Pari-Mutuel Referendum Included On May 4 Ballot

By NILAH RODGERS
It may be "off to the races" when voters go to the polls Saturday, May 4. There is a referendum at the bottom of the ballot allowing Texas voters to have their say in a straw vote on whether or not they favor pari-mutuel wagering on horse races by local option.
The referendum reads:
FOR the proposition that the 64th legislature shall enact a law to permit pari-mutuel wagering on horse races by local option.
AGAINST the proposition that the 64th legislature shall enact a law to permit pari-mutuel wagering on horse races by local option.
Proponents for pari-mutuel wagering say millions of dollars would be added to Texas revenue through the legalization of pari-mutuel wagering and tracks.
Opponents say money that should go for the family food budget, rent and clothing will be wagered on horses if the measure passes.
Quarterhorse breeders are among the strongest supporters for pari-mutuel wagering. They say Texas raises more quarter horses than other states, yet all the millions of dollars wagered on races goes out of state because Texas has no pari-mutuel tracks.

A referendum is not binding on legislators. Referendums are designed to feel out voters' thinking on pending changes that may or may not become laws.

However, supporters of pari-mutuel wagering are spending half a million dollars to bring about this straw vote.

If pari-mutuel wagering is legalized in Texas, communities will still have local option elections on whether or not they want pari-mutuel wagering and race tracks in their locality.
Although very little has been printed on the referendum in West Texas, television ads have been spiced with spot ads the past few days. Many of these ads appeal to fair play and include the phrase "a sporting chance."

National Day Of Prayer Set Tuesday, April 30

All Lamb County residents are encouraged to observe the National Day for Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer with other Americans across the nation Tuesday, April 30.
The special observance has been designated nation-wide, following the adoption of Senate Joint Resolution 183 which was passed by the U.S. Senate on Dec. 20, 1973 and by the House of Representatives last week.
Senator Mark Hatfield noted the need of a re-awakening of Americans and of the crisis the nation is facing while he spoke on the Senate floor Dec. 20.
Context of the Resolution reads:
"WHEREAS, it is the duty of nations, as well as of men to owe their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions, in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations are blessed whose God is Lord; and
"WHEREAS, we know that we have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of Heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth and power as no other nation has ever grown; but we have forgotten God; and
"WHEREAS, we have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace, and multiplied and enriched us; and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own; and

"WHEREAS, intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us; and
"WHEREAS, we have made such an idol out of our pursuit of 'national security' that we have forgotten that only God can be the ultimate guardian of our true livelihood and safety; and
"WHEREAS, we have failed to respond, personally and collectively, with sacrifice and uncompromised commitment to the unmet needs of our fellow man, both at home and abroad; as a people, we have become so absorbed with the selfish pursuits of pleasure and profit that we have blinded ourselves to God's standard of justice and righteousness for this society; and
"WHEREAS, it therefore behooves us to humble ourselves before Almighty God, to confess our national sins, and to pray for clemency and forgiveness: Now, therefore be it
"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled, that the Congress hereby proclaims that April 30, 1974 be a National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer; and calls upon the people of our nation to humble ourselves as we see fit, before our Creator to acknowledge our final dependence upon Him and to repent of our national sins."

Regardless of the outcome of the referendum, inclusion of the proposition on the ballot should bring out voters in greater numbers. Even in areas where local and state political interest is low, voters are expected to go to the polls to express their opinion on what pari-mutuel wagering will do or not do for their respective cities, towns and communities.
Two of three Littlefield church bulletins received at the Leader-News this week urged church members to vote against the referendum.
Rev. A. J. Kennemer called the issue "dirt." In his column he said, in part, See PARI-MUTUEL, Page 4

Absentee Balloting Continues

Tuesday, April 30, at 5 p.m. is the deadline for casting absentee ballots in the upcoming Primary election.
A total of 79 ballots for mailouts and absentee votes were counted in the county clerk's office at 4 p.m. Friday. Sixty-two of these ballots were over the counter absentee ballots and 17 were returns on ballots requested by mail.
Ballots may be obtained in the county clerk's office on the first floor of the Lamb County Courthouse during office hours. The office opens at 9 a.m. and is open through the noon hour; the office closes at 5 p.m.
Ballots mailed in must be received by 1 p.m. on the day of the election, Saturday, May 4.
County clerk deputy Linda Thompson said absentee balloting is expected to pick up rapidly Monday and Tuesday, the last two days absentee ballots can be cast.
Besides several contested precinct and county-wide races, more persons are expected to vote due to recent publicity on pari-mutuel wagering which is included as a referendum on the ballot.
Lamb County has more than 8,000 registered voters. Democratic chairman Glenn Batson said he predicts 45 percent of the qualified voters in this county will vote in the Saturday elections.

Hike Or Bike For Tykes Scheduled Saturday, May 4

A special 20-mile "Hike or Bike For Tykes" program is scheduled for Littlefield Saturday, May 4, beginning at 9 a.m.
Opening ceremonies will begin at 9 at Littlefield High School, followed by the 20-mile hike or bike.
The Hike or Bike program is an effort to raise funds for the March of Dimes in its fight to prevent crippling birth defects, a tragedy which effects one family in every 10 in this country.
Funds are raised by "walkers" or "riders" who receive donations from several sponsors, each agreeing to pay the participant varying amounts of money for each mile he is able to complete in the 20-mile route. During the walk, marchers are certified at checkpoints located at approximately every four miles. After the walk, the marcher returns to each of his sponsors with his checkpoint validation card, and collects the amount agreed for each mile he walked.
Comfortable shoes and clothing should be worn. Water, candy and first aid items will be available at the checkpoints, so participants should be prepared to purchase refreshments and first aid items.
Collections are to be sent to Security State Bank after the participant collects from all his or her pledges.
Entry forms will be available at the Littlefield Junior and Senior High Schools, and people of all ages may participate.
To join the effort, complete the form, obtaining as many sponsors as possible. Sponsors may be friends, neighbors, businessmen or business establishments and there are no limit as to the number of sponsors a person may have.

On the entry form is a waiver form. It should be signed, detached and brought with the participant on the morning of the walk. It will be collected at the starting point.
The participant will be given a validation form to take with them, and it will be used to verify the number of miles completed as they pass through the checkpoint locations.
There are more than 250,000 babies born each year with some kind of birth defect, and all contributions are tax deductible. Sponsors are urged to make checks payable to "March of Dimes".
Contributions must be turned in by May 18 in order to be eligible for awards.
The person turning in the most money will receive a 10-speed bicycle; and the person with the most sponsors will receive $25 from Security State Bank. During a drawing from a list of all persons turning in money, a prize of $25—donated by First National Bank—will be awarded.

Tax Checks Show City Sales Are Up

The City of Littlefield received $11,007.48 in sales tax revenue for the year of 1973. That amount is up considerably from 1972, when $97,082.61 was added to the city coffers.
The revenue for 1973 was the highest amount received for a year since the program began in 1968, when only $57,315.52 was received for the last three quarters of the year.
In 1969, $79,345.01 was received; in 1970, $87,610.04 was collected; and in 1971, $86,475.55 of the tax revenue was returned.
Another check is due soon for the first quarter of this year.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

Roadside fruit and vegetable markets may do a booming business this year if planned and managed properly, believes a marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Such markets can add to the diversity of a farming operation. Locate the market near a much-traveled highway and place signs well in advance of the location. Buildings should be neat and attractive, in good repair and painted. Use wood, concrete, clean shavings or sawdust for the floor. Provide attractive displays at a convenient level. A cold storage unit is a necessity. Advertise effectively and never overlook personal service.

HELPING HOUSE PLANTS

House plants that aren't growing well are often suffering from such things as foliar and root diseases, restricted root growth, improper watering, and poor light and fertility management. A brief check of the plants can help find the problem, suggests a plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Applying nitrogen and repotting can help if leaves are yellowing and dying. Overwatering causes yellowing of the entire plant as does root rot. Fungicides can help prevent root rot. Keep plants out of hot or cold drafts and away from direct sunlight. Avoid wetting the leaves of the plant when watering.

Give Him Credit!

PRESIDENT NIXON no doubt could empathize with a lament of Brigham Young, the 19th century Mormon prophet and colonizer. In a letter to Jefferson Davis, Young spoke of the "utter uselessness" of trying to vindicate his character from attacks against it: "When the vile slanders is fairly refuted, and truth appears in the most incontestable manner, it is permitted to lie quietly upon the shelf to slumber the sleep of death."

President Nixon's character likewise has been under constant bombardment and, with Brigham Young, he can fairly say that even the praiseworthy things he does seem to be overlooked by those seeking his political downfall.

HERE, THEN, for the record:

It was President Nixon who, after a decade of U.S. fighting in Vietnam, extricated our forces from that country and orchestrated the return of some 600 American POWs early in 1973.

It was President Nixon who created Henry Kissinger, our globe-trotting super solver of the world's problems.

Without the skill and courage of a Richard Nixon, there could be no Henry Kissinger. Kissinger received the Nobel Peace Prize but Mr. Nixon earned it.

It was President Nixon who last year presided over the first major turnabout in the nation's growing welfare rolls in 20 years. Through insisting on tighter management practices at both the Federal and State levels of government, 255,000 persons—many of them welfare cheaters—were removed from the rolls of the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, saving the U.S. Treasury 800 million annually.

And it was President Nixon who, when faced recently with nearly a half-billion-dollar tax liability, quietly agreed to pay it rather than contest the amount as virtually any other American taxpayer would have done.

Mr. Nixon's administration obviously has had plenty of problems. But let's not forget it also has had some outstanding successes.

West Texas Irrigation Wells Facing Shutdown

Irrigation wells and pumps in drought-stricken West Texas may soon be forced to close down because of a shortage of lubricating oils, State Representative Bill Clayton (D-Springlake) warned today.

Clayton, who recently led a large number of his colleagues in the Texas Legislature to petition the Federal Energy Office for a reassessment of the F. E. O. lube oil priority, stated that while he has been assured that a new priority is being written for agricultural use of lube oil products, the priority change probably will not go into effect until June 1.

Clayton cautioned that many areas of the state will be completely out of lubricating oil before the new priority gives them any relief.

To help avoid the possible shutdown of these essential irrigation wells, Representative Clayton reported that he is encouraging all dealers and distributors who are running out of lube oil to contact the Texas Railroad Commission's fuel allocation division in Austin to find out if any additional lubricants may be available in their particular case.

The Austin number of this department is 512/47505491. In addition, Rep. Clayton urged all persons with such problems to contact his Austin office at 512/475-3400.

After conferring with several energy officials and lube oil distributors last week, Rep. Clayton left for Atlanta to meet with the Southern Legislative Conference, of which he is an Executive Board member.

At this meeting of legislators from across the southern states, Rep. Clayton pushed for solutions which would bring quicker responses to the problems of energy crisis. One solution which Rep. Clayton suggested that met with a good response was a proposal that the states push for authority to be allowed to handle their own fuel allocation programs.

Many of those in attendance agreed with Rep. Clayton that such a program would work better than the federal allocation program because of the fact that the states will have a better knowledge of their own energy problems and needs.

"You will be told that, if legalized, gambling can be controlled. Dirt for sale is about the only answer I know, and I think our people are intelligent enough not to fall for these untrue statements. Might as well legalize stealing, murder, and a hundred other things to help the tax burden."

The Methodist church bulletin used an urgent request from the bishop of the Northwest Texas Conference in their publication. Saying that the gambling forces can be defeated only if Christian people vote, this church leader stated that a rise in illegal bets is caused by legalized gambling.

The bishop added that there are an estimated 10 million compulsive gamblers in the U.S., making this one of the most serious social and moral problems.

Two other points noted that most legalized gambling is done by poor people who can least afford to lose. "The great danger of encouraging vices for the sake of taxing them is not only counter-productive, but a mean, deceptive and dirty scheme," the bishop concluded.

In all controversial issues, members of the same faith have differing views. As an example, one professed church member said, "I'm for pari-mutuel wagering. A certain percentage of people are going to sin anyway, and I'm for taxing sin."

Pari-mutuel wagering works in this manner. A certain percentage is skimmed off the top which goes into state revenue. The pari-mutuel race track then takes its skim. Then another portion of the total money wagered is withheld for the federal government. The balance goes into the pot, where winners' odds are based on the amount of the total bets placed.

A similar pari-mutuel referendum was defeated by Texas voters about four years ago.

If pari-mutuel wagering is legalized, this will be the second time for legalized gambling in Texas. In the regular session of the legislature in 1933, a provision authorizing pari-mutuel betting was attached to the general appropriations bill late in the session, and the measure passed.

Arlington Downs operated until 1935 when the 44th legislature signaled an end to this experiment.

Will history repeat itself?

OBITUARIES

JAMES DUDLEY
Services for James Nolan Dudley, 78, of Olton, who died at 5 a.m. Thursday, April 25, in the Veterans' Hospital in Amarillo, were conducted Saturday afternoon in the Olton Church of Christ. Milton Caraway, minister, officiated. Burial was in the Olton Cemetery. Dudley was a native of Denton County and had lived in Olton 45 years before going to the Hillcrest Nursing Home in Plainview in 1971.

Surviving are three daughters, Viva Ivins of Lorenzo, Linda Mainwaring of Springfield, Ore., and Mary Wheeler of Olton; four sons, Edmond Dudley of Gruver, Melson Dudley of Lubbock, Dale Dudley of Muleshoe and Denson Dudley of Seagraves; three sisters, Lela Watkins of Lubbock, Lena Shelton of Lake Dallas and Lottie Clark of Austin; 25 grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

Thought it's difficult to remember all the details, I'm sure that if all could be recalled, the short life of a dugout I have in mind would be pretty interesting.

No such dwelling was ever built with the idea of it's being a permanent dwelling. It was to be a temporary living quarter until the settler could get enough money and materials together to build something much better. It represented an ambition and a dream.

Those that remained, unaccompanied by another dwelling, were mute testimony that these dreams had never materialized. Others were soon to be overshadowed by conventional houses, and used for storage and such.

My wife and I lived in one of these conveniences for a while, while waiting for possession of a farm we had rented. This was about the year of 1939. This building, however is not the subject of this article. Even at this time, it had been replaced by a plush two-room box-car house, complete with "path" (that is, if you didn't mind a trip to the barn.) During our tenure, the "path" had a building at its end.

My subject was dug and built about 12 years earlier, about January of 1926. It housed the hopes and dreams of one of my older sisters and husband. Indeed she presented me with my first nephew, while living there.

Memory doesn't bring back the exact measurements of this abode, but it would seem that something like 14x18 feet would be a pretty close guess. It was dug about four feet deep—or perhaps five—with a superstructure of box-boards and oval roof. There were no partitions—it was all in one room.

The only running water came through the roof, and that only when it rained. Somehow, we just didn't have the knack of sealing one of those box-car-like ceilings.

The entrance, viewed from the front, resembled an outhouse with a large swelling on its lower half. I don't recall if the steps descending into the place, were first hewn from the earth, or not. If they were, however, they were soon to be replaced by a stair built of wood, because the earthen stairway simply wouldn't stand the heavy traffic.

The whole upper part was built over the pit, and may have been anchored at each corner with some kind of post. They thought it might be embarrassing for a large whirlwind to lift the top off—especially if you happened to be changing clothes.

Of course dirt was banked around the outer walls, to form a seal and incline to discourage water and creepy-crawlies from coming inside, uninvited.

Oh yes, they had windows. Most were of the four-pane type, and instead of lifting up and down, they slid from side to side for light and ventilating purposes. Of course, screens were necessary, and must be securely fastened. Not only were they needed to keep out flies and the creepy-crawlies, but snakes and livestock, as well.

It wasn't uncommon to be sitting at the table, and upon looking up at a window, see the family pooch looking hungrily at the table and licking his chops. Indeed, you might take a look out the window, and find yourself face to face with any kind of small animal or some of the livestock.

The floors offered little care and upkeep. Never any scrubbing, waxing, and very little sweeping. If the dirt began to dry and kick up, you simply sprinkled it down with water and repacked it. Some of the well-to-do even put linoleum on them.

The walls were no problem. They soon dried and baked to the point that there was little "sluffing-off". Then too, if you needed a small cubby for storage, you might simply dig into the wall, and shape the place to your own fancy, provided you stayed a safe distance from the baseboard of the super-structure.

One of the downfalls of the dugout I'm writing about, was the running water through the roof, which has already been mentioned. The man of the family decided the feasible way to stop the leaks was to put a small layer of dirt over the top. This seemed to work very well until the rain became excessive.—It DID rain in 1926.

Since his solution seemed to get some results, the obvious answer to the continued leak, was to administer more dirt. After a while the depth of the dirt layer was something like six inches. It was even cooler in the dugout as a result of this added insulation.

Then came the early fall rains. It rained as if there were no end to the supply. Day by day the layer of dirt on top of the dugout soaked in as much water as it could absorb. I have no idea how much this soggy mass must have weighed.

About the middle of the fourth afternoon, the center beam of the roof gave up on the whole idea, and parted in its middle.

Needless to say the entire roof made like a big funnel and dumped the total mess right in the middle of the floor. Luckily, my sister and her small daughter were at the side of the room and escaped injury. The brother-in-law was out of the place at the time.

It was a time to fall back and regroup. After the tons of mud had been removed from floor, the roof had to be rebuilt.—This time with more pains taken to water-proof it.

This must have been the beginning of sorrows and disillusionment. Later in the fall (on Thanksgiving day, to be exact) the beautiful crops were gathered, completely, by a doozie of a sandstorm, mixed with tumbleweeds. The weeds reminded one of a gigantic herd of stampeding cattle crossing our fields.

There seemed to be no stopping them. They would pile themselves against our fences, only to pause for reinforcements. When enough of them had gathered, their constant pushing and nagging would worry the staples out of the posts and let the wire fall to the ground. Then they were free to continue their loping, reckless journey. Our cotton stalks looked as if they'd been gathered with the most efficient mechanical harvester.

Although the young couple managed to hang on another year, I'm sure this must have been the stroke that broke their spirit. At the end of a couple of years, they relinquished their claim to the place and returned to central Texas. The dugout stood as mute testimony to another broken dream.

This could have well been the end of the story, but not so. My dad rented the place the following year, and used the dugout to house a group of boll-pullers, all male. A fellow I'll call Henry (I've forgotten his real name) was the boss of the bunch.

Now I hadn't mentioned it before, but a lone four-burner kerosene stove was the combination cookstove and heater of the dugout. Anyone having experience with these critters, knows just how cantankerous they could be. Left burning and unattended for a while, and especially if the burner was running pretty high, they were prone to overheat and boil the kerosene out of the burner. The result would be total indignation and explosion.

Around nine o'clock this fall morning, we were all in the field pulling cotton. The wind was blowing lustily out of the

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Willing To Wait

MANY WORTHY PLANS and ideas never materialize, they never come to fruition; because we are not "willing to wait". We permit ourselves to think and act under the frustrating and discouraging influence of immediacy; we want what we want right now.

Once in a while an urgency may occur, and whatever is done must be done at once; but, in general, sufficient time must be allowed for the successful outcome of the things we wish to do. Otherwise, the accomplishment desired will never become a reality.

IMPATIENCE WILL CAUSE failures, frustrations and disappointments. The difficulty, however, is usually more than impatience; it is immaturity together with a gross lack of understanding.

Perhaps it should be said that impatience is usually the symptom of a more basic personal problem. Of course, such problems can be solved; and must be solved before we are able to allow enough time for doing what needs to be done; before we are "willing to wait". We must "grow up".

"ADVERSITY BORROWS its sharpest sting from our impatience." —G. Horne.

WAITING CAN BE PROFITABLE in itself, and it should be. It will be, unless we let idleness become prominent in our waiting. The waiting which is so much a part of the richness and fullness of living is not indolence or indifference. It is not the disposition of "not caring".

The waiting that is profitable is calculated, and is graciously accepted as being valuable in itself, and also as the means toward the attainment of our plans and our work.

WE ARE "willing to wait" set up and maintain the relationship between the work and the results to be attained, and find satisfaction in the process, though we may be eager to reach our goal, we will not be unduly upset by the necessary delay.

Our perspective is well-adjusted conducive to the greatest degree of effectiveness in our day direction of movement.

SECONDARY GOALS are helpful in maintaining the perspective essential to both our sense of self and our accomplishments. Secondary goals will, of course, be stepping-stones to the one goal we have in mind.

Each time we reach one of our goals, there will be a partial satisfaction that reduces or completely removes the difficulties of waiting for the accomplishment. Using this as a guide and highly recommended personal behavior, we are not to fail in what we try to do.

"BEAUTIFUL IS THE work that works for good, and that waits for good; blessed sacrifice of the one, and forgetfulness of the other."

OUR GREATEST SATISFACTION is found in being "willing to wait" plan, and work, and serve while

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

SOMETIMES I ask myself, "who am I to try to tell other people how to live or I am such an ordinary person—nothing really going for me except the love of God, which carried me on from day to day."

I JUST WANT to talk to other ordinary people like myself who have similar problems.

I know this, when I read my Bible, God seems to speak to me from the Holy Word. When I have problems to face, or obstacles in my life, I pray to God about them and feel much better. Many times the answer to my dilemma comes.

I know that I need to go to church and worship together with my friends. I need to hear the sacred music, to repeat the Apostle's Creed with the congregation and to listen to the sermon from the minister. I need the lift to face the coming week.

I ALSO NEED to read good literature. Sometimes I read a new book that comes out. Most of them are filled with sex and violence. They are interesting and hold your attention, but they leave me with a bad feeling. I hate to waste my time on them. I need the lift of good writing.

All of us have blue moments. When I have mine I turn to my Bible and pray, and achieve peace of mind.

IT ALSO helps to think of the other people and try to do something about them. We can do something, if it's nothing but pray for them. That is a lot—to pray for someone. You become interested in the person you want to know more about them.

IT IS WONDERFUL to come to the behalf of someone else. If someone you know who is in the begin to pray for them.

Do this for several days—let that person up in prayer.

I WANT YOU to know I am here to preach to you. I'm just here what helps me, hoping it may help you, also.

I know a lot of very lonely people. There is no use to be lonely if other people to your heart and mind. It will help to help the mind of yourself and help someone else.

COME TO THINK of it, I know some of your prayers—so if you little time say a prayer for me. Maybe I can write a better letter. Bye folks, and God bless you.

Turn Row COMMENTS

By EMIL MA...

I NOTICED an interesting news item that came to the Leader-News office the other day, and thought I'd include it here in this space. It shows what some of our state taxes go into, and it's a bonus for tourist trade here.

ONE ROADSIDE PARK, safety rest area or scenic turnout in every seven in the United States is along Texas highways.

The annual survey of rest areas by the Federal Highway Administration showed the Texas Highway Department maintains 1,071 such facilities of a U.S. total of 7,821.

Tennessee has the next largest number of rest areas with 360, followed by Florida with 309.

TEXAS WAS AMONG the first—if not west. One of the fellows suddenly exclaimed: "Hey, lookit th' dugout!"

We all looked and, sure enough, smoke was boiling from the entrance of the ill-fated building. "That—oil stove!" Henry yelled.

We all took off in a run with some silly idea that we might save something from the flaming building. By the time we arrived the flames were coming through the roof. We were brought to a halt, and full retreat, by the sound of an explosion, followed by a whistling forty-five bullet.

"That's my gun I left in the dresser drawer!" Henry called. We stood behind an out building and counted the shots. Of course we knew that, logically, only one bullet should come out of the barrel of the pistol. However, no one could guarantee that some quirk of fate might not spin the cylinder and align up another.

By the time we'd counted all six shots the first—states to provide rest areas in the form of roadside park facilities. The first roadside rest area in Texas still serves travelers on Highway 71 near West Point in Tarrant County. It was built in the early 1920s.

Today's modern safety rest areas on interstate and major highways are a far cry from the roadside parks of four decades ago. Modern rest areas include picnic areas, drinking water, restrooms, and sometimes, even dumping stations for recreational vehicles.

A KEY FEATURE of these rest areas is an information board listing nearby historic sites and recreational opportunities. The Texas program has won national acclaim for its important aid to auto travelers.

from the pistol, the fire had sprung grassland to the east of the building. Henry grabbed gunny-sacks, and another that came handy, and started for the prairie fire. It was near 11:00 the time the fire was out.

Henry paused, mopped his brow, and pulled the Ingersoll watch out of his pocket. "According to my time, it happened at THREE O'CLOCK morning," he observed. Where Henry loosed the watch from its leather draw back and threw it into the air. "The time makes no sense anyhow."

Needless to say, all that was left of the dugout was a blackened hole. The twisted metal remains of the furniture lying across the floor later the hole was filled in with ashes and debris left by the fire. The hole was left to haunt anyone.

Perhaps some things just meant to be, anyway.

Pioneer Natural Gas Elects Directors

Pioneer Natural Gas Company stockholders, at the annual meeting held Tuesday, April 16, at the company offices in Amarillo, re-elected the present nine directors of the company. At a meeting of the board held immediately after the annual meeting the directors re-elected the current group of officers.

In discussing company operations, K. Bert (Tex) Watson, company president, pointed out that the mild weather experienced early this year throughout the country had been helpful to the national energy situation but that it had reduced deliveries of gas on the Pioneer system. He went on to say that during the past few weeks the extremely dry conditions had accelerated the use of gas for irrigation and that the company was experiencing record deliveries for this time of year.

Watson told the stockholders that the increased efforts in the search for, and development of, new gas supply by Pioneer's gas supply department and the company's producing subsidiaries continues to be encouraging. He said that the company will add between 75 and 100 million cubic feet of new gas supply a day from the Anadarko Basin, east and northeast of Pampa, Texas. This new gas supply should be connected by the end of the summer.

Watson said the results of first quarter operations for Pioneer and its subsidiary companies would be available E. S. Morris, senior vice president of Pioneer and president of Amarillo Oil Company, discussed the operations of Pioneer's producing subsidiaries. He pointed out that 1973 had been an extremely successful year in adding new reserves of gas.

Morris went on to say that Pioneer Production Corporation's multiple-pay oil and gas discovery in Jefferson Davis Parish, La., had been the most significant find for the producing subsidiaries. He said, "This field has been designated as the 'Jennings Townsite Field' by the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

"We are currently drilling the fourth well in the field and are negotiating a contract for the sale of gas to an intra-state purchaser. "We plan to commence initial gas sales next month, but we will not be producing any oil out of the field until late this year or early next year." Morris went on to say that Pioneer Production Corporation owns a 25 percent interest in these wells and about 4,000 acres of leases in the area and is the operator of the property. "Our plans," he said, "call for a development program in the field this year, but the major drilling will take place next year when we start developing the oil reservoirs."

Directors returned to the board by the stockholders are: J. Harvey Herd, Laurence R. Jones Jr., E. S. Morris, Maurice E. Purnell Jr., Burton P. Smith, A. C. Verner, W. E. Walker Jr., C. I. Wall and K. Bert (Tex) Watson.

K. Bert (Tex) Watson, who was re-elected president and chief executive officer, announced that these officers were named to their present positions with the company: Manuel B. Edquist, M. D. LaGrone, E. S. Morris, senior vice presidents; C. David Culver, C. J. Gholson, J. J. Heitz, Larry R. Shortes and Harry H. Walden, vice presidents; William N. Lampe, vice president and secretary; R. W. Lee, assistant vice president and treasurer; R. R. McCafferty and Charles Vaughan, assistant vice president; and Charles E. Sauer, controller.

Grain Market Trends Available

Grain producers in Texas are becoming more interested in marketing their crops, says Assistant County Extension Agent Jim Kuykendall.

Growers are aware that the way they market can affect their income considerably with widely changing prices, and this caused farmers to want to keep abreast of the current situation.

The grain farmers in Lamb County now have a new market news service available to them for keeping up with the market reports Kuykendall. This is a state-wide telephone recording system provided by the Texas Department of Agriculture. Daily grain price information will be available for the cost of a long distance phone call.

Information on the 3-minute recording will contain a brief summary of the market for that day — including prices being paid to the farmer, elevator selling prices, and future market prices. Also, additional items of interest such as crop production reports and world agricultural situation are included as reports are received.

Recorder location and the number for this is: Lubbock (806) 763-3285.

New Land Subject To Soil Erosion

More than half of the "new" land going into cultivation during 1974 in Texas will be subject to excessive soil erosion, according to forecasts from the USDA Soil Conservation Service. An SCS field survey shows that 394,000 acres of forest, grasslands, or set-aside acreages are being converted to cropland in Texas this year, and that erosion losses on 202,000 acres of this will be within the allowable loss limit of four tons per acre per year, or less. Erosion losses will be much higher, however, on the remaining 192,000 acres. The 394,000 acres of new cropland are part of the estimated 16 million additional acres that USDA officials predict will be planted in the U.S. this year. The SCS survey was primarily designed to pinpoint newly converted cropland where critical soil erosion or related land use problems are expected to occur. The most critical of these areas is the High Plains of Western Texas and Oklahoma and Eastern

New Mexico where unprotected land and lack of rainfall could produce soil losses from wind estimated at from 50 to 300 tons per acre per year. Total soil losses from the 192,000 acres of land inadequately protected is estimated to be 21 million tons per year. That's the equivalent of losing an inch of topsoil from about 140,000 acres. Edward E. Thomas, state conservationist for SCS, said "Local conservation districts and SCS technical people are redoubling their efforts to help farmers and ranchers get new cropland acres under a conservation plan and to apply measures needed to stop excessive soil erosion. These include the newer minimum tillage techniques as well as crop rotation, stripcropping, terracing, and contour plowing.

"There are also some acres that should not be used for crops at all," Thomas added. "They ought to be left in grass or trees." Thomas said environmental degradation caused by erosion and soil blowing will almost certainly arouse adverse public reaction. "Runoff and erosion from sloping land reduces crop yields," he continued. "Soil blowing and erosion cut farm profits by reducing the benefit of fertilizers and by lowering yields. Farmers who allow soils to erode waste energy. It takes more fuel and fertilizer to produce a good crop on eroding soils than on stable soils."

If the market for agricultural products continues as strong as expected, farmers will have an incentive to increase their cropland acreage even more. Future cropland expansion undoubtedly will be followed by even greater erosion because the additional acres available for conversion are often of lower quality.

It's time to pray.

United States Senate Calls for a National Day of Prayer April 30, 1974

Join Millions of Americans in Prayer on April 30
Our country faces crisis. Our nation needs a moral and spiritual awakening. If ever we need to pray—it is now.
Support the U.S. Senate call to prayer
"The Congress hereby proclaims that April 30, 1974 be a National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer; and calls upon the people of our nation to humble ourselves as we see fit, before our Creator to acknowledge our final dependence upon Him and to repent of our national sins."

This is the first time the United States Senate has taken such a historic step since confirming President Abraham Lincoln's Call to Prayer in 1863.
Here is God's Promise!
"If my people who are called by my name shall humble themselves and pray, and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven, will forgive their sins, and will heal their land" (II Chronicles 7:14).
God wants to change the hearts of men and women. He wants to mend broken families. He wants to turn suspicion, hate, discord into love, forgiveness, harmony. God wants to give our nation a new birth of faith and freedom!
God is able—if we will turn from ourselves, look to Him and pray!
On April 30 millions will be joining together to pray for change. Millions will be praying for a moral and spiritual awakening in our country and in the world. You can join them!

For a copy of Senate Joint Resolution 183, calling for a National Day of Prayer, write to your senator or to the address below. The resolution is still pending in the House of Representatives as of April 15, 1974.
In your home, at the office, by yourself, with a neighbor, you can have a part in releasing the mightiest force for good known to man—prayer to a loving, all-powerful God!
There is a way to peace, equality, security, harmony.
Let's take the first step toward a new America!
Things you may wish to do to help:
• Plan to participate in this National Day of Prayer on April 30.
• Encourage family, friends and neighbors to meet with you to pray.
• Urge your church to hold a special prayer service on April 30.
• Ask your local government officials to pass a similar resolution in your city.

- Encourage your local newspapers, radio and TV stations to support the Senate Resolution with public service announcements and editorials.
- To Help You Pray on April 30
Pray for national repentance, acknowledging God's mercy and forgiveness (II Chronicles 7:14).
Pray for the leaders of our country—national, state and local—that they may have wisdom, integrity, protection, guidance and an awareness of God's presence in mind and heart (I Timothy 1:6; Jeremiah 33:3).
Pray that, as individuals, we will realize God's love and draw upon His wisdom and understanding (James 1:5, Proverbs 3:5, 6; I Corinthians 13).
Pray for young people and their families, that they may desire and be willing to listen to and learn from each other (Colossians 1:10; Ephesians 5:15-6:4).
Pray for those who are prisoners of drugs, alcohol, immorality, obscenity, pornography, crime, prejudice, unbelief and despair (Matthew 5:44, 45; John 8:36).
Pray for the purification of our thoughts and deeds, that we may be fit instruments and channels for God's love where we live, work, play and worship (Colossians 1:9-12; Philipians 4:6, 7).

Study these passages in the Bible:
Romans 13:1
I Timothy 2:1-8
Colossians 1:9-16

People always ask if I can save them money on car insurance. It's amazing how often my answer is, 'yes.'

For most Texas drivers, State Farm has rates that are 15% less than rates established by the State Board of Insurance. If you want to know if I can save you money, just give me a call or stop by. Why pay more than you have to.

Elect Fannie Rogers County Treasurer

Vote For  Vote For

If the voters of Lamb County elect me treasurer, I pledge to do the very best job I can do.

I have had enough office experience to qualify for this job. I worked as office manager and bookkeeper for Littlefield Union Compress for 19 years.

Following the death of my husband, Rogers, I operated Hill Rogers Furniture until final Closeout last June.

I am a widow, and I need this position. I feel that my years of experience in management and accounting are sufficient to adequately handle all of the county's money matters.

I am a longtime Littlefield resident, and here with my parents, the O. B. Grahams.

I appreciate the support and confidence of longstanding and new friends. I will appreciate your vote, and will carry out my duties to the best of my ability.

Sincerely,
Fannie B. Rogers

Gardening Season Underway

Almost everywhere you look, homeowners are tilling in their back yards or wherever they can find space to put in a spring garden.

"Home gardening is definitely booming, and in Texas gardeners can produce tasty, nutritious vegetables the year round," says Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To have a successful home garden, a number of important factors enter into the picture, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

First of all, a site that has well-drained, fertile soil is best. However, homeowners often have little choice on the garden location. The location should also receive plenty of sunlight, but certain crops can be grown in partially shaded areas.

Cotner lists the selection of proper varieties of crops as a key item in successful gardens. Different varieties are suited to different areas of the state, so county Extension offices should be contacted concerning which crops are best adapted to specific locations.

"Proper seedbed preparation is another important element for a good garden," points out Cotner. "If the garden site has heavy, tight clay soil, add one to two inches of sand and two to three inches of organic matter and then work these materials into the soil. Gypsum at the rate of six to eight pounds per 100 square feet also helps improve tight clay soils."

Before planting, apply a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 at the rate of two to three pounds per 100 square feet. Work the fertilizer into the soil and then form the beds for planting.

Use transplants whenever possible to get a crop head start," advises specialist.

Once crops are in, they should be watered regularly so that the soil is moist to a depth of at least six inches. Sandy soils may require frequent watering. Suggest watering in the morning or at least an hour before mid-afternoon. This helps prevent diseases.

Use of a long-handled hoe is still the best means for controlling weeds. Adding mulch of straw, grass, bark, or sawdust, peat moss or organic material to plants helps control weeds and also reduces soil temperatures and moisture losses.

"Keep a close check on crops once they begin to approach maturity," advises specialist. "Be sure to harvest them only at full maturity because that's when vegetables have maximum flavor and nutritional content."

CATTLE FEEDING
Cattle feeding continues to become concentrated in the feedlots. Of the 1,200 operations in the state only 233 had a capacity of 1,000 head or more, and these accounted for 96 per cent of all the cattle in Texas. There were 15 large feedlots—those with a capacity of 10,000 head or more—which accounted for 90 per cent of all the cattle in the state.

HEARING TESTS

Because of the gradual development of most hearing losses, those afflicted frequently are not aware of their condition until the loss has become serious or permanently damaging. For this reason, everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year.

Kathryn Day Says "Thank You"

As time for the May 4th Primary looms nearer, I feel that I can wait no longer to express thanks and appreciation to you for the wonderful reception that you have given me in my campaign for County Clerk of Lamb County.

I have been so graciously received... welcomed at your front doors, accepted with courtesy when I have talked to you... wherever you have been. I feel that I have made some wonderful friends.

I am truly grateful for the opportunity of getting to know many of you, whom I would not have known, if I had not been involved in this race.

"Thank you for every kind word, every encouragement and friendly reception that you have given me."

Most of you know that my husband, Kenneth Day is the Administrator at the Littlefield Hospital and Clinic, a job that he has filled for 4 years.

I have two children in the Littlefield school system, Cindy Thrash who is 13 is in the 7th grade and Chris Thrash 9, is in the third grade. We make our home in Littlefield at 600 East 12th.

Now a word about the coming election.... I want you to know that I will devote full time to the office of County Clerk for Lamb County if I honestly believe that it is a full-time job.

I will treat everyone who has business at the Clerk's office with courtesy, and I will treat every person alike, including all who come in only for information, and I promise they will get it. I will carry on the business of your county in a businesslike manner using good common sense.

Should I be elected as your new County Clerk, I shall endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability and you'll have a County office and county servant you'll be proud to claim.

I can say nothing more sincerely than to say, "I will truly appreciate your vote on May 4, 1974 and whether or not I am successful, in the election, I truly thank you."

Identity, Citizenship May Be Needed For SS Number social security district manager in Lubbock.

The proof is required under an amendment to the social security law. "The requirement affects native United States citizens, naturalized citizens, and aliens," James said.

People can apply for a social security number by writing or visiting any social security office. Application forms are available at social security offices and post offices.

"Age can usually be proved with a birth or baptismal certificate," James said. "Identity can generally be proved with a driver's license, voter's card, or similar evidence—preferably something that carries your signature."

Persons born in the United States can usually establish citizenship with the same papers they use to prove their age and identity, he said.

People applying for duplicate social security numbers because they've lost their social security cards or changed their name generally aren't affected by the proof requirement, according to James.

The proof requirement is intended to help prevent people from obtaining more than one social security number or obtaining or using a social security card under a false identity, James said.

A fine of up to $1,000, imprisonment of up to one year, or both may be imposed for fraudulent use of genuine or fake social security numbers to hide true identity or to get benefits from Federally funded programs.

"Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," James said. "You build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for yourself and your family by work and earnings credited to your social security number. Using more than one number could mean you're not getting full credit, which could adversely affect your social security payments in the future."

"You should apply for a social security number several weeks before you need it," James said. "Applications are generally screened against social security central files in Baltimore, and screening takes time."

"When you get a job covered by social security," he said, "make sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his records."

The Lubbock Social Security office is at 1205 Texas. The phone number is 762-7381.

Under this new legislation, workers who were covered by the minimum before 1966 will have a wage floor of $2.00 per hour beginning May 1 this year and increase to $2.30 by Jan. 1, 1976.

Workers brought under coverage for the first time in 1966 and those newly covered under the present legislation will draw $1.90 by May 1 this year, increase to $2.00 on Jan. 1, 1975 and escalate each year to $2.30 by January of 1977.

The minimum for farm workers now drawing $1. will increase to $1.60 on May 1, 1974 and increase in 20-cent increments each year to $2.30 on Jan. 1, 1978.

In addition to the increases in wage rates, there will be an almost complete erosion, by the end of 1976, of all overtime exemptions so vital to agricultural operation.

For example, overtime exemptions for cottonseed oil mills will be completely phased out in four steps, ending Dec. 31, 1976. Compress and warehouse exemptions will be in effect 14 weeks per year during which workers can work a maximum of 48 hours per week, 19 hours per day.

Ginners in 1974 will have a six week period during which they can offer employment of 72 hours per week without paying overtime, a four week period with up to 64 hours exempt, two weeks of a 54-hour exemption and a 48-hour exemption for the remainder of the year.

For 1975 the corresponding figures will be six weeks and 66 hours, four weeks and 60 hours, two weeks and 50 hours, and an additional two weeks with 46 hours, and a 44-hour exemption the rest of the year.

By 1976 the exemption will be cut to six weeks with 60 hours, four weeks with 56 hours, two weeks with 48 hours, two weeks with 44 hours, and no exemption at all for the balance of the year.

Another important provision of the bill will allow the employment of students at 85 percent of the establishment minimum provided they work no more than 20 hours per week. No more than 10 percent of the work force of an establishment can be made up of students at the 85-percent wage rate unless it has a previously established practice of student employment as a higher percentage of the total.

If this bill is not vetoed, Johnson concluded, "Badly needed agricultural production will be hampered by an addition to already sky-high production costs and another crucial battle will have been lost in the war against inflation. But judging from the rapidity of action by both Houses and the overwhelming majority vote favoring the bill, chances for a Presidential veto seem rather remote at this time."

Andy Rogers Receives Scholarship

Andy Rogers is one of nine Texas high school seniors who have been named recipients of "University Scholar" scholarships at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

The scholarships, worth $1,000 a year for up to four years, will begin next fall.

Four year scholarship winners and the academic schools in which they will enroll next fall include David Johnson of Floresville, School of Science; John Andrew Rogers of Littlefield, School of Applied Arts; Robert E. Harris of Corpus Christi, School of Education; Muriel R. Lanford of Austin, School of Business; Becky Lynne Day of Karnes City, School of Allied Health; Teresa Loreen Floyd of League City, School of Liberal Arts; and Kathryn McLennan of Pasadena and Julie Sikes of San Antonio, both in the School of Creative Arts.

Nancy Day Holekamp, a Kerrville High School senior, has received a three-year scholarship in the School of Applied Arts. The extra applied arts grant became available after the current scholarship program decided to transfer to another institution.

The "University Scholar" program is a student-funded, student-originated plan. A charge of one dollar per semester was added to the student activity fee paid at registration to finance the program, which is aimed at attracting academically superior students to Southwest Texas. Recipients are chosen primarily for academic ability, although other factors are considered. Each semester the academic records of scholarship recipients are reviewed to determine that each is maintaining the degree of excellence required to win and keep the scholarship.

At the start of the process to choose recipients, high school counselors across the state were asked to recommend high school seniors. From the recommendations and accompanying material, finalists were chosen.

The finalists were brought to SWT for interviews, and then the recipients were chosen.
