What's going on in Littlefield? A lot of cleaning up, painting and fixing up of the older businesses and buildings, opening of some new businesses, changing of management of others.

Projects include everything from the new Goodyear Service store being built at West Fourth and XIT to the modern-day Huckleberry Finn whitewashing of the fence at the Country Club by teenagers. D.W. Bawcom is building the 50' x 140' concrete block and steel structure that will house the Goodyear retail store. It is one of two commercial building permits issued since the first of the year.

In addition to permits totaling $35,000 for commercial buildings, two more new dwellings for a total of $28,600 are under construction. Permits have been issued for $17,000 for five car ports and garages in the city limits, and additions total $2,600.

This month and the past two months have been busy times for lumber yard dealers, especially in the fix up, paint up departments.

The Littlefield city council budgeted $12,750 for this year for the first phase of extensive remodeling of the city hall.

The new Goodyear business going in on Fourth has prompted the whole block to do a face lifting job. Robison Upholstery, located to the west of the Bawcom building, is about through with an extensive remodeling job and the firm is adding a Singer Sewing Machine distributorship to their upholstery business.

Downpours Douse Most Of County

The rains came again this weekend. Downpours of two inches and more fell on parts of the county, and some pea-sized hail fell from the cauliflower clouds that built up late Saturday evening and moved slowly across the South Plains

Official gauges in Littlefield measured 2.50 with unofficial reports of three inches and more inside the city limits. Cars drowned out on Hall and U.S. 84 and over other parts of town. Water backed up into McCormick's Service Station for the first time in several years. The deluge closed U.S. 84 at the east loop for a time and left the houses there standing in lakes.

Roads were under water at Lumsden Gin, the Spade Highway, XIT and Delano

A tornado touched ground about 5 p.m. Saturday on ranch land south of Plant X, but no damages were reported.

Parched land in the Bula and Pep area got drinks of up to 2.5 inches, giving many farmers in that area hopes of a 1971 cotton

Rains were spotted over the county. Around Sudan, Marvin Bowling got two inches on an irrigated place and less than 50 on a dryland farm less than one-half

Monday farmers were "scratching like crazy" trying to get planted crops up or were planting-some for the third time. Saturday evening moisture reports included Amherst 2.50, Bula 2.50, Olton .50, Spade .49, Springlake 1.03, Sudan 1.50, and 1.33 to 2. at Whitharral.

'Lite-A-Bike' Set Here Saturday

All boys and girls who have bicycles that are not reflectorized are invited to have those bikes taped in a special "Lite-A-Bike" effort in Littlefield Saturday, June

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies' Auxiliary of Post 4854 are again sponsoring the special project in Lit-

Bikes may be brought to the Littlefield High School parking lot at 10 a.m., when they will be taped with reflectorized tape. Prizes will be given to the three best decorated bikes, and the prizes are being donated by the Western Auto Store of Littlefield

"There are a large number of bikes on the streets, and we are interested in getting the reflector tape on them," said Mrs. Bonnie Massengale, representative of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

KIM JUNGMAN displays an "if that doesn't beat all" expression for Tuesday evening's weather situation. She dons a rain coat and holds an umbrella over her head after Littlefield and Lamb County were placed under a severe thunderstorm forecast that turned into a tornado watch before the day ended. But instead of rain drops falling on her head, the sand blew. Kim is the daughter of Mrs. Patsy Jungman, 120 E. 23rd Street.

Area Woman's Adopted Son Makes Good As Entertainer

By BILLIE HARRIS

In 1930, at the courthouse in Cleburne, a baby boy was adopted by Minnie Thacker. Minnie is now Mrs. Johnny Smith of Amherst, and the son she adopted is Bill Thacker, a successful entertainer in Concord, Calif., where he is known as one of Greater Bay's finest musicians.

At the age of four Billy Joe was entertaining people by singing and playing a guitar. When he was eight his mother had him start taking piano lessons, but in a very short time the teacher advised the lessons were useless because after the boy knew a song after hearing it one time, and he could play the tune by heart on the second attempt. He was piano soloist at the Assembly of God Church in Cleburne when he was eleven.

Not only did he have unusual talent in the field of music-when he started to elementary school he was placed in the second grade instead of the first as other beginners because of his advanced

Bill has played with well known bands such as those of Bob Wills, Roy Acuff, Ferlin Husky, Grand Ol' Opry at the Cow Palace, and the Johnny Cash house band. He also worked as a disc jockey at radio live television shows. He has his own band now, known as the Southlanders. From 1961 to 1963 he and a partner operated the Palomino Club and Restaurant and while in that business in West Pittsburg proved he also recognized talent in others, booking two struggling artists that everyone knows quite well today-Buck Owens and Glenn Campbell. He hired Hank and Jewel Fay White to play with the Southlanders, before the couple separated. She went south for fame. via Nashville, and is doing great with her new name Sammi Smith and the current hit "Help Me Make It Through The Night."

While in the service during the Korean Conflict he did very little piano playing since "there were no pianos on the battlefield," but he did manage to find an accordian. While playing a harmonica in a fox hole, his music enticed some Koreans to come over to hear him play. There have been necessary interruptions such as the Korean interlude, and there have been interruptions by choice, but each time he returns to his favorite job-playing and singing. He is always ready and willing to play a benefit for Juvenile Hall or other worthy causes

Bill's wife. Barbara is a pretty brunette, who is planning to teach in the near future. The rest of the family is composed of two teenage sons, David and Kevin, Debbie, who is eleven, and Jo Ann the five-yearold-a pair of boys and girls each for this unusually industrious and talented couple.

David and Jo Ann inherited their father's musical talent and Kevin and Debbie will probably seek higher education like their mother

Bill Thacker and his family have visited in Amherst twice in recent years, and plan to visit again this summer. It is hoped the gifted musician who plays by ear with his heart and hands will entertain at Amherst while here.

The woman who gave the musician her heart and home and name feels that the reason he found his place in the sun so early in life was because she assured him that although his mother gave him away he should never feel unwanted because he was very special to her and she loved him dearly, and he grew up knowing the most treasured thing in life-true love

De-Pressurize

 WE MUST DE-PRESSURIZE OUT lives, or there will be more and more personal and social explosions. This will be comparatively easy to accomplish if we recognize the need, and the potential profit for all of us.

It can be done by changing a faulty attitude now and then; by developing a better understanding about life in general; and by being less sensitive in our feelings.

TO OUTDO, or to excel seems to be the sole life purpose of many, many people. Why" What is the purpose

In most instances, the outdoing or excelling seems to be an end in itself; but what good purpose is served? Everybody is brought under extra pressure, with all of its harmful effects.

Just about every evil known in human behavior is associated with the pressure generated by the unrewarding efforts to outdo others.

WE MUST DO OUR BEST, of course. This is a better motivation, and, if guided by good sense, reduces the pressure to a safe level.

If we feel that we must outdo somebody, let us outdo our own past performances.

THERE IS NO REASON for us to be in a constant state of anxiety just because someone is smarter, or richer, or lives in a bigger house, or drives a bigger car, or excels us in some way.

The stimulus provided by the desire to outdo others is artificial. It will not enable us to accomplish as much as we can accomplish by wholesomely doing our best

> HOW DO YOU cope with prejudice? When our evil surmisings cause us to prejudge a thing, along with the deternination that we'll not even try to see our neighbor's viewpoint.

IMAGINATION IS a wonderful thing when properly directed, but, can be a source of pain and trouble when it is coupled with prejudice, in some misdirected way

Mix prejudice with imagination and add a little hate, and soon the hate will be the predominate factor in the whole brew!-This is the Devil's playground.

EVEN THE MOST innocent action of either principal involved, in these circumstances, is likely to be misinterpreted. Even the offering of a handshake can be considered an insult!

Of such is the basics of strife between races, religions, and nations.

PREJUDICE IS ALSO lacking in forgiveness. Once you have done an imagined or actual wrong to such people, it is likely that you can't apologize nor do enough penance to warrant forgiveness in their eyes.

If I am such a person, and have made up my mind that you dislike me because of my religion, race, or nationality, there's little that you can do to remove this distrust -How sad!

IF YOU MAKE overtures of friendliness toward me, you're just trying to use me for your own gain. If you ignore me, it's because you hate me. There is no neutral ground and I refuse to believe in your offer of friendship as an honest gesture. I'd rather bury myself in self pity.

Seems I may have built an impossible situation, but, really, it isn't impossible to remedy. If I can make myself truly desirous of your friendship, I will start investigation to find out just WHY I am suspicious of you.

A LITTLE UNDERSTANDING on both sides of the question would be invaluable, indeed. Perhaps I might try to place myself in your place, and vice versa. HOWEVER, REMEMBER: No one likes a dishonest person!

Then it will be necessary for both of us to be honest, in order for us to come to a solution to our problem. To be honest, we'll have to dismiss our imaginations and be willing to deal in facts and not fancies.

WATER SAVING TIPS

The current drouth is forcing nome owners to make decisions about how to best use the available water. If water is imited, a special effort should be made to save valuable trees. It takes years to grow a fine tree while shrubs and lawns can be replaced in short order once weather conditions become favorable. Use a mulch, if posible; flood irrigate or use a soaker hose; if you must use a sprinkler, set it so the water will e soaked into the soil as it is applied: remember the evaporation rate is lowest in the evening hours and very early morning and soak the soil to a depth of 6 to 8 inches when you irrigate. Frequent watering is wasteful and encourages shallow root systems on plants.
