

Below-Zero Cold Chills Littlefield Area

WINTER PLAYTIME on ice is an advantage you youngsters haven't been able to take in a long time, but below zero weather the past few days has frozen water in lakes in the area. 'Princess' would much rather be on dry ground and leave the ice to Pam Brannon, Michelle Mills and Alya Mills, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mills.

A SOLAR SHOW appeared in the skies here Tuesday afternoon, when two segments of what looked like a rainbow appeared on both sides of the sun. Meteorologists call it "parhelion", while others call it "sun dog" or "weather gall". The effect is caused when sun rays strike microscopic hexagonal-shaped ice crystals in cirrus clouds. This was the southernmost segment.

CHILLY TEMPERATURES in the Littlefield area hampered normal drinking habits for animals, and stock owners had to provide drinking holes through about four inches of ice on water troughs. The official weather bureau at Pioneer Natural Gas recorded -1 degree Monday night, and 0 Tuesday night, while other sources had reported -7 degrees Monday night and -2 Tuesday night. At any rate, br-r-r-r, it was cold.

Year 1970 may have appeared to be the driest year ever known in Littlefield—may have been so during the lifetime of the residents.

10.61 inches of moisture which fell in 1934 is the smallest amount which has been recorded in Littlefield since 1934, when 9.72 inches were recorded.

1927, less than that was recorded—9.59 inches; in 1923, only 9.45 inches were recorded; and the smallest amount ever recorded and reported in Littlefield was in 1917.

1970 RAINFALL was far short of total in 1969—25.21 inches.

Most of 1970's moisture fell in September, when a total of 3.07 inches was recorded on the weather bureau's official record book.

Total of 1.69 fell in March, and nearly as much—1.60—was recorded in April. The record was 1.44 inches of moisture in May, and 1.44 inches of moisture in May and November, and only .01 was recorded in December.

There is a month by month tabulation of rainfall for 1970:

January—0.00	July—0.18
February—0.31	August—0.32
March—1.69	September—3.07
April—1.60	October—1.03

Marriages Up, Divorces Down

Weddings fared better in the love department in Lamb County in 1970 than in 1969.

The county clerk's office recorded 174 marriages for the past year, compared to 168 marriages issued in 1969. And 13 fewer divorces were granted for 1970 than the previous year, with 41 divorce decrees granted this year, down from 54 granted in 1969.

In 1968, 181 couples were married and 46 marriages were dissolved.

There was one baby born for each day of the year, or 365 live births recorded in Lamb County in 1970. This is 20 fewer than 385 babies born in 1969, and far short of the population explosion of 603 babies born in 1968.

More deaths were recorded in the past year for 1970 than in 1969, or 195 deaths compared to 155 in 1969. The records show 147 died here in 1968.

Building Total Is Down Again

Thirty-nine building permits were issued in Littlefield during 1970—down 22 permits from last year, but the same as the two years prior to that.

Permits for five new homes totaling $85,100 and permit for a $7,000 repair shop were issued, along with permits for numerous add-ons, move-ins, and carpentry—bringing a total of $120,250 worth of construction.

Accident Claims Littlefield Man

A 36-year-old Littlefield man, Finis Ray Jordan, was struck and killed by a car shortly after 9:30 p.m. Monday about 4 1/2 miles northwest of Shallowater on U.S. 84, and was the first traffic fatality of the year for the South Plains.

His employer, Jarrell Giles, also of Littlefield and operator of a used car lot, was driver of the vehicle which struck Jordan.

Both men were returning a car from Lubbock, when Jordan's auto stalled and he got out of the vehicle. Investigators reported that Giles saw Jordan's stalled car, turned around to return to the site to help, and accidentally struck Jordan.

He was pronounced dead of multiple head injuries at the scene by Peace Justice Officer Jessie Vance of Shallowater.

Jordan was a native of the Littlefield area, had been a painter and a used car salesman.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Parkview Baptist Church.

INCREASE TOPS 12 PER CENT

Deposits Up $6.5 Million

A good feed crop and 120,000 bales of cotton compared to the 65,000 bales ginned in Lamb County in 1969 are the main factors for the more than $6 1/2 million increase in county bank deposits for 1970.

Deposits at the six county banks, the Littlefield Federal Savings and Loans and Citizens State Bank in Anton at the close of business on Thursday, Dec. 31, totaled $59,024,813 compared to deposits of $52,510,603 for the same period last year.

This is an increase of $6,514,210, up more than 12 per cent from 1969 deposits.

Deposits at all of the eight banking institutions were up over last year's total. Six of the eight businesses showed loans down from the previous year and only two loaned more money than in 1969.

Loans and discounts were down a total of $397,050 from 1969, reflecting some reluctance to loan money. In 1970, $29,226,031 was loaned compared to $29,623,082 in 1969 and $30,731,549 out in 1968.

Littlefield Federal Savings and Loans reported Dec. 31 total deposits of $12,438,618, up from the $11,751,417 on deposit for the same date in 1969. End of year loans at Littlefield Federal were $10,262,142, down slightly from last year's $10,283,923.

The First National Bank of Littlefield had total deposits of $5,916,112 compared to $5,452,356 in 1969. Loans for 1970 were $1,892,023, down from $2,019,441 in 1969.

Security State Bank in Littlefield had deposits totaling $14,050,980 at the close of 1970, up from 1969 deposits of $12,476,489. Loans and discounts at Security State were up for the year, with $6,007,416 loaned in '70 compared to $5,682,100 the previous year.

Both deposits and loans were up at Citizens State Bank in Anton. Deposits for 1970 totaled $3,561,505, up from 1969 deposits of $3,099,162. Loans and discounts for 1970 were $2,877,021, up a little from $2,611,942 in 1969.

Deposits totaled $5,135,703 at the First National Bank in Amherst, up over 1969 deposits of $4,656,328. L&D for 1970 were $774,012, compared to $792,997 in 1969.

Citizens State Bank at Earth had deposits of $3,966,151 for 1970, up from the 1969 total of $3,424,295. Loans at the Earth bank were $1,662,861, down from the 1969 L&D of $2,165,189.

Sudan's First National Bank had deposits of $4,585,185 on Dec. 31, an increase over the 1969 total of $3,948,424. End of year loans were $1,159,763, down from 1969 L&D of $1,260,818.

The Olton State Bank had year end deposit totals of $9,350,559, up from 1969 deposits of $7,702,426. Loans for the year were $4,590,793, a drop from 1969 L&D of $4,806,672.

Car Insurance Hike Taps County Lightly

Lamb County and area "hinterland" residents can consider themselves lucky with the approximate 14 per cent car insurance rate hike — that is compared to more than 20 per cent increases for cities such as Amarillo and Lubbock.

At any rate, Lamb County residents were tapped the lightest of any in the state when insurance rates for Texas were announced by the State Board of Insurance in Austin Friday.

Insurance agents report a few motorists are fussing, but that the majority seem to understand that insurance is based on the inflationary period of economy like taxes and is necessary for coverage to continue.

To substantiate this claim, E. L. Winston said Texas insurance companies lost $27,400,000 last year and would soon be out of business if rate increases don't follow the trend towards inflation.

Flannery Newton had just handed one of his customers a claim check for $10,000. "This money has got to come from somewhere," he said, "and that is premiums."

Many agents feel the publicity given to the rate increases has been unfair, because cars cost more, cost more to repair and hospital bills are so much higher.

Newton said those who are complaining most are the persons who have never had a ticket nor an accident. But these are the ones who are getting off the lightest. Those who have had accidents and moving violations are the ones who are really paying. A point system of one point per ticket and two points for chargeable accidents over $50 is used in assessing insurance costs.

For all liability insurance that motorists were paying $50 for before Jan. 1, they will now pay about $57 or $58. But add a ticket or two and an accident and this increases at the rate of 15, 35, 60 and 90 per cent on the total price of the premium.

Before the increase was effective, insurance on a new medium priced car had an average insurance bill of $136. Now the insurance will be about $184 for the same car. That is if there are no drivers under 25

DO YOU EVER wonder why your little one's don't eat? I know I have—in fact my youngest girl just absolutely refuses her meals about half the time. I've often wondered how she keeps going and has so much energy.

I happened across a bit of information as to "Why Children Don't Eat" and I would like to share it with all of you.

Maybe it will help us to have a better understanding of our little ones and their refusal of food—and help them to build better eating habits.

IF YOU HAPPEN to be serving soup and sandwiches for your child's lunch this weather—decorate the soup of the soup with faces cut from dry cereal, or decorate open face sandwiches with animal cut-outs, made by bread using cookie cutters. Place the cut-out on top of an open faced sandwich. You can even make tiny finger sandwiches cut from animal cutters for a bit of eating encouragement.

HERE ARE a few suggested sandwich tips.

TODDLERS are full of surprises. One minute they're in the cupboard pulling out all the pots and pans and the next minute they're reaching up to hug you.

One of the surprises you should know about as a parent is not uncommon among all children. This surprise comes when the child is about 18 months old. At this time he may begin to eat less and even skip entire meals. There is no reason to be alarmed, since this is a normal occurrence.

DURING INFANCY your baby's growth and development is taking place at a rapid rate. In the first 18 months the average baby will gain over 17 pounds. This rapid growth requires generous amounts of food and getting your baby to eat at this time presents no problem.

However, in the next 4 1/2 years from about 18 months to the age of 6, growth slows down and so does the need for food. Since your child's body requires less food, his appetite will decrease. This reduced appetite is often misunderstood by parents because their child is so active. They often try to force their children to eat during this period without realizing that they just aren't hungry.

LIKE MOST STAGES of development, this period of reduced appetite is only temporary. Sometime between the ages of 6 and 8, most children enter another period of rapid growth and development.

Appetites pick up again as the need for food increases. However, if your child has developed poor eating habits during the lull period, they could continue for a long time. This is why it is so important to develop good eating habits early in your child's life. Here are some tips on how to build good eating habits:

AVOID BETWEEN MEAL SNACKS—Playing and romping do not create the demand for food that growth does. So snacks—except for fruit and water—should be avoided.

MAKE MEALTIME CHEERFUL—To help your child associate eating with enjoyment, avoid lectures and arguments at mealtime. It also helps to prepare the food so it is attractive to your child. One example is to use bright colored foods.

SERVE THE RIGHT FOODS—Proper nutrition is the key to good health. In deciding what your child should eat, be sure to include plenty of high-protein foods, such as meats, cheese and eggs. Vegetables and fruits are important sources of needed sugar, starches and vitamins. Your doctor may also recommend a vitamin supplement such as Ply-Vi-Sol vitamins, to make sure your child gets the vitamins he needs.

SELF-FEEDING IS IMPORTANT—If your child can feed himself, he will gain a sense of responsibility. This permits him to eat without feeling forced.

SERVE A VARIETY OF FOODS—An important step in getting your child to eat is to broaden their taste acceptance by introducing them to new foods. Mixing something new with one or two "old favorites" is a good technique. Another is to keep the servings small. Your child feels just as you do when facing a huge mound of food when you aren't hungry.

The main thing to remember in feeding your child during the lull period is that they have a relatively small need for food and, consequently, a small appetite.

Once you understand this small appetite, mealtime will become easier for everyone involved.

GOD'S PSYCHIATRIST

A DEVOTIONAL

By WAYLAND HUTT

Happy New Year!

Last Friday we began a year. For seniors, 1971 means graduation, education, and choice vocations.

For juniors, it will mean contraction of a strange illness known as senioritis.

For sophomores, it will mean escape from all the little things that their upperclassmen do to them.

Truly, this new year means many different things to different people, but all of them want it to be better than the last.

This year we want peace—just in Vietnam, but all over the world. We don't just want peace among nations, but in among individuals.

This year we want faith rather, something to have faith in.

We want our government to be strong but honest, our parents to be loving but understanding, and our schools to be educational but practical.

This year we want love not corrupted by sincerity, misuse, or distrust. We want everyone to be everyone as they are, and not what they want them to be.

This year, we want hope of happiness.

It has been said that Christ is the only hope, but this is not true. Christ in US is the only hope of lasting peace, victorious faith, and undying love.

Could anything add to happiness these things we give us?

Yes, this could be multiplied many times if we would share that peace, that faith, that love and that hope with the world.

May 1971 be a year in which God blesses our lives, and all lives bless God.

EAR VILLAINS

While continuous prolonged exposure to excessively loud sounds is a source of hearing losses, noise is not the only villain. Among the other causes are ear infections, self-diagnosis of illness and the use of self-prescribed medications.

HEARING LOSSES Persons who experience difficulty hearing radio or television sets played at low volumes, or who find it hard to hear clearly in theaters, should have a hearing test to determine whether or not they are suffering from an undetected hearing loss.

TOPS Club Has Meeting

MRS. CLARENCE JOHN ALBUS

Galt-Albus Vows Said In Morton Church

Miss Frances Madalyn Galt became the bride of Clarence John Albus in a double ring ceremony Monday afternoon, Dec. 28 in the First United Methodist Church of Morton. Rev. Rex Mauldin of Morton and Rev. Thomas McGovern of Lubbock officiated for the reading of the vows. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Galt of Goodland and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Albus of Pep. The church was decorated with large bouquets of purple carnations and purple plumes, flanked by a spiral candelabra and a single candelabra on each side. Decorated candles adorned the windows, and the pews were marked with orchid and purple bows.

Sokora of Lubbock, Miss Sharyn Wittner of Muleshoe and junior bridesmaid was Miss Shannon Sowder of Goodland. Their gowns were of orchid chiffon, fashioned identical to the matron of honor's attire adorned likewise. Flower girls were Teresa Burnett of Olton, cousin of the bride and Lori Ann Albus of Pep, cousin of the groom. They were dressed in long orchid chiffon dresses, with purple bodices. They carried white wicker baskets filled with rose petals. Joseph Lawrence and Lawrence Albus of Pep brothers of the groom, lighted the candles. Ring bearers were Brad and Brett Stegall of Goodland, cousins of the bride. James Albus of Pep served his brother as best man. Groomsman were Ricky Galt, brother of the bride, Thomas and Steven Albus, brothers of the groom. Guests were seated by Samuel Albus and Leonard Albus Jr., cousins of the groom. A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Miss Gail O'Neal of Levelland registered guests. The bride's serving table was laid with a white linen cloth, covered with white net and scalloped in white felt. The bride's bouquet and the four tiered wedding cake, made by her aunt, Mrs. Cass Stegall, centered the table. Purple rice bags and wedding scrolls were tied with purple ribbons through a wedding band. Raspberry punch completed the table decorations. The groom's table was covered in an orchid and purple satin cloth. A spice cake, made by the groom's mother, was in the form of an open book. Coffee was served at the groom's table. Those in the house party were Miss Kay Pate, Mrs. Doug Samples, Miss Gwyn Jenkins, Miss Kay Summers, Miss La Von Stegall, Mrs. Leonard Albus, Jr., Miss Ann Albus, Miss Betty Jane Albus, and Mrs. Ray Decker. For a wedding trip to Ruidoso and El Paso, the bride chose a double knit purple tunic dress, trimmed with buttons. She wore purple and black accessories. The new Mrs. Albus is a December graduate of Texas Tech, with a B.S. degree in Elementary Education. The groom is a May graduate of Texas Tech, with a degree in chemical engineering. He is presently doing graduate work there. The couple will be at home at 1612 Ave. Y in Lubbock. Out of town guests were from Anchorage, Alaska, Hereford, Albuquerque, El Paso, Corsicana, Lubbock, Littlefield, Hale Center, Olton, and Portales, N. M. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Billy 1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times. There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value.

At Chevrolet, we understand. You want meaningful change. And our aim is to give that to you, as you'll see in the 1971 Chevrolets.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.

Bigness in itself is nothing. But if it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride. The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure for 1971, too. We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy ever. It wasn't changed from anything.

Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.

What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind.

In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

'Daddy's Coming Home'

WE WERE STRIDING down one of those interminable long corridors at Love Field heading for our gate to catch a late afternoon flight home.

Suddenly he appeared at our side.

STRIDE FOR STRIDE, his small legs stretched and stretched until he managed to stay even with us.

"I'm walking as fast as you are!"

"You sure are!"

"I'M ON MY WAY to meet my daddy. He's comin' in on a jet all the way from Vietnam and if I'm big enough he's gonna take me fishin'."

"Are you all alone? Where are the rest of your folks?"

"They're waitin' for him at the gate. I had to go to the bathroom. Momma said I had time before the plane arrived."

"HOW LONG HAS it been since you've seen your daddy?"

"He was here for five days two years ago when I was just a little boy. Do you think I'm big enough to go fishin' now?"

"How old are you?"

"I'M FIVE AND A HALF years old and I've been taking care of momma for two years. I won't have to do that any more now that daddy's not in Vietnam. And momma says he'll have his medals, his ribbons, and everything when he gets off the plane."

"Grandma and grandpa are here too from Corsicana cause they want to see Daddy too. But grandma is sick."

"WHAT IS THE MATTER with your grandma?"

"I don't know but I guess it hurts real bad cause while ago while we were talkin' about Daddy coming home she was cryin'. I guess she really hurts bad."

"I'VE GOT A BABY SISTER too but she's just a little bitty thing—she can't go fishin' with my daddy. Babies don't go fishin' do they? My daddy has a mustache and momma says he's gonna keep it for a while, but he left his gun over in Vietnam so some other soldiers can use it. He's not gonna need it anymore momma says."

"AND SHE SAYS I'm not to even look at or talk about daddy's funny leg. It's a new one that the doctors give him but it won't keep him from takin' me fishin'. Momma says we can catch just as much fish anyway. Do you always walk this fast, mister?"

"I bet my daddy can walk this fast too, don't you? I'm walking fast as you. All big boys walk this fast, don't they? If you walk this fast, you're big enough to go fishin'."

HOMMY GETS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

THE GAL had been to the beauty shop and spent simply oodles of money. She had gone home and dressed herself in, what she thought, was her most becoming regalia.

She had used her most fetchin' perfume. The house was in apple-pie order. The lights had been dimmed. She assumed, what she thought to be, a languishing and graceful pose in the love seat and waited.

SOON, the door opened and closed with a bang. The light of her life barged into the room, sailed his hat into the hall, threw his coat across a chair on his way to the bathroom and growled, "What's fer dinner?"

The charge she brought against him, in the divorce court, was "Mental Cruelty." His counter-charge was "Failure to perform wifely-duties."

SO-?-? She got the house, he got the car, the neighbors got the dog, and the in-laws got the blame.

They went their separate ways, each with the firm resolve to try to be more careful of their marital choices next time.

STRANGELY ENOUGH, every new person each of them met, somehow reminded them of their former mate. They found themselves comparing this new acquaintance with their former marriage partners.—They always failed to measure up!

Finally, they got together and began to compare notes. After some discussion, they decided they'd try their marriage again. (After all, the car was a poor bed-partner, and the taxes were due on the house!)

HE RESOLVED to be more romantic, and she resolved to do more cooking. Soon he was so fat and lazy he lost his job, and she had no money to spend in the beauty shop.—They were, both, a mess!

One day, while eating the last of the bologna, and casting furtive glances at the spot where their mortgaged tv used to stand, they sat and each began to study the other.

FOR THE LIFE of them, they couldn't imagine what they'd ever seen in each other!

In the divorce proceedings, he charged, "Mental cruelty." She counter-charged, "Failure-of-support."

THE CITY took the house, (back taxes)—The finance company took the car, the orphanage took the kid, and the Establishment got the blame.

Now, they both got jobs. After all, he needed a car, and she needed beauty treatments.—(Just can't get around much without either one.)

PRETTY SOON he was slim and trim, once more, and she was as beautiful as ever.—But, they were lonely.

One day they chanced to meet at a cafe and they began to talk things over—

SPACE PREVENTS my finishing this story. But, then, anyone knows what the trouble was.

—PAUL HARVEY—

Long Shadow

A BAD COP casts a long shadow. New York's crooked cops make headlines and the ugly smudge tarnishes everybody's badge. It shouldn't but it does.

New York City has an "investigator-commissioner," Robert Ruskin, trying to run down and rout out the city's crooked cops.

HE SAYS HE has never encountered any cop who set out to become a crook. What happens is that an honest cop takes out his wallet to pay for the coffee or the hot dog and the restaurant man says no, "It's on me."

What's the policeman supposed to do, throw the money down on the counter and run. He doesn't.

AND AFTER THAT it's easier to take $10 from a traffic violator, and that's the way it starts.

Next come the larger payoffs—from the businessman who wants to stay open on Sunday, the construction man who wants to block a sidewalk, the unrefrigerated truck delivering meat.

IN SOME PRECINCTS in New York a cop has to bribe a cop to get a good seat in a radio car. Then come the gamblers and the sex peddlers and the dope pushers.

A policeman, teed off because he's expected at the risk of his life to enforce outdated, unrealistic laws, though he knows the case will abort in court, discovers the taking of bribes an attractive alternative.

AS LONG AS businessmen will buy the badge, they can.

After a while the shakedown gets to be a part of the policeman's family budget: he counts on it.

A New York bookie has testified that he paid the police $2,400 a month.

MANHATTAN BUILDERS confide that they pay local patrolmen $40 to $400 a month at each building site.

In order to avoid summonses on minor charges, 10,000 small Puerto Rican grocers are estimated to give police $6.2 million a year in weekly payments and free food.

LITTLE WONDER ghetto kids can't wait to grow up to spit on any uniform.

A corrupt cop is the ultimate hypocrisy. And, as I say, he casts a long shadow.

Across the Appalachians and across the country, the shadow and the smell engulf half a million decent cops in 40,000 districts, imparting unwarranted suspicion on them all.

What New York's Commissioner Ruskin

proposes as a sort of "first aid" in this worsening situation is an updating of those "unrealistic" laws. He thinks, for example, that prostitution and gambling, legalized, could be regulated—where presently they thrive in the dark, corrupting everyone.

THAT'S HIS recommendation, not mine, I don't know. Admittedly, I'm prejudiced.

In the early dirt-street days of Oklahoma, my own daddy was a lawman. Until he was bushwacked by a hijacker and came home dead on Christmas Eve and we hung his bright star on our Christmas tree when I was 3. So, you see, I am prejudiced.

DEAR EDITOR

Dog Owners Advised

Dear Editor,

I am taking this opportunity to try to say something to the dog owners of Littlefield. If you haven't vaccinated your dogs for distemper maybe you should, without much delay.

My family and friends waited too long, and it is really expensive then, and still the dogs don't get well.

If you wait until your dog gets the disease, it is almost always fatal. There is a lot of distemper now, and the dog does not have to be in direct contact—the disease is airborne.

The shots that most dogs will need is what the vets call a "three-in-one-shot." That is for distemper, hepatitis and another for a rare blood disease, I do not know the name of it.

These shots are not cheap—cost about $12.50 per dog—but they are supposed to be a permanent shot and should be given after age of three or four months.

If you vaccinate now, you may have a high priced live dog, but if you wait too long, you could have a very high priced dead dog.

I wish the people of Littlefield would try to clean our town up. There are many too many alley dogs that carry these diseases.

I believe the city should have this done more often—at least every six months.

A dog veterinarian is hard to get in this town.

Thanks,

S/A. D. Green

The Present

By BOB ALLEN

THE PRESENT TIME is always important; much more important than many of us realize. If we fully understood its importance, we would not be so careless with it.

We would appreciate it, use it wisely and not clutter it with so much that doesn't belong to it.

We would leave more of the past in the past where it belongs, and we would leave the future in the future where it belongs.

GUILT ABOUT THE PAST is the cloud that darkens the present for many of us.

The present is used for thinking about wrongs done, about wasted opportunities, about mistakes made and about other things which should be forgotten; except for the lessons to be learned.

Then, tomorrow, if we behave this way, we will feel worse about wasting the present time. Thus, our troubles are compounded.

WORRY ABOUT THE FUTURE is another cloud that hangs heavy over the present. It is true that the future is uncertain, and many ominous forecasts are being made.

These forecasts may be true, and they may not. Regardless of what is to come, we are very foolish to make it come to pass now through our anxious anticipation.

Doing the best we can do with the present time is the best we can do about the future.

A FLIPPANT ATTITUDE about the past mistakes, and future uncertainties is not recommended for the present.

This faulty attitude will cause a grossly misused present, add to past mistakes and lessen preparation for the future.

It will be better for all of us if we are wisely respectful of and wholesomely serious about all time; especially the present.

DROPPING OUT is certainly a solution to anything, but makes even about time; past, present and future worse.

The drop-out is building up an enormous stockpile of regret; he is greatly regretting the possibilities for a tolerable future he actually has no present time.

He is rejecting the present time, for nothing.

INDIFFERENCE DOESN'T help. It may serve as a kind of escape, but not wise.

With the attitude of indifference we make ourselves part of the problem, than part of the solution.

Of course, there will be recognizable limits for intelligent concern; indifference is not the way. The lessons of the past are ignored; the present is as good as lost; and there is no preparation for the future.

OVER-SENSITIVITY is not helpful. We must seek the balance somewhere between indifference and over-sensitivity. This will be the intelligent, wholesome attitude about the past, present and future.

This is our only hope for making most of the present time.

THE PRESENT TIME must be used for doing something constructive. Time, great potential for conversion into wonderful and helpful blessings for everyone.

This will not solve all problems, but be a powerful beginning.

WE CAN BE SURE of the present, but this is the only time of which we are sure.

Gratitude and appreciation motivate us to give it the very best we can to give in useful and necessary work service.

DOWN TO EARTH

Family Survival

JIMMY R. ALLEN

THE PICTURE of a mother and father and children enjoying the Christmas or rejoicing in the New Year is a familiar and poignant one.

It also poses the problem in our modern culture of whether or not families can survive.

THAT FAMILIES need to survive has become an increasing issue.

There was a time when it was taken for granted that wholesome and purpose-filled lives were fashioned best in a family with a mother and a father.

God's Word clearly indicates this as His plan. He chose to place His Son in such an atmosphere to be nurtured to manhood. Many scholarly studies verify the necessity of both a male and female image in the authority pattern for an emerging personality.

HOWEVER, RECENT trends have raised the issue anew. An Associated Press news story from Sweden tells of that government's decision to no longer base its tax and housing benefits on marriage.

Chief sociologist of Swedish Bureau of Statistics, Aake Niellson, indicates "unprecedented affluence has finally made it possible for us to live with whatever attachments we choose."

HIS BUREAU STATES that marriage in Sweden is "losing ground all the time." For instance one in five Swedish children is born out of wedlock.

Ten years ago that figure was one in 10 which is also the figure for the United States of America.

ADVOCATES of free sex expression deride marriage as a progenital and unnecessary arrangement.

Such voices have been in the main until recent years when these ideas began making serious inroads into culture.

YET, TRACING the problem through troubled personalities who are involved in suicide, crime, drug abuse usually reveals that basic root cause is a family that failed to function.

The failure may or may not be a direct result of an emotional divorce. It may be a parent who refuses to play his role, basic truth is that families are essential for persons to grow into healthy, fulfilled lives. Substitute families are possible but are difficult to discover.

A NEW YEAR provides another occasion for evaluating and redirecting lives.

Nothing could be more helpful than Americans to examine their family relationships, commit themselves to do so to each other, and determine to have their families function in a healthy way.

ASSISTANCE IS AVAILABLE from many agencies within communities, including the churches.

The basic spiritual sustenance for family centers in the spiritual resources that God provides in His Word and in daily presence.

When He is acknowledged and depended upon, God works to heal broken families and to help healthy ones know their high fulfillment.

... INSURANCE

years of age, and the minimum liability insurance is carried.

If there is a licensed male driver under 25, the rate increase almost doubled.

Insurance premiums, already more than double for those drivers under 25, took considerable jump—the total bill goes from $241 to $274 on a medium priced car.

On full coverage, bodily injury went down from $47 to $43; property damage rose from $45 to $55; $100 deductible collision from $124 to $144, and deductible comprehensive from $25 to $35.

On liability, bodily injury went down from $25 to $23, but where the insured had been paying $24 for property damage now pays $29; the $2,000 medical that had been costing $14 is now $15, and protection from uninsured motorists is up from $5.

These increases go into effect on the date of the expiration of present policies. The rates don't affect anyone until premiums come up for renewal.

Newton said he sees the increase warning for what is to come. At a recent meeting of agents it was predicted that the cost of automobiles will double total cost in the next 10-15 years. By 1980 a car that sells for $5,000 now will cost $10,000.

Winston said rate increases are lagging far behind the inflationary pressure because the insurance department was until after the election to do anything about increases in premiums. Where many counties were increased rates 14 per cent the insurance companies had been asked 20 per cent or more.

With all this considered, perhaps the reason the horse and buggy days are often referred to as the good old days

A WOMAN'S VIEW

By PEARL BRANDON

And I said to the man who stood by the gate of the year:

"Give me a light that I may tread safely into the unknown!"

And he replied:

"Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God.

That shall be to you better than light and safer than a known way."

So I went forth, and finding the hand of God, trod gladly into the night.

And He led me toward the hills and the breaking of the day in the lone East.—Haskins

SO WE FACE the new year of 1971 not knowing what to expect. All over the world there is great turmoil. Everywhere men seem to be crying out in fear of what may be coming to pass.

Like the poet above, we would like a lamp to light the way into the dark unknown. The New Year begins at midnight, you know, in the middle of the dark and we are fearful of stepping out into the black unknown.

But the dark leads to the dawn and with our hand in the hand of God we go forth to meet the sunrise of the new year.

WE NEED NOT be afraid even though we cannot see the trail ahead. God can see. He sees into the future as well as the past. He can see as well in the dark as in the light and He will guide us along the hill-path.

We can hear the beat of the eternal struggle of the ages, but we hear it as a far off and we need to be concerned only with the small part we play.

GOD IS BIGGER than the universe. He is greater than the ages. He does not mark time, yet He notes the fall of a sparrow and numbers the hair of our heads.

Why should we fear old 1971?

I shall place my hand in the hand of the great Father God, who careth for his own, and serenely step out into the New Year.

"Hello, 1971!"

THE PHILOSOPHER

Brain Chemistry

Edit. Philosopher 30b brani chemistry (Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reports on a new scientific development this week.)

Dear editor:

Despite the drive to clean up the environment, newspapers can still be found blowing around and when I saw one coming toward me yesterday riding a stiff north wind across my lawn. I stood my ground and was able to catch it without moving out of my tracks, which makes me an environmentalist, I guess. An environmentalist you know is anybody who found out within the last two years what the word ecology means.

Having done my duty toward preserving the environment, although I've never understood why a copy of the Avalanche-Journal blowing across a lawn is any worse than dead leaves doing the same thing, I went inside and started reading.

An article that immediately caught my attention told about a rumored breakthrough in brain chemistry. According to it, science hopes to have a new chemical invented soon that'll improve a man's intelligence. "It may be possible," the report said, "to improve by chemical means the general level of intelligence in man."

All right, let's say it works. Let's say you can inject a man with the new chemical and he actually becomes more intelligent.

Then what happens? Right off the bat some smart-alec in Washington will demand that everybody be given an injection, every man, woman and child in the entire country, and what do we wind up with?

We wind up with smarter policemen trying to cope with smarter criminals, smarter prosecuting attorneys getting their ears pinned back by smarter defense lawyers, smarter politicians bamboozling smarter voters. . . thunder, we'd be about where we are now, with the main result being just an increase in the cost of living to cover the price of the shots.

Most people I deal with are already too smart for me. Speeding up both of us isn't going to close the gap.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

An opening ceremony was conducted by Kyle Shipley, Timmy Cannon, Tony Cowan, and Darrell Siems. Scout Paul Harlan brought the invocation, followed by a "Welcome Speech" given by Timmy Cannon.

Tender foot badges were pinned on upside down until they had completed a "Good Turn" for some one.

Entertainment was provided by Rev. A. Cameron Ainsworth, pastor of the Advent Christian Church, Clovis, N. M. Rev. Ainsworth used magic tricks to illustrate religious messages. The pastor's message was, "There is no magic elevator in life to see us through temptations and problems, but, as Scouts have their handbook as a guide, so do we as Christians."

THE CHILD who looks out the window or "fools" around in school and gets poor marks may have a vision problem, according to the Better Vision Institute. Photo courtesy of Better Vision Institute.

Your Child -- 20-20 Vision Victim?

Many children with poor vision are wrongly labeled "lazy," "dull," or even "emotionally disturbed" by teachers and parents who are unaware that 20-20 on an eye test does NOT mean perfect vision.

A child may be above average in intelligence and have a 20-20 score, and yet a seeing problem may be causing him to fall behind in his studies, to be inattentive in class, to be poor in sports, or even to disturb the other students.

The usual eye test, traditional for many school generations in America, measures only one of the many different facets of good vision--the ability to distinguish letters of the alphabet at a distance of twenty feet.

But what if the letters are at reading distance--fourteen to twenty inches instead of twenty feet? What if they are off to one side of the child's vision field rather than directly in the middle?

What if the letters (or any other objects) are not standing still, but are in motion? Do the child's right and left eyes work together smoothly?

How well does the child judge depths and distances? Twenty percent of American youngsters entering school for the first time already have vision difficulties, according to the Better Vision Institute.

Half of these problems can be spotted by parents and teachers before they show up in patterns of poor psychological adjustment or poor scholastic achievement, but too many children now struggle through into the sixth or seventh grade before their visual needs are recognized, and a large number of American children never get adequate visual diagnosis and treatment.

The screening of Columbia University freshmen over a four-year period revealed that about 30 percent of entering students had some visual problem that might have jeopardized their scholastic success.

Some of these students may have been able to see well enough to "get along", but probably at the cost of so much extra mental effort as to cause continual suffering from eyestrain, fatigue, general irritability, and restlessness.

A vision-handicapped youngster rarely complains about not seeing well--because he doesn't know his vision is not normal. He tends to believe that everybody sees the way he does.

Parents and teachers can sometimes spot eye-trouble symptoms if they know what to look for. Here are a few of the more obvious physical signs:

1. Crossed eyes
2. Blinking
3. Reddened eyes
4. Dark marks under the eyes
5. Watery eyes
6. Periodic blurred vision
7. Nausea or dizziness
8. Headache
9. Encrusted eyelids
10. Burning or itching eyes
11. Frequent styes

Here are some of the signs that require more careful observation:

1. A tendency for the child to stiffen his body or turn his head forwards or backwards when looking at a distant object.
2. A tendency to touch or rub the eyes.
3. An expressed dislike for reading.
4. A tendency to avoid close work of any kind.
5. Dislike for parlor games.
6. Inability to concentrate the attention on any subject for more than a short time.
7. Excessive daydreaming, or looking off into space.
8. A tendency to tilt or turn the head.
9. Contortion of the face into a frown while reading or writing.
10. A tendency to keep one eye closed.
11. Frequent loss of place while reading.
12. Reading with the face very close to the page.
13. Movement of the head while reading.
14. Poor eye-hand coordination in sports or other physical activities.
15. Fatigue, nervousness, irritability, or restlessness following the completion of tasks which involve use of the eyes.
16. Difficulty in remembering what is read.
17. Confusion of similar words.
18. Using the finger to lead the eye while reading.

A complete eye examination, carried out by a highly trained professional, is the only certain way to find out whether a child (or an adult) has an eye difficulty.

A high percentage of American children who are in the "bottom third" classes scholastically suffering from some vision defect.

The percentage is small, high scholastic achievers, many children who are quite well" would be at even high levels if they were better.

The Better Vision Institute believes that all children should be examined thoroughly for good vision before the school.

To promote the cause of better vision, especially among young, the Institute offers to all women's organizations a kit that tells how to alert the community to the importance of good vision.

The kit includes a formative speech about vision and how the eye set of information, pamphlets, and a number of specific suggestions about to conduct a productive vision program.

It can be obtained by writing to the Better Vision Institute, 230 Park Avenue, New York City, N. Y. 10017.

An estimated 13 million school children--and millions of adults--now need vision correction of one kind or another, and tragic fact is that many do not receive it. Is your child efficient?

A child who can't maintain eyes focus as a team is dicated because he will get a true in-depth picture of the world. A child who has corrected "tunnel vision" never learn to read fast to succeed in school.

A child with poor eye coordination may need prescribed course of training exercises. Yet these children may have "vision" in the common accepted sense of the term.

Wise parents can influence their children in no more forceful manner than by making sure that eyes are in efficient order.
