'WETS' VS. 'DRYS' Hail Election Tuesday

A special ballot for voters to say whether they are for or against efforts to control hail included in the regular constitutional amendment election Tuesday has turned the usual ho-hum attitude on such votes into a spirited battle.

The sharp lines are drawn over a "wet-dry" issue of a different sort than faces voters over much of Texas.

Lamb County is one of nine counties allowing a referendum to poll voters on their feelings on seeding clouds to suppress damaging hail storms.

The battle shaped up last year between farmers and ranchers who paid their money into the program to prevent hail and farmers and ranchers who opposed the program because they said while hail was decreased, the seeding broke up clouds that they felt would have resulted in rain.

The referendum is not a legal, binding election, but will simply be an expression of the people's wishes on the issue, said H. M. LaFont, Plainview attorney for farmers and ranchers for Natural Weather, the group that opposes the cloud seeding program.

Earlier this year this opposition group circulated petitions and took them to Austin in hopes of preventing the Texas Board of Water Development (TBWD) from issuing Atmospherics, Inc. a permit for seeding clouds this year.

But the Water Board granted the California-based firm a permit, anyway, saying they felt it in the public's best interest to allow the program and adding that there was no scientific evidence that rain was reduced last year due to seeding the clouds with silver iodide.

In the hotly contested issue, many of those for the seeding said last year was the first time in six or seven years they had made a crop without being hailed out. Those against the hail suppression program said hail was selfishly suppressed without regard to loss of rain.

According to reports from all area

'WETS' VS. 'DRYS'

Hail Election Tuesday

county agents, hail was significantly reduced in the Lamb County and Hale County, the center of the hail suppression target area in 1970.

Last year hail was reduced 95 per cent in Lamb County and Hale County received 90 per cent less hail with the program than in 1969.

Other counties that didn't take part in the program had a great deal of hail damage, with Hockley County reporting the same amount of hail last year as in 1969, and Briscoe County had three times as much last year as it had the year before.

And while farmers who are sold on the program really believe in it, they have made no efforts to stop the referendum.

"The permit for Atmospherics, Inc. will be binding regardless of the outcome," LaFont said. "Other legal action will have to be taken to have the permit revoked."

Neither side is making many speculations on the outcome of the referendum, but Better Weather, Inc. members who support the hail suppression feel that the referendum may help them more than the other side.

Meantime, LaFont said Farmers and Ranchers for Natural Weather plan to possibly get an injunction against Atmospherics, Inc. if they get a majority favoring their decision. LaFont said if a majority of the voters are against the cloud seeding, they will first take the poll to the people in charge of the operations and ask them not to seed clouds. He added that a majority against the program should make it easier to get an injunction, and that some investigation along that line had been made.

Many for the seeding said the referendum won't amount to any more than the petition the group presented to the Water Board.

"Many of the people who will be voting haven't been hailed out six or seven years in a row like some of us have," H. C. (Jake) Armstrong said. Armstrong is the president of Lamb County Better Weather, Inc.

"Many people don't realize that the Navy and Air Force have proven that hail can be prevented," Armstrong added. "There is only one case on record where rain has been stopped, and that was in Russia when a big bomber went up and dropped tons and tons of dry cement into a cloud."

"Some of us out here who made our first crop last year after so many years of getting hailed out feel that we've got to try the program one more year anyway."

An injunction sought against the hail suppression last year was denied unless the natural weather advocates put up enough money to cover any hail damages. Considering that hail strips as wide as 12 miles times 100 miles long have been recorded in this county, the group didn't press their injunction attempt.

The referendums will be voted on in Lamb, Hale, Cochran, Bailey, Hockley, Floyd, Briscoe, Hall and Motley Counties. The natural weather advocates failed to get permission for the referendums from commissioners' courts in Lubbock, Swisher, Briscoe and Crosby Counties.

Welfare Takes Big Bite

By NILAH RODGERS
Leader-News Staff Writer

How many people in Lamb County who get on welfare get off on their own?

"Well, let's see," said Harry Miller, public welfare worker for Lamb and Bailey Counties. "How many people on the welfare rolls died last year?"

That could be considered a facetious answer to those who don't know that Lamb County dished out more than $1,380,888 last year for various aspects of welfare.

This million and a quarter plus figure for Lamb County alone is the official figure released by the State Department of Welfare and does not include federal outlays like the salaries, services, and emergency medical aid and food programs provided by the Lamb County Community Action, nor the tons of food distributed through the commodity program.

Over the past 10 years, the biggest increase in welfare has been to aid to families with dependent children (AFDC). And this is a sore spot with Miller and Mrs. Doris Frey, Miller heads the state welfare office and Mrs. Frey is the county welfare director.

AFDC PROGRAM HAS LARGE INCREASE

The AFDC program is where welfare breeds welfare—prolifically. Miller estimates that 35 to 40 per cent of the children involved in the AFDC in Lamb County are illegitimate, that most of these are second generation welfare enrollees who seem to think kids are cheaper by the dozen, and that the majority are headed toward yet another welfare-supported generation. He views the hundreds of thousands in handouts to this group as "supporting whoredom."

This 35-40 per cent represents only those children admittedly illegitimate, since a welfare worker can only ask an applicant the legitimate status of children. An attempt to prove a child illegitimate is to bastardize a child and is a fraudulent charge for a social worker.

Lamb County paid out $38,610 for AFDC in 1959. The county's share for 1970 was $118,784.

Broken down into ethnic groups, AFDC percentages are paid to 40 per cent Negro, 40 per cent Latin American, and 20 per cent to Anglos.

Appropriations of $21 and $39 per month per child are paid to AFDC recipients who are deprived of parental support whether the reason is because the father is in jail, desertion, abandonment, separation or divorce.

The majority of the AFDC applicants are young. Mothers drawing AFDC in Lamb County range from an 18-year-old with five illegitimate children and a sixth child on the way to a 54-year-old applicant.

Miller said one woman on his rolls has 11 illegitimate children and "the twelfth one is in the oven."

For many, the monthly AFDC check represents the only security they've ever had and they hang on to it for dear life, Miller says.

Drawing AFDC checks and living off commodities is a way of life for some households. Mrs. Frey cited one example of a mother and three of her daughters who are all drawing AFDC checks. In addition, a daughter-in-law living under the same roof is now drawing her AFDC payment.

One of the daughters had a baby to get sick and she took it to a hospital for admission and left it and never came back. Her whereabouts are still unknown. But of the four others drawing AFDC checks, the mother of the bunch gets $203 a month, and the three "girls" draw $129, $115, and $216 a month.

That's a total of $663, and doesn't include the free groceries and side benefits indigents receive like free breakfasts and lunches at school, courtesy of Uncle Sam, and free eye glasses, medical care, etc., through some form of tax payers' money, and various benevolences.

Man New Basketball Coach

Blevins, 29-year-old head basketball coach at Class A Vega, Friday night was named by the school board to revitalize the school's cage fortunes.

Blevins will assume duties here in addition to his duties as head coach of the Vega coach came after a meeting with the school board and Director Jerry Blakely at a meeting Friday night.

Blevins will inherit a program which has won the goldrums for years. The past seasons saw the Littlefield varsity win one, six, and one games, in that order.

Blevins took over a program which won seven games the year before he became head coach. He averaged 17 wins a year in the past three years in compiling a record of 51-13.

In all three years, his teams were second to perennial champion Littlefield.

Blevins told the board he would coach "defensive" basketball at Littlefield, the offense geared to available personnel and a pressing, many times full-court defense.

The 14, 190-pound coach began his coaching career at Spearman, where he coached for two years. He played basketball at Clarendon Junior College and at West Texas State one year.

Blevins is graduating from West Texas in May and will become junior high basketball coach and assistant football coach at Littlefield.

Blevins will assist with football and basketball in addition to his basketball coaching post.

Blevins is married and the family has two children.

MRS. BESSIE WEBB MASSENGILL was injured Friday morning at the intersection of West Delano and Bypass 84, when a 1970 GMC truck, driven by Manuel Bustamente Quiroz of Clovis, N. M., struck her 1964 Chevy II in the rear. She made a right turn onto 84, pulled into the left lane into the path of the truck, and the two skidded 220-feet and caught fire. Mrs. Massengill received a whiplash, and cuts on the right eye, right arm and back of the head.

Boy, 12, Arrested In Burglary At School Here

A 12-year old boy, an Olton woman and two men were booked into the county jail this week on four separate charges.

The 12-year-old juvenile was taken to the county juvenile cell Wednesday by Police Chief F.A. Fitzgerald and Patrolman Wayne Cooper who charged the youngster with breaking and entering Elementary II Tuesday night. Of the $40-50 cash taken from the pencil box, Coke machine and lounge, $2.30 was recovered from the boy, and he led Sheriff's Deputy Homer McLauri to another $6.65 buried behind a house on West 3rd Street. The remainder of the money remains unaccounted for.

The boy was released the same day to his parents. He appeared before County Judge G.T. Sides Friday afternoon and was placed on probation.

Leon Labora Ruiz, Jr., 31, was arrested on a driving while intoxicated charge Sunday. He was fined $100 plus $42 court cost and sentenced to 20 days in jail with jail time suspended for one year.

Mrs. Manuel Cordona of Olton was arrested Monday and charged with check law violation. She was fined $25 plus $42 court cost and sentenced to five days in jail with jail time suspended provided the check to Furr's is paid by May 20.

Severo Ignacio Gonzales Jr., 17, of Olton, was arrested by the Olton sheriff's deputy, Elmer Gray, Thursday and charged with malicious destruction of property. His bond was set at $2,000.

THE FLOWERS OF ELYSIAN FIELDS

In Greek and Roman mythology the Elysian Fields were like heaven, where those who had been good on earth were supposed to live and fields of beautiful flowers.

For centuries, then, man has associated flowers with eternal bliss. It is no wonder then God's greatest creation in the plant world has always been the flowers.

We give the offering of flowers for funeral our very special attention, because we know it is one of the last beautiful gestures a person can pay another.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Marsene Holt and Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Carl Nowlin Sr., all of Littlefield.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of ivory peau de soie with appliques of ivory dense lace. The bodice of her dress featured a Victorian collar, full puffed sleeves and a high Empire waist. Her detachable train repeated the dense lace appliques, and her veil of illusion was attached to a Camelot designed cap, trimmed with dense lace and scattered French seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow sweetheart roses, intertwined with stephanotis, baby's breath, English ivy and a removable white orchid corsage.

Musical selections of "One Hand, One Heart", and "I Walk With God" were presented by Miss Nancy Henson, organist and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kidd of Austin.

The center of the altar featured a candelabra, that held yellow candles, and a centerpiece of yellow and white gladiolus adorned with baby's breath and daisy mums. Additional candelabras flanked each side of the altar.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Life Goes On

By BOB WEAR

LIFE GOES ON, regardless of the desirability or undesirability of the happenings which concern and affect us.

Some people choose to live, to accept the challenge, to carry the burdens, to cope with the difficulties, to appreciate the blessings, to be strong in their faith, to do good--They choose to live. Many, however, just drift with the tide of time; discouraged, disappointed, frustrated, defeated, always criticizing, and otherwise ineffective.

LIVING IS NOT EASY, but I know of nothing from any dependable source to support the view that living is supposed to be easy.

Of course, it is possible to make the experience much more difficult than it would otherwise be. The foolishness of many persons does make living a dreary happening.

COMPARATIVELY SPEAKING, life is easier for some than it is for others. Nevertheless, life goes on. For some, the relative easy living becomes the burden that defeats them.

For others, the relative hard living becomes the source of their strength that brings victory. It all seems to depend more upon the life quality of a person than upon the life situation.

LIFE MOVES ONE DAY at a time, and this is the way to live it. Each day is important to the extent that we must do the best we can each day. This is the way to better days.

No day should ever be wasted in self-pity, in complaining, in fault-finding, in self-condemning, or in condemning others.

LIFE CAN PASS US BY, and will if we refuse to move with it. This is one of the most foolish mistakes we can make. Once we start the no-movement process, it is difficult to get going again.

It can be done, it has been done, and will be done again. It is better and wiser, however, to live the best we can day after day.

TOMORROW MAY BE a better day for some things, but not for living. Today is for living, and if we don't use it wisely; we have just lost that much of life.

Let us do the best we can with each day, because this is the only known hope for better tomorrows.

"FINISH EVERY DAY and be done with it. You have done what you could; some blunders and some absurdities crept in--forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day. You shall begin it well and serenely, and with too high a spirit to be encumbered with your old nonsense."--Emerson.

Life goes on, and we can move with it in a meaningful and victorious way.

THE PHILOSOPHER

Changes

(editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets sort of twisted up this week on a discussion of an economic problem. He's sometimes hard to follow.)

Dear editor:
In an article I ran across in a newspaper last night, this fellow Ralph Nader was arguing that Congress ought to pass a law to stop the automobile industry from changing models every year and take the money saved and invent a car that's pollution free.

I'm in favor of pollution-less cars, but I'm not sure Mr. Nader understands the economy of this country. A fast turnover seems to be the key to a booming economy.

Take pianos. The piano industry has rocked along for generations without ever hitting on the idea of coming out with a new model every year and as a result it considers itself lucky if it sells a family one piano in a lifetime, and how many people does it employ? Just a few thousand, compared with hundreds of thousands in the auto industry. Piano workers could strike tomorrow and the economy would never know it.

Or take the plumbing industry. Have you ever stopped to think how much bigger an industry it'd be, how many more people it'd employ, if it'd convince housewives they ought to change bathtubs every year? It never occurred to the industry all it had to do was change fender designs, add hide-away faucets and maybe add safety belts.

Also, blacksmiths haven't changed the style of horseshoes in a hundred years, and how many blacksmiths are still around? Or take probably the worst example, trains. You ever hear of the railroads changing models on engines and passenger cars every year? How many passenger trains are still left?

Probably the reason farmers are in such bad shape is they've been raising the same brand of meat and potatoes for the last 1,000 years. Can you tell a 1971 hen egg from a 1910 model?

Or take people. We haven't had a model change in people in thousands of years, and look what shape the world's in today. Model changes, that's what keeps the economy booming.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

ARGUMENTS FOR & AGAINST The Amendments

AMENDMENT 1. CREATION OF A STATE ETHICS COMMISSION (S. J. R. NO. 15)

Article III, Section 24, of the Texas Constitution, would be amended to create a State Ethics Commission. It would be composed of nine members; three appointed by the Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court, three by the Presiding Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, and three by the Chairman of the State Judicial Qualifications Committee. In addition, there shall be two ex officio members; one shall be from the Senate and one shall be from the House of Representatives. This Committee would set rules of ethics for legislators and other appointed and elected officeholders, and would provide for their full financial disclosures. The commission would determine the compensation and allowances for legislators. These provisions for compensation would require legislative approval.

ARGUMENTS FOR:

1. A State Ethics Commission would be small enough and would have time enough to conduct a thorough study of ethics for legislators and other public officials.
2. A nonpartisan commission could determine what is a fair salary in an informed and objective manner.
3. An ethics study group composed of members appointed outside the legislature would increase public confidence in State Legislators and Officials.

AGAINST:

1. Under the present system voters have a closer control over their elected representatives by being able to determine their salary increases. The proposed amendment gives that responsibility to the Commission.
2. The Legislature has already adopted a code of ethics and is now considering a stronger one to govern themselves.
3. The method of appointing the Commission by members of the judiciary, and excluding the legislative and executive branches, is thought to be one-sided.

AMENDMENT 2. AUTHORITY TO PROPOSE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS DURING ANY LEGISLATIVE SESSION (H. J. R. NO. 21)

Article XVII, Section 1, of the Texas Constitution, now provides that constitutional amendments may be proposed only during the regular biennial sessions of the Legislature. The proposed revision allows constitutional amendments to be proposed during any session of the Legislature--both regular and special called sessions. The current provisions for a waiting period of three months before being submitted at an election and the provisions for publication in newspapers throughout the State are retained.

FOR:

1. Many major legislative problems can be solved only by a constitutional amendment. If the solutions that the Legislature proposes for these problems are defeated at the ballot box, they must go unanswered for two more years until the next biennial session. Under the proposed amendment an alternative solution could be worked out in a special called session.
2. Allowing amendments to be proposed at any session would help meet emergency problems that require constitutional amendments.

AGAINST:

1. There should be fewer, not more, proposals for constitutional amendments.
2. Statewide elections are expensive; the number should not be subject to increase.

PAUL HARVEY

American Dollars

THE RECENT and continuing dollar crisis demonstrates that foreigners, even as home folks, get addicted to American dollars.

Even as with heroin, Americans on welfare can't get enough and won't do without.

EUROPEANS HATE the Yankee dollars which have supported their habit, but they can't break the habit. Let's help them. Uncle Sam's bank account is overdrawn. He has been printing and disbursing more dollars than he has gold "in the bank."

SO FOREIGN countries are saying our dollars aren't worth so much any more. Now they are trying to give us less in return for all those Yankee dollars they have accumulated.

THUS HAS OUR nation's half-century of generosity boomeranged. Selflessly, we sent dollars to other nations as loans and gratuities. We hurried with dollars to heal the hurts from a typhoon in Pakistan. We invested billions of dollars establishing manufacturing in other countries. We spent billions sending American troops over there to protect those countries and other billions maintaining those troops.

Thus over the years those countries accumulated vast stockpiles of American dollars.

BUT THOSE DOLLARS don't buy as much either there or here any more. Some places, marks or pounds buy more goods or services than do dollars, so some nations toy with the idea of demanding we "make good" our dollars with gold, though both we and they know we can't.

While international monetary values are re-established at more realistic levels, let us learn from this experience.

by providing more opportunities to introduce proposed amendments.

AMENDMENT 3. REMOVING THE CEILING ON LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATIONS FOR CERTAIN CLASSES OF NEEDY PERSONS (S. J. R. NO. 5)

Presently, an Eighty Million Dollar ($80,000,000) ceiling exists on the assistance grants to the four categories of welfare recipients. This amendment would remove the ceiling as it applies to the amount of State money which can be appropriated for three of the categories: needy aged persons, permanently disabled persons, and blind persons. The fourth category, aid for families with dependent children (A. F. D. C.), would have a ceiling limitation of Fifty-five Million Dollars ($55,000,000).

FOR:

1. We have a responsibility to take care of the aged, the blind, and the disabled. To do so the present ceiling on assistance grants must be either raised or removed.
2. The Welfare Department should be funded on a realistic basis, and not just as a response to crisis, as has been the case in the past.
3. The Legislature can determine the amount needed for the aged, blind, and disabled according to current needs, and operate within a workable ceiling for aid to dependent children.

AGAINST:

1. By placing a ceiling on appropriations for A. F. D. C. the amendment is discriminating between the different categories of welfare recipients.
2. If there is a ceiling on all categories the Welfare Department will make more efficient use of their appropriated money.
3. Many feel that welfare recipients already receive too much from the State and feel that this amendment would open the door to increased welfare rolls.

AMENDMENT 4. AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE OF ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS IN WATER DEVELOPMENT BONDS (S. J. R. NO. 17)

This amendment would authorize the issuance of One Hundred Million Dollars ($100,000,000) in bonds by the Texas Water Development Board at an interest ceiling of six per cent (6%) per year. The revenue from the sale of the bonds would be used for making grants and loans for water quality improvements to cities, towns and political subdivisions in Texas according to terms and conditions authorized by the Legislature. The bonds would be secured by the general credit of the State and would constitute general obligations of the State.

FOR:

1. The sale of the bonds would provide funds for the construction of needed sewage treatment facilities.
2. An increase in State funds used for this purpose would mean a like increase in Federal matching funds.
3. At an interest rate of 6%, there should be no trouble selling the bonds.

AGAINST:

1. Only those cities, towns, and political subdivisions in Texas which have neglected to handle their problems of sewage treatment facilities would be benefitted by this amendment.
2. The amendment says the bond proceeds would be used for "water quality enhancement." This term is too vague and would give the Water Development Board too much discretion in its use of the funds.

HIGHER POSTAGE RATES went into effect this morning throughout United States, and Postmaster George Thompson displays the various cent stamps that will be issued for mailing first class mail. A letter to grandmother will now cost 8 cents per ounce, instead of the previous 4 cents.

Postal Rates Go Up Today

Higher rates for most mail went into effect at 12:01 a.m. today, on a temporary basis, in keeping with the U. S. Postal Service plans to achieve self-sufficiency under the Postal Reorganization Act.

"Although the cost for a first-class letter has increased to eight cents, the new rate will still be cheaper than postage rates were almost 125 years ago," Postmaster George B. Thompson said.

The increases, according to Thompson, are on a temporary basis, until the recently established Postal Rate Commission can make recommendations to the Postal Service Governors on permanent changes.

The new rates which began today include:

First Class--from 6 cents to 8 cents per ounce.

Air Mail--from 10 cents to 11 cents per ounce.

Postal Cards--from 8 cents to 9 cents per card.

Air Mail Cards--from 8 cents to 9 cents per air mail card.

Third Class--Single piece rate for small printed matter mailings from 6 cents for first two ounces to 8 cents, plus 2 cents charge for additional ounce. Bulk rate raises from 3.8 cents to 4 cents for 250,000 pieces mailed annually and 4.2 cents for mailings in 250,000 pieces a year.

Nonprofit mail will jump from 1.7 cents for circulars per page to 1.7 cents for circulars per page. Profit category, the pound rate the same--8 cents--and the minimum piece rate also goes from 1.5 cents to 1.7 cents.

Fourth Class--Items such as records goes up from 12 cents for the first pound and from 6 cents for each additional pound to 12 cents for the first pound and from 5 cents to 6 cents for the first additional pound will stay at 4 cents.

Registered mail--Increases in fees by 15 cents or more. Minimum 15 cents.

Special delivery--Each of the fees are hiked by 15 cents, minimum 15 cents.

International mail rates also increased.

No changes are made in postage which is the main component of class mail.

WELFARE

Frey said, "I don't mind helping old age assistance and the disabled."

People who qualify for the program through the state welfare agency have to be accepted for the program distributed by the county, although Miller and Mrs. Frey applicants and keep the number welfare rolls down as low as possible, each year, every administration and all supreme court rulings make it easier for persons to draw money.

Following a recent "step-father" on AFDC, it is entirely possible woman to be married to a person in the upper income bracket, be living in a $100,000 house, and still draw money.

"I'm not welfare minded," Mrs. Frey said. "I wasn't brought up that way. We didn't get it wrong. Welfare is the greatest thing invented for the permanently disabled, and it really need it. But welfare is an abused program there ever was."

Both Miller and Mrs. Frey are every able-bodied person on welfare.

All able-bodied persons on state welfare will be referred to jobs during farm season and if they refuse work will be cancelled.

And Mrs. Frey is well known "hard as nails" policy and adherence to the book for recipients who could support themselves. Welfare rules may be getting heading toward non-existence as government regulations and Court rulings are concerned. Payers in this part of the country supporting a total welfare state as people like Miller and Mrs. Frey handling the purse strings.

Belief Helps Make Good Neighbors!

Today, the world is getting smaller. We're looking at it from the moon. Looks like we've just got to be good neighbors, if we are to survive... to be good neighbors. And we might as well start with the folks next door. Sure their dog barks too much and too loud. But the dog's old and its masters a bit hard-of-hearing. So, maybe you, too, should pretend to be a little older and a mite deaf to the bark. It's a good way to make and keep good neighbors.

Sometimes the kids across the street whoop it up a little too much and perhaps turn your yard into a playground. But they are young and their parents blind to their antics. Maybe you too, can grow a little younger and look the other way for a while. It might surprise you just how good your neighbors will become and how easy it is to keep them good.

That road hog who cuts in front of your car - that boss who cuts down your best efforts - that show-off who cuts up at parties. Sure they're thoughtless and careless. But patience could easily turn them into good neighbors. Belief in the Almighty's Presence and Plan will soften your hard line with understanding. Belief in America and democratic ideals will give you strength to forebear. Belief in other people will make you a good neighbor. So, as we move in for a closer look at the moon, maybe we ought to take a closer look at the folks next door. It's a good way to make, and keep good neighbors. You'll get the idea at your place of worship this week.

David Keithley Writes Play, Is Now Seeking A Publisher

A Littlefield boy, David Keithley Jr., has written, directed, and is seeking a publisher for his play, "The Tragedy of Abram Jules."

The young playwright is a fifth form (high school junior) at Fountain Valley School, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The melodrama depicts a man married to an ambitious wife who murders him for his vast financial holdings. The action of the play is not restricted to the stage. In several scenes the audience, willing or not, is drawn into the drama in audience participation. The play depicts the more conservative viewpoint of the sexual revolution.

David's play was reviewed and accepted as the entertainment for the Eleventh Annual Association of Colorado Independent Schools Arts Colloquium held at the Colorado school last month.

The cast of 22 members included Sid Goldwyn, heir to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayor film corporation in California.

Reviewers of the play declared it a "screaming success," and the headmaster of the school pronounced the play "a ticket to Harvard" for the aspiring youth. Among those congratulating him was an alumnus of the school, Congressman Frank Evans who phoned him from his office in Washington, D.C.

David will be home for the summer and said the play may be presented in Littlefield if enough interest is shown.

In addition to writing and directing his play, Keithley was one of the leading characters in the Fountain Valley School's "The Doctor In Spite of Himself." He is also a member of the FVS Drama Group's children's theatre made up of some of the Colorado school's best actors and actresses.

Keithley has had three stories published in the FVS's magazine, AETHENA, which he will co-edit next year.

The referendum will read: "Are you against weather modification by cloud seeding?"

"Are you for weather modification by cloud seeding?"

When the TWDB met last month, the company's permit for rain stimulation couldn't be considered at the same time the permit for hail suppression was brought up because intentions of the permit had not been published as a legal ad in newspapers the required number of times.

A decision by the Board on the rain making efforts before the election is over could affect the outcome of the straw vote, considering that the National Weather Service says 200 to 400 per cent more rain than is received in this area passes over this area annually.

Dual Jobholding Subject Of Survey

How many people are supplementing their regular pay check with a second job?

Walter A. Freeman, Jr., director of the Bureau of the Census regional office in Denver, has revealed that information of the subject will be collected during the week of May 17 from a number of households in this area.

The questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Interviewer who will visit households in this area is: Mrs. Rosemary McNeese of Amherst.

The March survey found that unemployment, on a seasonally adjusted basis, had edged up to 6.0 percent from 5.8 percent in February, and that this increase was largely among 16 to 24 years-olds, many of whom were entering the labor force for the first time. Total employment remained basically unchanged at 78.5 million.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in this voluntary survey are kept strictly confidential and results are used only to compile statistical totals.
