JINKS DENT of Sudan with 1937 government loan classing sheet. LAMB COUNTY COTTON

Price Lousy In '37, Costs Lousier Today

A 1937 class sheet for Government loan cotton was brought in this week by Jinks Dent of Sudan. A comparison of the prices paid 32 years ago shows that farmers got about 21 cents per pound more for their cotton this year than the market price paid for cotton then.

Surprisingly enough, the price paid this year was about 10 cents less per pound than the same grade and staple brought farmers in 1950.

In '37 Dent received seven cents per pound for his strict low middling 1316. This was the lowest class on the grade card this year, bringing a total price of just a little over 27 cents per pound.

Cotton grading middling 7/8 brought nine cents per pound in 1937. This year this grade brought 28.84 a pound.

The 1968 price for middling 1316 paid producers almost 29 cents per pound compared to the eight cents per pound paid 32 years ago.

Dent made 11 bales on 25 acres of dryland in '37.

Compared to the expense of pre-emergence treatments, fertilizer, irrigation, and the cost of equipment it could be that there was more profit on cotton at seven, eight and nine cents per pound 32 years ago than there is on government support-priced cotton today.

Dent came to Sudan in 1927. "And I've never missed an issue of the Lamb County Leader or County Wide News since then," he said.

Dent read the Lamb County papers before this date, he said, and has been a continuous subscriber for the past 34 years.

Association Formed For Domestic Water

About 30 persons in the Lumsden Gin area six miles west of Littlefield on the Bula highway met Thursday night at the gin to form a water association known as the West Littlefield Water Supply Incorporated.

The purpose of the water association is to buy water from the city of Littlefield for domestic use.

"Water is hard to get out here," Ross Lumsden said, "and many who have a well that will supply enough water for their personal domestic use can't drink the water because it tastes so bad."

The group hopes to form the water corporation and borrow money for the project from the government with 40 years to repay the loan.

Plans call for the water to be piped out to the water deficient area from the city storage.

This project is similar to the Bledsoe and Maple projects and others in this area.

Eddie Wallace was elected president of the water association; W. D. Hall was named vice president; Elton Hawk will serve as secretary-treasurer, with Ross Lumsden and A. A. Allen directors.

1 1/2 Million Feed Lot Near Lamb Line

A large commercial feedlot costing approximately one and one-half million dollars is being built just over the Lamb County line. Car loads of grain from this county will be fed to the 30-50,000 head of beef cattle.

The operation which will employ 30 workers and have a payroll of over $300,000 per year is located one mile south of the Mayfield community or about five miles north of Cotton Center.

One of the last large pastures of virgin prairie land in the Hale County area is the site of the plot feed lot headed by Producers Grain Association.

PGC purchased the section of land where the feedlot will be built from William M. Bloodworth Jr.

The acreage contains approximately 400 acres of virgin grassland and over 200 acres of cultivated land watered by three eight-inch irrigation wells.

The initial capacity will be 30,000 head of cattle and plans are underway for expansion to approximately 50,000 head.

The custom feed lot will have five million dollars worth of cattle at all times in the feed lots. Investments will come from the South Plains area and from outside the state of Texas as well.

This feed lot will use area grown grain, a good portion of this coming from Lamb County. Fifty per cent of all grain sorghum grown here is being consumed now by cattle, mostly in the areas from Lubbock northward to the Dodge City-Liberal, Kans., line.

AIN'T THAT JUST LIKE A WOMAN, ANYHOW?

IF YOU DON'T LIKE the weather in Littlefield, just wait a minute (or a day or two). That's what Sherry Lightfoot did. Her first experience with snow turned into a crying session last Thursday when she was plopped down in a snow covered car for a picture. Her reaction was quite the opposite when she ventured out in shorts, shirtsleeves and barefoot the last part of the week. The extremes of West Texas weather is graphically depicted in these two pictures made this week. Sherry is the daughter of the Ken Lightfoots.

WATER BILL GETS OKAY

Texas $10 billion water plan, sponsored by Representative Bill Clayton, was approved by the House this week before proposed changes could be made.

The nod from the House at this early date surprised Clayton. Clayton said he had told the chairman of the sub-committee reviewing the bill that he wanted to give the panel some proposed changes before the measure was voted on.

"The chairman must have forgotten," Rep. Clayton said.

Rep Clayton was in an adjoining room attending another committee meeting when he learned of the passage of the bill. He will seek House action on the proposed changes in the near future.

Avoid The Rush, ASCS Office Tells County's Farmers

"Come early and avoid the rush," is the advice from Lamar Aten, Lamb County ASCS office manager, with the seven-week period for signing for the 1969 farm program past the midpoint of the March 21 deadline.

Although the ASCS office will accept the applications to participate in the farm program through March 21, producers are urged to file their applications as soon as possible.

At the present rate of sign-up, there are sure to be a last-minute rush, according to Aten.

The 1969 farm program is voluntary. Signup brings into focus crop plans for the year.

At the time farmers sign up they indicate their intentions including the extent to which they will participate in the wheat and grain program.

In the grain program, farmers can qualify for diversion payments for producing acreage below the farm allotment. The cotton program provides price support payments and Quasar...color TV that's worth looking into...

Quasar Color TV is the set with the "works in a drawer"

The works: 10 tubeless plug-in mini-circuits for solid-state dependability and fast at-home service. It's so dependable you get a two year guarantee.

Quasar is worth looking into because it's a different kind of Color TV. It's all solid state (except the rectifier and picture tube). That's different. Most of the components (or works) are in a drawer, in the form of 10 plug-in mini-circuits. And that makes Quasar different...because it's a snap to service in your home.

Quasar provides a difference in dependability, too. Because the mini-circuits are tubeless, solid-state devices, designed to work for years without burning themselves out. And that is a big difference. Tubes burn out as they work. In time, they just naturally go dead. Not Quasar! No tubes! But if Quasar should ever need service, there's a pleasant difference there, also. A serviceman can replace a mini-circuit in minutes in your home, not the repair shop.

If you've been looking for something different in Color TV...something better, stop and see the 23-in. picture (measured diagonally; 29 1/2 sq. in.) Color TV. It's worth looking into.

What The Leader-News Thinks

Visit School-- Find Out!

A few years ago, "why Johnny can't read" was a big issue. If we haven't heard much about it in the last few years, does it mean that Johnny has improved, or that we've simply slackened concern?

March 3rd through 7th is Public Schools Week in Littlefield and this area. As sponsor of this promotion, the Masonic Lodges of Texas urge you to learn and become acquainted with the reasons why Johnny actually is reading better these days.

We've all heard there is progress being made in teacher training, in educational innovations, and methods. How many of us have taken the time to find out for ourselves? This year, you're urged to do so.

Visit a public school in your community sometime during this officially designated period. (Of course, you're welcome any time of the year, but make a special effort now.)

Show your appreciation to teachers for their efforts in behalf of your youngsters.

Teach your children the value of a good education. Let them know how fortunate they are, and prove it by being interested yourself.

Express your appreciation for our schools. After all, it's a way of expressing appreciation to yourself. You're the taxpayer.

Don't you think you should know what you're getting for your money? Don't you think you should let your child see its importance?

Visit your school sometime this week. Find out what's being done in your community to improve public education.

It's important to you, and still more important to your child.

RAN ACROSS this advertisement in the T. V. Guide the other day. Quite possibly it appeared in other publications, also, but I only saw it here.

It had a little insignia down at the bottom of the page with the words "advertising council—advertising contributed for the public good".

Something about this ad disturbed me and for a long time I didn't quite know what it was. See if it does you.

ROUGHLY HALF of the page was taken up with a picture of a young soldier in an enlisted man's uniform.

He was black, but that wasn't what made me feel uneasy.

I would have had the same reaction if he had been white, pink, red, brown, yellow, green, or purple.

"Everywhere you go, rich doctors."

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Wrong Values?

By LIBBY MUDGETT

UNDERNEATH the picture was the caption "What I really want".

Then in smaller print was "I want people to remember I fought for my country."

And never forget it. I won't. When I get out of uniform, I want to go home to more than nothing.

I don't want sympathy. Or charity.

I want a decent job. I want to be able to get married and support a family.

I don't expect miracles. But I won't settle for a broom.

If you think there's nothing you can do to help, think harder."

THEN, ALSO DOWN at the bottom of the page, was a place to write to if you wanted more information.

I kept staring at this ad for several minutes, trying to put my finger on what I found objectionable about it.

It certainly wasn't wrong for the young man to want all of the things he did. Presumably every young soldier wants approximately the same. We should remember our veterans and we do.

In spirit and in money. There's quite a few retired right now on their World War I pensions, much more comfortably than if they had only their Social Security benefits. And we have even set aside a Veteran's Day in their memory.

BUT THIS YOUNG MAN (or in actuality, the ad writer) seemed to think that we should be personally responsible for giving him what he wanted when he got out of uniform.

Why? In fact, there seemed to be the air of a veiled threat if we didn't.

PAUL HARVEY

Would Rather Fight

THE MOST VIOLENT insurrections have been on the most liberal campuses: Columbia, Berkeley, Wisconsin, Chicago.

Thus on the liberal campuses where disciplinarians used to be called "reactionaries"—reaction has set in.

Roosevelt University, Chicago, could hardly have been more liberal, yet blacks on that campus demonstrated for more black studies when there were ALREADY 16 SUCH COURSES ON THE CURRICULUM.

THAT'S WHEN Roosevelt's Lawrence Silverman began issuing wholesale expulsions and order was restored.

If TV sometimes agitates, it also educates.

MOST EDUCATORS reached the stomach-turning point when they saw the televised chaos on the campus of San Francisco State College—when they saw with their own eyes the emaciated young anarchists who were fermenting revolution—and when they watched the diminutive but gallant Dr. S. I. Hawakaya stand up, shout down and order out the force necessary to corral and confine the incendiaries.

Within hours, the president of Notre Dame inspired the forces of resistance with pronouncement of his peace formula:

"ANY MEMBER of the faculty or student body who seeks to disrupt the Notre Dame campus, either violently or otherwise, will be given 15 minutes to 'meditate'."

"During that 15 minutes he must decide whether he wants to

HE EVEN INFORMS us that he won't settle for a broom.

Why not?

And then it hit me—right there was a horrid statement. It implied that all cleaning jobs were somehow inferior. He doesn't say he won't settle for an UNDERPAID sweeping job—he says he won't settle for a broom.

WHAT'S WRONG with making this world and all things in it just a little cleaner, more attractive, a trifle shinier?

Maybe it's our own fault that the attitudes prevail that do—we're all hung up on higher education and 'intellectualism'. I'm not against higher education, either; but the fact remains it's not for everybody nor should it be considered so.

SOMEWHERE along the line we have lost our sense of values. Just as we need good lawyers, we also need good maintenance men.

Because the maintenance man doesn't need the education and the training that a lawyer does by no means should suggest that his work is not as needed in our society.

Nowadays it's fashionable to want to be a scientist of one kind or another and that's great. Scientists are definitely needed, but then somebody has to come along behind them to pick up their messes, mop their floors, and wash their clothes.

AND MAYBE it would do us all good to remember that.

I'm just as proud of my new cess pool pump as I am my new spring dress. And I do hope the pump inventor got as much credit as the dress designer.

He has my undying gratitude, anyway.

DEAR EDITOR

What Our Readers Think

What About Minority

Dear Editor:

Poverty is a disease, one in which you can be your own physician.

"We're all wrapped up in Littlefield" was the heading of the West Texas Blue Ribbon City annual Chamber of Commerce banquet dinner covered by the Leader-News in January.

"We're all wrapped up in Littlefield" is true for the majority. But what about the minority?? The poor whites, Negroes, Indians, and Spanish? They are all wrapped up too. But in filth, poverty, uneducation, unorganization, unemployment, and poor leadership in their community.

I recently moved to Littlefield after living in Los Angeles for 14 years.

For four months, I've walked and talked with more people, both black and white, rich and poor, than I would care to count.

And I find such a great need for everyone to join hands and make Littlefield a better place for everyone to live.

Poverty in a city or town is not just the responsibility of the community along, but the city or town itself.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Our Debt

By BOB WEAR

PEOPLE HAVE BEEN heard to say, "I don't owe Littlefield anything." They are wrong. All of us have an obligation to the city in which we live.

Those who have received the most have the most debt to pay. It was Thomas Jefferson who said, "There is a debt of service due from every man to his country proportioned to the bounties which Nature and fortune have measured to him."

THE GREATER PART of this obligation must be discharged, if it ever is, by community service.

It would be wonderful if the people of the community who have profited most would give back proportionately to help meet community needs. Some do this.

WE MUST REMEMBER, however, that success does not depend completely upon the wealthiest, or the most capable persons.

Too many of these are takers and not givers. The great need is for people who will do their best regardless of financial condition or capabilities.

A THRIVING, living city must be made up of a high percentage of generous people.

There must be people who will give time, energy, strength, abilities, money and words of encouragement.

A CITY CAN DIE while its citizens sit around waiting for others to do what needs to be done. If the persons most abundantly equipped to serve and provide leadership don't function, others must get busy.

Clifford Randall, once President of Rotary International said, "When the story of this era is ultimately documented, it seems certain that historians will record this as a fact: that in this period the citizen began, at last, to recognize his obligation to serve his community, and to take part in its affairs." This is the Through citizen concern and encouragement, the development of poverty programs can be possible.

Think ahead, and not backward. Accept new ideas pointing advancement and progress. We all live by the golden rule. If we do unto others as we would have them do unto us in our work, in our feeling, in our helpfulness, this would seem like a heavenly plan to live.

OWNER'S REPORT

The Lunch 'Hour'

By BILL TURNER

ABOUT THREE WEEKS ago, a high school boy brought up the subject of the school lunch period.

In a letter to the editor, he said the 35 minutes allowed for students to eat lunch is too short, "disgusting," and "unbearable."

The school board reacted to his letter by saying the time given for eating lunch is justified.

Trustees gave several reasons why they think so.

Among the reasons were (1) students want only a social hour, (2) students would use any extra time riding around in their cars, (3) a longer lunch period would give the youngsters "more time to get into fights," (4) students would eat just as fast as they do now, and (5) "we've tried it before."

SINCE THAT DEBATE, I've talked with a number of parents. Many of them have told me they'd like to see a longer lunch time.

Some of the reasons they've given include: (1) students don't have time to go home for lunch, (2) students don't have time to eat, no matter where they eat, (3) the fast pace between classes and the short period keep the children "tied up in knots," and promote nervous conditions, ulcers and worse, (4) "My kids just won't eat in that cafeteria," and (5) there should be some time after lunch for the kids to play, relax or take some kind of break.

There haven't been many suggestions as to how much longer the lunch period should be, but I'd imagine 45 minutes to an hour would be quite an improvement in the minds of these people.

FRANKLY, I agree with the people who favor a longer lunch hour.

But I have not attempted to make an issue of it, because I can see some of the points made by the school board.

And I'm not entirely sure a longer lunch period would be favored by a majority of parents in the school district, but I have a feeling this might be the case.

At any rate, I think the issue is valid enough to warrant a straw vote through this newspaper.

IF WE CAN GET a representative response, I'll take it to the school board.

And I think the board ought to, and will, listen to the will of the majority.

But the only promise I'll make is that our straw vote will be by secret ballot. There will be no repercussions for anyone, except possibly me, because I will be the only one to see the ballots.

If the people favor a longer lunch period, fine. If they don't, fine. Either way, I'll give an honest final count to the board.

And if the people like the lunch period the way it is, I'll shut up.

WHAT IS YOUR OPINION?

The Littlefield School Lunch Period

(Only Persons 21 Years Of Age or Older Are Eligible To Vote In This Straw Poll)

I favor the present 35-minute lunch period.

I favor a longer time for lunch period.

Lfd. Girl Scouts To Attend Church

Littlefield Girl Scouts will attend First Baptist Church in a group today.

Approximately 6,000 girls of the Caprock Girl Scout Council will join almost 3 3/4 million Girl Scouts throughout the country in celebrating Girl Scout Week from Sunday, March 9, through Saturday, March 15.

Littlefield Scouts decided to begin their activities by attending church today, as next weekend will be a long one because of the teacher's meeting in Lubbock, and some anticipate going out of town.

"Values to Hold-Worlds to Explore" is the theme of Girl Scout Week and of the Girl Scouts' 57th birthday March 12. This date marks the anniversary of the first meeting of the first troop organized in Savannah, Georgia, by Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the movement in the U. S. A.

Since that first troop of a few girls, more than 22 million members have made the Girl Scout Promise to do their duty to God and Country, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Girl Scout Laws of loyalty, honesty, courtesy, cheerfulness, usefulness, kindness, and thrift.

This year Girl Scouts are focusing their attention on "Worlds to Explore" Troops across the country are being encouraged to explore the world of themselves and that includes fashion, food and fun as well as their futures.

In observance of Girl Scout Sunday, March 9, thousands of Girl Scouts are expected to attend religious services in uniforms. Jewish girls will celebrate Girl Scout Sabbath on Friday evening, March 15. Many schools throughout the West Texas area, will join in the celebration of Girl Scout Week.

Health Foods: Beans 'N Bread

(EDITOR'S NOTE: So much interest was shown concerning the way Mrs. Naylor sprouts beans, makes whole wheat bread and puts into practice health-food ideas, that Mrs. Naylor has written these tips to those interested.)

By ALICE NAYLOR

BEAN SPROUTS

Soak beans in warm water (about four parts water to one part beans) six to eight hours or over night. Then drain and place in an earthen flower pot, cover and lightly rinse with water twice daily. Drain well each time.

BREAD SECRET

For those who wish to make good homemade whole wheat bread, the secret to a light loaf is to mix the dough to just the right consistency, then knead it about 10 or 15 minutes with oil (not flour). When some of the dough sticks to the board, just add more oil and continue kneading. Your favorite cooking oil will do.

FOOD SUPPLEMENTS

Now concerning food supplements. For every item of food that we eat, there is always something that is taken out of it. We are usually getting only a fragment. That is why unless everyone takes the right kind of natural, and I repeat "natural" vitamins, plus some home made and such things as brewer's yeast, he is not getting a whole diet. When you consider the way foods are refined, pasteurized, sterilized, homogenized, fortified and enriched with "coal tar" derivatives (an item found to cause cancer in research animals) and chemicalized in so many different ways, it is a wonder that diseases are not worse than they are.

This is a tribute to the body that God gave us.

To start with, one should start taking a good "multiple vitamin tablet" and extra vitamin E (Vitamin E is a conservator of oxygen in the body, and therefore, together with a high protein diet, and plenty of exercise, a condition can be created that will really prevent a heart attack). In processing food the E vitamin is the first to go. Brewer's yeast, (rich in the proper balance of B vitamins), bone meal, to fortify the bones to do their work (they continue to do their work even though they crumble away doing it), vitamin C many people take, because they have learned of its helpfulness in keeping down infection and warding off colds, and here again, take Vitamin C from "rose hips" or "acerola berries" the natural kind, there is a lot of difference. Then vitamin B 12 a great aid to the blood, Rutin to strengthen the walls of the arteries. Kelp (sea weed) very rich in minerals.

Vitamin A wheat germ oil, Lethacin (a substance that is found in natural food that dissolves fat) Dolomite a mineral (miracle mineral), alfalfa and garlic tablets.

Food to be included in the diet should be wheat germ, pumpkin seeds, sunflower seeds, sesame seeds, poppy seed. (Opium is not made from the seeds, but from the unopened pods of the poppy).

These are some of the easily obtainable, and very beneficial foods. J. I. Rodale wrote a book on how beneficial pumpkin seeds were to men who wanted to avoid prostate trouble.

City Police Jail One Man

Littlefield City Police arrested and jailed a Latin American man Friday night. He was charged with being drunk in public and disturbing the peace. His fine had not been paid Saturday and he was still in jail.

Loans Available To Businessmen

Lamb County businessmen are among businessmen in 39 counties which are eligible to receive economic injury disaster loans from the Small Business Administration.

The 39 areas had substantial damage to 1968 crops as a result of various adverse weather conditions, including severe drought, excessive rain fall, floods, hail and wind storms.

To give relief to businessmen which have suffered economic injury as a result of these adverse weather conditions, the Small Business Administration has authority to make either direct loans or loans in participation with banks or other lending institutions.

Littlefield or Lamb County small business concerns should make application to the Lubbock Small Business Administration's Regional office at 1616-19th Street, Phone Area Code 806-765-8541, extension 262.

Witnesses Slate Meet

"A world in growing ferment—that was the picture in 1968. The rising tide of nationalism and the settling of differences by violence were unmistakable trends," so stated "AWAKE!" magazine of Jan. 22, after reviewing and reprinting comments made by leading periodicals, officials and notables from across the world, showing documented evidence of the concern of thinking people the world over.

Pointing to the need for encouragement in the face of such mounting evidence, Loyd Lowery, presiding minister of the Littlefield Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses spoke to the members this week on the value of attending Christian assemblies to be spirituality in difficult. Jehovah's Witnesses planning to attend three-day convention Snyder March 7-9. For purpose of rebuilding Bible disc of subjects.

Amherst Falls In Opening Round Of Tourney, 58-35

The Amherst Bulldogs were knocked out in the first round of the Class B, Region I basketball tournament at Levelland Friday by a hot-shooting team from Miles.

A large group of Lamb County supporters watched their Bulldogs be rattled and shot down, 58-35, by another group of Bulldogs representing District 12-B.

Miles' full court press seldom haulted Amherst from getting the ball down court, but the effort apparently left the Lamb club in such a "hurry-up" frame of mind that they rushed their shots and often missed.

Amherst sank only 21.8 percent of its shots from the floor for the game, accounting for only 24 points. They hit 12 of 55 attempts. From the foul line they did somewhat better, 11 of 20 for 55 percent.

The press was mainly accountable for the 16 turnovers by Amherst, 11 of which came in the first half, where Miles led 30-17.

The Miles Bulldogs, on the other hand, hit an uncanny 48.5 percent of their field goals, 17 of 35. And they burned at the free shot line, sinking 24 of 30 attempts for 80 percent.

Miles players committed 15 turnovers themselves, but seven came in the final period when Amherst put on an all-out press against the victorious team's substitutes.

Miles jumped to a 6-1 lead the first minute and a half, on three straight Amherst miscues. But Amherst countered, and Mickey Johnson tied the score at 6-6 with 4:33 remaining in the opening period.

That was the last time the score was close, except for a 12-9 point spread with 1:42 remaining. Miles led 16-9 by the first rest stop.

Johnson and Darrel Moates, who wound up Amherst's leading scorer with 10 points, both got into foul trouble in the early moments of the third quarter. Moates left the court on five fouls with 4:17 remaining in the game, and Johnson followed a minute later, with his club trailing 55-30.

Miles guard Walter Holik frustrated Amherst defenders all afternoon with his left handed dribbling. He was fouled repeatedly as they attempted to steal the ball from him.

As a result, he was awarded 16 free shots, and sank 15 of them, emerging the game's high scorer with 19 points.

Miles, holding a 48-25 lead going into the final quarter of play, went into a semi-stall, controlling the ball until good open shots presented themselves.

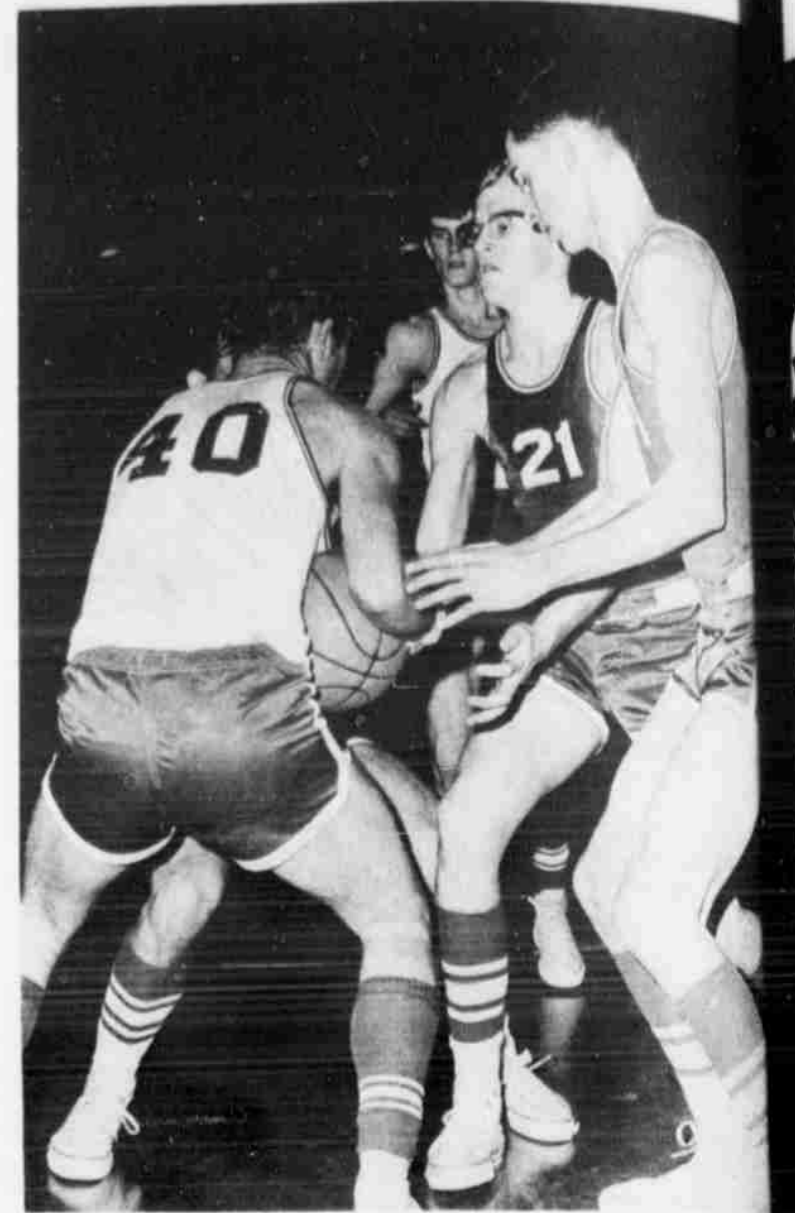

Other first round scores were Meadow 74, Quitaque 72; Adrian 68, Fort Hancock 48; and Sands 86, Allison 74. The semi-finals and finals were played Saturday.

For Amherst, it was the final game four seniors will play in the blue and white bulldog uniform. Seniors Pat Duffy, Moates, Rodney Maxfield and Royce McAdams have ended their basketball eligibility with three straight district championships to their credit.

But of their three titles, this was their only appearance in a regional meet. And it was frustrating.

AMHERST SENIOR basketballers go through the pre-game preliminaries before their game Friday with Miles in the Region I tournament in Levelland's Texan Dome. The four, Rodney Maxfield, Darrel Moates, Royce McAdams and Pat Duffy, ended their high school basketball careers in the tournament.

GET THE BALL!!—Amherst's Rodney Maxfield, right, Darrel Moates, 21, and Royce McAdams give Miles' Dennis Halfmann a time late in their regional tournament opening game Friday, Levelland. Miles won, 58-35, eliminating the Bulldogs from tourney.

Seminole Early Leader In Wildcat Relays Meet

Seminole held a slim lead over Olton, as the running finals got underway yesterday afternoon in the first annual Wildcat Relays.

On the basis of the three field event finals held, the Indians were a nose ahead of the Mustangs, following the results of the long jump, last event finished before the noon lunch break.

Nine teams were entered in the meet, which was hampered in the morning by cool Southerly winds of 20 to 30 miles per hour.

But the winds actually aided most of the running events, with some excellent sprint and hurdle times reported.

Coaches from visiting schools complimented the track conditions saying they felt some outstanding times would be recorded in afternoon finals.

This is the first meet held on Littlefield's new track.

Full results of the meet will be reported in Thursday's edition of Leader-News.

Field event finals:

SHOT PUT—1. Bruce Whitehurst, 53' 3"; 2. Jones, Seminole, 53' 3"; 3. Seminole, 51' 3"; 4. Henthorn, Tulsa, 50' 5"; 5. Holik, Seminole, 46' 6"; 6. Holik, Olton, 44' 6".

POLE VAULT—1. Walker, Seminole, 12' 2"; 2. Rogers, Slaton, 10' 8"; 3. Canyon, 10'; 4. Holt, Littlefield, 9' 6"; 5. Gullett, Olton, 10'; Baker, Canyon, 9' 6".

LONG JUMP—Bennett, Seminole, 19' 4"; Copeland, Olton, 19' 4"; McClain, Olton, 18' 3"; Robertson, Canyon, 18' 1"; Slaton, 17' 11"; Erwin, Canyon, 17' 6".

Feed Lot In Lamb Planned

An Earth-Springle Beef Producers group has been formed and persons interested in beef production met Saturday morning to discuss the possibility of building a feed lot in the Earth-Springle area.

John Bridges headed the meeting with a committee giving a report on research done toward finding a location.

Previously the planning committee visited several feed lots. Those on the committee suggested that the site should be on or near a hard-surfaced road and centrally located in the Springlake-Earth district.

The group decided that storage facilities should be built four or five years after the lot goes into operation.

A representative of Southwestern Public Service in Amarillo, Sam Thomas Jr., spoke on feedlot success.

Local Chamber Men At Meeting

Three Littlefield men were among the approximately 50 who attended luncheon in Lubbock Wednesday to hear new ideas on tourism.

Representing Littlefield at the South Plains area meeting were E. Luce, chairman of the Tourism Development Committee of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce; Warren Dayton and Jim Kelly, Chamber executive vice president.

The "Land of Coronado" tourism program was developed last year and proved successful in the upper Panhandle area. Billboards, city placards, table tent cards, and service station and motel-hotel placards were utilized to "advertise and sell" the entire area.

The placards contain a map of the area and lists things of interest "to see and do", and names of places where the traveller may rest and relax.

The four-month program, Littlefield decides to join, is designed to start May 1, and continue through Labor Day.

The Tourist Development Committee was to inform the promotion committee by March 1 whether Littlefield will participate.

Retail Council Meeting Slated

Several items will be on the agenda for discussion when the Retail Council meets Tuesday morning at 10 in the XIT Room.

According to Bob Bromlow, chairman, major items to be discussed are:

1. Suggestions and schedule for Retail Council promotions for 1969.
2. How to revitalize business-consumer relations.
3. Good will tours to neighboring towns.
4. Establishing an annual event for Littlefield, to be set up to include two days of celebration.

Several other smaller projects will be discussed and all members are urged to attend.

Girls' Bi-District Games Are Tuesday

Lamb County's two championship girls basketball teams, Springlake-Earth and Spade, will try again Tuesday night for regional tournament births like they earned this time a year ago.

Both will be playing bi-district contests Tuesday night.

The Wolverettes are attempting a repeat of their 1968 season, when they went all the way to claim the championship of Texas Class A basketball. They were runners-up the year before that.

Spade lost out in the regional tournament last year.

Springlake-Earth meets Ralls at 8 p.m. in the Abernathy High School gymnasium. That's the same gym in which they knocked out Idalou last year, 78-60, to claim the bi-district trophy and launch their bid for the state crown. Vicky Gregory and Marsha Dawson, both of whom are back as a junior this season, Spade in the contest with 34 and 23 points, respectively.

Spade and Bula are in for a rematch of last year's bi-district title game. Only the schools selected the South Plains College Texan Dome as their playoff site this season, instead of Littlefield.

Led by Belinda Thompson, who is back as a junior this season, Spade won that 1968 title game, 60-55. Little Miss Thompson racked up 34 of her club's points. Bula will miss Joyce Sowder's 38 points. She's graduated.

Spade and Bula have played each other twice this season in non-conference battles. Spade won at Spade by the same point spread.

That playoff game will tip off at 8 p.m.

FISHING, HUNTING LICENSES SALES SOAR EARLY THIS YEAR

AUSTIN—Fishing license sales for this year are "off and running," according to C. L. Friou, staff service officer for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Friou says the Department sold 23.8 per cent more fishing licenses by the end of January than for the same period last year.

Commercial fishing license sales are also up from last year by 16.3 per cent.

Friou says that unusually mild weather in January contributed to the increased interest in fishing.

According to Friou, sales of hunting licenses were up 6.1 per cent for resident licenses and 29 per cent for non-resident hunting licenses by Jan. 31.

Boating Safety Begins On Road

Boating safety should begin before you start on that long ride to water.

The Watercraft Safety and Public Relations Divisions of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission offer the following suggestions to their boaters. The suggestions are just as applicable to Texans.

"If you are among the growing ranks of 'highway sailors', " the Commission says, "you have to think twice about safety.

"Both your car and boat trailer should meet minimum safety standards. Besides owning the right equipment, this includes periodic maintenance to insure proper performance.

"Let's start our safety check with the towing vehicle and hitch. If you tow a load over 2,000 pounds (including trailer, boat, engine and assorted gear) give some thought to heavy duty springs and shock absorbers.

"Never attempt to trailer a rig that weighs more than the towing vehicle. You could find yourself in a situation with the 'tail wagging the dog'.

"Heavier rigs also require heavy duty hitches. For loads under 2,000 pounds, a standard bumper type hitch works well. For loads over 2,000 pounds, select a frame hitch.

"Before checking out the trailer, it's wise to mention the trailer 'tongue' which is connected to the hitch. The tongue anchors the trailer to the car and should carry a portion of the weight. This is usually referred to as 'tongue weight' and is figured at 5 to 10 per cent of the total load.

Probably the easiest way to make sure you have enough weight on the tongue is to measure the distance between the ground and the top of the hitch. It should be between 15 to 19 inches high.

Too much weight on the tongue will cause the car to squat and raise the front wheels. Too little tongue weight will cause trailer sway. Both situations are potentially dangerous.

"When checking your trailer make sure it can safely carry the weight of the boat, engine and gear. Your owner's manual will give its maximum capacity. Adequate tire pressure is another important safety check.

Baseball Meeting Set Here Tuesday

A meeting of all Little League, Pony and Colt League officers coaches and interested persons has been called for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the XIT Room of Security State Bank.

The meeting has been called by Little League president Bob Bromlow. He urges everyone connected or even interested in summer baseball for local youth to be present. "It is very important," he emphasized.

"Shallow water (for pump irrigation is the thing that will make this land sell," wrote Arthur P. Duggan, sales manager of the Littlefield Lands Company, on Dec. 21, 1912. Surely it was a paradox that pump irrigation, then quite new to the plains country, would play a vital role in the Littlefield Lands project to colonize 79,000 dryland farming acres in southwestern Lamb County, Texas.

Because pump irrigation on a large scale of 40 acres or more was new, undeveloped and expensive (the first major well on the South Plains had been put down near Plainview only two years before), the Littlefield Lands Company's early advertising discussed it in modest terms. One newspaper article concluded that a serviceable, inexpensive irrigation operation could be established with a small well, a pump—a windmill and perhaps a gasoline engine for use when the breeze was insufficient and a storage tank. Such an arrangement, costing only $500, would adequately water 10 acres. Those verdant acres, it was said, could produce crops every year worth three or four times the initial investment. Moreover, expansion was disarmingly simple: one new plant for every 10 acres.

If this were all true, some wondered by December 1912, why had Littlefield Lands not installed such a system? Prospective land buyers—commonly called prospectors—began to question company claims that its lands lay within the "shallow water belt". So deep-seated was the skepticism, in fact, that a rival operator was able to undermine a sale of Littlefield acreage by alleging that only salt water surged beneath it.

To silence these critics, the company—early in the spring of 1913—attempted its first major well, but in mid-April a flow inadequate for the purpose trickled in. The test hole was at Littlefield, where the company had established its headquarters and thus it could not be easily hidden. And these were several "sines" involved:

*Since there was not time to sink a second one before the July 4 opening day, which would draw more than 1400 potential purchasers to the town

*Since the company must irrigate part of its demonstration farm, because ".....shallow water is the one

IRRIGATION HISTORY
Irrigation Sells Littlefield Lands

By David B. Gracy II

thing that is attracting the people to the south plains now"

*Since prospectors were becoming ever more suspicious of the assertion of shallow water and its purity

.....for all these reasons Duggan decided to build, at the demonstration farm near town, a reservoir 306 feet in diameter and five feet deep. Fed by two small wells, one worked by a windmill and the other by a gasoline engine, the tank watered 12 acres. In the face of a mild drought that summer, this limited system soon proved itself an agricultural success, while at the same time averting some attention from the embarrassing obvious absence of a more expansive operation.

Another reason Duggan was interested in establishing this windmill tank arrangement was that actually it was the only method of irrigation which most buyers could afford. Few men moving onto newly purchased, virgin acreage could muster the $1000 to $2000 necessary to obtain a plant which would water 40 acres or more. The difficulty confronting Littlefield

Lands from this situation was that prospectors in numbers, despite their financial incapacity, demanded evidence—before purchase—of water sufficient for a large operation.

Thus, the company could not rest once its windmill-reservoir system was in operation. Littlefield Lands had to continue drilling until it could boast a system capable of large-scale irrigation. But what was worse, the costs of installation, operation and maintenance of an extensive arrangement often aggregated more than the return realized from the additional crops produced. The one redeeming quality for the firm was that men will willingly to pay increased prices for "acts in the vicinity of producing wells.

In July 1913, company owner Major George W. Littlefield decided to hire the Layne and Bowler Company of Houston to bore a well not far north of the Littlefield townsite. Layne and Bowler were known as the most expensive drillers, but they also had a reputation for unparalleled success. Of course, drilling did not allay prospector misgivings. And the few persons who purchased farm land that summer, bought solely on the strength of the Texas Land and Development Company wells 60 miles away at Plainview, believing the water there coursed below Littlefield too. Early in October, the new Littlefield well came in, yielding less than 2,000 gallons per minute. Under land adjacent to the townsite there simply was not water enough for large scale irrigation, regardless of who sunk the hole.

About this time, the Bessemer Gas Engine Company of Pennsylvania proposed to divide some 25,000 acres north of town into 320 acre farms and supply an irrigation plant for each, to demonstrate its pumps. But the deal fell through, as did another six months later whereby the Great Western Brokerage Company would have been paid 15,000 acres to place 250 irrigation units in the same area. Thus, the establishment of irrigation was up to the Littlefield Lands Company itself.

In November 1913, Layne and Bowler's operations were transferred about five miles southwest of the townsite. By this time the bad effect on sales, caused by the lack of a large irrigation set-up, had become serious. Desperate for some solution, Duggan proposed suspending the sales campaign—Littlefield Land's very business—until the company possessed an impressive well to show the prospectors. Happily, such a drastic measure would not have been needed long. At the end of December, the new hole began pumping an amazing 1200 gallons per minute. Soon the Littlefield area was thronged with prospectors, confirming the truth of Duggan's belief that sales were tied closely to the presence of a good well.

To put at rest any lingering doubts as to the extent of the water under the Littlefield subdivision, the firm tapped three more locations in 1914—two drilled by the Green Machinery Company of Plainview and one by T. P. Wright of Snyder. With shallow water proven and money becoming tight—because of World War I—Major Littlefield warned that the $22,500 investment in the wells must be liquidated before any more holes were bored.

Try as he might, Duggan made no headway, during the winter of 1914-1915, toward selling any of the expensive irrigated farms. For this reason, Littlefield determined to rent them on half shares. All were let by March 1915. To protect his interest, Major Littlefield reserved the right in some cases to oversee the equipment, lest it be damaged, and also hired a man to keep the monstrous machines in good repair and to start them for prospectors.

Then in 1916 a serious drought began to grip the area. By the spring of 1918, the earth was desperately parched. Sales had dropped appreciably. Duggan and Littlefield

About the author

Author David B. Gracy II—two degrees from University of Texas an interesting person. As archivist Lubbock, his work brings him in contact with the history of irrigation. In addition to his duties, he is associate editor of Military History and has numerous articles in scholarly journals. He has edited one book and has another. The one he wrote is Lands: Colonization on the Texas 1912-1920. This article he has written for IRRIGATION AGE (surely one of the best scholarly publishing contacts in the world). He is studying colonization of Texas and the southwest and ".....I would be delighted to receive comments any one might have on the relationship between it and irrigation concluded that to continue sales at all, some slight modification must be made in farm plots they were marketing. He debated improving each farm with a four room house, new outbuildings and an irrigation. Their consideration being motivated to a large extent by a recent, successful demonstration on the plains of a more efficient air pump (A Spanish measure of 1771) and labor was the basic farm unit.

Carried to completion, the plan would raise the price of the acre to about $100 per acre—to between $150 and $200—and would make Littlefield tracts similar to improvements and price to be offered by the Texas Land Development Company. Littlefield Duggan might have been enthusiastic about investment in costly buildings and equipment; they knew that the Plains concern had failed to post a profit the fewer than 100 improved farms has sold since 1913.

By way of comparison, Littlefield Lands had sold some 225 farms dryland—since 1912, and had seen a profit of at least $150,000. At that rate, Duggan and Littlefield appeared convinced that the plan was their only hope for profit from a few sales expected during the period of drought and war. High prices brought on by the war, however, necessitated that Littlefield take land off the market, which he did July 1918, and the company attempted the contemporary improvements.

Irrigation truly was a significant aspect of the Littlefield Lands campaign during the six years 1912 through 1918. From reliance on the small windmill-tank system, the company progressed to establishment of a few large-scale units.

During periods of unusually favorable weather, the improvements made good talking and selling points but when the heavens stubbornly refused rain, little doubt remained that sustained, successful agriculture on the plains rested squarely on irrigation.

Duggan saw this clearly. Initially an advocate of combined farming and stock raising, he later devoted much of his life and personal wealth to a search for a serviceable, inexpensive, pump which would make large scale irrigation the mainstay of every plains farmer.

More Couples
 Growing Older
Together

Today, in Lamb County, more married couples are reaching the age of retirement together than was the case in former years.

Furthermore, the odds are better than ever that both husband and wife will live at least 10 years beyond that point. That is what the latest figures show with regard to life expectancy.

The improved outlook is attributed to the dramatic progress made in recent years in the fields of medicine and public health.

Because of the greater life span nowadays, as compared to that of a generation of two ago, the average newlywed couple in the area—husband age 22 and wife age 19—can look forward to a long married life. There are now approximately 190 men and 240 young young women in Lamb County at those ages.

In two out of three cases, the young marrieds at that age level can expect to be alive when the wife has her 60th birthday.

Fifty years ago, their chances of survival to that point would have been no better than one out of two.

The figures are based upon national longevity studies, conducted by the Institute of Life Insurance and others.

For the 220 young men in Lamb County who became 18 last year and entered the labor force or headed for college or military service, approximately 150 of them can expect to reach the retirement age of 65, the statistics show.

This is without any allowance being made for future medical advances that might increase this survival rate.

Of the 190 men in the local area who are now at the average marrying age of 22, the figures indicate that at least 89 percent of them will be alive at age 53, which is the point, according to the findings nationally, when the marriage of the youngest child in a typical family is most likely to take place.

What are the chances of a young Lamb County couple, just married, living to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary?

On the basis of figures worked up by insurance statisticians, their chances of reaching the 50-year mark are better than one out of three at the present time.

This assumes, however, that no divorce or annulment occurs along the way.

ON
 INCOME TAX Might Help

Residents of Lamb County who are working on their Federal income tax returns and itemizing their deductions may find it advantageous to compare their figures with those of other people at the same income level.

Are their deductions above or below the average? Are their listings of charitable contributions, interest, taxes and medical expenditures relatively high or low?

For the individual taxpayer, to know how his deductions compare with those of other people in his income bracket could be very helpful. Some light is shed on the subject by the Commerce Clearing House, national authority on tax and business law, and by the Internal Revenue Service. They have released data showing what the deductions have generally amounted to in recent years at each income level.

Where average earnings are of the size of those prevailing in Lamb County, it is found that the deductions come to approximately $1,870, or about 18 percent of the adjusted gross income.

In families with lower-than-average earnings, the amounts deducted represent a larger proportion of the income. Conversely, for those with higher incomes, the percentage deducted is smaller.

For example, those that pay $5,500 a year deduct about 22 percent normally. The ones that are in the $17,500 class, on the other hand, have deductions of only 16 percent.

Local families who are in the $6,500 income category will be deducting about $1,380 this year. They have had average outlays of $12,000 income level, the deductions will be around $2,160.

A breakdown of the $1,870 deductions claimed by most taxpayers with incomes equal to the Lamb County average shows that $281 represents contributions, $658 interest on loans and installment payments for local taxes and $322 medical expenses.

It is pointed out that the figures are solely a guide to what most people are listing as deductions and that proper records must be available to back up all claims.

'Canyon Of Yellow Houses'

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

In the center of the vast plateau of the Staked Plains is a canyon several hundred feet deep and a mile wide.

This ancient river bed is dry except for some potash lakes and a few playa or wet weather lakes.

At the foot of a 100-foot cliff in this canyon, a clear spring once gushed, and this provided the only wholesome water in this part of the plains.

Even now, in the white and yellow rocks are many caves where prehistoric people once made their homes. These ancient people killed and ate the animals that came to drink at the spring.

Comanches came after the cavemen. The Indians pitched their tepees in the canyon, and armed with their bows and arrows, rode their fast ponies hunting the antelope and buffaloes that watered at the spring and roamed the sea of waving grass.

Spanish explorers who found some of the caves in the yellow rocks had been inhabited, named the old river bed "El Canyon de las Casas Amarillas", or "The Canyon of the Yellow Houses."

The Comanches were at home on the Staked Plains until 1875. The struggle between the whites and the redmen began when the Comanches fought the Spaniards. After fighting the Spaniards, the Indians clashed with the Mexicans, then the Republic of Texas, and finally the U. S.

After Texas was annexed to the U. S., the Government sent three armies against the Indians of Llano Estacado. The Indians were caught between the three detachments and finally were defeated in 1874. From their homeland on

Teen Panel At Littlefield P-TA Meet

DISCIPLINE—TOO MUCH or not enough? These questions will be discussed by this teen panel at the Junior-Senior High P-TA meeting Monday night at 7:30 in the H. S. Auditorium. Student Council members compose the panel. These are, left to right, Milynda Morris, Mark Jordan, Quinn McKinnon, moderator, Mrs. Kenneth Reast, sponsor, Larry Birkelbach, Martha Brown and Marsha French. Members of the FTA are in charge of a free nursery.

Consumers 'Bombarded' With Wash Miracles

Consumers are being bombarded with so-called washday miracles—laundry products supercharged with enzymes.

"Research proves enzyme products get rid of many stubborn stains, but the housewife may be able to achieve the same results at half the cost," says Lady Clare Phillips, county home demonstration agent.

The idea of soaking clothes before laundering to make your wash significantly cleaner is not "new," says Mrs. Phillips.

Pre-soaking with detergent does as good a job on most of the stains as does enzyme presoaks, tests have shown.

In the tests there were some "very slight difference" between two enzyme products and a detergent in their performance on blood and gray stains, with the enzymes doing slightly better. But all three removed egg stains completely in 30 minutes of soaking and spaghetti sauce overnight. All three removed a good part of grass, syrup, coffee and tea stains overnight.

None did very well with mustard stain.

Mrs. Phillips suggests that housewives first try presoaking in a solution made up of whatever laundry detergent they now use. It may perform surprisingly well—and at half the cost of an enzyme presoak.

DAN HEARD checks the soil profile in his cotton field with a soil probe. The check revealed he needed to apply at least five inches of irrigation water to wet the soil deep enough. Heard pre-irrigated some of his land in mid-December.

Irrigation, Narrow Row To Highlight Confab

Two items expected to draw considerable interest at the upcoming Western Cotton Production Conference March 4 and 5 in Lubbock at the KoKo Palace are narrow row planting of cotton and the use of limited irrigation in cotton production.

James S. Newman, agronomist in charge of irrigation research at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Center north of Lubbock, will talk on cotton production with the use of minimum irrigation water.

The agronomist will discuss practices that can be used in adjusting to a declining irrigation potential. Some of the most significant of these adjustments include reducing the size of applications, reducing irrigation water requirements per acre with skip-row planting techniques and increasing water use efficiency through timing.

Dr. Levon Ray, in charge of cotton breeding research at the Texas A&M Center, will present his views on narrow row cotton production during a panel discussion on "Planting Patterns for the Future."

Ray will discuss the work that is being done at the Center concerning narrow row cotton. He will examine the narrow row method as a means of possibly revolutionizing cotton production in certain areas of the state and even across the Cotton Belt.

Ray's discussion will be aimed primarily at increasing yields, lowering production input costs and improving fiber quality.

He will especially stress fiber improvement which is possible through narrow row production. This method could eliminate the major fiber quality problem on the High Plains—the immature, wasty, low micronaire cotton from bolls set late in the season. How? There would be more plants with less bolls and these would set earlier and mature in less time than larger plants loaded with bolls.

Several other personnel located at the A&M Center will be featured speakers at the two-day meeting.

They include Roy V. Baker, who heads up the USDA Cotton Ginning

Irrigation Wells Begin Pre-Plant Pumping

Several irrigation wells in the Lamb County Soil and Water Conservation District are already pumping for the pre-plant irrigation period, according to B. T. Kisner of the SCS.

"In order to know how much water to apply, check the soil moisture then add only enough water to fill the soil to capacity within the root zone of the planned crop," Kisner said.

"Don't every draw on your best assets" says Dan Heard, who farms northeast of Littlefield. "Our water is like our soil—both need conserving—so the best way I know how to conserve my irrigation water, is to find out how much moisture I have in the soil and apply just enough to fill the soil within the root zone of my crop. It is about four to five feet of depth for cotton and feed", Heard said.

He continued, "By checking the soil and finding out what percent of moisture is present, and knowing how much the soil will hold per foot of depth, I will know how much irrigation water to add to fill the soil profile in pre-irrigation. Therefore I can start early, pre-irrigate more land, not be rushed, take less labor, and have the land ready to plant then the temperatures are right. To get the information on how to do this is take a probe or sharpshooter and dig in each field and see how much water I have. After I have followed up with the sharpshooter to see if I have enough water. If I have applied, some is wasted if not enough is added, crop will suffer."

Kisner stated, "Saying goes, with the use, goes the dust conserve. So plan early start right."

Kisner concluded, "You need help in information on how to determine how much moisture is in the soil, much it will hold and how much to apply, contact the personnel at the Conservation office."

County Agent's Corner

BUDDY LOGSDON

A real boost has been given to farmers in a 14-county area on the High Plains in planning irrigation applications for the coming season.

A survey containing data compiled during last fall and this winter is now ready and shows the total amount of available moisture in the soil to a depth of five feet.

"The survey serves as a Research Laboratory; Dr. Robert Metzger, area agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service; and Elmer B. Hudspeth, agricultural engineer.

The conference is sponsored by the National Cotton Council and Southwest Five-State Cotton Growers Association and is open to all producers, agri-businessmen and others interested in cotton production.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., and the Extension Service are serving as Lubbock hosts.

guide for farmers and may be used to estimate the preplant irrigation necessary to produce optimum soil moisture conditions," explains Oliver H. Newton, advisory agricultural meteorologist, U. S. Weather Bureau, headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Center north of Lubbock.

"It shows that about 80 percent of the total area has more than two inches of available moisture. Even in the drier sections, only a few locations showed no available moisture."

Counties reported in the survey include Lubbock, Cochran, Hockley, Crosby, Lynn, Dawson, Terry, Lamb, Bailey, Hale, Floyd, Parmer, Castro and Swisher.

The key portion of the survey is a map of the 14 counties on which the levels of available soil moisture are indicated, points out Newton. Three moisture levels are mapped—high, indicating four to six inches of available moisture; medium, two to four inches; and low, none to two inches.

"With this information and the type of soil (hard, sandy or mixed) we are able to suggest specific types of irrigations," the meteorologist explains. Assisting Newton in preparing the irrigation recommendations were Dr. Otto C. Wilke and J. S. Newman, researchers in soil and water and irrigation, respectively, at the Texas A&M Center.

Preplant irrigation suggestions in the survey are listed as light, one to two inches; moderate, two to four inches; and heavy, four to six inches.

In compiling the information on available soil moisture, data were obtained with a neutron soil moisture measuring device. This provided a quick and accurate measurement of the total moisture in each foot of soil from about 12 inches to five feet in each of the more than 110 locations.

"Available moisture was then determined by drying soil samples from each soil type at an established temperature," explained Newton. "This procedure made it possible to determine the amount of available moisture in types of soils."

The meteorologist emphasizes that the amount of available moisture and suggested amounts preplant irrigation represent average conditions within the area.

Late and heavy irrigation to soybeans or sorghum may result in wetter soil profiles shown in the survey. Fields which were cropped and irrigated during the summer may be drier.

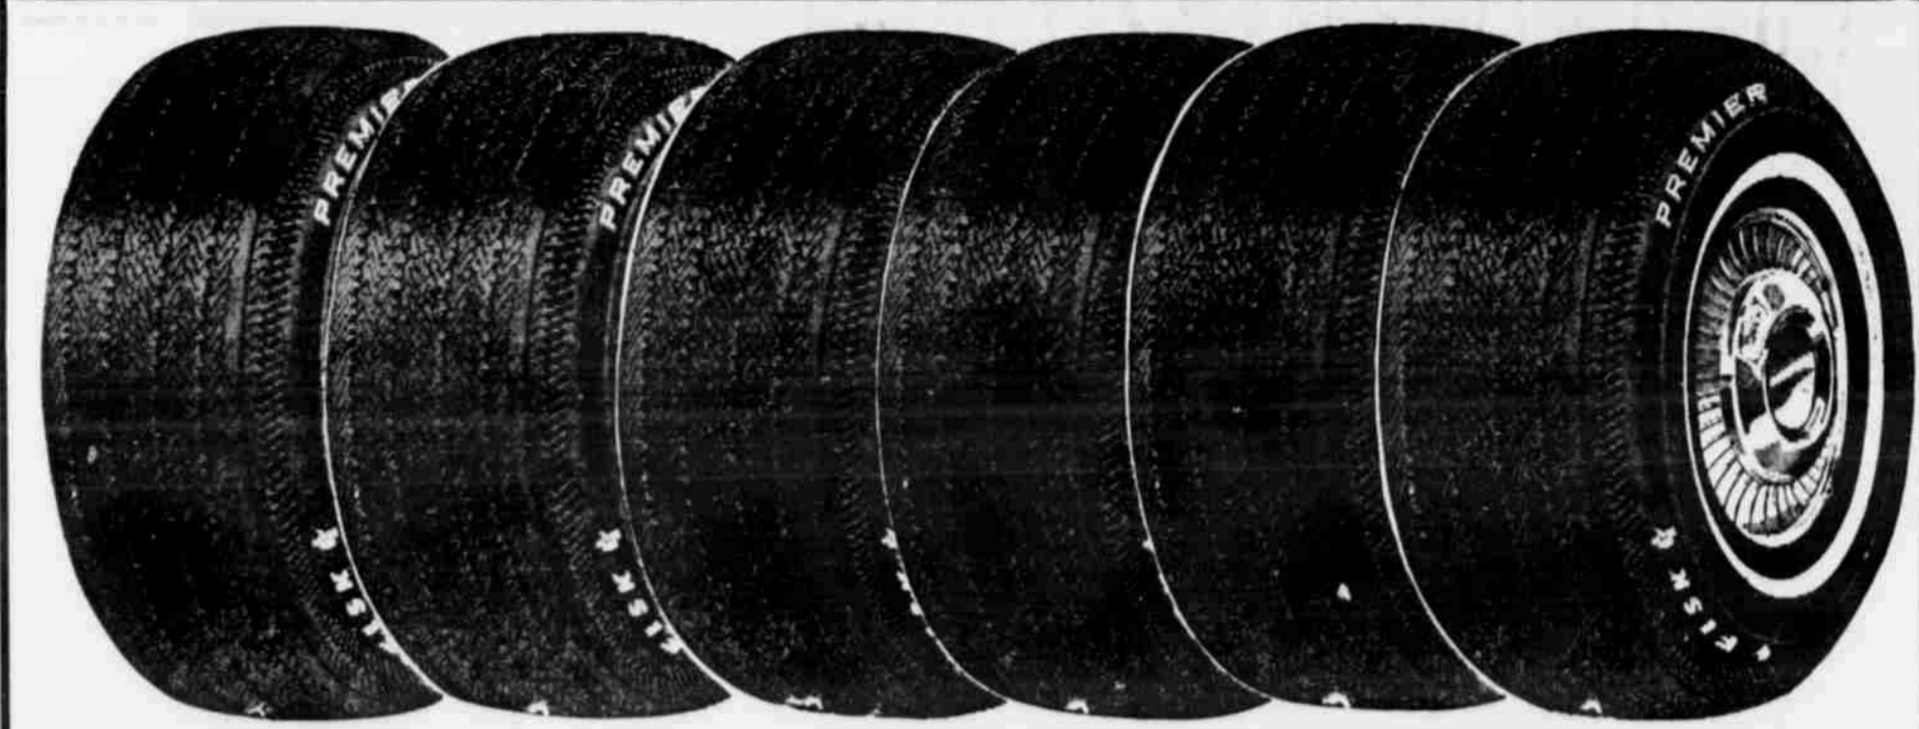

Because of the possible variations from field to field, Newton encourages the farmer to make field to field moisture in the top or three feet.

If a farm is indicated to have two or more inches of available moisture, the soil is fairly wet. If this test shows a rather dry soil, then a particular farm does not fit into the moisture pattern of the survey.

"When irrigation comes, each farmer should know the pumping rate each well in order to apply only the amount of water needed," emphasizes Newton. "The survey contains information determining that amount."

Local county agricultural agents will mail a copy of the survey to most farms in each of the 14 counties.

Copies are also available from the A&M Center, at Newton. "Now is a good time to get the jump planning this year's irrigations."

Guidance For Daily Living Companionship

IT MUST BE obvious to all, that at the present time there is less than a fifty-fifty chance that a marriage will last, that it will be a happy marriage. In marriage, much unhappiness is caused by the failure of the husband or wife to understand the way the other partner thinks and feels.

THE PHYSICAL differences between men and women are accompanied by differences of thought and feeling, of mind and heart.

If they develop some insight into these differences, husbands and wives can avoid those faults in marriage that come from a misunderstanding of their partners.

It will, also, add much to the happiness of married life if the partners understand each other.

FOR MAN AND WOMAN have been made by God so that they complement each other physically, mentally and emotionally. Their living together in the intimacy of married life makes for the full development of each as a person.

A woman's feelings are closer to the surface than a man's. Her heart is easily moved, she is quick to sympathy, quick to tears, sensitive and easily hurt.

Her approach to life is extremely personal, so personal that a man can often hurt her feelings without realizing the reason why. Whatever is said, whatever is done is interpreted by her in this personal way.

FOR INSTANCE, at dinner the husband may make the remark that the meat is tough.

He is merely commenting on what to him is an obvious fact.

But, to his bewilderment, his bride may dissolve into tears, leave the table throw herself down on the bed and sob her heart out. When he asks, "What is the matter, Honey?", she will likely reply: "You said I was a failure as a cook."

At such a time it is useless for the man to argue logically that she has drawn a wrong conclusion. She doesn't want logic. The best thing the man can do is take her in his arms and tell her how wonderful she is, how much he loves her, or go out and buy her a bouquet of flowers.

IT IS IMPORTANT for the husband to realize that the basic need of his wife is for affection and love. She needs this constant attention and affection from her husband.

Sometimes a man thinks he is a good husband if he is not a drunkard, doesn't run around, and doesn't gamble.

He wonders what more a woman wants. The truth of the matter is that she wants HIM. She did not marry abstract qualities like honesty and sobriety. She married a MAN whom she wants to be her companion. A man must learn to give more, not of things, but of HIMSELF to his wife. That is what she needs: affection, loving consideration and thoughtfulness from the man she loves.

BUT THERE IS A MAN'S side to marriage too. Stemming from his position as protector and provider, the man has a fundamental need for encouragement, comfort and reassurance from his wife.

Quite often he has misgivings about himself. He questions whether he is doing well enough to support his family whether there is enough future in his job so that he can give his loved ones the things he wants them to have. He wonders if he is spending enough time with wife and family. He had misgivings about his relationship with his boss, his clients or his employees.

IN ALL THESE THINGS the man needs the encouragement of his wife and the comfort of a peaceful home in which to take refuge. His wife must make him realize that she is backing him all the way, and is satisfied with the way he supports the family.

A wife should never belittle, but rather build up his self-confidence, so that he is assured of his own adequacy and importance.

THIS IS A VERY fundamental aspect of marriage and the reason so much is written about nagging. Nagging tears down a man's pride and destroys his confidence in himself. Of course, it is the wife's privilege to try to change her husband to suit her ideas of what he should be, but it should never be done in a bitter and destructive way.

A wife must remember, that she can never destroy her husband's pride and still keep his love.

A MAN, BY NATURE, by inclination, and by the acceptance of society, is the head of the home, just as the woman is its heart.

It is wise for the wife to show her recognition of this and to win her husband over to her point of view by persuasion and diplomacy, rather than by attempting to dominate him.

the Plains, they were sent to a reservation in Oklahoma.

In 1900, Major Littlefield began dickering with the owners of the XIT Ranch and the Farwells of Chicago for the Yellow House division of the Capitol Syndicate.

The 235,858 acres of plains land in the Yellow Houses was purchased in 1901. For this Littlefield paid $2.00 an acre, making a cash down payment of $272,000. A note was made for the balance due, which was to be paid in one to six years at six per cent interest.

The Syndicate built some rock houses at Yellow House Spring, and the ranch became the most famous of its seven divisions.

Many hardy frontiersmen and wild cowboys worked for the XIT.

The XIT Ranch was four times bigger than the entire state of Rhode Island.

John Farwell's profit making ideas included selling the land off in small tracts to settlers. He knew this would take time, so while waiting for the land prices to go up he started buying cattle.

It took more money to buy enough cattle to stock the XIT than Farwell could get out of his Chicago dry goods store. Farwell went to London, England, and organized the Capitol Freehold and Investment Co., and raised five million dollars. With this money he bought 110,000 cattle and 781 miles of barbed wire fence.

There were quite a few cattle thieves in those days, so Farwell told his foreman they'd better think up a real good brand that couldn't be changed.

One night the ranch foreman, B. H. (Barbeque) Campbell and Ab Block were sitting around the fire thinking about the brand when a fellow cowpuncher dug XIT in the ground with the heel of his boot.

Campbell and Block did a considerable amount of figuring with those three letters. They decided there wasn't any way this could be changed. Besides, they argued, it would be easy to put on—just five quick thrusts of a straight bar.

And that is how the XIT brand was born.

New Tax Surcharge 'Stumping' Taxpayers

There is good evidence that North Texas taxpayers are having trouble in computing their surtax charge on their 1968 income tax returns.

As a matter of fact, an average of 1211 taxpayers (1/3 of all taxpayer assistance calls) call IRS each day with some sort of surtax charge problem.

About half of these taxpayers feel the Internal Revenue Service is charging them the surtax twice—once through withholding and again when they pay their tax.

(Actually the tax form gives credit for all taxes withheld and IRS refunds any extra tax, whether regular or surtax, when the annual accounting is made by the taxpayer on his tax form.)

An average of 32 taxpayers comes to local IRS offices to have surtax figures checked. This is 7 per cent of taxpayer visitors.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director, points out that North Texas taxpayers, in contrast to reports from other sections, have made comparatively few errors on figuring the surtax charge on tax returns already processed by the computer.

Less than one per cent made a surtax charge error. There is a direct relation between the very large number of telephone calls from taxpayers on how to compute the surtax charge, and the low error rate in tax returns processed by the computer.

Campbell stated "In North Texas we have emphasized that taxpayers should carefully follow their line-by-line instructions in preparing their tax return and in computing the tax they owe. Over the years we have offered to check their figures for them or to answer their questions when they get 'stumped'." "When we help thousands of people on the same problem and the percentage of errors is comparatively low, it is obvious that taxpayers in our area are doing a good job."

The surtax errors come from two sources: (1) Some taxpayers forget to add the surtax to their regular tax, and (2) Some taxpayers fail to follow the complex instructions to make an error in computing the surtax.

The tax surcharge on 1968 income amounts to 7 1/2 percent of the taxpayer's regular tax. For example, if a person's tax was $1,000 before the surcharge, it would be $1,075 with the surcharge taken into account. Although the surcharge is generally described as a 10 percent tax, it did not become effective until April 1, 1968.

To simplify calculations for taxpayers, Congress specified that taxpayers pay 7 1/2 percent of the tax on all of their 1968 income rather than 10 percent of the tax on income earned after April 1, 1968.

Campbell emphasized that taxpayers should read the instructions carefully. The tax surcharge is explained in both the 1040 and 1040 Instructions.
