Lincoln-Mercury Agency Purchased By T. G. Hinds

Littlefield this week gained a new business man... T. G. Hinds, formerly of Corpus Christi... and hopes to retain as a citizen the man whom Hinds bought out... Ed Packwood of the Ed Packwood Motors, Lincoln and Mercury dealers.

G., judging from his general background, isn't any slouch either; he'll be willing to put his shoulder to the wheel.

It is true this is Leap Year, but are you going about your manhunt in the right way?

In the opinion of bachelor Norman Scott, handsome new addition to the Metropolitan Opera's roster, you're getting all the wrong advice. Says he:

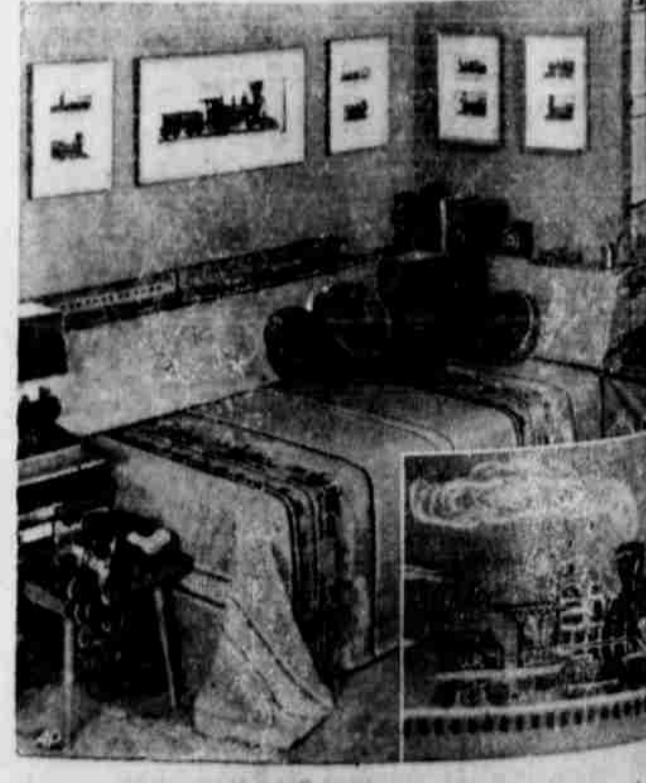

"Defenseless females are getting plenty of wrong info given by pompous males taking advantage of the situation to sound off. One list of do's and don'ts even suggested that a girl point out to her swain how economical marriage is, the obvious advantage of two incomes contributing to one rent, or the pooled savings accounts that can buy an automobile earlier. How silly can you get?"

In Norman's opinion, if you have to point out the economic advantages of marriage, you're got a pretty weak case. The average young man in seeking a mate isn't looking for a girl to balance his budget, but one who is going to flavor his life. Most men would rather a girl be a lot of fun than a paragon of thrifty virtues, he says.

Norman does agree, however, that romance isn't as spontaneous as filmland would have us believe, and sometimes a good program will help Dan Cupid over the hurdles.

No matter what your campaign, according to Norman, make sure it is based on one fundamental: Arrange to be courted. Do this by

The Wallace Bros. big three-ring circus and wild animal menagerie is coming to Littlefield for an afternoon and evening performance, Monday, April 14. This the biggest circus ever to play in this city, under sponsorship of the Lions Club.

And the local Lions have already gone into action, in the sale of tickets, and their first thought and consideration is that every child who wished to attend, not be deprived of doing so, through inability to pay for a ticket.

A circus representative set up an office here Monday morning, and immediately started contacting local business houses asking them to furnish circus tickets for underprivileged children. Within a few hours, 150 tickets had been sold in this manner, and local Lions had delivered the tickets to the buyers.

The net proceeds from the circus will go into the Lion treasury and will be used in furthering their sight conservation and youth programs.

Only tickets sold at the circus office (this week only) will be those for underprivileged children, and the phone number at the office is 475.

Regular tickets of admission (advance sale) are on sale by all Lions club members, and also may be obtained at Onstead Furniture or at Magnum-Chesher Hilbun offices. Admission for adults is $1.20 including tax.

The circus is said to be the third largest touring this country, and is said to have a daily overhead expense in excess of $4,000.

All exhibitions are held under fireproofed canvas. Circus performers number in excess of 250, and the animal cast of characters includes elephants, hippos, llamas, tigers, lions, monkeys, leopards, polar bears, zebras, trained horses, shetlands, as well as many others.

Up until Victorian times "the language of flowers" was much studied as a means to convey sentiments by symbolic interpretations of gifts of different types of flowers — the interpretations being known to both giver and recipient.

C. J. DUGGAN VISITS LITTLEFIELD AFTER AN ABSENCE OF 12 YEARS

C. J. Duggan arrived in Littlefield Tuesday after an absence of 12 years, and is visiting his many friends here and attending to business.

Since leaving here Mr. Duggan has spent a year in Germany, two years in Alaska, and says he has been all over the United States. For the last two years he has been living in New Orleans.

Mr. Duggan sees a great change in Littlefield, and is complimentary of the great progress has made, including the building of such a fine residential area as the city now boasts.

City Considers Bids For Street Paving Project

Only three bids were received by City of Littlefield which had advertised for such bids, on a local paving project totaling approximately 46 blocks of local streets. The bids were opened last Friday night, but no decision was immediately reached, until the commission and attorneys had opportunity to study the bids.

Low bidder was a local firm, the T. J. Jones Construction company who bid $99,300; Daily and Hollywood of Amarillo were high point bidders at $102,370; in between the two was the bid of the Kerr-Middleton Company of Lubbock, with a bid of $101,774.

It will be noted that there was a difference of approximately $3,000 between the high and low bids. W. G. Street, city secretary, stated that the contract award would probably be made some time this week. The paving project, which includes some curb and gutter work, is in scattered sections of the city.

The commission met Tuesday night, but delayed award of the contract, after discussion.

Better Safety Program Planned

The Safety Committee of Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, meeting at the secretary's office Wednesday morning, seemingly agreed that better safety regulations could and should prevail on the streets of Littlefield, and after discussion of the matter, decided to appoint a committee, to get information as to what efforts other cities in this area along this line, and the results of those efforts.

Chas. Duvall, who heads the committee, appointed himself and Bill Kelly, on their attendance at a Lubbock safety meeting recently.

Before the meeting adjourned they heard a report from J. L. Walraven, chief of police, and Bill Kelly, on their attendance at a Lubbock safety meeting recently.

Attending the meeting were: Chas. Duvall, Ernest Connell, J. L. Walrave, Bill Kelly, Ralph Douglas, and B. D. Garland Jr.

Mrs. T. E. Hamilton Injured When Struck By A Car Tuesday

Mrs. T. E. Hamilton received painful injuries Tuesday night about 10 p.m., when she was struck when she stepped in front of a car, said to be driven by Miss Jonita Gallini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Gallini, near the high school building on First street.

Mrs. Hamilton was taken to Littlefield Hospital in a Hammons Ambulance, for emergency treatment. Doctors made x-ray pictures Wednesday morning, and report that she has a crushed shoulder, and numerous bruises and cuts. She was resting well yesterday and is not in a serious condition, it was reported.

She was leaving the school building, after having attended the senior high school play.

Consolidation

ary steps to be taken before such a consolidation could become effective.

First step necessary under the law would be the circulation and signing of petitions, separate petitions in both school districts asking that such an election be called.

Before the consolidation could be effective, it would be necessary that the proposition be approved by the voters of both school districts.

Petitions Expected Soon While nothing beyond discussion was done in the matter Monday night, it was the opinion of those in attendance that the petitions would be prepared and placed in circulation in the near future.

Spade school district now has approximately 225 students in their school with about 40 students in the high school. Littlefield school officials have expressed the belief that present Littlefield school facilities are adequate to take care of the increase and that a consolidation, such as suggested, would work for a better standard of education for all of the students of both districts. They are, however, definite in their opinion that this is strictly a matter for the citizens of Spade to decide, and that while they would be pleased to have Spade join Littlefield, no steps will be taken to influence any person or group of persons for or against the proposal.

Cost-of-Living Bonus Following the discussion of the consolidation, the Littlefield school board took up several other important matters, among them contracts for faculty members for the 1952-53 school year. Mancil Hall, school board president, announced that all of the present teaching staff, eligible under the new Gilmer-Alken law, had been re-elected.

The matter of a cost-of-living bonus for school teachers was also up for discussion, and the board officially went on record as approving such a bonus to the teachers in the local schools, and the amount and extent of the bonus to be provided on a one-year basis will be up for approval as soon as next year's budget can be approved.

The meeting also approved a resolution to appoint a purchasing agent for the schools, who will be a full-time paid employee. The position is open at present, and may be filled and qualified at the next meeting. Several are expected to apply for the place.

Arnold Resigns Carl Arnold, who has served the Littlefield Independent School District for the past 17 years, presented his resignation, and asked to be relieved of his duties as of June 1, and the board accepted the resignation. He has served as secretary and tax collector.

It was announced that several applications have already been received for the position, and the board appointed a committee to interview applicants and report to the next board meeting.

illary entertained the Legion members.

Five charter members of Richard New Post were in attendance, and included W. D. T. Storey, Tom Matthews, Arbie Joplin, Ernest Gaston and Ed. Draker.

Mrs. Sam Redwine, president of the Auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. Tom Matthews and Mrs. Maude Street, were in charge of an interesting program presented, following a delicious dinner, consisting of baked ham, baked beans, salads, pies and cakes.

Bob Kirk, 19th district commander of the American Legion, made a brief talk on "The Legion and What It Stands For," and Mrs. Art Chesher spoke briefly on the "Lying Memorial," which the garden department of the Woman's Club is sponsoring.

Miss Lila Mauk rendered two piano selections, as did Sam Redwine, noted pianist. He also led the entire group in a song after following the dinner.

A highlight of the evening, was the lighting of the 23 candles on the birthday cake, which was later served with coffee to the group.

Games of "42" and dominoes followed the program.

The Richard New Post also boasts of two members, Art Holberg and Mr. Bogart, who were present at Paris, France, when the American Legion was organized. They were unable to attend the Monday night celebration.

Total team points were Levelland 44½; Littlefield 34½; Whiteface 29½ and Morton 21½.

Dickerson from Whiteface was high point man with a total of 19 points. Sneed of Levelland was second with a total of 10 points.

The District 7-AA track meet will be held in Lubbock March 29. Muleshoe is heavy favorite to take the district title but with the other four teams together cutting their points, they may have a rough time of it.

DIMMITT BOBBIES WIN STATE TITLE; DEFEATS NEW DEAL

Dimmitt's Bobbies took the state McCamey League girls championship for the third straight year at Waco Saturday night by defeating another South Plains team, New Deal, 32-21.

Lometa Odom, who was named on the All-State team for the third year in a row, paced Coach J. W. Blaine's team, scoring all but two of the points. Last night, she poured in 78 tallies to lead Dimmitt to a semi-finals win 92-51.

Dimmitt had a little trouble getting shots in the first quarter, with New Deal's coach, Toby Waggoner, putting all three guards on Odom when she had the ball, and only led 14-10. Thelma Perkins hit a field goal to start the second period to make it 14-12, the near-

Morton Loses In State Finals To Hamilton's Bulldogs

Hamilton's tough Bulldogs outlasted Morton, 27-19, Saturday night to capture the Class A-AA state crown in the second annual Interscholastic League Girls Basketball Tournament.

Claude's fighting Mustangettes stopped high-scoring Duncanville 47-42 to win their second straight Class-B State Crown earlier in the evening.

Morton and Hamilton fought on even terms during the first half with Morton leading at the intermission 11-10. Morton's high-scoring Forward Betty Doyle scored nine of their first half total.

As the second half began Morton scored seven quick tallies while Hamilton could muster but two. Then the tide turned—Hamilton's 6-foot Freshman Hazel Manning began pouring in points with reckless abandon while the Hamilton guards were holding Morton to one free throw the remainder of the game. Manning scored 15 points for once when they abandoned the blanket coverage of Odom, Dimmitt kept the ball for four straight minutes.

Every other time they stopped smothering Odom, she scored.

Fans, who packed Baylor's gym, considered it a dull game after last night's scoring melee.

Seagoville defeated Penelope in the third-place battle in a 43-42 thriller.

Meadow, also from the South Plains, lost the consolation title to potent East Chambers 34-22. The Broncos scored first, but were behind 6-2 at the quarter. They hit again to open the second, but dropped to a 19-4 deficit at halftime, after a wild point spree by E. Chambers.

Lee Nell Walker paced Meadow in a hot third quarter and the Broncos were behind only 27-16, but they could never catch up.

Tournament officials, sports writers and the League Advisory Board selected Odom and Wanda Arant to the All-State Team for the third year. Others on the squad were forwards Margaret Benard, who hit 23 points to lead East Chambers to the victory over Meadow; Barney All, Aledo; Barbara Ray, Bullard; Peggy Carr, Seagoville; guards Patsy Anderson, Meridian; Vera Patterson, Seagoville; Mary Ann Looney, New Deal; Virginia Nicholson, New Deal; Betty Martin, Meadow; and Mizzi Wilson, Dimmitt, who held the usually high-scoring Arant to but three field goals in the final game.

Nothin' Much Doin' With Chicago Bruins

By GAYLE TALBOT

MESA, Ariz.—There is nothing much that Manager Phil Cavarretta can do about his last place Chicago Cubs except give them plenty of fresh air and exercise and hope for themselves to pull away by eight points at one time.

Hamilton won its 20th straight in stopping 1951 Class A Champion Comanche, 33-25, in the semifinals. Halftime the Hamilton cagetao Morton, representing District 7-AA, upset last year's runnerup McLean, 38-32, to join Hamilton in the final round.

DUTCH LEONARD
A Veteran Veteran

the best. The club which finished 14 games out of the National League first division last year shows no sign of real improvement.

Cavarretta, the team's veteran first baseman, took over from Frankie Frisch in July, and though he gave it all the hustle for which he is noted, it was not possible to say that he effected any miracles of leadership. The Cubs won only 28 of their last 77 games.

Probably the best tip-off as to the desperate plight of a once-famous and feared outfit lies in the fact that its manager, going on 36 and pained with bursitis, figures he might have to play some 70 games at first.

This does not reflect great confidence in Dee Fondy, the semi-rookie who is coming back for another shot at the initial sack after having hit a terrific .376 in 70 games last season with Los Angeles.

Nor does it promise great things from the pitching staff that such an old codger as Emil (Dutch) Leonard, who was born 42 years ago this spring, figures to win about as many victories as any of his younger teammates. The veteran knuckleballer won 10 last year, and only one member of the staff did better. Bob Rush captured 11.

Cavarretta has his headaches at just about every position except, possibly, at third and short. Ramson Jackson showed great promise at third in his first full season, hitting a solid .275 and poling 16 homers. Perhaps he would become a standout with a better club where there was real incentive to hustle.

They've been expecting Roy Smalley to become the league's best shortstop for several years, and he might do it yet. An injured ankle handicapped him badly last season, permitting him to play in only 70 games. Eddie Miksis, the team's second baseman, lacks power at the plate.

Unless one of their rookies comes through, the Cubs will again be handicapped behind the plate. Bruce Edwards can't throw, and his hitting fell off to a .237 mark last year.

Of the team's assorted outfielders, only Hank Sauer hits a long ball. He whacked 30 homers and

Lundy says he used to try to figure out what was wrong with people who look through books and magazines backwards. "And then," he explains, "I found myself doing it and so I decided that the trouble could be with the publications and not the readers."

Lundy wonders if some enterprising publisher might not do well to produce a book or magazine whose beginning is where the end usually is.

Ol' Case Is Confident Yanks Will Win Again

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—So you think the Cleveland Indians are going to win the American League pennant because Al Lopez has the best pitching staff in baseball? Don't let Yankee manager Casey Stengel hear that because he'll put up a terrific argument.

"I know what they got," says old Case as he shifts his tired legs on the bench at Miller Huggins Field. "I also know what I've got. I'll put Ed Lopat, Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds up against any three in the American League."

"Lopat's in for another good year I think. He's been down in Florida since January. Reynolds finished strong and elbow chips or not that's always a good sign. Raschi had a knee operation during the winter and looks great."

Stengel, who is confident the Yankees will make it four straight pennants and as many World Series, also has Tom Morgan and Bob Kuzava as starters. Morgan, as a freshman, compiled a 9-3 record.

Casey is reserving his opinion on the rest of the staff, which includes such former stars as Johnny Sain and Frank Shea, not to mention youngsters like Jim McDonald, obtained from the Browns. Harry Shaeffer, 19-game winner at Beaumont, Art Shallock, winner of 11 at Hollywood, Calif., and Tom Gorman, who won 12 at Beaumont. His relief ace probably will be Bob Hogue, who lost only one game last year, and that with the lowly Browns.

Here's the "Big Three" of the Yankee pitching staff. Left to right—Vic Raschi, Allie Reynolds and Ed Lopat. Raschi and Lopat each won 21 games last season.

Reynolds copped 17 and pitched two no-hitters. The New York pitching staff led the league in shutouts and strikeouts.

Archie Wilson, Cerv led the American Association in hitting and Wilson was the International League ace. So you see, I'm not so bad off. Even without DiMaggio, Jerry Coleman and Bobby Brown, we're liable to win again. My big job is to see if any of the boys not on the roster are goodenough."

Stengel has 10 boys here who belong on the Kansas City roster. One of them is Carey, the best looking prospect who signed for a $60,000 bonus.

And then, if there's an automatic electric clothes dryer in your laundry, clothes are dried just the way you want them—with more fluff than any other method known. Electric living is modern living. Wealth In Democracy

While communism and socialism in recent decades have leveled off incomes in a downward course, the impact of social revolution in America during four decades, notably since the thirties, has been "to level up incomes." The miracle in democracy has been achieved by the increase in productivity which is inherent in the free enterprise system.

An illuminating survey of the general rise in incomes in America has been made by a New York Times staff member, Will Lissner. He reports that the marginal worker, termed the "forgotten man," has been the greatest beneficiary from recent gains in national output. In 1949 only one of three families had incomes of less than $2,000 a year, while 10 years prior the proportion was three out of four. In the late forties, one out of six was in the $5,000 and above class as compared with one out of 50 in the thirties. One family in 20 was in the $10,000 and above income class in 1949 as compared with one out of 100 ten years previous. These statistics are highly significant to the cause of democracy, since they show the free enterprise system is producing more wealth and that is producing more wealth and that this increment is being spread widely among more people. In the notable rise of so many incomes, the element of opportunity in democracy strikingly is being demonstrated. Even allowing for inflation, the rise of incomes and their spread are notable results of what Mr. Lissner terms the "social revolution" of recent decades.

This wide spread of material well-being is reflected on every side by the millions of homes and automobiles and the well-fed and well-clothed people of this country. The statistics add up to the highest standard of living in the world today and in history. Mr. Lissner's analysis should be adequately publicized beyond the Iron Curtain to prove to the serfs of Red dictatorship there how wealth in democracy serves the greatest number who produce that wealth.

Dusters Still Blow

Presidential Candidate Bob Taft, viewing the dust storm in Lubbock, commented: "I thought Roosevelt stopped all this with those trees."

"Those trees" were the famed shelter belts of the mid-thirties which were supposed to break the wind and slow down the dust.

In the meantime, farm programs have had contradictory purposes. Millions have been spent, on the one hand, to encourage farmers to conserve soil. On the other hand, billions have been spent to support high prices which encouraged farmers to plow up the conserved soil.

A farmer gets so much to retire his wheat land to grass. The next year he gets more to plow up the grass and put it back in wheat. The dust storms still blow.

Tommy Holmes Shoots the Works To Make Braves Pennant Winner

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

BRADENTON, Fla.—This is the time of year when every ball club is a pennant winner, every starting pitcher a 20-game winner, every batter a .300 hitter and every manager an optimist. Manager Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves is no exception.

"I'm shooting for the works," says the youngest pilot in the majors who is starting his first full year at the helm. "No use fooling around. We've got the greatest collection of young prospects I ever saw and I've been with the Braves since 1941. And the Giants might back up to the rest of the field due to the loss of Stanky and Mays. The Dodgers certainly are weaker with Newcombe in the Army."

Only his outfielders, Sid Gordon, Sam Jethroe and Willard Marshall are sure of their jobs and Gordon could wind up as Holmes' third baseman. Bob Elliott, once Mr. Team, has slowed down and his place is up for grabs.

No. 1 rookie for the job is Ed Mathews, who, they say, has as much power as Babe Ruth and Ted Williams. "He drove in 106 runs and hit 32 homers for Atlanta in 1950 and I've got to go along with a boy like that. He can fly. He's only 20," says Holmes.

Mathews was signed by the Braves in 1949 the night he was graduated from high school while close to a dozen scouts sat in a hotel lobby. Ed spent much of 1951 in the Navy but managed to hit .289 in 37 games for Atlanta and .333 in 12 games for Milwaukee. In back of him, the Braves have Bill Klaus, rated another Billy Cox in the field at 23. He hit .285 at Milwaukee. Both Mathews and Klaus are left-handed batters.

"Shortstop and second base are my trouble spots," says Holmes. "Before we leave here I will have tried four combinations on the double play. Johnny Cusick, obtained from the Cubs, is a great glove man and has been working at short with Bill Reed, a lefty swinger who hit .311 at Milwaukee. Back of them are Johnny Logan and Sibby Sisti. Behind them are Leo Righetti on short with Harry Hanebrink on second. Hanebrink is a left-handed batter and I liked him at Hartford where he hit .309. Righetti is good field, no hit. John Dittmer is also getting a thorough trial on second and he might be the best hitter of the lot. He hit .334 at Atlanta and drove in 105 runs.

is a long-ball hitter who is trying to win the third base job on the Boston team.

"Earl Torgeson is being given a fight for first base by George Crowe, the tall Negro lad who hit .339 at Milwaukee, batted in 119 runs and hit 24 homers. If we bring Crowe up and Torgy returns to his old form, don't be surprised if Crowe plays the outfield."

Holmes is going to try every possible combination in the hopes of regaining patronage for the Braves and a long-term contract for himself.

"Boy," Tommy enthuses, "I could play a team of eight left-handed hitters with Crowe in the outfield and Ebba St. Claire catching. He's good enough to be No. 1 but Walker Cooper will be back. Forget those trade rumors. Coop played great ball for us last year. But with St. Claire catching and all those left handers, think what fits we could give those right-handed pitchers.

"My pitching, incidentally, is the least of my worries. I'll take Warren Spahn, Vern Bickford and Chet Nichols over any three in the league, and that goes for the Chipman, Virgil Jester and Maynard Thiel.

"Gene Conley might make it. Most valuable player in the minors in '51, big Gene had a 20-9 record at Hartford with 9 shutouts and a 2.16 earned run mark. If I can't find a starting spot for him we'll send him to Milwaukee where he'll be a regular starter. Then when I need a starting pitcher I'll know where I can find one. Conley's that good despite only one year in organized ball.

SCHOOL FUN:

COMICS ARE READ
TO SPUR LEARNING

These kids read comic books in school. The school-sanctioned program conducted at Cathedral grammar school. Teachers read colored comic books with teacher's permission. It says it is to improve their reading.

called on to read aloud. The class is under the direction of Sister Mary Victorice, who includes the comic book in regular classwork.

The dialogue in the books is written in good grammar. The art work inspires them to try their hand at it. Two weeks after the first book had been studied, the teacher asked the children to draw their favorite scene from the story.

"It was amazing," Sister Mary Victorice said, "to find that they remembered the smallest details of castles, moats, drawbridges and ships."

Tailored to Order
"Uncle Charlie's Fables" are tailored to order by Charles Biro, artist and author. He produces the classroom version for Leverett Gleason, president of Lev Gleason Publications, New York City. Gleason estimates 80 million comic magazines are purchased each month.

BACON AND ALVIS JONES' OPEN NEW JEWELRY STORE

A jewelry and gift shop has been established by Bacon Jones and his brother, Alvis Jones, at 314 Phelps Avenue, where a full line of jewelry, crystal, china, pottery, etc., is being carried. Watch repair will also be featured.

Mr. Bacon Jones, who has been operating a jewelry department in the Walters Drug, will continue at this location, with his brother, Alvis in charge of the new location.

Bacon Jones has been operating a jewelry department here for the past three years, and was joined by his brother over a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bacon Jones have three children, Dana Lynn, 2; Susan, 4; and James Aven (Spike) 7.

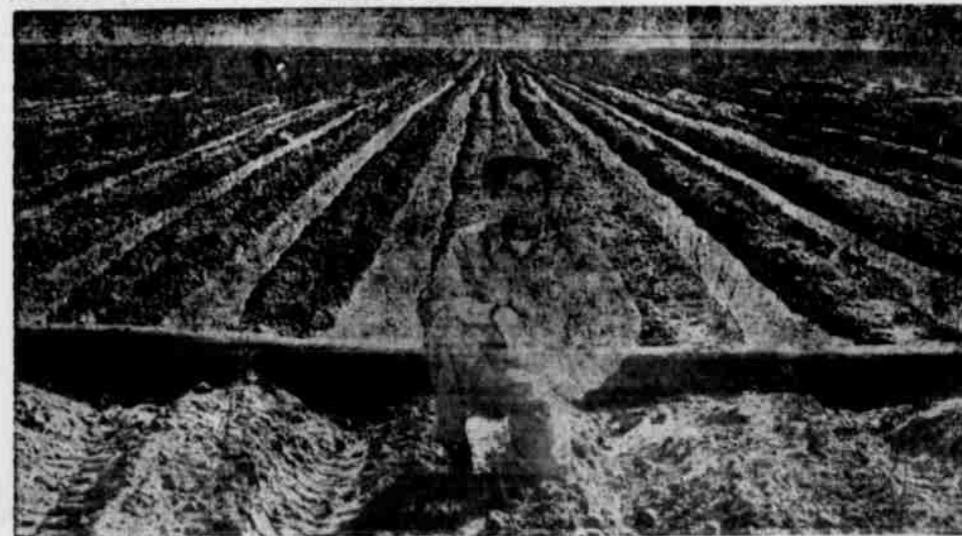

"Authorities in the comics field contend comic magazines are the most influential medium of communication today," Gleason says.

Phillies Use Pennant Pattern

FRANK ECK
Features Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla.—This may be the best spring when Manager Sawyer puts in his Shik-shik drawer an envelope that will say "The Phillies pennant by 10 games." Anything is believable in training camps. The boys have been training since 1947. This is a nice city, a place like Miami but with bleaches and fish-bait. But the Phillies—meaning the players—feel they are not a knock against one of the best organizations in the league—far from it. But Sawyer put in his desk to himself and it said looked at it that October the Phillies would wait in the dugout. And they should have. By beating out the Dodgers on the final day, thanks to a play by Dick Sisler and some help by Robin Roberts. Wives Allowed. For the Phillies were not bringing their wives in camp. The boys didn't bring their wives in camp.

The probable starting outfield for the Phillies wheels out a barrow-full of bats.

row-full of bats. Left to right—and that's how they will line up in the outergarden—Del Ennis, Richie Ashburn and Tommy Brown. Manager Sawyer has high hopes that this trio will lead the Phillies back to the top.

But they were in Clearwater, living with their husbands at cottages.

This spring even that is out and Sawyer spells it in CAPS. Some of the players had their wives in town this spring but when practice officially began on March 1 the ladies were sent home.

Shortstop Granny Hamner had Mrs. Hamner down from Philadelphia. He was ready to work out the day he signed.

"Oh no," said Sawyer. "You can't put on our uniform until Mrs. Hamner goes home."

Mrs. Granville Hamner left. There are two schools of thought on the wives and no wives angle. Sawyer says "wives are not on the ball club." He might be wrong here because ball players like to discuss their problems with someone they can trust; and naturally they first turn to their loved ones.

Sawyer thinks he can get his players to concentrate better. He might be right at that. He also feels the players will be closer to their teammates. He may be right there, too. But after all, players will be rooming with teammates all season on the road.

New Contract for Sawyer
Maybe President Bob Carpenter knew what he was doing when he recently signed Sawyer to a three-year contract.

However, if Sawyer thinks he can beat out the Giants and Dodgers, or even separate these two power-packed clubs, the writer is willing to turn in his baseball writers' card for two tickets to the circus.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

The mouth is the gateway to the stomach and the organs of digestion and the outlet of the voice box, part of the channel of respiration. As an inlet, the mouth caters to the physical well-being and as an outlet you might consider the mouth an expression of the mental well-being, a reflection of thoughts and personality.

The primary function of the mouth is its capacity to start food on its alimentary canal route. Though it may substitute for the nose as the intake of air for breathing purposes, neither the nose nor the mouth likes that substitution unless it is absolutely necessary, such times as when the nose is stopped up or damaged or the physical exertion of the body is so great that the oxygen needs cannot be met by the nose.

You're supposed to breathe with your nose and eat with your mouth.

The mouth starts with the lips, a thin skin that forms a lining all the way from the opening of the mouth to the stomach. The mouth ends with that gadget that hangs down like and bell and wobbles up and down when you say "Ah!" in between the lips and that gadget

(the uvula) are the gums, teeth, cheeks, tongue, hard palate (roof of the mouth), soft palate (the downward dip towards the back of the mouth that pulls the uvula up and down), and all the openings of the salivary glands the sprinkling system for the mouth.

Every part of the body has its own waterworks. In the nose the mucus serves as the waterworks, keeping things circulating in a stream. In the mouth, the salivary glands serve to moisten the mouth and lead the essential ingredients into the stream that flows into the stomach.

Everything in the mouth is concerned not only with food going down but also with sounds coming up. The wiggling up and down of the uvula is part of the "A" sound, just like the lips have to help with the "p" sounds, the teeth are needed for "th" sounds, the roof of the mouth for "t" sounds, and so on.

The tongue flaps about in conversation and also rolls food up into a ball before helping shove the food down the hatch.

The "hatch" is the throat. The part that adjoins the mouth is called the oropharynx, and such things as tonsils, the root of the tongue, and that big hole back of them belong in the oropharynx category. The throat portion above the level of the mouth is the nasopharynx (belonging to the nose) and the part below the level of the mouth is the laryngeal pharynx (belonging to the larynx).

Food travels from the mouth to the pharynx to the gullet (esophagus) into the stomach. There it gets doused with hydrochloric acid, a powerful chemical which causes the solids to disintegrate. From the stomach the food goes into the small intestine where more chemicals are added and the whole thing looks like mush.

This mush is dumped into the large intestine where the fluids are squeezed out and sent to all parts of the body. The solid matter completes the circuit of the large intestine, goes into the bowels, and is periodically expelled from the body.

Perhaps the main difference in the respiratory and digestive systems lies in the fact that the respiratory system doubles back on itself while the digestive system is a one-way tract. The air you breathe goes into your lungs, makes the circuit of the body with blood for replenishment of all parts, picks up waste products and returns to the lungs to have those waste products expelled from the body when you exhale.

The food you eat goes into the stomach and intestines, picking up chemicals and leaving such nourishment as is necessary along the route, and the waste product is eliminated from the body by the bowels. The kidneys serve both systems for the removal of liquid waste products.

There are dividing partitions between the respiratory and digestive systems all the way down the line. The air channel from the nose and the food channel from the mouth meet there in the oropharynx for a brief space before the air channel takes the forward track through the epiglottis into the larynx, trachea (windpipe), bronchi and lungs, while the food channel takes the backward track towards the spine through the esophagus (gullet) to the stomach.

Below the lungs and above the stomach is a dome-shaped muscle which forms a sliding partition. This muscle, called the diaphragm, works up and down like a butter churn, shoving up against the lungs and pushing out the air, then pushing down against the stomach, possibly to give the stomach contents the impetus to get going on into the intestines. The diaphragm just keeps battling back and forth in pretty good rhythm most of the time; when it gets hung for some reason or other, you usually end up with the hiccups.
