IMPORT PLAN BACKED

Water Group Opens Membership Drive

Directors of the Lamb County Water Association met Thursday night to pass out window stickers declaring "Water Is Life" and cards to sign up new members in the county water group.

Membership cards say the member is promoting imported water from the Mississippi River to Bull Lake for irrigation, industry, city and recreation.

"The future of life and growth in Lamb County and on the Texas High Plains depends on planning for imported water," said John D. Smith, president of the organization.

"Without it, the area economy can and will shrink to pre-irrigation day levels. The Lamb County Water Association is dedicated to doing its part in the area wide effort to bring adequate supplies of water from wherever it can be found in surplus for use in homes, industry, land and for recreation.

"It is unbelievable what unlimited water for this area could do," Smith said. "Already this area produces more than 44 out of 50 states. When water is gone, we've had it. But with plenty of water this area stands to gain everything. Imagine what it would be worth to this area just to have 186,000 acre feet of water in Bull Lake.

"That is the proposed amount that will be stored at Bull Lake due to the natural depression there. Water will be up to the shoulder of the road. Lamb County will be in the bull's eye center of the largest storage reservoir on the South Plains."

THIS AREA is now third in cattle production. It is expected to be first within 10-15 years. Tanneries are now looking at this area as a place to locate plants.

By-products from such a large amount of water are unbelievable officials say. Heat generated from water moving into this area would be enough to actually boil the Mississippi, engineers say. This heat when used commercially would be enough for fantastic industries not yet thought of for this area.

When the water plan was first introduced into the legislature two years ago, the South Plains was left out entirely. Now the High Plains is scheduled to get 8 1/2 million acre-feet of the proposed 12 1/2 million.

WATER, INC., officers say this part of the state is in a good position

"WATER IS LIFE" is the slogan chosen by the Lamb County Water Association. John D. Smith, president of the county group and instrumental in the Water Plan on the state level, is shown placing one of the stickers on his pick-up to kick off the county drive for members.

Hospital Fate To Be Decided Next Saturday

Voters will decide the fate of the Earth-Springlake Hospital District in the special election at Earth, Saturday, March 29.

To be eligible to vote, a person must be a registered resident in the district and have rendered real or personal property tax before Jan. 1 of this year.

Persons interested in retaining the hospital district attended a meeting at the Farth FFA Show Barn Tuesday night. Doug Parish told the group they would have to mark their ballots "against" in order to vote for keeping the hospital district. Persons wishing to abolish the hospital district will have to mark the "for" on the ballot, he said.

Parish reminded voters that they could seek the help of election officials at the time they vote. W. C. Maxey will serve as election judge.

The boundary lines of the proposed Olton hospital district seems to be one of the main issues of the Earth-Springlake issue. The west boundary line of the Olton hospital district is reportedly the east boundary line of the Earth-Springlake district.

Present directors of the Earth-Springlake Hospital District were elected on their opposition to the district. They say they feel the district was created without the consent of the majority of the tax payers' approval.

"We ran on the platform that if the hospital district was created that it should represent the voice of the majority of the tax payers," Kenneth Cowley said. "This is the reason this has been brought back to a vote, to let the majority decide on whether they want to support such a district or not."

THROUGH DECA PROGRAM

Students Aim At Future

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

Twenty-nine Littlefield distributive education students are employed at 25 different businesses in Littlefield working at everything "from soup to nuts."

The spotlight is on these members of the Distributive Education Club of America who are celebrating DECA Week here beginning today.

Several of the students are employed in the line of work they hope to make their vocation, or that is what they think at this point in their lives.

Vicki McKinnon does display work at Connell's Office Supply. Vicki is interested in design and planning to major in something in this field in college.

Brian Noble has started toward the vocational work he hopes to do in electronics in later years by being associated in electrical work at Littlefield Appliance.

ROBERT WOOD wants to be a florist and has a good start with his part-time employment at Chisholm Floral.

Distributive education is becoming tradition in this case, with the employer of the D. E. student being a former DECA member himself.

Just a few years ago Kip Cutshall was employed in the Littlefield D. E. program, and now as part-owner of Chisholm Floral, he is in a position to really understand the relationship of the employer, employee and the school coordinator.

Bob Bromlow, manager of Piggly Wiggly, is a former D. E. student, with DECA Terry Hobbs now in his employ.

Randy Aduddell is employed at Cox Furniture where part-owner Calvin Jones began his career as a D. E. student, employed by the Coxes when they were in business at Levelland.

TAKING D. E. is getting to be a family tradition in some cases, too. Carolyn Witcher was a D. E. student employed at Sprouse-Reitz, and now her sister Lajuana is following in Carolyn's footsteps. Buddy, the girls' brother, has applied for the D. E. program next year.

Students meet a 55-minute class each day and work a minimum of 15 hours per week under the guidance of Mrs. Joycelyn Henry, teacher-coordinator for Littlefield DECA. They are paid minimum wages in some cases where the business falls under this law.

In some situations the students draw more, and in others they make less.

"We can't tell the employers how much to pay," Mrs. Henry said.

One Littlefield D. E. student is married, and is finishing high school and supporting his family on what he makes on his job as a member of DECA.

He is an exception, since school

Woman Dies From Gunshot

Mrs. Mary Luella Dillon, 56, a resident of Littlefield 21 years, was discovered dead by her husband, Joe, when he returned home shortly before 11 a.m. Thursday.

Lamb County Justice of Peace J. N. Bowen ruled her death the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound. He said the wound was from a .22 caliber pistol bullet in the right temple. Mrs. Dillon had been in ill health about three years.

Investigating officers were Lamb County Sheriff E. D. McNeese and deputies Jerry Collins and V. L. Smith, Jr.

Services were held in the Littlefield Missionary Baptist Church Saturday with Rev. Kenneth Johnson, pastor, officiating, with burial in the Littlefield Cemetery.

A list of survivors and funeral arrangements may be found in the obituary columns.

METHUSELAH'S CHILDREN

They Rubbed Elbows With Coast Hippies

"Great and -- well, sort of" for a group of Littlefield boys who appeared on national television, run down Sunset Strip, poke and the footprints at Grauman's Chinese Restaurant and rub elbows with the hippies and flower children in Hollywood.

David Conway, Dan Harrell and Gary Thompson recently were guests on the nationally televised show "The Happening," emceed by Paul Revere and the Raiders.

"It's different" to sit at home in their own living room two weeks later and see yourself on television. That's what these three did.

David Conway has a word of advice for the Hollywood bound young people: "Don't wear good clothes."

"WE WERE WALKING down the Boulevard and the Strip in our corduroy shirts, corduroy coats, permanent pressed pants," he said. "Everyone thought we were selling dope or selling pot or LSD."

He said they were approached a number of times by people asking to sell them drugs and "stuff". "Only people who are friendly are the cab drivers and other 'downers,' they reported. They also asked if they wanted to buy pot or pot. But the average person on the street won't even talk to you, they

"We were also invited to some religious meditations," Conway said. "Everyone on the Boulevard and Strip looked like they were on drugs -- walking around in hot other all wrapped up in fur coats, looking pale, and like they hadn't slept ever so long."

THE GROUP said they just had a lot of fun "running around like a bunch of idiots without getting into any trouble," although they thought they were going to get mugged once or twice.

"We looked up and all of a sudden we would be five or six monsters standing us, then all of a sudden they would just laugh and go on," Conway said.

The group flew to California by jet. It was the first flight for Conway and Harrell and the second time Thompson had flown. They stayed in the Hollywood Knickerbocker Hotel while they were feted to 10 big buckets of Kentucky fried chicken in the radio at Sunday noon, "with everyone digging in and fighting over it."

The boys were first invited to be on the televised program in December, but two in the group they were to compete against were drafted.

"HAPPENING" tapes four shows the first of every month. The Littlefield boys, known as "Methuselah's Children" were the first band in the second show, and played from the tape that was made earlier.

"When we started playing that tape, I was scared to death," David Conway said. "I just knew we would miss the first beat."

The highlight of the trip for Conway was having his picture made with Merrilee Rush, a very popular singer with male teenagers. He said he also enjoyed talking with Keith Allison, bass player for the Raiders.

The Strip made a lasting impression on Dan Harrell. "All those beads and leather flaps. Boy, it's different," he said.

Sudan Infant Drowns In Neighbor's Swim Pool

Ronnie Lee Nelson, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Nelson of Sudan, was discovered drowned in a neighbor's swimming pool shortly before 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Justice of Peace W. T. Vereen pronounced the child dead at the scene after efforts to revive him failed. Vereen ruled the death accidental drowning.

The child had been put down for a nap earlier and apparently wandered out of the house and through an open gate to the neighbor's fenced-in pool where his body was discovered approximately 25 feet from his home.

The pool had about two feet of water in the deep end due to recent showers and melting snow.

Services were held Saturday in the Sudan First Baptist Church with burial in the Seagraves Cemetery.

A memorial fund has been set up at the Sudan First National Bank.

Final arrangements may be found in the obituary columns.

Merchants Plan Night Promotion

A big help for the nearing Easter Parade has been planned by several Littlefield downtown merchants.

They're planning a big, money-saving "Moonlight Madness" Sale Thursday night, between 7 and 10 p.m.

Their budget-minded prices will be featured in Thursday's issue of the Leader-News.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION STUDENT Robert Wood has his work checked by his employer Kip Cutshall and his coordinator-instructor, Mrs. Joycelyn Henry. Cutshall, part-owner of Chisholm Floral, is a former D. E. student. Littlefield students are celebrating National Distributive Education Club of America Week today through March 29.

Phi Kappa Phi is unique in that it recognizes scholarship in all areas of academic endeavor, rather than restricting its elections to a specific and limited field.

Only those graduate students who rank in the top 10 percent of the graduate class are eligible for membership."

Mrs. Newton is a graduate of Anton High School where she was valedictorian of her class.

officials don't advocate high school marriages, "but when a student does get married, it is better to keep them in school until they graduate," Mrs. Henry said.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for the course, students must be a junior or senior, at least 16 years old, with a passing average, have a good attendance record and be good citizens.

Students passing the course receive two credits per year.

"Some students may sign up for the course because they think it is an easy way to get credits," Mrs. Henry said. "But they end up earning their credits."

Students with various aptitudes and reasons take D. E. Some really need to work. Others just want the experience gained in employment.

Most DECA students arrange their schedule to get out of school at noon, and work afterwards. "Their jobs are actually an extension of school work," Mrs. Henry said, "since I have authority over them on the job, too."

Once each six weeks, the D. E. students' employers fill out an evaluation sheet and this becomes part of the DECA's grade.

Mrs. Henry tries to fit students' interests and capabilities to their work. She uses results of aptitude and reasoning tests already given to aid her in these selections.

ONE OF THE first things studied in the classroom is how to apply for a job. Some students have jobs when they enter the program. Mrs. Henry sets up interviews and helps find employment for others.

"I tell them employers here make allowances for high school students not properly applying for positions," Mrs. Henry said. "When they get out in the big, bad world, applying in the right way can mean the difference between getting a job and not getting one."

D. E. is a vocational training course in retailing, wholesaling, and service selling occupations.

"Regardless of what you do, you're selling," Mrs. Henry emphasized. "Our program is a three-way deal involving students and their families, the school, and the businessman."

One of the units first year students enjoy most is a study on shoplifting—how to spot a shoplifter and what to do when they catch a thief.

Other classroom studies are on increasing sales, writing business letters, business arithmetic, advertising, and retail credit. Mrs. Henry added a unit on display this year.

"J. E. Chisholm let us have the display window where his mother had her dress shop," Mrs. Henry said. The first time the DECA decorated the window was during homecoming last fall.

THE CLASS makes plans during class, sketching desired effects on paper, then gets materials together. One class period is used to go downtown and do the actual work.

"If they fail to get it all done in that period, that's it," Mrs. Henry said. She said the class has no equipment whatsoever for this, and students really stretch their imaginations and improvise to complete their projects.

Mrs. Henry feels this is good training, giving students experience in balance and other aspects of design they need in window display. Students also learn to work together in group projects such as this.

Special displays downtown and at school this week show each D. E. student at his place of employment with his employer.

Support of DECA helps develop future leaders for marketing and distribution, Mrs. Henry said.

Two More Olton Stars Ink Pacts

Coaches are still clamoring for members of the great Olton Mustang football team.

Two more starters on the club that went 19-2 the past two seasons, including District 3-AA championships both years, signed pre-enrollment agreements with colleges this week.

Big Steve Burleson is going to Sul Ross at Alpine and talented Kenneth Johnson gets even closer to the Mexican border, at the University of Texas at El Paso.

The pair join Benny Akin (Tech), Charles McClain and Eddie Hooper (both A&M), in gaining their college education choices via the scholarship route.

Burleson, who is going where former Mustang great Joe Priest is making a name for himself, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elma Burleson. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Johnson are the parents of Kenneth.

Olton Graduate Now Ralls Coach

Former Olton Mustang Robert Priest, has been named coach at Ralls High School, it was announced this week.

Priest replaces Luke Nicholson who recently accepted a position at Abernathy. Nicholson was former assistant coach at Olton.

A graduate of Olton and Texas State University, Priest coached four years. One was Plainview and the other three at Olton where he has been the number one assistant the past two seasons.

Ralls, under the guidance of Nicholson and Priest, won the District 4-A championship last fall, losing in the bi-district level to Sudan.

Now Is Time To Feed Quail

There are few farms where there are not opportunities for improving quail habitat by management of quail-food producing plants, says Parsons, wildlife supervisor for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

In many areas of West Texas preferred food plants of bobwhite quail are produced through indifference or accidental disturbance; however, there are ways to intentionally create more quail habitat.

Spring discing in selected areas the most practical method of stimulating growth of native bobwhite quail food-producing vegetation. This especially true of areas adjacent to permanent cover such as brushy areas around timber edges and along fence rows.

If landowners want more quail habitat for their birds, March probably the best time to disc, although any time during the dormant season is acceptable.

Growth stimulation of key food plants such as sunflower, crabgrass and careless weed is accomplished by disc disturbances put more food on the ground during critical periods of food shortage in winter months.

These men know cotton...

...and they know what Paymaster's Certified Lint Block Program means to all High Plains Cotton Growers.

Dr. L. L. Ray
Associate Professor, Texas A & M University
South Plains Research and Extension Center, Lubbock

"The Texas High Plains has made tremendous progress in upgrading the quality of cotton fiber. This was accomplished by planting better varieties, using better quality seed and marketing through lint blocks or similar programs. The image of this area is greatly improved and it has meant millions of dollars to growers. I am concerned that we do not lose ground. We must (1) plant varieties that will produce fiber the mills want and can use; (2) plant the best quality seed; (3) do a good marketing job."

Orville Bailey
Roundup Gin
Anton, Texas

"We've been in the Paymaster Certified Lint Block Program since the start," says Orville Bailey. "I recommend Paymaster Certified III to growers . . . particularly this year. In my opinion, it's the leading cotton in this country — makes more per acre, semi-stormproof, stays in better, has good spinning qualities. Mills like it, so Paymaster Certified lint beats the market and brings a premium price. Believe me, Paymaster's Certified Lint Block Program is a good 'calling card' for a gin."

Harry E. Arthur
Assistant Director, Textile Research Center
Texas Technological College, Lubbock

"A planting program wherein Certified seed is used is certainly a great step toward production of a more uniform fiber. A Certified lint program would help to assure the mills of a reliable supply of quality cotton from which they could choose to produce a given fabric."

C. R. Hedges
Grower
Shallowater

C. R. Hedges plans to plant practically all Paymaster Certified 111 this year. "We had bad weather last year," he says, "but even that I got enough premium for my cotton to make it worth while to be in the Paymaster Certified Lint Block Program. The mills like Paymaster 111 because of its good spinning qualities. But even if there wasn't a premium price for Paymaster 111, I'd still plant it because of its dependable performance."

What The Leader-News Thinks

A Quiet Sunday

AS HOLIDAYS GO, perhaps Easter is imbued with more of a feeling of peace and tranquility than any other.

This year Easter falls on April 6.

The simple pleasures of the children's Easter egg hunt will be combined with Christian observance of the resurrection of Christ.

ONE OF THE greatest pleasures of Easter is the awareness of the new spring season that it brings to all of us. The quietness of Easter Sunday somehow seems to muffle the normal discordant clatter of everyday life.

For a few hours, we can find composure in small tasks and small enjoyments. The tree-lined streets of many communities are a haven of solitude on Easter Sunday.

The flowers and the songbirds, which go unnoticed and unheard by the average passerby during a noisy weekday, are suddenly there as reminders that nature and its creatures have no fear of the city.

THE ORIGIN of the customs of Easter go back to antiquity, as does the symbolism of the Easter egg.

Whatever Easter meant to the ancients, the gentle touch of Christianity has added a special meaning for modern man that makes itself felt on one quiet Sunday of each year.

"Get it? The pilot invites the hijacker to sit down... then blooey!"

THE FARMER'S WIFE

Baby Oil

By LIBBY MUDGETT

SO RICHARD NIXON has settled for baby oil.

If he'll stick with it, we'll be happier and not quite so broke. I thought for a while there he was going to either buy out the whole store or go home empty handed, one or the other.

NOW IN CASE you don't understand the Sentinel defense system, you should get acquainted with it. How can you advise the President intelligently if you don't know the facts? See, we have six different possible anti-missile missiles.

FIRST IS SPARTAN. Now it's job is to attack enemy warheads while they are still hundreds of miles in the atmosphere far from their target.

Then there is SPRINT, which intercepts enemy warheads that have somehow or other gotten past SPARTAN.

It's all very complicated, but it keeps going on this way six times.

NOW YOU MAY wonder what these missiles are supposed to defend, since they're called defensive missiles.

Well silly, they're supposed to defend our attack missiles, of which we have four: MIRV, MINUTEMAN, POLARIS, and WS120.

You ask why aren't the anti-ballistic missiles going to protect people? That's sort of an embarrassing question, but our scientists explained it some way. It all added up to impossible.

YOU WANNA KNOW what kind of missiles our anti-ballistic-missiles are supposed to attack before they can attack our attack missiles? Well, the Soviets have the SCRAG, SAVAGE, FOBS, etc. etc. However, don't worry about them. See, our eminent scientists have also said the Soviets have plenty of missiles that we're unable to defend against.

So howcum we're even talking about an ABM system?

OH, THAT'S for to defend our missiles against Red China's attack missiles. See, they haven't gotten such sophisticated missiles but what we can stop them. And if we'll hurry up, we may can throw up an ABM system to protect our missiles from Red China's missiles just before she gets some missiles as good as Russia's that we can't defend against.

But our President, instead of buying the whole kit and kaboodle of available ABM's, has wisely (so far) settled for just two.

Why do I call them baby oil?

ONCE UPON A TIME, I decided I, too, could be beautiful if I just heeded the advice of a beauty counselor.

She eyed me like a pedigreed dog show judge would eye a mutt, concentrated for a long time, and handed me a jar of goo that contained queen bee extract or the honey or something, with instructions to use it religiously every night.

Then she handed me a bottle of a clear looking liquid and said to take the queen bee's honey off with it.

I WAS WONDERING why not just skip the first, thereby eliminating the need for the second, when she handed me another jar with oily cream and instructions to stroke upward, ever upward, and leave on all night.

I was mentally questioning if that stuff would ever come off of a pillow case even with my strongest bleach when she handed me another, tiny jar.

THE TINY JAR was for the eye area. I asked if what was good for the rest of my face wasn't good for my eye area.

With a painted expression, she explained that horrors, no, the eye area was MUCH more sensitive and needed more correction and handed me a medium sized jar.

IT WAS FOR the throat and neck area, which turned out to be different from either my face or my eye area. All of this required another bottle of liquid to remove come morning, since the first liquid remover would simply NEVER do for both jobs of removing.

Well, I used all that junk until it was gone and I, too, was no closer to being beautiful than when I, too, had first started. Just a lot broker.

SO I SETTLED for my same old face and some baby oil and have been a lot happier ever since. No more queen bee or turtle oil race for me and my pocket book!

Stick to your baby oil, Richard!

letters to the editor. I would suppose that you will have a number of requests concerning the letter criticizing a coach.

I believe that the controversy concerning school lunches and the qualifications of the coach are very wholesome and will benefit the community as well as keeping up your readers' interest in your editorial page.....

I notice that you have won all the awards, plaques, and blue ribbons again for 1968. I did not comment on this, feeling that someone as good as you obviously are does not need to be told.....

LAMB COUNTY SCRAPBOOK

Littlefield Saw Colonization

This is one of a series of stories backgrounding the history of Lamb County. Readers are invited to contribute to the series.

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

From the time George W. Littlefield first bought the Yellow House division of the Capitol Syndicate in 1901, he had in mind colonizing a big portion of the 312,000 acres of the land.

Even then he could visualize settlements of people dotting the plains. He had seen people moving west into the plains states, especially Kansas, following the Civil War. Littlefield concluded that the same would be true of this part of Texas some day.

When more than 150 people had settled at Olton by 1910 Littlefield was sure that colonization would succeed.

Littlefield started the colonization ball rolling by hiring sales manager Arthur Pope Duggan in the summer of 1912.

Duggan's father was county and district clerk for San Saba County from 1888 until 1900, and Duggan had helped his father in this work in 1895-96, so he knew about legal records and local government.

Duggan got his degree from Texas A&M in 1895 in civil engineering, and four years later a degree in law from The University of Texas, after working his way through the two schools.

Duggan apprenticed himself to the opening of new frontiers by handling the estate of his brother-in-law in the one year old town of Stamford and watching the opening of the town and its prospective buyers and businessmen.

A. P. Duggan was a quiet man. He did not practice the "hard sell technique," but rather preferred to counsel with prospective buyers, giving them a careful appraisal of the country and its prospects.

He liked to know each new family personally, and work for their well being. New settlers were associates in a new venture, not simply statistics in a ledger.

Visiting, reading when he could find time, and a "cup of coffee for breakfast, and a glass of eggnog on Christmas morning" constituted his sole indulgences.

Operation of the Littlefield Lands Company began in August, 1912, when Duggan arrived on the Yellow House Ranch.

He started advertising the Littlefield land while the land was still being surveyed. To help with the time-consuming job of writing advertising material, Duggan hired the "one and only" Don Biggers. About three weeks later, the first ad on the new colonization project appeared in the Lubbock paper.

In a "can you beat it?" article, the first ad offered land with no payment for one year to the first 35 families who bought 50 acres or more.

To qualify for this deferred payment, the purchaser was to move onto this land by March 1, 1913, make improvements worth at least $500, and farm a minimum of 40 acres that year.

In addition to this, the buyer could get as many cattle on credit as he could feed.

"It isn't the money the owner of these lands desires so much as it is to settle the same with a class of industrious, progressive, prosperous farmers," the ad proclaimed. This policy guided the company in all its sells.

PAUL HARVEY

If Blacks Turned White

IF EVERY BLACK turned white tonight, tomorrow morning we would find most of our problems unresolved.

Statistically, we would have less crime—but we would still have much too much. The percentage of whites committing crimes is about five times greater than the white population increase.

WE WOULD STILL have unemployment in the midst of plentiful jobs, because 40% of the unemployed are white.

We would still have mothers bearing illegitimate children to make themselves eligible for increasing welfare handouts.

We would still have unwon wars overseas and resultant domestic restiveness.

MANY AMERICANS have been allowing themselves to adopt the ancient scapegoat concept, imagining that we can absolve ourselves of our own sins by blaming everything on the blacks. We can't.

Indeed, the black-white relationship in the United States, in perspective, amounts to a very commendable amalgamation.

HISTORICALLY, many of the world's diverse cultures have not been able to pull as close together in 2,000 years as our black-white cultures have in 200 years.

Britain, for all her centuries of involvement with Africans and Asiatics, is "less close" to them than we Americans are to one another.

That we have domestic black-white strife involving fractions of our black-white populations should not be nearly so surprising as the larger fact that we have come so far so fast in providing equality of opportunity and mutual social acceptance.

I DO NOT INTEND to try to

AND SO WOULD THEY!

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Reserve Power

By BOB WEAR

"LIVE IT UP" is a popular spirit in our time, but it is one of the most harmful guidelines for living.

Satiation is the goal of many people, and this is the most common means of destroying interest and desire. These people "live it up" to the point of nauseating repletion.

The general consequence is disgust and boredom.

A LIFE GIVEN TO EXCESSES is soon weak, and becomes too much of a burden to itself.

The present, popular materialistic philosophy of "let us eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die" is leading many people to various forms of exhaustion.

LACK OF RESERVE POWER is making the experience of living very difficult for many folk.

On a larger scale, we see the frenzy and turmoil which are so widespread.

For the most part, this condition has been caused by a lack of reserve power to call on in time of crisis.

WE MUST NOT over-extend ourselves, because it is over-extension that threatens our whole superstructure. This is true in the individual experiences, and in our collective experiences as a social order.

The need for reserve power is self-evident.

WE UNDERSTAND the need for reserve power in the successful operation of a motor. No one wants to drive an automobile that has no such reserve. The designers and builders of our motor cars have provided for reserve power.

If we operate our cars sensibly, we have the reserve power when it is needed. On the other hand, if we drive the car at its maximum, continuously, there is no reserve. No sensible person does this.

defend the so-called "militants."

It is too obvious that many of them have a chip on their shoulder, resenting their blackness—and that their blackness as a catalyst mobilizing resentment, restiveness and rebellion.

They are as wrong to blame their troubles on their color as we are to blame all our troubles on them.

THAT'S WHY I SAY a black could turn white tonight and tomorrow morning we would still have legions of Americans demanding more working less....

We would still have Americans burning our cities because they resent the maladministration of some of our foreign affairs and football blame our ism.....

We would still have rebellious youths growing long hair, wearing dirty clothes in rebellion against a generation of parents who drink and say "don't smoke and say "don't" and denounce the misuse of sex which they misuse it themselves.

IF EVERY BLACK turned white tonight, we'd have too many too hungry, unenlightened, Mexicans, Indians and shantytown whites.

We'd still have public lurid movies and pulp magazines feeding the appetites of corrupt Caucasians.

We would still have segments of our college-university populations going "pot"....

SO MOST OF WHAT AILS is not so simply dismissed as matter of black and white.

If every black turned white tonight, tomorrow morning we would still have most of our problems....

THIS IS A GOOD LESSON for us which can easily be applied to our lives, and to present-day society.

Our Creator has given us the capacity for reserve power.

He has done this in order to help us meet the unusual experiences of life with the spirit of victory—the spirit of nobility and dignity.

RESERVE POWER to abundant living is more spiritual and moral than physical. In fact, the essential power for living is spiritual. There is need for physical strength, but physical strength alone is not enough for satisfactory personal performance.

It is absolutely essential that we build up the inner reserves of faith, courage, stability and endurance. These and related elements of personal power are usually referred to as moral power, because they have to do with our inner being.

Horace Bushnell said, "By moral power, we mean the power of a life and a character, the power of good and great purposes; the power which comes at length to reside in a man distinguished in some course of estimable or great conduct.—No other power of man compares with this, and there is no individual who may not be measurably invested with it."

IN ORDER TO BUILD UP this power, we must put first things first, practice moderation in all things, completely eliminate all forms of dissipation and devote our thoughts and actions to Christian ideals and principles.

WE WOULD BE WISE to consider our ways. While we are busy building up stockpiles of the various forms of physical strength, we must not overlook the importance of building up the inner reserves of moral power.

Journey To Past

BY EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is Part I of the history of the Roy B. McQuatters family, written by Veta Bolton.

Father, Roy Bryan McQuatters, born Oct. 8, 1891 in Johnson County, near Alvarado.

His parents were William Walter McQuatters and Martha (Guinn) McQuatters both native Texans.

Grandfather McQuatters was a farmer by trade and installed the water works for Alvarado and surrounding towns. Dad's most vivid recollection was when he and his little brother Oscar lost their lives in 1901.

Several years later grandfather and Mrs. Annis McMurry, who called her Granny McQuatters, had one son Nick who was the same age as Dad. His half-brother was born later. Dad went to work at Alvarado.

had moved to South Texas at an early date. Mother's family lived within 50 miles of the Gulf of Mexico and she recalls that, when she was a child, each summer some of the neighbors would load their covered wagons, form a caravan, and drive to the Gulf where they would spend several days fishing, bathing and hunting sea shells and then return home. Her most terrifying childhood experience was the 1900 storm when Galveston was swept away. This was their first experience with a hurricane and they did not know what to expect.

The storm reached its peak about midnight and with water streaming down and inside walls and the house popping and trembling they decided that the house was going to blow away and they had better try to make their way to a sweet potato cellar just back of the house.

Grandfather made a trial trip feeling his way along the side of the house as long as he could and then counting the number of steps to the cellar. He decided that, although it would be a terrifying experience, it would be better than having the house blow down on them.

It was dark, raining torrents, and the wind was so strong that even a grown man could not stand up in it. Grandfather took mother's little brother Claude in his arms. Grandmother followed leading Mother's older sister Lily, who was a frail child, and Mother and her older brother John were consigned to the care of two strong Negro men with instructions to hold on to them regardless of what happened, and thus arranged they stepped out into the storm.

Mother's sister, Ora, was not at home that night. Grandfather reached the cellar first and although he shouted as loud as he could he could barely be heard above the roar of the storm but they all made it to safety.

Mother says that she can never forget how faithful those Negro men were in getting her and Uncle John to the cellar.

The next morning there were only three houses left standing and Grandfather's was one of them. It was used to house the sick and wounded and the rest slept on wet mattresses out in the wagons. Nothing was left dry not even the things in trunks.

That night the wind picked up one of Mother's cousins and her baby and deposited them in a dug well and although the water was chest deep, they survived unhurt.

In 1906, Grandfather Marshall moved his family to Rosenberg so the children could have a better school and Mother graduated from Rosenberg High School in 1910. She went to Sam Houston Teacher's University at Huntsville, and later she attended the Normal University at Las Vegas, N. M.

Mother's greatest ambition was to become a teacher and she did. She taught 17 years.

In 1913 Grandfather decided to go west and they moved to Andrews, where mother taught school and met Dad.

About this time the United States government passed a law making it possible for adults to homestead 320 acres (a half section) of land so Grandad's family all moved over into New Mexico and homesteaded.

Mother taught at Eunice, N. M., while living her land out.

Mother recalls that Grandmother liked to raise turkeys and one year had a nice flock. They had placed little bells around the necks of some of the turkeys hoping to frighten the coyotes away.

One Saturday Mother received a letter from some of her young friends at Andrews, saying that they would be over the next day to spend the day and while she and Grandmother were planning the Sunday menu they heard the turkey bells coming.

Mother grabbed the shot gun and rushed out.

The turkeys were just topping a little rise out in front of the house but Old Tom, the big gobbler was missing. Mother hastened to the top of the hill and there was Old Tom and a coyote having a wrestling match. They were just going up and down.

Mother fired, the coyote ran away and she gathered Old Tom up in her arms and rushed to the house but his head was so badly lacerated that they had to kill him. The company came the next day, and yes, you guessed it, they had baked turkey.

Quail was plentiful and Grandad would throw out some grain for them and the covey would come every day. Grandad made a wooden bird trap and sometimes they would catch a dozen quails at one time. They would take what they wanted and turn the rest loose and then turn the trap over until they got quail hungry again.

UNDERGROUND HIGHWAY At International Nick's 68-year old Creighton mine in the Sudbury District of Ontario, a 16-foot wide concrete-surfaced ramp spirals down a 20-degree incline to a vertical depth of nearly 2,000 feet. To be further extended, this ramp provides an economical method of recovering low-grade nickel ores that would be valueless if more conventional mining techniques had to be used.

"It Takes Two." Chamber Slogan

"IT TAKES TWO..." begins the slogan of the national and local observance of Chamber of Commerce Week, beginning today and continuing through next Saturday, March 29.

The complete slogan, "It Takes Two...Your Chamber of Commerce and You!" will herald the week which is set aside to recognize the importance of the Chamber of Commerce and the part it plays in the affairs of Littlefield.

Jim Kelly, executive vice-president, has stated that the nationwide observance of this special week is being coordinated by the American Chamber of Commerce Executives.

He outlined the threefold purpose of the observance:

1. To create public understanding of the purposes and needs of the Chamber of Commerce;
2. To recognize the efforts of volunteer community leaders and staff of the Chamber;
3. To further strengthen the relations with organizations and agencies in our community.

Kelly said, "The activities of a Chamber of Commerce are varied and vital. Practically every aspect of community life is involved. As a consequence, a large number of people are affected; and, through people, the common goal of the Chamber can be realized: development of the total community, not for some, but for all. To this extent, then, the Chamber Week Slogan certainly makes sense."

Water

politically with a governor from this area, Rep. Bill Clayton, a strong supporter of the plan, and Sen. Jack Hightower working on the committee. Congressman George Mahon being in politics for the past 37 years will be a big help, they say.

This is a highly political thing, according to officials. When a person speaks of the lower Mississippi, this doesn't just include the Louisiana area, but all of the giant commercial area of the South.

This program must be sold locally as well as to all those involved in the eastern part of the state and other states with interests.

To show what a large water supply can do for this area, Water, Inc., points to land in California which sold for $200-$250 an acre before that state brought in imported water. This same land is selling in an excess of $7,000 an acre now.

"We won't get the water just because we need it," officials say. "We've got to work for it."

Work is progressing in the right direction now, with the bonds to support this figured on a 50-year payout, they say.

"We're going to see the day when water will be very precious," Tom Williams, an employee of Water, Inc., said. "Nothing is more important than water. An oil well can't even be drilled without it."

"THIS IS A fine plan," Smith said, "but we've got to have money to finance it. Membership dues are a minimum of $5, but we'll take any amount anyone wants to give us," Smith said.

Memberships may be obtained from any of the 33 county directors. Directors are made up of three men from each of the 11 communities in the county.

Directors and their communities are:

OLTON: Kenneth Burgess, Elmer McGill, Percy Parson.

SUDAN: Donny Cowart, Alvin Messermore, F. M. Smith.

LITTLEFIELD: John D. Smith, Vic Diarsing, Joe Montgomery.

PLEASANT VALLEY: S. K. Flatt, Don Bryant, H. L. Wisian.

AMHERST: Leroy Maxfield, Arthur Hedges, Benny Harmon.

SPRINGLAKE: Donny Clayton, James Busby, Elroy Wisian.

SPADE: Jack Stubblefield, Don Bell, James Duke.

SNACKS POPULAR

Snacks are becoming more popular. This may be related to the increased proportion of teenagers in the population, to the popularity of television and to an increase in entertaining at home. During the recent U. S. Department of Agriculture 10-year survey, consumption increased for soft drinks, punches and ades, potato chips, crackers, cookies, doughnuts, ice cream, candy, lunch meats and peanut butter.

Trash Burning Deadline Faced

Faced with a deadline to end open burning of trash and garbage, Littlefield and at least 300 other Texas city officials will meet Monday in Austin to study alternative methods of disposal.

Attending the one-day Refuse Disposal Workshop, sponsored by the Texas Municipal League which will be held at the Villa Capri Motor Hotel, beginning at 9:30 a.m., will be City Manager Jim Shearer and J. P. (Pickett) Ray, director of public works.

"The program is designed to help those cities still using the open dump-and-burn method to meet new requirements established by the Texas Air Control Board," said Jim Shearer.

"The League arranged the workshop for purposes of clarification and explanation, in response to numerous inquiries from cities. Full discussion of the three accepted methods of disposal are to be presented," he said, "with special attention to the sanitary landfill."

Open burning of refuse must end in Texas cities by July 1, the deadline imposed by the Air Control Board approximately 18 months ago.

The only cities excepted are those of less than 5,000 population located outside of metropolitan areas.

Many cities are already in compliance with the non-burning requirement. Others are in process of or are planning conversion.

The TML workshop program includes an outline of air control board regulations and thorough discussion of three disposal methods: incineration, composting, and sanitary landfill.

Devoting predominant attention to the landfill method, the program will cover land (kind and quantity), equipment, operation, financing, and a case study.

City Residents Warned Of Unlawful Peddlers

City officials are warning residents of itinerant merchants, vendors, peddlers and persons selling or taking orders for goods, wares, merchandise, services, photographs, newspapers, or magazines, who do not have city licenses to sell.

"Residents should ask to see the pink card which certifies the salesman has posted his $1,000 bond, has been checked out and waited the 48-hour period required after filing application for his license," said a spokesman for Littlefield City Police.

The card will bear the city secretary's signature and city seal.

Persons not able to show the little pink card are selling illegally in Littlefield. City Policemen have urged residents to report a description of such person or persons, the area they are working, their mode of transportation, and, if possible, a license plate number.

Several reports of recent swindlings have come to the city, and city officials feel citizens should be reminded of an ordinance which is in effect to protect them from any violators.

Henry Returned To City Board

Littlefield city councilmen voted to reappoint Hubert Henry for a two-year term on the City Planning Commission and Housing Standards Commission, and reappointed Dr. Carl Nowlin for a two-year term as city health officer, at a regular session Thursday night.

Current terms of both men will expire in April.

In other matters of business, the council:

Approved city bills for payment.

Approved a request for payment of an electricity bill at the Littlefield Municipal Airport.

Reviewed letters from legislators informing the city of state legislative matters, including the homestead exemption act; a new street signal light and sign bill; a bill to increase longevity for policemen and firemen, and the tort claims act, concerning governmental immunity.

Postponed action on City workmen's compensation until the next meeting.

Heard at length a report from City Manager Jim Shearer on the industrial development school he attended at Texas A&M. The course was a basic course in industrial development, and only a selective group of about 50 was invited to attend.

BETTER REMINDS T.C. WADE

A Night In The Pacific

LAH RODGERS
 Staff Writer

Looking over the daily mail is the point of most people's day, and George (T. C.) Wade Jr. of Whitharral is no exception.

When he opened the letter from his friend he'd been wondering about for 26 years and it was on the anniversary date of the day the two were literally blown out of the water then his day was really made.

"This will probably shake you to the core," John A. Baxley from Xenia, Ohio, wrote, "but I've just got your letter this morning."

Wade began the letter from one friend to another.

Wade and Baxley became friends when they served aboard the same U.S.S. Growler, during the war. And they are both very lucky to be alive today, for they were the only two on deck who made it below when the submarine they were serving on was hit by a Japanese gunboat on Feb. 7, 1942.

The Whitharral man was hit by a bullet in his left arm and hand, and he suffered 50 per cent total disability when a large bullet tore off his leg.

The night Wade's submarine was hit by the Japanese ship, the sub was moving north of New Guinea in the Pacific islands.

"Radar on ships then wasn't very accurate," Wade said. "At night the Japanese hung around ports and bays, looking for ships.

"It was so dark you couldn't see anything, but vaguely we made out the shape of a ship. The captain called out a big circle of our sub, to make the ship think we were pulling out. When we came back to the point where the ship had spotted us, and started to fire.

"It was so black you couldn't see a thing. We didn't know where the other ship was until we rammed it head on. The Japanese opened fire on us. The captain of the Growler ordered 'clear the deck and charge!'

"I grabbed a cable with one hand and swung down on the lower deck so I could get down the hatch," Wade said. "I lost my balance and fell when I was on the deck. I guess that is the only thing that saved me."

"I had in mind plunging through the hatch head first—any way to get down there," Wade said, "but when I got there the hatch was shut. The Japanese were firing at the hatch and one of those huge bullets had knocked it shut. The ship was going down, and there I was with bullets firing all around me, and water coming up and I couldn't swim a lick."

Wade and his friend from Ohio made it down the hatch "in the nick of time." They were the only two men on deck who lived to tell the story.

The Ohio man said he had tried to contact Wade a number of times, but could never find his address.

Wade and his family vacationed in Dallas in 1963 when Sub Vets of WWII were having a convention there. Wade went by and checked the register to see if anyone he had served with had checked in. No one from the Growler had signed the register, so Wade signed the list and left.

Wade forgot about all this until the letter came.

"I got your address from Lt. Commander Art Ulrich," Baxley wrote. "He checked Sub Vets for me and found your address. You make the third person who served on the Growler I've been able to locate: the commander, the torpedoman and you."

Wade's friend is now an adult probation officer in Xenia, Ohio.

Wade returned to Whitharral after his discharge and went into farming.

The T. C. Wade family lives on the home place northeast of Whitharral.

GEORGE (T. C.) WADE OF WHITHARRAL

THE WILEY ROBERTS took the highest honors in a five-state Southwest Photographers Convention held in Dallas last weekend. Robert's portrait titled "Craig" was hung, and Mrs. Roberts oil-painted print received the highest grade and was put on exhibition for the Texas Colorist Association.

Roberts Place High In Photo Convention

Mrs. Wiley Roberts has just returned from Dallas where she attended a convention for the Southwest Photographers of America, and one would think she hung the moon.

Wiley Robert's portrait of little Craig Baldwin of Earth got hung instead of the moon. "But oh, did they grade strict!" Mrs. Roberts said. "The portraits were judged by some of the national judges."

In addition to hanging the portrait, Mrs. Roberts made the highest grade on her print for the Texas Colorist Association. This was placed on exhibition also.

The convention was in combination with the Texas photographers meet which is usually held separately, and included photographers and colorists from Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Mrs. Roberts visited with her daughter and family at Duncanville while attending the convention, driving in to Dallas each day.

Area Rotarians Set Conference

The annual conference of the 47 Rotary Clubs grouped together in Rotary District 573 will be held in Midland April 17-19, according to Frank Anzeline, president of the Littlefield Rotary Club.

"At the meeting," he said, "we will discuss matters relating to this Rotary District, in addition to hearing informative addresses and making plans for increasing our service activities."

A delegation of several members of the Rotary Club of Littlefield is scheduled to attend the Conference. The presiding officer at conference sessions will be Dr. Jack Rodgers, president of Odessa College, governor of District 573, which comprises the area of Texas extended from Odessa to Sweetwater northward through the Panhandle to include Perryton on the east and Dalhart on the west.

Among the principal speakers on the conference program is Dr. W. Ballentine Henley of Los Angeles, Calif., who will represent Kiyoshi Togasaki, president of Rotary International.

Highlighting the informational part of the program will be two forums, the first on "Law and Order," moderated by James A. Mashburn, district attorney of Midland County and including as participants Wilson E. Speir, director, Texas Department of Public Safety; Charles L. Reynolds, district judge of the 100th Judicial District, Childress; James Morris, inspector of the Midland Police Department; and A. M. (Slim) Gabrel, sheriff of Ector County and president of the Texas Sheriffs' Association.

The second forum will be on "Youth and Their Problems" to be moderated by Robert T. "Sonny" Davis, executive director, Texas Youth Conference, Austin. Participants on the forum will be Dr. T. Paige Carruth, dean of student life, West Texas State University; Dr. Beatrix Cobb, Department of Psychology, Texas Technological College of Lubbock; Mrs. Pat Balko, counselor at Midland High School; and Dr. Preston E. Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital. It is expected that a "dialogue" with high school and college students will be part of this program.

The Rotary Ladies are an important part of the Conference and special entertainment has been prepared for them to include a luncheon at Midland Women's Club, as well as a guided tour of the Museum of the Southwest, located in the Juliette and Fred Turner, Jr. Memorial Gallery.

Entertainment is an important part of every Rotary conference and this year will be no exception. In addition to numerous breakfasts, luncheons, and banquets, the Fine Arts Department of Odessa College will present the opening performance of "The Music Man," its annual musical production, following the Governor's Banquet on Friday evening.

For conference participants who arrive on Thursday, the Midland Club will host an unusual program of food and entertainment, "Dr. Jack's International Pot Pourri" from 7:00-10:00 p.m. An international cuisine buffet will be served, interspersed with music of the intercontinental mood.

Rotary and its activities come in for a large share of attention on the Conference program. In addition to addresses by Dr. Henley, representative of the International President, on Friday afternoon of the 18th, Conference participants will attend one of four Rotary information sessions.

Ten Forum members met in the home of Mrs. W. Dow Smith, Thursday, March 13. During the business meeting, members voted to donate $25 to the satellite program for the retarded.

Mrs. Cal Harvey, vice president of the Littlefield Art Club, gave a demonstration in the techniques of creative painting.

Mrs. Harvey demonstrated landscape painting, explaining the difference in applying colors for a summer sky or a fall sky. She noted the values used in doing a background, middle ground, and foreground. Subdued colors and less defined details were used in objects to denote distance. More details and stronger colors were used in objects in foreground.

Mrs. Harvey demonstrated the painting of roses and mums with the use of palette knives. Completed compositions were displayed to represent the correlation of a part or an object to another.

Mrs. Harvey has attended numerous workshops and has studied with such artists as Dr. Emilio Caballero, Frederick Taubes, Dick Cheatham, and Mary Lee Garrett.

The next meeting of Forum will be hosted by Mrs. Lucille Smith March 28, when four Forum members will be initiated.

The King Came Down

"I and the Father are one." The Jews took up stones again to stone him." (John 10:30-31)

Grace be unto you and peace from God our Father, and from our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

THERE WAS ONCE a king who fell in love with a peasant girl. The girl was not attractive...for a matter of fact, she was ugly! But for some strange reason, known only to the king, he loved her. But he thought to himself, "If I ask her to marry me, she would probably consent. But perhaps she would just because she feared my power and authority as King."

He was perplexed. Yet he loved her deeply and wanted her. But he wanted her to marry him only if she truly loved him. So he worked out a plan of action to win her heart. He traveled to her home town in disguise, and lived there as a peasant, working as a carpenter. Frequently he dated his love, wooed her, and courted her. Many people wondered, "What does she see in him?" And even, "What does he see in her?"

AT LONG LAST he proposed, and she said, "Yes!" "Then leave your home, and come, and follow me!" he answered. Only then did he tell her that he was King, and that by loving him and becoming his, she would spend her future living by his side in the palace of his kingdom.

The Lord Jesus did something like this for us. He came and lived as a peasant among us men whom he loved. He worked as a carpenter, courted us, dated us, wooed us. And he did this not because we are so beautiful, for really we are all quite ugly in our sinfulness. And he did it not because we are so loving. He did it because he was in love with us and wanted us, even though many wondered, "What do they see in that lowly carpenter?" and "What does he see in those ugly sinful?"

BUT AS JESUS continued to woo us, court us, and love us, and as he showed compassion and wisdom and authority among us, some began to awaken as to just who this lowly carpenter really was...and what he was doing! He was the King; true God and true man, the World made flesh, who came to win us and take us as his bride. Why? Because he loves us!

Some were impressed, and followed; and some began to love him in response to his own love. He told them that by loving him, they would be his bride and that his bride they would live in his kingdom forever. That's the promise Jesus has made with his bride. And his bride is the Holy Christian Church. And we are the Church. So it was that King Jesus became a peasant to serve us and win our love.

YET NOT EVERYONE fell in love with Jesus. Neither does everyone love him today. There are some who hear his teaching, and yet are not impressed. They don't fall in love, and they don't see who Jesus is. In today's Gospel text, Jesus is making some very definite claims as to who he is.

The King came down, and shared our life, as a peasant, to the fullest. He threw himself into the thick of our lives. He ate, talked, walked, became tired. He sat down by a well to catch his breath and cool his parched throat. He once sobbed at the grave site of a dear friend. He shared our joys and died our death. Oh how he must love us! How he must want us!

EXCEPT FOR JESUS, human death and life would mean nothing. Unless he was also really God! His work would be as worthless as a counterfeit check, if God were not behind it. Thousands of men have been tortured and killed, even on crosses. And hundreds of great religious leaders have taught a way of life.

But Jesus' life and death packs meaning for us, because the carpenter, this Jesus of Nazareth, was not only man but he was also GOD. Because he was man he could take our part, and suffer with us, and make up for our sins.

BECAUSE HE WAS GOD and Lord, he could take care of our hopeless, sinful condition. He never said, "Follow my teachings and you will live." But he did dare to claim, "I am the way and the truth and the life." He claimed, "I and the Father are one." He said, "You are from below, I am from above. You are of this world, I am not of this world."

You will die in your sin unless you believe that I am the Father's Son." He claimed, "Before Abraham was, I am." And he said, "If anyone keeps my words, he shall never see death. If the Son makes you free, you shall be free indeed."

A PERSON WHO makes claims like these is either telling the truth, or else he is a raving lunatic. Jesus is either the God/Man King, or else he was a madman. Either or. Either you love him and worship him, or you pick up the stones with the crowd, to throw at him.

Now a personal question, addressed to you. "What do you see in Jesus?" When a couple are in love, only the two lovers can really understand what they see in each other. What do you see in Jesus? Do you love him as a King who came to serve you as a peasant? Do you love him as the only begotten Son of God, who entered our world so that you might be saved and have eternal life? Are you ready for the marriage feast? Or are you bending to pick up the stones to cast at an impostor God?

THIS IS THE MOST important question you will ever have to answer! Think about it...! Amen.

And now may the peace of God which passes all understanding, keep your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus. Amen.

Bowen of Littlefield of 100 jurists and justices gathered at Texas University for the annual Justices of the Peace Constable School. The select group is being changed and changes in the law, said Scott, head of A&M's Training Division.

program is sponsored by A&M's Engineering Division and the Justice of the Peace Constable Association. Included in this year's program is a discussion of laws on driver licensing and landlord-tenant cases. Scott added that cases are usually handled by the justice on a local basis.

discussions will be on misdemeanor and bonds, jury trial procedures in criminal cases, peace bonds, laws of arrest, writs of habeas corpus, liquor control laws and the legal aspects of searches and seizures.

of the Peace date role to the first state appointed in England. The jurists formerly called "Justices of the Peace."

DEAD LITTER PLANTING of grass on diverted acres is recommended by Patrick Rice of the Lamb County Soil Conservation Service. Side oats grama grass will be seeded on this field this spring. Plans call for this field to be used as pasture after the SCS contract as part of J. M. Haberer's conservation program.

County Conservationists Suggest Grass Coverage

By PATRICK RICE
A cover crop of cane or sudan on diverted acres provide soil protection from the heat during the summer and from the cold during the winter, say Lamb County SCS officials. The residues from these cover crops also give good protection from wind erosion if they are not completely removed or destroyed by grazing or tillage operations, the office added.

In addition to this, a cover crop will improve tilth and add organic content to the soil. According to information gathered by the Texas

Research Foundation, each ton of residue from a cover such as this will contain about 23 pounds of nitrogen, nine pounds of phosphorus and 32 pounds of potash. These minerals can be turned back to the soil, and it is not uncommon to produce three to four times this amount of residue. These cover crops protect the beneficial soil bacteria too. According to information taken from the Agriculture Yearbook on Soils, these bacteria work better when the temperature of the soil is between 75 degrees and 90 degrees F. If the soil temperature goes above or below these points, their ability to work is reduced by about one third. If the air temperature reaches 100 degrees F, SCS officials say, the temperature of bare soil can reach 140 degrees F. These beneficial soil bacteria die. This also depends on the type of soil and the amount of moisture available.

HOT CHAMBERS

The thrust chambers used in the first stage of Project Apollo's Saturn rocket must withstand heat of 5,000 degrees F—half the temperature of the sun's surface. The fuel is used as a coolant by circulating it through tubular thrust chamber walls made of a high-temperature nickel-chromium alloy. This cooling system lowers the thrust chamber walls to a mere 1,000 degrees F.

...but how does it compare to

XL-45?

When a highly advertised new corn variety comes along, farmers are bound to make the comparison: just how does it stack up against XL-45? The sensational performance of DeKalb Brand XL-45 has made it the most popular single-cross in the country. Farmers have found that short, tough XL-45 thrives at high populations, narrow rows and high fertility. XL-45 has some record for big corn yields.

Retired Farmer Misses 'The Work' Most Of All

After living on the farm all their lives, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clawson have given up the "good life" to become city dwellers.

"I'm 82 years old," Clawson said, "and I've worked hard all my life. I'll miss the work most of all."

Clawson did his own farming until he had a heart attack "a year ago last October." Since that time he has hired the work done, hating to give up farming entirely. "I guess I'll go ahead and rent it out next year, though," he said.

"Until I got sick, there wasn't a 200-pound man in the country I couldn't throw," Clawson said. "I sure did hate to quit working and move to town. I always said I'd never move," he said.

The Clawsons lived in the Bula community nearly 50 years before moving into town. They are now at home at 420 W. 2nd St.

"Several of our neighbors out at Bula have retired and moved to Littlefield, too," Mrs. Clawson said. "One of our Bula neighbors lives next door. In fact, they are the ones who told us about this house being for sale."

"I miss going out and gathering the eggs every evening," Mrs. Clawson said. "We had to leave the chickens out on the farm." The Clawsons haven't given up their fresh country eggs, however, because they drive out to the farm once a week to pick up a few dozen.

Until last summer, Clawson always raised calves.

"And a big garden," Mrs. Clawson said. "I'll miss the garden. We may have a foot or two out here." "That's the reason we had to leave the farm," he said. "We had to get away so we wouldn't knock ourselves out."

Mrs. Clawson keeps busy with her doil making and quilting.

Clawson enjoys reading, watching television, and walking five or six miles a day, weather permitting.

Mr. and Mrs. Clawson have been married 21 years. Both have lived in the Bula community since the 20s. Mrs. Clawson moved there in 1925 "when cattle still roamed the pastures". She married Albert Moreley, now deceased, and has seven daughters.

Clawson moved to this part of the country in 1929. He has been farming for himself the last 62 years, starting with a one horse plow, then going to a team of mules. "I was the first one to buy a rubber-tired tractor in the county," he reminisced. "That was in 1934."

His first wife is also deceased, and he has two sons and a daughter.

Their house has four bedrooms, so they will have room for their 10 children, 30 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren to visit from time to time.

"I guess living in town will take some getting used to," Clawson said, "but I think we are going to like it all right."

MR. AND MRS. W. L. Clawson have moved to town after living all their lives on the farm. "That's 82 years," Clawson said. The Clawsons lived in the Bula community 50 years, where Clawson did his own farming until a year and a half ago, when his health forced him to retire. They are at home "away from home" at 420 W. 2nd.
