Trash Collection Big Business Here

The old saying "one man's trash is another man's treasure" doesn't apply to the collection of refuse in Littlefield. By the time the compactors in the collection trucks do their job and the caterpillar operator gets through with his work, trash is out of sight and the only treasure is the thousands of dollars paid out for garbage collection.

Last month garbage collectors for the city of Littlefield picked up and disposed of 310 tons of refuse. This figure doesn't include trash such as tree limbs that are picked up on the city's flat bed trucks.

The price of city garbage collection in Littlefield jumped from an annual budget of $53,273 for 1967-68 to a whopping $88,841 in 1969 when the burning of trash went out and was replaced by the state law that did away with burning and made it necessary for all garbage to be buried. "It takes a pretty darned good size budget," Pickett Ray said. "When you see what it costs a little town like Littlefield to stop air pollution caused by burning, you can see why it's costing the nation billions of dollars."

Drug Topic To Be Aired

"Narcotics Abuse-How and Why" will be the topic of a program tonight in the High School Auditorium at 7:30.

Captain Bill Cox of the Lubbock Police Department will present the program, and the speech department of LHS will give a skit.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ayers, speech instructor at LHS, will lead a question and answer period for all interested citizens.

The program is in conjunction with the Littlefield Parent-Teacher Association's regular meeting.

A big part of the budget jump the first year was in equipment such as a new truck and body packer. Littlefield spends approximately $85,000 a year on refuse collection, and this represents more capital than some business places. "Refuse collection is a pretty big item," Pat Bradley said, "but unfortunately, it doesn't make any money. Garbage collection doesn't even carry its own weight."

Eleven men are needed to make the collections. A driver and two swamper are required on each truck and three men work on the trash trucks in addition to the caterpillar operator. These city employees cover the town twice each week and occasionally start over for the third time during the winter months.

Their real work comes in the summer when everyone is doing yard work. Canning season adds to their work, too. Such things as corn cobs and watermelon rinds make garbage pick-ups heavy work for the barrel pitchers or servicemen.

Rain and snow can bog down collections. Streets are graded very often, and pot holes are obstacle courses during bad weather.

The city dump is on the Spade Highway just east of town on 177 acres of pasture land. Ray said the land should be sufficient for another 20 to 25 years at the rate dumping is going now.

One side of the dump ground is for persons who bring their own garbage out, but trash like tree limbs, large appliances and concrete must be taken to the city-county dump ground four miles north and three and one-half miles east of town.

MOUNTAINS OF GARBAGE are buried daily at the city dump ground since the state ordinance forbidding burning went into effect in July, 1969. In the foreground are the two city collection trucks making their dump at the end of a day, and the caterpillar operator is waiting to move in and bulldoze the garbage under. Last year 36,020 tons of garbage was buried at the city dumping site.

OF AVERAGE INCOME

Average Deductions Here $1,920

County residents who are getting their income and expense figures for the year, in preparation for their encounter with Uncle Sam, will be interested in knowing how their charitable deductions compare with the smaller than those made by most people in their income category?

Were their medical expenses and their deductible local taxes higher or lower?

Helpful information regarding this, for those who itemize their deductions, comes from the Commerce Clearing House, an authority on taxes and business law, based upon data obtained from the Internal Revenue Service.

It has prepared figures showing just how much the average taxpayer in each income class has been deducting for contributions, interest charges, local taxes and medical costs.

In general, it shows, families throughout the country whose earnings are equal to the average in Lamb County have been deducting a total of $1,920, equivalent to 20 percent of their gross income.

The deductions listed by local families with lower-than-average earnings represent a bigger proportion of their income. Conversely, those in the high brackets have smaller deductions, percentage-wise.

The range is from 16 percent, for those with top incomes, to 24 percent at the other end of the scale.

Those local families who are in the $12,500 class will have total deductions of about $2,130 if they fit the norm for that income, the CCH figures show. Those at the $7,500 level will be deducting around $1,550.

A breakdown of the $1,920 in deductions usual to those with incomes equalling the Lamb County average shows that $270 of it is for charitable contributions, that $634 is for interest paid on loans and on installment debt, that $634 is for interest paid on loans and on installment debt, that $630 represents local tax payments and that $386 is for allowable medical expenses.

The Commerce Clearing House stresses that these figures are merely a guide to what people in various income brackets are listing as deductions.

They are not automatically accepted by the IRS. Proper records must be available to support all claims.

Vietnam Victim Given Tribute

Tribute was paid Thursday, Feb. 11, to the memory of Lance Corporal David Hanvey of Littlefield, who lost his life in Vietnam, June 9, 1970.

The 20-year-old soldier was eulogized by Senate Resolution Number 307, introduced by Senator Jack Hightower of Vernon to the Texas Senate.

The resolution stated that "this young man served his country with honor and it was his heroic devotion to the cause of freedom that cost him his life."

The resolution, in honoring Corporal Hanvey, stated that "it is appropriate that the Senate of the State of Texas pay tribute to the life of Lance Corporal David Hanvey."

The resolution will be sent to members of Corporal Hanvey's family in his honor.

Grain Theft Cases Going To Grand Jury

Evidence in a grain theft charge against Gene Mixon, a Littlefield trucking firm operator, and Roy (Chip) Stewart, a truck driver for Mixon, was presented in an examining trial at Hereford Tuesday and the pair was bound over for the grand jury that will meet Feb. 23.

In addition to District Judge Archie McDonald finding evidence sufficient to bind the two for grand jury hearings, Stewart's bond was raised from $2,000 to $10,000, the same as that set for Mixon when he was arrested here Jan. 29.

The examining trial was held at the request of the pair's lawyer, according to Sheriff's Deputy Harold Wheeler. Wheeler has headed the investigation since the first grain theft charge was filed in Hereford Jan. 18 against Stewart and another Littlefield truck driver, Richard Vaughn.

Stewart's and Vaughn's bonds were first set at $2,000 each, and the bond for Vaughn remains the same.

$3,000 Bond Made

Edwin McBride, charged with malicious destruction of property over $50, a felony, in connection with the smashing of several downtown store windows and other vandalism early Friday morning was released from the Lamb County jail Monday after making a $3,000 cash bond.

Don Jackson was charged in the same spree and his bond was also set at $3,000 cash. Jackson had not made bond at presstime Wednesday and remained in custody.

Six other arrests were made by county officers this week. Drunk charges were made against three. An Earth man was arrested for running a stop sign and disturbance, and a Littlefield man, Preysol Hodge, 47, was charged with carrying a pistol.

Who Was Granny On TV Tuesday?

Who was the little granny from Littlefield on Monty Hall's "Let's Make a Deal" television show aired Tuesday?

Attorney Bill Street was among the Littlefield residents who saw the wheeling and dealing tv show and wondered who the woman was.

Described as a typical looking grandmother, the woman had a sign saying, "Hi, Monty. I've got 19 grandchildren." Then on the other side was Littlefield, Texas.

Thefts Reported

City police are investigating three reports of tool box thefts from pickups last weekend.

All three thefts occurred sometime late Friday night or early Saturday morning. Jay Campbell reported that a tool box, 25" x 14" x 12", containing several wrenches and other tools, and valued at $75, had been taken from his pickup.

Monroe Prentice reported that a gray tool box, 2' long and 1' wide, was taken from the back of his pickup. It also contained wrenches and tools, and was valued at about $40.

A drab olive tool box with assorted tools was taken the same night from the back of a pickup at the Joe Embry residence.

HOME WRECKS

By CORNBALL BLEVINS

FRANKLY, if I could trade ages with a ten-year-old (by a wild imagination, of some sort) I'm not sure just what my decision would be.

The thought of starting life anew in this age has little enticement for me. Sure, and I know the whole idea is pure fantasy, but, just suppose?

I'D SURELY WANT to be able to erase my brain and give it a fresh start, too! I'm sure the practical knowledge of one my age would cause the whole idea to be a fearful thing!

Also, I'd need to have the lessons of life erased that my parents, so painstakingly impressed upon me. They would be out of place in this age. They taught me about God, about the laws of the land, and respect for the rights of my fellow man.

TOO, there'd be a bunch of school teachers I'd have to forget. They were, as far as could be told, straightforward and upright citizens in the community. They laid down the rules of the classroom and those that didn't respect those rules found themselves expelled from school, and the schoolboard backed them up!

The school teachers of my time were of the nature that commanded respect. They were supposed to be examples to the kids, as well as teachers. They could talk about God, honesty, and morality—as well as the three "R's."

SOMEWHERE ALONG the line, we learned the value of the rules of life. We learned that life without rules is much like a game without rules—not much fun!

The home was respected. It was an almost sacred institution. One was readily forgiven for taking the law in his own hands, in the case of a "Home-Wrecker"! So much of the time, now, it seems that a married person is merely a challenge to some of our moderns!

"SQUARE"? I guess so!
"Old Fogey"?—I reckon.
Living in the past"?—Somehow, kinda wish I was!

But, tell me one thing: If the modern age is so great, how come so many people are registering unhappiness? ?

Alcohol is the biggest business in our nation. Question: Do people drink because they're happy, or, is the drink supposed to MAKE them happy?

DOPE IS HAVING the biggest run of any time in known history. Do people (and especially youngsters) take dope because they like life as they see it, or, are they trying to escape the realities of life?

Tell me who is/were happiest. The older generation, in it's ignorant, backwoodsie time, or, the "Now" generation?

SO MANY of our people, in their quest for the pot-of-gold-at-the-end-of-the-rainbow, and in our "Hurry-up" society, have forgotten the basic rules of life! Especially the art of Home-makin' and kid raisin'!

So, (unless there are drastic changes) imagine what the pace will be 30 years from now! (And with womens, lib.-yet!)

NO, IF I had opportunity to live MY life over, I'd probably take it, with a few changes. But to start from now—with what little I already know—would just be too much, I'm thinkin'!

NATIONAL Children's Dental Health Month is not feared by this "special" patient of Dr. A. J. Williams—his 2-year-old daughter, Sharon Bett Williams. Dr. Williams has a regular task of brushing Sharon's teeth every night before bedtime, and she enjoys it.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

In Same Boat

By BOB WEAR

BE INDEPENDENT; yes, let us be as independent as we can be. Yet, we can only be independent in a limited kind of way.

Whether we like it or not, we are much more interdependent than we want to admit. Of course, there are many of us who either do not realize our mutual dependency, or we refuse to admit it.

The sooner we realize and admit that all of us are in the same boat, so far as the general structure of life is concerned, the sooner we can improve our feelings about each other.

themselves. They are all in the same boat with the rest of us.

IF THE BOAT SINKS, all of us are lost. Therefore, it is very self-evident that we must take time to see and be honest enough to admit our mutual interests and needs.

It is imperative that we feel and express the proper appreciation for the work and the service performed.

We want to keep the boat afloat, therefore we must live and function in a constantly improving climate of mutual regard and recognition for our respective contributions.

WE NEED EACH OTHER, even though there is widespread pretense that we don't have such need. No one is sufficient unto himself, and it is such a great loss for any of us to assume that we are.

It may appear from a cursory view, that there is considerable self-sufficiency among people; but full knowledge of the whole workings of our social order proves otherwise.

OUR INDIVIDUALITY is not lost in a true understanding of our interrelatedness and our interdependence.

In fact, it is the true view of personal individuality that enables us to make the maximum contribution to the common good, which is so important to all of us.

COUNT FOR ONE DAY how many different persons contribute to our needs and our welfare.

Even though they are just doing a job for pay as their means of livelihood, their work or service is a helpful contribution to us.

We would be amazed to know how many different persons make some contribution to our well-being each day.

WE TAKE FOR GRANTED so very much that deserves careful and constant thought and appreciation.

The most affluent, the best educated, the most favorably endowed, the most skillful, and the most ingenious persons are receiving help from many different persons each day.

These people are not adequate unto

PERSONAL DISTINCTIVENESS is not lost while we are making our contributions of work and service to others, and are receiving the contributions they make to us.

Everything would be so much better for everybody if all of us let ourselves be fully conscious of the many ways we receive help from each other.

Let us not only be conscious of such help, let us generously admit that we are aware of it. Then, we can be more appreciative of one another and find more ways to express our appreciation.

THERE IS A VERY real sense in which all of us are in the same boat.

If we are wise, we will find effective and meaningful ways to work together for the good of all.

PAUL HARVEY The Fox

THIS IS CHICAGO. Somewhere hereabouts at this moment there is a nameless crusader who calls himself "The Fox" preparing to do "his thing."

A "Carrie Nation of de-pollution." The Fox does bad things for a good reason and so far he's getting away with it.

THE FOX counterattacks industrial pollution by needling the giants. Hand-printed signs appear in prominent Chicago show windows:

"Please stop me before I kill more wildlife." Signed "United States Steel."

ONE SIGN 60 feet long appeared across an Indiana toll road reading "We are involved in killing Lake Michigan." Again signed "U. S. Steel."

Big Steel is his favorite target but not his only one. The Fox has stealthily jammed chimneys and sewage systems of assorted industrial polluters, leaving behind nothing more than his adopted signature.

would be jeopardized if he were readily recognized.

As is, last month he was able to walk into the front office of U. S. Steel with a bottle in one hand, a box in the other.

HE ANNOUNCED to a receptionist that he wished to present the company with "recognition for outstanding contributions to our environment."

Before anyone realized what was happening, he placed on a vice president's couch a miniature wooden coffin containing a dead perch, a dead crawfish and a dead frog.

THE BOTTLE, he explained, was filled with the foul-smelling dark-brown goo which Big Steel dumps from its drains into Lake Michigan. This mess he emptied on the white office rug—and left.

The Fox lives near Aurora, Ill., in the Fox River Valley. His crusading began with opposition to the pollution of that river. The Kane County sheriff's office has a thick file on his "missions impossible" but has not identified him.

DOWN TO EARTH Profiteering

JIMMY R. ALLEN

THE EARTHQUAKE of stock scandal in Austin and Houston in recent days has set off seismographic reactions of indignation, shock, dismay, and defensiveness across the state.

Newspaper accounts of the alleged wheeling and dealing stock trust manipulation of Frank Sharp and colleagues have involved official after official in the task of defending his behavior in the use of public trusts.

The scandal will hurt the image of the innocent, test the moral conscience of the public, and ultimately reveal some of the detail of public trusts for private profit by the guilty.

deeper to the question of whether it is right to profiteer off of public trusts.

IS IT MORALLY RIGHT for men in position of political power to become entangled with personal profit making offered them by those interested in gaining political privileges?

The forms of such profiteering are complex. They defy attempts to define them by codes of ethics. They elude the remedies of mere investigating committees. They are bred in an atmosphere of permissiveness, cynicism, and moral corruption. The answer lies not in codes but in character.

HISTORIANS ANALYZING our age in American life—if our world lasts long enough for analyses to be written—may well call this The Age of the Manipulator.

Manipulation has become a fine art, not only in using persons as things in interpersonal relations but also in other areas of life.

IT HAS BEEN OBVIOUS for some time to political observers that the eruption of such a scandal in our state capitol was inevitable.

The apathetic attitude on the part of many persons in the state capitol today is the reflection of an atmosphere of moral compromise which undercuts good men trying honestly to represent solely the public interest.

THE POLITICAL WORLD is a reflection of what is happening in the world of business, big labor, sports, and entertainment.

The political world is more susceptible to public inspection than many. It also has the dimension of public trusts which adds a degree of moral responsibility to its activity.

A TEST OF MORAL FIBER of our citizens lies in how long indignation can last. Old political heads usually predict that public indignation and public memories are both short lived.

The question is how much honest indignation and moral outrage is left in American life.

THE SMOKE SCREENS of rumor, denial, political acts, and misinformation make it difficult for the concerned Christian citizen to react intelligently and correctly.

Yet moral conscience of the follower of Christ demands a careful examination of the issues involved and a response to them.

Has being manipulated from so many directions robbed us of our ability to become indignant enough to let the voices of citizens be effective? Our young are disillusioned with our system and predict that we will fail to meet this test.

THE BASIC ISSUE is in danger of being lost in the hue and cry over the details of the deals. The issue is not "who made money or lost money." It's not whether the bills being pushed were passed or vetoed.

It's not whether there was wide-spread collusion on deals. The basic issue goes BRING ON THE investigating committee reports. Pass the codes of ethical guidelines. Make the speeches. Write the columns of description of wrong doing.

But above all, let us hope that many citizens can reserve a small room in their minds for indignation to be stored for a day when men of character and integrity can be supported and elected at the polls.

Our survival of moral leaders may well depend on our response to that challenge.

SONYA ASKEW demonstrates one of the exercises that is used at the newly opened spa in Littlefield. She is open daily and two nights a week for men and women. Gene Askew directs sessions for men two days nights.

Health Salon Open Here In Littlefield

Sonya and Gene Askew will help you take off excess weight, or put a little padding on a skinny figure or simply relax nervous tension, relieve arthritis and sinus congestion. All this is accomplished at Sonya's Health Salon, Littlefield's newest business.

The Askews recently purchased equipment for the health center from Mr. and Mrs. Glen McGeath at Earth, and have opened a spa next to Alvin Webb's office on Littlefield Drive.

"This isn't a reducing program," Sonya said. "To lose weight you have to go on a diet, too." Although the spa itself isn't specifically for weight loss, the majority of those who've enrolled are hoping to lose a few pounds, or at least a few inches, and the exercises can redistribute body weight without losing or gaining.

People with a great deal of fluid in their tissues lose up to 10 pounds weight after a steam bath and sauna, but this isn't a permanent loss.

Some elderly people or those in ill health skip the exercises and go for the steam baths and sauna only. One woman who had been taking psychiatric treatments for her nerves said a session in the steam cabinets and sauna did her more good than anything she had tried. Others claim dramatic help for rheumatism and arthritis from the steam baths and the high, dry heat in the sauna.

God's Psychiatry

A DEVOTIONAL By WAYLAND HUTTO

Each of us is going to take a different road in life, for we are so created. It is easy for us to play with our future by excusing ourselves from the urge to find fulfillment or purpose.

We can float aimlessly along and say that we want to "live" while we are young. We can have a time by trying everything at least once. We can forget standards of right and wrong and establish our own.

In addition, we can form an attitude that will keep us from becoming too involved with our friends. We can date without ever caring what kind of a person we ask out. We can ridicule others because of their being different from us.

Also, we can say that God is dead. We can say that churches are phony, and their members are both fools and hypocrites. We can say that we do not want to waste our valuable time by being superstitious.

To answer those who want to "live" while they are young, one must learn this: "Folks seem to think progress is certain—a future is, but progress isn't."

In answer to the next group of statements, one might try to look for something to admire in people—not for something to change.

He might also try to determine how many of that person's faults he can recognize in himself.

The last group of people can be referred in this manner: "We drift into a way of life and may never find out until it's all over, that it wasn't the kind of life we wanted at all."

"For whom he did foreknow, he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the first born among many brethren."

"Moreover whom he did predestinate, them he also called; and whom he called, them he also justified; and whom he justified, them he also glorified."

"What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us?" Romans 8: 29-31.

JOAN TIMIAN

The question that we asked the students this week was "if there was a disaster here, and you could only take one material with you, what would it be?"

We got many different answers this week. Here are some of them.

Velva Lee, (Jr.)—"If I could only take one material thing I would take the first thing I could grab."

David Aberna, (Soph.)—"Anything."

Carolyn Gray, (Jr.)—"I would take my notebook with all my junk in it, also because, it has my lunch money in it and I wouldn't have to starve."

Beverly Thompson, (Jr.)—"My ring."

Buddy Witcher, (Sr.)—"Plenty of Copenhagen."

Leslie LeBoeuf, (Jr.)—"I would take a book or something (?), so I wouldn't get bored."

Melody Waters, (Sr.)—"If there was a disaster here, the one material thing I would take is my picture album."

Miss McBride Is Named Homemaker

Katherine McBride has been named 1971 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Littlefield High School. She was chosen on the basis of her score in a Dec. 1 written knowledge and attitude examination for which 650,000 senior girls throughout the country were enrolled.

From General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program, she will receive a specially designed award. Additionally, her selection makes her eligible for state and national honors, including one of 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000.

The 1971 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow—the national winner—will be awarded a $5,000 educational grant. She will be selected this spring from 51 senior girls representing each state and the District of Columbia during an expense-paid educational tour by these State Homemakers of Tomorrow. Each will be accompanied by a school adviser of Washington, D. C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Second-, third- and fourth-place winners nationally will receive $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships. The other state winners will be awarded $1,500 grants.

State judging centers on the performance of school winners in the Dec. 1 test, with personal observation and interviews during the tour added factors in national selections. In addition to the awards for school, state and national Homemakers of Tomorrow, second-ranking girls in each state receive $500 scholarships, and schools of State Homemakers of Tomorrow are awarded complete sets of Encyclopaedia Britannica by Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

All judging and selection of winners is done by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also constructed and grades the written examination.

The only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls, the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow was instituted by General Mills in the 1954-55 school year to emphasize the importance of homemaking as a career. Since its inception, almost seven and three-quarters million girls have been enrolled, and, with this year's grants, scholarships awards will total in excess of $1 3/4 million.

Irvin Street Baptist Church Slates Revival

Irvin Street First Baptist Church will be conducting its "Old Fashioned Revival", beginning Sunday, Feb. 21, and continuing through the following Sunday.

Mrs. L. E. Moore of Dallas will be leading the 7:30 p.m. nightly services and the local choir will be singing.

Mrs. Moore has conducted revivals at the church for 13 years and this will be her 14th Annual Old Fashioned Revival at Irvin Street Baptist Church, according to Dr. W. A. Terry, pastor.

Services will be conducted at 3:30 each Sunday afternoon.

Farm Facts Day Attendance Short

The Farm Facts Day held here Monday was pronounced the best overall program ever by those attending.

Attendance was short with just over 50 farmers present, but these were labeled among the county's most progressive.

Farmers said the topics this year were more useful, especially concerning modern trends and stretching water. A cash flow chart helped in planning and predicting funds that will be needed the next few years, and the entomology section relieved fears of some regarding green bug and banks grass mites building up an immunity to controls.

CERTIFICATE NUMBERS NEEDED

Boat owners should make sure they have their certificate of number aboard when they go boating on public waters, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Department officials warn that sometimes lienholders will keep the certificate as part of their mortgage holdings, leaving the boat owner open for prosecution.

Lienholders are expected to allow the boat owner to retain the certificate.

The Texas Water Safety Act requires operators of boats on public waters to have the certificate, or facsimile thereof, on board the craft at all times.

Motorboats do not require a certificate of title per se, but the certificates of number are required to establish ownership.

Hard Your Tape Decks

What charm to soothe the savage beast of the old saying goes - and the automobile stereo systems charm many thieves judging constant increase in thefts of auto tapes and tapes over the past few years.

The motivation is the charm of the old or the charm of high profits, auto tape decks and stereo tapes are worth some $40 million claims in 1969, the last year for which figures are available.

The trend of this type of thievery is upward.

It's difficult not to feel sorry for the owner who wakes up to discover his stereo is missing, the Information Institute points out. Music loving motorists have been hit by accomplices to the theft of their property.

Motorists spend about $400 million a year for recorders, and even more for tapes. And a thief needs only five minutes to get his "share" of the equipment - especially when the car is unattended.

When a car is unlocked and in a dark or unlit area is an open invitation to a thief. Larceny on his mind. And tapes lying on car seats are dead ends to a car window shopper for an easy theft.

Motorists should get in the habit of locking their parked cars. When tapes are not in use, store them in the glove compartment and lock it too.

It's a good idea, too, to mark tape players and tapes and record the markings. They can serve as inanimate fingerprints when identity needs to be established.

Be sure that you check to see whether you are insured against theft or loss. Permanently-installed stereo players are insured automatically under the comprehensive portion of the automobile insurance policy.

Coverage for tapes is available under an endorsement to the policy for the payment of a small additional premium. This endorsement affords protection against theft, loss or damage to the tapes-with a limit of $200 for a single loss.

The coverage applies to tapes owned by the policyholder-or a relative resident in his home-when the theft, loss or damage occurs while the tapes are in a car owned by the policyholder or his wife or in a car in which is being used temporarily while his own is in repair.

Motorists are reminded that homeowners' policies do not provide coverage against thefts of permanently-installed players or tapes. The homeowners' policy does, however, cover portable tape players even when they are used in automobiles.

URING THE SHERIFF'S Posse Playday Sunday afternoon, Arnold is riding to trim seconds off his time in the pole bending event. The posse has a playday each month that is open to all riders. Riders competing for trophies to be given at the end of the season.
