UN Troops Face Dark Hour; Reds Set For Knockout Blow

Combat-Ready Men Needed At Front

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Reporter
WASHINGTON, July 27.—Announcement that Britain is sending, and other United Nations countries may send, ground troops to Korea comes in one of the darkest hours of American military history.

What American military men want now are more combat-ready troops—quickly, urgently. How quickly? There are no firm estimates now, but the next two or three weeks can be highly critical.

United States Army troops fighting the Red invaders of the Republic of Korea do not yet have their backs to the wall—but the room is getting alarmingly smaller. In the strategy of trading space for time, they are running low on both commodities.

The British Government's announcement that it is sending to Korea a regular army combat group including artillery and armor, reached Washington at a time when Pentagon officials were growing increasingly concerned about help from United Nations members.

Reinforcements from the United States are on the way—2nd Army division troops, First Marine division fighters—but some Pentagon officials make it plain this can't be enough.

More fighting manpower is needed not only to bolster the battered American Army troops and help them hold the diminishing perimeter, but to allow soldiers exhausted by weeks of unrelieved combat to rest.

Pentagon leaders prefer that any troop units contributed to the United Nations campaign in Korea be in organizations of not less than 1,000 men, trained, equipped and supplied for initial fighting. Later, the Far East command of the United States can provide the supplies, but it is desired that when ground forces land in the war zone they be ready to go into action quickly with their own equipment and field supplies.

The London announcement did not specify the size of the combat group to be sent, but it apparently would be substantially more than the 1,000-man minimum. London news dispatches speculated that it might range from a battalion to a brigade, from 1,000 to 5,000 men.

There was other help in the offing, including the announcements of two British Commonwealth countries, Australia and New Zealand, that they will send land forces. Turkey already has offered 5,000 trained combat troops.

CONTINUES UNCHECKED

Polio Death Rate High In Virginia

WYTHEVILLE, Va., July 27. (AP)—A virulent outbreak of polio, which has killed almost 15 per cent of those who contracted the disease, continued unchecked today in this Southwest Virginia town of 5,500 persons. The normal death rate is about four per cent.

Wytheville itself has had 59 cases, Wythe County as a whole, (pop. 23,000 including Wytheville), had 75 cases, with 11 deaths—and an average of almost three cases per day since the epidemic began July 1.

State Health Commissioner L. J. Roper termed the town and adjoining Wythe County an area of "tension."

Four new cases and two more deaths were reported yesterday from the polio-ravaged county, harshest hit spot in the nation this year and scene of the worst outbreak in Virginia's history.

The 15 per cent death rate brought the most alarm to Dr. Roper, who noted that the normal polio rate is about 4 per cent. He said it is too early to say how much analysis may result.

Dr. Roper and other officials of the state health department have conferred with Wythe County health officials, who have ruled out quarantine as having little effect on the spread of the disease.

Basel O'Connor and Dr. Hart E. Van Rier, president and medical director of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, now in Richmond, will discuss the situation with state health officials. They planned to leave here tonight after the conferences.

In addition to the use of all known methods to combat the epidemic, tests are being made by Dr. Alexander Steigman, consultant of the National Foundation. But activities are at a standstill, despite the lack of a quarantine. Children are being kept at home by frightened parents, and all

Army Will Not Ban Any Fair Korea Criticism

U. S. 8th Army HEADQUARTERS, Korea, July 27. (AP)—The U. S. 8th Army public information officer said today there would be no ban on "fair and honest criticism" of command decisions or conduct of allied troops in Korea.

Lt. Col. R. L. Thompson amended instruction No. 9 to correspondents to read:

"Unwarranted criticism of command decisions or of the conduct of allied soldiers on the battlefield will not be tolerated."

This inserted "unwarranted." There had been apprehension among correspondents that they would be banned from the war theater for any criticism of commanders or troops.

Thompson, a World War II artillery battalion commander from Iowa, Kan., conceded the original instruction said more than he intended.

He stressed that he had drafted a nine-point instruction and was responsible for it. He said it was not issued by Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the Eighth Army.

Thompson said the no criticism instruction was drafted to halt what he believed to be the mistaken and unjustified criticism against piecemeal commitment of the only available American units in the early Korean fighting.

"What the hell else could be done?" he asked, adding:

"The purpose of instruction No. 9 was to stop morale-destroying reports from the front."

Any correspondent will be free to criticize a command decision or troop performance, Thompson said. But the 8th Army PIO will expect the correspondent to seek and ask for all the facts and give a full picture of the action he questions.

AIR MILEAGE FROM KOREAN FRONT TO PUSAN—This map shows the approximate air mileage from three key points on the South Korean front to the main U. S. supply port at Pusan as North Korean forces (dark arrows) continue to push down the peninsula. From Hadong, where U. S. troops (open arrow) are reported in action against the Reds, it is approximately 70 air miles; from U. S. positions east of Yongdong about 95 air miles, and from Kangju on the east coast about 80 air miles. The broken line is the approximate battle line. (AP Wirephoto Map).

Lull In Fight As Commies Regroup

TOKYO, Friday, July 28.—North Korean troops and armor massed by night Thursday for an attempted knockout blow in the center of American defense lines.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters early today said there was a lull along the whole battlefield, but that enemy pressure continued in such a way as to indicate the Communists were regrouping and remassing for a new assault.

MacArthur returned to Tokyo Thursday from a swift inspection tour of the Korean front. He was confident of ultimate victory but forecast a long and difficult struggle ahead.

Headquarters said "aggressive patrols" in the southwest sector had pushed back a Korean Red column

TOKYO, July 27.—Gen. MacArthur dismissed escorting fighter planes on the way back from a flying trip to Korea today so they could return to the front "where they'll do the most good."

MacArthur's pilot, Major Anthony Story of St. Louis, Mo., told about it after bringing the General's plane, "Bataan," in through a drizzle to Tokyo airport.

The "Bataan" was being escorted by three rocket-carrying F51 mustangs, MacArthur told Story:

"Release the escort so they can go back to the front and put those rockets where they'll do the most good. We will make it all right."

Two miles to the vicinity of Hadong, 70 miles northwest of Pusan. Two other holes were plugged on the approaches to Pusan—major American supply port. Other patrols moved into the highway town of Hamyang 78 miles northwest of Pusan and made contact with an enemy regiment in Namwon, about 23 miles southwest of Hanyang headquarters said.

Identity of the patrols was not made known, but it was in this area yesterday that relatively small numbers of fresh American troops were reported in action.

The situation in the center of the line appeared menacing even though headquarters reported "no major or decisive action" took place in the preceding 24 hours.

From the front, Associated Press Correspondent William R. Moore reported three large Communist columns were concentrating east of Yongdong in front of the U. S. First Cavalry.

A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said two of the Reds three best divisions—the second and third—were massed in that sector.

From a forward post with the First Cavalry, Moore reported American artillery has opened a thundering bombardment of Communist infantry concentrations.

The Air Force sent swarms of jets and mustangs over the area spearing rockets into Red lines and pouring fire into the advancing troops.

Fifteen miles northeast of Yongdong at Maromyon, the 24th Regimental Combat Team, the only Negro combat unit identified in the Korean campaign, beat off a Communist attack late yesterday.

The combat team, attached to the U. S. 25th Division, is in the defense line that swings northeastward from Yongdong.

To the east in the 200 mile battlefront are South Koreans attacked the Reds.

Members of the Guild have been on strike over wages and other contract benefits since June 13. Union mechanical employees declined to cross picket lines and the big afternoon daily was not published since that time.

Lee B. Wood, executive editor of the newspaper, said: "A home-made incendiary device thrown into construction material just outside the main plant exploded. The first floor mail room of the plant and the press room were filled with dense smoke."

Wood said the explosion occurred about 20 feet from the picket line area and that police extinguished the fire before the flames gained headway in the pressroom where news presses are being installed.

Ed Easton, chairman of the newspaper's Guild unit, described the missile as "a bunch of firecrackers wired together to a stick." He said he would not describe the site of the explosion as in construction material but rather as a piece of plywood leaning against the wall.

Wind carried the smoke into windows of the plant, Easton said. None of 35 to 40 pickets or police on duty at the scene had seen the missile-placed, he added. He termed the action that of someone with a distorted sense of humor.

MOSCOW, July 27.—Soviet publications today charged the United States with preparing for new aggression beyond Korea. One magazine said "the clique of warmongers is champing at the bit."

A top editorial in the weekly magazine New Times commented that "the scale and character of the war measures being taken in Washington indicate that America's aggressive intentions go beyond the framework of Korea."

HST Sees No Controls Need

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—President Truman repeated today that he thinks there is no need now for price-wage controls. But considerable sentiment for them in Congress was demonstrated when a House committee turned down a "freeze" bill by only one vote.

With that vote—it was 10 to 9—out of the way, the House Banking committee then approved a large part of Mr. Truman's proposals for limited economic controls to organize the home front.

The committee did not organize action on the administration bill, but okayed sections providing authority to force use of plants and materials for military and other essential purposes.

Rep. Kunkel (R-Pa.), offered the committee a substitute for the Truman bill. Kunkel's measure called for a general freeze of prices and wages and would authorize a system of rationing, if needed.

Having lost by only one vote, Kunkel indicated he would offer the plan again on the House floor.

President Truman's statement that he doesn't think all-out controls are now needed was made at a news conference. He had been asked for comment on the proposal from Bernard M. Baruch for an immediate "ceiling on everything."

Before the Senate Banking committee, further light on the administration's thinking was shed by Attorney General McGrath.

McGrath said the question of all-out controls and rationing had been "thoroughly discussed" by President Truman and his advisers and their conclusion was that they are not needed now "if the conflict does not spread beyond Korea."

But McGrath also said, "we still may have to come to every one of them."

Mr. Truman, in response to the questions about control proposals, said that if wage, price and manpower controls come they will come together as part of all-out mobilization. He said he hopes we will not have all-out mobilization.

Baruch gave his views to Congress yesterday. The lawmakers themselves appeared divided on his proposal with most members apparently against any all-out mobilization right now. There were others, however, who called for full-scale economic mobilization with consumer rationing and wage-price controls.

President Truman also told his news conference:

1. He is not now considering use of the atomic bomb in the Korean war.

2. Steps are in the making to deal with any traitors or saboteurs in the present emergency. Those steps will not infringe on the Bill of Rights, he added.

3. The state and defense departments are working on proposals for increased military aid to European allies. He said these proposals will be presented to Congress before it adjourns.

4. He did not want to make any comment now on peace prospects; that it would be better to wait for a few more developments. A reporter had recalled that only a couple of months ago the President had said the outlook for peace was better than it had been at any time since 1945. The newsman asked if the President still felt that way.

On the question of wage and price controls, Mr. Truman said he thought his economic message to Congress had covered that. He said then he would not hesitate to ask for them if he thought they were needed.

Other meats held about steady. Frying and broiling chickens were unchanged to up six cents a pound. Eggs advanced one to six cents a dozen.

War-scared buying of some food staples continued. Sales of sugar, particularly, were far above normal. Stores in many areas were being cleared out of their sugar supplies soon after opening their doors each day.

Most refiners conceded their working inventories of refined sugar are all but exhausted—but spokesmen hastened to add that the shortage is only in the supply pipeline, not in raw sugar stocks.

However, there were scattered reports that hoarding of both sugar and coffee appeared to be tapering off.

The Agriculture Department said the speculative buying of food in recent weeks was "substantially similar to those occurring in 1939, which receded as soon as consumers realized that food supplies were adequate."

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The Air Force is increasing its strength from 48 groups to 58 within 12 months and to 69 groups by January, 1952, Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) announced today.

The Air Force is beginning immediately to step up officers and men to a target of 548,311.

This is an increase of 136,311 over its strength on June 30, said Vinson, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The increase in group and personnel strength is made possible through the Air Force's allotment of $4,525,500,000 of President Truman's emergency additional budget request of $10,500,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—America has enough food and farming "know how" to meet any emergency, the editor of the agricultural magazine "Country Gentleman" said today.

Editor Robert Reed told a press conference that reports to him from 400 field agents indicated the United States was better equipped to produce food than at any other time in history. The agents are men actively engaged in agriculture work or closely connected with the subject.

Heavy rains which sent creeks rising and boosted the insect threat to cotton fell on wide sections of North Texas today.

Decatur, in Wise County, was washed by 4.06 inches of rain in a 24-hour period ended at 7 a. m. Rain stopped, but skies still threatened in Wichita Falls—where some families had been evacuated because of a swollen creek.

But heavy showers continued at more than a dozen points, including Mineral Wells, Abilene, Big Spring, Midland, Dallas, and Tyler. Fog and low clouds hung in the Texas Panhandle—where Amarillo had 1.34 inches.

The Weather Bureau said cloudy, cool weather, and scattered rains should continue in the northern part of the state. It said the southern half should be partly cloudy and warm.

The North Texas rains brought moisture that stimulated a threatened insect invasion of cotton fields. But ranchers were happy over the luxuriant growth of summer grasses.

Officials of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers were to inspect Lake Wichita Falls Dam today as a precautionary measure. Holliday Creek overflowed a southeastern section of Wichita Falls yesterday.

Four Wichita Falls families were moved from their homes in low areas. Police were ready with boats to evacuate others if the water did not go down.

Officials kept a watchful eye on the Wichita River.

Steady rains drummed out 1.25 inches of moisture at Dallas and 1.21 at Fort Worth in a 24-hour period. Mineral Wells had 1.84 inches, and Maria, in the Texas mountain country, nearly an inch.

Colorado City had 40 today in addition to .18 yesterday.

Today's rainfall apparently was general over most of the county, and it increased season's totals to unusual figures in some sections.

Showers last night in the Loma area southwest of Big Spring brought the total here to an estimated inch and a half over the past two days, which filled out the county pattern. That section had been skipped by previous showers during the past two or three weeks.

Walter Long reported a good shower this morning in the Knott area, and additional showers around Vealmore in the northern part of the county increased the week's total there to almost five inches.

Earl Hull reported an estimated half inch at his place in the R-Bar area, while a similar fall was reported around Coahoma.

The U. S. Experiment Farm gauged .35 of an inch this morning, while the U. S. Weather Bureau gauge at the Municipal airport showed .64 of an inch.

Stanton had received more than a half and inch and the fall was said to be general over Martin County.

Slow showers this morning filled in previous gaps to complete a good season of moisture for Howard county.

New Fight Organized To Oust McDonald

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

A new fight by the liberal faction of Texas organized Democrats to oust J. E. McDonald as commissioner of agriculture took shape today.

McDonald himself brushed it off. "I am confident the voters of Texas will again endorse my record at the polls," he told the Associated Press. "He noted that in 10 successful races, he has pulled more votes than any other Texan in history."

The liberal or "loyalist" group tried to hoot McDonald by executive committee action, but the State Supreme Court ruled his name could not be barred from the first primary ballot.

The court held in effect that while McDonald supported Republicans in the past in presidential elections, he had taken the pledge to support the nominees of the Democratic primary in which he sought nomination, and that this was all the law required.

The Wichita County Democratic Executive Committee Tuesday endorsed John White, vocational agriculture teacher and McDonald's opponent in the Aug. 26 run-off. It passed a resolution again slapping at McDonald's party loyalty and voted to send copies to every county in the state with a recommendation that it be adopted at Saturday's county conventions.

McDonald reiterated that Texans have shown repeatedly at the polls that they agree with his policies as commissioner and also that they go along with him in his opposition to new deal or fair deal farm programs.

"When I have voted for Republicans for President in the past, I have only done what many office holders do," McDonald said. "The only difference is, I tell the people how and why I voted that way."

White has already hit the road in seeking run-off votes. McDonald said he would probably be too busy attending to his job as agriculture commissioner to campaign.

but might if he had some time left over.

Other run-off candidates were back on the campaign grind. Both Pierce Brooks of Dallas and Ben Ramsey of San Augustine were perfecting their campaign organizations in the race for lieutenant governor. Brooks plans another

7 Negroes, Convicted Of Rape, Get Electric Chair Reprieve

RICHMOND, Va., July 27 (AP)—

Seven Negroes convicted of the rape of a 32-year-old Martinsville, Va., white woman today had an indefinite reprieve from Virginia's electric chair.

And it appeared that the men, believed doomed when Gov. John S. Battle refused their executive clemency on Monday, conceivably could stay in the "death row" for many more months of legal maneuvering.

Hustings Court Judge M. Ray Douglas ordered a stay of execution late yesterday, less than 36 hours before the first four men were to have died at the Virginia State Penitentiary.

The judge granted the stays, effective until further court order, after Martin A. Martin, Negro attorney for the men, filed petitions for writs of habeas corpus contending the seven were denied "equal protection of the law" under the 14th Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

It was a new tack in Martin's campaign to save the men from death. His previous pleas were based on contentions the men were denied a fair trial because the Martinsville Circuit Court refused a change of venue.

The law provides that the defense may appeal to any court if it has new grounds for action, and even a denial by Judge Douglas of Martin's petition for the writs would permit subsequent appeals to higher courts.

Martin's appeal contended the state of Virginia consistently has executed Negroes for rape but never has sentenced white men to death for the same crime.

Joe Henry Hampton, Frank Hairston, Jr., Booker T. Miller and Howard Hairston were to have died tomorrow for the rape Jan. 8, 1949, of Mrs. Ruby Stroud Floyd, wife of a storekeeper. Francis DeSales Grayson, John Clabon Taylor and James Luther Hairston were to have been executed Aug. 4.

USDA Official Praises Research, Marketing Act
DALLAS, Tex., July 27 (AP)—An official of the United States Department of Agriculture praised the Research and Marketing act at the opening of the 11th annual Cotton Research Congress here today.

Dr. P. V. Cardon, administrator, Agricultural Research Administration, said that he was convinced that the act has made a good research program better than it was before the act was passed, and that it has in it the essential elements of still greater achievement.

The Congress is sponsored by the state-wide Cotton Committee of Texas and other state and national organizations.

"Several additional features of the act leave no doubt as to what Congress intended," Cardon said. "For the first time the Department was given practical authority to contract with public or private agencies to do marketing and utilization research. Also, on a fund-matching basis, the Department can enter in cooperative agreements with state departments of agriculture and bureaus of markets to do marketing services types of work, not less than 20 per cent of the direct grant funds to state experiment stations under the RMA must be applied to marketing research; and as much as 25 per cent of these direct grant funds can be used for cooperative regional research in which two or

Australia Set To Mobilize Men, Industry

supply Minister O. H. Beale said today Australia must mobilize her industry for all-out war—even as the country began recruiting a force to fight in Korea.

Beale told a defense supply and planning committee in Melbourne that his job is to build a stockpile of needed materials to bolster the armed forces and to plan the immediate mobilization of key industries in the event of war.

Australia began recruiting a fighting unit for Korean duty this morning.

Army and Navy Minister Josiah Francis said about 100 men had applied in Sydney during the first few hours. He said most of them want to go into action immediately.

A high army officer said he thought the force the government required would be recruited within a few days.

Francis said the Australian force probably will comprise a division, but added that this would depend on Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who arrives today in the United States to confer with President Truman.

Since New Zealand already has announced she will provide an artillery unit, Francis said Australia's contribution probably will consist mainly of infantrymen.

A dispatch from Canberra said most of the Australian force sent to Korea would be World War II veterans so that the force could be sent to the front as soon as possible.

Condition Of Recent USMA Graduate Continues Grave
COLORADO CITY, July 27 (AP)—

A neurosurgeon from Brooke General hospital at Fort Sam Houston was in surgery from 2 a. m. to 5 a. m. at the Root hospital.

Lt. Benson suffered critical skull injuries at 6:40 p. m. Wednesday in a car collision at Eighth and Austin streets. He was thrown from the car, occupied by him and his parents, his head striking the pavement and curb.

The specialist landed at the Big Spring municipal airport at 1 a. m. today and was met by Charles L. Root, manager of the hospital here. Upon arrival at Colorado City, he went into surgery immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Benson, parents of Lt. Benson, escaped unhurt, as did T. R. Haggard, local Mercury dealer, driver of the other car.

Lt. Benson has been working at the PMA office here during his summer leave. He was scheduled to report Aug. 5 to Ft. Benning, Ga. to begin a five-weeks period

Australia Set To Mobilize Men, Industry

SYDNEY, Australia, July 27 (AP)—

supply Minister O. H. Beale said today Australia must mobilize her industry for all-out war—even as the country began recruiting a force to fight in Korea.

Beale told a defense supply and planning committee in Melbourne that his job is to build a stockpile of needed materials to bolster the armed forces and to plan the immediate mobilization of key industries in the event of war.

Australia began recruiting a fighting unit for Korean duty this morning.

Army and Navy Minister Josiah Francis said about 100 men had applied in Sydney during the first few hours. He said most of them want to go into action immediately.

A high army officer said he thought the force the government required would be recruited within a few days.

Francis said the Australian force probably will comprise a division, but added that this would depend on Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who arrives today in the United States to confer with President Truman.

Since New Zealand already has announced she will provide an artillery unit, Francis said Australia's contribution probably will consist mainly of infantrymen.

A dispatch from Canberra said most of the Australian force sent to Korea would be World War II veterans so that the force could be sent to the front as soon as possible.

Claim Mobs Beat Negro Defenders

JACKSON, Miss., July 27. (AP)—about 15 men attacked him at the Northern defenders of a convicted Negro rapist who was to have died today in the electric chair charged they were set upon and manhandled by mobs here.

Mississippi officials countered with the assertion that Communists provoked the incidents for propaganda and were seeking to affront the South.

Mid-between these charges and counter charges was 27-year-old Willie McGee, who was convicted for raping a white woman in 1945 and who yesterday was granted a stay of execution by Justice Harold Burton of the United States Supreme Court.

The Negro's third conviction was affirmed by the state supreme court and the United States High Court refused to review the case.

After the stay was granted, he was beaten in his hotel room here. Grossman and the congress have been defending McGee.

Steve Fischer, a reporter for the New York Daily Compass, told reporters that about 20 men assaulted him and that he "got slugged pretty hard."

Another member of the delegation, Radio Commentator Sidney Ordover of Chicago, said he suffered lacerations and bruises when

Westbrook Aims To Re-Activate City Structure

WESTBROOK, July 27.—Re-activation of the dormant corporate structure of this city is in prospect.

As a part of a move to secure an adequate supply of water for the community, a committee has been named to report on steps necessary to activating the City of Westbrook.

Westbrook has been incorporated, but for years the governmental structure has been dormant. On the committee to learn steps necessary for election of a mayor and councilmen are W. C. Hutchins, Ira Hambrick and Altis C. Cramer.

Under consideration is a plan whereby the school district will bring water from Lake Colorado City, a Texas Electric Service installation, to the school. This, however, would be dependent upon the city contracting for an amount of water sufficient to justify the project.

Estimates have been secured on the probable cost of laying a three-inch line to the lake, which is only four airline miles distant. Cost also has been estimated on pumping and filtration units.

No date was set Monday evening at a citizen's meeting at the school house for another meeting to receive reports. Those attending were much in favor of taking steps to secure water.

STRATEGY HEAD RESIGNS

Internal Dissension Among Republicans Comes To Light

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Internal dissension within the Republican National Committee came to light today with the resignation of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as chairman of the party's strategy committee.

In a letter to national committee members and other party officials, Summerfield charged that national Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson planned to let the strategy group "ride on the vine."

Gabrielson told a reporter the party's executive committee had urged me to dissolve the strategy committee "in view of regional party conferences being held at various cities."

The strategy committee was formed during the regime of Gabrielson's predecessor, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., with the aim of taking over active direction of the drive to elect a GOP Congress in November.

Its members include representatives of the national committee, governors, state chairmen, finance chairmen and Sen. Brewster of Maine and Rep. Leonard Hall of New York, heads of the Senate and House Campaign Committees.

Summerfield said in his letter that despite the fact that neither Scott nor Gabrielson had given the group any funds it had worked out "a very well conceived and constructive program" for the campaign.

But Summerfield said that Gabrielson first wanted to abolish the committee altogether and then decided to let it die on the vine.

"I believe if there ever was a time when we needed the services of Republican leaders everywhere working together in fullest cooperation with all units of our party, it is now," Summerfield wrote national committee members, adding:

"This view apparently is not shared by our chairman and some of the unnamed national committee members who he says have continually urged him to adopt his stated course."

"Obviously in arriving at this decision, Chairman Gabrielson is in reality forcing the strategy committee to dissolve by reason of its proposed inactivity."

Asked to comment, Gabrielson said: "A resolution adopted by the Republican national committee in February authorized the termination of all subcommittees except the executive committee at the discretion of the chairman.

"Members of the executive committee urged me to dissolve the strategy committee, in view of our regional conferences at Atlantic City, Salt Lake City, and Chicago, which are bringing together governors, state chairmen, state finance chairmen, young Republicans and Republican women's organizations. At the request of Mr. Summerfield and others, I agreed to withhold action until after the election upon his assurance that the strategy committee would remain dormant."

"The executive committee is meeting monthly until after the election. I shall continue to rely upon his counsel, and to work in cooperation with the National Republican Senatorial Committee and the National Republican Congressional Committee."

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The government today announced it will organize a 12-man national policy committee, from agriculture, industry, labor, and the public, to consult on war mobilization policy.

W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board (NSRB), said his agency is organizing the advisory group.

The three labor representatives will be AFL President William Green, CIO President Philip Murray, and Al Hayes, president of the International Assn. of Machinists (unaffiliated).

Symington said labor proposed the committee. When asked who the other nine members will be, he said he has not yet had a chance to invite the other groups to take part.

AP Newsfeatures NAIROBI, Kenya Colony—Many settlers in this East African center of British Colonialism are taking a grim and pessimistic view of the future.

The question is when will the British leave this colony set up 30 years ago when it was a wild African coast frequented mainly by slave hunting Arab traders.

There's no agreement on just how or when the British sun will set here — and there are a few who'll tell you "push and nonsense. We'll be here forever."

There are three generally expressed theories, however. One is that the Colonial Office intends to turn the country over to the native Blacks, making it impossible for the White-European to remain.

A second is that the Indian population because of a high birth rate will take control of the country. point is that the Blacks, forced to extremes by starvation conditions, will attack en masse and drive the Europeans out.

"Faith Lady" Works Among White Folks

By Rita Nixon Longview News and Journal

(Written for the Associated Press) MALAKOFF, Texas, July 27—Alice Smothers is a 38-year-old negro woman who makes missionary trips among the white folks. She wears crisp starched dresses and a blue straw sunhat. She carries photos of little negro children making up neat beds and cooking on modern stoves.

She shows up far from this East Texas village, maybe in Dallas, Houston, or Longview. She tells folks how the Lord has caused many new buildings to sprout up at St. Paul's Industrial Training school here. It was once a rickety little shack.

Alice tells stories about each child and each building. All the stories have happy endings. They are full of laughs, brimming with pathos.

"And I says," Alice relates, "Lord, see all these little black children. They yours, Lord you made 'em. You gave me this building in '29. You give me something to go in it."

Busy executives with waiting rooms full of appointments listen, captivated. Some laugh, some cry, some do both. All adore her. They beg her to stay longer and tell them more about Faith. She has great personal warmth.

They dig deep in their wealth and give her money dollars. "Alice and the Lord are on the best of terms," one secretary in East Texas said as she heard Alice tell how the Lord supplied the school with food and equipment. She says little underprivileged sprites are learning to cook and sew and be tradesmen.

She returns to the 200 "adopted" children at Malakoff, her pockets full of crisp checks for the school and the 90-acre farm. It now has a waiting list of 103 children recommended by Texas welfare workers.

The story of Alice and her husband J. W., and their school reads like a Bible story book. They went there as teachers 22 years ago from Alabama. She was a graduate of Texas College in Tyler, had finished Virginia's Hampton Institute on Agriculture.

They pledged $150 of their $175 salary on a loan to build an eight room house. They took in 25 destitute children. They canned white folks' beef for the liver and by-products, started a chicken ranch, fought midwives who refused to sterilize, and got Negroes to build pit toilets.

Once they were called out of church by a white man who said all his boys were dying. They donated overalls and started vaccinating. All dogs now already choleric were saved.

In 1942, Alice prayed and fasted for 24 hours after a cyclone had demolished their school. She went to Tyler and told Joe Zappa, an oilman, how badly St. Paul's needed a new building.

"Do you have to go without eating to get a house?" he asked. Zappa mansion, a boys' home, fully equipped, is worth $15,000. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Fair of Tyler saw students walking two miles to a creek to take baths and bring water back. Africa's fight here," Mr. Fair said. He gave a $10,000 water system.

The Texas Power and Light Company thought they would waste $20,000, putting power into the school, but when an official visited there, St. Paul's got electricity. In a Dallas furniture store one Friday, Alice selected $25,000 worth of furniture and equipment. They thought she was an oil-rich dorkie and prepared the order. When they learned she hadn't any money.

Tax Course Trend Still Goes Upward

By The Associated Press
 WASHINGTON, July 27.—President Truman's $5 billion tax hike proposal is aimed at recouping less than half the $10,913,000,000-a-year revenue loss the government figured it took on the two big post-war tax cuts.

But it returns the tax course to the upward patch followed with few exceptions over the last 20 years and, in general, since the starting days of the republic.

For instance, the $5 billion extra looms large against total federal tax collections of all kinds in 1932, the pit of the depression. The government's total tax take then was $1,500,000,000.

Federal receipts got above $5 billion in 1938 for the first time in a peacetime year. World War I tax rates had brought in $6,695,000,000 in 1920.

World War II sent revenues soaring to a peak of $44,742,000,000 in fiscal 1945, which covered the 12 months ended June 30, 1945—after victory in Europe, but before victory in Japan.

The $5 billion a year tax raise now proposed by President Truman as an addition to the $36,200,000,000 in revenue officially estimated earlier would leave this year's total some $3,500,000,000 below the 1945 mark. But Mr. Truman is slated to ask for more taxes before this year is over.

Of the 23 major tax bills enacted into law in the last 22 years, only two passed in 1945 (without President Truman's approval) and in 1948 (over his veto) have brought big-scale tax reductions.

The 1948 act, effective in the spring of that year, cost the government revenue figured by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder at $4,967,800,000 a year. The 1945 act, effective at 1946's start, cut off revenue estimated at $5,925,000,000 a year.

Individual income taxes, due for a $3 billion a year increase under the new proposal, got the biggest share of the postwar tax cuts—$2,645,000,000 in 1945 and $4,738,000,000 in 1948, or $7,383,000,000 altogether.

Corporation taxes, due for a $1,500,000,000 lift, were cut $3,140,000,000 in 1945, but weren't touched in 1948.

Before the new tax proposal, official estimates counted on a $17,900,000,000 income this year from direct taxes on individuals (some of it from estates and gifts); and $19,200,000,000 from corporation taxes.

A feature of the individual income tax changes over the years has been the shifting of personal exemptions and allowances for dependents—shifts that determine for millions of persons whether they do or don't have to pay any federal income tax.

From 1932 to 1940, these amounted to $2,500 for the married man, $1,000 for the single person and $400 for each dependent. Only 7,800,000 individual income tax returns were filed in 1940, since the exemptions and allowances freed millions from tax debt.

By 1948, the provision had been trimmed to a flat $500 for each taxpayer and dependent—and the number of individual income tax returns filed had soared to 54,800,000.

When the 1948 act broadened the exemption to $600 for each taxpayer and dependent with an additional $600 exemption for those over 65 or blind, an estimated 7,400,000 persons were relieved of income taxes.

The tax rate changes for individuals and corporations have been more complicated in character, but the rates have risen considerably over the years, although rises have varied among income brackets.

County Over Top In Savings Bonds With $131,336.25

Howard was among the counties helping Texas reach its $24 million Independence Savings Bond objective by over subscribing its quota.

Final figures announced by Ira L. Thurman, county bond chairman, showed sales of E bonds in the amount of $131,336.25.

This 110.37 per cent of the $119,000 quota assigned the county for the special effort. There were 102 other counties out of the 254 in the state which exceeded assigned quotas. The Howard record was one of the better ones in this area of West Texas.

Over the state, total sales were $25,383,274, giving a million dollar cushion on the quota, or 105.37 of the objective. The last week of the campaign produced $7 million sales. Howard attained its quota the second week before the campaign ended.

Nathan Adams, Dallas, state chairman, wrote Thurman that "you and the people of your county can be proud of your record in the drive. You helped the state preserve an unblemished record of always going over the top in bond drives."

Nationalists Repulse Red Invasion On Taitan Island

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 27.—The defense ministry said about 500 Chinese Communists today landed on tiny Taitan Island, two miles off Amoy, but the invaders were either killed or captured by Nationalist defenders.

Red held Amoy has been considered the takeoff point for an invasion against Quemoy Island, a key point in the Nationalist blockade of the mainland.

The defense ministry communiqué said more than 200 of the invaders were captured and the rest annihilated. It added that three Communist junkies were set afire, eight sunk and 12 captured.

Nationalist forces also seized a great quantity of ammunition, it said.

Although Taitan is in no way necessary for a Communist conquest of Quemoy, it probably was a test of the United States' announcement that the Seventh Fleet will not interfere in operations outside the Formosa defense zone.

Formosa is about 100 miles east of Quemoy.

Dynamite Charge Kills Two Men

EL PASO, July 27.—Two men were killed yesterday when they were buried under rock after lightning exploded a dynamite charge at a stone quarry.

The two were W. A. Harrison, 41, of El Paso, and Teofilo Vera, 43, of Juarez, Mex.

William E. Tucker, quarry superintendent, said 10 charges had been placed with 10 pounds of dynamite in each, to be exploded after workmen left the area. He said the lightning set off one or two of the charges and sent tons of rock upon the pair.

Uncle Sam Wins It Either Way

MEADVILLE, Pa. July 27.—George Barrickman is a private first class in Meadville's heavy mortar company on the Pennsylvania National Guard.

He is scheduled to leave tomorrow night with the company for training maneuvers, but he's worried he may be marked AWOL.

George's draft board has told him to report for his pre-induction physical Saturday morning. If he's not there, he's subject to immediate induction into the armed forces.

The Pennsylvania adjutant general's office is being asked to decide first claim to George.

COE TO SEEK RECOUNT OF OKLAHOMA VOTING

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27.—William O. Coe charges that the Democratic governor's nomination was stolen from him and says he will demand today that a complete recount be made.

In the face of an unofficial 886-vote defeat by Johnston Murray, Coe declared "some county and precinct election officials in this state are going to the penitentiary for the election frauds practiced on me" Tuesday in the runoff primary.

"The unofficial totals gave Murray 235,525; Coe 234,639.

No officials were named, but the bitter candidate asserted "Already in Oklahoma County alone, we have uncovered at least 3,100 votes stolen from me and given to Johnston Murray. In another county of this state, 29 people were voted out of one four-room house, listed as their residence, all votes for Johnston Murray."

After a campaign fraught with scathing accusations by Coe concerning Murray's character, Coe skyrocketed from a 88,000 vote deficit in the first primary. He called Murray a "child deserter and craft avoider."

Murray said he would withhold comment, pending outcome of the official tabulation expected late tomorrow or Saturday. Representatives of both candidates are guarding ballot boxes all over the state.

Only eight counties are officially reported, and they changed but one vote to Coe.

Coe claimed he had evidence that one man was paid $1,500 to "deliver 10 precincts to Johnston Murray, after the polls were closed in Oklahoma County."

He sent out an appeal for funds for the recount, which costs $19,250 for the 77 counties on the basis of $250 per county.

Both candidates are Oklahoma City attorneys. Murray is a son of former Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, and Coe is a former state senator.

Newspaper Stand Closed For Selling Communist Papers

DETROIT, July 27.—Izzy Benson's newsstand near Detroit's city hall is now out of action.

Police hauled it away yesterday as a "public nuisance." It had been so labeled by the city council which is making a drive against Communist propaganda distribution on municipal territory.

Izzy sold the Daily Worker and other Communist publications.

The council is still studying a proposed ordinance to forbid sales of "subversive literature."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Take Your Choice

Sitting around last Friday evening, the talk turned to the best way of getting to sleep when it seems you just can't. "The way I always do," says Sandy Johnson, "is to breathe deep and make believe I weigh a ton."

"Just throw away the pillow—it works every time," says Buzz Ellis. When counting sheep came up, right away was the question: What kind of sheep?

From where I sit, you could argue 'til Doomsday and never get complete agreement on a lot of things. Now, take me, I'm all for having a glass of beer or ale on occasion. Your "sociable beverage" may be a "Coke"—or buttermilk or maybe a cup of hot coffee.

But enjoying our preferences is a right in this country and each of us is entitled to his own. The important thing is to respect that right in the true democratic spirit of understanding! As a matter of fact, what a tiresome old world this would be if we all did have the same likes and dislikes!

State Highway And Lateral Road Projects Are Due Our Attention

Here it is almost August and no definite word that the Big Spring-Lenora link on state highway 87 is to be up for bids any time soon. This means that at best, the road can only be put in shape for final action in 1950.

We had hoped for action in 1950 and can still expect our disappointment at the delay. Meanwhile, work goes steadily forward on the Martin county portion of the road, for which we are grateful. The real utility of this section, however, is dependent upon the connection.

The ultimate utility of the road also is dependent upon that connection, for it not only will provide for easier intercourse between the communities of central Martin and central Howard, but also between Big Spring and Andrews. That happens to be why it bears a state highway designation.

Perhaps the state highway department is doing all that it can to get the project in the hopper. However, it will do no harm for various official and semi-official bodies here to check into the situation and measure highway engineers and officials of our key interests in this project.

Howard county has some lateral road problems of its own dragging at the moment. Unhappily, they both lie in a precinct where a commissionership is at stake in the runoff. It is therefore too much to expect, we suppose, that the right-of-way problems will be attacked seriously and vigorously before September. Comes that time, however, we would like to see the matter followed closely to successful conclusion.

Pork May Be Fair Voter Bait, But It Is Mighty Poor Weapon

The accusation has been made in Congress that Alaska's defenses are far short of what they should be because that territory has not been granted statehood.

This is another way of saying that defense has been meted out along pork barrel lines.

We do not know much about the state of Alaska's defenses, but from some accounts, they could stand considerable bolstering to the security and comfort of the nation.

But we do know how defense installations become the brag and boast of various representatives as well as various states and cities.

Invariably, the boast is not that such and such an installation contributes to the safety of the nation, but that it costs such and such a figure, and that it produces a fantastic payroll.

If you don't believe this, listen in on holly-contested races for the Congress, and particularly the Senate. The claims and counter-claims are pitched on a plane that "I helped get this for our state."

Well, what about the nation? Where does the country as a whole fit into the picture?

This is bad psychology, and it is bad practice. Pork may be fair voter bait, but it is a mighty poor weapon when it comes to defense.

Korea Is A Land Bled White By Many Centuries Of Oppression

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea. — You judge a strange place by your eyes, your nose, your sense of taste—and how the people in it treat you.

Korea is an old and cynical country now torn by a fresh cruelty, but a cruelty it is used to. It is like Sicily in this respect. In the past 4,000 years it has been trampled often by foreign conquerors.

Like Sicily, too, it has a distinctive odor and it raises wondrous vegetables. Unlike Sicily, it has much rainfall and its chief crop is rice.

An Iowa farmer might sympathize with the Korean peasants' problems of climate, but he might be shocked that they use human night soil to fertilize their fields.

FROM THE AIR AT THIS SEASON Korea looks fresh and fair—a country much like eastern Ohio, or perhaps the Ozarks. The valleys appear beautifully kept, and the mountains are green.

When you land, however, you find a region overpopulated and overfilled, bled by an ancient poverty and suffering from lack of sanitation.

There are railroad and power lines to show the stamp of the western world. Yet the children bathe nude in muddy rivers filled with liver flukes.

Other children, and adults too, stoop in squalor beside village huts or at the roadside. What came from the land goes back to the land: That is the rugged economy of timeless destitution.

Rearmament Recognizes Fact Allies Are Weak Defensively

AMERICA'S SUDDEN SHIFT FROM A program emphasizing economic well-being to a tremendously costly rearmament project, coupled with a similar move among her Atlantic Pact allies in western Europe, puts an entirely new complexion on life for the democracies—and it isn't a rosy one.

No, that's not predicting another global war. On the contrary, this rearmament is calculated to forestall any possible aggression. It is recognition of the increasingly obvious fact that military weakness among the democracies now would be an invitation to attack.

The rape of Korea has been fresh warning of Moscow's project of wearing us down economically and militarily by isolated assaults. It's the only divide-and-conquer scheme, and numerous similar Red attacks appear in the offing.

AS A MATTER OF FACT COMMUNISM may have cut its own throat by the Korean aggression. Had it not been for Korea, America and the western European members of the Atlantic Pact would have pushed steadily along with their economic welfare programs, and this would have been done at the expense of wholesale rearmament.

Now the search for security has suddenly shifted from the ideal of balanced budgets to air-tight military strength capable of meeting any eventuality.

And for clarity's sake let's emphasize that this change isn't because the western authorities believe another world war is inevitable. It's because they recognize that it is possible and that military weakness on their part would increase that possibility.

UNTIL RECENTLY THE WESTERN allies had figured that it would take Russia three or four years to reach economic and military preparedness. The fact was taken into consideration by the Atlantic Pact nations in laying their own plans for developing military security. Now they suddenly find that this estimate was far too optimistic.

So we see America and her allies rushing plans to meet any possible attack. That is the all important subject now before the 12 deputies of the North Atlantic Council meeting in London.

OF COURSE THE DEMOCRACIES have a notable precedent to remind them of possibilities. They aren't likely soon to forget that Adolf Hitler performed the staggering feat of rearming a defeated Germany right under the noses of surrounding nations without their realizing what was happening.

The western powers have no intention of handing such an advantage to any other aggressor nation. Consequently they must make a quick mobilization of resources for rearmament. And since military preparations are not economically productive, it means that Americans must tighten their belts so that they can devote to preparedness.

There probably is ahead of us a long, hard grind of sacrifice. And as previously remarked, the prospects aren't rosy.

Friends Are Urging Truman Appoint Hoover Central Intelligence Head

WASHINGTON. — It isn't generally known, but Admiral Roscoe Hillekoetter, chief of the super-duper spy agency, Central Intelligence, had asked for sea duty well before the Korean outbreak.

The admiral has done a better job of foreign intelligence than Congress gives him credit for, but he has never been particularly happy in the job and would like to get back to a battleship. Hillekoetter was former commander of the battleship Missouri, comes from the state of Missouri, and was picked by Truman personally for the difficult intelligence assignment.

Faced with the admiral's insistence that he wants to be transferred, President Truman has asked Gen. Bedell Smith, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow, to take over Central Intelligence. Smith, so far, has refused, on the ground that he recently underwent an ulcer operation.

Gen. Smith knows the Russians, and would be better than most military men for this assignment. However, Congress, in creating Central Intelligence, did not intend that it be run by the military. Past experience has shown that civilians are better qualified to direct detective - espionage agencies.

Therefore, some of the President's friends are urging that he appoint J. Edgar Hoover to this important post.

Hoover is one of the best organizers in government, has built up one of the best-trained investigation bureaus the world has ever seen, and has in such good shape that it could operate under a new director.

On the other hand, getting intelligence on a prospective enemy is all-important in this day when a suitcase smuggled into an American harbor, or the flight of one plane across the Arctic, or the secret massing of troops on a certain border could cripple the United States indefinitely.

That is why a man of Hoover's genius ought to be used to head an agency which today has become even more important than the FBI.

AFTER YOU ALPHONSO Republican members of the Joint Economic Committee were just as co-operative as Democrats in supporting President Truman's call for increased taxes. Even Ohio's rugged individualist, Bob Taft, went along.

"The boys who are being inducted to fight for us are paying the greatest tax—on their life and limb," declared another Ohioan, Democratic Representative Walter Huber, during the closed-door meeting. "It's up to us to shoulder the financial arms, though they may be heavy. And those who are profiting from this war should be taxed the greatest."

Even GOP Congressman Robert Alphonso, who faces a hot reelection battle, "but I think the honor of sponsoring this bill belongs to you Democrats, the majority party. No, I wouldn't deny you that privilege for the world."

President Talks Tough About Tax Bill, Says Right People Will Pay

WASHINGTON. — President Truman has broken the bad news to his congressional leaders that he wants higher taxes right now, including the excess profits tax.

The President is talking tough. Taft in recent days he has told cabinet that he intended to do one thing that Roosevelt never even tried to do, and that was to see that the right people paid for the war while it was going on.

World War II was financed about one-third from taxes and two-thirds from borrowing. This was the work of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means committees under their present chairmen, Sen. Walter Doughton, George, and Robert L. Taft. Doughton is now talking of postponing a new tax bill until next year. Doughton has said he would wait for the President's tax message but approved the pay-as-you-go principle.

It is not on record that Roosevelt built many fins under them. Harry Truman apparently proposes to do so.

When Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn spoke of the possibility of an interim tax bill, he was paying due tribute to the power of the two cautious congressional tax czars. Each of them, incidentally, is No. 2 in point of seniority in his house. Only Sen. Kenneth McKellar has served longer than George, who is 72, and Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, longer than Doughton, who is 86.

The President may have to take an interim tax bill which would probably postpone excess profits temporarily. It is firmly stated by his advisers that he will try first for a real bill.

His position will be supported in the report from his Council of Economic Advisers which is due Wednesday. The report will not spell out a tax bill; it will develop the thesis that with the right program of stiff taxation, the hated controls of World War II may be avoided for the present.

A possible interim action suggested in some quarters is repeal of the 80th Congress' tax reductions. Sen. William A. Robertson of Virginia has suggested that everybody pay a flat 10 per cent income tax this year. Reimposition of the wartime excess profits tax is said to be not feasible.

Taxes are a bitter dose for the election-year Congress, but the situation here is snowballing very fast. Since the President unveiled his request for $10,000,000,000 more for defense, demands for reservations in leading hotels have been approaching the wartime crest. Big industry is shopping for space. One hotel manager declared, and all hotels are having to take pains to keep a proper amount of transient rooms available.

How firm the demand would prove, he said he could not guess. He suggested, however, that perhaps all the boarders are not content to women afraid they won't have nylon.

There are several new apartment hotels in Washington since the hectic housing crisis of World War II, and many more one-room apartments. Actually, the new census rather disappointed some boosters because the city did not keep more of its wartime population but failed by about 250,000 to reach the million status. The metropolitan area did grow astoundingly.

Transient and non-housekeeping rooms are decontrolled here. The D. C. rent control bill has been extended through January 31 next.

With some consternation the old Washingtonians face another sub-war-sardine era of crowded living, almost before they have recovered from the last one. But Sen. Robert A. Taft struck the public temper for once when he predicted that this partial mobilization period might last 10 or 15 years; Washington expects it.

Singapore Factory Destroyed By Reds

SINGAPORE, July 27. — Singapore's largest rubber factory was destroyed today by a fire police said was set by Communist arsonists.

The factory was insured for $2,300,000. It employed almost 1,000 persons.

Deputy Police Commissioner R. C. B. Wittshire said, "we have every reason to believe the fire was set by Communist arsonists."

He said the blaze looked like part of an ambitious Communist plot to destroy Singapore's economy. Two previous attempts had been made to fire the factory, he explained.

Important British Papers Returned

DETROIT, July 27. — A brief case belonging to the British navy—lost Tuesday on a Detroit street—has been recovered.

A truck driver spotted it and turned it in. Police reported yesterday. It had fallen from the truck of the car of the three British naval commanders.

Its contents wouldn't have imperiled national security but certain secret material was included, officials said.

Here's A Story Parents And Children Should Think About

Someone told me a story the other day, a story that has been repeated many times before yet little has been done to escape the consequences. Let me relate this story to you:

A little girl of ten went to the movies by herself one afternoon. After the show, she stood on the corner waiting for a bus. While standing there, a man came up and spoke to her. He spoke softly and appeared friendly to a child unfamiliar with the facts of life.

The man, apparently in his middle 20's, struck up a conversation with the girl and gradually asked her if she'd care for a drink. Of course, not knowing better, the girl accepted. Later, when it was time to catch the bus, the girl was confused over which bus to take. The kind "gentleman" told her to take a certain bus. And, by some coincidence, he, too, took the identical bus.

Before the bus got very far, the little girl saw she was not going in the right direction.

"Well," said the man, "let's get off here and take a bus back to town."

They got off, but the man, supposedly leading the girl to the next bus stop, took the girl into an isolated area that was a far cry from any bus stop.

Grabbing the girl by her arms, the man said he "wanted to look" at her. The girl became nervous and begged the man to take her to the bus stop.

Instead, they went farther out of their way. When they reached a reasonably isolated place, the man then offered the girl a dollar if she would "undress" before his eyes.

Suddenly the child became afraid. She ran and didn't stop until she reached a place where she could call for a taxi. Fortunately, and very much so, the young child was unharmed. Later, when an indignant father heard this, he was prompted to hunt out this maniac and, in his words, "kill him!"

Who could blame the father for his attitude?

But, who was to blame for the incident occurring in the first place?

Medical science has not yet agreed on any solution for the so-called sex-maniac and, if they did, it could only help after some "incident" took place.

Without being drawn into the argument of what SHOULD be done, here are a few simple ideas for thought that you parents might take into consideration.

1. Never let your child away from home unless he or she KNOWS the way home—and a safe way, at that.

2. Warn your children NEVER to talk to strangers, let alone take their advice and accept gratuities from them.

3. Preferably, only allow your children away from home, whether they know the way back or not, with other children.

4. Be certain of your child's whereabouts at all times.

True, no bodily harm came to the young child mentioned above. But the experience is one no child will forget and instilled in her mind, may prove harmful in later years.

Don't think for any minute that "it didn't happen to my child so why should I worry?"

It could, you know, happen to your child. . . . too late to do any good.

Jesse White Finally Got Good Role After Seven Bad Plays

NEW YORK.—When Brock Pemberton was casting that long run comedy hit, "Harvey," there was a big blond actor named Jesse White who was dubious about accepting a job. It seemed like a crazy play, this comedy about an invisible rabbit, and Pemberton wanted White to play the role of a hard-boiled "keeper" in a nut house.

"I took the role, although it sounded crazy, because I had played in seven Broadway failures in two years," White explained. "I had gotten to the point where I was convinced that the only plays which had roles for me were plays that ran only two weeks."

"At the time 'Harvey' was being cast I was playing in a turkey show called 'Mrs. Kimball Presents.' That show ran for only five performances. But I was playing with as much enthusiasm as if I were playing Hamlet. I had figured a philosophy: 'You never know who's sitting out front. You never know who is sitting out there watching your work.'"

"In this case I was right. Brock Pemberton was sitting out front on one of those five nights and that is when he sent for me to play the role in 'Harvey' and I played it for four years. Steady work, at last."

Truman Proposals Would Boost Corporation, Personal Taxes

WASHINGTON, July 27. — THIS IS WHAT President Truman's request for higher income taxes means.

To pay for re-arming, he asked Congress to:

1. Boost the tax on individuals and corporations right now and, if necessary, more later.

2. Leave the present excise taxes unchanged and plug loopholes that allow some to get off tax-free on some investment earnings.

His proposals follow:

For individuals—

An increase about mid-way between your present tax and what you paid on income for 1945, the last big wartime tax year. For example:

Proposed: About 20 per cent tax on the lowest taxable income, ranging up to 91 per cent on the highest.

IN 1945 IT WAS 23 PER CENT ON THE lowest to 94 per cent on the highest. Under present law it's 16 1/2% on the lowest to 82 per cent on the highest.

As an example in dollars and cents, take a married man with two children and a taxable income of $5,000.

In 1945, his tax was $755; now—$432; proposed—$532.

For corporations—

Under present tax law corporations are divided into two groups: Those earning less than $50,000 and those earning more.

For the under-$50,000 firms, the present law goes like this:

On the next $5,000—21 per cent tax; on the next $15,000—23 per cent; on the next $5,000—25 per cent; on the other $25,000—53 per cent.

The present tax on corporations making $50,000 or more is a flat 38 per cent. MR. TRUMAN PROPOSES TO CHANGE this and make it a flat 25 per cent on the first $2,000 of taxable earnings and 45 per cent on all above that.

Strangely, this would mean a tax increase for all corporations except those between $30,000 and $70,000. They'd actually get a cut.

Why? The government experts tried to work out a simple, usable formula to cover all firms and the formula happens to give the $30,000-$70,000 group a break.

The President did not suggest—at this time, anyway—an "excess profits" tax on corporations such as they had to pay in wartime.

In wartime, with money rolling in from war orders, a firm had to figure out what its normal, pre-war earnings were.

Then the firm had to pay a regular—but high—tax on its wartime earnings considered equal to its pre-war earnings. But—

ON ITS EARNINGS ABOVE ITS PRE-war normal, the firm had to pay an extra tax of 85 per cent. This was the excess profits tax.

Excise taxes are special taxes on certain kinds of goods, like furs, jewelry, luggage, and toilet preparations. The present tax on them is 20 per cent which is what you pay when you buy them.

There are other excise taxes of various size on various things, like telephone calls, theatre tickets, appliances, and so on. Altogether these excise taxes produce about $7 billion yearly for Uncle Sam.

This year, before the Korean crisis, Congress had planned to reduce most of them. Now Mr. Truman asks Congress to let these taxes stand untouched. The government, he says, needs the $7 billion.

On loophole closing and other things—

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES: Because of a defect in present law, life insurance companies for the past three years have not had to pay any income taxes on profits they got from investing their money, such as in real estate.

Mr. Truman wants the law fixed so they'll have to pay tax on their invested income, but not the money they get from policyholders.

Rains Throw Crimp Into City Operations

Early morning rains threw crimps into several phases of the city's construction and maintenance operations today.

Water overflowed ditches for the new sewer lines being installed along Bidwell land, City Manager H. W. Whitney reported. Work was halted on that project.

The street department was forced to close 11th Place to through traffic as rain undermined fresh dirt thrown into the cut made at the Benton street intersection for installation of new storm sewer. Work was also halted on the installation of curb and gutter on Sycamore street.

In addition, showers erased all evidence of the past two weeks of grading and tilling work on several dirt and gravel streets, the city manager said.

PROBERS PROMISE To Keep Lookout For Black Market

WASHINGTON, July 27. Senate crime investigators promised today to keep a sharp lookout for any sign of war-spawned black market operations by racketeers and criminal gangs.

They warned that shortages caused by the Korean fighting and an expanded military program are likely to draw "racket money" into trading in scarce commodities. Black markets, in which scarce goods are sold illegally for high prices, traditionally spring up when a government undertakes to control sales.

A statement from the special Senate committee to study crime said that investigators "had found many leads tending to show that racket money was at the basis of black market operations of considerable magnitude" during World War II and the postwar period.

"With the present reported rush on the part of many persons to hoard commodities of every type," said Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn). "There is undoubtedly a strong temptation for these racketeers to turn again to these lucrative by-lines."

He added that if the committee uncovers evidence of this, it will promptly report to Congress and the public.

The committee statement said investigation already has disclosed that big-scale racketeers frequently attempt to "legitimize themselves and their operations" once they accumulate large sums of money, by investing in lawful enterprises.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis), a committee member, said that "among these pseudo-legitimate enterprises are meat distributing concerns, grocery distribution agencies, sugar companies, steel and metal concerns, automobile and beer and liquor sales agencies."

He added that "several attempts by well-known racketeers to enter the steel and building supply business when these items were scarce have been uncovered by the committee."

ENGINE STORAGE

Air Base Has An Unusual Cannery

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff
Kelly Air Force Base, San Antonio, is the nation's most unusual cannery.

There, in giant pressurized cans, they are "putting up" 2,500 horsepower B-36 engines for storage and possible shipment to any place in the world.

Like vegetables or coffee, the engines will "keep" in cans. No longer will periodic maintenance and corrosion servicing be necessary as was necessary with crated engines.

In making the announcement this week, Col. Fred Bell, maintenance director at Kelly, said giant metal containers cost Uncle Sam approximately the same as older wooden crates. On shock-proof mountings inside the can, the powerplants are practically indestructible under normal conditions.

"The new packing method, pioneered by Kelly, is expected to save the Air Force many millions of dollars as well as give new mobility and flexibility to combat craft," Bell said.

"The spent cans are the answer to a whole series of operational problems pointed up by the second world war," he added.

In combat they can be tossed over the side of a supply ship. Buoyant, the big tins could be towed ashore where bulldozers could push them to safety.

"Putting the Air Force's biggest conventional powerplant into pressurized cans represents the high mark in an extensive series of canning experiments here for all types of power plants," the Kelly announcement said.

"A development of the air materiel command, the project underwent its first full scale trial run during the Berlin airlift.

"Today, ground crews anywhere in the world will be able to open a can and pull a preserved engine from it. Like a tin of corn on the shelf, canned engines will "keep" indefinitely, provided pressure is maintained in the can.

"It is anticipated that all engines rolling off the production lines at Kelly soon will be canned for shipment to the far corners of the globe."

A can of B-36 engine weighs 1,100 pounds. Kelly workers refer to it as "the large economy-size."

Baptists Urge Law To Protect Minority Rights

CLEVELAND, July 27. (AP)—A resolution opposing racial discrimination and segregation and urging laws to safeguard the rights of oppressed "minority groups" was introduced today at the Baptist World Alliance.

It mentioned discrimination against Jews, Orientals and Mexicans, and Negroes.

The resolution came from a commission on social justice headed by Dr. Benjamin Mays, president of Morehouse College, a Negro school in Atlanta, Ga.

Its introduction was approved by the executive committee of the Baptist World Alliance, which is holding the six-day congress ending today.

With one major exception it followed similar resolutions approved by past Baptist congresses. It added, this, however:

"Discrimination based on religion, culture and race provides fertile soil for the development and spread of Communism, Fascism and other anti-social programs."

Dr. F. Townley Lord, 56-year-old pastor of a church in London, was unanimously elected president of the alliance yesterday.

He succeeds Dr. C. Oscar Johnson of St. Louis and will be installed today.

The next Congress will be held in London in 1955.

Dr. Lord is editor of the Baptist Times and is a former president of the British Baptist Union.

To The Voters Of Glasscock County I take this means to express my gratitude to the ones who supported me in Saturday's primary which gave me a clear majority in electing me County Judge. And to those who opposed me I hold no ill feeling. Again I say thank you. Respectfully yours, D. L. "Lee" Smith

Midland Doctor New Member Of Surgeons Group

MIDLAND, July 26 —Member-ship in the International College of Surgeons has been granted to Dr. Thomas J. Melton, Jr., chief of surgery at Western Clinic-Hospital here.

He is the second West Texan to be granted fellowship in the group. Formal induction will be at the International College meeting at Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 31-Nov. 4. The ICS was founded in Geneva, Switzerland in 1835 and the American chapter was incorporated in Washington in 1940. Dr. Melton is a graduate of Tulane, where he also earned his MD degree. Later he took his MS in surgery at the University of Minnesota. For health reasons, he moved to Midland in 1949.

Local State Guard Unit May Be Set Up If TNG Goes

The Big Spring company of the Texas State Guard will be re-activated in event the Texas National Guard is pressed into service.

This would be part of the statewide program for the TSG as announced by the state adjutant general. H. L. Bohannon, captain, commanded the TSG company here at the time of its deactivation. He has been advised of plans to mobilize the state guard in event of a war emergency. Function would be to guard essential installations, prevent sabotage, quell riots or serve in any other manner affecting security of the state when called by the governor.

Company C is part of the third battalion, headquartered at Midland and commanded by Lt. Col. Carl Herndon. Maj. Henry Hansford, who was active in the guard during World War II, is executive officer. Capt. R. L. Crites is commander of Company A at Midland, Capt. O. H. Hardy of Company B at Odessa, and Capt. E. H. Batson of company D at Crane.

BACK TO KOREA ONCE MORE

After A Lapse Of 79 Years, The Marines Corps Returns

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON — U. S. Marines on their way from the west coast to the Battle of Korea will not be the first Leathernecks to fight on Korean soil.
Seventy-nine years ago a battalion of Marines, with the support of ships and sailors of the Asiatic fleet, won the two-day Battle of the Salween River Forts. It was the first time that soldiers of a western power had spent a night on Korean soil.
The battle followed the alleged treacherous firing by Korean soldiers on an American party surveying the river. Asiatic Fleet Admiral John J. Rodgers had obtained permission from Korean authorities to make navigation soundings.

For several years prior to the Salween river fracas Koreans reportedly had mistreated American sailors and others shipwrecked on Korean shores. Some Americans were said to have been killed.
In the spring of 1871 the United States Minister to China, Frederick Low, arranged a conference with Korean authorities looking to the protection of American citizens. Low enlisted the services of the Asiatic fleet, then in Japanese waters.
Low boarded Adm. Rodgers' flagship, the Colorado, and the squadron arrived off Salween river anchorage late in May. After an exchange of apparently friendly visits between Koreans and Americans, the river surveying expedition was launched.
The surveying party was suddenly fired upon from the Korean forts and the beach. American gunboats steamed into action, returning the fire and rescuing the surveyors.
Low and Rodgers demanded an explanation and reparations. The Koreans failing to give a satisfactory answer in 10 days, an expedition of gunboats with a Marine landing party and seven field pieces sailed up the river.
The guns of the three Korean forts were silenced by fire from the American vessel. The following day a Marine battalion and a detachment of sailors, led by Capt. Melane Tilton, stormed and captured the fort.
The Salween river engagement was the 100th battle in which units of the Marine Corps, established in 1775, had participated. The Marines' first battle was during a raid on New Providence in the Bahamas on March 2, 1776.

The first fighting by U. S. Marines in the Far East took place on Sumatra, Feb. 7, 1832. Some 250 Marines and sailors defeated a band of Malay pirates in the Battle of Quallo Bato.
The Leathernecks' first fighting in China was at the Battle of Shanghai in April 1854. American and British Marines drove off Chinese imperialist forces which had encroached on the foreign settlement in Shanghai.
In the Spanish-American war the Marine corps had a force of only 75 officers and 2,000 enlisted men. When the United States entered World War I the Marines had 511 officers and 13,000 men, but during that war more than 31,000 Marines were sent overseas for service in the A. E. F.
When the Nazis overran France in the summer of 1940 the Marines had an active force of about 28,000. By the time of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941, volunteer enlistments had increased Marine strength to 66,000.
The corps now has an active force of 74,000 and a reserve of about 90,000. Its peak strength in World War II, when it engaged in about 37 major campaigns and battles in the Pacific, was 486,000.
The Marines pride themselves as being the possessors to a high degree of three military assets. These are their traditional fighting spirit, specialized skill in amphibious operations and constant state of readiness.
Maj. Gen. M. H. Silverthorn, director of the Marine Reserve, said recently "the Marine corps does not aspire to have a second land army."

"It is the readiness of the Fleet Marine Forces rather than their size which is the important consideration," he said. "They are capable of providing moderate-sized amphibious striking forces on short notice — forces which could well be of vital importance in the period of tension immediately preceding a war or in the early stages of a war when the country is not yet fully mobilized."

Senior Scout Unit From Colorado City Visits Air Field

COLORADO CITY, July 27 — Members of this city's only senior scouting unit, Explorer Squadron 10, visited Goodfellow Field at San Angelo during the weekend.
They made the trip in response to an invitation from Maj. Albert D. Hatcher, Jr., air scout project officer. Inspections were made of the communications division, weather instruments and other facilities relating to aviation. They also inspected aircraft of the field, and ground facilities for cadets.
In the group were John Jones, Paul Greenhaw, Melton Wilbanks, Charles Currie and Cirdell Rice accompanied by their sponsor Tom Jay Goss, II, who arranged the trip.

SUMMER COOLERS — You can be a good hostess at a moment's notice with these recipes.

Ready-To-Fix Lemonade And Cookies Are Easy To Serve When Guests Come

What tastes better on a hot day than a tall glass of lemonade with a crisp cookie or two? This wonderful lemonade syrup will keep fresh-tasting for days in the refrigerator. You will find it handy for family use or when unexpected guests drop in.

Butterscotch cookies, plain, or frosted and decorated with an embroidery of colored sugar, and coconut-crowned marguerites are just-right accompaniments. They are so good you'll use them as dessert, too, with ice cream or sugared fruits.

NO-COOKING LEMONADE SYRUP
4 teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cups lemon juice

Simply combine and stir until sugar is dissolved. Store in a covered jar in the refrigerator. For each tall glass, use 1-4 cup, plus ice and water. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

(For a change, use the lemon syrup plus a good dash of canned loganberry juice for each glass. Pretty and pink!)

BUTTERSCOTCH REFRIGERATOR COOKIES
1 cup shortening (part butter for flavor)
2 cups brown sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 eggs, unbeaten
3/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 to 1 1/2 cups chopped walnuts

Cream shortening with brown sugar, and vanilla. Add eggs one at a time, beating well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and nuts, and mix well. It will form a fairly stiff dough. Shape into 2 rolls, about 2 to 2 1/2 inches in diameter, wrap snugly in wax paper, and chill in the refrigerator until firm before slicing cookies. The dough may be kept for several days. When cookies are wanted, slice off the number required (about 18 inch thick) and bake in a fairly hot oven (400 F.) about 8 minutes until brown. Remove from pan at once. If desired, frost lightly with White Fudge Frosting.

WHITE FUDGE FROSTING
1-4 cup water
2 tablespoons butter
3 cups sifted powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Heat water and butter until butter melts. Remove from heat, and gradually stir in powdered sugar. Beat well. Spread on cool cookies or cake. This frosting can be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator for several days and then thinned with cream until it will spread easily.

COLORED DECORATIVE SUGAR
Measure 1/2 cup granulated sugar into a heavy bowl. Sprinkle with two or three drops red, green, or yellow food coloring. Stir until color is well distributed. Mix in additional food coloring if deeper hue is desired. Sprinkle over fresh-frosted cookies.

MARGUERITES
1 egg white
Dash of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
1/2 dozen crackers
1-4 cup shredded coconut

Add salt and vanilla to the egg white and beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the sugar. Round a teaspoonful on each cracker, sprinkle with coconut and place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (325 F.) 15 minutes, or until topping is delicately browned. These are at their best when made shortly before serving.

Light Desserts Should Be Served To Balance Menu

In the heat of the good ole summertime when afternoon siestas are even more of a temptation, it is important that menu-planners serve light desserts.

Not only do they need a slightly different twist each week, but they should properly balance the rest of the meal to be appetizing. Frances Barton suggests some heat-of-the-day menus with emphasis on a light dessert.

AT BAY—This great flying boat, The Bristol, now awaits disposal.
ANY BUYERS FOR THE BRISTOL?

Famous Trans-Atlantic Plane Sits Idle At A Hitching Post

AP Newsfeatures BALTIMORE—There's something a bit touching about watching the big flying boat float idly at her Harbor Field hitching post. For she is all that remains of the family of three sisters that carried Pan-American's plush trans-Atlantic trade for many years, then served the B.O.A.C. routes between Europe and the United States. Their last operational role was between Baltimore and Bermuda. The Berwick has come to an inglorious end in a scrap heap. The Berwick is doomed to a similar end. Only the Bristol is spared, and her time may be short. Even if she does fly again, her role will be far from the usage to which she became accustomed. A prospective purchaser from Richmond, Va., is considering buying her to ferry water from the River Jordan for sale in this country. From the time that B.O.A.C. purchased the ships in 1941 for about $1,000,000 apiece until 1948 they flew 4,000,000 miles in war and peace, carrying 15,630 passengers on 596 trips across the Atlantic without one death, injury or operational mishap.

In January, 1942, the Berwick was assigned to carry Prime Minister Winston Churchill from Norfolk, Va., to Bermuda, where he was to complete the rest of the trip home on the HMS Duke of York.

After arriving safely at Hamilton, Bermuda, the prime minister reflected over the seven-to-nine day voyage on the Duke of York and the 18 hour ride home on the Berwick, then decided: "I will fly." He did, piloting the craft for about 20 minutes.

READY TO WORK

You Can Hear A Whisper When Atom Console Plays

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor, UPTON, N. Y.

Enlarge an airplane cockpit and its controls about six times and you have a good likeness of the controls of the newest atomic reactor.

Add a co-pilot for the atomic controls, his job to double-check. This reactor, here at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, is America's first large post-war atomic pile. It may start operating this year. The reactor is hidden inside a big, six-story, warehouse-type structure, with peculiar windows. They are massed in a few places, leaving most of the outer walls solid and bare.

The controls are on a console, as large as the console of the greatest pipe organ, and on an instrument panel covering the wall as high as a man can reach and much wider than the console.

You will start this atomic monster with two fingers. They turn a dial like that on a radio and television set. This turn will move some long, boron-steel rods, which stick into the square reactor hidden behind massive walls in front of you. The rods are like hatpins that have been pushed full length into a hat.

The electronic dial will cause them to pull slowly out of the reactor. That will start the atomic fire.

The radioactivity will rise to intensities that would be fearful except for the protective walls. In a few minutes the pile will be equal to hundreds of tons of radium.

Simultaneously heat will rise, equivalent to the heat of a ten thousand kilowatt power station. But this reactor is for scientific experiments only.

This atomic console plays soundless music. Neither the radioac-

R. L. Tollett, R. R. McEwen, Sr., and Obie Bristow have been named to a Sheriff's posse committee to work with Frank Kelley of Colorado City in arranging a horse show here for the latter part of October.

The show will be staged at the Sheriff's Posse grounds southwest of Big Spring and will feature harness races, jumpers, hunters, hack class horses, gaited horses and a flat race each day.

Kelley is one of the better known horsemen of the Southwest.

Couple Die Of Electrocutation

WICHITA FALLS, July 27.—A man and his wife were electrocuted yesterday when the man attempted to electrify a fence around a sudan grass patch at his home five miles from Knox City.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cox.

The 19-year-old wife died when she attempted to save her husband after hearing his screams. Cox had strung a wire from an electric line atop his garage. Clutching the line in one hand he stepped on a metal barrel as he climbed down from the garage.

Neighbors found Mrs. Cox gripping the electric line wound around the body of her husband, 23.

Expenditures Exceed City June Receipts By $8,000

General fund expenditures exceeded receipts by more than $8,000 during June as the fund's balance dropped from $39,278.57 to $31,063.64, C. R. McClenny, city secretary, reported to the commission Tuesday.

June water consumption was nearly 7,000,000 gallons below the total for May, accounting for part of the general fund slump. Water and sewer billed to customers
