

JERRY BLAKELY
Coach of the Year

PLAINS, STATE LAURELS

Honors Cap Wildcat Grid Year

The Littlefield Wildcats' district championship football year of 1971 has been capped with a bevy of honors for Coach Jerry Blakely and his gridders.

Coming at Christmas time was the announcement by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal that Blakely was named the South Plains "Class AA Coach of the Year", and that Ralph Funk, the Cats' hard-running tailback, was picked the "Class AA Player of the Year."

Also named to the first team All-South Plains unit were Linebacker Matt Giles and Defensive Back Dennis Hartley.

Danny Estrada, 220-pound tackle, also made the select squad, being among eight boys who received honorable mention for the defensive unit.

COMING ALMOST at the same time was the news that the Fort Worth Star-Telegram had named Funk, Hartley and Giles to its Class AA all-state second team. Funk made it offensively, and Hartley and Giles made the defense.

Of the 44 boys who were named to the first two teams, Eastland and Refugio landed four each. Littlefield was in the company of Jacksboro, the State AA champion, and Kirbyville in placing three boys on the squad.

Only three other South Plains gridders made the all-state squad. Two from Floydada, Offensive Guard Kim Rose and Defensive Back Langston Williams, and one from Idalou, Tackle Steve Merritt, also made the second all-state team.

BLAKELY'S WILDCATS rolled to an 8-2 record this year before losing a bi-district battle to Roosevelt. It was quite a comeback for the Littlefield team, which had gone 1-9 the previous year, before Blakely took the reins.

"The coaching honor came as quite a surprise," Blakely said this week. "It's a compliment to the entire coaching staff. Anytime a coach is honored individually, you've got to consider it a staff honor, because everybody did a tremendous job."

The Wildcat coach added: "These individual honors for the kids and myself have got to be an honor also to the school and the town as a whole."

Reprints of the news of both the South Plains and All-State laurels appear on page 8.

C-C 'Retreat' Is Planned For Littlefield Advance

The Littlefield Chamber of Commerce is planning a "retreat" for all interested citizens, county officials and city officials who wish to enter a planning session for the future of Littlefield.

The "retreat" is slated for the evening of Jan. 11, and all day Jan. 12 at the Holiday Inn in Clovis, N. M.

"This is a most important time for Littlefield, when county officials, city officials and interested citizens of our community will sit down together to: 1. identify local problems; 2. set up objectives; and 3. out line realistic ways to accomplish the objectives," stated C-C Manager Bill Payne.

He continued, "This can only be done with your help and cooperation. The more involved, the better the results will be."

"Here are some of the examples of topics that can be covered in such a meeting," he emphasized.

1. Local government and problems
2. Community and Chamber of Commerce cooperation
3. Recreational, cultural and entertainment facilities
4. Health and medical services
5. Agri-business cooperation

6. Housing
 7. Education
 8. Transportation
 9. Industry
 10. Better image of Littlefield; and
 11. Several other possibilities.
- "At the first general session on Tuesday, Jan. 11, at 7:30 p.m. (Texas Time) you will be asked to submit what you think should be discussed," Payne said.

"Then if time permits we may break into groups that evening and try to come up with further identification of a problem and solutions."

"The second general session will be Wednesday morning at 8 a.m. CST and everyone should be able to have some solutions and even more problems. Then before 9 a.m. we will break into our discussion groups again and attempt to find realistic ways to solve some of the problems."

"Then at the noon meal we will all gather for a general session and go over the problems and proposed solutions for discussion of the whole group."

"At the end of this general session we should be fairly well exhausted and ready to come back to Littlefield with a new outlook on our community and ways to make it a better place to live than it already is.

"You are needed at this retreat—call the Chamber Office (385-4451) and make your reservation," Payne concluded.

Deadlines Set

The Jan. 2 edition of the Leader-News will go to press one day early, to allow employees some time off for the New Year's Day holiday.

Deadline for all news, classified advertising and display advertising will be at 5 p.m. Thursday.

The paper will be delivered as usual Sunday.

ROY GILBERT

Cowboy From 'Way Back'

By NILAH RODGERS

There isn't a western hat nor a pair of cowboy boots big enough to hold all that Roy Gilbert knows about being a cowboy. Gilbert got his first taste of ranch life when he was 14 years old. Gilbert worked at first one ranch and then another and did everything from packing off the slop to running the outfits until he landed in Lamb County in 1919.

Since that time he has farmed, served eight years as tax assessor and as assessor collector, and was a county commissioner for six years. He is 77 years old now, but he still lives on his farm, rides his horse when necessary, and tends to his mother cows, calves and yearlings.

"I've seen too many people move to town with nothing to do," Gilbert said. Gilbert did his own farming until he was 72, and he plans to live on his farm and raise cattle until he draws his last breath.

Gilbert first came to Lamb County in 1919 when he took a job on the Sweringston Ranch about 25 miles west of Littlefield. The ranches he had worked for in Clairmont, Clarendon and Pampa were pretty small compared to the Sweringston spread located near Enochs.

When W. E. Halsell started selling off the Halsell Ranch in 1923, Gilbert bought 191 acres on the north side of Black Water Draw from R. C. Hopping.

He paid $25 an acre for the land, the going price for the farms that were carved out of the vast XIT Ranch that was sold to pay for Texas' state capitol building.

Gilbert's mother died just before he was eight years old. "I stayed with kin folks until I was tired of it," he said, "then when I was 14 years old I went to Clairmont and stayed with some people until I finished school—the ninth grade, that is. The ninth was as high as you could go then."

When old man Halsell (Ewing Halsell's dad) built the Amherst Hotel in 1923, Gilbert worked in the hotel for six months before he started farming the place he'd bought previously. The Amherst Hotel was pretty fancy for its day. "Halsell was really going to build the town of Amherst up when he started out," Gilbert said.

While Gilbert was with Halsell at Amherst, he got to know the elder Halsell and met the Oklahoma comedian Will Rogers when he came down to visit Halsell at the ranch headquarters west of Earth.

Breaking horses was just a part of being a cowboy. School Boy was a little 900 pound horse that was supposed to be an outlaw. When Gilbert offered to ride School Boy he told the man he was working for that if he broke him, he was going to keep him. "School Boy made me the quickest and fastest cow horse I ever had," Gilbert said. "When the ranch went broke and sold out, I bought the little horse for $40."

He still had School Boy when he started farming his Lamb County farm. "But I had to trade him for a horse big enough to work," he said. "I started farming with teams."

Gilbert said he guessed he let some people out-talk him when he was persuaded to run for Lamb County tax assessor. He filled the assessor's post for four years, then served four more years as

Library Gives Grant

County Library at Littlefield has received a Federal Library Services and Act Title I grant of $1,500 for the fiscal year. The grant will help libraries meet standards of the American Library Association. This year to receive the grant were announced by Dr. W. W. Wainwright, director of the Texas State Library, the state agency that administers the federal program. The program is designed to provide the resources of libraries. The program will be able to purchase not only books but also periodicals, maps, globes, recordings, and special materials. The program will also develop materials for the aged, young children, and disadvantaged as well as those on the job and on the environment. In the past years, larger libraries will receive more of their funds on materials. The program will strengthen their collections to provide library loan and reference services to the small libraries that they serve through the Texas State Library System Network.

Businesses Close New Year

Littlefield businesses and governmental offices will again close for the New Year's Day holidays and have released their employees. The city hall will close Friday, Jan. 1, and all end-of-the-year business should be transacted by Friday. Employees in the courthouse will work Friday before New Year's Day, to take care of all last year's business for the year. The banks and Littlefield Federal Savings and Loans will be closed all day, and urge their patrons to complete business transactions done before then. The Texas Drivers License office will close Friday. Littlefield Post Office will be closed on the holidays, but will accept city or rural mail deliveries by special delivery — on Jan. 2.

A RED LETTER DAY is coming Saturday, and "I'll be celebrating too," says Shannon McCormick, 2-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burl McCormick of Anton. Shannon probably won't be wide awake when 1972 makes its debut, but she'll have lots of busy days in store for her until this time next year.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Assembly

Jehovah's Witnesses in Littlefield and vicinity are cancelling all local meetings, Dec. 31 through Jan. 2, to attend their semi-annual circuit assembly in Levelland.

Loyd Lowery, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses in Littlefield, said, talks, illustrations, and discussions will be used to highlight the theme, "Keep on Doing It More Fully."

For the past several weeks Hermod Jensen, circuit supervisor, has been busy with other ministers in the 16-congregation circuit preparing a program to fortify the family unit to maintain standards set forth in the Bible on moral conduct and integrity in ministering the good news of the Kingdom.

Activity of the society of ministers will be analyzed by the District Supervisor, Eugene R. Brandt, from the Watchtower Society in New York. His assignment is to supervise circuit assemblies throughout New Mexico, Oklahoma and parts of Arizona, Arkansas, Kansas and Texas.

Brandt will climax the assembly on Sunday, at 2 p.m., by speaking on the subject, "Can You Live Forever?—Will You?"
