Businesses Set Holidays

Littlefield's monthly Dollar Day will be observed Monday, July 12, instead of July 5 because of the Independence Day holiday.

Most Littlefield businesses will close their doors to the public Monday, July 5, for the nationally designated holiday, and several residents will be able to take a long weekend.

Both banks will be closed and the majority of the downtown businesses will be closed for a quiet holiday.

All city, county and U. S. government offices will be closed, including the post office.

Grocery stores will remain open, along with most of the drive-ins and drug stores.

The Leader-News staff will observe the holiday, and the office will be closed.

Army's Doors Now Closed

A volunteer Salvation Army Service Unit is carrying on the organization's welfare program in Littlefield, following the closing of the Army's full-time corps after 31 years of service to the area's poor.

The Service Unit committee, all former members of the Army's advisory board, will dispense help to needy families in much the same manner as the full-time corps, according to chairman Doyle Patton. Patton was shifted from chairman of the advisory board to Service United chairman at a recent reorganization meeting.

Other officers named are Warren Dayton, vice chairman; Charles Duval, treasurer; Rev. David Hamblin, welfare secretary; and Rev. Joe James, in charge of aid to travelers.

"We intend to provide services to people in need in Littlefield just as The Salvation Army has been doing so effectively all these years," Patton said. "We ask the continued support of all humanitarian citizens to enable us to do our job."

The Service United will purchase groceries, clothing and personal articles, make utility and rent payments, undertake minor medical and dental expenses, and provide other aid for poorer families and individuals in emergencies. Stranded travelers will receive assistance in form of food, overnight lodgings or transportation.

Volunteer Service United function in 328 cities in Texas where there is no full-time Salvation Army corps officer in charge.

Members of the Littlefield committee include Mrs. Susan Wilemon, Mrs. George White, Gerald Kehoe, Bruce Porcher, Ross Lumsden, Kip Cutshall, James Settle and Tommy Ballard.

The Army's Littlefield corps, established in 1937, closed Sunday, June 27, after repeated failures to meet minimum financial needs to continue as a full-time operation.

Captain and Mrs. Daniel Hudson, the corps officers, have been assigned to another appointment in Texas.

Low Income Housing Up To Commissioners

Is there a need for a low-cost, low-income housing project in Lamb County, and is the Federal Housing Authority the vehicle for this?

These were two of the main questions posed at a public hearing in the county courtroom Tuesday night.

The hearing was set after the Lamb County Commissioners Court was approached by representatives from the South Plains Community Action Association (SPCAA) group asking Lamb County to join a proposed eight-county housing authority.

Commissioners will act on the proposal at the next regularly scheduled meeting of the court Monday, July 12. Commissioners have the final say in the matter.

If they decide to join the Authority, this will mean that approximately 1,000 houses costing $12,000 to $15,000 will be built on a rent-purchase agreement that will allow low-income families to acquire for as little as one per cent interest and $30 to $40 per month on 33-year loans.

Howard Maddera, executive director of the SPCCA, and Thad McDonald, president of the Levelland State Bank, explained the program and answered questions for more than 30 interested persons.

The program was termed "private enterprise with a government subsidy from the federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD)."

The housing would be financed with tax-exempt revenue bonds, and construction, leasing and sales co-ordinated by a regional housing authority board of directors made up of one person from each county involved in the program.

Maddera said the housing authority could declare all rent "sweat equity" and make all rent applicable to purchase since the bonds are assured.

The plan is for single-family houses to be scattered so as not to create any ghettos, McDonald said.

The question of whether people in the low-income bracket take care of such housing was posed by a number of those present. The Levelland men said stipulations in the lease-purchase agreement should require that anyone not taking proper care would be evicted.

The SPCCA is the sponsoring organization to get the program started.

Counties representing 50,000 people are necessary for establishment of the housing authority, and five counties representing the required population already have approved the housing. Commissioners' courts in Garza, Lynn, Terry, Hockley and Cochran have passed on the program, and SPCCA members are seeking to include Lamb, Bailey and Yoakum Counties.

A FIELDTON FARMER, Willie Bailey (Bill) Cook, 48, was seriously injured in a vehicle accident about 6 p.m. Tuesday. Cook was traveling east on FR 54 when he ran off on the right side of the highway and hit a traffic sign. The pickup came back across the roadway and nosed into the culvert in the left bar ditch, according to Highway Patrolman Bill Angel. He was brought to the Medical Arts Hospital, then transferred to the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Fireworks A 'No-No'

City officials are now launching their yearly efforts to prevent injuries to Littlefield citizens from unauthorized use of fireworks, and are reminding citizens that shooting fireworks within the city limits is definitely a "no-no."

The state law defines fireworks as being "firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrocketers, Roman candles, aerial salutes, bombs, cannons, sparklers, squibs and explosive tablets."

Under city ordinance Number 109, "Any person who shall violate this ordinance, or any part of same, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined in any sum not to exceed $100, and each separate sale, giving away, or disposition of any such fireworks or explosives, and each day that any such fireworks or explosives are exhibited shall constitute a separate offense."

Although fireworks are traditional for the celebration of Independence Day in the United States, Littlefield has an ordinance prohibiting them.

Concert Concludes Summer Band Camp

A band concert will be held tonight at 6 p.m. in the Littlefield High School auditorium to conclude the summer band camp activities.

The program will be opened by John McGee's band as they perform "Marching To Pretoria," "Andante" by Haydn, "Camel Train" and "Hoe Down."

Concluding the concert will be Tom SoRelle's band. They will play "March From the Consecration of the House" by Beethoven, "Legionnaires on Parade" directed by Jerry Starkes, and "King of the Road."

The summer band camp has been held for the past two weeks Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 12 noon. Students from Littlefield and Springlake-Earth have attended such activities as section rehearsals, full band rehearsals, marching, theory classes, rhythm studies, drum majoring rehearsals and twirling classes.

Today was the last day for the camp and tonight's concert ends the session. The concert is free and open to the public.

Federal Grant Aids New Mental Center

Representative Bob Price and Senator John Tower have revealed that the Central Plains Comprehensive Community Mental Health/Mental Retardation Center—which serves Bailey, Briscoe, Castro, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Motley, Farmer and Swisher Counties—has been awarded a Federal staffing grant in the amount of $407,119.

This grant, by Health, Education and Welfare, and the National Institute of Mental Health, becomes effective Aug. 1.

The Center, which is in Plainview, will be in full operation with inpatient, outpatient, partial hospitalization, emergency and education and consultation services plus an outreach program, by Aug. 1.

Tax Receipts Up, City Coffer Benefits

Littlefield's city sales tax for the quarter ending March 31 was up 16 1/3 per cent over the same quarter last year.

City sales tax collected in Littlefield for the first reporting period this year totaled $21,885.41. The same quarter for 1970 totaled $18,813.04. This is an increase of $3,072.37, and shows a healthy increase in sales activity.

The quarter ending 1970 and catching the Christmas season added $26,259.95 to the city coffers.

SIX DISEASES INCLUDED

Immunization Program Now Law In State

Lamb County students—as well as all Texas students—must begin an immunization program by Jan. 1, 1972, under legislation which has just been signed into law, according to the Texas Department of Health.

According to Paul I. Jones, superintendent of Littlefield Public Schools, Littlefield has been meeting requirements of the new state law for several years. The new law will make it easier on the Littlefield school system in getting required immunizations made.

The law states that students will be allowed to enter schools this summer and fall, with provision that their immunizations against at least one of six diseases will be started by Jan. 1, and completed as soon as is medically possible.

Immunization against diphtheria, tetanus, poliomyelitis, measles, rubella and smallpox are included in the requirements which are in effect for children entering Texas elementary, secondary schools, or institutions of higher education.

Superintendent Jones stated that youngsters who enter Littlefield schools for the first time—from kindergarten through the twelfth grades—must have the required immunizations. Measles immunization is not required if there is a history of measles illness.

Exclusions from compliance are allowable on an individualized basis for medical contraindications and religious conflicts. Students falling into these categories must submit signed affidavits specified in the new law.

Medical contraindications—The student must present an affidavit signed by a physician, duly registered and licensed under the Medical Practice Act, which it is stated that, in the physicians' opinion, the immunization required would be injurious to the health and well-being of the applicant or any member of his family or household.

Religious conflicts—The student must present "an affidavit signed by the applicant, or if a minor, by his parent or guardian stating that the immunization conflicts with the tenets and practice of a recognized church or religious denomination of which the applicant is an adherent or member; provided, however, that this exemption does not apply in times of emergency or epidemic declared by the Commissioner of Health."

When Mrs. Minnie Carrell, her late husband, Jim, and their two older children came to Littlefield in 1919, Phelps Avenue was muddy ruts and the only businesses in town were the Littlefield Hotel, Lamb County Mercantile, one grocery store and one drug store.

There were about two dozen families, and all lived within six miles of town in every direction. Every Sunday afternoon each family brought a cake and ice cream freezers and everyone gathered at a settler's house for a feast.

Going to the Yellow House Ranch was one of the early day attractions, too. When the Carrells went, they took a big wagon with sides on it and filled it with cow chips, and the chips were burned all winter.

Coyote hunting with big dogs was another pastime. When a coyote was spotted, the dogs were turned loose. "There sure were some fights," Mrs. Carrell said. "There were so many coyotes then. We lost a lot of chickens until we got two wolf hounds, then we didn't have to guard the chickens so close. But every once in a while, one of the dogs would come in all chewed up from a tangle with a coyote."

Several of the settlers had grey hounds, and a good rabbit chase was exciting, too. The Carrells farmed the first two years with two horses and two burros, then they traded the burros for animal power with a little more get up and go. They farmed about 100 acres out on the Oklahoma Avenue Road. The dust bowl days and the Depression made it necessary for Jim to supplement the family income. He helped build the road to Fieldton and to Lubbock.

The road work was done in the winter and spring. And after Carrell put up the land, Mrs. Carrell took over the farming, driving the cultivator and go-devil while he was on construction work.

"I've done up the work in many a blue blizzard," she said.

In the early Twenties, a blizzard froze many of their animals. "In about 1923, a cold spell froze the cows' bags," Mrs. Carrell said. "But that wasn't as bad as a blizzard we had in 1917-18 at Peterburg when all the donkeys' and horses' hooves froze off. Snow was covering one horse up in his stall, and when Mr. Carrell let him out he ran until he dropped dead. Mr. Carrell brought the little calves in the house to keep them from freezing, and we put the chickens in a side room."

Mrs. Carrell has lived on the Plains since 1909 when she and Mr. Carrell were married. They lived at Plainview before a move to Petersburg and then to Littlefield.

"There were some freakish things in those days," she said. "It snowed one July Fourth. And another July Fourth one of our neighbors planted cotton and it still made good bolls.

The Carrells kept three cows and some hogs, and Mrs. Carrell kept chickens and turkeys. The eggs, cream and fryers were their living until they got the crop out. A day in Littlefield started early and they would get home just in time to do up the work.

"When there was a big lot of chickens and turkeys, Mr. Carrell would go to Lubbock with them. It would take two days to go there and back and while he was there he'd buy up a big supply of groceries and dry goods. He'd take the boy with him and buy him a suit, and I'd tell him about what I wanted and he'd pretty good picking out the material for us. We were always proud of everything we got back then — and kids weren't hard to please like they are now."

Iva Dell and Elton rode the first bus Littlefield ever had. (Kitty was born later.) Fritz Lichte drove the homemade bus with seats down each side and an open top.

"When there was a football game, or anything at all, everyone went. Everyone was happy then. I guess that's why people call them 'the good old days.' Everyone did things together. My kids said their daddy entertained them with wild tales of his day. And they run and met him as far away as they could see his wagon."

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marshall were honored by their children with a buffet supper Saturday evening June 26 in their home at 1911 W. Ave E in Muleshoe in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Marshall and Oma Shipp were married August 18, 1921 in Callahan County and left immediately on a move to Collinsworth County by a mule drawn wagon, settling near Lutie to begin a farming operation.

In the late 1920's, they moved to Donley County and farmed west of Clarendon and in the Ashtola community until the early 1940's when they moved to Lamb County and farmed near Fieldton.

Retaining their farming interests at Fieldton, they moved to Erath County, near Hico, in the early 1950's, but returned to the south plains in the early 1960's, settling at Muleshoe where they farmed until the late 1960's when they retired.

The Marshall's experienced many changes in their farming business over the years, having started their first operation with one row and mule drawn equipment and, for several years prior to retirement, operated a fully mechanized business.

Independence Day

AS INDEPENDENCE DAY 1971 approaches, it is well to recall that the Fourth of July means more than shooting off a few fireworks. It marks the point nearly two centuries ago when the United States began to shape its destiny as an independent nation.

THIS YEAR, as we commemorate independence, many are asking whether we are worthy of the freedom we have enjoyed all these years, thanks to the fortitude and purposefulness of our forefathers.

To them, independence meant building a strong nation where individual freedom, under law, the right of property and other basic liberties, could thrive and grow.

They applied their independence to these purposes with fruitful results.

IF THE NATION is now drifting and divided, there can be but one reason. The premises upon which independence was won have been weakened. Some are ashamed of the strength of our nation.

OTHERS QUESTION its laws, its economic system and the institutions under which it has become strong.

They use the independence granted to them nearly 200 years ago to turn the nation away from the principles on which it was founded and upon which it depends for its continued existence.

THOSE WHO ARE grateful for the opportunities and freedom this country has given them should stand up and be counted on Independence Day this year.

"Hey, Mac! Which way to the fire house!"

HONEY GRAYS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

WHATEVER ELSE MIGHT transpire, I launch the charge of treason, and theft against the N. Y. Times and the Washington Post, along with all their cohorts.—May as well name CBS along with them.

Since when is it legal for any person or organization to spirit away secret government documents, whether in the name of the "Peoples-Right-to-Know", or for any other cause?

FOR THE SAKE OF sensationalism and the well known "News-Scoop", is the confession that would be "good-for-the-soul" as far as they may be concerned? If they are so piously claiming concern for the truth, I wonder why they're so afraid to confess it!

Sure, and I suppose they're selling the "Copy", which may be good for their image, as well as their advertisers; but at what price?

THEY, ALONG WITH their dovish sympathizers in Congress have done more to comfort and encourage the enemy than the alliance of Red China and Russia put together! Surely it gives the Cong renewed courage and strength to know that they have so many sympathizers in our country!

They can't be fighting any particular political party, as they're trying to indict every administration, from Truman to the present time. This includes Democrats as well as Republicans. Five presidents—name them!

FURTHER, THEY ARE destroying the confidence of the straight-thinking American in the press, itself. If we can't rely on the news media for straight and unbiased news reporting, then what and who are we to believe?

This kind of thing is the cause of so much unrest in our own country. It has encouraged racial turmoil. It has both publicized and sympathized with the rioters and other lawbreakers and it is breaking down the very moral fibers of the populace, itself.

ALL THIS GOES on for the sake of sensationalism and "Copy-Selling"! Sure, I'm sick of the war-Gut-sick! Still, tho, somewhere in the dim recesses of my make-up, I still have a love for my country and some pride in it. I hate to see it sold out and ravaged to shame for the sake of some big-name byline!

MOST OF US in time past, have bewailed the idea of playing "Big-Brother" to so much of the world. It has cost billions in tax-dollars and many lives but at the same time, we've been proud that it was US that was able to do it!

Surely, we recognize the truth of the Scripture, when it says: "A house divided against itself cannot stand!" Yet, so much of our news media are dedicated to the sowing of this kind of unrest and hatred!

I LIVE TO see the day when newscasting, or writing will be given as such. That EDITORIALIZING will be kept separate, apart and clearly identified! Certainly, the twain shouldn't meet. My greatest fear for us, is not from outside our borders, but, from the forces that work within our own people. The spirit of defeatism and compromise are hard to overcome. Seems to me, it's about time we let our administration know we're NOT ashamed of our country, and still believe in it!

AND, A SPECIAL PHOOEY to those upper crust papers!! This is an editorial.

PAUL HARVEY

Madame President - - How Soon?

DID YOU HEAR what she said? The 1971 Miss America in the Miss Universe Contest, blonde Michele McDonald of Butler, Pa. She, 18, says her ambition during her year is to talk to the President of the United States... about his job!

How soon a "Madam President"? Between next year's election and November of the year 2,000 there will be 8 presidential elections. Surely one of those elections will include a woman running for Vice President.

IT COULD HAPPEN sooner than later. In the last presidential election in 1968, more women than men were eligible to vote; 4,750,000 more.

Some political party—probably the Democrats who historically are more imaginative, more innovative—will try to strengthen a weak ticket by running a woman for Vice President.

Also, history says Vice Presidents have been becoming Presidents with increasing frequency. It is quite likely, therefore, that you and I will live to see one.

NATIONAL LEADERSHIP for a woman is not without precedent. England made her greatest strides under Elizabeth I, consolidated her greatest empire under Victoria. If there had been no Queen Isabella in Spain, willing to hock her jewelry to purchase three pint-size boats you and I might not yet have been discovered.

Jayne Baker of Spain is a director of Litton Industries. She says more and more of the issues which are becoming uppermost in debates of our time are equally the concerns of men and women.

She means the gut issues: war, crime, inflation, pollution. The protection of our offspring and the cost of living and the safety of our streets and the preservation of our environment may be of greater concern to the nesting gender.

IT WILL NOT BE a militant Women's Lib movement which produces a woman President; not directly. But there is a vast number of America's women—less than militant but nonetheless sympathetic—who will be encouraged by the trailblazers.

Miss Spain says it will be the "time and the special events of the time" which, coupled with the increasing competence of women, will produce a woman President.

Miss Spain says she abhors the idea of putting a woman on the ticket just because she is a woman; realistic, she realizes that will be the breakthrough.

WHY NOT NOW? Women would not vote for a woman now. Even as with their TV and movie preferences women feel less threatened by men than by other women.

Women prefer male employers because, contrary to the popular misconception, it is men who "think with their emotions" where women are concerned. Women are accustomed to getting what they want from men.

The next generation of women, more self-confident, will be prepared to compete on merit, will be ready to support one of their own.

You and I will live to see a woman President; you may live to be one.

Benefits Available For War Veterans

Questions posed by veterans to VA offices frequently show the veteran is in doubt about the time factor of applying for some benefits, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director in Waco.

"Our office has prepared this time table on benefits to assist veterans and their families," Coker added.

The countdown for the veteran starts from the day of his separation from the service. Coker said a veteran has 10 days to notify any local Selective Service Board of his address and 30 days to register if he did not do so before entering military service.

If a veteran wants his old job back he has 90 days to apply to his former employer for re-employment.

He has 120 days to convert his Servicemen's Group Life Insurance (SGLI) to an individual policy without examination. If totally disabled at separation, a veteran has up to one year if his condition does not change, to convert his insurance.

In either case, he must apply for the policy to one of the nearly 600 private companies participating in the SGLI program.

A veteran with a service-connected disability has one year from the date he receives his notice of service-connection to apply to VA for Service-Disabled Veterans Insurance.

He also has one year to apply for VA dental care, or to request employment compensation from his local state employment service.

Veterans have eight years from date of separation to apply for and receive educational assistance benefits, which terminate after that time.

For a veteran with a service-connected injury or disease, there is no time limit for applying for VA disability compensation, but in order to receive payments dated from the time of his separation from military service, he must apply within one year of separation.

There is no time limit for a veteran to be assisted by his local state employment service in finding a job or job-training program.

Nor is there a time limit, to obtain hospital care, or to obtain a GI loan to buy, build, or improve a home or to buy a farm.

For more details, veterans should contact their local VA office, local veterans service organization representatives, or County Service Officers. The VA office in Lubbock is located at 1205 Texas Avenue. Information may also be obtained by writing the VA Regional Office, 1400 North Valley Mills Drive, Waco, Texas 76710.

Feed A Hippie?

We asked a non-working hippie recently: "How do you eat?" He smiled and responded: "My friends feed me. I've never been hungry."

"Where," we persisted, "do your friends get what they give you?" He smiled again, waved his hand and said: "Maybe they have wealthy parents."

That may be the story in some cases but it's not the whole story. Bill Fiset wrote recently in the Oakland, Calif., Tribune about how you as a working taxpayer are financing hippies. Mr. Fiset gave the case of a specific hippie:

"He boasts that for 50 cents he buys a $28 worth of (food) stamps...Each week he uses the stamps to buy exactly $27.51 worth of groceries and gets 49 cents back in cash as change, the maximum amount of cash change he can get on a purchase. Then he adds one penny for the 50 cents to get his $28 worth of stamps for the next week. The fourth week of the month he sells his food stamps to friends for $15 cash. Thus in a month he's paid out 53 cents for $112 worth of stamps, for which he gets $83.51 worth of food and $14.47 net profit in cash. From the food stamp saleswoman: "Can you imagine how this adds up when you have 15 hippie kids living in a commune house, all doing the same thing? No wonder they laugh at the Establishment." No wonder welfare programs are in trouble."

You may be taking a hippie to lunch without knowing about it. And the hippies are certainly taking you for a ride.

The Psychology Of Childhood

It's said that teenagers are at the awkward age—yet some teenagers, in manner and bearing, are clearly adults while others are still children. What makes the difference? Leading psychologists say—you!

STUDIES MADE
An important and revealing study has been conducted by Dr. Stanley Coopersmith, child psychologist at the University of California.

In an effort to determine what methods are used in rearing healthy and mature children, Dr. Coopersmith found that strictness combined with parental acceptance was most often present in homes getting good results.

The study takes a new look at the area of human personality which psychologists call self-esteem—in this case, the picture of the growing teenager as of himself.

This "picture"—another psychologist, William Wattenberg of Wayne University, calls it—"colors the way the teenager embarks on all activities which make up his agenda."

SELF-ESTEEM
Convinced that self-esteem is an essential but often neglected ingredient in every child's development, Dr. Coopersmith feels its importance cannot be overemphasized.

One of the ways a child will develop self-esteem is to be treated by his parents with respect and consideration.

As Marguerite and Willard teacher have noted in their lively book "Parents on the Run": "The manner in which we live with children is what teaches them, not what we tell them."

In addition to approaching the adolescent child in a way which imparts these feelings of self-respect to him, parents should be interested in, and sensitive to, the problems which are special to him.

Dr. Coopersmith's study revealed: "Children would be better behaved and happier if parents showed an interest in their affairs."

INDEPENDENCE
As he moves from childhood, independence becomes very important for the teenager to feel independent and to be accepted by a group of people close to him in age and interest—to be "one of the gang."

Dr. August B. Hollingshead, chairman of the Sociology Department of Yale, has noted: "In the childhood years, two or

Five Jailed

Five persons were jailed this week on charges of DWI, failure to appear and drunk.

Edwin McBride, indicted by a grand jury earlier on charges of malicious destruction of property, failed to appear, and a new bond of $6,000 was set. Jimmy Doaker, 42, of Littlefield, was arrested by county deputies Sunday on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and was released after paying a $100 fine plus $42 court cost.

An 18-year-old, Armando Campos, of Lubbock was arrested by patrolmen Sunday and charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released Monday after paying a fine and cost of $142.

One male and one female were arrested on drunk charges and released the following day after paying $25 fines.

three friends often chum together, but in adolescence to be a member of a special set becomes extremely important."

STANDARDS SET

It is the group's taste in music, recreation, and clothes that sets the standard for most teenage behavior. As Dr. Wattenberg says: "Any adult trying to figure out what makes any boy or girl 'tick' will have to get a picture of that youngster's ties with his or her age-mates."

This need for the group, which most teenagers have, may be both puzzling and annoying to parents. Why? Because parents often see the demands of the group becoming more important than their control and influence over their child.

DON'T FIGHT

The solution is, don't fight 'em—join 'em—as an interested, helpful advisor. Buyers from Sears, Roebuck who have the responsibility for spotting trends, offer this tip: "Teenage fashions are designed as symbols of group acceptance—of 'belonging', so spend some time discussing clothes with your teenager. It shows you recognize his need to 'fit-in' and thus builds rapport between you."

Your sympathetic awareness of his needs and your willingness to let him make independent decisions about his clothes and appearance will result in his thinking your guidance is great.

Margaret Mead has said: "We must train our adolescents to choose, teach them how to think, not WHAT to think and present them with choices so that they will learn to weigh alternatives."

POPULARITY

Another source of puzzling behavior to parents is the concern many young people, particularly in junior high school, have for their health, appearance and physique. In their ever-expanding social world, popularity is important. Strength and skill, nice clothes and good looks are what he is judged by.

Grown-ups dealing with teenagers need to appreciate the desire for improvement and acceptance which causes this preoccupation, and to anticipate the problems which arise from such adolescent headaches as physical awkwardness and acne.

SKIN PROBLEMS

Dr. Wattenberg finds: "an almost universal worry among adolescents has to do with blemishes on their skin. To the adult who knows that usually these difficulties will soon vanish, a pimply-faced boy or girl may be amusing. To the youngster, the condition is far from funny. It seems to him that it will last forever and may permanently prevent social acceptance."

Can you help? Yes; with more and more schools requiring regular physical check-ups, you have a greater opportunity to detect and prevent the spread of acne in your child.

CONTACT PHYSICIAN

Your family doctor or school physician can recommend changes in your child's diet, and put you years ahead in the control of acne.

For a teenager with a visible condition, medication and cosmetic aids are available.

Sensitive handling of many of the problems that arise during the "awkward years" can be achieved if parents act decisively—guided by love and understanding, and a strong sense of what is right and wrong for the teenager as well as for themselves.

Banks Grass Mite Threat To Sorghum

The number one threat to Texas' number one grain crop, grain sorghum, may well be the Banks grass mite in 1971 because of its growing resistance to formerly effective chemical treatment.

This pesky mite is posing the latest and most serious threat among the many pest problems which put a big management load on growers.

Texas Tech University Entomology Prof. Charles R. Ward said the mite problem is aggravated by necessary greenbug control. Greenbugs attack emerging plants, and although these insects can be destroyed by chemicals, the process causes Banks grass mites to build up resistance to the chemicals formerly useful in their control. When the mites follow the greenbugs into the field this year, there is evidence that they could wield a "free reign," Dr. Ward said.

The mites suck juices from the plant. Where water is limited, the plants go into severe water stress which weakens them and makes them more susceptible to disease. At harvest, extensive lodging may occur—both as the result of the mite attack and subsequent diseases—making the harvest difficult.

The solution, according to Ward, could lie in a combination chemical and biological control program.

In looking for a new control, Ward pointed out that alternative chemicals must be found that can be registered for use on grain sorghum or corn. Registration is under the control of the federal Environmental Protection Agency which requires that the chemicals be effective, constitute no public health hazard, leave a residue at harvest that is within an established tolerance limit and do not cause bad side effects.

"New chemicals will have to be found," Ward said, "but it is important to look at some of the known predators of the Banks grass mite because these could offer additional biological control possibilities."

"Chemical control is only a temporary measure to reduce mite damage until alternate, more effective and, in the long run, cheaper methods of control can be developed."

Ward added that sorghum producers need to look also at the sugarcane rootstock weevil, although it is not as dangerous to this year's crop as the Banks grass mite. Because this insect has only recently been discovered in large numbers on the Texas Plains, reasonable recommendations for control cannot be made because chemical control data for this area are not available, he explained.

"In regard to this insect," he said, "insecticide screening tests are desperately needed so that data will be available on which to base proper recommendations."

Ward also proposed that weevil populations be monitored on a continuing basis, so that some advance warning of any large infestation might be afforded producers during the coming season.

The Entomology Section of Texas Tech's College of Agricultural Sciences, he said, also is concerned with developing the life history and habits of the weevil in West Texas in order to understand better any future problems it may cause.

Although other pests affect sorghum harvests, Ward said, they are not as critical this year as the Banks grass mite and the sugarcane rootstock weevil.

In addition to the troublesome greenbug and the corn leaf aphid, the corn earworm and the southwestern corn borer may increase as the corn acreage is increased, he said. Stinkbug infestations may depend more upon the maturity date of forage crops. In the case of false chinch bugs, the proximity of pasture land to the grain sorghum crop is a factor.

Ward and others in the Entomology Section of the Department of Park Administration, Horticulture and Entomology have worked with past controls for grain sorghum since 1961 and have had particular success with their studies on the grain sorghum midge. Their research has been conducted not only in West Texas but as far away as Argentina and Hawaii.

Labor Management Workshop Scheduled

Some of the "do's and don't's" of managing labor for a more effective and efficient operation will be discussed at a Labor Management Workshop in Littlefield at 8 p.m. Thursday, July 15.

The workshop will be conducted at Lamb County Electric Co-op Building, according to County Agricultural Agent Buddy C. Logsdon.

Featured speaker will be Kenneth Wolf of College Station, economist in agribusiness with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Wolf is a recognized authority in problems of labor use and management and should present an informative program, points out Logsdon.

The objective of the workshop is to aid managers in staying abreast of rapidly changing conditions in labor management and in improving the internal operations of their businesses.

New techniques will be discussed for (1) determining labor needs, (2) getting ready to hire, (3) locating labor, (4) actual hiring, (5) breaking-in new workers, (6) training workers, (7) maintaining productive workers and (8) delegating authority and responsibility to workers.

All managers of grain elevators, gins, farm service businesses and others interested in labor management are encouraged to attend.

The workshop is being sponsored by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture and the Lamb County Program Building Committee and the Extension Service in cooperation with the South Plains Development (SPD) program and "3.76 in '76," the statewide Extension Program designed to increase agricultural income by $1 billion by 1976.
