirit is real good" and he does most things for himself.

His wife, Delia, is in San Antonio with him, and their two daughters Debra and JoAnn, are staying here in Littlefield with their grandparents, the Miravals.

They all went to San Antonio last weekend to visit the Galindos, and drove Joe and Delia around the big city and up to Seguin to see other relatives.

Mrs. Miraval reports that Joe has gained back much of the weight he lost during his injury. When he was sent to San Antonio, he weighed 90 pounds, and he now weighs 104.

She says he is exercising daily, moves about in a wheel chair, and will learn to walk on his artificial limbs in about a month. "The doctor says Joe will be in the hospital two more months, before he will be transferred to Veteran's Hospital in Big Spring," Mrs. Miraval said.

She continued, "We're all so thankful he's doing so well," and wanted to relay a special "thank you" from the Galindos.

"Mr. and Mrs. Joe Galindo Jr. want to thank everybody for being so nice and for their letters, cards and presents," she said. "Joe has received many cards and gifts from people he doesn't even know."

Galindo's address is, Brooke General Hospital, Ward 43A, San Antonio, Texas 78234.

Years Add Up To Ad For Weldon Bowman

Weldon Bowman is 40 years old today, and his Whitharral friends are giving him the "40-year-old birthday present" by long distance. Bowman was superintendent of the Whitharral schools 30 years ago before moving to Itasca. But just because he no longer lives in the Whitharral community doesn't mean his birthday will be over-and strung up and down U.S. 385 with large verses attached "Burma Shave style" spelling out a birthday greeting to him. Considering the lengths some people will go to when a person reaches 40, Weldon Bowman better be thankful he lives at Itasca today and that his Whitharral friends are busy with their crops that they only had time to run an ad in the newspaper.

Mrs. Dirickson Is Named Queen Of TOPS Club

Be-Little TOPS Club met in regular session Tuesday night, and named Allene Dirickson weekly queen. Her runner-up was Doris McCoy.

Veida Gage presided for the meeting, in absence of the chairman, Hazel Davis, and she read a note from the Ropesville Club, inviting the local club to their Fifth Anniversary supper June 18. Several of the members made plans to attend.

The 14 members present planned a salad supper for the KOPS, and six months awards presentation July 14 in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

Veida Gage read a poem and Virginia Nichols read a story, "Highway To KOPStown".

Among routine business during the meeting, minutes were read and approved, weights of each member were recorded, and the pledge was said in unison.

Each member answered roll call with the number of pounds lost or gained the past week.

Record Number

A record number of North Texas taxpayers received an income tax refund upon filing their 1969 income tax return.

Most taxpayers are required to file an income tax return between January 1 and April 15.

Although all the returns have not been processed and all the refunds have not been issued for the 1969 tax year, 1,095,428 refund checks amounting to $223,454,916.33 have been issued to North Texas taxpayers.

This record number and amount of refunds were mailed out after processing 1,554,614 returns.

Thousands of taxpayers whose returns have not been processed for various reasons will still receive a refund.

However, these taxpayers will have to wait until the problems concerning their returns have been solved between them and IRS.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE Manager Jim Kelly, right, presents a "Certificate of Recognition" for 1970 to Chamber President Jim Jones and Mayor J. E. Chisholm. The certificate was presented to Kelly, in behalf of Littlefield, by Governor Preston Smith during the third annual meeting of the Beautify Texas Council in Austin June 11. The certificate was presented to Littlefield "for enhancing the quality of life in the community through planning, improving and preserving an attractive environment."

Police Investigate Wrecks, Jail Driver

City police investigated three wrecks Saturday, and one was jailed in county jail, charged with driving while intoxicated.

Manuel Montalvo of Spade was jailed Saturday night after he drove his 1962 into the rear of a 1965 Ford pickup, driven by Roy Hester Bussey of Littlefield, which was stopped at the stop sign on Sunset at West Delano. Montalvo left the scene and proceeded north across West Delano and ran into the left door of a 1969 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Sidney Garen Landrum of Littlefield.

After he struck that pickup, he continued to drive down Sunset and the patrolman caught him at the VFW Hall.

He was fined $142 plus restitution, and was released from jail Monday.

Saturday afternoon, a 1959 Ford, driven by Walter Lewis of Littlefield and a 1965 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Jack Clayton Fore of Littlefield, were involved in a collision on Griffin Avenue.

The Lewis vehicle was traveling west on Griffin, when Fore backed his pickup out of a driveway into the path of the Lewis car.

Approximately $140 in damages resulted to the right front fender, bumper and door of the Lewis car and about $130 in damages resulted to the left rear, bumper and tail gate of the Fore pickup.

Saturday evening, a 1968 Chevrolet pickup, driven by Phillip Craig Anderson of Littlefield, and a 1968 Chevrolet, driven by Martha Denning Powell of Littlefield were involved in a minor collision on Phelps Avenue between Fourth and Fifth Streets.

The Anderson pickup was traveling south on Phelps, when the Powell auto backed out into the path of the pickup.

About $50 in damages resulted to the pickup's right rear bumper, and approximately $5 in damages resulted to the back bumper of the car.

The adult male who has been serving out his fine in city jail since June 6, was released Wednesday morning when $30 of his fine was paid.

He was charged with drunk in public, no driver's license, and resisting arrest.

HOWNY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

SINCE SOME of the readers have expressed interest in the welfare of the mockingbird that was bugging me, I feel obligated to offer explanation.

I guess the bird was smarter than I gave him credit for being.--He moved the seat of his operations down about half-way the vacant lot behind my house.--Probably realized that he wasn't entirely welcome in our backyard.

NO, I DIDN'T poison him, tho I was tempted.--I think I'm enjoying his present plight, much more.

As I observe his actions of late, I've drawn the conclusion that he's a much more sober bird, than he was in the beginning of our acquaintance.

He doesn't roam around as much as previously, neither is he as noisy and as much of a show-off as before.--I THINK he's WORRIED!

TO TELL THE TRUTH, I think he's an expectant papa!

There's a lot of young'uns, full of bravado, youth, brass, and their superior knowledge of life, who think they're ready to set out on their own and reform the whole world, that when they have to face-up to the realities of the grown-up world, find that they weren't as ready as they first thought!

The recognition of the responsibilities of life can be very sobering!

SO, (having been there, myself) I can just imagine the things he must be thinking about!--"What have I done? ? ?"--As he paces up, and down that limb, wings folded behind his back.

"How many will there be? ? ?--Will they be healthy? ? ?--Will my mate come out in good shape? ? ?"--Worry!--Worry!--Worry!!!

THE TIME of flitting about from tree to tree has ended!--Instead of the sport of teasing the neighborhood tom cat, he's now filled with dread, even at the thought of the cat!--And no more showing off for the silly, giggling, single chicks, THIS IS SERIOUS BUSINESS!

Suppose a storm should destroy the nest!--Is the insurance paid? Or, what if the city poisons all the bugs? Will the little chicks starve? ? ?--Suppose a Sparrowhawk should find the nestling? ? ?--Worry, worry, worry!!!

I'M GONNA bet'cha that by the time he's off the hook on this experience, he'll be a much wiser and more subdued bird.

Further, I'll bet'cha that that tree-limb will be worn to a frazzle by the time the crisis is over!

Really, I hope that the family does well, and that the chicks grow up to be hale and hearty, and have a WHALE of an APPETITE!--Then, I hope the whole delegation moves across town!

AND, JUST in passing, I'd like to happen by his place, if, and when HIS lawnmower acts up!!!

WHEN A TORNADO APPROACHES-YOUR IMMEDIATE ACTION MAY MEAN LIFE OR DEATH

■ Seek inside shelter, preferably in a tornado cellar, underground excavation, or a steel-framed or reinforced concrete building of substantial construction. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!

IN CITIES OR TOWNS

In office buildings—stand in an interior hallway on a lower floor, preferably in the basement.

In factories—on receiving a tornado warning, post a lookout. Workers should move quickly to the section of the plant offering the greatest protection in accordance with advance plans.

In homes—the basement usually offers the greatest safety. Seek shelter under a sturdy workbench or heavy table if possible. In a home with no basement, take cover under heavy furniture in the center part of the house. Keep some windows open, but stay away from them!

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to overturning during strong winds. Trailer parks should have a community shelter. Appoint a community leader responsible for constant radio monitoring during threatening weather or during watch periods.

IN SCHOOLS

Whenever possible, go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor.

AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS or other structures with wide, free-span roofs.

If a building is not of reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building, or to a ravine or open ditch and lie flat.

IN OPEN COUNTRY

Move away from the tornado's path at a right angle. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression, such as a ditch or ravine.

KEEP LISTENING

Your radio and television stations will broadcast the latest tornado advisory information. Call the Weather Bureau only to report a tornado.

GPO : 1970 O - 380-036

REMEMBER: TORNADO WATCH means tornadoes are expected to develop. TORNADO WARNING means a tornado has actually been sighted.

PAUL HARVEY

Freedom Flower

AMERICANS WHO would justify our continuing presence in Indochina so frequently protest that we cannot let freedom and democracy die over there without jeopardizing our own freedom and democracy.

Whatever the validity of arguments pro and con concerning this involvement, there is very little of either freedom or democracy in Vietnam, North or South. And it was ever thus.

SO WHATEVER we decide to do, let's do it with our eyes open.

Civil war in Vietnam has now gone on for 300 years. Racial and ethnic differences may date back to the Chinese invasion of the third century BC, but present difficulties derive from three centuries of feuding between the Trinh family of the North and the Nguyen family in the South.

CAMBODIA AND LAOS have been squeezed between the Vietnamese and the rulers of Thailand.

When the French undertook the hopeless task of consolidating and unifying Indochina, many dissenters fled across borders into neighboring lands where they became suspected minorities.

DURING THE RUBBER boom of the late 1920s and early '30s the French imported many North Vietnamese into Cambodia to work as coolies on plantations.

It is these and their descendants who have proved very hospitable to the North Vietnamese Communists we've been trying to rout out.

ALSO, THE South Vietnamese minority in Cambodia--persecuted--speaks, worships and behaves differently than do the native Khmers.

Recent massacres--where several hundred Vietnamese were found floating in a river, and where Cambodian generals put terrified Vietnamese civilians in front of their advancing army columns--illustrate the Cambodian resentment of these "intruders" in their country.

NONE OF THE NATIONS in this "unmelted pot" have ever enjoyed "freedom" or "democracy" approaching our own.

The French deluded themselves that they could homogenize these diverse people -- or at least control them. They could not, nor can we.

UNDERSTAND, in South Vietnam Chinese handle 85 per cent of the country's trading. Fully 20 per cent of the officers in the South Vietnamese army are of mixed Chinese blood.

Meanwhile, throughout all Indochina there are the fierce mountaineers who comprise a quarter of the peninsula's population and occupy 70 percent of its area, and whatever happens in the capitals, they will go on fighting if only for the fun of it.

IF EVERY COMMUNIST should be eradicated from Indochina by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, ancient hatreds would survive and violence would persist.

Freedom seems too fragile a flower for that jungle.

WE ARE GETTING out of Indochina. Our President has promised that we will, in another year.

What I have tried to explain is that some of us feel that we have already given a hopeless cause enough years.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

The Moral Mood

By BOB WEAR

THE MORAL MOOD of a people is the controlling element of the personal and national life of the people.

A social order that was predominantly pleasure-mad; money-seeking; greedy; disorderly; and self-indulging has never survived.

THERE IS ABUNDANT evidence that the materialistic, godless philosophy of "eat, drink and tear it up" is a popular guideline today.

We should be able to see and fully appreciate the fact that "life is more than food, and the body is more than clothing"; and that all of us must be builders.

APATHY, INDIFFERENCE, confusion, strife, and the like are widespread. Some people, and some organized groups are working to overcome these deadly personal and social ills.

There is very little noticeable change, however, because we are not dealing with the cause. We talk about and treat the symptoms.

They are symptoms of a bad moral mood, and will be eliminated as the moral mood improves.

THE BASIC PHILOSOPHY must be changed before the obviously needed improvements are realized.

We are crying out for devotion, dedication and service to the ideals and principles which can make us strong; but these are not characteristics of self-seeking, self-indulging, confused people.

OUR MOST DANGEROUS FOE is said to be godless communism, and the threat is real enough to challenge the best we have to offer in opposition to it.

With this common concern, there is a question about our own social order we must consider.

We may not want to face it, and we may refuse to face it; however, here it is: What are we going to do about our own generally recognized godlessness?

OUR OWN MORAL MOOD and spiritual vigor must be revived and renewed. This is a must from both the negative and positive side of our needs.

The revival and renewal needed demands the best of every man, woman, boy and girl who wishes to be free, and desires to preserve the good life.

GODLESSNESS IN OUR OWN society is just as godless as the godlessness in any other social and political system. How long will we go on pretending?

Does our general pattern of national life give us justification for singing, with any honest expectation, "God Bless America?" Can we give any good reason why He should?

A GENERAL FORM of godliness may exist among our people, but it is obvious that much of the power thereof is denied.

Even worse than being denied,

A WOMAN'S VIEW

West Texas

By PEARL BRANDON

LIFE CONTINUES to go on in the midst of all the turmoil in the world.

People protest and demonstrate against numerous things with loud screaming and angry voices.

We hear of wars and rumours--the stock markets go down and up; and shouters predict terrible things for our country.

It is, by many, looked upon with contempt.

Much of that which we would like to think of as our godliness is lip service only.

This is just as hurtful as the godlessness of the alien ideologies which threaten us.

THE MORAL MOOD is admittedly undesirable; but not hopeless, yet. This means that it is more and more, creating a climate favorable to everything that is destructive and degrading.

There are many things we must do to triumph over the insidious evils which threaten us.

In our doing, let us not forget the imperative of personal dedication to the standards and ideals of moral integrity and goodness.

GODLESSNESS IN OUR own system must become as objectionable to us as the godlessness and related evils in the systems which menace us.

This must be, if we ever expect to move on to better days.

LET; IN OUR LITTLE part of the world, life is good.

People go to work every day, housewives meet and talk in grocery stores, the farmers are planting the fields, the children play and the birds sing.

TO BE SURE, we have our own community problems.

Our neighbors get burned out, but their friends gather around to help them lose our loved ones in death and our friends surround us with love and sympathy.

As in the normal process of life there are dark shadows and light. However, here in this quiet part of the world we only hear the rumble of the Great Storm.

BOYS DO MARCH OFF to war and some don't come back.

For them and their families the war is very real, but for the most part we are affected very little by the controversy of the times.

Maybe we will be later on, but now we are like the bird sheltered in the crevice of the rock during the storm; we hear the thunder roaring and see the flash of lightning but we are safe.

OTHER PLACES may be covered with pollution and their air may be filled with smog but our air is clear and the skies are blue.

We have lovely bright days with clean fresh air. It is as if God in His heavens was smiling on us.

Let us enjoy this lovely West Texas paradise.

How Do You Rate As A Husband?

The way a woman looks and even the way she cooks may be a good tip-off on her real feelings toward her mate, psychologists say.

But a good long look at himself can be even more revealing for the man who wonders whether his wife has him pegged as a "pal" or a "pill."

Do you take her out to dinner without grumbling--and without being urged? Praise her when she deserves it--and occasionally when she doesn't? Pay her the compliment of really listening when she talks?

See how many of these wife-endorsed hints you already follow--and how many you can adopt. They may not solve all marital problems, but they can smooth a sometimes rocky domestic path and eliminate a lot of little irritations.

Notice what she wears and how she looks. No marriage (or budget) was ever wrecked by a husband's proud interest in his wife's appearance.

On the contrary, say some psychologists: the woman who "goes to seed" may subconsciously be punishing a mate who seems indifferent. And the extravagant wife may be crying "Notice me!" with her endless parade of new hats and hairdos.

Try it yourself. The new dress you don't like will go to the back of her closet with lightning speed. But she'll probably be glad to wear a three-year-old dress if you tell her it's your favorite.

Listen! An amazing number of wives complain that their husbands don't really listen when they speak. To which a sizable number of husbands retort that they're not interested in the power struggle going on in the ladies' bridge club.

But honestly--are your revelations about the office that much more earth-shaking?

A good cure for trivia-itis is to introduce more interesting topics of conversation. However, it's not only flattery but simple self-interest to lend an attentive ear to your mate no matter what she says.

Otherwise, you may find yourself saying "uh-huh" to her proposal to buy a new set of china, or have your in-laws visit for two weeks.

Take her on business trips when you can. Many women envy their menfold the "glamour" of the business world.

So why not give your spouse a taste of it--and a much-needed break from household routine--when you travel on business?

According to the American Hotel & Motel Association, a double room usually costs little more than a single. Meals needn't be a costly problem either, since many first-class hotels and motels offer fine food at quite reasonable prices. If you take the kids along-- and many hotels and motels make no extra charge if they occupy the same room as their parents--they needn't cramp your style when you want to take your wife out on the town. Often the hotel or motel management can help you arrange for a babysitter.

Tell her how well she cooks. She spends a lot of time in the kitchen--and you do want her to think it's time well spent. So be lavish with your praise in this department: bread cast upon the waters may yield French toast.

When she makes your favorite dishes, comment on her thoughtfulness--and never say, "Oh--I had that for lunch today." A wife whose cooking is far under par should give any man food for thought--about himself.

Some psychologists believe that when a woman consistently burns the toast and undercooks potatoes, she's expressing resentment of her husband!

Be fair about money. Even if you are the sole money earner in the family, it takes two to draw up a budget.

Always be frank about the state of your finances; secrecy about money, according to marriage counselors, creates tensions and resentments that can undermine a relationship.

Resist the temptation to play Scrooge even when money is tight. Give her a personal allowance even if she doesn't ask for one, and take one yourself.

This should be "splurge" money--and neither of you should have to give an account of it. You'll find it makes budgeting easier on the temper--and on your marriage!

Give the little lady a great big hand. Sometimes do the dishes without being asked. If you have small children, volunteer your service as babysitter for Saturday afternoon while she takes a breather.

Incidentally, your help with the kids should extend to discipline too; a good many fathers manage to duck this unpleasant responsibility, casting Mom as the family "heavy."

Give her a hand, too, by applauding her efforts at child-rearing and home economy. "I don't know how you do it; I couldn't", will be music to her ears.

Make your next vacation a holiday for her. Put off that camping trip; don't rent that vacation cottage just yet.

Instead, let her travel in style, stopping at hotels or motels where someone else serves the meals and makes the beds.

Try breaking up your year's vacation into a series of long weekends spent touring around. It's a great way to see the sights, it gives the whole vacation season a holiday flavor--and your wife will feel like a pampered princess each time you check into a hotel or motel.

Praise her to your friends. Brag a little--about how smart, thrifty, pretty or witty your helpmate is. At parties, when somebody asks you something and you don't know the answer, say, "Oh, that's my wife's department."

When you're visiting friends for dinner, casually mention the delicious casserole your wife made the other day--after complimenting your hostess, of course. (And when you get

Texas Milk Orders Hearing Set Tuesday

The U. S. Department of Agriculture will hold a public hearing June 23 in Dallas, to consider amending seven Texas federal milk marketing orders. They are the Lubbock-Plainview, South Texas, North Texas, San Antonio, Central West Texas, Austin-Waco, and Corpus Christi orders.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service officials said the hearing will begin at 10 a.m., in the Holiday Inn, Love Field, 7800 Lemmon Avenue, Dallas. A number of proposals have been submitted by milk handlers dealing with relationships of prices under the South and North Texas orders throughout the geographic areas covered, and the hearing will consider the Class I (bottling milk) price levels at any location under the two orders.

Also, since bottling milk prices to farmers in the Lubbock-Plainview, Central West Texas, San Antonio, Austin-Waco and Corpus Christi orders are based on the North Texas Class I price, the hearing will be open to testimony on whether any change in the North Texas Class I price might require changes in the other order prices in relation to the basic formula.

It is also being proposed for the South and North Texas orders that all payments to dairy farmers and cooperatives be made by the market administrator, and that the interest rate on handler's unpaid accounts be increased.

The hearing also will consider several proposals concerning only the North Texas order. They relate to milk diversions, the classification of milk transfers, pooling provisions, and the "producer milk" definition.

Another proposal relating to four of the orders (North Texas, San Antonio, Central West Texas and Austin-Waco) would use a new cheese quotation in the pricing formulas for reserve milk used in manufactured dairy products.

Other proposals affecting all of the seven orders except the Austin-Waco order concern the application of location adjustments at nonpool plants in computing equalization payments, and the treatment of Class I milk from unregulated supply plants.

After considering evidence presented at the hearing, USDA may recommend amending the orders.

Everyone interested would then be given opportunity to file exceptions to the recommendations before a final decision is issued and submitted to dairy farmers in each of the markets for the required two-thirds majority approval (three-fourths in the Austin-Waco market). Copies of the hearing notice containing the proposals in detail may be obtained from the market administrators of the seven orders, or from the Dairy Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Congressman Opposes Substitute Amendment

Tuesday the House Agriculture Committee voted to adopt a substitute wheat and feed grain amendment which has completely unglued the carefully constructed compromise farm bill.

The vote was 17-14. Opposing the substitute amendment was Congressman Bob Price.

"I opposed it not only because I knew its adoption would dissolve the fragile bi-partisan agreement we had in the committee but also, and more importantly, it was greatly inferior in providing assistance to wheat and feed grain farmers," Price said.

"The substitute removed from the bill three amendments which I had personally sponsored and worked very hard toward getting the committee's approval. These were:

"First, to increase grain sorghum loans in relation to corn, by removing from the law unscientific criteria now being used to set loan levels.

"Second, to permit the grazing of sweet sorghum on set-aside or diverted acres.

"Third, to give county ASC Committees greater discretion in permitting the grazing of set-aside acreage.

"In addition to deleting my amendments the substitute also struck from the bill the guaranteed payment of 32 cents per bushel on corn and an equivalent amount on grain sorghum.

"The substitute really accomplished was to put into the bill very low floors for both wheat and feed grain - floors which incidently were lower than the actual benefits provided in the committee compromise bill.

"The substitute for example, wrote in a floor of $1.84 per bushel on wheat whereas the benefits guaranteed by the committee bill were $1.95 per bushel-some 11 cents per bushel more.

"I think it is extremely unfortunate that the committee has taken this action because the result is to kill the bill.

"I hope in the days ahead we will be able to apply a cooler attitude toward this important legislation, because it is the farmer and the public who will eventually suffer most if no new farm bill is enacted before 1971," Price concluded.

Diabetes Problem To Many

Are you one of the approximately two million people in the United States who have diabetes and don't know it?

The answer to this question can be of utmost importance to you and your family, says the Texas State Department of Health.

There are approximately four million diabetics in the United States, but only about half know they have the disease and are doing something about it. Medical science is helping them in their efforts to continue as near normal lives as possible.

But what about the some two million unknown cases--those persons who have the disease and are unaware of it?

In Texas the State Health Department is promoting a statewide testing program through local health departments in an effort to discover hidden cases. And the testing program is getting results. Migrant health projects also are cooperating.

In May, for example, the State Health Department Laboratories in Austin made 1,667 tests and found that 329 persons needed further study.

So far this year--through May--blood samples from almost 9,100 persons have been checked for diabetes by the lab. Other laboratories operated by the state also make diabetes tests.

One further statistic shows that during the past nine months of the current fiscal year the diabetes program has resulted in tests for just under 14,000 persons, with almost 2,700 requiring further blood testing based on preliminary tests.

The testing program falls under the Chronic Disease Division, directed by Dr. Howard E. Smith. Objectives of the division, encompassing diabetes, is to "reduce the mortality, morbidity, discomfort and disability from these diseases in our state."

In searching for possible diabetics, the Health Department doesn't use a scatter-gun approach since it has limited personnel to aid in detection.

Experience has shown that certain types of persons are more likely to have diabetes. They may be: 45 years of age or older; close blood relatives of known diabetics, especially those in the older age brackets; obese persons; and the parents of a baby who was large at birth (nine pounds or more).

The Health Department is making diabetes screening a part of its regular services to the people of the state.

If a diabetic is found, then close relatives of the victim are screened for the disease.

WTS Students Named To Dean's Honor List

OLTON--Three students have been named to the Dean's Honor List at West Texas State University in Canyon, for the spring semester. They are 1969 graduates of Olton.

Miss Letha Estes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Estes, posted a 2.6 grade point average. Her major is computer accounting. She is also employed at the football office.

Miss Leslie Holladay was named for her grade point average of 2.9. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Holladay of Canyon, formerly of Olton. Miss Holladay, a speech major, is employed this summer at Williams Antiques in Canyon.

A member of Mary E. Huds-peth honor society, Miss Cheryl Derris posted a 3.0 average.

Remodeling Basic Rules Laid Down

When planning a home remodeling, these basic rules are suggested by professionals:

- 1) Keep the design simple;
- 2) Organize all work in sequence;
- 3) Keep resale value in mind and don't "outclass" the neighborhood;
- 4) Use new materials if they have advantages, not as cheap substitutes;
- 5) Anticipate future needs--older children need more closet, bath facilities;
- 6) Remodel to fit your way of life;
- 7) Never remodel a dull old house into a dull new house.

FORAGE PRODUCTION

Continuous production of high yielding, quality forage dictates that careful attention be given to the maintenance of a bountiful supply of nitrogen throughout the growing season. Top quality forage for grazing, hay or silage requires that the plants have adequate supplies of all essential nutrients, and the nutrient used in the largest quantity by forage crops is nitrogen.

New IRS Form For Exemption

Students working for the summer, and retired persons and other part-time workers may be entitled to exemption from income tax withholding under the Tax Reform Act of 1969.

Forms for claiming this exemption are available from Internal Revenue Service offices in North Texas.

Any employee who had no income tax liability last year and anticipates none this year should use Withholding Exemption Certificate, Form W-4E, to claim the exemption, stated Ellis Campbell, Jr., IRS District Director of North Texas.

For 1970, a single person who makes less than $1,725 owes no tax. This is based on the $1,100 low income allowance and a personal exemption of $625. A taxpayer over 65 can earn wages up to $2,350 without incurring a tax liability, Campbell explained.

Anyone who qualifies can fill out the form and give it to his employer to claim exemption from income tax withholding on his wages.

Employers needing quantities of the new Form W-4E may obtain them from their IRS District Office.

Schedule A (Form W-4), revised to reflect the liberalized rules that were also provided in the Tax Reform Act of 1969 for claiming additional withholding exemptions based on large itemized deductions, are also available from IRS Offices.

Orchestra Class Begins June 29

Texas Tech's Summer Orchestra School for pre-college youngsters will be held June 29 through July 10 under the supervision of Paul Ellsworth, director of Tech's orchestra program.

The two-week workshop will be open to string players from the grade school level through high school. Instruction will be offered in string orchestra, chamber music and music theory provided by group and section rehearsals and individual attention.

Guest clinicians will be Dr. George Robinson of Lubbock Public Schools and Ron Wells of Amarillo High School. Ellsworth will head up the staff composed of faculty members from Tech's Department of Music and the Lubbock school system.

Recreational activities will include swimming, skating and concerts, highlighted by the closing concert presented by the three orchestra divisions of the youth school.

Fees are $16 for high school and junior high students who will attend classes from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily. Fees for elementary students, those with one year of study, are $11. Classes for elementary students will be held from 8 a.m. until noon.

Further information may be obtained by writing direct to Prof. Ellsworth, Texas Tech Department of Music, Lubbock 79409.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

President Nixon has proclaimed the week of July 19 as National Farm Safety Week and calls attention to the needless loss of lives and crippling injuries to thousands of farm residents each year. Farm safety, points out the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, should be a year-round program on each of the state's farms and ranches, but notes special observances during the designated week can help call attention to the problems that must be solved.

VETS LOANS
According to the VA, veterans received more than 230,000 VA-guaranteed and direct loans in the amount of about $4.2 billion in fiscal year 1969.

SWINE PRODUCTION

PR-2756, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication summarizes 1969 studies in the Plains areas of Texas dealing with the economics of swine production. IT PAYS TO TRADE IN LITTLEFIELD

Put In Paul's Pflash

Paul McCormick got his start in the service station business as a teenager helping brothers Jack and Bill. The first cars he filled with gas were the tin lizzies with the gas tank under the front seat. The driver had to get out of the car before gas could be put in.

There weren't any gas gauges on early-day cars. A ruler was stuck under into the tank to measure the gas. Model A's didn't have fuel pumps, so gas tanks were located up under the windshield so gas would flow downward. Ten gallons of gas were pumped up into the glass pump, and customers watched the gas gurgle down into his tank.

McCormicks have been in the service station business more years than any other person or persons in Littlefield, starting in 1928. They were the first station in town to put in the electrical pumps. "Some of the customers didn't like the new improvement," Paul McCormick said. "They could see the numbers that roll over, saying how much gas they were getting, but they couldn't see the gas going in. The public had to be educated to the new pumps."

People didn't carry spare tires around with them back then, either. The wheel and tire was all made together. Cold patches and a hand air pump were the order of the day for flats, and there were plenty of them since none of the streets nor even the road to Lubbock was paved.

Bill and Jack McCormick sold their service station to Paul and Leonard McCormick in 1938. Paul bought Leonard out in 1945.

Paul McCormick's Service Station at 917 E. Delano is the place to get Fina gasoline and oils and put pflash back in driving. Fina gas with pflash is the outstanding fuel handled today. Paul is wholesale distributor for Amalie, Quaker State and Havoline oils.

McCormick sells and balances Star and Cooper tires, installs Mark IV Air Conditioners and services all brands of air conditioners. They sell and install A. P. mufflers and tailpipes, and carry a full line of spark plugs, points, oil filters and condensers for automobiles, irrigation motors and tractors. And this is the place to get those Southland batteries.

For complete one-stop service, call on Paul. He'll take any major oil company credit card.

No Power Shortage In Area
"Don't hold back. Use all the electric power you want whenever and wherever you want in the 45,000 square mile area that we serve. There is no electric power shortage in this part of the country," Roy Tolc, president of the Southwestern Public Service Company, said today.

The statement of the electric company president was made as a result of frequent articles in national magazines and other media which leave the implication that the whole nation faces a power shortage not only this year but "in the decade ahead", as one publication put it.

"At the end of last year, when we announced our plans to invest $25,000,000 in new plant and equipment this year, I said 'there'll be no blackouts in our service area in 1970'. That still goes.

"I'll add at this time that there won't be any in the future, either, as long as we have the right to plan our own future without outside interference. We have a responsibility to meet the electric service needs of this area and we have done the planning required to carry out that responsibility", Tolc continued.

Southwestern Public Service Company has generating capacity reserves that are 18% greater than the peak load which has been predicted for 1970.

Services were conducted Tuesday afternoon in Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Chapel with Rev. James E. Harrell, a retired Methodist minister, and Rev. O. A. McBrayer, pastor of Forest Heights United Methodist Church in Lubbock, officiating.

Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park in Lubbock.

Nix was born in Earth County and went to Lubbock from Spade after he retired from farming in 1961.

Boll Weevils Posing Threat To South Plains
Several overwintering boll weevils have been found in Andrews County, thus posing a threat to cotton in that area and a potential threat to large cotton acreage on the South Plains and in New Mexico.

"We found the weevils on pheromone traps which had been set out earlier in the spring to monitor the movement of weevils in the area," explains Dr. Don Rummel, area entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Pheromone traps are baited with live male weevils which attract female weevils in the vicinity. The females fly to the trap and are caught on a sticky substance.

"Some weevils had been found in this particular area in the fall of 1968 and 69, but this is the first time that overwintering weevils have been detected," adds the entomologist.

Health Of Our Hospitals

When it comes to medical care and modern management procedures, hospitals are getting better and better. And a relatively new science—which is playing an increasingly important role in their improvement—is proving to be just what the doctor ordered.

No longer confined to manufacturing industries, industrial engineering is helping to effect hospital efficiency, provide better care for patients, and eventually reduce costs. What does the industrial engineer do in a hospital?

Ways in which he is helping to cure the ills of inefficiency, as well as the impatient patient, include developing information systems for medication control, working for the improvement of admissions, transfer and discharge procedures, and helping plan projects which result in physical changes such as a new layout for a nursing station, a redesign of a maintenance cart or a simplified order form.

He also takes part in meetings with administrators, provides technical information, undertakes studies, assists in research projects, poses and evaluates courses of action, and provides counsel on matters requiring executive decisions and action.

Although one executive recently de-emphasized the importance of hospital costs when he stated that "the purpose of the hospital is to save the patient's life, not his money," industrial engineering in the long run will make it easier for patients to pay the price of progress.

And a more affirmative viewpoint recently expressed is that "the objective of a higher quality of patient care for less money can be achieved through industrial engineering."

Many efficient new facilities in hospitals have been designed to help cut costs directly and indirectly, thanks to advances made through this relatively new science. Knee-actuated valves on operating room scrub sinks relieve the hand for productive work and save time. A high bed reduces nurse fatigue. Compact patient units conserve floor space. And centralized admissions and nursing stations and a central supply room, where routine tasks can be standardized, help realize the economies of mass production.

The industrial engineer's task of improving work methods can relate to anything from dishwashing to psychiatric research. The need for human work measurement exists in all hospitals, and he is striving to improve it in many areas such as the processing of surgical gloves or paperwork in the outpatient department.

The field, according to a spokesman for the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, also deals with job analysis and evaluating employee motivation.

"Modern hospital operations require that management use methods, procedures and systems which are among the most complex to be found in any organization," write Dr. Harold E. Smalley and Dr. John R. Freeman in their new book, Hospital Industrial Engineering. Industrial engineering is concerned with the scientific treatment of management systems and with the generation of meaningful information for executive decisions.

"Its objectives," continues the authors, "are to communicate useful knowledge to hospital personnel and to extend and apply it through research efforts."

The book includes a description of the hospital as a managerial environment, a detailed guide for establishing and operating a professional method improvement program.

Baylor Sets Orientation
Baylor University has invited all students who will be freshmen during the 1970 fall semester to attend one of its three annual summer orientation programs June 26, July 24 and Aug. 7, at Waco.

The programs are intended to give the new college students and their parents a first-hand look at Baylor--to get acquainted with the campus, university officials and general procedures of college life.

James Berryhill, director of undergraduate admissions, said about one-third of the 1,500 freshmen expected to enroll next fall will probably attend the summer orientation programs.

Although freshmen are not required to attend a program, Berryhill said they are encouraged to attend because "we feel like it helps them a whole lot. It gives them a little chance to get familiar with the campus and college procedures and to get to know other freshmen."

The programs are only one day each, but students and their families may come early and stay either in campus dormitories or provide their own accommodations. The charge for campus housing will be $3 per person.

Berryhill said parents also are encouraged to attend the orientation programs, and a set of case studies reported by hospital industrial engineers in this country abroad.

Attention is given to recent advances in the field, such as the latest developments in operations research, systems engineering and computer technology.

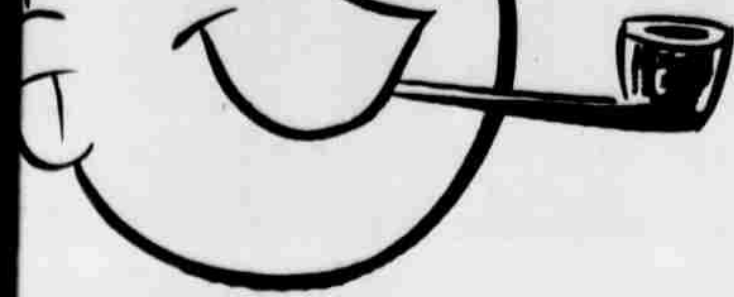

Basically, the responsibilities of the industrial engineer in a hospital can be classified in part as related to improving work methods, controlling information flow, measuring human work, applying time standards, sampling hospital activities, job analysis, studies of employee motivation and compensation, and planning facilities design and space utilization.

But the efforts of the industrial engineer, a profession today attracting more and more young people to its ranks, concern almost every aspect of hospital management.

And, though not a panacea, this new science is providing valuable therapeutic experiences for patients and hospital personnel alike.

LEGAL EAGLE—In golfer's terms, it was a hole-in-one for Attorney Jerry Kirby here Saturday afternoon, as the smile attests. Kirby used a six-iron on the par-three, 188-yard 9th hole at Littlefield Country Club to record his first ace, and also "the first one I'd ever seen." The hole-in-one gave Kirby a par-36 round and was witnessed by playing (and paying) partners Fluff Myers, Alvin Webb, Neil Duffy and Walter Hobgood.
