Home Nursing Course to Begin Here Monday

Family Living Committee is offering a free home nursing care course and cardio pulmonary education course in Littlefield, Monday, June 17, at the Lamb County Electric Company building. Lamb County residents will be given the opportunity to save money on home care costs, because there are many people who need nursing care at home. There is a great demand for sitters and nursing mothers. Glen Woody of Lubbock, instructor for Red Cross, will lead the course to be held every Monday for three weeks. Fees have been set for three times a week to provide a convenient time for everyone. Times are 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

who do need continued supportive services and supervision." An average day of hospital care costs the patient $100. This cost, for many persons, could be cut to less than $10 per day if persons in their home were trained in home nursing. One out of eight patients hospitalized today could be maintained at home if proper training was received. This is due mainly to shortened lengths of stay in the hospital. Besides lessened cost, many patients prefer home care and often improve faster at home. Persons interested in taking the course are asked to call Mrs. Abernathy at 385-3005 or Hope at 385-5425, or write Box 432, Littlefield.

Charles Edwards, assistant director of the health department of Education and Welfare says, because of the changing age composition of our population and the dramatic increase in long-term care, the patient's own home is receiving increased attention as a care center. Home-centered care is best for chronically ill and older patients who do not require institutional care but

Arson Charge Filed, Arrests Made

Martinez was jailed Monday after reportedly setting out his family's possessions. He was released from jail Friday after posting a $5,000 bond. The house was located two and a half miles south of Spade, and was owned by an Oklahoma man. Dean Martinez rented the house for the man who lost her clothing and furniture. She wears a size 16 or 18 dress and boys wear sizes 10, 14 and 16. Shirts and shoes in sizes 5D and 6D. Mattresses have been donated, and sheets are on the floor and beds are needed along with other household furnishings. Clothing and furniture may be taken to Cresencia Fuentes at 801 W. 7th or can be taken to the Lamb County Community Service Center on the Springlake Highway 385 north and they will be delivered. In other arrests over the weekend, an Earth man was charged with assault with a motor vehicle after running a car off the road. His bond was set at $1,000. An Amherst man was charged with driving while intoxicated Saturday and fined $147. An alien with him was released to the border patrol. A Circle man was arrested on a warrant from Castro County and turned over to Dimmitt authorities.

Cloud Seeding Suit Being Tried In Court

Lawyers for the plaintiffs called seven witnesses to the stand Friday in the district suit seeking to stop cloud seeding operations over specified portions of land owned or operated by persons in portions of land in Lamb, Hockley, Cochran, Hale and Deaf Smith Counties.

The courtroom was crowded throughout the first day of testimony, with only standing room available at times.

Ross Lumsden led the parade of witnesses. Lumsden is president of Farmers and Ranchers for Natural Weather.

Atmospherics and Better Weather, Inc. and Plains Weather Improvement Association are named in the petition asking for a temporary injunction. In the petition, the plaintiffs claim rights to air space and whatever type atmospheric conditions occur as the result of the space above their ground.

This is the first suit ever filed in Texas against a hail suppression program, and a ruling over atmospheric space above property could be as significant as rulings over who owns underground water rights.

Testimony continued Saturday and is expected to go through Monday and Tuesday.

In addition to Lumsden's testimony, plaintiffs called Dean Elms of Littlefield, Robert Harrel Layton of Enochs, Frank C. "Curly" Daugherty of Olton, Dewayne Keeler of Levelland, Charles Lewis Burt of Pep and Wayne Wilkinson.

All of the witnesses except Wilkinson are farmers and ranchers. Wilkinson is chief pilot of the Atmospherics, Inc. Littlefield based program. Friday evening's recess followed the plaintiff's questioning of the pilot.

The six farmers and ranchers all testified to clouds in their area which they had reason to believe could or would have produced rainfall. Because of planes, which each said he believed to be seeding clouds, they testified that they felt they did not receive the amount of precipitation they would have if planes had not been in the area.

Because Wilkinson was not cross examined—which in turn prevents any arguments for the defendants—and because of the Leader-News' early Saturday morning printing schedule, a complete story on Friday's proceedings and testimony Saturday will be presented in the next paper.

County Agent Gives Replanting Pointers On Damaged Cotton

By BUDDY LOGSDON
County Extension Agent

Heavy rains and damaging hail storms in northern and eastern parts of Lamb County the past few days will require some important decisions on replanting cotton.

Planting in June means an extremely short growing season, yet many farmers indicate they'll replant their cotton provided the fields dry out in time and if there isn't additional rainfall.

This week Logsdon surveyed some damaged cotton fields in the path of the weekend storms.

"Since we can expect less than normal yields even with ideal weather the remainder of the season," he explains, "decisions about which cotton varieties to use and other practices to follow will be critical."

"First, producers should select varieties that mature fast.

Unfortunately, there is not a variety that combines both verticillium tolerance and earliness.

Verticillium wilt is generally not as serious in late planted cotton and the need for wilt tolerant varieties is not as critical.

Any practice that encourages earliness is the key to profitability in late planted cotton. Furthermore, earliness can be achieved by replanting cotton on double rows or some narrow row pattern rather than standard row width. This will require some arrangement for harvesting. But any of the recommended varieties will mature faster by simply planting in double row. A few days gained in earliness becomes vitally important in late planted cotton.

As for planting rates in late planted cotton, research has shown that 60,000 plants per acre is an ideal population for late cotton. This requires a planting rate of 20 to 25 pounds per acre. For double row cotton, 30 to 35 pounds of seed per acre is sufficient.

Herbicide residue is frequently a problem in replanting, Logsdon says. Generally, when replanting cotton on land treated with Caporat, seeding injury can be avoided by going down to four inches or more below the soil surface. Most soils in the hail area are heavy enough to avoid excessive downward movement of herbicide.

Similar conditions exist when replanting grain sorghum, he adds. On soils treated with Milogard, going down at least four inches below the surface should get out of the herbicide treated area.

Later decisions concerning irrigation must also be considered after late cotton is up and growing, the County Agent points out. Because the yield potential for late planted cotton is

Seminar Planned, Festivities Days Discussed

A small but enthusiastic crowd attended Thursday night's Chamber of Commerce meeting where the emphasis was placed on a workshop seminar and Festivities Days.

The seminar, "Putting It Together, The Organization and You," will be held Tuesday evening, June 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lamb County Electric Co-op.

The workshop is for officers, committee heads and members of any "volunteer" organization. It is designed to give members of any organization a better insight as to what their job actually is, and will show how to get the most mileage out of the organization.

The workshop, which is approximately 2 1/2 hours in length, is available at a cost of $5 per person.

Conducting the seminar will be Roy Faubion and Jim Tucker of Hereford and sponsored by the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture.

The emphasis will be on People Power and "Putting It All Together."

Prizes were selected for Festivities Days and will include a trip to Hawaii for two, 1/2 beef (cut and wrapped), a set of four of the Littlefield Commemorative coins and a bicycle.

Several booth assignments were made for the celebration which will be Aug. 23 and 24. All organizations which desire booths, and have not made reservations, are urged to contact the chamber office (385-4451) as soon as possible.

Fifteen local persons attended the meeting.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was laid with a white cloth with gathered floor-length lace overlay. The centerpiece was an arrangement of blue organza roses, candles and a pair of blue birds for the happiness of the couple. The four-tiered wedding cake carried out the flower motif in the cake garland and was served with punch by Miss Verena Stagner and Miss Pam Bales.

From the groom's table a double wedding ring chocolate cake was served. A candle arrangement and silver coffee service complimented the white linen cloth covering the table. Miss Debra Pryor and Miss Karen Drake of Littlefield, cousins of the groom, presided at the table.

Miss Linda Weaver played piano selections during the reception.

McAnally-Whiteaker Vows Taken In Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony Friday evening, June 14, double ring nuptials were repeated by Miss Linda Diane McAnally and Gerry Brent Whiteaker in the First United Methodist Church of Littlefield.

Presiding minister for the reading of the vows was Rev. David Hamblin of Aldersgate Methodist Church of Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. John Winston McAnally of Littlefield are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whiteaker of Sudan.

The nuptial altar was decorated with a large hurricane lamp candle tree with pink and white gladiolas, baby's breath and daisies centered beneath the cross. Smaller hurricane lamp candle trees of huckleberry and baby's breath were placed on either side. These were flanked by two pedestal arrangements of baskets filled with the pink and white gladiolas, daisies and other greenery with pink and white checked bows accenting the sides of the baskets.

The memory candle was centered within an arrangement of pink roses, baby's breath and English ivy upon the communion table. Below this was the kneeling bench, also decorated in baby's breath and English ivy. The communion rails on either side of the aisle were decorated with six hurricane lamps, three on either side. English ivy and baby's breath accented them. Other were votive candles nestled in ivy in the side windows of the church.

While the couple knelt at the altar "The Wedding Prayer" was sung by Miss Venita Whiteaker, sister of the groom. She also presented vocal selections of "Sunrise, Sunset" and "One Hand, One Heart" while Mrs. Al Chambers accompanied her on the organ.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, John W. McAnally, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza fashioned with a deep scoop neckline edged with heavy Venetian lace. Appliques of Venetian lace were featured on the deep cuffed lantern style sleeves. Venetian lace also formed an overlay on the empire bodice which was connected to a softly gathered a-line skirt extending to a chapel length train. A deep self ruffle formed the hemline of the skirt and train. Three tiers of illusion extended from her Juliet cap of Venetian lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, baby's breath and stephanotis atop her lace covered white Bible.

For something old, the bride wore a gold wedding band belonging to her maternal great-grandmother. Something new was a single strand of cultured pearls given to the bride as a gift from the groom. She wore her mother's pearl earrings for something borrowed, and for something new she wore the traditional blue garter. She also wore a sixpence in her shoe, a gift from her brother.

Miss Debra Kay McAnally, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Attendants were Miss Jeanie Reast of Littlefield, Miss Shelly Grant of Lubbock, and Miss Terri Lynn Martin of Redmond, Washington.

The attendants wore identical gowns of large pink and white checked gingham fashioned in a colonial style with a high rolled collar, long full cuffed sleeves and a six inch ruffle at the hemline. Over the gowns they wore white eyelet pinafores with large eyelet ruffles extending over the shoulder and a tie sash in the back. The hem of the pinafore was edged in tiny eyelet lace. They carried pink and white check gingham parasols with self ruffling around the top edge and center. Nosegays of pink rosebuds and ribbons were nestled in the crook of the handles. Extending from the handle was a heavy cascade of baby pink ribbon caught in love knots. Cascading pink organza flowerets down the back of the hair served as the headpieces.

Wayne Whiteaker, father of the groom, served his son as best man. Groomsman were Delon Walker and Glenn Short, both of Littlefield, and Donnie Graves of Muleshoe. Ushers were Larry Baker of Sudan and Doug Cummings of Amherst. John Scott McAnally, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer. Liz Harlan of San Angelo registered guests from a table covered with a pink and white checked tablecloth topped with a wicker basket filled with scrolls.

The bride's mother wore a carpet length gown of pastel pink floral polyester with white accessories. She wore a cluster of fresh flowers in her hair and her corsage consisted of two cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother wore a carpet length gown of blue knit with white accessories. Her corsage also consisted of two cymbidium orchids.

In the reception, which immediately followed, the bride and groom were joined by their parents in receiving the guests.

The bride's table was laid with a ruffled pink and white checked gingham cloth accented by a white eyelet runner edged in lace. The centerpiece was a silver candelabra entwined with English ivy and baby's breath. The three tiered white cake featured fresh pink rosebuds and baby's breath bursting from atop the cake and between each layer. Miss Karol Terry of Canyon, served the cake while Miss Tonya Pickrell of Lubbock served the pink strawberry punch from a candlewick crystal bowl. Pink and white sandwiches and mints were served from silver trays.

The groom's table featured a gold candelabra entwined with English ivy atop a lime green burlap cloth trimmed in white fringe. A two layered chocolate cake topped by two white doves and English ivy was served by Mrs. Johnny King of Sudan. Serving coffee from a gold coffee service was Miss Debbie Sorley of Lubbock. Nuts were also served from a gold bon-bon dish.

Other members of the house party were Mmes. Billy Williams, Ross Lumsden, Harry E. Woody, Billy Tom Grant, M. J. Cotter, Bobby Short, John Terry, Lloyd Lust, Glen Robertson, R. M. Nicholas, Jr., Buck Oldham, Buster Owens, Jr., Danny Short, Charles Hinds, Jim Williams, Bob Roden, and LaQuintha Clark. For their trip, the bride wore a pink and white checked suit dress with pink and white polka-dot collar and cuffs extending from beneath the checks. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. After returning from their wedding trip to Dallas the couple will reside at Route 1, Sudan where the groom farms.

Both are Littlefield High School graduates and the bride is presently a sophomore at South Plains Junior College where she will continue this fall. The groom attended SPC and Texas Tech University.

Making Lungs Last

PEOPLE WHO HAVE long-term disease need a chock-full survival kit. But too many have no kit at all.

The greatest difficulty in the treatment of people with long-lasting diseases is the patient's lack of knowledge about his or her disease and how to live best with it.

WHERE SHOULD the patient fill the knowledge gap? The American Hospital Association says, "Every individual has the major responsibility to protect his own health and to encourage people to take care of themselves to the maximum extent possible. More hospital education programs are being developed to teach people how to exercise their own responsibility." Too, physicians and other members of the health team should be sure the patient knows what he or she needs to know.

For example, too many patients with emphysema are never even told that the major cause of this disease is cigarette smoking. So they continue to puff away and inflict even more damage to their crippled lungs.

TO CORRECT such situations, Dr. Donnell D. Eitzwiler of Minneapolis, proposes a formal medical contract between patient and physician, spelling out clearly what each is to provide, and what each expects from the other.

People have to take greater responsibility for their own health. Health professionals need to take more time and care to fulfill their commitments.

Older Texans--A Good Resource

MAY MARKED the 12th national observance of Older Americans Month, and one authority on aging in Texas says older people in the state are an "un-tapped resource."

She's Mrs. Vivian Blair, family life education—aging—specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

CITING RESOURCES of Texas' 962,059 residents over 65, the specialist named "time, experience, wisdom and judgment among resources some young—and some older—people haven't accepted as fact yet. They do not recognize what our aging population has to offer," she says.

"Time—something the older Texan has much of—ranks high on the list of resources—and it can be used for personal, neighborhood or community benefit, as many older Texans are proving," Mrs. Blair notes.

SHE EXPLAINED that many older Texans are involved in personal activities, such as reading, exercise, art work, gardening or cooking—while others visit shut-ins or read to the blind in their neighborhoods.

Community activities reflect an increasing involvement of older Texans among volunteer workers, the specialist said. They work in community hospitals, libraries, schools or museums.

"OTHER VALUABLE resources, especially those of experience, wisdom and judgement, are gained from long, useful lives—and these can be shared with younger people in the community for mutual benefit," Mrs. Blair explained.

Crime Prevention

THE SCENE is an average neighborhood in Texas.

A would-be burglar stalks one of the homes; he sees that all doors appear to be securely locked and windows are shut. He walks to the rear of the house and disquietedly sees no signs of invited opportunity.

Before he can leave the area, a police patrol car stops him and checks his identification. The police were summoned when an alert neighbor reported a suspicious man near the home of an out-of-town family.

WHAT COULD HAVE been a financial tragedy was averted because of the public information campaign being conducted by Governor Briscoe's Crime Prevention Program.

The pilot project, funded by the Governor's Criminal Justice Divisions, is one of the first comprehensive programs of its type in the United States. Six cities—Amarillo, Abilene, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Odessa, and Waco—are involved in the massive public information effort.

BY SYSTEMATICALLY using the mass media, making community talks, neighborhood visits, and on-premise inspections, the anti-crime drive is striking at the heart of residential and commercial burglary-opportunity.

Governor Briscoe commented on the state's staggering burglary rate when he formally approved project funding. He said, "Most burglaries are due to the oversight of a few simple security measures. Targets of opportunity in burglary are easy to recognize and eliminate: a door left unlocked, an open window, an open garage door, or a yard strewn with newspapers—an indication that a family is gone and their home unattended.

"Statewide emphasis on the prevention of this type of costly crime should make a significant impact on disabling the fast-moving cycle of crime.

"The success of any program of this nature, which is totally dedicated to crime prevention, is the ability of the police to encourage citizen involvement plus the citizens' genuine willingness to protect themselves.

"If Texans will take the common sense approach of securing their homes at all times, we can witness a great decrease in burglary victimization."

THE GOVERNOR favored the six-city approach because it would demonstrate a unification of police effort on a statewide basis to cause a reduction in crime. With a strong united front, other police agencies are now interested in preventing crime before it occurs. Many inquiries are coming from other states. The campaign utilizes a concept relatively new in the United States. In this country, police have neglected the area of security, relying solely on apprehension after the fact.

CRIME PREVENTION, on the other hand, involves anticipation, recognition and appraisal of the crime risk, plus action to remove or make that risk less attractive.

All officers assigned to the crime prevention units in the six cities have been graduated from the National Crime Prevention Institute in Louisville, Kentucky.

"These officers are now specially trained to anticipate and reorganize crime risks in their communities. They are going directly into the neighborhoods, advising the property owner and working with them to devise the least expensive methods of removing the risks," states Williams R. Corbett, CJD crime prevention project coordinator.

HE ADDED, "Police are really the second line of defense. As Governor Briscoe has said, 'the primary responsibility for implementing crime prevention measures belongs to the citizen.'"

The stated goal of the program is to reduce the incidence of burglary by 18 percent the first year; 30 percent in the fifth year.

L. Everett January of the Waco Police Department Crime Prevention Unit typifies the approach the new program takes toward crime reduction.

January and his counterparts take their crime prevention expertise directly to the public on a people-to-people basis. They survey businesses and homes to point out weaknesses in security, then make recommendations.

These may consist of replacing existing doors with solid wood doors, deadbolt locks, or other measures that would strengthen the home or business against a criminal attack and reduce the percentage of theft.

AN AUSTIN public relations firm was selected to design and produce spot announcements for radio and television use for each phase of the campaign. Stories for newspaper use on crime prevention techniques are also prepared with the help of each designated crime prevention unit. Early reports show that all media have responded by giving unlimited free space to educate the public on methods of self-protection.

In addition to mass education, the crime prevention specialist will talk to citizens in their homes, whether it's one family or a gathering of a neighborhood.

THEY USE demonstration props and films to tell the story of how best to protect family and property.

The "consultants against crime," as they are called, are becoming highly sought-after civic security advisors. Community leaders are becoming excited about the prospect of learning how to make it hard on the criminal element who steal millions of dollars of property yearly.

L.T. JANUARY, in speaking to a Waco meeting, expressed the Governor's Crime Prevention Program in a nutshell. "Crime is getting worse, not better. And that's not propaganda. People don't want to get involved. They

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

IN TRYING to write this column, to say the things that might be of help to those who may read it, I try to visualize those I am writing to.

I realize many of you do not need encouragement as you have no real problems as most of us encounter as we walk the road of life, so I try to direct my thoughts to those who do.

VERY FEW people escape the trials of this world if they live the usual life span, and when we are faced with tragedy, or hard situations we need to know where to go to find help.

The lawyer has his large library of legal books he keeps in his office for that purpose. The doctor turns to his medical journals, or his books for help. He studies constantly to keep up with the latest discoveries in medical science. We need to do the same thing to know how to live our lives.

THE HOLY BIBLE contains all we need to live by. We need to study it, as well as other spiritual writing, or good literature written by people who have experienced hardships and have overcome them.

We need to turn to the one true ruler of the universe, that possesses all power both in heaven and on earth. "Bert", you say to me, "there are other powers." Yes, there are, but none as strong or as powerful.

THERE IS NONE as far-seeing, or as kind and benevolent. There is none as understanding, or that loves as much as He does. He is supreme.

Sometimes we are faced with overwhelming situations that seem beyond the power of anyone to solve. Of course death is one of them, and the last great foe we must face, but the God who created us can go with us through death, also.

DEATH TO GOD is nothing to fear. It is only transition and He sees the other side. To Him it is the beginning of real life.

We hate the thought of leaving this world. There is still much we would like to do—so many unfinished things. Then we hate to leave our families and those we love, whom we feel may need us. Again we have to turn to the one true God who is able to care for them, even as He has cared for us all these years.

MANY TIMES I have faced hard situations and have had a feeling of fear until I remember all the times in the past He has helped me through.

Then I think how silly I am to be afraid when I have Him by my side, and He has proven Himself over and over many times.

MY HEART then turns to words of praise. I know I am not alone and nothing can separate me from the love of God—not height, nor depths, nor powers, or principalities, nor life or death.

Nothing will ever be able to separate me from the love of God, demonstrated by our Lord Jesus Christ when He died for us.

WE NEED not fear for those we leave behind, nor for ourselves in the beyond for He is with us—our Lord and our God.

In fact, he cautions, yields of late cotton can be more easily reduced by too much water. So when yield potential is down the need for water and fertilizer is reduced.

Lagsdon says that the latest practical date for planting cotton is June 15-20.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Things We Must Do

By W. P. McElroy

WE MUST DO SOME THINGS, and this includes some things we do not want to do. This is a very important phase of living, and our degree of maturity will determine how well we perform.

What we do in this area will be a very critical factor in the formation of our life pattern. If we are foolish enough to resent and fight against the reality of this obligation, we will be creating problems for ourselves.

This is not all of the damage we do. We also deny ourselves one of the most effective means of personal development. In doing the things we do not want to do, but must do; we will develop some of the most helpful personal characteristics. When we do these things with good attitudes, the profits will be much greater.

"BEING FORCED TO WORK, being forced to do our best, will breed in us qualities of self-control, of temperance, diligence, strength of will which the idle, the ungrateful, and undisciplined will never know." -P. McElroy.

SOME THINGS will never be done, until and unless we do them. These are needs which no one else can supply, or duties which are peculiarly our duties. The losses caused by our failures to do these things will, of course, vary according to the nature of the duty we slight.

In addition to this loss, we will be damaging ourselves by not using these opportunities for personal betterment.

IF WE ARE DILIGENT in seeing and doing the things that only we can do, we will tap one of the greatest satisfactions. No action can give us better about ourselves, and each performed improves the character.

"NO MAN'S SPIRITS" were by doing his duty. On the good action, one temptation overcome, one sacrifice of interest purely for conscience will prove a cordial for spirits far beyond what indulgence, or diversion, or do for them." -Paley.

Another class of things done are those which, in ourselves, could be left undone cannot afford to leave them. They are related, in one way to other things which are our diligent concern and attention.

We must be alert enough to this relationship, and wise ahead and do these things which are done in order to help things that do justify the action.

DOING THESE unjustified often means that we are letting take advantage of us, or of our. When this is the case, we must realize this realization blind us to the of acting wisely and cheerfully that we may protect the things to which the unjustified related.

WE MUST DO SOME THINGS we do not want to do.

Low lead fuels will not do. It must be lead free, or it's sure to play hob with some pretty expensive equipment.

JUST TO PROVE how things can get, if you remember companies used the addition of an excuse to raise the price of a good many years ago.

Now that the unleaded is coming into demand, they're going to have to raise the price. The reason, they say, is because have to raise the octane rating fuel to compensate for the lead!

THE NATIONAL Association of Home Builders has launched a new nationwide plan for insuring new homes and condominiums for ten years.

Considering the rush from the cities to suburban and rural areas in many parts of the country, the new plan should prove a boon to both builders and customers. It is voluntary but it has caught on in the states surrounding the Nation's Capital.

ACCORDING to a report movement in the "Washington" the NAHB reports that builders cases now give only verbal assurance that repairs will be made. In the new plan, the newspaper re-

Census Survey To Be Taken

Young wives 18 to 24 years old expected to have an average of 2.3 children as reported in a Bureau of the Census survey in 1973, down from 2.4 in 1971 and 2.9 in 1967.

Is this desire for smaller families continuing in 1974 or not?

Percy R. Millard, director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Dallas, announced that a survey in this area will help to answer the question. Information on the number of children families plan to have within the next 5 years will be collected here the week of June 17-21 from a sample of households. Responses from the nationwide survey will provide data on the future growth rate and composition of the U.S. population, data vital to planners in government and private business.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area is Ina Mae Starnes of Littlefield.

The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted by the Census Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor. The results are used to calculate the number of persons with jobs, the number looking for jobs, and the monthly percentage of unemployment, which is regarded as one of the most important measures of the Nation's economic health.

The April survey showed that the Nation's unemployment rate was 5.0 percent; it had been 5.2 percent in January and February and 5.1 percent in March. Total employment at 85.8 million was essentially unchanged from March. It has been at about this level since October 1973.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept strictly confidential by law, and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Julia Moore Observes Career Anniversary

WILAH RODGERS
Julia Moore celebrated her 25th year as a Littlefield phone operator Friday. The employees hosted a luncheon in her honor and presented gifts to mark the occasion.

The Littlefield phone company has had three different names since Mrs. Moore first started her career as a telephone operator in 1949. At that time the phone office was located across over the First National Bank.

Telephones were the big on-the-wall varieties. The handle was cranked, the dials fell out in the phone office and "central" was in and answered "number please" in her ringing voice.

Her first telephone office had two positions, or boards, serviced about 200 phones. A total of five operators worked two day shifts and one night shift. One man did all of the installation and repairing. Littlefield's phone company was ultra-modern in 1938 when it moved to a new building on Littlefield Drive. The drop out numbers were replaced with a battery bank and a switch board of lights. Phones were numbered consecutively from 1 up and the operators carried all the numbers, party lines, and anyone's ring.

There wasn't a specific name for "information." Mrs. Moore knew every number without looking them up. She was local, long distance and information operator all at the same time.

Until the early 1940's, fires were reported to the operators. And when the fire alarm blew, those within working distance with phones would lift their telephone receivers and ask where the fire was and the operators would tell them.

In 1941 Mrs. Moore left the phone company for seven years. At that time there were 20 numbers per row on the board and she knew them all.

"You'd work your arm off, too," she said, "reaching up and plugging them in. You'd have to test for locals to see if the line was busy. And you had to do your own ringing on the rurals, remembering who had a long or short or just what kind of ring."

Since Mrs. Moore came back in 1948, there are 15 towns to answer. "Central" is "operator" and "information" is "directory assistance."

Instead of writing down the calling number and information, now operators mark bubbles on cards which are fed into computers.

"Mechanized service is taking the personal element out, and with it goes a lot of laughs," Mrs. Moore said.

Since operators no longer have to ring their own numbers, Mrs. Moore will probably never again be asked for "Muleshoe" instead of Muleshoe.

"There is still one woman in Littlefield who says, 'hello, Central,' but I hardly ever get her any more," Mrs. Moore said.

Mrs. Moore has been with the phone company since the days of "hello, Central" and "number please" through present day area codes, microwave and direct distance dialing. And as fast as improvements are being made, she expects to see quite a few changes before she takes off her head set for the last time.

It's time your family stopped being just "Smith Harold" in the telephone directory.

The new edition of your telephone directory is going to press soon.

If you have only a single listing, a lot of people are going to have trouble looking up other members of your family.

Certainly, your wife deserves her own listing.

And giving a teen-ager a place in the directory is a nice way of saying "You're growing up."

To add or change a listing just call our business office. They can tell you how little extra an additional listing will cost.

It's as easy as picking up the phone.

It's here. From Carrier. The Super E Round One. The Central Air Conditioner with the highest-certified efficiency rating* on the market today. It gives you more cooling per dollar of electricity used than any other central air conditioner. This means you save energy as well as money.

And Carrier's Super E also has the lowest certified sound rating*... a mere 16 to be exact. This means it's the quietest central air conditioner on the market. As a matter of fact, the Super E generates only one-half the sound power of the next quietest certified unit.

Since the Super E Round One represents the best value in central air conditioning today, chances are it'll soon be in short supply. So call us right away to find out how the Super E can save you energy and money.

The Super E comes in 3 models... 23,000 Btu/h's, 30,000 Btu/h's, and 39,000 Btu/h's. With Btu/h per watt ratings of 10.5, 10.0, & 10.3. That's real efficiency right across the board.
