NO TIGHT MONEY

Tax Revenue Up From '69

Despite all the talk about "tight money" and recession, Littlefield's gross retail sales increased this year.

City Manager Pat Bradley has received the annual city tax receipts and statement for this quarter. One per cent of the retail sales for this quarter was $18,813.04 compared to $18,398.12 for the same quarter in 1969.

The increase is mostly attributed to Littlefield businessmen's merchandising promotions and consistent low prices that are keeping area residents trading at home.

The fiscal year for the city runs from October through September 30, and the total increase of revenue from city sales tax for the fiscal year thus far shows an increase of $810.02.

The heaviest quarter of the year falls during Christmas and the first of the year. Sales returns for this quarter last year were $40,237.47. For the same quarter this year, returns totaled $41,047.49 during the first quarter.

ASCS To Begin '70 Program Payments

The Lamb County ASCS will begin farm program payments for 1970 starting Wednesday, July 1. $1,300,000 will be released.

Payments to the farmers is expected to be completed by the end of September when the total to be paid for feed grain, wheat and cotton will be approximately $15,960,287. This is $857,335 more than was paid in 1969.

Producers who earn payments in the voluntary feed grain, wheat and cotton programs will receive payment computation statements along with their payment drafts.

It is most important for producers to retain these computation statements along with their other farm records, according to Lamar Aven. The Computation statements provide these important details:

1. Program for which payment is made. (Feed grain, Cotton or wheat).

2. Both gross and net payment, for entire farm and for individual producer.

3. Planted acreage and diverted acreage (if any)

4. Projected yield, used for payment computations.

It is suggested that producers verify their computation statements with their farm records before filing them in a safe place. If producers have any questions, they should get in touch with their county ASCS office as soon as possible.

If farm program computation statements are lost or destroyed, producers may obtain the information from records in the County ASCS Office.

AMHERST PIONEER Allan H. White closed out 35 years as Amherst postmaster Friday. More than 300 postal box patrons, about 50 who get their mail by general delivery and those on the Amherst rural route said their goodbyes to White this week. Mrs. White retired last year after 32 years as a postal clerk, and now with White's retirement, the couple has 67 years of civil service postal work behind them.

Amherst Postmaster Shuts Window On Job

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

An era came to an end at Amherst Friday.

Allan H. White, postmaster there for 35 years, worked his last day in that capacity Friday. Postal patrons will miss White's friendly hellos, and soft whistling and humming as he went about his work.

Mrs. White retired in October after 32 years as postal clerk, and now with White's retirement, the couple can go about their fishing with 67 years of civil service behind them.

And fishing is about all their plans include. They have a cabin at Tres Ritos and White smiles at the mention of trout and mountain streams and admits that he always "manages to get a few rainbows."

White was appointed postmaster in 1935 and has observed, first hand, all the postal changes from the three cent stamp and penny post card to today's zip codes and automation. And if you ask White point blank what he thinks of some of the latest changes, he will admit with a wry smile that some of them are "getting worse."

Mrs. Hazel Davis, who has 11 years as a postal clerk, will be the "clerk in charge" beginning Monday. "There hasn't been a postmaster appointed anywhere in the United States since Nixon became president," White said.

White believes that postmasters will eventually be replaced by general managers, "if

Take-Home Pay To Increase With Tax Drop

Millions of wage and salary earners will receive a small increase in take-home pay, effective July 1.

Your employer will reduce the amount of income tax withheld from your pay on July 1. The 1969 Tax Reform Act dropped the tax surcharge which has been 5 percent from Jan. 1, 1970 through June 30, 1970, and each of your exemptions will increase from $600 to $650 effective July 1.

You won't feel like you have quit paying income tax, but every little bit helps.

O.J. UTILITY LOTION

The downing of a string of dominoes popped at Amherst last Saturday after a trailer being pulled by a pickup came loose. James Douglas Eady of Amherst was traveling north on FM 37 in a '66 pickup and was pulling a trailer containing two calves and a cow when the trailer broke loose from the vehicle as he neared the Quick Gulf service station at 11th and Main.

The trailer veered across the road to the left and struck a gas pump, shearing it off. The gas pump then hit a parked pickup owned by Tom Davis of Amherst. The Davis vehicle careened backward into another gas pump, and the second gas pump whacked a parked station wagon owned by Benny Shaver of Dallas.

Highway Patrolman Weldon Parson investigated and set damages of $1,000 to the service station operated by J. D. Bench and D. G. Ewing. The injured animals in the trailer had to be killed, and Parson valued them at $200. The Davis vehicle was totaled; and estimated damages of $50 to the Shaver station wagon and $25 to the trailer were set.

A fire truck was called to the scene, but further destruction by fire or an explosion was averted.

Hearing Planned On Bean Petition

Texas and Lamb County soybean producers have been granted a hearing before Texas Department of Agriculture Commissioner John C. White at 10:30 a.m. July 20 on a petition seeking certification to hold a referendum under Texas' "Commodity Check-Off" law.

The hearing will be held in the Agriculture Department's offices in the John H. Reagan building in Austin. Evidence for and against the proposal can be presented at the hearing.

Texas Soybean Association of Plainview seeks certification as the authorized organization to conduct the referendum over a 23 county area in northwest, northeast, and southeast Texas

WINDMILL WATER tastes good to Jimmy Zeissel and feels cold to little brother Jimmy as temperatures soared this week. An unofficial high of 109 degrees was recorded here for a short time Thursday. Jimmy and Kenny get their windmill water from the Buck Ross mill on the old Clovis Highway, from one of the few remaining wind-powered water sources remaining in or around Littlefield. The boys are the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Zeissel.

New Historical Marker To Be Erected Aug. 28

The Official Texas Historical Marker for the replica of XIT's windmill will be erected August 28, during Festivities, according to Mrs. S. D. of Sudan, chairman of the Lamb County Historical Survey Committee.

The marker will be placed at the north end of XIT on Delano Street in Littlefield. Dedication plans will be announced in the near future. The marker is made of cast aluminum with a slush steel effect, the marker measures 20" by 20" and is sponsored by Littlefield Chamber of Commerce. Funds for the $16 marker were donated by Lamb County Historical Survey Committee, "We, The Women", Lions Club, Optimist Club, Security State Bank, First National Bank, Roden Drug, Pat's Record Center, Beta Sigma Phi, Rotary Club, Littlefield Woman's Club, Pioneer Natural Gas Co. and Southwestern Public Service Co.

The inscription on the marker reads:

REPLICA OF XIT'S GIANT WINDMILL Yellowhouse division of 3,050,000-acre XIT Ranch built (1887) a 132-foot windmill southwest of here. Set in a canyon, it had to be tall to catch breezes and pump water. It was known as the world's tallest windmill until it was toppled by winds in 1926. This replica was erected May 27, 1969. (1970)

The marking of local historic sites and landmarks is part of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee's program of preservation activities.

These include archeological investigations, small museum consultation, and administering the National Historic Preservation Act in Texas.

As of 1970, the Survey Committee had erected more than 5,000 official markers.

The name and location of the present marker will appear in the next edition of the "Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers" in order to stimulate tourist travel in this area, to arouse interest in historical tours, and to acquaint the people of this locale with their unique heritage.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

Our Next Generation Under New System?

The next generation of school children in Lamb County may be brought up under a completely different system of weights and measures than is now being used.

Instead of dealing in inches, feet, gallons and pounds, they would be using such terms as centimeters, meters, liters and grams--the metric system.

They would learn, for instance, that they live in a community that has a land area of 2,647 square kilometers rather than 1,022 square miles.

They would be told that the family car gets about 6 kilometers to the liter instead of 14 miles or so to the gallon and that the 8,500 passenger cars in operation in Lamb County consume an average of 2,720 liters of gas in the course of a year.

In shopping for food, the local housewife might buy 2 kilos of meat (equivalent to 4.4 pounds), a 500 gram box of sugar (1.1 pounds) and a liter of milk (1.06 quarts).

These and other changes appear to be on the way.

The Commerce Department is currently engaged in a three-year study of the advantages and disadvantages of conversion to the metric system.

There is increasing pressure in this country, from the business, educational and scientific communities to take the plunge.

Now that Great Britain is converting to it, they point out, the United States is the sole major power that continues to use the old system.

With more than 90 percent of the world's population using metric units, they claim that we are at a distinct disadvantage in international trade with-out it.

Many are opposed, however. They contend that conversion would cost billions of dollars and that the economy would be out of whack for years.

Machine tools would have to be changed, as would school texts, road markers, scales, containers and much other equipment.

Everything would be different. The home run that Willie Mays hit would be a 122-meter slam, rather than 400 feet.

And Lamb County girls, to emulate Miss America, would have to have such strange new dimensions as 92-58-91 in centimeters, that is.

FIRST IN NEWS WRITING

Paper Gets National Award

DES MOINES, IOWA--The Lamb County Leader-News received a national first-place award for excellence in news writing Saturday.

Editor and Publisher Bill Turner accepted an engraved plaque at the awards luncheon at the 85th annual convention of the National Newspaper Association.

It was the first time in the 85-year history of the Littlefield newspapers for the publication to earn top honors in the National Better Newspaper Contests.

The plaque was given in recognition of the Leader-News "Extra" and the next regular edition which announced the selection of Littlefield for future manufacturing of the Electric-Car.

About the editions which were published June 25 and 26, 1969, the judges said:

"The Leader-News and Bill

Turner got out an eight-page color tab on the announcement that an electric car firm had selected their town for a plant.

"The paper followed with the regular edition the next day with top play on page one. The news stories and art work related to the story were handled in a tip-top fashion, and must have generated a lot of civic pride."

The Brooklyn (Iowa) Chronicle was second in the contest and the Sullivan (Mo.) Tri-County News was third.

The Leader-News was the winner in one of 23 divisions of the national contests, in which 3,491 entries were received.

Littlefield was the only Texas community represented among the plaque winners this year.

Two other Texas newspapers, The Perryton Herald and The Diboll Free Press, received honorable mention certificates for "Best Special Issue" and "Best Use of Color," respectively.

The national award was the fourth earned by newspapers published by Turner. Three were received by the Olton Enterprise, which he operated for six years before taking the reins of the Leader-News in late 1966.

In accepting the plaque, Turner credited a "prize-winning staff" which only recently also earned "General Excellence" award in Texas as the top paper in its class for 1970.

Turner said, "A newspaper is a reflection of the community and the area it serves."

Our readers and advertisers are the people who make a newspaper worthwhile, and we appreciate their continuing help and cooperation."

TWO LIONS received special recognition Thursday night, when they were presented with "Charter Monarch" certificates. Tom Hilburn has been a member of the Littlefield club 30 years and Flannery Newton 25 years. The certificates were presented during the "30th Birthday Celebration" at the Community Center.

Minor Injury In Car Mishap

A passenger in a one car accident was treated at the Olton hospital following an accident north of Olton Monday. Juan Thomas Cavazos of Lubbock was traveling south on Highway 168 when the right front suspension of his 1963 Ford gave way as he went around a curve at a draw 6.3 miles north of Olton. The car veered to the left side of the road and hit an embankment, causing damages of about $200 to the vehicle. Cavazos' wife, Mary, was taken to the Olton hospital where she was treated for minor injuries and released. Eight other passengers in the car escaped injury. Highway Patrolman Weldon Parson investigated.

Guaranteed Income

SUPPOSE THAT SOME charitable fellow you knew began providing regular allowances to seven needy persons in your community.

And suppose that, in spite of good intentions all around, the results were discouraging.

Because of the way the people were being helped, they lapsed deeper and deeper into dependency, lost self respect, grew unhappier, less motivated and more burdensome to their charitable friend.

SO FINALLY HE SAYS: "This can't go on. I must try something different. And in doing so, I will add 13 more persons to the list of those I am going to help."

How much sense does that make?

SHOULDN'T HE FIRST straighten out the original seven, before he involves 13 more?

Multiply the figures by a million and the questions will apply to the Nixon Administration's Family Assistance Plan which has been passed by the House and awaits consideration by the Senate.

THERE ARE ALMOST seven million persons now on the family welfare rolls.

The program is a mess. It breeds irresponsibility. It wastes tax money. Many of the mothers, who head 80 per cent of the welfare families, could be made self-supporting but they are not being properly sought out and induced to take job training.

So the families drift from one generation to the next, looking upon welfare as a way of life.

NOW THE ADMINISTRATION has set out to reform the system and its chief proposal is to take on welfare 13 million more persons, all of them in families headed by fathers who work full time but who do not earn as much money as the Administration thinks their families should have.

It's the kind of a "solution" one would expect from social planners who are trying to conceal their poor aim by building themselves a much bigger target.

THE NEW PLAN has some good features. But when it's all added up, it is a federally guaranteed annual income for all families with children.

The guaranteed annual income would be a step off the brink into a deep socialistic chasm.

The National Chamber opposes it. If you do, too, then tell your senators and congressman about it.

A Phobia. . .

ACTOR DEAN MARTIN, who starred as a pilot in the movie "Airport", is afraid to fly. Psychologists think most of us suffer in some degree from phobias, unreasonable fears.

If they are right, to what extent might unreasonable fears be influencing our nation's affairs.

A NORMAL PERSON'S reaction to danger, exaggerated, becomes a pathologic fear, a phobia.

As Dean Martin is afraid of airplanes and feels panic in closed elevator, actress Joan Crawford has a "thing" about cleanliness.

She's likely to rescrub the hotel bathroom floor, personally. She may order her own apartment recleaned three times following a party. She is fanatical about cleanliness.

Some people mistrust clocks--or banks; many are distressed by handling soiled money.

SOME PROMINENT PERSONS, unable to avoid shaking hands, scrub their hands after each shake. The British Medical Assn. has identified 130 different types of irrational fear, affecting an estimated half-million Britons.

Most are agoraphobics, afraid of open spaces. Many of Britain's 100,000 agoraphobics are women afraid to leave their own homes.

THEN THERE ARE FEARS OF spiders, matches, birds, thunder--and even fear of fear itself.

Most women are afraid of mice or snakes. This fear becomes an illness only when you suffer stark terror in the presence of an obviously harmless rodent.

The word "phobia" comes from the Greek "Phobos," meaning

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

WHILE "Uncle Sugar" is figuring the angles on the suppression of inflation, I'm having trouble with deflation.

The deflation concerns my sickly bank balance.--Uncle has hit right at the seat of the problem on this inflation business.

HIS ANSWER is quite simple: If you don't want the kids to spend so much money, you only have to cut their allowance!

All of which is to the well and good, except for one thing--while the allowance is being cut, the value of the dollar continues to shrink!

This can add up to only one thing, my poor bank balance is taking it on the chin from one end, as well as a boot in the other extremity!

NOW I ASK YOU, is this any way to win friends and influence people? Looks as though the "Temporary" surtax is here to stay.--The "vice" taxes are ever on the increase. (You know: the cigarette tax, liquor tax, and the sex and profanity school taxes--movies, no less).

Most of these I can economize on.--I don't drink, and the last movie I saw embarrassed me to the point that I just don't patronize them any more. (Of course, cigarettes are just now beginning to bring what they're worth!)

ANYHOO, I've come to the conclusion that these cattle feeders

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Nothing Left

By BOB WEAR

SEEKING TO REGAIN the faith he once had was the main purpose of a young college graduate who came to my study some time ago.

During his college years, he had permitted himself to be influenced by a group of young men who had given themselves to intellectualism.

They accepted the hypothesis that all knowledge is derived from pure reason.

HE HAD NOTHING LEFT. This was his honest and wise conclusion. Everybody would know this, but many would not admit it.

There is no profit in speculating about the quality of this young man's faith.

Whatever it had been, it was gone and he wanted to recover it. He did.

HE RELATED THE DESPAIR and hopelessness of his former college associates.

They were all miserable in their self-conceit, as they blindly groped for meaning and purpose in their lives.

Insisting upon walking by sight, in the shadows of limited human wisdom, they were always taking dead end streets or moving in meaningless circles.

They were plagued with a growing sense of futility.

THE DAMAGE DONE by these people is astounding. In the instance of this young man, the devotees to intellectualism had done their evil work very well.

They had undermined his faith, but given him nothing in return. Of course, there is no adequate replacement for a person's faith. There is no substitute.

LOST, WITH NO POINT of reference for finding their way, describes these persons; whether on or off campus.

In spite of the total testimony of history, and contrary to the well-established statement of inspiration; they think that the way of man is in himself.

They assume that it is within man to direct his own steps. This is an insupportable assumption.

"THERE IS NO GREAT FUTURE for any people whose faith has burned out or congealed. History records the ominous fact that national degeneration takes place where faith or vision fail or wane as surely as it does when economic assets shrink or when there is a dearth of sound money currency."

Even though some are saying that we are a people without anything which to believe, the facts are otherwise.

If there is a problem, it is that many people do not want to believe in anything. We have the same things we have always had in which to believe.

IF WE FORGET the important place that faith should have in our lives, or if we permit some inferior life principle to replace what we have lost the one thing that we cannot do without.

Oh yes, a person can get by without faith; but it will be a weary, dreary and limited kind of existence.

IT IS EASY TO see the difficulties, despondency, and despair folk who have deliberately rejected the basic principle of faith.

"Strike the principle of faith from mankind, and men would have more history than a flock of sheep." Bulwer. Recorded history gives repeated instances of the soundness of this conclusion.

"THE STEPS OF FAITH fall on the seeming void, but they find the rock beneath."--Whittier. When faith is gone, there is nothing left.

DOWN TO EARTH

Diplomacy

By JIMMY R. ALLEN

THE APPOINTMENT of Henry Cabot Lodge by President Richard Nixon as a diplomatic representative to the Vatican raises familiar names and familiar issues in American political life.

It resurrects the crucial question of the relationship between church and state in American life.

It also highlights the continuing struggle within the Roman Catholic Church (and indeed within all religious bodies) to define the political role of religious groups.

THE NIXON-LODGE ticket barely missed becoming President and Vice-President of the United States in 1960.

Most political observers in Texas agree that a major factor in their failure to gain Texas' electoral votes was a refusal to be forthcoming in rejecting the idea of tax money for parochial education.

President John F. Kennedy made such a forthright stand and stuck by his position after his election.

THE ISSUE of diplomatic missions to the Vatican has been hotly debated periodically in American life.

At one time the argument centered on whether the few acres of land was indeed a separate country and thereby qualified for a diplomatic relationship. Fortunately that line of argument has been dropped.

The question now is whether such an official relationship will forward the cause of world peace.

THE LARGER ISSUE symbolized in this debate is what is the nature of a church, of religious response, and of the relationship of organized religion to affairs of state.

Many of those who labor in the spirit of Pope John XXIII for spiritual renewal within the Roman Catholic Church are dismayed with every step toward the use of political power by such official means.

They view the hope for spiritual renewal in the direction of accentuating voluntary commitment and care ready to divest the church of the medieval role of manipulator of political power.

THE RELATIONSHIP of church to state is a complex issue for all religious groups. There is a strong moral conscience which demands that churchmen accept their role as individual citizens, speaking to the issues of society and participating in political processes.

On the other hand, the American experiment in religious liberty through separation of church and state demands that the gears of the church should not engage the machinery of the state nor should the gear of the state engage the machinery of the church.

THE QUESTION of whether the cause of peace will be served by Henry Cabot Lodge's periodic trips to Rome as the President's personal diplomat should be carefully examined.

Informal contacts between the White House and all kinds of religious groups are already taking place.

The Quakers, or Society of Friends, the President's own religious group, have had more contact with the North Vietnam government than has the Vatican.

SUCH OFFICIAL diplomatic relationships between our government and a church is simply not necessary to the cause of world peace.

This argument would be far more persuasive if the appointment had not followed so hard on the heels of Governor Wallace's political victory in Alabama.

Political observers have pointed out that Wallace's continued threat to the Republican cause in the South made some effort to appeal to the so-called Roman Catholic vote in the cities of the East a politically desirable move.

AN AMBASSADOR to the Vatican, under whatever guise it takes or whatever justification its proponents offer, is against the tide of American history and its commitment to separation of church and state.

It is unnecessary and unwise. The best interests of the church and of the state are served by keeping them separate.

A WOMAN'S VIEW

Lost

By PEARL BRANDON

ONCE AT AN old fashioned picnic when we children were small, my little brother got lost.

A big crowd was there-- with candidate speakings, dinner on the ground, with plenty of fried chicken, cakes and pies, and lemonade in tubs with chunks of ice.

They had no public address system as they do now and if someone got lost it was quite a problem.

THERE WAS A BIG bunch of us kids for our parents to look after and the little three-year-old wandered off and got lost in the crowd.

He was crying and someone picked him up.

"WHAT IS YOUR name?" "Royce". "Whose boy are you?" "I'm Papa's boy," "What's your Papa's name?" "Just Papa".

Some friend of the family finally recognized him and was standing on a stump waving his hat when frantic parents saw him.

I'VE HEARD of people being lost in the forest and wandered around in circles for days before they were found.

I also heard of a man in a big city registering in a hotel, then going for a walk, leaving the key at the desk and forgetting the name of the hotel where he had registered.

After searching around and trying desperately to remember, he finally called hotel after hotel until they found where he was registered.

BUT THE WORST of all is when we lose our way in life.

Maybe we go along for a good part of our lives working toward a certain goal, then all at once something happens to destroy everything we have ever worked for.

OUR BUSINESS FAILS, or our loved ones dies, or something happens to break up our family, and all at once everything is gone.

We find ourselves groping in the dark--lost.

We come to a deadend street, our dreams are shattered and we are lost in the dark forest.

THEY SAY, when you are lost in the forest we should sit still and wait.

The more we wander around the more confused we get. It is the same with life.

"Be still and know that I am God..." sit still and wait for God to act.

He will find us and lead us out of the shadows into the light, and we will begin to see our way again.

We'll not be lost anymore. With God on our side we can pick up the pieces and go on.

It may be an entirely new road but it will be our road and we won't have to walk it alone.

"Ye though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death Thou art with me."

Final Census Check For '70 Under Way

One of the final steps in the 1970 census in rural and small city areas of the southern States—a check by mailmen—is now under way, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of the Census. The '70 census was taken by two methods: by mail-out and mail-back of questionnaires in most major metropolitan areas and by census takers in the rest of the United States. The latter procedure entailed the mailing out of questionnaires and subsequent visits by census takers who would pick up filled-in forms or, lacking this, interview families while following a house-to-house route. Canvassing in the metro- politan areas required checking of addresses by postal employ- ees before the mailout. A similar step is now being taken by mailmen following the visits by census takers. This is the procedure: When census district offices com- pleted their preliminary counts, they turned over to the post of- fice a set of white cards listing every address canvassed. The mailmen, in turn, check these addresses against the house- holds on their routes. If the mailman discovers what he considers a "missed" address, he fills out a blue card noting this fact. The blue cards are referred to the Census Bureau, which will check them against the census records. The Census Bureau has found from experience that many households for which such cards are filled out have already been enumerated. This can happen for a number of reasons. For instance, some people get mail at two or more addresses, or there may be differences in the way a rural address is de- scribed. The Census Bureau will check the blue cards turned in by mail- men and then take appropriate steps to provide a complete census count.

WHITHARRAL STUDENTS, Marla Sadler, and Kathy Williams, right, will be in Austin to participate in the Small Schools Seminar program. Talented students in conjunction with a state-wide educators' workshop. These two were chosen by members of the district seminar that was held at South Plains College during the 1969-70 school year.

Superintendents, Students Late Schools Project

There are 86 things that a school district can do to provide services generally expected only from large districts? Thing One is to get together with other small schools and work out 85 other things to strengthen curriculum and administrative capability.

Superintendents from several schools including Whitarral and Bula will be among expected 500 schoolmen and women in Austin July 5-10 for an annual summer workshop of the Texas Small Schools Project to be held at the Jester Center of the University of Texas at Austin. Two Whitharral girls, Marla Sadler and Kathy Lynn Williams, will be in Austin at the same time and will be attending the Summer Seminar for Talented Students in conjunction with the educators' meeting. These two students will represent Region 10 made up of schools from Whitharral, Bledsoe, Borden, Pep, Klondike, Loop, Smyer, Three Way, Union Whiteface. They were chosen by students in these schools who attended Small School Seminars held at South Plains College this past school year. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Sadler and Mr. and Mrs. John Williams, and both will be seniors at Whitharral this school year. The Small Schools Project is the problem-solving focal point for 130 districts in Texas which have fewer than 500 students in 12 grades. It is sponsored jointly by the Texas Small Schools Association and the Texas Education Agency, which provides a traveling staff to carry ideas from district to district throughout the state. In 10 years the project has grown from just 18 participating districts. Eighty-six is just a thin-air number -- the workshop will range through so many topics that participants could go home with many more ideas, counting combinations and permutations. Keynote speakers will be Dr. Benjamin Carmichael, director of the Appalachia Educational Laboratory, Inc., Charleston, West Virginia, and Dr. Lorrin Kennamer, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Texas Tech University, Lubbock. A series of special sessions on education about the environmental crises is scheduled for Wednesday, July 8. Other timely topics include nongraded elementary schools, the use of teacher aides, new laws in the state's Foundation Program, crime and narcotics, and kindergarten in the 1970's. Twenty-one special interest groups will range from teaching specific levels in elementary school through subject matter areas in high schools. More than 400 Texas districts are eligible for the Small Schools Project. However, participation requires a definite commitment of effort and re- sources.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

and get a spiritual lift for the whole week

they won

...without army, or navy, or air force. Thirteen small struggling colonies set themselves against imperial might, and they won. Led by men of character, devotion, courage and high ideals, the men of Valley Forge won our Independence, our Fourth of July. They were lovers of Liberty and of God. But our freedom did not come easy. God bless the memory of those historic patriots who laid everything on the altar for their country... their lands, their homes, their families, their very lives. Are we worthy to 'follow in their train?' Just what are we paying for this rich inheritance? Let us bow on this Fourth of July, in devout gratitude. Let us help make "Christian America" truly Christian, more loyal and more Godly.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, by a faithful worker and attend services regularly.

July 4th... Or July 2nd?

"The United States," said American statesman James G. Blain, "is the only country with a known birthday."

But can you pinpoint that historic date in 1776? It's not the Fourth of July. The actual date of the act of independence was July 2—the day that the Continental Congress adopted a 1,337-word resolution declaring the 13 Colonies free of British rule. The Declaration of Independence, adopted on July 4, was merely a fuller explanation of why the American colonists had taken the momentous step two days earlier.

Today, there's more to the Fourth of July spirit than marching bands and firecrackers. For the Declaration remains a living guide for Americans. As President Woodrow Wilson put it: "Jefferson's Declaration of Independence is a practical document for the use of practical men. It is not a theory of government but a program of action."

Wilson's view set the tone for the "spirit of involvement" that was to sweep the country more than half a century later. Allai E. Stevenson spelled out the action program in today's terms when he observed: "We dare not just look back to great yesterdays. We must look forward to great tomorrows... The challenge to all of us is to prove that a free society can remain free, human and creative—that it can combat poverty, injustice and intolerance in our midst."

In his inaugural address, President Nixon was even more specific. Calling on the nation to "shape the future in the image of our hopes," he said: "Greatness comes in simple trappings. The simple things are the ones needed today."

He then ticked off the challenges: full employment, better housing, urban renewal, the protection of our environment.

What can YOU do about what the President called "enhancing the quality of life in America?" Keeping informed on foreign, national and local issues is a good starting point. Read your newspaper... follow congressional debates... participate in town meetings... attend lectures by those knowledgeable in their fields. Such participation is essential if you want to prepare yourself intelligently to elect officials who share your conviction.

Public awareness is necessary if you subscribe—as most thinking men do—to the warning of abolitionist Wendell Phillips: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

What constitutes a vital issue, of course, may vary according to individual judgement. But there are few who would argue that the need for better housing is not a nationwide problem. Only the means of attaining the goal differ.

Some activists take to the streets with picket signs. You may prefer to join a tenants or neighborhood committee to upgrade living conditions.

You can also make your voice heard in city hall public hearings. Or you can write to your elective representatives in support of housing legislation.

If you are depositor at any of the country's 14,000 commercial banks, you may—without even knowing it—already be doing something about the housing crisis and other national problems.

Responding to the needs of the times, these financial institutions have developed a new concept: the one-bank holding company. Banking remains the one-bank holding company's main business.

But at the same time, it invests in nonbanking enterprises of vital service to the individual, the community and the nation.

These services range from providing insurance and family budgeting advice to tax assistance and credit card services.

Increasingly, one-bank holding companies are meeting the housing challenge head on by supporting home-building firms, real estate enterprises and land-development corporations.

One executive explains the one-bank holding concept this way: "The social forces of our times are shaping this new company as it grows to meet the needs of the modern world."

The threat to our environment is another challenge facing America. This, too, is being tackled at both the individual and corporate levels.

In industry, manufacturers are producing pollution-reducing engines for your car. Lead-free gasoline aims at the same goal.

Detergent-makers are coming up with washing powders low in phosphates—an ingredient which contributes to lake and river pollution.

Chemists have devised pesticides that do the job without

THE SIGN EVERYBODY'S TALKING ABOUT

Lake Thermoclines Are Misunderstood

Lake fishermen hear about it every summer.

But most of them go on fishing, unconcerned.

What is a thermocline, anyway?

Veteran anglers with lots of lake savvy can turn the thermocline into an advantage in fishing. Others it hurts.

Thermocline is a layer of water which tends to separate the warmer mass of water near the surface from the cooler mass in the depths.

But the thermocline's effect is more significant than that.

Marion Toole, inland fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said the thermocline acts as a "lid" which traps gases and oxygen-starved water below a certain depth -- making part of the lake "dead" for the maintenance of fish life.

The thermocline forms like this:

As the late spring and summer sun warms a lake's temperature the warm temperature gradually increases deeper and deeper until a point is reached where the water temperature changes over one degree centigrade in one meter of depth.

This causes the lake water to stratify -- or separate into "layers" -- the warmer water on top and the colder water below.

After stratification, detritus on the lake bottom begins to decompose, using up the available dissolved oxygen in the water which cannot be replaced.

The gases resulting from decomposition cannot escape through the thermocline so they continue to build up.

Therefore, the only replenishment of dissolved oxygen in the lake occurs above the thermocline. It is useless, then, to fish below the thermocline.

Man is never a host to the grubs and is not harmed by eating infested fish, as long as they are cooked well, Toole said.

Grubs Are Ugly Not Dangerous

Horrified anglers who find ugly black or yellow grubs under the skin of their prize bass needn't worry.

They're harmless.

Marion Toole, inland fisheries coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said warm weather usually means more of the grubs will be found on bass, bream and other scaly varieties of freshwater fish.

Toole said the grubs, which usually are encysted on the dorsal side of the fish just beneath the scales, can be trimmed off the fish before it's cooked.

The grubs, which are either the black grub "Crassiphiala buboglossa" or the yellow grub "Clinostomum marginatum" have a complicated life cycle in which they utilize three hosts.

In addition to fish, the organisms spend part of their life stages in the bodies of water birds and snails.

Man is never a host to the grubs and is not harmed by eating infested fish, as long as they are cooked well, Toole said.
