THE ABUNDANT LIFE

What We Can Do

THE SPIRIT WE MAINTAIN is going to determine what we do with life, and the variety of challenges we must face. We can worry, or be fearful, or gloomy, or lazy; or we can weaken our spirit in some other way or ways. This, however, is not the approved way to cope with life. At best, we will be hard pressed to sustain a satisfactory level of living. Nevertheless, satisfactory living is possible. LIFE CAN BE ROUGH on people who have a weak, timid, fearful spirit. Some of these persons will find life completely overwhelming. They just don't do what they can, because, for one reason or another, they do not try. These people could do better, because they have the potential to do better. Even if this is an oversimplification, it is nevertheless true.

spirit with which they appear. Those who live, really live, do try; they keep doing what they can. The others give up, they stop. They do not do what they can. The difference is the difference in spirit, or the life disposition.

"THERE IS A LEGEND of a spindly little sparrow who is his back in the middle of the horseman comes by and dismounts and asks the sparrow what he is doing there upside down like he heard the heavens are going today," said the sparrow. "Oh, the horseman, and I suppose puny little legs can hold up heavens?" "One does what one can," said the sparrow, "one does what one can." -W. A. Jenkins.

PEOPLE WHO DO reasonably well with living are the people who do what they can do, and they never back off; they just keep doing what they can. If they are repulsed, they recover quickly and soon find another way to try again. They do not give up, because they have an unconquerable spirit. This is essential equipment for living, and it is acquired; it can be developed.

LIFE SEEMS TO REWARD people who are diligent in doing what they can do, those who refuse to give up; when the going is rough, life can be rough; and it does challenge us. If we are feeble, disheartened, or feel overwhelmed, we will not be able to give an accounting of ourselves.

"NEVER GIVE UP" is the spirit we need. One of the big differences between the people who live satisfactorily and those who do not is in the

IN ORDER TO LIVE, truly live, meet our problems and difficulties with the spirit that makes worthwhile; we must always do what we can do.

Turn Row COMMENTS

OVERHEARD A CONVERSATION

Tuesday that gave me something to think about. This young boy asked his dad why they could not get a certain program on their television set. After a bit of conversation it was decided that you have to be on cable to view this particular show. The parent then told his son that you had to be on cable in order to see the program and that he was not financially able to get on the cable for extra programs. The son was satisfied, but when the young boy was quizzed about where he had seen this particular program, he stated that one of his little friends told him that they watched it on their tv set. Now that is all well and good, but where the gripe is is that particular family gets free lunch, school and food stamps. Maybe not very charitable, but for some reason I think there is something of line.

DID YOU HEAR ABOUT one of our local citizens that spent a while of our local restaurants and decided to go home he headed and drove home only to remember after he got to this particular town that he didn't live there anymore that he had built a new house in and his little wife was there supper waiting?

WHEN YOU PRAY

I'm always impressed when I am reminded of the prayer of John Knox, the great Presbyterian preacher, "Lord, give me Scotland or I die." The usual prayer that breaks from my lips or from those around me is not so encompassing. "Lord, let me pass this test." That pretty well sums up the scope of our praying. What a shame on all of us. We could pray for nations, and we pray for some petty notion! We could pray for harvests, and we pray for help. We could pray for revival, and we pray for relief. One star in our crown should be our most earnest desire, and we pray for feathers in our cap! We could pray to become bomb shells, and we settle for being pip squeaks. Ah, well, until we learn that God's word is everything and our words are nothing, we'll have to settle for whatever honors this poor world offers.

— Paul M. Stevens

Technology Courses Offered At LCC

Persons wishing to gain marketable job skills can register at the Lubbock Christian College Industrial Technologies Division through Jan. 12.

Classes in three areas of the Industrial Technologies Division, drafting, electronics and machinist trades, start Jan. 12. Automotive classes begin Jan. 19, while those taking courses in both industrial and communications electronics start school on Jan. 26.

"We're continuing in our efforts to train students for jobs that are already waiting," explained Dr. Tommy Gilbreath, head of the Industrial Technologies Division. "The only problem is that there are more jobs than we have students to put in them."

Fulltime students can finish a program in six months, while it takes a year for part-time students to get a certificate of completion. Students are then given help with job placement.

"The time required to complete a training program is especially important when the opportunity for wages are considered," according to Gilbreath. "If a person is required to train for two years, he will lose from $12,000 to $18,000 in opportunity wages. If training time is cut without a loss in the quality of the training, it is important to the student and to the employer who needs the skills of the trainee."

Students enrolled in the Industrial Technologies Division attend chapel and enjoy the many social aspects of the Lubbock Christian College campus, but they don't receive college credits. Students working on degree program at LCC can receive credit for any industrial technologies courses they take as electives.

Both full and half-time day programs are offered in machine shop, welding and auto mechanics. Half-time day programs are available in electronics. Night programs are offered in all areas, including drafting.

The schedule for fulltime day program are from 8:30 to 4 p.m. five days per week. Half-time schedules are from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. five days per week or 6 to 10 p.m. four nights per week. A part-time student may also opt for classes just two nights per week.

"While our students aren't masters of their trade when they complete a course, they do have a solid foundation," Gilbreath said. "Their schooling is much more in depth than on-the-job training. In fact, it would take at least four or five years of on-the-job training for them to learn as much as they would in six months with us and employers recognize this."

7th, 8th Record Victories

The seventh grade boys defeated Olton Monday, 42-23.

Kerry Rainbolt led all scores with 12, Dale Demel had 9, Marty Drake had 6, Scott Yarbrough and Greg Morgan had 4 each, while Alvin Contreras, Randy McCarty and James Johnson had 2 each.

The eighth grade also won, 33-20.

Greg Scott had 6 points while Steve Jackson, Rodney Hampton, Mark Yarbrough, Pablo Trevino and Hoby Phillips had 4 each, Joey Ybarra, Michael Blevis, and Joe Don Haynes had 2 each while Tommy Williams had 1.
