STILL HAS A CHANCE—Cotton surviving the hail storm Friday with leaves or parts of leaves remaining on the stalk, still has a good chance of making a crop this fall, according to County Agent Buddy Logsdon. Guidelines on making a decision whether to replant or not are in a story from Logsdon, on this page.

Storm Damages Are Unassessable

Hail-Damaged Crops Need Recovery Chance

Even at this late date it's a little early in the game to assess damages from last Friday's storm.

Soil Conservationist Joe Blevins and Lamb County Agent Buddy Logsdon estimate that at least 75,000 acres of crops were totally destroyed and 150,000 to 175,000 acres were affected by severe weather Friday.

Hail, wind and rain damages to dwellings are so heavy that all the losses haven't been received yet. Insurance agencies said claims are coming in so fast that they haven't finished pulling the files or taken time to count the claims.

SEVERAL FIRMS reported that they didn't expect residence damages to be as high as losses following the June hail last year.

There are some exceptions to this in the Spade area.

There were $10,000 damages to the Spade school last year, and losses are expected to be even higher this year.

Numerous livestock drownings and general hardship on wildlife are included in assessed damages. One farmer lost eight hogs.

Almost 4,900 young laying hens were drowned at the Barton Farms Friday.

GAME WARDEN Pat Donnelly said many doves, quails, and pheasants were destroyed in the hail storm. Details will be given at a later date.

Erosion and washing caused more damage than hail on many farms.

Joe Blevins said many conservation structures were heavily damaged. Blevins reported a number of terraces and diversions gave way under heavy washing.

Most of the 75,000 acres totally destroyed was cotton crops from the Lamb County line west to east across the sandhills.

FARMERS SAY they think feed grain crops will overcome the hail damage unless wet cloudy weather continues.

Many began emergency tillage practices Sunday, running sand fighters or rotary hoes.

Insurance claims on dwellings were turned in from points all over the county with the heaviest damages reported in the Spade area and the southeast part of Littlefield.

Insurance agencies and claims adjusters were swamped with calls, they said.

Most damages were to roofs, storm doors, window glasses and screens, according to local agents.

They said there were few claims on vehicles since there was warning before the storm hit and many owners had time to get vehicles under shelters.

Agents received hundreds of claim calls early in the week and calls were still coming in at press time they said.

Due to recent hails, farmers have some difficult decisions to make regarding replanting.

"There are some guidelines that need considering when deciding whether cotton should be replanted or not," County Agent Buddy Logsdon said.

The agricultural extension service gives these points:

If leaves or traces of leaves are still attached, the chances are good for recovery. However, there should be at least one plant per foot remaining, they say.

In this case the extension service says farmers will be well ahead if they leave this cotton.

If all leaves are destroyed, a farmer should take a closer look at stems and buds before making a final decision.

Although recovery is slow, cotton can recover when all the leaves are destroyed, providing the bark and stem is free of all bruises and breaks below the point of the first leaves, said area agronomist Robert Metzger.

Recovery is very doubtful, he said, if the stem is broken below the first leaves because no buds are left to renewed growth. He also pointed out that recovery is doubtful if the stem is shattered and the bark loosened and broken to points below the first leaves.

There are cases, too, where seedling disease may be a deciding factor, depending upon the weather, in deciding whether to replant or not.

The cut-off date for replanting cotton has already been reached in some parts of the county, and depending on when farmers can get back in the fields, replanting to soybeans may be advisable.

Soybeans will require irrigation into September, Logsdon pointed out, while it is most likely that replanted cotton planted at this late date will require little if any additional irrigation.

Each year too many acres of hail-damaged cotton are plowed up when they could have recovered and made farmers more money than replanting, extension officers said.

Hail damaged cotton has a good chance to recover, they said, and they advise farmers to give their cotton crops every chance to recover before deciding to replant.

PRAYER AND LOTTERY

Chain Letters 'Illegal'

Most chain letters are illegal. That's the word from George Thompson, officer in charge of the Littlefield Post Office.

Postal authorities say losses suffered by the public in some of these quick-scheme runs into hundreds of millions of dollars in the U. S. each year.

Numerous people in this area have recently received chain letters.

Sometimes called the "endless" chain, the illegal gimmick has been used in recent forms since the turn of the century, officials say.

Sending a chain letter through the mail is a Federal offense because it falls under the lottery law, Thompson said.

The sender falsely promises quick riches in return for a minimal investment in time, money and effort.

Such letters request the person receiving the letter to forward "only" $1 to the person whose name and address appears at the top of a list.

This name is then deleted, and the

C-C Executives Attend Conference

Attending the 63rd Annual Conference of the Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association in Brownwood June 8-10 from Littlefield were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kelly.

Kelly is executive vice president of Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, and his wife is his secretary.

Theme for the conference was "Are You Programmed for the 70's?" Major addresses dealt with the problems of the educational revolution, the changing chamber role, new techniques in industrial development, communication and motivation.

Among featured speakers were Robert Holman, assistant superintendent for curriculum of Hereford Independent Schools; Alec Chesser, vice president of Houston Natural Gas Corporation; Jim Harwell, executive director of Texas Industrial Commission; Tom Norfleet, vice president of Success Motivation Institute at Waco; and Bobby Bragan, president of Texas Baseball League.

person who has just received the letter adds his name to the bottom of the list, and in turn, sends the letter with his name and address on to six friends who are asked to repeat the process.

By the time a person's name reaches the sixth level he supposedly should receive $7,776, or $1 each from 7,776 persons.

"In most cases a person's name never reaches the top," Thompson said, explaining why a chain letter doesn't work. Authorities have figured out chances mathematically, and they say by the time a letter reaches the 11th level without breaking it would have to be

Forrest Martin Changes Positions Jack Christian Named Principal

The resignation of Jim Traugott, primary principal, was accepted and Forrest Martin, principal of Elementary II, was recommended to replace Traugott as primary principal at the regular meeting of the Littlefield school board Monday night.

The school board also approved the assignment of Jack Christian as principal of Elementary II.

Changes were made on the contract for the head football coach to clarify duties. Board policies for the head basketball coach and assistant coach were also adopted at the session.

In other action the board approved Insurnational's student and varsity insurance plan with rates of $6 for nine months, school hours coverage; $18 for 12-month, 24-hour coverage; and $22.50 for varsity insurance with the school paying the difference in the premium.

Board members named Security State Bank as depository for school money, renewing the contract that expires Aug. 31.

One new teacher was hired in the Monday night meeting. Mrs. Joyce Ella Simpson of Levelland was approved to teach in upper elementary.

Members of the board discussed and dismissed a proposition from J. C. Hilburn concerning delinquent taxes. Hilburn, who asked for an adjustment on delinquent

City, County Officers

Jail Eight This Week

James Overman, who was indicted by the grand jury recently for obtaining money by worthless check with intent to defraud, has been picked up and jailed by county officials.

The check for $200 was drawn on the First National Bank of Hale Center and paid to Byers Grain and Feed in Littlefield.

Jefferson Davis Jr. was picked up by the county and later released on a check law violation.

City police arrested six persons in three days on charges of drunkenness.

Two were arrested Saturday, two Sunday and two Tuesday.

All cases were handled by the corporation court judge and subjects have been released.

Monday morning, James Sokora reported a Chevrolet hubcap went missing from his pick-up sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Affluence Is Evident In County

If Lamb County residents were to total their living expenditures for the past year and discover, as is probable, that they were more than twice as big as they were 15 years ago, their immediate conclusion would be "inflation."

But, according to a recent study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, they would be wrong. They would be barking up the wrong tree.

It appears, from the bank's figures and from a Commerce Department survey, that most of the increase is attributable to an advance in living standards.

The finding is that approximately 60 percent of the rise in family budgets in the 15 years has been due to higher living and only 40 percent to higher prices.

Without realizing it, people in Lamb County and elsewhere have been upgrading their expenditures for goods and services, with the result that the average family is living better than ever before—despite bigger taxes and despite inflation.

The change is readily discernible in the local area, where home ownership is at a high level, where more people have cars and where more is spent on luxuries than in former years.

An indication of this trend to better living is revealed in a special Commerce Department report. It follows a nationwide sampling survey, covering the period since 1960, on the number of big-ticket household accessories in the average home.

In Lamb County, on the strength of these findings, it appears that 41.0 percent of the local families have two or more cars, as against 33.7 percent in 1960.

In other parts of the United States, 26.7 percent are two-car owners and, in the West South Central States, 25.7 percent.

The proportion of homes in the regional area equipped with clothes dryers has also gone up in the period. The increase is placed at 11.3 percent.

Television sets are also more numerous locally. About 94.0 percent now have one or more sets, as compared with 87.8 percent previously.

Also, reported for the regional area were marked increases in air conditioners, dishwashers and stereophonic equipment.

All of it has been made possible by rising incomes, sufficient to provide these extras after absorbing the increase in prices.

County Residents

Invited To Reception

Gov. Preston Smith states that every resident of the 30th and 31st Senatorial Districts, represented by Senators Jack Sprowler and Grady Hazlewood, is invited to a reception in the Governor's Mansion on Monday, June 23.

Lamb County is in the 30th Senatorial District and is included.

The governor is holding a series of "Open-Mansion" get-togethers which will include open invitations to every Texan.

"We have opened the door of the Governor's Office in the Capitol Building to any and all who want to visit with me," said Gov. Smith. "We now want to open the doors of the Governor's Mansion and give every Texan an opportunity to come visit with us there."

"I and I are looking forward to seeing our friends from all over the State, as well as making new friends at these get-togethers."

"It is my firm belief that when the people know that they can talk to their governor, they can be much more responsive to their duties as citizens in a democracy," said Gov. Smith.

Citizens of the 30th and 31st Senatorial Districts will be hosted on Monday, June 23 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The first reception was for the 28th Senatorial District, which Gov. Smith represented from Lubbock before becoming lieutenant governor.

Receptions are continuing until July 3, when Texans from all districts will have a chance to visit the official residence of the Governor.

Spade Farmers Replant Carrots

Spade Young Farmers aren't giving up on their carrot growing project this year.

Approximately 150 acres of carrots being grown by about 15 Spade farmers for LaMantia, Cullum, Collier and Co. in Dimmitt, were destroyed in Friday's storm.

Don Bell, president of Spade Young Farmers, contacted Homer West of LCC in Dimmitt to report the damages to the carrot crop, and came up with a new contract to "make a comeback" with a replant of 200 acres of carrots for the company.

What The Leader-News Thinks

Beauty Or Blight?

SUMMER ARRIVES this year on Saturday, June 21.

For most of us, it is the most pleasant season of the year.

It is the season when the works of nature reach full bloom. It is the season of picnics, of hunting, fishing trips and camping.

It is the season when the family car will carry vacationers far and wide across the land to see the sights and wonders which abound in this country.

WEEKENDERS FLOCK to the beaches and lakes.

Some are looking for quiet relaxation.

Others will participate in exciting sports such as water skiing.

A few will devote time to contemplating the wonders of the world in which we live.

The latter will gain greater enrichment from summer than the rest of us.

In their behalf, it is but fitting to issue a plea and a warning to all and sundry as the long worms of traffic stream out of the cities this summer for the mountains and the seashores.

Every auto will be loaded with potential garbage, as well as people.

Multiply each auto by tens of millions, each carrying its quota of paper plates, beer cans, melon rinds, all the refuse of living—and we come up with a pollution problem of awesome proportions.

WHETHER THERE IS beauty left for future generations to enjoy depends on the behavior of the people. They have the power to leave a heritage of beauty or blight.

The choice is made and a vote is cast whenever trash is tossed out of the family car along the roadside or left at the spots which nature provided for camping or picnicking. How will you vote?

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Not By Force

By BOB WEAR

THERE SEEMS to be a growing feeling that "might makes right", with the faulty conclusion that everything can be made right by force. Therefore we are being bombarded from all sides by all kinds of pressures, some of which is sheer force.

THE "OUTS" want to be the "INS", and the expanding unstable and unjustified climate of permissiveness is spawning more and more devices for trying to force the "INS" out, and the "OUTS" in. It seems that too many people have forgotten what such foolish thinking and action bring about.

THERE CAN BE NO END to the deteriorating life pattern that such behavior produces. After the "outs" force the "ins" out, later the new "outs" will find ways to force the new "ins" out. Historically, this disorderly conduct is harmful to all the persons involved.

It has, in other times, eventually destroyed the people who participated in it, and those who permitted it to happen.

"SINCE NOTHING is settled until it is settled right, no matter how unlimited power a man may have; unless he exercises it fairly and justly, his actions will return to plague him."—Frank A. Vanderlip. This is an established fact of life that should be very carefully considered by us all.

THE "HAVE NOTS" are setting themselves against the "haves", and, by force, are saying "you must share with us".

This is, obviously, a minority, but, nevertheless, a violent minority that constitutes a very real threat to the common good.

It may be that the "haves" are not as mindful of the real needs of the "have nots" as they should be. There may not be enough compassion for the needy.

Force, however, is not thereby justified; and is not the solution.

WE CANNOT CORRECT or improve, by force, that which can only be corrected and improved by intelligent reasoning.

Yes, we can change everything by force, but the result will be loss and destruction; not correction and improvement.

Milton said, "Who overcomes by force, hath overcome but half his foe."

THE ARBITRARY FORCE being assumed and applied by so many dissident, dissatisfied and disgruntled persons will eventually produce its counterpart among the segments of society now under attack.

This is one of the reasons why the present structure of law and order must be fully operational, and generously supported by the people.

EVENTUALLY, the people being made the targets of the present unjustified and unlawful force will begin to meet force with force.

It has already been predicted by some prominent observers that our cities will, in time, become armed garrisons.

There is a better way.

THE ADVOCATES and practitioners of force are not helping anybody.

In fact, the people who actually need the help of other people are suffering most from the present evils being committed by the lawlessness and disorder of arbitrary force.

EVERYTHING can be destroyed by the present-day brand of force, but nothing can be made better, or built up, or corrected.

We must choose a better way.

We have a better way: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind. You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

THE FORCE OF LOVE will save, but the force of violent power will destroy.

PAUL HARVEY

Hidden Message

THERE IS NO WAY that a President of the United States can please everybody. This one almost did it with the nomination of Warren Burger for chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

But then, even when the President announced from Midway Island that he was bringing 25,000 Americans home from our least-popular war, his decision was not entirely popular.

THE PRESIDENT who tries to make everybody happy is almost certain to please nobody. L.B.J.'s greatest weakness was derived from his desire to be popular; he sought a "consensus government."

In a political republic there can be no such thing.

WHEN JOSEPH DUFFEY was recently elected the new national chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, he promptly announced that his organization would work "for the defeat of the Nixon Administration."

He did not say that his organization would seek to influence the White House or that his organization would "support the President when he does things our way"; Duffey probably because he is comparatively a political newcomer—bluntly stated that his organization's purpose is the "defeat of the Nixon Administration."

HOW COULD ANY AMOUNT of presidential "accommodation" alter such dogmatic resistance?

Part of a modern President's problem derives from the fact that both politicians and pundits frequently feel compelled to "say something."

For example, the Midway Island decision to start withdrawing

Americans from Vietnam—25,000 now and more as the situation warrants—should have been a unanimously popular pronouncement.

BUT ANY POLITICIAN wanting his name mentioned has to state some "newsworthy reaction."

On Capitol Hill, critics of the Vietnam involvement called the withdrawal "tokenism," "not enough."

Understandably, the Soviet press called it "propaganda," "insignificant," and the North Vietnamese Communists labeled it "a crude farce."

BUT AMERICANS who might have been expected to close ranks did not.

Our own military officials in Saigon predicted that the withdrawal would do no harm, no good; that the move would not deter the Communists from further offensives.

FROM THE WAR FRONT, a GI was quoted as calling it "a gesture intended to quiet the stink back home."

One marine called it "a victory for the Communists."

President Nixon hoped with this announcement at least to improve our bargaining position in Paris, at best to encourage the North Vietnamese to begin withdrawing some of their Communist forces from South Vietnam.

IF HE FAILS in both objectives, however, he has nonetheless moved in the direction of disengagement.

The most important meaning of this "gesture" or this "token" is to serve notice on our frequently recalcitrant South Vietnamese allies that we do not intend indefinitely to continue to fight their war for them.

Wages Outpace Costs

How much can the average worker in Lamb County purchase today with his weekly pay check?

How does this compare with the buying power of a week's work in his father's day?

In general, according to figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, even though the cost of living has zoomed since then the working man is in a much better economic position now.

Without putting in as many hours on the job as was necessary in his father's time, he is able to live more luxuriously than was possible then. The increase in his income has more than made up for the increase in living costs.

Twenty years ago, for example, it took 37 hours of work to buy an electric vacuum cleaner. Today it can be bought with less than 15 hours of work.

A pair of nylon stockings that required 40 minutes on the job at that time, can now be purchased after 19 minutes. Similarly with many other items.

The average working man in Lamb County now earns enough in 17 minutes to buy a pound of bacon or a pound of coffee, which is about half the time he would have needed in 1959.

By putting in 27 minutes of work he is able to buy a pound of round steak, best grade. He can get an automobile tire, size 7.50 by 15, with the proceeds of some 10 1/4 hours on the job.

In dollars and cents, these items are priced higher, but because hourly wages have gone up at a faster clip, they amount to less in terms of working time.

In Lamb County, it is shown, income per household is 57 percent higher, on average, than it was 10 years ago. The cost of living, on the other hand, has risen only 20 percent in the period.

Just how an 8-hour day breaks down, for the typical American worker meeting his various bills, is shown in Tax Foundation Study.

It finds that 2 hours and 34 minutes goes to pay his taxes. Another 40 minutes for housing and household necessities for food, tobacco and alcohol, beverages, and 40 minutes for transportation.

The rest is for clothing, 25 minutes, medical, 21, recreation, 18, and others, 1 hour and 46 minutes.

Letters

circulated among 362 million people. The postal lottery law says letters are illegal because something of value is paid for a chance of winning a prize.

Lottery chain letters which are from hand to hand may also be illegal because proceeds, if any, are usually mailed.

The "good luck" or "prayer" of chain letter is also illegal because it carries an implied threat that will break the chain will have bad luck.

Chain letters for recipes and things as picture post cards, permissible since these aren't considered "valuable", Thompson said.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the people who participate in circulating letters do not realize they are breaking the law," Thompson said.

Federal and state officials agree most people take part in circulating letters out of ignorance.

"Throw them in the wastebasket," he advises from Thompson to receiving chain letters in the future.

"Which direction from Podunk Center is the tornado now?"

"Which way is it heading, sir?"

"North. Every tree in town has blown away, too."

"Was it actually sighted on the ground, sir?"

"Everybody went to the cellar. When we came out, everything was gone north, cloud and all."

"THANK YOU FOR CALLING, sir. Joe, change that bulletin to read an unconfirmed tornado just passed through the unconfirmed hamlet of Wayback, still unconfirmedly travelling north."

"Uh, say it was sighted by the unconfirmed public."

"GOOD AFTERNOON, U. S. Weather Bureau."

"Hello?.....Hello?....."

"Uh, Joe?.....Joe?.....Joe?"

Harold Clement, manager of the Littlefield Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. was snowed under with orders for glass to replace broken window panes and storm doors Monday, following the Friday evening storm.

Cutting glass to replace broken windows, installing glass in storm doors and repairing screens are just a few ways Higginbotham-Bartlett Co. can be of service to its customers on their home repairs.

A complete stock of all building supplies can be found here. Various contractors work out of the office, and can do anything from contracting a turn-key job on a new house to re-roofing your present home. They can add a carport, garage, patio, or do extensive remodeling.

If your floor coverings need replacing, Higginbothams carry a large selection of floor coverings or can order any type of flooring you may desire.

They also carry a full line of Trewax brand floor-care products. This is a highly advertised and good line of wax.

There are five Higginbotham-Bartlett lumber companies in Lamb County with yards located at Earth, Otton, Sudan, Amherst and Littlefield.

"And all these stores operate like the old-time country store," Clement said.

Clement first began his career in the lumber yard business at Amherst in 1932. He operated another lumber business at Bula in 1936. He has more than 30 years' experience in his line.

"We accommodate the people and are always looking for a way to benefit the community," Clement said. "Success of the company is due to this policy."

The first Higginbotham-Bartlett in Littlefield was located in 1923 just east and across the street from the present location on Phelps Ave.

Over the years there have been numerous company lumber yards in Littlefield but Higginbothams was one of the first to come here and it is still here because they came here to stay.

Higginbotham is the place to go for those clean-up, paint-up, fix-up supplies. To help with the clean-up work, Higginbothams have a complete line of small tools including gardening equipment and water hose.

Higginbothams carry a full line of Jones-Blair and Sherwin Williams paints. All types of painting supplies can be purchased here, including step ladders, brushes and drop cloths.

Higginbothams have Old Masters antiquing paints, too.

A complete stock of all building supplies can be found here. Various contractors work out of the office, and can do anything.

Pipe fittings and plumbing supplies are also carried here, along with water well supplies and submersible pumps.

Whatever your needs in the lumber line, Higginbothams will give you that old country store welcome.
