TCH-ALL CLAUSE IN LAW

Parents Should Appear With Teen Offenders

Several minors being arrested recently and jailed on charges of possession of minors in possession and consumption, a state law has been focused upon that no minor can make a fine or pay a fine without one of his parents present when he goes before the judge. Although the law specifically punishes minors driving while intoxicated, a catch-all clause punishes juveniles charged with all traffic violations.

"We try to get parents in," city judge Ben Noble said, "but some won't appear. Some parents have just given up on their kids and it's disheartening. If parents don't come in, they are usually called to see if they know what is going on." F.A. Fitzgerald, Littlefield chief of police, said minors aren't thrown in jail unless it is necessary. (In reference to 10 minors jailed recently for possession of minors and minor consumption.) "The first time we turn them over to their parents," Fitzgerald said, "but we don't like to send them home or take them home. We like for the parents to come in and see for themselves." Fitzgerald said he thought the law could be applied to riders in the car and would even apply if they were walking. The chief said all parents are notified when a juvenile is charged with either possession or drinking

6.42 Interest Rate Bid By Austin Firm

Littlefield city councilmen awarded a bid for the $365,000 paving bond at the regular monthly session Thursday night.

Eleven bids were submitted and First Federated Securities Corporation of Austin was accepted with an effective interest rate of 6.42333. City Manager Pat Bradley and council members reported that they were very pleased with the bid.

In other action J.C. Woods representing General Telephone and Electronic Communications Incorporated read a letter stating that his company would not be able to supply the television cable franchise to Littlefield because of recently passed FCC legislation prohibiting the telephone company serving the area from also providing cable service. Other companies will be interviewed in the near future if demands show that cable tv is still wanted here.

Speed zone changes were approved from city limits to city limits on Highways 54 and 84.

A waiver of penalty and interest on delinquent taxes was granted to Ernest Morriott who owns and operates the Plains Motel because he had not received notices.

OLD SMITH HOTEL

Inn Has Rooms, No Roomers

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

The hey day of the old Smith Hotel is gone, and so are the all-you-can-eat for 25 cents meals. But Mrs. Lorado McKnight still lives in the hotel that has been in Littlefield 57 years. "I have rooms, but no roomers," she laughed. Frank Smith built the first house in Littlefield and decided to build the hotel a year after the Yellowhouse Land Company built a hotel here for prospectors. Smith hauled the lumber to Littlefield in 1913 and erected the two-story hotel on the triangle lot east of the present Byers Grain and Feed.

But there were no city ordinances against pig pens and such more than 50 years ago, and before long smells from gins and hog pens built around the hotel were so bad that boarders could hardly eat. In 1923 Smith decided to move the hotel to its present site and set out to accomplish the task with mules. But the mules couldn't budge the monstrous building, and two tractors of that modern-day vintage were brought in to assist with the three-block move down Phelps and back to the east on Fourth Street.

At the corner of Main and Fourth across from the Yellowhouse Building the hotel got mired down in the mud and remained in the middle of the street until county maintainers could be brought in the next day. For years cowboys, ranchers, prospectors and carpenters called the hotel home, as long as they paid the $5 a week for their room and board. Board included three meals a day -- all you could eat, boarding house ranch style -- featuring beef or a antelope and fresh garden vegetables.

When more meat was needed, one of the Smiths just went out and killed one. "Later it was against the law, but if they were just getting one to eat no one paid any attention," Mrs. McKnight said, "and when you put it on the table no one asked any questions."

Passersby paid 25 cents per night and 25 cents per meal. There were eight of the Smith children at home at one time, and they did most of the cook-

THE OLD SMITH HOTEL is one of Littlefield's oldest landmarks, and Mrs. Lorado McKnight has lived in the hotel most of the 57 years it has been in Littlefield. First erected on Delano Avenue in 1913, the hotel was moved to its present site on Fourth Street in 1923.

ing and chores such as washing the sheets on a mangle board. "Of course they were boiled in a wash pot out in the yard first," Mrs. McKnight said, "and there wasn't too much rubbing."

There was a downstairs bath with COLD running water for those brave enough. For the finicky, there was a reservoir on the range and water could be carried to the bath. Saturday was the big day in town, but it wasn't like the Saturday nights in the movies. Mrs. McKnight declared, "There wasn't much rip snortin', because there wasn't much to rip snort over. They weren't wild cowboys, just nice fellows."

The cowboys and ranchers mostly came in to town when they needed a haircut and wanted to take a bath. Most men either bathed in the cow tanks before coming to town or went to the barber shop to bathe.

As ranches were cut up into farms, farm hands and the working class of people replaced the cowboys. "We used to have the house full all of the time," Mrs. McKnight said, "but everything died when the Depression came."

Before the long dining hall was cut up into bedrooms, this was the gathering place for community dances. Everyone came and brought all their children who were bedded down on blankets around the room after they got through playing.

Anyone who could play provided music for square and round dancing. Mrs. McKnight's brother, Bob Smith, always played the French harp and danced at the same time. Often his music was the only accompaniment.

Mrs. McKnight's husband died in the 1923 flu epidemic and she stayed on at the hotel and sent her three boys through school here. Then they enlisted in service from here. Mavey is a school principal at Kress, Elmer is a highway patrol captain at San Antonio and Robert is a retired civil service employee. Now 77-years-old, Mrs. Mavey has lived in Littlefield all but four years since the family moved here in 1913. "Oh, I still take in an occasional roomer," she said, "but I don't advertise anymore. I like to look people over before I take them in." When none of the 10 upstairs bedrooms are occupied,

HONEYMOON INTERRUPTED

Newly Wed Charged In Fire

A 20-year-old Sudan man's name appeared in three public record books in court house this week, as a result, he spent part of his honeymoon in the county jail, minus his bride.

Thomas Tex Sharp was arrested Thursday and the jail book showed a charge of arson. Sharp appeared before Justice of Peace J. N. Bowen who heard a voluntary statement from Sharp on the setting afire of Sudan Justice of Peace W. T. Vereen's barn that resulted in the death of nine hogs and critical burning of two more. Bowen set Sharp's bond at $5,000 then reduced it to $3,000.

Sharp told Bowen that he set fire to Vereen's barn because he was mad at the Sudan J.P. for fining him on the night the fire was discovered. Sharp was picked up by the Sudan deputy about 11:30 on May 13, and charged with disturbing the peace. The deputy called Vereen to come down and set the man's fine. Sharp and a companion said they didn't have the money and Vereen released them and told them to come back later and pay the fine. Vereen reached home after midnight and was awakened about an hour later when the fire whistle blew signaling his barn was burning. Ten days later Sharp got married, and 12 days later he was arrested on the arson charge.

Cost Of Accidents, $2,222,000 Locally

From the standpoint of safety, it is much better to be living in Lamb County than in most places in the United States. For the average local resident, life appears to be less hazardous. The chances of becoming involved in an accident--fatal or otherwise--are not as great as they are elsewhere, according to government statistics.

The local accident record is reflected, along with those of other communities across the country, in the latest vital statistics survey by the U. S. Public Health Service. The surveys are made on an annual basis.

The findings are of particular importance at this time because of the approach of the holiday season with its usually high toll, both on the highway and in the home.

The report shows a total of 11 fatal accidents in the year among residents of Lamb County. Motor vehicles were responsible for 9 of them.

And this is only part of the toll, the National Safety Council points out. It estimates that, for every fatal accident, there are nearly 100 others of a disabling nature that do not result in death.

The figures in the survey take into account accidents of all sorts that affected local people, wherever they may have occurred. They do not include, however, local accidents involving non-residents.

Lamb County's accident toll, in terms of population, was at the rate of 46 fatalities per 100,000 people.

It was lower than the rate reported for the rest of the United States, 57 per 100,000. It was better, also, than the State of Texas rate of 60 per 100,000.

The magnitude of the problem is evident from figures compiled by the National Safety Council. They show that 116,000 Americans died as a result of accidents in the past year.

The overall cost of accidents in 1969, counting medical expenses, lost wages, property damage and the like, is estimated by the council at $23.5 billion.

Lamb County's share of this cost, based upon the average amount per accident, comes to approximately $2,222,000.

2-Car Wreck Near Earth

An estimated $300 damage was done Friday morning to a 1970 Plymouth owned and driven by J. W. Sollis, principal of Springlake-Earth High School, in a two-car collision north of the Earth city limits on FR 1055.

Both vehicles were traveling south when Walter Washington of Route 2 Earth, driving a 1964 Chevrolet started to make a left turn at the same time Sollis attempted to pass the Washington vehicle, and the Sollis car collided with the left rear of the Washington pickup.

Highway Patrolman Bill Angel investigated.

The clarinet choir rated a II at the state contest. Tonya Bingham, Annelle Harris, Bruce Hall, Terry Walker, Steve Berry, Margaret Fain, Peggy

A LOT OF TRACTOR work is being done over the area, but not many farmers have a 16-year-old blonde-haired, green-eyed girl Friday who looks like she could handle a modeling job equally well. This photo of Shirley Priboth was snapped as she neared highway 385 south of town on one of her dad's farms. This is the fourth summer Shirley has "done anything to help daddy" (Kenneth Priboth), and with a laugh she admits the "pay" is what she likes best about farming.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Friend With Life

By BOB WEAR

FRIEND OR ENEMY? We must decide whether we are going to be friendly with life, or make ourselves enemies of life.

and reasonable goals. These are some of the principal conditions of friendship with life.

IT IS STRANGE, beyond belief, why so many otherwise intelligent and capable persons permit themselves to be at odds with life.

WE MUST UNDERSTAND LIFE, and we can understand it. The rewards, satisfactions, beauties and meaningfulness are all around us.

The widespread hostility toward life is appalling. It is so uncalled for. It is such a great loss for the hostile persons, but the loss is not confined to them.

"Life is like a beautiful and winding lane, on either side bright flowers, beautiful butterflies, and tempting fruits, which we scarcely pause to admire and taste, so eager are we to hasten to an opening which we imagine will be more beautiful still.

WE CAN BE FRIENDLY with life if this is our desire, and we are willing to meet the terms of friendship. We must work with diligence; we must establish the best possible sense of values; we must use good judgment; we must be wise in our choices and our manner of living; we must have sensible expectations

LIFE IS NEITHER FRIEND NOR enemy, but our choices and actions make it so. When we show ourselves friendly with life, life will be friendly, too.

A WOMAN'S VIEW

Humbleness

By PEARL BRANDON

ONCE TWO MEN went up to the temple to pray.

ified. In his distress he had cried unto the Lord "Oh, God, be merciful to me, a sinner", and He heard him.

He said, "Lord, just look at me, what a great man I am. Other men may be extortioners, unjust, adulterers, but not me."

JESUS SAID, "Everyone that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

WHILE HE WAS congratulating himself on being such a fine man he happened to notice another man, standing apart...afar off, smiting himself on his breast and crying out for mercy.

It is hard not to think more highly of ourselves than we should. I'm afraid if I could see myself as others see me I would be very much surprised and I would really get a shock if I could see myself as the Lord sees me.

The Pharisee looked him over and said, "Now, Lord, just compare me with this man here. He must be a terrible sinner; he can't so much as lift his head, but I fast twice a week and I pay tithes of all I possess."

I AM GLAD the Lord loves us in spite of our weaknesses and hears us when we pray earnestly and humbly.

OF COURSE the Pharisee was so satisfied with himself he didn't even think to ask for a blessing and he received none, except for the one he already had, his exalted ego.

He would have heard the Pharisee if he had prayed to God with a real need instead of to himself.

The poor publican went away justified.

I once heard a kind old colored woman say, "We all need something to keep us humble before the Lord."

WE ALL NEED to be humble before the Lord, then He will hear us when we pray.

"Walters, you're the only employee around here who always has a smile on his face. Now, what's the big joke?"

PAUL HARVEY

Nixon Preoccupied

SINCE CHARLES de Gaulle extricated France from years of bloodletting in Africa and Indochina, France has never had it so good.

Others have. The New York Times, in the years following the big War, gave more inches of news space to London than to any United States city excepting New York City and Washington, D. C.

What would happen if the United States should elect to withdraw from the bloodletting and mind our own business?

IT WAS AXIOMATIC in foreign bureaus of The Times that you could write a news story or a think piece on almost any subject and get it printed.

THERE IS EVIDENCE that we, the people, are becoming inclined that way -- but that President Nixon, by his own self-indoctrination -- retains a preoccupation with world affairs.

From obscure capitals of the Far East and Mideast, Times correspondents expected and got priority consideration for their stuff.

Candidate Nixon, during the 1968 campaign, being interviewed on a Dallas radio station, said, "Ask me questions about foreign policy; that's really my strength."

Ten years ago that began to change. Five years ago The Times had shifted emphasis so conspicuously that it was measurable not just in "inches" but in "pages."

PROBABLY NO man ever prepared for the Presidency with more concern for acquainting himself with world leaders and world problems than did Mr. Nixon.

TODAY THE NEW York Times has 20 correspondents assigned to hinterland cities in the United States. (Still only three in the South; two in Atlanta, one in New Orleans.)

Now, is it possible that our nation's best interests require immediate self-concern -- that our home fronts are more threatened than is our "foreign rear" -- and that our President has not yet recognized this shift in emphasis?

WHERE ONCE WE feared to turn our back on the world, we now have the technology to keep any real enemies at arms' length.

THE PHILOSOPHER

Swatting Flies

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm examines a new issue abroad in the land today.)

Now we must look homeward, tend to our own knitting. We've been dropping too many stitches.

Dear editor: Now that me and the college students have found out what the word means -- you print something often enough in every newspaper and magazine in the country and say it often enough on television and nearly anybody can catch on -- ecology has become a major issue in this country.

Now an Administration primarily concerned with foreign policy is at least five years out of date.

Everybody is using the word, saying this or that will upset the ecology, or the balance of nature.

WHITES RETREAT into a shell from their former rhetoric, calling for justice as they feel fear of upheaval in the wind.

For example, according to an article I read in a newspaper last night which somebody on his way to an anti-litter meeting threw out of his car near this Johnson grass farm, there's a great protest by some people over plans to build an oil pipeline across Alaska.

Peace groups demonstrate. War groups counter-demonstrate. Economy makes its shaky way from day to day.

Another thinker is denouncing electric light poles, saying they're a desecration of the natural landscape.

A deep sense of apprehension covers the average American sky like a smog of impending doom.

I don't know about the moose in Alaska, but one of the prettiest sights I've seen is a line of light poles marching across my pasture bringing electricity to this farm.

POLARIZATION is the process of hardening our differences into defiance.

It is the abandoning of hope that bridges of understanding and cooperation will be constructed.

It is a deadly enemy because Abraham Lincoln's famous application of scriptural truth to a nation is soberingly true, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

MANY ENEMIES of the democratic process have predicted its failure some work feverishly to help it fail.

Understand, I'm all for the real anti-pollution movement, but you can carry ecology to some pretty ridiculous ends. I don't care if it does upset the ecology and the entire campus world, when a fly gets in range of me, I'm going to swat him.

Yours Faithfully, J. A.

HOMINY GRITS

By CORNBALL BLEV

He's Under His Skin

FOR YEARS I've admired Mr. Paul Harvey, I've read his comments with gusto, and in full agreement. But lately, he's been getting under my skin.

nam to start with.--But, the there, and it wasn't Mr. Nixon sent them!

First he starts an apology for my generation, for our errors in judgement, as well as our deliberate sins. True, these I cannot deny. My generation has indulged in both categories. We'd like opportunity to right these wrongs.

He, now, is in the unique position of having to fight a war on two fronts. The Vietnam thing as well as the battle on the HOME-FRONT.

OUR BIGGEST mistake is that we've been so soft. We've weakened the law, and have taken respect away from its officials.

TWO of the promises he made put him into the presidency, was all out attempt to honorably end the war, plus the effort to restore law and order in our own country.--I'm still persuaded that he honestly trying to perform his miracles!

While the Doves are doing the best to bring the war to a DISHONORABLE end, the Supreme Court has securely tied his hands on the law and order bit.--His attempt to appoint a Supreme Court Justice, that would fit his plan was deftly blocked by the pro-anarchy group in Congress.

We have overlooked the open flaunting of authority, as well as the open desecration of our flag. --Yeah, we must even apologize for the laws resistance to rioting.

Can return our embattled forces home in a hurry, because, it looks as though we may need them in the near future!

MR. HARVEY has taken the popular position of the dissidents.--He has joined up with the carpers, and harpers that are, constantly, finding fault with the administration.--May he, and the Cronkites, Fulbrights and Lindsys be happy together.

SURE, AND I'm hoping that Can return our embattled forces home in a hurry, because, it looks as though we may need them in the near future!

Certainly, I do not advocate war. --I didn't want our forces in Viet-

Meanwhile, I'll probably continue to read Paul Harvey, but, henceforth, I'm going to keep my shaker handy in case I need GRAIN-OF-SALT with which to swallow his stuff!

DOWN TO EARTH

Polarization

By JIMMY R. ALLEN

"POLARIZATION is America's deadly enemy."

THE WHOLE HOUSE is in danger of toppling.

The somber words of Arizona's former governor, Samuel P. Goddard, to a San Antonio audience recently summarizes a growing apprehension in our nation.

What can be done to halt the process of polarization before it is too late?

THIS NATION elected a president on a campaign pledge to bring us together but gives a landscape of hostile camps and divided opinions. Youth groups angrily protest establishment policies and those over 30 speak in dismay and disgust of the strange breed of youth dominating the campus scene.

TOO COMPLEX A MALANDY is a simple cure, polarization can be solved by several steps.

BLACKS CRY OUT for long sought-for redress of grievances and worriedly talk of threat of genocide as they view the shooting of black youths in Mississippi and Georgia. Browns shout that the nation has too long been alarmed by Black militancy and ignored Brown needs.

1. The realization that we does not demand uniformity. Diversity is one of the keys to greatness to a nation.

WHITES RETREAT into a shell from their former rhetoric, calling for justice as they feel fear of upheaval in the wind.

2. A spirit of humility and repentance. The term may sound "churchy" but the spirit is essentially Proud, ego-oriented groups should acknowledge the possibility that they may be wrong.

Peace groups demonstrate. War groups counter-demonstrate. Economy makes its shaky way from day to day.

Moral leadership in a nation or in a family of nations can be achieved only by those who have courage to acknowledge and correct mistakes as well as to contend courageously for a purpose.

A deep sense of apprehension covers the average American sky like a smog of impending doom.

3. The "politicalization" of dissent. The realization must dawn that the way to alter a nation's course is not simply to demonstrate or to jeer. It is to join the process of decision-making by becoming active in the choosing of leaders.

POLARIZATION is the process of hardening our differences into defiance.

It is to join in the often frustrating process of persuasion and constructive involvement.

It is the abandoning of hope that bridges of understanding and cooperation will be constructed.

4. The personal effort to bridge a gap. The effort to discover those with whom you do not agree and search for a ground of communication is essential. We cannot change national trends by one person's actions but we can help create a climate for unity by personal effort.

It is a deadly enemy because Abraham Lincoln's famous application of scriptural truth to a nation is soberingly true, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

5. The spiritual dimension. Awakening to God. The real ground of reconciliation is discovering vital relationship with God. In doing men find a common center of authority and reach out toward each other.

MANY ENEMIES of the democratic process have predicted its failure some work feverishly to help it fail.

A FEW MONTHS AGO Harold Stassen, perennial candidate for president, told a small dinner group in Washington that the decade of the '70s would be one either of confrontation or reconciliation.

Ample evidence exists that it can fail. But America is freedom's most significant laboratory.

He contends that the future of the world hinges on the choice. So far it has been confrontation.

And much more is involved than the decline and fall of a single society.

Let us pray for reconciliation.

In a real sense America is a cornerstone of the house of democracy.

How Safe Is Your Car?

They've finally reduced it to statistics: of four million vehicles recently inspected by the state of Texas, 43% were found unsafe for today's traffic conditions!

Does neglect of car maintenance really amount to much when it comes to safety? How much of a hazard, for example, are worn tires?

Pennsylvania Turnpike officials can answer that one.

For years, they've urged toll booth attendants to bar autos with badly worn tires.

To date, some 12,000 drivers have been told to get better tires or stay off the Turnpike.

Result: Turnpike deaths from accidents traceable to poor tires have dropped from 26% of all fatal accidents to less than 5%.

It has been mentioned that if attendants could check other possible defects in the cars passing through their gates--defects such as bad brakes, faulty headlights and directional signals--there is little doubt that accidents could be reduced still further.

ice or snow, mud or sand, or on rain-slick roads.

As for dual diagonal brakes, they double your safety margin, for if one braking system gives out, an extra hydraulic setup takes over to stop you quickly and surely on the straight and narrow, and unlike some brake systems which use front wheels and back wheels as units, the dual diagonal system uses right front and left rear, and vice versa, to avoid dangerous skids.

Safety door latches are another feature that many car shoppers will find--and a good thing, too. Safety experts note that risk of serious injury increases markedly when occupants are thrown from the car--usually when the door flies open.

Seat belts, of course, protect against this possibility--when they are used, as they too often are not. Yet a recent study of 242 severely injured motorists again proves their value. Dr. Allen N. Nahum of the UCLA School of Medicine estimated that 90 percent of these injuries could have been avoided or at least minimized if the motorist had been using a seat belt or shoulder harness.

Harnesses, which are standard equipment on at least one foreign car, are preferred by some safety authorities because they restrain the upper part of the body from falling forward and striking the instrument panel in case of accident.

Even the best safety equipment, however, is no substitute for an alert and responsible driver. Although good car design may minimize accident damage, it's still true that people, not cars, cause most accidents.

Psychological causes of traffic tragedies are among the worst hazards facing drivers. "Problem" motorists tend to have certain traits in common--for example, they are often aggressive and self-centered.

But not all drivers with accident records have this kind of background, and even the "good" driver with a fine record can and does succumb to certain deadly psychological temptations of the road. These are:

1. OVERCONFIDENCE. Taking for granted that pedestrians, other drivers, and the driver's own car and reflexes will all do the right thing at the right time.
2. IMPATIENCE. Taking needless chances, suppressing good judgment, getting into tight situations just to save a little time.
3. SELF-RIGHTEOUSNESS, which causes some drivers to try to "teach that wise guy a lesson." What's actually learned, of course, may be tragically different from what was intended.

Even drivers who avoid the psychological pitfalls may be falling into driving errors without realizing it.

According to a recent report by the New York City Police Department, these were the driving errors most commonly implicated in that city's traffic accidents:

1. Following too close to another car and consequently losing control.
2. Failing to give a pedestrian the right of way.
3. Failing to give another vehicle the right of way.
4. Failing to stop on signals.
5. Improper turn, failure to keep to the right, and disregard of signs were also contenders for the fifth spot.

In the final analysis, the most important factor to steer you straight is concern with your own condition as well as that of your car.

Get the best-designed car you can find, keep it in mechanically tip-top shape--and remember that even the safest auto is only as "accident proof" as you, the driver.

A Little Classified Ad Goes

Cars designed to combat these hazards are now in production; some are already on the market.

The Swedish SAAB, for example, has the collapsible steering wheel and column which will be featured on some of next year's American models; the SAAB, winner of the hair-raising Monte Carlo Rally, also has a "pop-out" windshield and padded dashboard and visors.

Other safety features which have long been standard equipment on several imports like the SAAB and are now being built into some of the newest American cars are front wheel drive and dual brakes.

The unique traction, readability and easy handling which front wheel drive offers makes it a safety must, particularly when the driving gets rough on

V.M. Peterman, secretary-treasurer of the local group, introduced Mr. Watson, closing with a question and answer period. Watson commended County Judge J.T. Sidas and commissioners present, for their interest in the preservation of the history of the County.

Watson also revealed a new 10-goal program with 34 points, which County chairman, R.E. Scott, Sudan, will receive in the near future.

Fourteen were present for the conference. Sudan will be host for the next meeting of the county committee, July 9, when the theme for the meeting will be "Lamb County Museum—For a Day". All members and other interested persons are asked to bring items for dis-

Sorority Contributes To Community Projects

As summer approaches, the local chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, looks back over the past projects of the year.

At the beginning of last summer they organized the first "Miss Littlefield Pageant" which this year will be titled "Miss Lamb County".

In September they contributed to the Spies-Cristan Fund. And sat many hours at the hospital.

In October, a Spook House was held, and half the proceeds were donated to local Girl Scouts.

In November they gave a contribution to the "International Endowment Fund" of Beta Sigma Phi. This is a fund set up to aid humanity through projects which receive contributions from this, such as the Cancer Research Foundation, Scholarship and Literary Awards, Home for Neglected Girls, Polio, Cystic Fibrosis.

In December the sorority selected a needy family and prepared a basket of food, clothing and a Christmas tree.

A party was given for the children in the special education classes of our school, they also gave a party for Valentine, Easter and at the end of school.

The Satalite School for retarded children was also given a Christmas party. And a monthly donation was given to the school by the sorority.

During the year the sorority helped with the Cancer Drive and the March of Dimes.

The chapter also gave a scholarship to a deserving high school senior.

For the summer projects, will send three Girl Scouts to camp, contribute to the Boy Scouts and the Hospital Auxiliary.

As the new year approaches the members will begin work towards the annual "Miss Lamb County Pageant" in August and new projects.

Highway Signs Hit In Accident

Two highway signs were knocked down Thursday in avoiding a two-car wreck.

Mrs. Ruth Allison Ogerly of Route 1 Amherst was driving a 1958 Chevrolet west approaching U.S. 385 five and one-half miles north of Littlefield and failed to see an approaching 1967 Falcon driven by Deborah Ann McCoy of New Deal, traveling north.

Both vehicles veered to the left to avoid collision, and Miss McCoy struck the highway signs. Bill Angel, Texas Highway Patrolman, investigated and estimated damages of $400 to the McCoy car owned by J.R. McCoy of Route 1 Olton.

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

and get a spiritual lift for the whole week

That means everybody.

That means you. But to STOP, in this world of turmoil and toil, is almost a lost art. We've got to STOP, LOOK, and LISTEN for God. It is that time of day. We must realize we are eternal children of God, on the swift way to destiny.

Just as there must be "rests" in music, to give it phrasing and color, so must man "pause" with God, to refresh his soul.

There are warnings aplenty on the road of life. It would be very wise to STOP for His counsel; LOOK for His direction; LISTEN to His pleading.

His church steeple is a compelling force in every community. It invites you to invest your life in her program of service.

The BEST CROWD to FOLLOW is the CROWD GOING to CHURCH

Bowler's Dream Almost Reality

A dream that all bowlers have was almost fulfilled Wednesday night by Ernest Mills. All bowlers dream of a sanctioned 300 game. One pin, the seven pin, kept him from reaching his goal. With his first ball, in the first frame, he left the seven pin, then converted for a spare and rolled eleven consecutive strikes for a final 290 game. Mills has been bowling in Littlefield since 1956 and this is the highest sanctioned league game ever bowled here.

RACE MONTH June is the month of pedals and pistons in France. The Le Mans 24-hour auto endurance race and the Tour de France month-long bicycle marathon, two of the nation's greatest sports events, are set for June 13 and June 25, respectively.

SPORTS

IT'S THE WAY you hold your mouth that makes a strike. Ernest Mills rolled 11 consecutive strikes Wednesday night and still fell short 10 pins of his life-long dream, a perfect game in sanctioned play.

Continued from Page 1 Mrs. McKnight closes off the second floor. A two-room apartment in the back is rented out, but Mrs. McKnight uses the four downstairs bedrooms and the rest of the first floor for her own home. "That way I have plenty of room when the kids and grandkids come to me," she says. During all the years she ran the hotel she did all the plumbing, wiring, wall papering and carpentering. "Then she broke her leg and had to quit all that," Mrs. Smith said. "Or we thought she had, but I saw her out on the balcony Thursday pulling down some of the vines that were about to pull the balcony down."

The clutch went out on Wildcat bus 16 miles this side of Lampasas and the bus had to be towed to a Lampasas garage. Another bus was sent from Littlefield Wednesday to bring the students home. Meantime, the school system there loaned the LHS bus students a bus for transportation, and students were swimming and shopping the until their bus arrived. Student said Lampasas was a nice town to be marooned in when the finally arrived back home at 4 a.m. Thursday.

Follow Simple Rules For Water Safety

The season of fishing and boating enthusiasm is now in full swing. The Texas State Department of Health reminds you that a safe summer of excitement and fun is in your hands. All fishermen—experts and novices alike—should know how to swim, should know basic first aid, and have a first aid kit with them. Since fish hooks sometimes "catch" anglers as well as fish, carry needlenose pliers, wire cutters, and pocket knife in your tackle box.

Always keep hooks in covered containers. Always look before casting, and make certain you have room to do so without hooking someone else. Use an overhead cast when in a boat with others. It's much safer to fish with a companion, but when fishing alone, always leave word where you will be and when you plan to return. Wear thick soled boots in densely wooded or marshy areas. Do not wear waders while in a boat. Wade cautiously to avoid slipping on unseen rocks or stepping suddenly into deep water. Stay in open areas. Avoid swimmers, waterskiers, and skin and scuba divers. Learn how to hold a fish properly while extracting a hook. Many species have sharp teeth or fins that can cause deep hand wounds. All water skiers should know it takes a team effort, with at least three people involved—one person to ride behind the boat, one to steer with eyes front, and another to watch the skier and his hand signals. Although skimming 75 feet behind a powerboat doing 30 miles per hour may look dangerous, it need not be if you use the right sign language and follow a few safety rules. Even qualified swimmers should wear a flotation device while skiing, preferably a life jacket. Have a good communication system between the driver, the observer, and skier. Learn the hand signal system developed by the American Water Ski Association. The skier can use these signals for everything from making turns to adjusting speed. If you are involved in a boating accident, do not panic. The one most important factor in avoiding panic is training and preparation. Boats will float, and you will too, if you don't lose your head. Never overload the boat, and always insist that all passengers wear life preservers. If the boat overturns, stay with the boat—it will float. Keep a level head, and practicing the most important rule of them all—use common sense.

Four 2-Car Wrecks Investigated Here

City police investigated four bumper were damaged an estimated $110. A 1965 Chevrolet driven by Emory McFrazier collided with a 1959 Ford driven by Karen Johnson Shipley on Phelps Avenue Tuesday. Damages were estimated at $50 and $25. Damages were light in a pickup-truck collision on Furr's parking lot Tuesday morning. Local Boys Staters In Austin Session

The thirtieth annual American Legion Boys State sponsored by the Department of Texas and held on the Campus of the University of Texas, got under way this week as 785 high school boys from all parts of Texas, and two from Mexico, began registration, Henry H. Hill, Department Commander, announced.

Among those registering from Littlefield were Michael Alvis Collins, 307 E. 19th, and Wendell Lewis Horn, 100 E. 18th St. who were sponsored by local American Legion Posts.

Following registration, each citizen was assigned to one of two political parties - the Nationalist or Federalist. Each citizen then functions as a member of his party, he attends its precinct, county and state conventions and votes in its primary.

In Boys State, The American Legion provides the type of program where the young citizen has the opportunity to learn for himself that his government is just what he makes it. The boy "learns to do by doing."

Highlight of Boys State was a trip to the Capitol on Friday morning where each elected Boys State Official was given an opportunity to serve in his respective office for a day, followed by the Governor's Ball Friday evening.

Boys State enrollment this year brings the total to 14,939 junior high school boys who have attended since 1940, when Boys State was first inaugurated in Texas.

THE COURTYARD at the old Excelsior House was the scene of many parties when Jefferson was one of Texas' largest cities more than 100 years ago.

Old Excelsior House Brings Back Memories

On autumn nights, cool winds whip rustling leaves from giant oaks and shower them on the porch of the Excelsior House where almost 100 years ago Presidents Grant and Hayes were among the hotel's patrons.

The sound of leaves falling, almost imperceptibly like rain, seems to echo in the imagination, conjuring up nights long ago when Jefferson was a brash and booming riverport.

On many of those nights music and laughter filled the grand ballroom of the Excelsior House as men in waistcoats and their ladies in hooped skirts danced for hours.

A young and beautiful girl among them was called "Diamond Bessie" Moore because of the splendor of the jewels she wore.

But the jewels were gone that winter afternoon when townsmen found her shot dead and left lying in the snow and decaying leaves of the nearby forest.

There followed the murder trial of her lover, Abe Rothschild. The trial dragged on for seven years until finally a jury proclaimed Rothschild "not guilty" and he fled Jefferson a breath ahead of angry citizens.

It is told that Rothschild was never known to be seen again in Jefferson. But years later a stranger appeared in town and went to the grave of Diamond Bessie. He found the grave well attended.

Surprised, the stranger turned to an aged caretaker and asked, "This girl had a bad reputation. Why does the town take such care of her grave?"

The caretaker approached the stranger, according to the legend, and replied, "Because she was some mother's daughter."

Each spring, the Jessie Allen Wise Garden Club recreates the Rothschild murder trial as part of its annual historical pilgrimage. The 22nd pilgrimage was held this year on May 2, 3, and 4.

It evolved from the "Queen Mab" balls, Jefferson's form of Mardi Gras, held in the 1870's when the town had a population of 35,000 and was the second largest city in the state.

During the pilgrimages of today, visitors tour Jefferson's past, including eight white-columned mansions of the Civil War era. Townspeople in antebellum costumes stroll the grounds of these homes.

The flow of visitors swells on the days of the pilgrimage, but Jefferson offers a continuing attraction and a fascination for travelers who bring their imaginations with them.

Breakfast, southern style, at the Excelsior House is in itself enough reason to visit the old town.

Diners are seated at glass-railroad to the area. Councilmen scoffed at the thought of steam engines competing with the riverboats.

They rejected Gould's proposal, infuriating the millionaire. He left Jefferson, cursing the town and damning it to oblivion.

Gould took the railroad to other cities, and soon afterward Jefferson became landlocked when Big Cypress Bayou all but disappeared and the riverboats were useless.

The town's population subsequently shrunk to its present 3,000. But much of the past remains today for visitors to experience.

The Jefferson Historical Museum, the old red brick federal building, has been called a "stately monument to the grandeur and opulence of Jefferson's golden era."

Displays include more than 5,000 items from Sharp and Spencer carbines of the Civil War to a rough copy of the Declaration of Independence as it was drafted by Thomas Jefferson, for whom the town was named.

The museum is in the same block as the Excelsior House, the hub of much that was Jefferson.

One treat is a fringe-top surrey ride conducted, perhaps, by Fred Fegan.

Tall and graying at more than 75, Fegan knew the town when it was a flourishing city. Fegan, the son of a slave, remembers Jefferson in its glory and tells visitors of the Old Schuller House:

"There's the widow's walk on top. When the boats were running the ladies used to stand there looking for their husbands, hoping they'd come back. Some didn't."

Located on U.S. Highway 59, 154 miles east of Dallas, Jefferson is an island from the past amid the East Texas forests. It is framed by Lake of the Pines and mysterious Caddo
