

Hedging Helps Farmers Get Top Market Price

short when you think the price is going down. When it does, you are sent a check. When it goes up, you meet margin calls.

In the midwest, commodities have reached the point where bankers won't make a loan unless the producers' commodities are covered with a futures contract. More and more, those who loan are prepared to help a farmer or rancher figure in good faith money, additional interest and margin money when he makes his loan each year.

When you play the market with a long position, you actually own that grain, cotton, or whatever, and sell through warehouses.

Spreads and straddles make up a considerable amount of trading activity in commodity futures markets. A spread or straddle means the same person both buys and sells at the same time.

A short sale is made of one delivery month and an offsetting purchase of another delivery month at the same time. Say you have a five cent spread in the short and long positions and the spread remains at five cents, you make quite a bit of money on a small investment. Spreads and straddles can be losers if you misguess.

"The only way to learn about futures is to pick out a broker, sign an agreement, and put up the money it takes to open an account," said Joe Hoelscher of Whitharral. "You'll learn more on one actual contract than you'll learn listening to people and reading for years. Just try one contract to begin with. Feel your way into the futures. Then don't speculate and get greedy," Hoelscher added. "Remember that you're protecting your position. Even after you've learned the ropes, it is a good idea to sell only half of your expected production to allow for unforeseeable factors and human error."

Hoelscher said he really learned fast, because grain went down the limit the first two days after he signed his first contracts, and he lost $2,500 fast. But he made money by staying in when farm produce prices started falling.

Hedging in the futures market provides a unique form of price insurance for producers, processors, landlords and others who depend on agricultural prices. Hedging could be defined simply as the purchase or sale of a futures contract as a temporary substitute for a marketing transaction which will be made at a later date.

In reality, it permits a selling price for a commodity to be locked in months in advance of the actual marketing date. But remember that hedging is a way to manage a risk—not to eliminate risk. Before you hedge, carefully consider key areas of cost of production, the difference between local prices for marketable livestock or produce and futures prices, outlook for prices, and the need for a hedge at existing price levels.

Before you decide to hedge, consider all market factors of supply and demand. Rely on good factual sources from farm publications, newspapers, brokerage houses, university economists and government reports. Then remember that price risk is always present in agriculture, and that utilizing futures markets effectively is one way to deal with this occupational hazard.

A hedge can work for you even before you get your crop in the ground. Right now is a good time to be making money or protecting crops you'll be harvesting next fall.

Selling part of your crop throughout the year on futures contracts when the price pendulum is swinging wildly can help get a better average price.

Let's look at some examples. If you say you've got to have 48 cents a pound for cotton to make a profit and you buy one contract of cotton or 100 bales at 48

County Judge's Office Vacated By Resignation

Lamb County Judge Bill Angel resigned his office this week.

In a letter written Dec. 31 he said:

My Friends: I have given this matter much thought. Circumstances beyond my control make it impossible for me to continue the duties of my office.

I shall always remember and cherish in the depths of my heart that you elected me as your county judge.

Your humble servant,
Bill Angel

The Lamb County Commissioners'

Court met in a called session Friday concerning the resignation. No action was taken, pending placing the matter on the agenda of the next regular meeting, Monday, Jan. 12.

Meantime the Court members will decide whether to fill the vacancy by taking applications or by making an appointment.

In either case, the successor will have to run for office in the next general election which is this year for the term beginning Jan. 1, 1977.

Judge Angel took office exactly one year ago, and had three years remaining in his term.

The following awards will be made at the Banquet: Outstanding Defensive Lineman, Outstanding Offensive Lineman, Outstanding Defensive Back, Outstanding Offensive Back, "Pete Estrada" Fighting Heart Award, and the "Gene Pratt" Most Valuable Player Award.

The 1975 Football Queen will also be crowned.

The public is invited to this annual affair. Tickets may be purchased from a Q.B. Club member or at the door Thursday night. The price of admission is $5.

Glass Boxes Filling

Collection of old eye-glasses by the Early Risers Lions Club is still underway. The old frames and lenses will be turned in to enable the Lions Club to get a discount on prices they pay when they buy eyeglasses for needy school children.

A count of the number of pairs has not been made, but several collection agencies at local businesses report their boxes are full. The box at the Leader-News contains about 35 pairs. Some Post resident sent a package to the newspaper office addressed to the Early Risers Lions and inside were nine pairs of glasses.

HERBERT DUNN announced this week that he will be a candidate for reelection to the office of tax assessor-collector of Lamb County. In stating his intentions he named himself as campaign chairman.

Introducing our new formula for skin beauty...

NEW Endocrine 29 PLUS with MPF

MPF - "Cosmetic Face Lift" Scientific Formula helps to Revitalize Moisture-Starved Facial Lines and Wrinkles . . . in just Days!

LADIES . . . if your mirror reveals vexing, age-making lines, your skin beauty problems are solved at last! Nothing could make you happier than your introduction to new ENDOCREME 29 PLUS with MPF (no hormones). Due to dedicated research by distinguished cosmetic scientists, one of nature's vital beauty secrets has been unlocked. ENDOCREME has named it MPF — the MOISTURE PLUS FACTOR, and now makes it available to you in the United States. A more youthful look can now be yours . . . dry skin lines actually banished from your face!

ABOUT SKIN AGING — It is a fact that in women of a certain age, the cells of the epidermis usually begin to shrink, due to their inability to obtain moisture, and retain it. The fiber support of the outer layer weakens. The skin starts to dry out and "cave in". These are the lines and wrinkles that give the epidermis a rapidly aging look . . . that hold on your appearance that seems insurmountable.

Now however, with the scientific discovery of a process for augmenting the skin's oil and moisture needs by quickly supplying necessary elements to the depressed cells, surface lines are first softened, then smoothed. Plumped up from beneath until they nearly, or completely vanish from even the closest scrutiny. The basis of this "cosmetic face lift" — MPF, is now an integral element in all of the new ENDOCREME 29 PLUS beauty care products.

WHAT IS MPF? Synthesized to replace a vital natural element, MPF's function helps to re-establish the critical moisture balance of your skin. More than just a moisturizer, skin softener or protective base, MPF is neither a hormone or a steroid. MPF supplements nature's own regulating factor. Its action stimulates your cells to become hydrophilic, to accept and utilize the required moisture and other vital ingredients in new ENDOCREME 29 PLUS.

HERE'S HOW — Your "cosmetic face lift" begins each night by removing your makeup with ENDOCREME 29 PLUS Moisture Cleanser with MPF. It reaches deep down to give you a clean, clear, fresh-looking skin without destroying its vital moisture balance. Cleansing your skin properly is a prerequisite for insuring the younger look that Night Cream with MPF will help to bring.

ENDOCREME 29 PLUS Night Cream with MPF is the ultimate emollient. A deep-action moisturizer, it is quickly absorbed and retained by the skin. The wonder ingredient MPF works overnight, all night with optimum results. Use before retiring. Feel your skin respond to the gentle circular motion of your fingertips. Notice how the Night Cream vanishes . . . actually non-oily!

Then, greet the new day with ENDOCREME 29 PLUS Moisture Lotion with MPF. As a moisturizing base it fights dry skin wrinkles, non-stop . . . lifting harsh age signs from the surface of your face. Day by day watch the lines lessen and lessen . . . becoming more difficult to find. See your zest for living become enhanced — for to look younger really feels younger!

NOW . . . FACE IT! That's all there is to it . . . this fabulously satisfying new ENDOCREME Facial Beauty Plan. Within days it will help to bring you a more youthful, come-alive complexion . . . lifting your spirits as it smooths your dry skin lines. Now you know the truly exhilarating feeling of your ENDOCREME 29 PLUS look . . . knowing that it will remain with you. It's beautiful!

For your complete ENDOCREME 29 PLUS Facial Beauty Plan with MPF:

MRS. MARVIN MATTHEWS

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Lisa Roberts, Marvin Matthews

Lisa Rae Roberts and Marvin Lynn Matthews exchanged the double ring wedding vows in a Candlelit twilight ceremony in the Crescent Park Church of Christ Saturday, Jan. 3, at 5:30 p.m.

Phil Harguess, associate minister of the church, read the wedding ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Roberts of Littlefield and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Matthews of Spade.

The bride was presented for marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of candlelight satin and organza designed and fashioned by her mother. Alencon lace e-ged the scooped neckline. The gown featured long fitted petal point sleeves, an empire bodice, an A-line skirt and chapel length trail all accented with appliques of re-embroidered, pearl studded lace. Her headpiece was a matching lace-edged chapel length mantilla.

She carried a tapered bouquet of stephanotis, and pink and burgundy roses outlined in baby's breath. She carried out the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue.

The church was decorated with large arrangements of pink and burgundy gladiolas and baby's breath. The focal point was a memory candle flanked by spiral candelabras with pink candles and huckleberry foliage.

Ann Mackey was maid of honor, Lori Roberts, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Angi Matthews, niece of the groom, was flower girl. The bride's attendants wore floor-length dress of burgundy velvet with insets and sleeves of pink, rose and burgundy patchwork velvet. They carried colonial bouquets of frenched pink carnations centered with burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Tommy Batson served the groom as best man. Gaylon Reed was the groomsman and Jerry Cox and Connie Bowman were ushers.

An a cappella choir from the Crescent Park Church accompanied soloist, Alvis Jones in singing "Sunrise, Sunset," "One Hand, One Heart," and "Annie's Song."

The bride's mother wore a formal pink and white ombre stripe dress with tan accessories and pink cymbidium orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige A-line dress with a pink cymbidium corsage accessories to match.

Following the ceremony reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. Treva Richardson of the church and sister of the groom, Karen Morton of Antioch, Carrie Ware and Bowman registered round tables covered with lace cloths with holding pink and burgundy and baby's breath. Williams, cousin of the bride, distributed rice bags.

For a wedding trip to River, N.M. the bride light green gaberdine fitted coat and pink shirt to match. She carried a corsage from her bouquet.

Both the bride and groom are freshmen at Texas Tech University. They will be their home at 2232 Ash Lubbock.

Money doesn't come easy! In order to continue uninterrupted, dependable and adequate service, it's necessary that we replace old, worn-out equipment with newer, more efficient facilities. Included are power plants which, these days, require very expensive pollution control devices.

To take care of such requirements over the next five years, we'll need $389 million dollars. Of this amount, we'll have to borrow $252 millions of dollars . . . a financial challenge that we'll overcome.

By ENRIK NADEA

AN OFFICIAL OF THE Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) called Midland officials recently and requested a parking space at the Midland airport.

However, Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., tired of all the bureaucratic "red tape" that cities have to go through to get something out of a federal agency, decided to give the bureaucrats a dose of their own medicine.

After the city of Midland spent several months and many dollars getting a HUD grant processed recently, Angelo wrote the following letter to HUD in answer to a request for the parking space:

"Reference is made to the request of J. C. Hays, Community Development Area Representative from your office for a parking space at the Midland Regional Air Terminal for a U.S. Government vehicle to be used by your staff when they visit the West Texas area from time to time.

"We will of course be happy to process a proper application, but a simple request by telephone or letter just won't do at all. In order to justify as many public employees as possible and to make things as difficult as possible for anyone trying to do business with the City of Midland, we have adopted a few regulations and guidelines with which you must comply which are set out as follows:

"1. You must obtain from the U.S. Government Printing Office, or the National Archives, or the Library of Congress, or some place, a supply of application form COM-975. You must submit three executed and fourteen unexecuted copies of this application which we will then distribute to our Department of Aviation, Fire and Police Departments, the City Attorney's office and anyone else we can think of when they arrive.

"2. With the application submit the make and model of the proposed vehicle together with certified assurances that everyone connected with the manufacture servicing and operation of same were paid according to a wage scale that complies with the requirements of the Davis-Bacon Act.

"3. Submit a genealogical table for everyone who will operate said vehicle so that we can ascertain that there will be a precisely exact equal percentage of whites, blacks and other minorities, as well as women and the elderly.

"4. Submit certified assurances that this plan has been discussed at length with the EEOC and submit that commission's certification that requirement 3 above has been fully complied with.

"5. Submit certified assurances that all operators of said vehicle and any filling station personnel that service same will be equipped with steel toed boots, safety goggles and crash helmets and that the vehicle will be equipped with at least safety belts and an air bag to show compliance with the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

"6. Submit an Environmental Impact Statement. You will probably want to hire an expensive consultant for this item, as you probably have no one on your staff with the expertise to prepare it. The statement should show the number of times the vehicle will be operated, times of day, the name of the operator of the vehicle, the number of other vehicles that might be coming into or leaving the parking lot at the same time as well as the number and type of aircraft that might be landing or taking off at the airport at the same time and an exact conclusion as to the effect this will have on the atmosphere in West Texas.

"7. In order to obtain approval of a negative Environmental Impact Statement, you will not be able to:

"a) Operate the car on gasoline produced from domestic oil because that would require that someone discover it, and it is possible that some private person, firm or corporation might realize a profit as a result of such activities and this simply won't do. However, if the gasoline is produced from foreign oil, this will be acceptable and we don't care what grade it is or how much profit the foreign producers make, nor will we even concern ourselves about this.

"b) Operate the car from energy produced by coal because this might require digging a hole in the ground and that is simply not acceptable in the United States;

"c) Operate the car by solar energy because this is the most abundant source of energy available and it is entirely too practical to justify any expenditure for research or development; or "d) Operate the car with nuclear energy because it is available.

"The use of wind power is acceptable.

"8. Submit a certificate from the Attorney General of the United States that all of the certifiers of the above assurances are fully and legally authorized by Congress to make such certificates and the Mr. Hays is duly and legally authorized by Congress and the President to make this application, and that the United States of America is duly organized and legally existing independent nation with full right, power and authority to operate automobiles in the first place.

"Upon receipt for the foregoing, rest assured that the application will be promptly referred to someone for approval. We cannot state at this time who that someone will be because whatever department he or she is in will be undergoing a process of reorganization and the delegation of authority of approval will change from day to day and you will just have to take pot luck as to who has the authority to approve your application, if anyone."

The letter is signed, "Very truly yours, Ernest Angelo, Jr., Mayor."

STAR-SPANGLED HISTORY

HISTORICAL DRAWINGS BY JOSEPH BOGGS BEALE (1840-1920)

"AND NOW IS THE TIME TO FIGHT!"

John Muhlenberg was an American Lutheran minister in Woodstock, Virginia. One Sunday, after conducting services, Muhlenberg removed his robe to reveal his army uniform. That day he enlisted the men of his congregation into a fighting regiment with him as its colonel. During the Revolution, Muhlenberg commanded troops at the battles of Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth and Yorktown. While serving in the army he rose to the rank of major general. ## HONNY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

NEVER HAVE WE seen so many "On again, Off again" propositions. The suspense is maddening. First came the tax reduction thing, followed by the hassle over the postal increase, and finally, for Texans, is the voter registration mess.

Seems that guys with the ability to make decisions and stick with them are at a premium. — Wisly-washy doesn't clean much dirty linen!

THE PRESIDENTS' reversal of his decision in the New York City "bail-out" hasn't been forgotten, either. Guess the game of politics causes people to do strange things, although they're still hard to be understood. — Big trouble being, that we're in for a full year of the same stuff.

Of course, I'm as greedy as anyone, when it comes to keeping some of my own tax money. I haven't been able to understand, however, how it makes sense to cut taxes, while increasing spending by a bankrupt government.

THE POSTAL MAILING increase I could understand if the postal department were supposed to be a self-supporting enterprise. By no stretch of the imagination do I buy the story of postal employees going without pay unless the rates were increased.

On the other side of the coin is the idea that postal service should be paid for by those that use it. This would make the idea seem quite fair, if they were taken off federal monies paid by average John Q. Taxpayer — which of course, they will NOT be.

NOW, I HAVE no fight with the postal service, save perhaps, the junk mail they keep stuffin' in my box. (That form 1040, for instance!) However, I've always regarded the postal service as another public service afforded by our donations to the U.S. Government.

At present, tho, it merely looks like that 30 percent increase is just another way of increasing federal revenue. You people that didn't get a Christmas card from me this past year, probably won't get one this year, either.

NOW AS FOR the purification of Texas voting roles, this only amounts to another case of the majority being ruled by a minority. Gets tiresome, doesn't it? If there was ever a crying need for anything, this must be it.

I've registered to vote at least a half dozen times since poll taxes were abolished. Yet, I'm still not surprised to find that my son who lives in Austin, is still registered here, while any account of "Pore Ol' Cornball is not to be found! — Could be that I'm supposed to be votin' in Austin?"

SURE GETS TIRESOME listening to the oil companies trying to justify themselves for the constant escalation of fuel prices! — Eh, what? That's all right, fellows. I wasn't going anywhere, anyway.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE SUPPORT FREEDOM

FROM ALL SIDES, the demand for personal liberty and personal rights continues to be heard. Many good things are being done in the name of personal freedom, but many strange things are being done, too. Of course, all of us appreciate a social and political structure in which we can have our freedom. There is, however, an abundance of evidence that very little connection is being made between our rights and the attending responsibilities.

IT IS OBVIOUS that many people of all ages know about, and insist upon their rights. Oftentimes, great efforts are made to be sure that all rights are granted to us; and that nothing interferes with the full use of these personal rights. Of course, there is nothing wrong with this arrangement. Unfortunately, however, this is often the limit of our interest and our understanding. We seldom hear about or give any consideration to the responsibilities and obligations which must be seen and accepted as part of the freedom structure.

"FREEDOM IS NOT FREE." In fact, the cost is high, very high. The truth is that we may not even know what it does cost, and it is possible that we cannot know. Nevertheless, we do know that the cost is high and that our freedom is very precious. If it is difficult for us to fully understand and appreciate this great blessing, it is even more difficult to understand and appreciate the cost.

THE VERY LEAST we can do to use freedom wisely is to survive any other way. We are to do as we please, but it is not many persons hold the faultless attitude of mind, freedom destroyed. There will be anarchy, until some sort of order and control is established. The freedom is essential to its own preservation.

"THE ONLY FREEDOM that deserves the name is that which we obtain in our own way. We do not attempt to deprive their freedom, or impede their obtain it." — J. S. Mill.

THERE ARE OBLIGATIONS and responsibilities which are attached to freedom. Whatever we make to set these aside, and our freedom stand alone, we are the same as efforts to destroy our freedom. If this seems strange, some study of the history and the freedom will dispel the strangeness. We will also learn that freedom, if we fail to learn the essential supports upon which it depends; or if we know about supports and just carelessly neglect them.

"WE SUPPORT FREEDOM" mean more than that we are free; it must mean that we are doing all we can to meet the obligations and responsibilities.

A Woman's View

By PEARL BRANDON

A FRIEND of mine, Mrs. Nettie Hall, brought me this lovely poem. Since I am in the hospital again, I am using it for my column this week. The author is unknown.

Today upon a bus I saw a lovely maiden with golden hair I envied her, she seemed so gay, and I wished I was so fair When suddenly she arose to leave, I saw her hobble down the aisle She had one foot and wore a crutch, but as she passed, a smile "I have two feet, the world is mine. O God, forgive me when I whine."

And when I stopped to buy some sweets, the lad who sold them Had such charm — I talked to him. He said to me, "It is nice to talk to one like you You see, he said, "I am blind." Oh God, forgive me when I whine

I have two eyes, the world is mine Then walking down the street child with eyes of blue, He stood and watched the other it seemed he knew not what I stopped for a moment, then said don't you join the others, dear! He looked ahead without a word then I knew he could not hear.

Oh God, forgive me when I whine I have two ears, the world is mine With feet to take me where I go With eyes to see the sunset's glow With ears to hear what I would O God, forgive me when I whine, blessed indeed, The world is mine!

I HAD ANOTHER little episode my heart. I hope to be well enough week to write. I am doing fine, you Mrs. Hall for the poem.

TEXAS 1876

January 1 - 7, 1876

FORT WORTH — Happy New Year — this is the first day of January, 1876. Quite a number of drunks and downs were reported for Christmas Week, but not a single fight, as far as we have learned. Truly Fort Worth is a peaceable town.

WACO — Marshall & Early's block was burned on New Year's Eve with the entire stock of goods lost. Loss totalled $20,000; insurance on block $6,000; on stock $5,000. Cause unknown.

HOUSTON — The meeting of the opponents to the new constitution called at Perkin's Theater at noon today was a complete failure. The Houston reporter of the Galveston News, the commercial editor of the Telegraph and one of the publishers of the Age were the only persons present. Two of those favor the instrument and the other is on the fence.

GALVESTON — This week, month and year closed simultaneously upon a dull cotton market.

BRENNHAM — There are 14 prisoners in our county jail, and nine of the number are charged with hog stealing. This amusement costs the taxpayers a dear price.

GALVESTON — Two dead bodies have been discovered in a cesspool in the rear of, and on the outside of the City Hospital grounds. Although the bodies were too far decomposed to ascertain their identities, it was obvious from the state of the corpses that they had been used as subjects in the dissecting room. An investigation has been ordered in the "shocking affair."

FORT WORTH — There is something wrong at the Dallas post office. Letters have been received here recently 10 days after they were mailed and postmarked at Dallas.

NAVARRO COUNTY — Corsicana shipped from Sept. 1 to Dec. 29, 10,053 bales of cotton, 33,700 pounds of wool, 58,403 hides and 1,383 head of live stock.

NACOGDACHES COUNTY — The bones of a large mastodon have been discovered near Nacogdoches.

ADVERTISED IN LEADING TEXAS NEWSPAPERS — "The Great Tonic." The West India Stomach Bitters — Distilled from vegetable ingredients — it is guaranteed to improve the appetite, increase the quantity of blood and provide a swift and certain cure for dyspepsia, liver complaint, indigestion, intermittent fever, fever and ague, flux, colics and female problems.

Depth To Water Measurement Begins

Personnel of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 will begin the annual measurement of the depths to water in the more than 800 observation wells in the 15 counties comprising the District on Jan. 5.

Purple and white identification tags will be placed on the well-head equipment of all observation wells measured in 1976. The water-level records obtained via the observation well program constitute the foundation for the District's cost-in-water depletion, incometax-allowance, program.

The coordinated and systematic measurement of the depths to water in the observation wells located in Lamb County constitutes the only method of determining changes in the volume of water stored in the Ogallala aquifer beneath the land surface.

An observation well is a well that has been selected for inclusion in the annual water-level measuring program. All wells are privately-owned—the District does not own any wells—and are measured with the permission of the well owners.

District personnel will measure wells in Armstrong,
Bailey, Castro, Cochran,

Crosby, Deaf Smith, Floyd,
Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Parmer, Potter and Randall Counties.

... HEDGING

cents. If you've got it hedged to sell short and the market moves down 18 cents, you'll have $8,000 supplement to add to what you sell the cotton for at the gin next fall. If you have 10 contracts, that's $80,000 for 1,000 bales.

But what if cotton goes up? Maybe there is a wide-spread hail storm all across the Texas High Plains or there's a big flood in Mississippi, or something drastic happens in California or the Arizona cotton belts and cotton goes up from 48 cents a pound to 68 cents a pound, then you BUY commodity futures to go up.

Then every time the price moves up one cent you add $500 to your profit.

Thus you could be making money even if you're wiped out completely. If enough acres are destroyed and you think the price is going up, transfer to a paper contract. Remember you don't have to deliver. There are 36 commodities, and only two percent are delivered.

"For a long time I thought I had to grow and deliver middling 1 1/16-inch cotton to hedge," Hoelscher said. "Actually only a few who grow the longer staple ever deliver. All you need to remember is there is about 15 cents a pound price difference between middling 1 1/16 and the grade and staple we grow here in West Texas. Thus if you say you've got to have 40 cents a pound for your cotton, you can average that 40 cents when the futures commodity price is 55 cents a pound."

If you maintain a $10,000 margin and the market moves against you, you haven't lost $10,000 if the cash movement is parallel to the futures prices. You'll lose money on the futures contract, but the price of the product has moved upward $10,000 and you've still satisfied yourself with that 40 cents a pound you said you had to have as a guaranteed price. Even though you are short $10,000 of what you would have been if you had not been hedged, the cash offsets the move.

If the market goes down, you make money on the hedge but lose money on the crop. If the market goes up you lose on the hedge but make money on the crop.

Curtis Israel, a broker at E. F. Hutton

in Lubbock, recently gave this example.

This is an extreme example, but say you contracted 500 bales of cotton in 1972 before the price started escalating. You should have been buying to offset what you were going to lose. In September of 1973 you should have been looking at the fall of 1974. On 500 bales, if you had ridden it down until you got a reversal, then lifted your hedge and liquidated and got out, then bought back in, you would have made $300,000 more on those 5 contracts of cotton than the 28 cents a pound or whatever you sold them for.

"You have the best of both worlds when you hedge on a slipping market, get out, then establish another hedge when futures start climbing again," Hoelscher said.

Hoelscher has done more hedging on the grain market than cotton. "But you shouldn't hedge on the milk market," Hoelscher emphasized. "There isn't enough active trading in milk. Corn is closest to milk, the safest and cheapest to hedge in."

All grain is a protein unit. If you grow milk, hedge on wheat, corn or soybeans. One grain contract is 5,000 bushels of wheat, soy beans, corn, oats, barley, rye, rapeseed or flaxseed. For practical purposes, a 56-pound bushel is equal to 100 pounds of milk.

If you must have $4 per hundred for milk to make a profit, or maybe just break even, convert this into bushels like this. If corn is $2.40 on the futures, take that $2.40 and divide it by six to find that the price per bushel you'd be getting is $4 per hundred. When the commodity futures price reaches the point where you can make a profit—hedge it.

As a counter attack, you can put a stop-loss order in at the time you buy. If the market moves against you, you've got your stop order in. You can get out, and you can get back in. You're not tied to a futures contract the way you're tied to a production contract. With a production contract you're stuck—you can lift your hedge.

Say you buy a grain contract on November futures at $5 per hundred and as the harvest proceeds grain drops to $3.80. For every cent grain goes down, you make $50 or $1.20 per hundred. For one contract you'd add $10,000 profit to what you get when you sell it at the elevator.

The same principle applies whether you are trading hogs, cattle, grain, cotton, soybeans or any products on the trading futures.

To be sure, any time there is a chance to make a profit, you can lose. There is always a degree of speculation which isn't without its risks. If you life a hedge on a short-term upward climb which is followed by a downtrend for a time, then you'd lose on both the futures and the cash markets.

Even when you place a stop-loss order, under certain conditions the market can move right through your stop-loss orders and rise or fall the daily limit several days before your trade can be executed. With several contracts, and the market opening down the limit for any given period of time, this can call for plenty of margin money and offset some mighty good gains.

If you'll remember that trading futures is a way to guarantee a certain price and not speculate and get greedy, hedging can be a valuable marketing tool.

To be sure, any time there is a chance to make a profit, you can lose. There is always a degree of speculation which isn't without its risks. If you lift a hedge on a short-term upward climb, followed by a downtrend for a time, then you lose on both the futures and the cash markets.

Even when you place a stop-loss order, under certain conditions the market can move right through your stop-loss orders and rise or fall the daily limit several days before your trade can be executed. With several contracts and the market opening down the limit for any given period of time this can call for plenty of margin money. When you sign a futures contract, you sign over body and soul.

It was only during the Civil War that Rhett Butler sold cotton for $1 a pound. And soybeans reached $12 and $13 highs in 1974 for the first and only time.

Smart producers will let history teach them a marketing lesson that will sharpen their marketing skill and strategy in the future. And one of these could be hedging on futures markets.

Amarillo College Plans Trip Abroad

Plans are underway at Amarillo College for Summer '76 Abroad, the second European study tour sponsored by the school. The tentative schedule calls for a 28-day trip in July that will include visits to England, Greece, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and France. An added attraction to the tour is that persons may earn six hours college credit in general humanities by taking the tour and later writing a paper on the experience. The credit is applicable to any degree and is transferable, said Dr. R. Eugene Byrd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Amarillo public school teachers may apply the six hours credit toward their professional growth requirement, according to Dr.

David Austin, deputy superintendent of Amarillo schools. "Persons wishing to earn credit will enroll at AC during summer school registration and pay regular tuition charges," said Dr. Byrd. "However, persons are also welcome to take the tour for non-credit."

Robert Hoffman, chairman of the AC music department, is coordinating Summer '76 Abroad with the International Exchange School, which arranges the charter flights and itinerary.

Last year's study tour, Summer '75 Abroad, was acclaimed a success by the AC coordinators, Jo Walker, associate professor of English, and Dr. Dale Roller, professor of music.

"As the tour progressed, Dr. Roller and I were pleased to see our students gaining increasing enthusiasm and confidence in themselves," said Mrs. Walker. "We felt that our hopes for the tour were being fulfilled. This fall, when student papers began to come in, there was no doubt about its value for our students."

"The cost is not definite yet, but will be somewhere between $1600 and $1850, including insurance and tuition," said Hoffman.

Some of the specific sites to be visited include the Parthenon and Acropolis in Athens, the Lion of Lucerne, the Medici Palace and Uffizi Gallery in Florence, and the Tyrolean Folk Museum in Innsbruck. Other places are Buckingham Palace and Westminster Abbey in London, the Arc of Triumph and Eiffel Tower in Paris, and the Vatican and the Colosseum in Rome.

Several theatre, opera and ballet performances are listed in the itinerary.

More information concerning Summer '76 Abroad may be obtained from Hoffman at AC.
